BRITISH AWAIT DEVELOPMENTS OF PROPOSALS

Terms Have Been Presented To Governments of Both Factions.

TROOPS LAND.

Expect Details of Suggestions Be Made Public To-night.

LONDON, Jan. 29. (Canadian Press).—While preparations for the despatch of troops to China continued, the British Foreign Office yesterday was waiting for developments growing out of the proposals which it has drawn up for a solution of the Chinese crisis.

There was no outstanding developments at the Foreign Office yesterday except the receipt of news that British Minister Lampson had presented to the Peking Government proposals similar to those which the British Charge d'Affaires, Owen O'Malley, had been instructed to deliver to the Cantonese Foreign Minister at Hankow.

It was assumed in Whitehall that Mr. Lampson also has acquainted the Peking representatives of the Washington treaty powers with the nature of the British proposals. These proposals are believed to provide for "generous" concessions by the British Government.

The home government apparently has little hope for any speedy result of the negotiations now going on and appears to be expecting a diplomatic delay. Good augury, however, is drawn from the fact that two detachments of Punjabi troops have been landed and paraded in Shanghai, without provoking untoward incidents.

It is hoped that Foreign Minister Sir Austin Chamberlain, who will speak at Birmingham to-night, will give full details of the British suggestions for solving the present crisis. It is felt that such an exposition of the British viewpoint would have a good effect in counteracting erroneous reports current in China and elsewhere.

Sir Austen had a private conference for an hour yesterday on Chinese affairs with Foreign Minister Vandervelde, of Belgium, who is on a visit to London, but no details of their conversation were made public.

Pageant-loving Londoners will have war reminiscences to-day when the Coldstream Guards, of which the King is an honorary Colonel, will march with their bands playing and colors flying from Wellington Barracks through Parliament Square and over Westminster Bridge to Waterloo Station, where they will entrain for Southampton to board transports for China.

Illinois Gangsters Use Counterfeit $20 Bills To Buy Canadian Liquor—Sell It For Real Money

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 29 (A.P.).—How counterfeit $20 notes were paid by alleged members of the Shelton gang of Southern Illinois for high-priced Canadian liquor bought in Detroit and brought to the St. Louis district by automobile, where it was sold for real money, was revealed here yesterday by Secret Service agents.

The disclosures were made after the arrest in Detroit of Charles Harris, a Shelton follower, and in St. Louis of Frank McCartney. They are alleged to have passed more than $15,000 worth of the spurious notes.

Almost simultaneously, William Brocker, negro proprietor of the Western Printing Company, was arrested here and admitted counterfeiting $290,000 worth of $20 notes. He implicated as one of the leaders in a huge counterfeiting ring operating in this vicinity George M. McKay, proprietor of the Alexander Studio. McKay was arrested, but refused to make a statement.

The largest deal in which Harris and McCartney are alleged to have figured involved $5,000. In a later deal $1,360 worth of liquor was purchased, the seller receiving $80 in real money and the remainder in counterfiets. The buyer assumed, apparently, that the seller was engaged in violating one law and could not consistently complain when defrauded.

WOULD ESTABLISH CAR PATROL ALONG WESTERN BORDER LINE

LARGE TERRITORY.

Reports Heavy Traffic of Illicit Smuggling Along B. C. Border.

CALGARY, Alta., Jan. 29 (Canadian Press).—The establishment of a border patrol of fast automobiles along the international boundary line between Alberta, Saskatchewan, British Columbia and the United States was recommended to the customs royal commission at its initial sitting here yesterday. The recommendation came from Inspector Herbert Legg, of the Department of Customs and Excise who defined his district as covering all of Alberta, part of Southern British Columbia and the Northwest Territories extending up to Herschell Island. Inspector Legg remarked that he and his assistants managed to cover all the ports in this extensive territory with the exception of Herschell Island.

Needs Assistance

"I need more assistance," he told the commissioners. "We can't attend to the work quickly enough. It has to sag all the time. A stenographer would help, but I would prefer another assistant inspector."

The evidence of Inspector Legg featured a day which was devoted largely to the examination by Hon. N. W. Rowell, K.C., Commission counsel, of Customs officials. When the Commission assembled in the morning, R. Andrews Smith, of Edmonton, submitted on behalf of the Attorney-General of Alberta, a formal statement of protest against the export bond of Consolidated Exporters of British Columbia, located at Fernie, B.C., and asked for the withdrawal of the license for this bond. The statement also asked that the Dominion authorities assume the responsibility for stamping out the illicit manufacture of liquor in Alberta.

Chief Commissioner J. T. Brown thanked Mr. Smith for his submission, which would receive the consideration of the commission.

The border patrol, suggested Mr. Legg, should originate at three points. One automobile, he said, should be stationed at Cranbrook, B.C., another at Cardston, Alta., and the third at a point just east of Coutts, Alta. This would cover the district under his direction. He stated that the border which came under his inspection comprised about 200 miles in Alberta and 150 miles in British Columbia.

Heavy Traffic

While all the customs officials examined yesterday agreed that there was practically no commercial smuggling into Alberta, Inspector Legg gave some interesting information regarding the movement of liquor south from the warehouses at Fernie, B.C. This liquor, he said, moved from Fernie to Roosevelt, on the border, by car or motor truck. He thought it all moved on export entry and that the duty was paid on the whole movement.

"Does the officer stationed at Roosevelt give information of these shipments going across the link to the United States customs?" asked Mr. Rowell.

"The officer at Roosevelt is not authorized under the treaty to give such information," was the reply. Mr. Legg explained that, under the treaty, only certain specified persons were authorized to transmit his information, and he said, the officer at Roosevelt was not one of them.

Inspector Legg was examined by Mr. Rowell in regard to the shipment of beer from Alberta for export. He stated that this had grown to be quite a large business until it was stopped by an order of the department of Ottawa on the seventh day of the present month. He and other Alberta Customs officers had repeatedly advised the department that export of beer to the United States was going on. The movement had increased, until a car a week was going across the line from Al-

Butter Is Exported Then Brought Back

MONTREAL, Jan. 29 (Canadian butter, in large quantities exported to other countries, was being imported back here to meet the Dominion's demands, declared Hon. J. A. The minister of finance also came to the defense of the trade agreement he negotiated with Australia for Canada two years ago.

HIGH CONSTABLE IS APPOINTED

S. R. Pearson Named By County Council—Roads Discussed.

BRIDGES TO BE BUILT.

At the morning session of the County Council yesterday the Council went into committee on appointments, with Deputy-Reeve McIntyre in the chair. Sheriff Hall has been acting as High County Constable by virtue of his office as the County had failed to appoint one, but it was decided to appoint one. Two applications were received, one from S. R. Pearson and the other from Frank Pratt. Mr. Pearson was appointed to the position at a salary of $200 a year.

Reeve Smithson gave his report of the County Roads Commission. In 1926 very few permanent roads were built as all the money was required for maintenance. Last spring the roads broke up badly and many cars and trucks damaged these roads by being on them too early in the spring. Mr. Smithson was re-appointed chairman of the commission and other members Reeves Lillico and Curtis, and Warden Middleton.

This year the council expects to have the re-planking of Chemong bridge finished. A grant of $150 was made by the standing committee on roads and bridges to each of the

SPECIAL SERVICE THANKSGIVING AT ALL SAINTS'

Semi-Jubilee of Parish Observed—Clergy of Deanery Present.

INSPIRING SERMON.

Ven. Archdeacon Renison, of Hamilton, Preacher For Occasion.

The special service of Thanksgiving commemorating the semi-jubilee of All Saints' Parish, which was held last evening, brought together a large and enthusiastic congregation and a good representation of the clergy of the Rural Deanery. The service was conducted by the visiting clergy, and the choir under the leadership of Mr. George Chandler, choirmaster, and Mrs. Logan, organist, assisted by Mrs. Percy Hooper, violiniste, rendered the music of the service splendidly.

The Venerable Archdeacon Renison, D.D., Rector of the Church of the Ascension, Hamilton, was the preacher and spoke from the text in Revelation 21: 21, "And the twelve gates were twelve pearls." He spoke of the all-embracing aspect of the city of God calling people from the East, North, South and West, and called attention to the missionary and social movements of the present time and their relation to the religion of Jesus Christ.

He also spoke of the things which draw people to Christ and the many avenues through which we are approaching a religious foundation for our way of life. Above all, there is the appeal of sacrifice typified by the pearl and the thought of tears and that is not far away from the lives of any one.

A very helpful and splendid service was concluded by singing the Te Deum as an act of thanksgiving.

All the special music sung at this service will be repeated on Sunday evening, with a full orchestral accompaniment.

SMALL BOY HIT BY STREET CAR

Slightly Hurt When He Steps On Track From Sleigh.

FIRST AID RENDERED.

A small boy who was riding on the runner of a sleigh which was going south on George street this morning, stepped off in front of a south-bound George street car. The boy received a slight injury around the head and first aid was rendered by Electrician J. Astels, of the fire department. Later he was taken to his home, appearing not to have suffered much from the accident.

PARKS TO COST $5,360 IN 1927

Committee Makes Estimates For Year—Will Have Houses Moved.

BAND DISCUSSED.

At a meeting of the Parks and Railways Committees held last night the estimates for the public parks were drawn up and will be submitted to the Finance committee. This year's requirements for the parks amounts to $5,360.00, and the amount for the bathing beaches, $875.70.

Tenders will be asked for removing the buildings on the James Stevenson Park, namely, two houses and a factory building occupied by the Nu Art Kera Tile Company. The material removed from the park is to become the property of the successful tenderers. These buildings are to be removed by June 1, 1927.

On the motion of Alderman Phelan and Fife the chairman of the committee was authorized to report on the feasibility of establishing a citizens' band.

LIQUOR SALES BRING QUEBEC LARGE PROFIT

Report Shows Province Cleared $4,400,000 During Past Year.

NOT THE HIGHEST.

QUEBEC, Jan. 29 (Canadian Press).—The report of the Quebec Liquor Commission, tabled in the Quebec Legislative Assembly, shows that the total sales amounted to $19,018,209; the profits $4,421,335 after payment of all charges. From this is taken an additional $200,000 for working capital, which brings the figures down to $4,171,335, but to this must be added a sum of $1,375,155 derived from permits, duties, fines and seizures, less enforcement expenses, hence the net profits are given as $5,546,490.

The working capital of the commission, which started at zero when the commission was created in 1921, is now sufficient for all purposes, since the statement shows that only $5,062 went in interest to the banks.

The figure of $19,018,209 for sales is not the highest in the history of the commission, having been exceeded in the two years of 1923-24 and 1922-23. Of last year's receipts, the Federal Government received $7,276,085 in customs, excise and sales tax, which is higher than the total paid by the commission for purchases of stock, operating charges and general expenses, the figures for those three items being $7,320,879.

FEW POTATOES OFFERED TO-DAY

EGGS 45 TO 55.

Prices were reasonable on the farmers' market this morning. Butter ranged from 43 to 45 cents a pound, cream from 25 to 30 cents a pint, eggs from 45 to 55 cents a dozen, and chickens were generally priced from 32 to 35 cents a pound, although one keen buyer got a four-pound chicken for a dollar. Hens were 25 cents a pound.

On the open market, potatoes were scarce, and were selling for $2 a bag. Pork was 18 and 20 cents a pound, and beef 10 and 13 cents. Little collie pups in a crated box were a dollar apiece, and another box contained a collection of Blue Andalusian and Black Minorca cockrels, at $1.50 each. Companioning them a turkey gobbler who had come to market in a bag and who extended head surveyed the world with amiable appreciation. He was fourteen pounds in weight and might be had for the sum of $5.

RESULTS ANNOUNCED OF EXAMINER CONTEST

Dollar Day Feature Was Just as Successful as Usual—The Winners.

The result of The Examiner contest held on Dollar Day was just as successful as that of other contests held on Dollar Day by The Examiner.

The estimating of the number of kernels on the cob of corn brought out a great many estimates, and resulted in many close estimates.

The exact number of kernels was 372, and the prizes have been won as follows:

W. J. Davis, 21 High Street, and H. Taylor, 305 Margaret Avenue, divide the first two prizes, with an estimate of the exact number 372, each winning $7.50.

The balance of the prize-money is divided between T. Frank, 481 Homewood Avenue, who estimated 371; J. Stinson, R.R. No. 2, Peterborough, who estimated 371; Mrs. W. H. Middleton, Belleville, who estimated 373; L. Heaslip, 541 Gilmour Street, 373, Mrs. Jane Whitfield, 5 Albertus Avenue, 373, each winning $2.50.

All the estimates will be kept until Tuesday evening, and if there is no protest the money will be distributed on Wednesday morning.

AROUND THE CITY.

At 10.01 p.m. yesterday the fire department received a call to a chimney fire at 5 Hunter Street East.

Paris Police Arrest Leader Of International Gang Which Swindled Wealthy Throughout World Capitals

PARIS, Jan. 29.—With the arrest of Joseph Johnson of St. Mary's, Kan., charged with swindling a prominent resident of Rochester, N.Y., out of $140,000 last May, the police believe they have rounded up the last and most active member of a famous gang of American confidence men whose operations in the capitals of the world since the Armistice have netted several millions of dollars.

Johnson, who posed as a former General in the United States Army and has been known at various times as George D. Hall, David Ziegler, George Masson and Joseph Clark, was chief of staff, and Edward Charles Stanley and his wife, both of whom were recently arrested in Paris, were leaders of the gang.

Johnson is 54 years old and, according to the police, has had amazing career as a modern buccaneer on the high seas, travelling back and forth on the big liners and robbing his compatriots in a manner best suited to the victim. The police of Buffalo, Detroit, Chicago, New Orleans, Pittsburgh, San Diego and Memphis have been earnestly seeking Johnson for several years. Like other members of the gang, Johnson dressed stylishly and was a lavish spender, occupying a suite in one of the best hotels.

KELLOGG THINKS PROSPECTS GOOD FOR CONFERENCE WITH CHINESE

Believes Negotiations on New Treaties Reasonably Possible.

GIVES NO REASON.

London Streets Take On War Time Appearance As Guards Leave.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29. Canadian Press. — Secretary Kellogg considers prospects for new treaty conferences with qualified Chinese representatives, "reasonably hopeful, although he has not yet received any direct indication that the two major political factions in China are approaching an agreement to appoint a joint delegation for that purpose.

It was not disclosed at the State Department on what confidential information the Secretary based his hope of an adjustment. The progress of the Chinese civil war may have much to do with determining the question. The Secretary declined to comment on a statement issued last night by Dr. Alfred Sze, Chinese Minister in Washington, for immediate steps to abrogate the existing unequal treaties.

FRANCE AWAITS SOLUTION.

PARIS, Jan. 29. Canadian Press. — France's policy is to await solution of the Chinese problem by the Chinese themselves. When they have worked out a stable government, officials say, it will be time to consider their relations with the foreign powers having interests and concessions there. Pending that moment, it is thought in French circles, any show of force would be likely to unite the Chinese against foreigners.

LIKE WAR TIME IN LONDON.

LONDON, Jan. 29. — Canadian Press. — The city of London took on a war time appearance to-day when the second battalion of the famous Coldstream Guards, the most ancient English regiment, of which King George is the Colonel in chief, marched through cheering crowds from Wellington barracks to Waterloo station, en route for China.

As in the days of the great war, wives, sweethearts, fathers and mothers, marched with the soldiers to the tunes of "Tipperary," "Shanghai" and "The Girl I Left behind Me."

There were one or two incidents when Reds distributed 'Stop the War' pamphlets but the Tommies' relatives themselves silenced the demonstrators. Other military units are being steadily embarked for China in various sections of the country. The War Office for the first time since the world war has issued a pamphlet telling the public how to address letters and parcels to the Shanghai defence force.

Lloyd George Fears Defeat

BIRMINGHAM, Jan. 29 (Canadian Press).—Former Premier Lloyd George, addressing the Midland Federation today, declared that the only solution of the Chinese problem was a wide and prompt concession of legitimate Chinese demands.

"I have no apprehension of military defeat in China," Mr. Lloyd George said, "but there is a real danger that we may secure a diplomatic defeat which will shake our position in the whole East."

SHANGHAI, Jan. 29 (Canadian Press).—The hostility of the Chinese towards foreigners has not inspired the white residents of Shanghai with the fear for their safety that is evidenced in cablegrams received from

NEW YORK, Jan. 29 (AP)—The percentage of Americans working for a living gradually has been declining until, in 1925, the last full year reported, it was 37 in every hundred.

In making public these figures yesterday the national industrial conference board said that relatively larger school and college enrollments and changes in immigration are chief factors in producing the trend.

The report gave the percentages of gainfully employed as: 41.5 in 1910; 39.4 in 1920 and 37.2 in 1923.

WORK STARTED ON BIG PAGEANT

Committees Named To Oversee Various Phases of "Gym" Display.

TO BE HELD IN MAY.

The first meeting in connection with the annual big gymnasium pageant was held at the Young Women's Christian Association on Thursday afternoon. The pageant will be held again this year in the Grand Opera House early in May, and from enthusiastic reports at the meeting the pageant promises to exceed even its previous high standard. When one sees 500 girls taking part in a display of physical skill, grace, and alertness of mind, and realizes that this is just one branch of the all-round program of the Association, one can see the value of the Y.W.C.A. to the girls of Peterboro.

The executive of the Y.W.C.A., the physical committee, and members of other committees all met together to plan for this big exhibition which requires the services of a great number to make it such a success.

The following important pageant committees were named and the duties of each outlined. Perhaps the busiest committee will be the sewing committee. Over 500 costumes of various designs will be cut, fitted and made by this committee and a group of helpers. Mrs. H. Beal (convenor), Miss A. Wood, Mrs. N. D. Buchanan, Mrs. D. F. Drummond, Mrs. W. Oke, Miss C. Large, Mrs. W. R. Breyfogle, Mrs. C. Westbrook, and Mrs. Gillespie.

The advertising committee will assist with posters, dodgers, newspaper advertising, etc. Mrs. E. E. Harvey is convenor, and other members of the committee are Mrs. R. Turner, Mrs. L. J. LeClair, Miss M. Hamilton, Mrs. G. Wood, Mrs. H. R. H. Kenner.

Those on the ticket committee in charge of the circulation of tickets and prizes for ticket selling contest are: Mrs. R. M. Waddell (convenor), Mrs. G. Macdonald, Mrs. Porter, Mrs. H. Wightman, Miss M. Elliot, Mrs. J. H. Seels, Mrs. J. J. Craig, Mrs. J. A. McNab.

The car committee, which is a very helpful committee, consists of Mrs. W. J. Oke (convenor), Miss M. V. Jory, Mrs. V. Eastwood, Miss L. Green.

The sewing committee will meet in the near future, and soon yards and yards of material will be quickly transformed into gay and pretty costumes. The other committees will also meet to further plan their special part in making this big pageant of gymnasium work the success it deserves to be.

Miss Littlefield, the popular and well qualified physical directress of the Y.W.C.A., who is in charge of the pageant, has already started work in training the large classes in special numbers for the exhibition and the interest of the pupils from the little tots to the advanced classes promises a very clever and pleasing performance.

NINETEEN KILLED IN SCOTLAND DURING STORM

Was Especially Severe in Northern Scotland and Ireland.

PROPERTY DAMAGED.

Troop Ships On Way To China Hindered By Rough Seas.

GLASGOW, Scotland, Jan. 29. — (Canadian Press)—Nineteen persons were killed and hundreds injured in Scotland yesterday in a southerly hurricane which swept Great Britain from Land's End, the southernmost of England, to John O'Groat's on the northernmost tip of Scotland.

The storm was especially severe in Scotland, and the districts north of Edinburgh as well as all Ireland and the Scilly Isles were completely cut off from telegraphic and telephonic communication with London.

Several old houses collapsed in Glasgow, and pedestrians and vehicles were tossed about by the violent winds. Street cars were overturned and a section of the roof of the Central Railroad Station was lifted. Firemen were busy all day extricating victims from the debris, and ambulances were busy handling street casualties caused by the showers and wreckage. Police were forced to barricade the most dangerous points.

An express train running from Berwick to Newcastle was stopped for forty minutes near Dunbar by violent winds and gravel was driven through the windows of the coaches, pelting the passengers. The passengers later said that the cars rocked like ships and that they had seen haystacks from neighboring farms whirling through the air.

Outgoing troop ships on their way to China encountered rough seas. A Lloyd's despatch from Port Talbot, Wales, said the destroyer Sylph was blown ashore at Aberavon, but that the crew was saved.

The Dominion Shipping Co. steamer Lord Strathcona became unmanageable, and was placed under tow for Queenstown.

At Renfrew the wind attained a velocity of 102 miles an hour, according to measurements of the weather observatory there.

Clyde shipping was suspended and much anxiety is felt concerning the safety of fishing boats.

Considerable damage was reported at Belfast, where twelve persons were injured by flying debris. The collier Enniskillen is believed lost in the Irish Sea.

All parts of England last night reported damage. Roofs were blown off houses and trees uprooted in the rural districts, where isolated casualties occurred. The damage in London was slight.

SICK YOUTH CARRIED FROM BURNING HOME

Fire Destroys House of Mrs. W. Stamp, Near Bobcaygeon.

LINDSAY, Jan. 29.—The home of Mrs. William Stamp, on the Bobcaygeon Road, leading to Minden, was totally destroyed by fire a few days ago. The fire broke out in the upstairs apartment, and was evidently caused by an overheated stovepipe. It had gained considerable headway before being noticed so that it was impossible to save the house. The household effects on the lower floor were nearly all saved by the neighbors, but the balance of the contents was destroyed. Mrs. Stamp's son, Leonard, who has been in poor health for some time, was in bed downstairs at the time, but he was carried in safety to a neighbor's house. The loss is only partly covered by insurance.

MOTOR ARTILLERY BRIGADE LEAVING

Six Howitzers and Six 18-Pounders in Unit For China.

LONDON, Jan. 29 (United Press) —The first motor-driven field artillery brigade carrying six howitzers and six 18-pounders, has been ordered to leave for China in the near future, according to the London Daily News to-day.

SAYS FAMOUS RUSSIAN BEAUTY INFLUENCED ENGLISH STATESMAN TO FROWN UPON TURKEY'S CAUSE

Testifies Captain Wright in Libel Suit Against Viscount Gladstone.

CONVERTED CABINET.

Purpose Was To Prevent Great Britain From Aiding Turkey.

LONDON, January 29, United Press. — A story of war, a pretty woman and an elderly statesman, who was alleged to have altered the course of British history for the sake of the woman's smile and favor was related yesterday in the King's Bench Division here. The court is to decide whether or n t Viscount Gladstone was justified in calling Captain Peter Wright a liar because Wright said Gladstone's father was a pursuer of women.

The statesman is W. E. Gladstone, former Liberal premier, now dead almost 30 years, upon whose alleged marital infidelities Wright commented in his book, "Portraits and Criticisms."

Sent from Moscow.

Among the women named by Wright as having been Gladstone's mistresses was Olga Novikoff, who Wright said was sent fro Moscow to charm Gladstone for the purposes of the Russian governme t.

Testifying yesterday Wright said that Mlle. Novikoff prevented Gladstone from assisting the Turks in war against Russia, and further that in 1876 the Russian beauty had influenced Gladstone to demand the expulsion of the Turks from Bulgaria. Gladstone was not in office at the latter time.

Counsel for Viscount Gladstone, the 73-year-old son of the Liberal statesman, who publicly called Wright a liar, a fool and a coward, said that correspondence between Gladstone and Mlle. Novikoff between 1875 and 1893 was in court and he suggested that the letters contained not the "slightest hint of impropriety."

The trial was adjourned until Tues day.

Cabinet also Converted.

Regarding the plaintiff's allegation that Gladstone changed from a policy of friendship for Turkey because of Novikoff's influence, counsel suggested that the whole cabinet were also converted. The plaintiff offered to prove from the other side's own books, if he were given the opportunity, that Novikoff did change Gladstone.

He was given the opportunity and he read a letter written by Lord Granville to Lord Hartington, saying that Gladstone had been seeing the Russian adventuress. The plaintiff insisted that the word adventuress must have referred to Novikoff.

FAIRS ASSOCIATION HELD CONVENTION

Arrange Dates for Various Fairs Throughout Central Ontario District.

STIRLING, Jan. 29.— The convention of the Central Ontario Fairs Association was held in the City Hall, Belleville, on Thursday. Mr. Clayton Tucker, of Stirling, president, occupied the chair. The principal business was the fixing of the dates of the various fairs of the district for 1927. This was done with very little trouble, each fair getting the date they desired. The dates for Stirling fair in 1927 will be September 27th and 28th. The delegates for Stirling were the president, Mr. John E. O'Donnell and secretary-treasurer M. W. Sine, V.S.

Mr. Clayton Tucker, of Stirling, was re-elected president for 1927. Geo. A. Hay, V.S., of Campbellford, secretary-treasurer, Mr. George Reid, of Belleville, delegate to the convention of the Ontario Fairs Association to be held Feb. 2nd and 3rd in Toronto.

The business concluded an adjournment was made to meet in Belleville in January, 1928.

In the northwestern part of the United States there is an area of almost 200,000 square miles of solid lava, due to prehistoric volcanic eruptions.

INTERESTING TALK AMBULANCE COURSE

Initial Lecture of Series to Be Given at Deloro.

MARMORA, Jan. 29.—The initial lecture of the first of three St. John's ambulance courses to be given to employees of the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company was given in Deloro Hall on Wednesday before a class numbering thirty-one. Dr. H. Crawford, lecturer, after introductory remarks on first aid, discussed anatomy in a general way, illustrating by charts the various bones of the body and their relation to important organs. He also gave a diagnosis and classification of fractures and demonstrated methods of bandaging. Not only is the company interesting itself in these courses, but the men are showing their zeal by attending them in their own time and at their own expense, irrespective of residency at Deloro or Marmora.

Rev. R. F. Stillman was in Bellevilel on Thursday attending a meeting of the programme committee to arrange for the coming conference of the United church.

Mrs. John Riseborough was in Peterboro on Thursday.

Mr. Gerald Parker, teller in the local branch of the Standard Bank, has taken a leave of absence for an indefinite time on account of ill health.

Mr. Urry of Bloomfield branch is expected to fill Mr. Parker's place. Mr. Parker's many friends hope for a speedy recovery.

Mrs. J. McLeod (nee Sadie Greenbank) of Regina, Sask., is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Greenbank.

Mrs. J. H. Copeland of Toronto has been the guest of her daughter, Mrs. S. H. Moyer.

The fire brigade had a short run on Thursday afternoon. The cause of the alarm was a chimney fire at the home of Mrs. Brimacombe, King street.

Mr. Stanley McMillan of Toronto was a guest during the week at his home in the village.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

BECAUSE OF YOU

When the day is over,
When the night is near,
What remains to heal the pains,
What to still the fear?
Only this will answer,
Only this will do—
Just the thought you something wrought
For someone else than you.

When the labor's ended,
When the day is done,
When you come returning home
As westward sinks the sun,
Something else must soothe you
Than the thought of hire,
Something fine, some thought divine,
Though the limbs may tire.

If today you fashioned
Something for mankind,
Cost to warm, a roof from storm,
Food to feed the mind,
Only this will answer,
Only this will do—
That the earth has more of worth
Tonight, because of you.

YOUNG MAY BE DEPORTED

U. S. Immigration Authorities Investigating Swimmer's Entry Into States.

RESTS ON BIRTHPLACE.

DETROIT, Jan. 29 (Canadian Press).—George Young, 17-year-old winner of the $25,000 Catalina Island swim, may face deportation as a result of an investigation begun yesterday by immigration authorities.

Acting on word from Los Angeles, Alexander M. Doig, in charge of immigration agents, began an effort to determine whether the entry of the young Toronto swimmer and his companion, Bill Hastings, into the United States through the port of Detroit, was fraudulent.

If deported, Young would have to return to Toronto and go through the regular immigration routine before he might return to fulfill vaudeville and motion picture contracts awaiting him on the west coast. The men entered as Canadian tourists.

The legality of the entry depends on the birthplace of Young. If he was born in Canada he may remain here after paying a head tax, but if he was born in Scotland, as has been rumored, he would be forced to return to Canada and await entry under the Scotch quota.

townships of Burleigh and Anstruther, Belmont and Methuen, Galway and Cavendish, Chandos, and Harvey.

Reeves Cavanagh and Middleton were appointed to look after Chemong bridge and Reeves Cavanagh and Parker to look after Gannon's bridge. Reeve Smithson was appointed to act in conjunction with representatives of Northumberland and Durham re Bensfort and Wallace's Point bridge.

Belmont Street Bridge.

Reeve Montgomery made an earnest plea to have this bridge rebuilt in Norwood. This bridge is on the connecting link running through Norwood on the highway between Peterboro and Havelock. As there is a curve in the road where this old bridge is built and it is the desire of the department to have this road straightened there has arisen a difficulty when the extra land was to be secured. The members of council were all aware that this bridge was needed and it is their desire to build it in the future if satisfactory arrangements can be made with the owners of the land which would be required.

The committee decided to build Borland's bridge in the township of Ashodel this coming summer. A grant of $100 was made to Revee Clark of Galway providing a like amount was granted by the County of Victoria for the boundary road in that district.

Ex-Warden Martin Coughlin was present and asked to address the meeting. Mr. Coughlin is always a welcome visitor to the Council and he spoke in his usual jovial way, congratulating the Warden on being appointed to office. When Mr. Coughlin entered the Council Reeve Clark of Galway was then Warden and he, along with Mr. Middleton, are the only two members who are in the present council who were in the 1923 council.

Chairman Gainey of the Suburban Area Commission read his report to the Council. This commission, like the Good Roads Commission, found that last year it required a very large amount for maintenance and thus the rebuilding had to be cut.

J. Grant was apointed caretaker of Chemong bridge at a salary of $175 a year, and John Chase was appointed caretaker of Gannon's bridge at a salary of $50 a year.

OLD MASTERS

As a demon is hurled by an angel's spear,
Heels over head, to his proper sphere,
Heels over head, and head over heels,
Dizzily down the abyss he wheels,
So fell Darius. Upon his crown,
In the midst of the barnyard he came down.
In a wonderful whirl of tangled strings,
Broken braces and broken springs,
Broken tail and broken wings,
Shooting stars and various things,
Barnyard litter of straw and chaff,
And much that wasn't so sweet by half.
Away with a bellow fled the calf,
And what was that? Did the gosling laugh?
'Tis a merry roar from the old barn door,
And he hears the voice of Jotham crying;
"Say, Darius! How de yeou like flyin'?"

Slowly, ruefully, where he lay,
Darius just turned and looked that way,
As he stanched his sorrowful nose with his cuff,
"Wal, I like flyin' well enough,"
He said; "but the' ain't sich a thunderin' sight
O' fun in't when ye come to light."

And this is the moral—stick to your sphere;
Or, if you insist, as you have the right,
On spreading your wings for a loftier flight,
The moral is—take care how you light.

HUNT SUSPECTS BOSTON MURDER

GIVEN TIP.

BOSTON, Mass., Jan. 29 (Canadian Press).—The police late yesterday were working on a clue to the murder of Maybelle Matheson, 18, of Whycocomagh, N.S., in the West Roxbury district last Friday night, which they considered so promising that they predicted an arrest within a short time. The information was given them by a man who visited police headquarters yesterday.

The police at first gave out no details of the man's story other than that he had connected two men with the murder, one of them being a close friend of his. Inspectors and detectives were placed on the trail of these men who were understood to be residents of a suburb.

Later, they said their informant had told them that his friend had driven to his home last Friday night and blurted out, "I didn't mean to kill her." The man's clothes appeared to be blood-stained and he had evidently been drinking.

The informant went out with him to the car where another man threatened him with a pistol. The two men then drove away.

OBITUARY.

MRS. GEORGE BELLINGHAM.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 29.—The funeral of Mrs. George Bellingham took place on Tuesday afternoon with Rev. C. A. G. Spence of Apsley in charge of the service. Mr. Spence spoke from a part of the 23rd verse of the 1st chapter of St. Paul's epistle to the Philippians: "To depart and be with Christ which is far better", speaking of the dark shadow of death which Christianity brightens and takes away the gloom and loneliness and sadness and foreshadowing the glorious life beyond.

The pall bearers were Messrs. Sam Trude, Ernest Robertshaw, Elwood Northey, Arthur Barker, Arthur Webster and Herbert Tucker. Interment took place at Hillside cemetery.

Gertrude Bellingham was the third daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. P. W. C. Shewen of Burleigh township where her early life was spent. As a young girl she spent some years in Lakefield where she made many warm friends who regretted her long illness fought with so much suffering. She is survived by two small children, four brothers, Cecil P. of Mount Julian, Travers of Nassau, William of Burleigh and Victor of Mount Julian, and four sisters, Mrs. Brown of Peterboro, Mrs. Fred Crawford of Lakefield, Mrs. Hilliard Reid of Douro and Miss Gladys of Kansas City. All the family were present at the funeral.

GARNER HENRY GRAHAM

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 29—The death occurred on Monday of Garner Henry Graham, aged 18 years and 3 months, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Graham, Sr., of Smith township.

Most of "Garney's" short life was spent in Lakefield and his bright cheery spirit, in spite of distressing infirmity, won many friends in every quarter of village. Surrounded as he was with loving tender care, which spared no efofrt to make him comfortable, 'Garnys" short life is full of sweet memories for those who knew him. Even the rough and tumble boys were gentle and kind to him and tok great pleasure in entertaining him.

The funeral took place on Wednesday from the family residence, Smith, to Lakfild cemetery.

MRS. RICHARD PYEAR.

STIRLING, Jan. 29.—After several weeks' illness at her home near Glen Ross, Mrs. Richard Pyear passed away at midnight on Thursday, Jan. 27th. She was a great worker in the United church at Carmel appointment, a former president of the Ladies' Aid, which office she filled in a very capable manner. Mrs. Pyear was born in Madoc township 68 years ago. She leaves to mourn her loss, her husband and three children, Mrs. Arthur Brown, Edward and Arthur, all living in the immediate vicinity. The funeral service will be held on Sunday afternoon, at Carmel church, the body to be placed in the vault at Stirling cemetery.

REEVES DANCE AT THE ROYAL HOTEL

Social at Cobourg For County Councillors.

COBOURG, Jan. 29.—Members of the Counties Council were numerous among the guests at the dance given by Mr. and Mrs. S. Fisher at their hotel, the Royal, on Friday night. The councillors who were staying at the hotel were joined by virtually all the other members who were in town for the week's sessions. Other Royal guests and ladies and gentlemen from town were invited, and an unusually pleasant evening was provided for the county visitors. "Square and round" dancing left no blanks. Archie Moore was floor manager during the folk dances, and Jim Ross., Deputy-Reeve of Brighton, assisted. Cards and refreshments were also on the programme, and about two o'clock Warden Elliott, in a short speech, warmly thanked Mr. and Mrs. Fisher for their hospitality and congratulated them upon the improvements they had made to the Royal Hotel, formerly the Balmoral.

GOVERNMENT TO DEAL BLOW AT LABOR STRIKES

Made Illegal Under New Measure in Great Britain.

MUST REGISTER.

Will Also Call For Prohibiting of Massed Picketing.

LONDON, Jan. 29.—The government bill to restrict the powers of the trade unions is now expected to make a general strike illegal and the funds of organizations concerned in such a strike liable to damages.

Prohibition of massed picketing and the picketing of the homes of workers is also likely to be provided for, together with insistence that all trade unions must be registered.

Funds Separate.

Another clause will probably demand that political and provident funds must be kept entirely separate and the affiliation of the civil service organization to outside bodies prevented. These clauses are in the nature of a compromise, because they mean that the original idea of a secret ballot and the declaration by the worker that part of his contribution shall go to political funds, has been rejected, as Premier Baldwin wished.

ICE CARNIVAL PROVES SUCCESS

Millbrook Event Was Well Attended By People in District.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 28.—A very successful carnival, the first of the season, was held under Cosmos Club auspices, on the open-air rink on Tuesday night, the Citizens' Band funrishing music for the skaters during the evening.

The attendance was large, sleighloads driving in from the surrounding district and two car-loads coming from Peterboro for the event.

Quite a number were in costume, and at 9 p.m. the judging began, the speed contests following. The judges were Messrs. C. Thorndyke, L. C. Russell and R. J. McKnight. Prize winners included:

Ladies' comic costume—Miss Florence Fallis, Rasmus.

Ladies' best interpretation—Mrs. G. W. Sayles, danger signals.

Best lady skater—Miss Kathleen Lancashire.

Lady speed skater—Miss Elsie Spence.

Gents' fancy costume—William Todd, Jiggs.

Gents' comic costume—Lawrence Ingram, old-fashioned lady.

Best gent skater—Mr. M. Starr, Peterboro.

Boys' comic costume—Henry Raper, grandmother.

Best skating couple—Dr. H. and Mrs. Young.

Speed skating, over 15 years—Lawrence Ingram.

Speed skating, under 15 years—Kenneth Donnelly.

Obstacle race—Walter Sayles.

Among others in costume were: Mr. H. Syer, Hawaiian gentleman; Morris Williamson, cowboy; Mr. W. Morton, North-west Mounted Police; R. Larmer, Ikey; Reg. Edmunds, Dutch boy; Pryer Edmunds, Dutch girl; Mary Nattrass and Evalina Todd, bride and groom; Mary Burnham, Japanese girl; Jack Stinson, soldier boy; G. Clarke and Sherman, colored gentlemen; Fred Turner, washerwoman; Miss Miller, Toronto, Andy.

The ladies' prizes were uniform in character, boxes of chocolates being given in each case; for the gentlemen, neckties were the awards.

The Cosmos Club was at an expense of about $150.00 this season to install a pumping apparatus for flooding the rink, and has still some indebtedness from the heavy initial expense last season in buying the property and starting the rink. The receipts from the carnival were fairly substantial and will help considerably in reducing the debt. Hot dogs and excellent hot coffee were on sale in the booth, which was well patronized.

PROBE TRANSFERRED.

Inquiry Into Alleged Druggists' Combine Moved To Toronto.

OTTAWA, January 28. — Canadian Press. — Investigation into the alleged combine among Canadian druggists will be resumed in Toronto on Tuesday before Royal Commissioner L. V. O'Connor.

Securities Worth $31,000 Are Picked Up On Street

FLINT, Mich., Jan. 29.—Thirty-one thousand dollars in securities, which were in an automobile stolen on Tuesday from Charles E. Godfrey of Bancroft, were turned over to the police yesterday by Ira Honeyball, 31 years old, of this city. Honeyball told the police he found the securities, a quantity of clothing and two travelling bags in a street near his home. Honeyball said when he found the valuables they were lying beside the two bags, which had been ransacked.

COUNTIES GRANT $100 TO THE TRENT

Waterway Reeves Get Half Sum Asked For.

COBOURG, Jan. 29.—"Half a loaf is better than no bread" was the slogan of Reeves Hess and Bygott in pressing for a grant of $100 from the Counties Council for the Trent Waterways Development Association whose letter asking for $200 had been tabled by the Finance Committee. When the chairman was reading the report for final approval before it went to the Council the Hastings and Campbellford members opened up their arsenal of arguments again and secured a favorable though slight majority. The report was adopted in Council without amendment.

Hastings Bridge Proposal.

Reeve W. H. Nelson suggested in the Roads and Bridges Committee that the cost of maintaining the Hastings bridge might be avoided if it was assumed by the Department as a county bridge. The special roads commissioners with Reeve Hess were instructed to enquire into the procedure of having this bridge included in the county roads system.

Other grants were $750 each to the Cobourg, Port Hope and Bowmanville hospitals; $200 to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind; $50 to the Toronto Sick Children's Hospital; $25 to the Toronto branch of the Salvation Army; $350 a month to Children's Aid Society.

A reply will be sent to the Cobourg Horse Show Association that the $200 given them by the Council in 1926 was for the original association, and not to those persons who conducted the show last year.

South Monaghan is asked to refund to the Council $91.50 overpaid on the expenses of a Monaghan patient at the Nicholls Hospital, Peterboro, last year.

PRESENTS NAMES COALITION CABINET

Chancellor Marx Forms Cabinet With Leaning to the Right.

BERLIN, Jan. 29. — (Canadian Press.) — President Von Hindenburg's ardent wish for a Bourgeois coalition cabinet with leanings to the right was fulfilled late yesterday when Chancellor Marx presented the name of a ministry to succeed the government defeated last December.

The Chancellor presented a Coalition cabinet made up of four Centrists, four Nationalists, two members of the German peoples party, and one non-party member. The Centrist contingent included a representative of the Bavarian Peoples Party, which represents its right wing.

Dr. Otto Geasler, Minister of Defence in the last Marx cabinet, who represents no particular party, will retain his portfolio. It was criticism of his administration of the Ministry that largely led to the adverse vote against the Marx cabinet in December, Foreign Minister Stresemann also is retained.

The new coalition will command 248 votes in the Reichstag, while the opposition, consisting of Democrats, Socialists, Communists and Fascisti holds 223 votes. the economic party, with 21 votes, being benevolently neutral.

The new coalition, which is the most conservative since the founding of the republic, was made possible by what is termed a great "about face" by the Nationalists. Through the latter's agreement to give up their opposition to the Republic and to Dr. Stresemann's international policy of conciliation the conflict in Germany now shifts from the issues of monarchism versus republicanism and Nationalism versus Internationalism, to a struggle as to who shall have a voice in, and control of, the republic.

The opposition parties assert that the coalition merely represents the "possessing classes," while the coalition supporters declare that they will heed President Von Hindenburg's appeal to safeguard the interests of the workers also.

BARN DESTROYED.

Mr. John Cain, of Rawden, Suffers Heavy Loss.

STIRLING, Jan. 29.— A serious fire entailing considerable loss occurred on Tuesday night last when Mr. John Cain's barn on the 4th concession of Rawdon, was burned with its contents, including 12 head of cattle. The loss is partially covered by insurance.

Bus Overturns.

The motor bus which plies between Marmora and Belleville, met with a mishap a mile north of Belleville, when it skidded and turning completely around fell over on its side in the ditch.

The three passengers were unhurt, but had to make their exit by climbing through the upper doors of the bus, as it laid on its side.

$60,000 Payment On Cost of Provincial Highways.

NEST EGG FOR YEAR.

County Road Expenditure To Require One and a Half Mills.

COBOURG, Jan. 29.—The corner stone of the 1927 tax rate in Northumberland and Durham was laid by the Council yesterday with an appropriation of 1½ mills for county road work this year. In 1926 this same rate covered the counties' half of the $94,200 spent on county road construction and maintenance, the other $47,000 being now due from the Ontario Government.

Then there is the other item of $60,000 this year, representing the counties' proportion of 20 per cent, of the cost of provincial highways within their borders. That sum was arranged for last June, and is an annual charge for three years under the funding plan adopted to lighten the burden of highway extension as it impinges upon the farmers' bank account. These two items amount to more than $107,000 as a tax nest-egg for the year's hatching.

The resolution providing for a 1½-mill levy was proposed by Reeve W. F. Elliott of Murray Township and seconded by C. H. Davidson of Campbellford.

Grand Jury's Report.

Reeve C. A. Wight of Darlington, with the members of the Property Committee, interviewed Judge McGlade and Crown Attorney W. F. Kerr with respect to the recommendation of the Grand Jury for improved ventilation and sanitary condition of the court-room.

As there was some doubt about the responsibility of the Council for such repairs, the special property committee was instructed to obtain the required information from the Cobourg Town Council and report in June with an estimate of the cost of ventilating and repairing the chamber.

Tenders For Supplies.

Harry Field and Charles McCallum, representing the local merchants, yesterday pointed out to the Council that the purchase of supplies for the House of Refuge was not distributed among the business houses of Cobourg and other towns in the two counties as it should be in fairness to all.

"It is hardly fair that one or two merchants should get all the House of Refuge business," Mr. Field protested.

This petition was anticipated by the Finance Committee, which recommended that whenever possible supplies for the House of Refuge be bought for a period of about three months, and that prices be obtained by tender, the superintendent to confer with Board in regard to such purchases. This motion was proposed by Reeve Bygott.

Auditors Named.

Mr. J. Hotman, Reeve of Clarke Township, and Col. F. D. Boggs were appointed auditors of the criminal and justice accounts.

Oscar Hudson and Company were engaged as general auditors for three years, but are not to provide a detailed statement of receipts and expenditures. Their fee is $300 a year, and their service may be dispensed with after the first or second year if then desired. They audit the clerk's and county road superintendent's accounts.

Warden Elliott and Reeve W. F. Elliott, chairman of the Finance Committee, were delegated to pass on accounts for payment between sessions.

Registry office commissioners were appointed as follows: Sam. Dudley, Colborne; W. G. Maher, Cobourg; L. H. Giddy, Port Hope; W. H. Hickson, Bowmanville.

Bridge Commissioners.

Among the bridge commissioners appointed by by-law were the following: Campbellford-Bridge, C. H. Davidson; Hastings, J. H. Hess; Wallace Point, S. Fallis; Pigeon Creek, Bert Richardson; Dunlop, Geo. H. Hooten; Healey Falls, Wm. S. Grills; Thompson Bridge, W. H. Nelson; Wilson Island, J. M. Bygott.

High School Trustees.

House of Refuge Board.

The 1927 board of management for the House of Refuge was appointed thus: Warden Elliott, M. Wilson, Reeve of Hope Township, and W. S. Grills, Reeve of Seymour. The expense allowance is $5 a day while on duty, and 10 cents a mile as the rate of mileage.

MARMORA NEWS.

MARMORA, Jan. 29.—Mr. Warren Hickey spent a few days in Toronto this past week.

Mr. Horace Leonard has been on the sick list for the past few days.

Mrs. Bert Robson is taking the class at the Public School which was under the care of the late Nellie Williams until a successor is appointed.

The cold weather of Wednesday and Thursday had its effects on many a local automobile, quite a number of freeze-ups occurring on the Marmora-Deloro road.

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

HERE is something which I came upon in my reading which, perhaps, you may easily recognize and trace to its source. If you do, and get out of it anything approaching what I have got, you will, if you are not altogether destitute of gratitude, thank me for having turned your thoughts in its direction. It runs like this: And straightway Jesus constrained his disciples to get into a ship, and to go before him unto the other side, while he sent the multitudes away. And when he had sent the multitudes away, he went up into a mountain apart to pray: and when the evening was come, he was there alone. But the ship was now in the midst of the sea, tossed with waves: for the wind was contrary. And in the fourth watch of the night Jesus went unto them, walking on the sea. And when the disciples saw him walking on the sea, they were troubled, saying, It is a spirit; and they cried out for fear. But straightway Jesus spake unto them, saying, Be of good cheer; it is I; be not afraid. And Peter answered him and said, Lord, if it be Thou, bid me come unto Thee on the water. And he said, Come. And when Peter was come down out of the ship, he walked on the water, to go to Jesus. But when he saw the wind boisterous, he was afraid; and beginning to sink, he cried, saying, Lord save me. And immediately Jesus stretched forth his hand, and caught him, and said unto him, O thou of little faith, wherefore didst thou doubt? And when they were come into the ship, the wind ceased. Then they that were in the ship came and worshipped him, saying, Of a truth thou art the Son of God.

AN EPITOME OF LIFE'S EXPERIENCES

No ingenuity is needed to see in that narrative an epitome of life's experiences. It is as if the Spirit of God, by the use of an object lesson, wanted to teach some important things about the Spiritual World. And it will be both interesting and instructive, in making a rapid review of these verses which I have taken from Matthew 14: 22-33, to observe some of the lessons which are lying upon the surface. We, too, are travellers upon the sea of time. And in the course of our voyaging we pass through somewhat similar experiences to those encountered by the disciples. Having their story before us we ought to profit by what that story has to tell, unless, like some others, we have eyes and ears which fail to function!

CHRIST SHOULD BE BEFORE AND BEHIND ALL OUR AFFAIRS

If we have any right to call Him, Master, He has every right to have the rule of our lives. Everything should be done under His constraints. It should be no longer my will but His. Henceforth it is not to be the way I desire but the way He directs. If we will really mean what is implied when we call Him, Lord and Master, we shall cease from all planning of our own and wait patiently for our sailing orders. He never constrains for anything but the best. It may not be an easy way, but it will always be found to be both safe and profitable. Try it, and see what a difference it will make.

THE SOURCE AND SUSTENANCE OF ALL SPIRITUAL STRENGTH

It is important to note that He went up into a mountain apart to pray. If Jesus could not get along without prayer, it is foolish to think we can. And if, in His busy life, He found or made time for prayer we are without an alibi if we plead any excuse for our failure to give prayer a large place in our lives. There are times when, like the Master, we must dismiss the multitude so that we can get alone with the Father. It is in solitude that communion is at its best. The reason why a past generation was so much stronger than we are, spiritually, was that it practised the art of divorcing itself from every diverting or distracting influence and spent much time in the place of prayer.

THE RIGHT WAY IS NOT FREE FROM STORMS

It is only when this present order of things has given place to the new order, in which the new heavens and the new earth appear, that there can be either no more sea or a sea of glass. No, we are not promised any less stormy a track across the deep when we put ourselves under His command—but, there is this difference, He knows! And He is able to save to the uttermost, all them that come unto God by Him, seeing that He ever liveth to make intercession for them. You can sing, even in the midst of the storm:

"When walking on Life's Ocean
Control its raging motion:
When in its dread deeps sinking,
When from its dangers shrinking,
Remember me, O Might One!"

THERE MAY BE PERMISSION WITHOUT COMMISSION

We have heard men say that the reason why Peter began to sink was that he took his eyes off Jesus. That, of course, is true; but not just in the way that is sometimes suggested. Peter took his eyes off the Master before he ever touched the water with his feet. He had been commissioned by Jesus to 'get into a ship, and to go before Him to the other side.' And I don't think any of the disciples had any right to ask for anything else till they had carried out these sailing orders. Doubtless there seemed to be more of a thrill in walking upon the waves than in toiling at an oar. And most of us are ready to link up these two words, 'if,' and 'bid,' in the hope that it will be more thrilling, even if it is not easier work.

The life is largely dependent upon the look. It was so with Lot's wife. And when the children of Israel looked at the brazen serpent, no matter where they might be or how they might be, they received life. When John directed the thoughts of the multitude to Jesus he did it saying: "Behold the Lamb of God which taketh away the sin of the world." When circumstances, trials, success, or anything take our eyes off Christ, disaster is sure to follow.

WORSHIP INTENSIFIED

All God's dealings with us should intensify the spirit of worship. Then they that were in the ship came and worshipped Him, saying, of a truth Thou art the Son of God. Think of His saving grace and what we owe to it. Had it not been for His favor we should have still been under condemnation with nothing to look forward to, but the darkness of despair. If that does not intensify our worship it would almost seem as if it had been wasted upon us. Then think of His sparing grace and the joy of His salvation. If we only knew what we have escaped here and now, through His favor our hearts would well over with gratitude and His praise should be upon our lips both day and night.

When the ship of our lievs is in the midst of the sea, tossed with waves: because the wind is contrary—don't forget that our Master is also Master of both winds and waves. He may at such times seem a long way off, but He can never be too far away to know our condition and our concern. Even now He is within the Holy of Holies, making intercession for His people. And while that is true, it is also true that He never leaves us nor forsakes us. Put yourself under His care, having claimed all the benefits of His redemptive work. Don't worry; just watch and wait while you work. At the right time He will come to cheer and help you with His presence. Keep your heart clean and sweet. Focus your inner eyes upon the Son of God. Give heed to His Word. And don't let anything scare you but unbelief. It may be the fourth watch of the night: and it may even be a night of weeping, but joy cometh in the morning.

ALLAN FAIRBAIRN.

Your Returns

PERMIT me to present you with some capital, which, if you will invest, will give you larger and more lasting returns than the best bonds or stocks on sale anywhere. Don't look upon me with suspicion in the belief that I have some axe of my own to grind. I don't want a cent of your money. What I have to offer is without money and without price. It is not, and never will be, on any market for sale. All you are asked to do is to set aside five minutes in each one of the next twelve days, and that time you will give to meditation on Isaiah fifty -three, a verse a day. There are but twelve verses, but no consecutive twelve verses are like them in any other piece of literature ever written.

What Think Ye Of Christ?

IT WAS but thirty-three short years of a short lifetime that He lived on earth, it was but three broken and troubled years that He preached the Gospel of the Kingdom; but forever even until all the eons have been closed, and the earth itself, with the things that now are, have passed away, shall every one of His true children find peace and hope and forgiveness in His name; and that name shall be Immanuel, which is, being interpreted, God with us.

Churches and Churchmen

I. SEEWELL.

A Newspaper to the Defence.

AN AMERICAN sociologist making the following statement: "a home is becoming practically impossible. Children are almost out of the question. Real Christian motherhood is almost a thing of the past. Marriage to most young men is no longer an asset, but an insurmountable liability," is challenged by an influential midwestern newspaper. In challenging the statement the newspaper wonders if the sociologist had not overlooked the better homes in gathering the data upon which his estimate was based. There is no denying the fact that there are still many homes the life in which would furnish no ground for such a radical conclusion.

The Needs Of Our Churches.

WRITING in "The Presbyterian Advance" under this caption, Rev. Charles R. Martin of Brookfield, Mo., says,—Considering that at the most not more than half of the people in most communities hold church membership, one might say that the great need of the churches is for more members; but in speaking of the needs of a hospital, would you say that it needed more patients, or that a public school needed more pupils? No, patients and pupils respectively constitute their reason for existing and not their need. You would say, rather, that a hospital needed better equipment and a stronger staff, or a school better equipment and a stronger faculty. Our churches do not need more people; they exist for the people, and want more people to be benefitted by their service.

Some of our church buildings might well be improved; but the principal needs of churches are not physical. Above all else our churches need a more earnest consecration and a deeper loyalty in the lives of their members. They need a determination on the part of the members to put first things first in the scale of values, and so to live and work that their influence day after day will advance the causes for which the churches stand. Our churches need more workers who will feel personally obligated as members to carry out the purpose of the Christian church in its program of service to mankind

A Religious War.

SURELY we must all agree with Dr. Young, when he says that we need a religious war, but not one of the sort certain groups in America are trying to bring on. Thrice welcome a religious war—of the right kind—a war that sets the trumpets of all sanctuaries thundering against graft and lawlessness, against the greed that is eating the hearts out of our business men and the selfishness that is turning our homes into contests wherein the earners vie with the spenders to see which will come out ahead, against the pleasure lust that to its gratification sacrifices time and strength and every high opportunity, against the dulling of personal perceptions by this deadly smoke of printed stuff that blurs the moral vision of youth, against those motion pictures and stage productions that lower the standards of the public. In such a religious war we may all, by whatever sectarian name we may be known, fight on the same side; and fight to win!

A Leper's Faith.

IT IS not often that we meet such faith these days! "I had rather die of leprosy than sacrifice my faith in Christ by being forced to live in the leper camp of the government," was the declaration of a leper woman from a far distant district who had come to Central Hospital in Ilat, Africa, to get the mission doctor to give her the healing injections of chalmugra oil. The oil had temporarily given out, she could not be treated, and as she started on her long way back, after the suggestion that she might find relief in the government camp, she uttered the above words. Keenly disappointed, without medicine for her horrible disease, yet she was firm and true in her loyalty to her Saviour, with a faith rising far above her diseased body, a faith more precious than life itself.

Ministerial Practices.

DR. CLELAND B. McAFEE, always interesting and instructive, has been saying some worth while things about Pastoral Calling. He says that whenever pastoral calling is decried it is always caricatured: 'running around calling on the ladies,' 'going to pink teas,' 'sharing in neighborhood gossip,' and so on. If this were pastoral calling, nobody would believe in it.

When a churchman asked a friend why he did not go to church, he replied that he could not see why he should go into a stuffy room and listen to a lot of singers squawk and a minister gas away for an hour about things that nobody believes. On that definition it is difficult to see why he should!

There is as much need for real pastoral calling as ever there was. People are carrying burdens which a minister ought to share, and they are not apt to come to him in any numbers if he does not care enough for them to go to them.

The pastor is often the only spiritual helper who enters the home or the business office. He ought never to seem hurried, yet he has no time to waste on things that are none of his business. Some pastors hardly average more than five minutes, but in that time they learn if there are special needs in their field, have a brief prayer and leave the impression of genuine interest.

FROM a king's palace a party sets out on some expedition. It is apparently not of a military nature, though the chiefman is evidently an officer or general in the army. They have weapons, no doubt, but what they seem to rely upon for success far more than arms is a document of some kind which they carry with them. Many miles have to be traversed, and at least one river has to be crossed before they can reach what they hope is their journey's end. To all, the errand seems to be one of great interest—to one, a thing of life and death. Now they have reached the territory, and now the court of a foreign king. The visitor apparently is one whose name is but too well known to those amongst whom he has come. Little did he think in former days that he who had feared him and suffered at his hand! He stands before the potentate, and the document is produced. Has the petitioner gained his heart's desire? No, truly! his request is treated with indignation and scorn, and the thing upon which he relied for help is the very thing that has caused the failure of his mission.

This is the fourth in a series of pen pictures of Bible History by a preacher whose name will be with-held for the present. The key will be supplied next week when another in the series shall appear.

Control Of Temper

THE worst-tempered people may be made gentle and loving in all speech, act and disposition by the renewing and transforming power of divine grace. God can take the tangled keys and put them in tune if we will but put them into His hand. But we must strive ourselves to be sweet-tempered. We must watch the rising anger and quickly choke it back. We must keep down the ugly dispositions. We must learn to control ourselves, our tempers, our feelings, our passions, our tongues. We must seek to develop the gentle things and crowd out the nettles. The discipline is not easy, but the lesson can be mastered.

—J. R. MILLER.

Children's Corner — TELL US A STORY

HERE is something which I have picked up in my reading which I want to pass on to all my young friends. It carries with it a lesson on making good use of our eyes. You have all seen a hen. Well, then, can you tell how many toes it has on each foot? Or can you tell where a cow's horns are—)before or behind its ears?

John Buroughs is a fine example of what a person can do with himself when he concentrates on a loved task. He was born in the country. He had few of the advantages that are to-day counted almost indispensable. But he had the gift of observation. He kept his eyes open. He loved the animal life about him, and he watched it with loving patience. Nobody stood behind him, pushing him on. He just followed his bent and recorded what he saw and what he thought. In time he became an authority. He spoke of the things he knew, and the whole world listened.

GAMBLERS

SOME members of the church live on Grumble Avenue, hard by Discontent Street. They dump their moral? ashes in the street, never wash the sidewalk or paint the front door. Take it altogether, they are a poor, miserable lot. Many die early and are buried in unmarked graves. They seldom leave any money, but when one does it is willed away to the "Society for Fault Finding," that spares no pains to invest it to the best advantage. Now and then members of this society get on the committees and in the boards of direction. We need some machinery whereby these can be ground up and baked over, or melted down and molded over into men and women of praise, whose dwellings shall be on Thanksgiving Street, close by Avenue Content.

VIRTUE

MANY people think they are virtuous, merely because they are tame and inoffensive. Tameness is not a virtue, it is merely the absence of a vice. It is merely the indication of a force too feeble to run into excess. Virtue appears then only, when a strong force is wisely exerted under a strong regulation.

SPEAKER EXONERATED.

The numerous friends of Tris Speaker in Peterboro have been all delighted to hear that the famous ball player and Ty Cobb, the equally celebrated Detroit manager, have been completely exonerated by Judge Landis in regard to charges made against them of having conspired to "throw" a ball game.

Those in Peterboro who have on many occasions enjoyed the companionship of Speaker in fishing and shooting forays at Rice Lake, and those who found that he stood up well in the test that close association under such conditions always provides, needed no verdict from Judge Landis to convince them that the great centre fielder was "straight."

They, however, are happy to know that the cloud that hung over Speaker's head after a career full of wonderful performances has been chased away and that he has been officially and completely cleared of the accusations preferred against him.

They are hoping that the renowned "Spoke" will shine with the same old brilliancy on the ball field next summer.

OUR FIRE LOSS.

The Dominion Insurance Department has just published the aggregate combined loss experience of all companies for all Canada for the five-year period 1921-1925 inclusive. The figures show unfavorable loss ratios in a number of classes, indicating that these are money-losers for the companies, and making necessary the writing of these carefully and for small lines only.

The loss ration to premium income is as follows:

Unprotected dwellings in village and towns	71.66%
Country dwellings and farm property	114.17
Retail stores and contents	64.57
Boot and shoe factories	142.73
Canning factories	62.39
Confectionery and biscuit factories	68.06
Flour and oatmeal mills	87.09
Sawmills	79.56
Lumber yards	83.46
Mining risks	65.42
Tanneries	168.27
Woodworking factories	75.09
Woollen and knitting mills	97.25

CARELESS PARENTS.

"We strongly condemn the practice of parents leaving their children at home unattended, and hope that adults who are in the habit of spending their evenings away from home will secure the services of an adult to prevent a fatality of this kind occurring again."

Such was the verdict, in part, of the coroner's jury which investigated the death of five young children who lost their lives in a fire that destroyed their home when they were left alone in the house.

The jury's condemnation of a practice that is all too common will, it is hoped, have some effect upon people who have been guilty of such conduct.

Within recent weeks at least a dozen children, left alone, have met death as the result of fire, the recent case of Toronto being the most shocking in view of the fact that the eldest of the four victims was but four years of age.

The jury did well to score such callous carelessness.

In fact there does not seem any reason why parents convicted of leaving young children alone at night should not be called upon to explain their conduct to a police magistrate.

TOWNSHIP'S SCHOOL BOARDS.

It is notable that the splendid reports presented to the County Council by School Inspectors Richard Lees and R. F. Downey devoted considerable space to placing before the members of the Council Premier Ferguson's views in regard to township school boards.

As experts whose duty it is to see that the educational facilities provided for rural children are as complete as possible the inspectors realize that there is much room for improvement in the present system, and they have not hesitated to call the attention of the Council to a plan that promises to give much better results.

Premier Ferguson's bill to authorize the establishment of township school boards is to be again introduced at the coming session and it will be interesting to note whether or not his campaign to educate rural opinion in favor of the change has made any progress.

The Government could, of course carry the bill in any case, but Mr. Ferguson is anxious that public opinion should be behind it before it is put into force, and for some years his efforts have been directed towards trying to convince rural ratepayers that his plan is feasible and desirable.

A WELCOME CHANGE.

It was announced at the Exhibition Board banquet the other night by W. B. Roadhouse, the Deputy Minister of Agriculture, and W. H. Bradburn, member for Peterboro City, that the office of the District Representative of the Department of Agriculture for Peterboro County is to be transferred from Norwood to Peterboro.

This is a change that has long been urged by the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition Board and other local bodies which have strongly represented to the Government for some time that Peterboro was the logical location for the office of the district representative.

It has been the contention in all conferences with the Department that the Agricultural representative would be capable of much greater service to the people of the whole district if he were located in Peterboro, and the Government has admitted the validity of the claim by announcement that the transfer would be made early in spring.

The capital of the county would seem to be the fitting centre for all such services and the change is expected to work out for the betterment of the people generally, many of whom have been unable to take advantage of the service rendered by the District representative.

WHAT IF THEY CAME WITH BOMBS?

Twelve United States airplanes, travelling at 150 miles an hour from Michigan came up to Ottawa this week to land on the Ottawa River with as much ease as an Ottawa citizen might taxi from Sparks street to Ottawa South. The purpose of their visit was to test their machines under zero conditions, and their stay here was pleasantly cordial.

But what if their mission were different? What, if instead of coming with good-will, they came along with bombs? How could they be forestalled? What protection could there be fore Ottawa or for any Canadian city?

One hates to suggest such a sinister thought, but, after all, isn't it at least a remote possibility? A hundred airplanes, five hundred airplanes could fly over Ottawa, or Montreal, or Toronto, drop a few thousand bombs and leave them smouldering ashes.

It is such a thought, almost staggering, yet visualizing something that is completely possible, that makes it almost impossible that there should be another war. For while there is not much chance, thank Heaven, of a war between Canada and the United States, or between the United States and the British Empire, there is chance of war between other peoples; and they would be destroyed from the air just as airships from across the line could destroy us. Fleets of airships, bombs of devastating power, poison gas—such will be the armaments of the next war.

Humanity, not to say Christianity, must shrink from such a thing. And that is why any agency—League of Nations or anything else—that aims to promote peace should have the support of us all.—Ottawa Journal.

THE CHANGED MR. HEARST.

In Great Britain William Randolph Hearst's proposal of an alliance of English-speaking nations has attracted more interest than in Canada, where Mr. Hearst is better known. British newspapers give his statement prominence, and if they do not look for practical results they welcome it as an evidence that anti-British propaganda is no longer a serious force in the United States. This view is overlooked by Canadian commentators who see in Mr. Hearst's move only a subject for derision. Whatever Mr. Hearst's motives, it is certain that he would make no such plea if he believed that it would affront an important section of his vast body of readers. In all of his numerous papers he published this message:

"I think the time is right for our newspapers to advocate the co-operation of the English-speaking peoples of the world to maintain peace.

"The plan that I have in mind would mean that the United States, Great Britain, Ireland, Canada, Australia, New Zealand and South Africa would co-operate to insure peace among themselves and as far as possible to maintain the peace of the world.

"It would be an understanding to prevent the parties from making war among themselves, and to protect any one and all of the parties to the agreement from the war-like aggression of others.

"There should be an armament agreement which would provide not only that the military and naval and air forces should be kept down to a certain point, but that they should be kept up to a definite strength and efficiency in order to make this co-operative compact an effective force in the accomplishment of its objects."

Mr. Hearst gives as his reason for limiting such an understanding to the English-speaking countries the fact that language is an important element in such an agreement. "The League of Nations," he adds, "has shown that an organization of heterogeneous elements is impracticable and ineffective."

Not many Canadians will agree with this description of the League of Nations and still fewer would advocate its disruption even if it were succeeded by a league of English-speaking nations. Great Britain especially is committed to the League of Nations, and she could not and would not divorce herself from Europe, to which she belongs. The existence and constitution of the League are not incompatible with co-operation among English-speaking nations for purposes which are not aggressive. Such an agreement could be effected even without a formal treaty. If Mr. Hearst convinced his own countrymen of its desirability there would be no other obstacle. His appeal is valuable because a man who controls a vast engine of propaganda, frequently employed to foster prejudice against the British Empire, has become an advocate of closer relations between his own country and the countries of that Empire. Such a change in Mr. Hearst must reflect a change in popular sentiment. He may not in this case influence the official policy of the United States, but he will influence public opinion.—London Advertiser.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

TORONTO, Jan. 29 — The week opened with a good demand for choice finished steers for export. While offerings in this class were small, buyers had already made good purchases at outside points, filling orders for about 600 cattle for this week's shipment. About the same number are on order for next week. Prices ranged from $7.25 to $7.75.

Choice handyweight butchers steers and heifers met with good steady trading at from $7 to $7.50; good, $6 to $6.75; medium to common, $5 to $5.65. There has been a heavy run of rough heavy under-finished steers, which are hard to dispose of at from $5.75 to $6.50, also some breedy steers not fat enough at from $5.75 to $6. Choice fat cows of light weight sold at $5 to $5.25, but the heavy fat cows are selling at 25c per hundred lower than light weight cows of similar quality. There has been a shade weaker feeling in canner and cutter cows. Choice butchers' bulls held fairly steady at $5 to $5.25; good, $4.50 to $4.75; rough bologna bulls not quite so active at from $3.50 to $4.25. Choice baby beef was a bright feature on the market from $9.50 to $10.50; good, $8 to $9; medium, $7 to $8.

Springers and Milkers—There has been a little more activity in the trade, rather more local buyers taking choice springers at from $80 to $100, good $50 to $75, choice fresh milkers $70 to $85, good $50 to $65, medium to common cows almost unsaleable, exception over the scales, at cutter prices.

Stockers and Feeders — Western stockers, steers, $5 to $5.50; heifers from $4.50 to $4.75, with a few of the best going to the abattoirs. The demand is very limited at present. Bulk of Western stockers and feeders being shipped to St. Paul's, U.S.A., from Western markets.

Sheep and Lambs — Choice lambs held steady at 11 to 11¼c, with a few bunches of fancy lambs desirable weight and well finished at 12 to 12¼c, buck lambs 8 to 9c, cull lambs around 8c, yearling sheep 7 to 8c, choice butchers 6 to 6½c, good 5 to 5½c, heavy fat sheep and bucks 4 to 4½c, cull sheep 2 to 3c.

Calves — Choice veal calves met with steady trading at 13 to 13¼c, with a few fancy at 13½c, good calves 10 to 12c, medium 6 to 9c, stockers 4 to 4½c.

Hogs—Sold this week at 11c f.o.b., $11.50 fed; $11.90 off cars. Premium on selects $2.25 per head, or on a basis of $12.14 per hundred f.o.b. The greater number of sows sold at 3c discount.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 29 (Canadian Press)—The export and domestic trade in grain on the Montreal market yesterday was quiet owing to the fact that foreign buyers failed to respond to the prices asked by local exporters. On spot the feeling was firm and prices were unchanged.

There was a moderate demand from local buyers for spring wheat flour, but the foreign trade was small. The tone of the market was steady. The market for winter wheat flour was also inactive but values were firm.

Owing to the continued good demand for all lines of millfeed and the smaller supplies available, the undertone to the market is strong and indications are that prices will go higher in the near future. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats continued dull, but prices ruled steady.

The undertone to the market for all grades of eggs continued easy on account of the more liberal offerings available and especially so of fresh extras for which prices were cut another one cent per dozen. Other grades were unchanged. The receipts were 369 cases.

The demand for potatoes showed a slight improvemnt and the feeling was steady. Car lots of Prince Edward Island Green Mountains were quoted at $1.80 per bag of ninety pounds, and Quebec white stock at $1.40 per bag of ninety pounds in bulk, ex-track.

The cheese market was without any new feature to note, business in all directions being quiet with the undertone inclined to be easier, the receipts were 76 boxes.

CHICAGO CATTLE

CHICAGO, Jan. 29 (Canadian Press)—Cattle 3,000; best heavies 11.50; some scaling 1,650 pounds 10.40; bulk feeders and stockers 7.25 to 8.25; vealers largely 12.00 to 13.50; mostly to packers; outsiders 14.00 to 15.00.

Hogs 22,000; closing deadlock few late sales 12.15 to 12.25, average weights mostly 220 pounds up, most butchers 12.25 to 12.40.

Sheep, 10,000; top fat lambs to yard traders 13.50; bulk woolled lambs 12.75 to 13.25; heavy lambs and natives 12.75 to 13.00; extreme weights 11.65 to 12.00; choice fat ewes 8.25; desirable ewes 6.50 to 7.50.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Jan. 29 (Canadian Press)—In the face of heavy selling to realize profits, the wheat market tended upward yesterday. Signs of broader European demand were in evidence with considerable domestic red winter wheat being bought for export. Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 1-4c higher, corn 3-8c to 1-2c to 3-4c down, oats 1-4 to 1-2 off and provisions unchanged to 15c up.

Liberal receipts and slowness of cash demand weakened the corn market. Oats sympathized.

STERLING EXCHANGE

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 29 (Canadian Press) — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as follows:

Sterling demand—$4.84 1-4.
Sterling cables—$4.85 13-16.

Attacked by Sciatica and Bad Backache

Chas. Edwards Found Relief In Dodd's Kidney Pills

"I had a severe attack of sciatica in the fall of last year," writes Mr. Chas. Edwards, 1524, 13th Avenue West, Calgary. I also had pains in my back and tried several remedies but got very little relief from any of them. I remembered we had a Dodd's Almanac in the house which I got and read the many testimonials of those who had got relief from Rheumatism, Lumbago, and Sciatica by using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I made a start at once and soon felt they were doing me good. I took three boxes and felt all right."

ALLERGY

Many people have an idiosyncrasy toward certain kinds of food; and the cause of most people's susceptibility to the poisoning from these foods, no doubt lies in psychic factors. For instance, if a young baby is frightened while eating a certain kind of food, it may be that while during his life when he attempts to eat this kind of food, he will be taken with violent nausea, or possibly his skin will break out in a rash. Remember this is not because he remembers what happened when he was eating the food as a baby, but because he does not remember consciously. The experience was indelibly impressed upon his unconscious mind, and every time he attempts to eat that food, the unconscious remembrance of the unpleasantness connected with it will flash into his subconscious mind and bring about a definite reaction.

Babies who are made sick by taking too much milk which has spoiled, will often not be able to drink milk all their lives, some will not be able to use even butter. These difficulties, however, can be overcome by mental and physical training.

For the past fifteen years physicians have been trying to gather together sufficient data to account for the peculiar sensitiveness of certain individuals towards certain foods, and the scientific name for this new science of study is allergy, which may be defined as the condition of exaggerated sensibility to food substances which are harmless in similar amounts for the majority of members of the same family. Some doctors are becoming specialists in this science, and have other doctors refer patients to them for examination. They have found that almost every food will poison some individual, to such an extent as to produce hives, asthma, hay fever, and gastro-intestinal symptoms, such as vomiting and diarrhea. The pollen of flowers has been found to cause asthma in some cases. It is found that some people have a sensitiveness to so many of these proteids and pollens, that it is almost impossible to feed them enough to keep up their strength, without giving some of the foods irritating to their system. An attempt has been made to cure these idiosyncrasies by making a serum from the poisonous food and injecting it into the veins of the patient, but this has not met with any marked success.

Cheer up! It is not as bad as it sounds. In my investigations I have found that every one of these patients can be cured if they are put on a properly wel balanced diet, so that the general condition of acidosis in their body is cured. If good diet rules are followed for a few days the one who has found himself sensitive to meat, eggs, or fish, can eat these foods without any harmful results, and without the necessity for the administration of serum.

A short fast on fruit juices will always cure any of these idiosyncrasies, and if a well-balanced sensible diet is followed afterward, there will be no recurrence of the former difficulty.

EPILEPSY

"Mention must be made of drugs only to affirm that they have no legitimate place in the treatment of this (epilepsy) or any other form of mental illness."—R. G. Rows, M.D., and W. E. Bond, M.R.C.S., in their recent volume on Epilepsy.

AUDITORS' REPORT TO SHAREHOLDERS

We Report to the Shareholders of The Dominion Bank:—

That we have audited the above Balance Sheet as at December 31st, 1926, and compared it with the books and vouchers at Head Office and with the certified returns from the Branches. We have obtained all the information and explanations that we have required, and in our opinion the transactions of the Bank which have come under our notice have been within the powers of the Bank.

In our opinion the Balance Sheet discloses the true condition of the Bank and is as shown by the books of the Bank.

TOM MIX in "The Canyon of Light"

MONDAY — TUESDAY — WEDNESDAY

WITH AN ALL ENGLISH STAR CAST,

Don't Tell the Wife

BY WILLIAM B. COURTNEY

Synopsis.

Ranny Forbes, star polo player, and his beautiful wife, Joan, are temperamental mismates. Joan wants a divorce. Ranny hesitates, loving her, although secretly knowing she loves Abner Gratman. They are all guests on a week-end cruise on the yacht of Stivner, a billionaire. Clare, a widow, vamps Ranny. Stivner, loving Clare, is jealous of Ranny. Ranny avows that Clare means nothing to him; and Stivner therefore aids him to get evidence that Joan is unfaithful. To punish Abner, Ranny isolates him from the party in a dory towed behind the yacht at night in a storm.

CHAPTER XII.—Continued.

With Ranny, to decide was to act. He was a man of vigorous moods; he wanted now, more than anything else in the world, to restablish himself in the good esteem of his wife.

So rising quickly, for he had not undressed, he made his way along the dark, unsteady corridor to the door of Joan's cabin.

It was unlocked, and the motion of the ship had swung it slightly open.

Ranny went in, softly. But there was no answer to his whispers, and the light, when he switched it on, revealed an empty room, an unused berth.

Joan was gone!

A mysterious dread clutched Ranny's heart. He tried to shake it off by telling himself that Joan, lonely, had possibly gone to share the stateroom of some other woman guest.

It was not like Joan to do anything of the sort, however; of physical courage

"You'll have to put a little more muscle into it if you expect to make shore."

she lacked nothing.

His first apprehension was no doubt the nearest to the truth—she had gone to aid Abner.

Stumbling up the heaving stairs, he had no sooner ventured out upon the dark and rainswept deck than he heard a blood-chilling cry come down the wind from aft:

"Dory broken away!"

Captain Marty, from the bridge, and Ranny reached the stern railing almost simultaneously. They found the quarterdeck watch dangling a loose end of towline in his hands, and striving to pierce the wall of darkness that pressed apace after the taffrail light.

No dory rode in the lacey wake: the foaming, hissing eddies of the twin screws raced away into the nothingness of night.

The hallooing watch turned a frightened face to the newcomers.

"I was forward when I saw a-woman come to the railing, here," he explained. "Mr. Gratman must have pulled the dory close in to the rudder post, hand over hand on the rope, for before I could run back to stop her, she had climbed over the rail and dropped into the boat. When I got back he had let the boat play out to the limit of the towline again."

"Could you distinguish, or recognize the woman? Who was she?"

"She was your wife, Mr. Forbes!"

Ranny took hold of the rail in a trancelike grip, to keep himself from falling, while fear, like liquid fire, cascaded through his brain. Joan, lost on that black sea in a cockleshell of a boat with an incompetent ass like Abner Gratman!

"This line didn't part. It's been cut!"

"Aye, sir—the man sawed it through with a pocketknife. I yelled at him and started to draw in on the rope, but that only tautened it and made it easier to cut. That's when I started to yell for you, only he had gone through so far that it snapped before you got here."

The guard paused a moment, and turned to Ranny, who, with drawn face, was staring into the storm pall. He went on:

"The lady was scared when she saw what the man was up to. She screamed and tried to make him stop, but he just laughed and kept on cuttin'. That was the last I saw of them, sir, him laughin,' and her a-screamin'!"

Ranny was too much the soldier of fortune, the adventurer used to danger and the ways of danger, to be prone to panic; yet for an instant his courage almost deserted him, and he involuntarily turned to plead with Captain Marty to do something—quick, quick!

One glance at the lean captain's face sufficed to indicate the lack of necessity for suggestions. For Captain Marty, having the whole story, was now a man transformed without appreciable effort into the calm, driving master of the crisis.

He had already started for the bridge, calling to the quartermaster on wheel duty there:

"Hard about!"

Ranny followed the captain to the bridge, and though he was bursting with misdoubts, he struggled to keep cool and not to interfere with the obviously complete and confident preparations of the captain for a swift and painstaking search.

Even while the yacht was swinging in an arc to double back on her course, Captain Marty was pressing the button that rang an emergency signal bell in Stivner's bedroom.

Next, without an instant's delay, he unlimbered the yacht's big searchlight.

At Ranny's request the captain also dispatched a sailor to arouse Clay Varick, Ranny's chum.

"There's no use in rousing the whole company," said Captain Marty. "We've serious enough work ahead without a lot of old women, male and female, getting under our feet."

Captain Marty kept his eyes glued to the end of the long, powerful finger of light that he poked far and wide over the black waters.

"Mighty grim business for us if they go down," commented Captain Marty. "We'll be up for murder!"

Meanwhile, the storm continued to grow and there was no sign, wherever the searchlight probed, of the castaways.

CHAPTER XIII.

Joan had been filled with quick terror when first Abner had cut their boat adrift. She had seen the men carrying Abner to the deck, had stealthily followed and watched what they had done with him, and then, upon understanding his punishment, her original intention had been merely to share his humiliation as a public gesture of protest, and of scornful defiance of Ranny.

She had not counted upon any thing so realistic as this, however, anything quite so foolish as being cut adrift.

She feared at first that Abner must have gone crazy to do such an obviously hare-brained stunt—even after she had pleaded with him to desist.

But when Abner presented to her a countenance unmistakeably quite sane, and a plan and a reason modelled quite after her own style of defiance, she was mollified and reassured.

"Montauk Light's still in sight," explained Abner, "and I'll row for it. We'll show that crowd that we're not lightly to be made puppets and fools of! Throw a bit of a scare into them, too, because I know perfectly well that if anything had happened to me—or to us—they would be criminally responsible."

He had to yell to make himself heard above the wind.

Joan, listening, began to feel romantic and self-confident about the matter then.

She had not suspected this streak of adventure and strength in Abner.

Indeed, Abner had not suspected it himself. What he had done, he had done upon a mad impulse.

But his sudden and reckless eruption of daring now started to evaporate as swiftly as the distance between the dory and the yacht stern lengthened—and that meant at lightning speed.

For with the snapping of the towline, the riders in the dory had the sensation of being suddenly snatched up and rushed away in the darkness, while the yacht stood still.

In no time at all the stern lantern had flickered out in the darkness; the yacht was lost to view from the tiny tender.

Awkwardly, Abner unshipped the dory's oars and set them in the tholes.

He strove to turn the dory and row towards the distant beacon, on the san cliff of Montauk Point, which glawei through the murk like a dying ember.

The elements conspired to make sport of Abner's puny efforts. As Joan's eyes became accustomed to the darkness, she could dimly make out the weak futility of his efforts.

"What's the matter with you?" she called sharply. "You fuss like a girl. You'll have to put a little muscle into it if you expect to make shore."

"I'm using every bit of strength I have, but—but—"

"London"—Made In, Around and About Limehouse!

The unique hero and villain of Dorothy Gish's latest Paramount starring vehicle, "London," which opens at the Capitol on Monday, is a dual role, played by the great gray city itself, according to Thomas Burke, noted author of "Limehouse Nights" and Herbert Wilcox, the director. The picture was produced in the English metropolis by British National Pictures, Ltd.

"She is mother and mistress, tryant and benefactor, saint and devil to the millions of fortunate or hapless humans who are drawn into the swirling vortex of her life," says Mr. Wilcox. "The idea of dramatizing the city's personality was suggested to use by Mr. S. R. Kent, general manager of Famous Players-Lasky Corporation during his recent European visit. Thomas Burke, who knows London as do few men, was retained to write the story.

"The human characters are a girl of the Limehouse slums, played by Miss Gish, and a youth of fashionable Mayfair. Out into the mystic city night they go on their quest for happiness;—the girl blindly seeking a love she has never known; the youth, hating the restrictions of wealth and daring adventure in the heart of the underworld. It was Mr. Burke's idea to portray the influence of environment on the individual,—as when the starving girl falters among the women who prowl the Thames Embankment; and when the boy is tempted by the fashionable women of Soho."

The film portrays many interesting and historic features of the mother of modern cities. There are to be seen the Houses of Parliament, Convent Garden, Petticoat Lane, murderous London Tower and its bridge, Trafalgar Square, the old Opera House, the National Sporting Club, where peer and commoner revel in pugilistic orgies; Rotten Row, Limehouse Reach, and many other places famous the world over, all of which give expression to the individuality of a city that for ages has endured despite countless wars, pestilences, fires and the annihilating forces of nature. With the single exception of Miss Gish, the cast is entirely English.

AT THE GRAND.

BEAU GESTE

Those who are but occasional patrons of the movie art as well as the others who give themselves a regular diet of screen entertainment are likely to be equally enthusiastic in their praises of "Beau Geste," the picturization of Major Wren's striking novel, seen at the Grand last night. "Beau Geste" rates as one of the feature productions of the past year and deservedly so, for its intensely interesting story, the deftness with which its character types are sketched, the superb acting of a thoroughly adequate cast, and fine work by the camera man make it an offering of unusual merit.

Its popularity in a market flooded with screen productions based on sex appeal and flapperish flapdoodle is perhaps not as surprising as at first it might seem. There must be multitudes of people everywhere who are tired of such film fodder and who are ready to welcome a picture that gets away from the eternal triangle, and has no place for sheiks and shebas. "Beau Geste" is such a picture. Woven around the great love of three brothers for one another, a love so strong that none hesitates to sacrifice himself for the rest, the story is a vividly intriguing glimpse of the life of the French Foreign Legion, that force of "hard-boiled" exiles from all parts of the globe who "by the world forgotten," seek oblivion and adventure fighting in Northern Africa under the Tri-color.

The three Gestes, "Beau", Digby and John, don't preach the slogan of the "Three Musketeers," "One for all, and all for one," but they practice it. And thus when a fabulously valuable jewel disappears and suspicion falls on the trio, each charges himself with the crime to shield the others, and all three leave England and join the Foreign Legion. What happens to these three forms the main action of the picture, and provides an opportunity for some of the most striking episodes that the screen has portrayed. The defence of a fort against the Arab hordes, with the garrison steadily dwindling but with dead men shoved into the embrasures of the fort to deceive the attackers will long be remembered.

The death of "Beau," and the sacrifice made by John to give the remaining brother a chance to return to the girl waiting for him in England, are outstanding features that strike home.

"Beau Geste" is magnificently acted. The selection of Ronald Colman for the role of "Beau," was a happy one. In this clean-cut manly part, Colman does some of the best work of his career, but he has to share honors with Noah Beery, whose picture of the brutal Sergeant-Major Lajaune is one of his finest efforts. It is a great part and Beery's ability to play such roles—often proven—has never been more forcibly demonstrated. Neil Hamilton, Norman Trevor, Ralph Forbes, William Powell, Alice Joyce and May Brian are other featured members of the cast who contribute striking performances.

"Beau Geste" is one of the pictures that should be seen. These are only a few of the scores turned out each year that can be so described, and Peterborough people who were not present last night should not miss the opportunity offered by the final showing of the film at the Grand tonight.—F.D.C.

AT THE REGENT

ANNA Q. NILSSON PLAYS MAN'S ROLE IN "MISS NOBODY"

Anna Q. Nilsson is seen in one of the most unusual roles of her career in "Miss Nbody," showing at the Regent Theatre here n Monday next.

The beautiful First National star takes the port of a hobo in "Miss Nobody." She wars mannish clthes thrughout the major portion of the picture.

"Miss Nobody" is an adaptation of the celebrated Tiffany Well's novel, "Shebo," which achieved great success both in book and serial form. Shebo, as the heroine is called, disguises herself as a tramp in order to evade the unwelcome attentions of an admirer.

Lambert Hillyer who directed Miss Nobody has made the episodes of tramp life quite authentic. Six genuine Knights of the Road were engaged by the director to act in the picture as well as to give expert advice.

The four principal male actors in "Miss Nobody" grew long beards for their part in the picture. Walter Pidgeon, who plays opposite Miss Nilsson, grew the longest crop of whiskers ,with Arthur Stone, Mitchell Lewis and Clyde Cooke close runners up, or runners down.

During the screening of "Miss Nobody in one of the mountainous districts of California, Miss Nilsson narrowly escaped being bitten by a deadly rattlesnake, which prepared to strike at her as she rolled down a railway embankment.

The snake was killed however and now the star is wearing shoes made out of its skin.

Celebrating the Most Significant Record in Motor Car History

When public opinion takes hold of a product like the Chrysler and in three years' time lifts it over the heads of twenty-three other long established cars—from twenty-seventh place in volume in the industry to fourth place—the significance of the act is almost too plain to require analysis.

It can only mean, of course, that people have found in the Chrysler qualities and values they did not find elsewhere.

In the four great quality car fields throughout the world, people have preferred Chrysler to long established cars of both lower and higher price, sensing in Chrysler engineering, design, beauty, performance and long life, elements of progressiveness which inspired them to invest in Chrysler products the staggering total of five hundred and thirty millions of dollars ($530,000,000) in three years' time.

It is an inspiring tribute of public confidence—one which fills Walter P. Chrysler and his organization with a deep and serious sense of responsibility for the future.

It is their determination so rigidly to apply the Chrysler principle of Standardized Quality that fourth place in the industry will be merely a temporary stopping place—a momentary pause on the way to the higher place they will earnestly try to deserve in public esteem.

LECTURE GIVEN ON HUDSON BAY

Archdeacon Renison Delivers Address To Women's Canadian Club.

SPEAKS ON ROMANCE.

"The Romance of Hudson Bay" was the interesting subject chosen as the basis of his address to the Women's Canadian Club yesterday afternoon by Venerable Archdeacon Renison, D.D., of the Church of the Ascension in Hamilton. The meeting, which was held in the auditorium of the Public Library, was well attended, and was presided over by Mrs. J. Forbes Allan, who voiced the hearty appreciation of the listeners at the conclusion of a chatty, informal sort of address, delivered in a charming, beautifully-modulated voice that added immensely to the interest of the words.

"There never was a time in the history of Canada when there was more need of a Canadian Club than at the present time," said the Archdeacon. "With all due respect to the various organizations which carry Christianity into their daily lives, I almost regret that they have absorbed much of the spirit engendered by the old Men's Canadian Club."

Saying that much of the Canadian history taught in the schools was of the constitutional type only, the speaker went on to allude to the latent romance in Canadian history, and proceeded to give an outline of the rise and formation of the great Hudson Bay Company, from the time when Hendrik Hudson first made his famous voyage of discovery, to the period, half a century later, when Pierre Radisson, whom he termed the "real founder of the Hudson Bay Company," was kidnapped by Indians and then adopted by the chief's wife, to spend nearly three years with the tribes, learn their language and become acquainted with their customs. Later, when he escaped and heard of the great European demand for the furs of the North American Continent, he embarked on a fur-trading expedition among the Indians, returning in 1658 with three hundred canoes and seven hundred Indians and the greatest cargo of raw furs that was ever brought into Montreal. Here the greedy Intendant seized the furs and then, seeking redress, the brave Radisson and his cousin went to the Court of France, where, through the good offices of the English ambassador, they received letters of introduction to Prince Rupert in London. Armed with a Royal commission, they set sail across the Atlantic in two small ships, the "Eaglet" and the "Nonsuch," and established the first trading post at Hudson Bay. To the company, headed by Prince Rupert, cousin of King Charles Second, was given a vast territory on the shores and littoral of the Bay, in an area twelve hundred miles long and five hundred miles wide, with a Bay coast line extending thirty-five hundred miles.

But Radisson was not treated well by the company. He was granted a pay of only about one hundred pounds a year, and at thirty years of age, he left the company, went back to New France, and later, in a wooden sailing vessel, sailed around the coast of Labrador and, landing at Fort York, captured the Fort and sent the British residents back to England. Coming down some time afterwards with a cargo of furs to Montreal, these were again seized by the French, and, in despair, Radisson went to England and once more offered his services to the company, which were accepted. When he died, his widow was given a gratuity of ten pounds by the company.

Digressing here, the Archdeacon referred to several oddities in the Indian tongue, encountered during his stay at Hudson Bay, when he traced the sources of several of the words in the Indian language, finding that the "wadja?" of the Indians came down from the "what cheer?" of the British sailors, three hundred years back, and that the Indian word for "trousers" was a corruption of the English word of "breeches."

The speaker also outlined the adventures of Henry Kelsey, a "wharf rat of the London docks," who came out to Canada at fourteen years of age and enlisted in the service of the Hudson Bay Company. Here, he was lashed by the governor for disobedience of orders and ran away to live with the Indians, coming back two years later with accounts of discovery of the great Northern land where the buffalo roamed and the Blackfeet lived. Once again, the governor reaped the reward of this exploit, while Kelsey "was taken into the service of the company and given an opportunity to do something more."

To Samuel Hearn, the London accountant whose health sent him to Canada and who later penetrated two thousand miles north of the Churchill in his search for the fabled Eskimo "mountain of copper," to Alexander Mackenzie, who discovered the Arctic Ocean, and was docked by the company on account of being absent from his duties, and who later made the first overland trip to the Pacific Ocean, the speaker referred briefly, also mentioning the names of Sir George Simpson and Lord Strathcona as pioneers in the history of Canada.

Mrs. Allan, speaking at the conclusion of Archdeacon Renison's address, reminded the members of the forthcoming address to be given by Miss Warren of London, England, whose lecture on "Old London" will be illustrated by lantern slides made from water color sketches by the speaker, who was at one time a pupil of John Ruskin.

MRS. YOUNG LEAVES FOR CALIFORNIA

Has Special Credentials From Ontario Government For Journey.

TORONTO, Jan. 29.—'Mid the cheers of a crowd of onlookers and the flares of flashlights which indicated that photographers were on hand, Mrs. Janes Young, mother of George Young, winner of the Catalina Channel swim, left the Union Station last night to join her now world-famous son in California. Miss Isabella Young, George's aunt, accompanied his mother on the journey.

Mrs. Young left Toronto on a C.P.R. train at 6.25 p.m. and will travel on that line to Chicago. There she will board a train on the Santa Fe Line which will convey her to her destination. On the latter line Mrs. Young and Miss Young will travel in a drawing room car. They will spend to-day in Chicago.

When George Young's mother and aunt travel in the United States they will receive the courtesies which credentials from the Ontario Government command. At the instigation of Attorney General Price, an official credential letter was issued from the Parliament Buildings yesterday by Police Commissioner Williams. As a general rule such letters are issued only to persons who are engaged upon official Government business, and they represent the "open sesame" to all the special consideration and attentiveness which United States officials can furnish. Under the auspices of such credentials travelers have a genuine distinction in the eyes of United States officials.

The Ontario Government further interested itself yesterday in Mrs. Young's visit by telephoning to Detroit to enlist the co-operation of the American immigration authorities in securing an easy crossing of the boundary line. The co-operation was readily promised, the American authorities declaring that Mrs. Young and her sister would experience no difficulties whatever in entering the country, and that they would cross at Detroit without experiencing any of the possible vexations of official "red tape."

ANGLICANS VETO RESOLUTION ON CHINA SITUATION

Cause Abandonment of Vote Urging British To Give Up Concessions.

SOCIAL SERVICE.

Council Divides Into Two Camps On Vote By Clauses.

CALGARY, Jan. 29. Canadian Press. — The annual meeting of the Social Service Council of Canada was disrupted yesterday when a resolution on the Chinese situation, urging that the concessions held by the British and other powers in China and the rights of extra territorialityshould be withdrawn or abandoned, was vetoed by the Anglican delegates.

When the resolution was first introduced the Anglican Church delegates immediately voiced their opposition and declared their intention of vetoing the resolution by constitutional means.

The vote was taken and the resolution carried, but was thrown out because of the Anglicon section exercising its right of veto.

The meeting was divided into two camps, the Anglican, led by Canon Vernon, Toronto and the other headed by Dr. T. Albert Moore and Dr. Hugh Dobson.

Voting on the resolution clause by clause, the Anglicans voted solidly against each of them and were supported in each case by representatives of the Salvation Army.

Dr. T. Albert Moore, supporting the resolution, said that the people of Canada looked to the ministers of the church for guidance in matters of this kind, and that the Council might well express their views on this important question for the benefit of those who look to the church for leadership. Expression of opinion from an organization of this kind, he thought, would strengthen the government at Ottawa and enable the general public to understand the situation better.

ROADS DEPUTY RESIGNS OFFICE

S. L. Squires Leaves Highways Department For Private Position.

SMITH SUCCEEDS.

TORONTO, Jan. 29.—The resignation of S. L. Squire from the position of Deputy Minister of Highways under the Ontario Government was announced yesterday at the Parliament Buildings by Hon. George S. Henry. The announcement came as rather a surprise in administrative circles, since Mr. Squire in his enthusiasm for the cause of good roads in the Province was believed to be firmly wedded to his duties. The original task of re-organizing the Roads Department which called him to the position, however, has now been practically completed, and it was stated that he was yielding finally to pressure to enter the more lucrative field of commercial life. His place as Deputy Minister will be taken temporarily by R. M. Smith, Chief Engineer in the Highways Department.

In connection with the resignation of his deputy, Hon. Mr. Henry issued the following explanatory statement, appreciatory of his services:

Mr. Henry's Tribute

"When I assumed the duties of Minister of Public Highways in this Province some three and a half years ago, I found a young department whose zeal for construction seemed to have outrun its discretion, as far as economy and efficiency were concerned. I found it necessary to bring in a new Deputy Minister. I had known Mr. S. L. Squire for many years in road propaganda and otherwise, and knew of his abilities as an administrator and his knowledge of highway needs. I finally prevailed on him to take the position, although he had been offered many positions which were more attractive from a monetary standpoint. We have worked harmoniously together since October, 1923, and any success we have had in improving the administration of the Department is due in a great measure to Mr. Squire as an important part of our organization. Frequently, during the last three years he has asked me to relieve him of his responsibilities, as he has had from time to time attractive offers from large financial concerns. I felt that I could not afford to lose him until our reorganization had proved itself. Now he is leaving the service, intending to take up other activities in the business world which will be more profitable to him personally. In addition to his work as Deputy Minister of Highways, he served me as Deputy Minister of Public Works for one year, when we were making certain changes in the Department and improving its administration. I have asked R. M. Smith, who has been Chief Engineer in the Highway Department for the last year, to assume the duties of Acting Deputy Minister for the present."

Mr. Squire is joining the directorate of the Imperial Varnish and Color Company of Toronto, to take charge of sales promotion.

Wheat Prices Lower On News From Abroad

CHICAGO, Jan. 29 (Canadian Press) — Wheat tended downward early to-day, chiefly owing to a sag in Liverpool quotations. Larger offerings from Australia and word that Indian drought conditions had been broken were bearish factors. Starting at 1-8 cents to 3-8c off, Chicago wheat showed only slight power to rally. Corn and oats were easier and provisions firm, with corn opening at 1-8 to 1-4 to 3-8c decline and then holding near to initial figures.

Opening prices were: Wheat, May 141 5-8; July 132 3-8. Corn, May 81, July 84 1-4. Oats, May 48 1-4, July 47 7-8.

Distillery Stocks Feature Firm Market At Toronto

TORONTO, Jan. 29. Canadian Press. — Hiram Walker and other distillery and brewery issues were leaders in an active market on the Toronto stock exchange to-day. Seagram's strength was also a notable feature of the generally firm market. Hiram Walker climbed up 1 5-8 at 36 7-8 and Seagram's climbed to a new high of 19 1-8, a gain of 1 3-8; British American oil moved up to 91. 1-2 higher, and Gooderham and Worts joined the upturn with a gain of 1, at 47 1-4. The strength of City Dairy was notable in the regular list, Dairy moving up 5 1-2 at 91 1-2. British Columbia Fishing softened 1 at 86 and Brazilian sold down 1 3-4 at 113.

Mine Prices Firmer; Market More Active

TORONTO, Jan. 29. Canadian Press. — Prices turned definitely firmer on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day with an increase in trading. Amulet and Castle Trethewey were among the leaders in the general recovery and few weak spots were shown. Amulet gained three at 160 and Castle Trethewey sold up 12 at 117, while Area was up three at 55, and Canadian Lorraine was 6 higher at 67; Keely firmed 4 at 161, and Nipissing 10 at 9.75. Teck Hughes at 5.80 was 5 higher. Vipond softened 3 at 166.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29 (Canadian Press)—The New York Stock Exchange to-day began an investigation into the circumstances surrounding the recent sensational advance in the common stock of Wheeling and Lake Erie Railroad, which is believed to have cost bear speculators more than $2,000,000.

CURRENT LOANS SHOW GREAT ADVANCE

Profits Greatest in Years. The Dominion Bank Report to Shareholders Reflects Good Business

Improved business conditions, increased commercial activity and the general prosperity of the Canadian people was clearly indicated in the 56th Annual Statement of the Dominion Bank which was submitted to the Shareholders at the Annual Meeting on Wednesday, the 26th instant.

The Statement shows profits for the year at $1,259,276.65, with the single exception of 1920, the largest profits in the Bank's history, and $102,000, greater than at December 31, 1925.

After paying the usual dividends and bonus amounting to $780,000., $45,000. was contributed to Officers' Pension Fund, $166,000. was provided for Dominion and Provincial taxation, while $200,000. was written off Bank Premises Account—$100,000 more than last year and $1,032,554.02 carried forward to Profit and Loss. The balance standing in this account has been increased during the year by $68,256,000. The splendid increase in deposits, bearing interest, is another satisfactory item in the statement. Total deposits are shown at $98,860,580.04, an improvement of over $2,600,000. compared with the previous year's statement. Interest bearing deposits show an increase of over $2,500,000. standing in the statement as $79,790,232.11.

No feature of the report give better evidence of improved activity in business than the figures in Currenet Loans which are over $56,700,000., having made a notable expansion of more than $6,000,000.

Previous statements issued by the Dominion Bank have always clearly indicated a strong liquid position This is also a feature of the present report. Cash assets stand at $24,601,159.95, or 22.35 percent of liabilities to the public and liquid assests at $60,014,343.53, 54.50 per cent of liabilities to the public. In addition, the Bank holds in Dominion, Provincial and other securities over $22,900,000.

The statement throughout is a particularly satisfactory one as it not only reflects greater activity through Canadian business channels but in addition makes it clear that the Bank is in a position to support sound business development and produce increased profits for its Shareholders.

POLISH OFFICIALS TO DISCUSS LOAN

Official Purpose Given, However, As Reply To Finance Expert.

WARSAW, Jan. 29.—Vice-Governor Minarski, of the Bank of Poland, and two officials of the Finance Ministry left yesterday for the United States, officially to give the Polish Government's reply to Prof. Edwin W. Kemmerer, of Princton, regarding the financial reforms introduced as a result of his advice. It seems certain, however, that the real object of their trip is to continue negotiations for a $200,000,000 loan which already has been discussed with J. P. Morgan and Company. It is understood the Polish Government will not deal with Dillon, Read and Company, alleging that firm's flotation of the last Polish loan in America was not satisfactory.

Whatever is happening in the rest of the country, and despite the threatened coming to this city of the Cantonese armies, Shanghai at present is surprisingly quiet and normal. The coming of the first detachment of British Indian troops on Thursday somewhat relieved local tension, although several strikes continue and transport facilities are crippled.

Despite frequent sights of barbed wire barricades and exhibitions of forces such as the Punjabs marching through the streets, the life of the average Shanghai foreigner is much as usual. The clubs are daily, and the cinemas, cabarets, and dancing halls nightly thronged.

Possibilities of the near future, however, are almost the sole topic of conversation.

PEKING, Jan. 29 (United Press).—The spokesman for the Nationalist Government at Hangchow today characterized reports that the Chinese had tampered with British diplomatic correspondence as "contemptible lies."

MODERN POETS ARE DISCUSSED

Prof. Pratt Continues Series of Lectures on English Literature.

Some of the modern English poets were referred to by Professor A. E. Pratt of Victoria University, Toronto, in his lecture at the Y.W.C.A. last evening. There was a good attendance at the lecture, which was presided over by Miss Margaret Hamilton, president of the Y.W.C.A. board of directors, and the same keen, intent appreciation of the address that has marked all the meetings in this series was vouchsafed to Professor Pratt, who has the happy faculty of enlisting the attention of his hearers at the beginning of his lecture, and keeping it to the last word. His is a very pleasing manner of presenting the beauties of literature, and his discourses are brief enough to make his hearers wish for just a little bit more at their conclusion.

Walter Delamere and William H. Davis were first referred to, as English poets of the type which might be described as "spiritualistic, or idealistic, or ethereal," as opposed to the philosophic realism of men like Hardy and Masefield and Housman. The function of such ethereal poets is to write poetry which has been defined as stating things "not heard, but overheard," and to suggest rather than state facts. Their's is a poetry derived from the "hinterland of dreams, the world of the mystic, where much use is made of symbols, "a world that teases and haunts us, a shadow place of twilight atmosphere and of echoes broken by weird cries, where we are sensible of shadows rather than of the crass, material facts of existence."

In illustration of this magical quality, Professor Pratt read the odd composition entitled "The Listeners," by Delamere, with its peculiar atmosphere of shadowy listening forms on the stairs of the empty house; and gave a good example of his artistic work in children's songs, in "Tired Tim."

William H. Davies, a man who stayed for some time in this vicinity while engaged in his experiment in tramp life, during the course of which he lost a leg while trying to board a moving train, is the author of "The Autobiography of a Super Tramp," and brought his work to the attention of the British public by the odd method of issuing a cheap little volume of verses which he mailed to numerous celebrities, requesting them to return it if they did not like it, or to send him half a crown, if they did. A copy of the book fell into the hands of George Bernard Shaw, who was much enthused at once over the work of the author, and wrote the preface for the "Autobiography," which was followed by "Latter Days." Professor Pratt quoted from Davies' poem, "Leisure" and from "Rich Days," and related the incident in which the author fell foul of the patronizing attitude of Max Beerbohm, to record the whole circumstance later in his book and cause Beerbohm to become the target of much criticism on its account.

Ralph Hodgson's "Eve" was quoted, as an example of the modernistic poetical treatment of age-old stories which have always been looked upon as subjects of Miltonic interpretation of the sublime order, and was contrasted with Meredith's "Lucifer" and the Stars" in this way. "Time, You Old Gypsy Man," was another of the works of this poet which was much enjoyed in its quotation by the speaker.

Robert Graves, who, with Sassoon and Nicholls, were a war-time trio of poets dubbed as "The Rhyming Musketeers," was quoted in a wonderful little bit of powerful war-days verse, in the haunting measures of "It's a Queer Time," and the whimsical spirit of moderns was again invoked in his "A Dialogue Between the Stars." Apropos of this type of verse, the speaker alluded to Burns as the only British author who had ever departed from the Miltonic tradition of grave regard for other-world celebrities in his verse, when he wrote of the devil as being a close friend, and whispering in his ear. In Grave's "Dialogue Between the Stars" the celestrial orbs are described as haveing a very ordinary sort of conversation about the cold and kindred matters.

Sir Henry Newbolt's poem "Drake's Drum" was quoted and Alfred Noyes' "Barrel Organ," as further examples of the work of modern English poets.

An enjoyable musical programme was rendered prior to the lecture with a vocal solo, "I wonder if Love is a Dream," by Miss Jean Padgett, with accompaniment by Miss Isabel McKee, and two descriptive Norwegian numbers, Griegs "Norwegian Bridal Procession," and "To the Rising Sun," by Torjussen, played by Miss McKee.

MAHARAJAH LOSES VALUABLE JEWELS

Indian Prince Robbed of Gems Worth $400,000—Two Men Held.

CALCUTTA, Jan. 29 (United Press). — Jewels set in hammered gold, long the playthings of the Maharajah of Bharatpur, who valued them at approximately $400,000, have been spirited away from his many turreted palaces.

A report of the huge jewel theft was made in all parts of the district in which Bharatpur is located, and police in all the large cities of India were asked to co-operate in a search for the thieves. A few of the jewels were recovered when a Eurasian and an Indian, believed to have been former attendants at the Bharatpur court, were arrested here.

TWO OUTSTANDING TOURS.

It has been truly said that "Travel is a liberal education" and this expression was never so true as it is today. The whole world, so to speak, has been made easy to access by transportation systems, by rail, ocean, automobile and aeroplane. While the advantages of travel are now available to the many instead of the few, the refinements of modern railroad transportation and the exacting requirements of the modern traveller as regards his creature comfort have combined to make the detailed arrangements of an extensive tourist trip rather complex. Every traveller making a vacation trip wishes to derive the utmost benefit in pleasure and education and to spend as little time as possible arranging its many details, the itinerary and train connections, securing sleeping car, steamer, and hotel reservations, etc. He desires also to make the best possible use of the time available by the inclusion of the most important and worth-while attractions and above all, to know how much it will cost.

All this is done for you in the "Personally Conducted All-Expense Tours", which have become so popular with the Canadian public, the best known and most popular being the splendid tours operated via the Canadian National Railways, under the direction of Mr. Martin Kerr, B.A. (4 Beulah Ave., Hamilton, Ont.) and Mr. A. E. Bryson (44 Silverthorn Ave., Toronto, Ont.) of the Kerr-Bryson Tours. Two more such tours are anounced for July, 1927,—one from Toronto through the Canadian West to the Pacific Coast, including Wainwright Park, Jasper National Park, the Triangle Tour, Vancouver and Victoria, B.C., returning through the United States via Yellowstone Park, Salt Lake City, Denver, Colorado Springs, Pike's Peak and Chicago. The other from Toronto east to Montreal, Quebec, Ste. Anne de Beaupre, the Saguenay River, the Maritime Provinces, Saint John, N.B., Prince Edward Island, the Bras d'Or Lakes, Halifax, N.S., Land of Evangeline, Annapolis Valley, Boston, Mass., and finally Ottawa, the capital of the Dominion. Descriptive booklets of both these tours will be available very shortly and in the meantime further information may be secured from any Canadian National Railways agent or from the organizers.

If you have not previously been interested in these tours, it is well worth your while to enquire about them; they will solve your vacation problem. 22-22-29

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

CORNS

Lift Off—No Pain!

Doesn't hurt one bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers.

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the foot calluses, without soreness or irritation.

In a very close game the Peterboro Juniors held the Lakefield youngsters to a 2 all score in the first fixture of a two-game series for the championship of Group 2 in the Lakefield ice box last night.

It was a poor exhibition of hockey but both teams are fast skaters and very hard checkers. One feature of the game was the condition of the Lakefield boys who played the sixty minutes without using their only sub. In the last period the strain was telling on the Red and White team as they showed signs of fatigue and slowed up badly especially Sherrin, who was the star of the team on the first two periods of play.

The Petes were not much better off for subs, although they took two along with them. Bob Allin, who had started off playing a fine game on the defence, was struck over the eye early in the first period and was not able to go back on the ice. White was put back on defence, but that is not his position, and he failed to star, as he has in previous games.

On the night's play the Lakefield boys had the edge, but they lacked a finish around the mouth of the nets which lost them many goals especially in the second period when the play was mostly in Peterboro territory.

Penalties were numerous on both sides, especially in the second period when the play was, to put it in a mild way, rather rough. One thing both teams have to learn is that the way to score and to win games is not through the penalty box.

Junkin in goal for Lakefield played a wonderful game and made some very spectacular saves. Mein seemed to have an off night, as most goalkeepers and players do, and the first goal scored against him appeared to be a very easy one. But his work in the third period more than excused him for this goal that was let in.

Lakefield showed plenty of speed and hard backchecking, but they failed to take advantage of their openings. They scored their first goal with only three men on the ice.

The game was well handled by Bert McLeod and when the boys did start giving the crowd thrills they soon were chased to the penalty box. Lakefield are a much lighter team, practically in every position, but on the small ice surface they seemed to be able to get away faster. Both teams to a certain extent bunched around the puck and thus breakaways were very few and far between.

Sherrin, who played defence for the Lakefield team, was the best player on the ice. His break-aways were fast and he is a fine stickhandler and defence player. Lefty White, who was subbing, was put on in Bob Allin's place when the latter was hurt, and this change seemed to disorganize the Peterboro defence. Jones played a fine game in centre, but on account of the small ice surface, the Petes failed to get their combination working, and this player was not as effective as he was in the games with Lindsay. Ted LeBarr was always dangerous in his rushes.

The ice was not best best for good hockey as it was rather sticky and when these two teams meet on a larger ice surface, the game is sure to be fast and furious.

The Game

The Petes got off to a good start and in one minute of play Kenneally had seized the puck from in front of the Peterboro goal and, carrying it up the left boards, he sent it home from the blue line. Jones and Lawless then started a little scrap of their own, and both were chased for two minutes. Before their time was up, E. Wannamaker was chased. In a face-off on the blue line in front of the Peterboro goal, Hamblin flipped the puck in the left corner of the Peterboro net. This goal appeared a very easy one and was rather a gift to Lakefield. The play was up and down the ice for the remaining part of the period.

The score remained one all throughout the second period, but in this frame the blue and white net guardian was called upon to make many saves, and more than once the defence were beaten but there was no one on hand to take the pass from the wing player and thus many good opportunities were missed for Lakefield to score. In this period there were many penalties; Jones and Lawless were chased for the second time when they got arguing with their sticks. E. Wannamaker, White, Calladine, Sherrin and Kenneally were all sent to the box before the period was over.

The third period broke very fast with both teams checking for all their might, but it was not long before the Lakefield boys began to slow up on account of no subs being used. A scrap developed between LeBarr and Lawless, and both players went to the box. White soon scored after saving the puck from the Peterboro blue line, he carried it into the Lakefield defence and after some checking he shot it into the left corner of the net. Pat Calladine then made a fine rush but he was tripped by Sherrin, who by this time was quite willing to get a rest in the penalty box. White soon was given a penalty, and while he was off Lakefield scored their second goal; this was a well earned one, as the Red and White boys were giving an exhibition of offensive hockey and were carrying the play right into the Peterboro territory time after time.

On Tuesday night these two teams meet again on the Broc's Street Rink for the second and final game of the series. The game is sure to be full of thrills to the fans and those who go to see it are promised to see two of the fastest teams meet on the home ice that have appeared here for some time.

CHAMPIONS DEFEAT REGULAR FELLOWS

"Rink Rats" Victors in First Game of Midget City League.

The first game of the City Midget League took place at the Mark street rink last evening when the "Rink Rats," last year's city champions, had as visitors "The Regular Fellows."

The game was well contested, both teams giving a splendid exhibition of hockey.

The teams:

"Rink Rats": Goal, N. Calladine, defence, . Playford and W. Starr; centre, J. Ellis; left wing G. Merrett; right wing, F. McMahon; subs, G. Francis, H. Simpson.

"Regular Fellows": Goal, M. Anthony; defence, J. Houlihan and Carle; centre, Duffus; wings J. White and Archambault; subs, Reynolds and Fitzgerald; referee, J. Huard.

The scorers for the "Rink Rats" were Merrett 2, Ellis 1, Simpson 1. J. White was the scorer for the "Regular Fellows."

The next game in this series will be played at the Sacred Heart rink on Monday, Jan. 31, at 6.30 between the Rovers and the Canucks, Mr. J. Ward officiating.

HUGGINS OPPOSES DEAL WITH BROWNS

Doesn't Want to Trade Sam Jones and Beall.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29. — A proposal for the trading of Pitchers Sam Jones and Walter Beall of the Yankees to the Browns for Outfielder Cedric Durst and Pitcher Joe Giard, has been called off for the present at least.

Manager Miller Huggins of the Yankees, from St. Petersburg, Fla., wired Colonel Jacob Ruppert, owner of the club, advising against the trade.

The two clubs may resume negotiations at the schedule meeting of the American League next month, it is indicated at Yankee headquarters.

Inside Sporting Dope

By A Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, I suppose you was among them present at the hockey battle Thurs. night when our lads tangled with the Varsity Grads. I want to tell you right now that Mister Wright's gang come mighty close to grubbing off 2 points at the expense of them ex-students. If Mister Joe Dwyer hadn't of picked the moment the Petes had the Grads on the run to stage a near-fainting spell, the Varsity goose was cooked, for right then they was looking about as much at home as Ged. Young musta looked the 1st night he faced a theatre crowd. No foolin'. Them students was in the air, and I for 1 am sure that another couple minutes would have seen the Petes in front. But them's the breaks of the game, and Mister Smythe's boys got them in bunches, two. Lookat them 2 goofy goals Mister Porter scored. Mister Kane oughta get an assist on 1 and Mister Rose on the other, but the shots made Mister Dwyer look like a bum, especially to the short-sighted guys on the sidelines what never noticed how the rubber got into the nets. I met plenty which is ready to swear that Mister Porter's second shot went into the curtains direct when the low down is, the drive woulda cleared the net by plenty hadn't Mister Rose's stick turned it down and away from Mister Dwyer.

The defeat don't mean a lot, except that had the Petes win they'd been "in" for 2nd place, whereas now they gotta keep on battling for the berth.

Mister Wright's boys has a busy week ahead of them next week. Mon. night they buck into T.C.C. in Toronto, and the way them Paddlers has been performing they might just as well be called T.N.T. They ain't outa the running yet—in fact, if they throw a banana peel under Mister Joe Dwyer and his gang Mon., they'll be right in the picture—so the local talent don't need to figger they're going to have it all peaches and cream in this clash. They better take the Canoe Club serious or they'll wake up and find they've cut off a heap of trouble for themselves.

Wed. night, by way of a busman's holliday, the lads travel up to Lindsay to let the Scugog fans look them over in a exhibition game. Time was when a Peterboro team playing in Lindsay was a poor insurance risk—junior teams is right now—but this clash oughta to be a sociable sort of affair, with the Petes having a lotta fun trying to get their bearings on the Lindsay soap-box.

Then Fri. the gang back into another battle with the North Torontos, the last of the season with that gang, which the Petes has already beat 2 times, and should again, although Mister McFayden turns out a new team every night and they always put up a fight. The game is scheduled for Toronto, but the chances is it might be switched here, for the North Toronto team has got so nervous playing in a empty arena that they'd like to perform before some folks once and a while.

Mister Leburr's juniors will do their stuff before the home customers Tues. night when they entertain the boys from our northern suburb in the 2nd game for the group honours. This oughta to furnish a interesting evening for 1 and all. The local kids has been going nice, and if they don't put away the villagers and go into the next round I for 1 am willing to be called a heck of a picker. Whereas, as a matter of fact I might as well tell you that at 3 the other Sunday a.m. when I heard some radio announcer say that George Young was out in front 4 miles off the coast, I conceded the Toronto lad a good chance to grab off the Spearmint title. That's calling them, and how!

Well, anyway, Mac, we oughta to see a lotta good hockey yet before the red red robin comes abob bob bobbing around. The seniors is playing some real hockey for the home fans this season, and with them and the juniors still in there fighting it ain't a bad old world after all.

And by the time sticks is hung up it won't be long till May 18th—I think that's the day Mister Ferguson mentioned.

How forgetful of me. I forgot to mention that Mister Tommy Church, M.P., was among the visitors Thurs. night. The man who got the habit of being Mayor of Toronto, and who holds all handshaking records was a Varsity rooter, but such is fame—his procession down the ice received not a solitary cheer. Not 1 bird on the sidelines recognized the famous Tommy, who was so dejected at the absence of applause that he sat at the back of the penalty box for the rest of the evening. And yet some guy has the nerve to say that Peterboro is a suburb of Toronto. Imagine Mister Tommy Church being unknown in a Toronto suburb.

Anyway if Mayor Doc Halloway was to drop into the Toronto arena it ain't likely anybody would give a tinker to the fact that he was the bird what said Peterboro was a away head of Toronto in providing free rinks. So that makes it even.

Well, old-timer, they ain't nothing more I can think of, so I'll put on the breaks now.

Sportfully yours.
A. WISE CRACKER.

Rogers Hornsby, former manager of the world's champion St. Louis Cardinals, is reported to be the second highest-paid player in baseball. His two-year contract with the New York Giants, it is understood, will be close to $40,000 a year. Babe Ruth, of the Yankees, receives $52,000. Hornsby's first salary with the Cardinals is said to have been only $1800.

INTERMEDIATES LOSE IN OSHAWA IN FINAL GAME

Group Leaders Forced To Fight For Every Goal They Get.

SCORE 5-1.

Work of LeBarr in Nets Features Play of Visiting Team.

OSHAWA, Ont., Jan. 29 (Special) —Peterborough Wanderers, one of the added entries to the Lakeshore O.H.A. intermediate group of this year, provided the opposition to Walter Lett's Oshawa intermediates in their final group game on home ice played at Bradley's arena on Friday evening, and were defeated by five goals to one. Oshawa fans are now roarin' to go on the special train which is to carry the team and supporters to Port Hope on Monday evening, where they expect to go over the top and gain group honors at the expense of Peter Brown and Hill's sextette.

Despite the victory of the Oshawa Lett clan over the Wanderers in the Lift Lock city by seven to two in their first start of the group schedule on January 5, a good crowd was out at the Motor City Duke Street arena to see the game, and the cash customers got more than they expected for their money, as every goal scored by the Oshawa crew was earned and the goalkeeping by LeBarr was the best seen of any visiting goalie for this season, he being responsible for the low score of the Lett gang.

The first period was featured by close checking by both teams, and as a result neither forward line was able to get working properly. The first goal of the game came ten minutes after the start, when Lowe of the Oshawa defence rushed down the ice, passed to Rowden, and in a quick return Lowe slipped the disc past LeBarr. A few moments after the face-off Avery, the former Bowmanville player, bulged the nets on a solo effort, and when the first rest came the score was: Peterboro 0, Oshawa 2.

In the second twenty minutes play opened up and clever hockey was displayed by both teams, with Peterboro trying hard to get in the scoring column, but what got past the defence was always on the top. Lott, the Oshawa centre lad, notched the only counter of the period when he took a pass from Houck right in the mouth of goal, on which LeBarr never had a chance, and the total score when the bell rang for the second rest was: Peterboro 0, Oshawa 3.

Dundas, the wing player of the Petes, got the first counter of the final period and their only one of the game, when he drove one from the blue line that Smith in the Oshawa nets failed to get his lamps on. Houck got Oshawa's first of the period, and Rowden at right wing hit the twine for the second, and the game was over with the total score being: Peterboro 1, Oshawa 3.

The teams were:

Referee—Herb. Matthews, of Toronto.

Cavalry officers of the French army captured 248 cups in various horse shows in Canada, Belgium, England, France, Holland, Italy, Switzerland and the United States in 1926.

BRISTLING BATTLES OF BARE FIST DAYS

(MY LIFE STORY)

by Jack McAuliffe

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

I nearly died laughing when Billy Madden and I landed at North Judson, Ind., for my famous fight with Bill Myers, the Streator Cyclone. A gang of my friends were along with me and the Cyclone had a gang of friends too, and everywhere we went, walking up and down the streets of the city, the people slammed doors hurriedly in our faces and poked guns out of windows and ordered us to move on. They thought we were Chicago bandits raiding the town!

The fight was held Feb. 13, 1889. It was staged above a saloon and as I stood downstairs at the bar watching the attendance troop upstairs, I noticed a suspicious bulge over every mans hip. They were all packing guns. You can imagine how I felt, coming from the east, hearing all the stories about how tough the Chicago gangmen were, and then facing a dangerous man like the Cycylone.

Just before the fight I ate some jelly that had been soaked in sherry. The effect of the alcohol made me dizzy so when I clambered into the ring I saw four Cyclones in front of me and four times as many fists coming at me. There has been stories circulated that I was doped. They are not true.

Myers was a dangerous puncher and fought up to his nickname by tearing in and fighting at a fast and furious pace.

I stood back and stabbed him with my left. He lacked ring technique and I soon cut him to ribbons. In the fourth round I popped him on the jaw and he went down.

In the yelling and excitement the gang swarmed toward the ringside, leaning over and straining the ropes. My little gang was hopelessly outnumbered. They were led by Dick Roche, the famous gambler; Jimmy Colville, Ed Snapper Garrison, the great jockey; Jimmy McLoughlin, another jockey; Billy Donohue, who rode the first Suburban winner, and Ike Plout. They moved over and made a wall in back of me as I sat down between rounds.

Myers had recovered from the blow and arose in time to avoid a knockout.

In the fifth round I began to stab him again and he kept up his relentless rushing and wild swinging. He had a murderous punch. I thought if it ever lands my head will go sailing clean out the window.

In the eighth round he ducked awkwardly. I swung a hard right. I groaned inwardly, not daring letting him know what happened. I had broken my right arm!

NOTE—In the next chapter McAuliffe tells how he stood off the murderous Cyclone with one hand and how two bandits befriended him while robbing the gate.

In a very close game the Peterboro Juniors held the Lakefield youngsters to a 2 all score in the first fixture of a two-game series for the championship of Group 2 in the Lakefield ice box last night.

It was a poor exhibition of hockey but both teams are fast skaters and very hard checkers. One feature of the game was the condition of the Lakefield boys who played the sixty minutes without using their only sub. In the last period the strain was telling on the Red and White team as they showed signs of fatigue and slowed up badly especially Sherrin, who was the star of the team on the first two periods of play.

The Petes were not much better off for subs, although they took two along with them. Bob Allin, who had started off playing a fine game on the defence, was struck over the eye early in the first period and was not able to go back on the ice. White was put back on defence, but that is not his position, and he failed to star, as he has in previous games.

On the night's play the Lakefield boys had the edge, but they lacked a finish around the mouth of the nets which lost them many goals especially in the second period when the play was mostly in Peterboro territory.

Penalties were numerous on both sides, especially in the second period when the play was, to put it in a mild way, rather rough. One thing both teams have to learn is that the way to score and to win games is not through the penalty box.

Junkin in goal for Lakefield played a wonderful game and made some very spectacular saves. Mein seemed to have an off night, as most goalkeepers and players do, and the first goal scored against him appeared to be a very easy one. But his work in the third period more than excused him for this goal that was let in.

Lakefield showed plenty of speed and hard backchecking, but they failed to take advantage of their openings. They scored their first goal with only three men on the ice.

The game was well handled by Bert McLeod and when the boys did start giving the crowd thrills they soon were chased to the penalty box. Lakefield are a much lighter team, practically in every position, but on the small ice surface they seemed to be able to get away faster. Both teams to a certain extent bunched around the puck and thus breakaways were very few and far between.

Sherrin, who played defence for the Lakefield team, was the best player on the ice. His break-aways were fast and he is a fine stickhandler and defence player. Lefty White, who was subbing, was put on in Bob Allin's place when the latter was hurt, and this change seemed to disorganize the Peterboro defence. Jones played a fine game in centre, but on account of the small ice surface, the Petes failed to get their combination working, and this player was not as effective as he was in the games with Lindsay. Ted LeBarr was always dangerous in his rushes.

The ice was not best best for good hockey as it was rather sticky and when these two teams meet on a larger ice surface, the game is sure to be fast and furious.

The Game

The Petes got off to a good start and in one minute of play Kennealy had seized the puck from in front of the Peterboro goal and, carrying it up the left boards, he sent it home from the blue line. Jones and Lawless then started a little scrap of their own, and both were chased for two minutes. Before their time was up, E. Wannamaker was chased. In a face-off on the blue line in front of the Peterboro goal, Hamblin flipped the puck in the left corner of the Peterboro net. This goal appeared a very easy one and was rather a gift to Lakefield. The play was up and down the ice for the remaining part of the period.

The score remained one all throughout the second period, but in this frame the blue and white net guardian was called upon to make many saves, and more than once the defence were beaten but there was no one on hand to take the pass from the wing player and thus many good opportunities were missed for Lakefield to score. In this period there were many penalties; Jones and Lawless were chased for the second time when they got arguing with their sticks. E. Wannamaker, White, Calladine, Sherrin and Kennealy were all sent to the box before the period was over.

The third period broke very fast with both teams checking for all their might, but it was not long before the Lakefield boys began to slow up on account of no subs being used. A scrap developed between LeBarr and Lawless, and both players went to the box. White soon scored after saving the puck from the Peterboro blue line, he carried it into the Lakefield defence and after some checking he shot it into the left corner of the net. Pat Calladine then made a fine rush but he was tripped by Sherrin, who by this time was quite willing to get a rest in the penalty box. White soon was given a penalty, and while he was off Lakefield scored their second goal; this was a well earned one, as the Red and White boys were giving an exhibition of offensive hockey and were carrying the play right into the Peterboro territory time after time.

On Tuesday night these two teams meet again on the Brock Street Rink for the second and final game of the series. The game is sure to be full of thrills to the fans and those who go to see it are promised to see two of the fastest teams meet on the home ice that have appeared here for some time.

CHAMPIONS DEFEAT REGULAR FELLOWS

"Rink Rats" Victors in First Game of Midget City League.

The first game of the City Midget League took place at the Mark street rink last evening when the "Rink Rats," last year's city champions, had as visitors "The Regular Fellows."

The game was well contested, both teams giving a splendid exhibition of hockey.

The teams:

"Rink Rats": Goal, N. Calladine, defence, Playford and W. Starr; centre, J. Ellis; left wing G. Merrett; right wing, F. McMahon; subs, G. Francis, H. Simpson.

"Regular Fellows": Goal, M. Anthony; defence, J. Houlihan and Carle; centre, Duffus; wings J. White and Archambault; subs, Reynolds and Fitzgerald; referee, J. Huard.

The scorers for the "Rink Rats" were Merrett 2, Ellis 1, Simpson 1. J. White was the scorer for the "Regular Fellows."

The next game in this series will be played at the Sacred Heart rink on Monday, Jan. 31, at 6.30 between the Rovers and the Canucks, Mr. J. Ward officiating.

HUGGINS OPPOSES DEAL WITH BROWNS

Doesn't Want to Trade Sam Jones and Beall.

NEW YORK, Jan. 29. — A proposal for the trading of Pitchers Sam Jones and Walter Beall of the Yankees to the Browns for Outfielder Cedric Durst and Pitcher Joe Giard, has been called off for the present at least.

The two clubs may resume negotiations at the schedule meeting of the American League next month, it is indicated at Yankee headquarters.

Inside Sporting Dope

By A Wise Cracker

Mister Sporting Editor:

Well, Mac, I suppose you was among them present at the hockey battle Thurs. night when our lads tangled with the Varsity Grads. I want to tell you right now that Mister Wright's gang come mighty close to grabbing off 2 points at the expense of them x-students. If Mister Joe Dwyer hadn't of picked the moment the Petes had the Grads on the run to stage a near-fainting spell, the Varsity goose was cooked, for right then they was looking about as much at home as Geo. Young musta looked the 1st night he faced a theatre crowd. No foolin'. Them students was in the air, and I for 1 am sure that another couple minutes would have seen the Petes in front. But them's the breaks of the game, and Mister Smythe's boys got them in bunches, two. Lookat them 2 goofy goals Mister Porter snared. Mister Kane oughta get an assist on 1 and Mister Rose on the other, but the shots made Mister Dwyer look like a bum, especially to the short-sighted guys on the sidelines what never noticed how the rubber got into the nets. I met plenty which is ready to swear that Mister Porter's second shot went into the curtains direct when the low down in the drive would a cleared the net by plenty hadn't Mister Rose's stick turned it down and away from Mister Dwyer.

The defeat don't mean a lot, except that had the Petes win they'd been "in" for 2nd place, whereas now they gotta keep on battling for the berth.

Mister Wright's boys has a busy week ahead of them next week. Mon. night they buck into T.C.C. in Toronto, and the way them Paddlers has been performing they might just as well be called T.N.T. They ain't outa the running yet—in fact, if they throw a banana peel under Mister Joe Dwyer and his gang Mon., they'll be right in the picture—so the local talent don't need to figger they're going to have it all peaches and cream in this clash. They better take the Canoe Club serious or they'll wake up and find they've cut off a heap of trouble for themselves.

Wed. night, by way of a busman's holliday, the lads travel up to Lindsay to let the Seugog fans look them over in a exhibition game. Time was when a Peterboro team playing in Lindsay was a poor insurance risk—junior teams is right now—but this clash oughta to be a sociable sort of affair, with the Petes having a lotta fun trying to get their bearings on the Lindsay soap-box.

Then Fri. the gang back into another battle with the North Torontos, the last of the season with that gang, which the Petes has already beat 2 times, and should again, although Mister McFayden turns out a new team every night and they always put up a fight. The game is scheduled for Toronto, but the chances is it might be switched here, for the North Toronto team has got so nervous playing in a empty arena that they'd like to perform before some folks once and a while.

Mister Lebarr's juniors will do their stuff before the home customers Tues. night when they entertain the boys from our northern suburb in the 2nd game for the group honours. This oughta to furnish a interesting evening for 1 and all. The local kids has been going nice, and if they don't put away the villagers and go into the next round I for 1 am willing to be called a heck of a picker. Whereas, as a matter of fact I might as well tell you that at 3 the other Sunday a.m. when I heard some radio announcer say that George Young was out in front 4 miles off the coast, I conceded the Toronto lad a good chance to grab off the Spearmint title. That's calling them, and how!

Well, anyway, Mac, we oughta to see a lotta good hockey yet before the red red robin comes abob bob bobbing around. The seniors is playing some real hockey for the home fans this season, and with them and the juniors still in there fighting it ain't a bad old world after all.

And by the time sticks is hung up it won't be long till May 15th—I think that's the day Mister Ferguson mentioned.

How forgetful of me. I forgot to mention that Mister Tommy Church, M.P., was among the visitors Thurs. night. The man who got the habit of being Mayor of Toronto, and who holds all handshaking records was a Varsity rooter, but such is fame—his procession down the ice received not a solitary cheer. Not 1 bird on the sidelines recognized the famous Tommy, who was so dejected at the absence of applause that he sat at the back of the penalty box for the rest of the evening. And yet some guy has the nerve to say that Peterboro is a suburb of Toronto. Imagine Mister Tommy Church being unknown in a Toronto suburb.

Anyway if Mayor Doc Halloway was to drop into the Toronto arena it ain't likely anybody would give a tinker to the fact that he was the bird what said Peterboro was a away head of Toronto in providing free rinks. So that makes it even.

Well, old-timer, they ain't nothing more I can think of, so I'll put on the breaks now.

Sportifully yours.
A. WISE CRACKER.

Rogers Hornsby, former manager of the world's champion St. Louis Cardinals, is reported to be the second highest-paid player in baseball. His two-year contract with the New York Giants, it is understood, will be close to $40,000 a year. Babe Ruth, of the Yankees, receives $52,000. Hornsby's first salary with the Cardinals is said to have been only $1800.

INTERMEDIATES LOSE IN OSHAWA IN FINAL GAME

Group Leaders Forced To Fight For Every Goal They Get.

SCORE 5-1.

Work of LeBarr in Nets Features Play of Visiting Team.

OSHAWA, Ont., Jan. 29 (Special) —Peterborough Wanderers, one of the added entries to the Lakeshore O.H.A. intermediate group of this year, provided the opposition to Walter Lett's Oshawa intermediates in their final group game on home ice played at Bradley's arena on Friday evening, and were defeated by five goals to one. Oshawa fans are now roarin' to go on the special train which is to carry the team and supporters to Port Hope on Monday evening, where they expect to go over the top and gain group honors at the expense of Peter Brown and Hill's sextette.

Despite the victory of the Oshawa Lett clan over the Wanderers in the Lift Lock city by seven to two in their first start of the group schedule on January 5, a good crowd was out at the Motor City Duke Street arena to see the game, and the cash customers got more than they expected for their money, as every goal scored by the Oshawa crew was earned and the goalkeeping by LeBarr was the best seen of any visiting goalie for this season, he being responsible for the low score of the Lett gang.

The first period was featured by close checking by both teams, and as a result neither forward line was able to get working properly. The first goal of the game came ten minutes after the start, when Lowe of the Oshawa defence rushed down the ice, passed to Rowden, and in a quick return Lowe slipped the disc past LeBarr. A few moments after the face-off Avery, the former Bowmanville player, bulged the nets on a solo effort, and when the first rest came the score was: Peterboro 0, Oshawa 2.

In the second twenty minutes play opened up and clever hockey was displayed by both teams, with Peterboro trying hard to get in the scoring column, but what got past the defence was always on the top. Lott, the Oshawa centre lad, notched the only counter of the period when he took a pass from Houck right in the mouth of goal, on which LeBarr never had a chance, and the total score when the bell rang for the second rest was: Peterboro 0, Oshawa 3.

Dundas, the wing player of the Petes, got the first counter of the final period and their only one of the game, when he drove one from the blue line that Smith in the Oshawa nets failed to get his lamps on. Houck got Oshawa's first of the period, and Rowden at right wing hit the twine for the second, and the game was over with the total score being: Peterboro 1, Oshawa 5.

The teams were:

Referee—Herb. Matthews, of Toronto.

Cavalry officers of the French army captured 248 cups in various horse shows in Canada, Belgium, England, France, Holland, Italy, Switzerland and the United States in 1926.

BRISTLING BATTLES BARE FIST DAYS

(MY LIFE STORY)

by Jack McAuliffe

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

I nearly died laughing when Billy Madden and I landed at North Judson, Ind., for my famous fight with Bill Myers, the Streator Cyclone. A gang of my friends were along with me and the Cyclone had a gang of friends too, and everywhere we went, walking up and down the streets of the city, the people slammed doors hurriedly in our faces and poked guns out of windows and ordered us to move on. They thought we were Chicago bandits raiding the town!

The fight was held Feb. 13, 1889. It was staged above a saloon and as I stood downstairs at the bar watching the attendance troop upstairs, I noticed a suspicious bulge over every mans hip. They were all packing guns. You can imagine how I felt, coming from the east, hearing all the stories about how tough the Chicago gangmen were, and then facing a dangerous man like the Cycylone.

Just before the fight I ate some jelly that had been soaked in sherry. The effect of the alcohol made me dizzy so when I clambered into the ring I saw four Cyclones in front of me and four times as many fists coming at me. There has been stories circulated that I was doped. They are not true.

Myers was a dangerous puncher and fought up to his nickname by tearing in and fighting at a fast and furious pace.

I stood back and stabbed him with my left. He lacked ring technique and I soon cut him to ribbons. In the fourth round I popped him on the jaw and he went down.

In the yelling and excitement the gang swarmed toward the ringside, leaning over and straining the ropes. My little gang was hopelessly outnumbered. They were led by Dick Roche, the famous gambler; Jimmy Colville, Ed Snapper Garrison, the great jockey; Jimmy McLoughlin, another jockey; Billy Donohue, who rode the first Suburban winner, and Ike Plout. They moved over and made a wall in back of me as I sat down between rounds.

Myers had recovered from the blow and arose in time to avoid a knockout.

In the fifth round I began to stab him again and he kept up his relentless rushing and wild swinging. He had a murderous punch. I thought if it ever lands my head will go sailing clean out the window.

In the eighth round he ducked awkwardly. I swung a hard right. I groaned inwardly, not daring letting him know what happened. I had broken my right arm!

NOTE—In the next chapter McAuliffe tells how he stood off the murderous Cyclone with one hand and how two bandits befriended him while robbing the gate.

653 CHARGES HEARD IN YEAR

Magistrate Floyd Had Many Cases in United Counties.

177 FROM COBOURG.

COBOURG, Jan. 29.—Colonel W. H. Floyd, Magistrate of the Counties of Northumberland and Durham, dealt with 653 cases last year, of which thirty had been transferred from 1925. Magistrate Floyd's jurisdiction is a particularly extenstve one, ranging from Bowmanville to the village of Hastings, for example, and from Brighton and Colborne to the north-west end of Durham County.

Of the 623 cases that arose and were tried last year by Magistrate Floyd, 177 were brought before them by Chief of Police J. C. Ruse of town, as shown in his annual report to the local Council.

The Cobourg police department is composed of Chief Ruse and one constable. As there is no police commission here, the Chief is directly responsible to the Town Council. He is a charter member of the Chief Constables' Association, and is a veteran municipal employee. His fidelity to duty and his ability as a "guardian of the law" and of the public's welfare is reflected in his forty-four years of employment by the town of Cobourg, and of that long span he has been 29 years Chief of Police. Incidentally he has been a member of the fire department 49 years, and still is actively connected with that public service.

In the division of local police duty, Chief Ruse is engaged during the day, and his assistant takes charge at night. Long hours are often necessarily required of both men, especially during the summer, when the highways and lake boats converge their streams of tourists and other visitors. Traffic duty on busy nights, when the main streets are lined with cars and many others passing and re-passing calls out the entire force. Last year not one accident occurred on the main thoroughfare during the night driving, but nine minor mishaps were charged against day time traffic.

During 1926 the lockup in the Town Hall registered 490 men as transients seeking shelter. Chief Ruse's duties include court and office duties, in addition to B.O.T.A. cases, and all the others comprising his total of 177.

Magistrate Floyd's 653 police court cases in the two counties includes all those in the towns and villages except Port Hope. Colonel Floyd occasionally is engaged in Bowmanville and Campbellford, although these towns have local magistrates.

BETHANY YOUNG PEOPLE GATHER

BETHANY NEWS

BETHANY, Jan. 29.—On Wednesday evening about forty young people gathered in the Sunday school-room of the United Church for their regular mid-week meeting. The chair was taken by the president, Mr. Bert Monk, who led the devotional period, after the reading of the minutes. The president explained that the four groups in the automobile race had now completed the race, and that Miss Olive Nelson's group and Mrs. Bert Monk's group were the winners of the race, while Messrs. Will Sheen's and Ormand Wright's were the losers, and Rev. Mr. Poulter, who was the judge, had proposed that the losing groups give the programme for this evening, while the winning groups serve lunch.

By mutual consent, Ormand Wright was chosen chairman for the interesting musical program which followed. A solo by Pauline Darroch, a reading, "The Cremation of Sam McGee," by Mrs. Otto Spencer; a duet by George Smith and Hazel Jackson; a reading, "The Minister's Wife," by Mrs. T. Jackson; a solo by Mrs. Poulter; a duet by Edward Welch and Henry Casement; a duet by Hazel Jackson and George Smith; a bird hunting contest and games and community singing, led by Mr. Poulter, comprised the first part of the programme. Miss Nelson and Mrs. Monk with their groups served a dainty lunch of sandwiches, cake, and coffee. The meeting closed with the mizpah benediction.

Next Wednesday the programme, which is devotional, will be in charge of Miss Nelson, Mrs. Walter Rowland taking the topic.

Misses Ada and Elsie Richardson returned to their home on Tuesday after a month's visit with Toronto and St. Catharines friends.

Mr. Robert McMullen spent a few days this week visiting with friends in Orillia.

Messrs. Willis Whiteside and Harry Johnston motored to Peterboro on Thursday night to see the hockey match between Peterboro and Varsity.

Nerves on Edge

When the nerves go wrong everything is wrong.

The whole human body including each and every organ is dependent on the nervous system for energy and direction.

When nerve force becomes exhausted the organs fail in their functions and the result is discomfort and pain.

Headache, neuritis, sciatic-rheumatism are often developed. But there is also restlessness, nervousness, irritability, sleeplessness and depression and discouragement.

To regain health and vigor the nervous system must be restored by such treatment as Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

The use of narcotics and opiates only relieve pain at terrible expense to the nervous system. Lasting relief can only come by feeding the nerves. Your system has failed to do this and it is therefore necessary to employ Dr. Chase's Nerve Food to bring the nervous system back to normal.

LAKEFIELD BRIGADE ELECTS OFFICERS

Volunteer Firemen Hold Annual Meeting—Lakefield News.

LAKEFIELD, Jan. 29.—The annual meeting of the Lakefield Volunteer Fire Brigade was held in the Town Hall on Monday night at 8 p.m. when the following officers were elected:

Chief—A. H. Clarke.

Assistant Chief—L. J. Charlton.

Deputy Chief—W. Robinson.

Captain of Hose—H. Kidd.

Captain of Chemical—L. Sabatino.

Lieutenant of Hose—W. Hamblin.

Lieutenant of Chemical—J. Ridpath.

Secretary-Treasurer—E. J. Robertshaw.

When the business part of the meeting was over the Chief called on Mr. W. Murduff to present a wedding gift to Mr. C. P. Webster, who recently joined the ranks of the benedicts. Although taken completely by surprise, Mr. Webster thanked his fellow-workers for the gift, which consisted of some handsome table knives and forks.

After the inner man had been satisfied, a few yarns were told by various members of the brigade. The party broke up about midnight. All the members present, twenty-three out of twenty-five answered to the roll call, voted the evening a huge success in every way.

St. John's Vestry Meeting.

The annual vestry meeting of St. John's Church was held in the school-room on Monday evening, with Rev. A. W. Mackenzie in the chair. Rev. W. J. Creighton, recently appointed rector of the parish, will arrive next month, and until his arrival the rector's warden cannot be appointed. Mr. S. E. White, present incumbent of the office, agreed to carry on pending Mr. Creighton's arrival. Mr. A. M. Fitzgerald was appointed people's warden. Messrs. A. E. Dawson, H. G. Fitzgerald and O. A. Langley were appointed lay delegates to the Synod.

The sidesmen are Messrs. G. G. Ogilvie, Thomas Watson, James Watson, Milford Hampton, James Simpson, Walter Chappell and Arthur E. Webster, all re-appointed.

T. W. B. Marling was elected secretary-treasurer. The finance committee consists of the wardens and secretary-treasurer.

Messrs. H. G. Fitzgerald and E. R. Tate were re-elected auditors.

Mrs. L. H. Grahame addressed the meeting regarding a visiting committee who would assist the clergyman and be a very great asset to the parish. On motion, Mrs. Grahame's suggestion was adopted, and she herself was elected as convenor of the committee, with the vestry to assist.

The question of extensive repairs to the rectory was discussed, but the question was left over to the adjourned meeting.

A hearty vote of thanks was given to Mrs. Todd, the organist, and all the organizations for their work during the year, especially the A. Y. P. A., who had re-decorated the Sunday School, and the Chancel Guild, who had installed the organ motor.

The meeting adjourned.

Agricultural Course.

A course in agriculture is being held from the 1st to the 25th of February under the general direction of F. C. MacCrae, of Norwood, County Representative of the Department of Agriculture. The boys' classes will be held in the Council Chamber and will consist of classes in the various branches of agriculture, soil, livestock, etc., with Messrs. F. C. MacCrae, of Norwood, and W. B. Reynolds, of Port Hope, in charge.

The girls' classes will be held in the school-room of the United (Presbyterian) Church. Miss Jennie Seabrooke, of North Gower, will be in charge of the dressmaking classes and Miss Minnie McDermott, of Toronto, of the millinery classes.

Classes will be held daily from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m., and while primarily they are intended for farmers' sons and daughters, any young people may enter. These free courses are a great advantage, and Lakefield is fortunate in having the classes here.

School Board.

The inaugural meeting of the Public School Board was held in the Council Chamber on Wednesday evening of last week, with Trustees Charlton, Brown, Dench, Spence and Wagar present. Mr. J. W. Ridpath was re-elected chairman for the year.

Trustees F. S. Brown and George H. Spence were appointed Finance Committee, and Trustees D. H. Charlton, H. R. Wagar and B. Q. Dench the Property Committee.

Trustee George H. Spence was appointed chairman of the Supervision Committee, which will consist of the whole board.

Mr. J. S. Montgomery was appointed to the Library Board for 1927-28-29.

The Finance Committee presented a report, and recommended payment of the following accounts:

Hydro-electric P. C., $5.11; T. W. Leonard, $11.30; Garfield Dunford, $1.00.

The Principal's report asked for consideration of the lighting conditions.

The immediate cancellation of the vaccination regulations was passed.

Hockey.

The Grove defeated the Peterboro Business College hockey team on Saturday morning by the score of 16-2.

MR. MacNAIR GIVES HIS EVIDENCE

FINDS "FRUIT-A-TIVES" BEST CORRECTIVE FOR CONSTIPATION

MR. S. MacNAIR.

Mr. S. MacNair of New Mills, N.B., is one of the thousands who owe much to "Fruit-a-tives". Full of gratitude he writes the simple truth as follows:

"I can honestly say that 'Fruit-a-tives' are the best intestinal regulator I have ever used. Other remedies, and I have tried a great many, cause pain and griping, but 'Fruit-a-tives' always act easily and effectively. I was inclined to be constipated before, but now I am feeling first rate, and most sincerely recommend 'Fruit-a-tives' to everyone."

"Fruit-a-tives" is the sworn enemy of constipation. Made from the intensified juices of fresh fruits combined with tonics, it is a natural medicine. It is not habit forming.

Don't let constipation plague you. Get back the bloom of health, the sparkle in your eye, the feeling that life couldn't be better. Begin at once, with "Fruit-a-tives"—25c and 50c a box anywhere—everywhere. 541

No Permit To Be Cancelled, Defendants' Lawyer Asserts.

MADE HOME BREW.

COBOURG, Jan. 28. — Lawful right to make home-brew beer requires only a notification of that intention to the Inland Revenue Department, G. N. Gordon, K.C., of Peterborough, argued in defense of Stanley Friar and Jonas Friar, of Port Hope, who were charged yesterday in police court in Port Hope with having made beer after the expiration of their permit. Mr. Gordon contended that the defendant brothers had not received a written license or permit from the Department and hence they had no document to be cancelled. They had given notice of their purpose to make "home brew" and had thereby complied with the federal law. They therefore had a right to continue making beer. There was no suggestion that they made it for any other use than their own. The charge was withdrawn and the Friars freed. T. F. Hall, K.C., represented the Crown.

DOLLAR DAY ESTIMATING BLANKS OUTNUMBER THOSE OF LAST YEAR

First Prize Won By Mrs. N. Pogue, Who Estimated Exact Number—14,695 Was Total in Spite of Cold Weather Impossible.

MANY CLOSE ESTIMATES MADE.

Dollar Day has usually been a day of surprises, and the one just over certainly contributed its share of unexpected happenings. The first came when, after the merchants, encouraged by continued favorable weather, had prepared a record offering of old-time Dollar Day bargains, went comfortably to rest on the eve of the great day, and awoke on the appointed morning to discover that the coldest day of the winter had arrived to upset their well-meant plans. And the day not only started cold, but grew worse as it advanced.

Then came surprise number two. Feeling sure that many people would be disappointed by being forced by the extreme cold to forego securing their share of the bargains, the merchants hurriedly decided to turn Dollar Day into a twin event and leave all offerings, and the cash bonuses as well, open for a second day. Effective means were taken to let the people know so that the estimating would be done on the results of the two days instead of one, and the box at The Examiner door was left practically empty at the end of the first day.

The filled-out blanks came in lively on Thursday, however, and the box was nearly filled to the top when finally taken in at 10 that night.

Then a third surprise came when the official count showed 14,695 tickets had been dropped in, a thousand more than the summer Dollar Day last August, and more than 2,000 higher than last January. Not yet content with its surprises, the January Dollar Day yielded still another.

In August last there were twelve estimators tied for first prize, and the entire $150.00 was divided equally between them, each winner receiving $12.50. This time the prizes were won practically as offered. The winner of the first grand bonus of $50.00 was the only one to name the exact figure correctly, and carries off the big plum entire.

The second high bonus of $25.00 was also won, unbroken, being won by an estimate only one figure from the correct number. The next three estimators were a tie, within two of being correct, and were awarded $15.00 each for their shrewd sizing up of the situation. Extremely close estimates carried off the remaining $5.00 prizes, and it was found that even the last names on the list of winners were only six out in their opinion of what the correct number should be.

Following are the names of the successful ones. The money will be paid out at The Examiner Office on Wednesday, February 2nd:

1—Mrs. N. Pogue, 471 King Street —14,695 ..... $50.00
2—L. R. Groombridge, 461 Bolivar Street—14,696 ..... 25.00
3—M. Morrison, 93 Hunter Street West—14,693 ..... 15.00

LADIES' AID MEETS.

Regular Meeting Held By St. John's United Church Society.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 29. — The Ladies' Aid Society of St. John's Church held its regular meeting on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. A. Irwin. There were seventeen ladies present. After the business of the meeting was dispensed, Miss Nellie Hoover sang a solo, and Mrs. G. W. Hammond gave a humorous reading, both of which were enjoyed by all. The hostess served a dainty lunch and a vote of thanks by Mrs. Hammond and Mrs. T. Free was extended to Mrs. Irwin for her hospitality.

A WEAK STOMACH.

Wonderful is the process by which the chemistry of the body changes the food we eat into blood. And the whole of our well-being depends upon this being maintained day after day, year in and year out. Sometimes the process becomes faulty, and then food begins to poison the blood instead of feeding it. This is followed by all the pangs of indigestion, such as gas on the stomach, pains around the heart, often nausea after eating, and a dislike for all kinds of food.

The only way to overcome these troubles is to tone up the digestion so that you can assimilate all your food. To do this you have only to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. A short course of these pills will quickly tone up the stomach and banish indigestion. Here is a bit of convincing proof given by Mrs. Chas. Ladner, Ellerslie, P.E.I., who says:—"For some years I was a sufferer from stomach trouble. Everything I ate caused distress, sour stomach and belching. I could not eat meat or potatoes, and I grew weak and nervous. No medicine seemed to help me until I was persuaded to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and these simply worked wonders. I took the pills faithfully for a couple of months by which time every symptom of the trouble disappeared, and there has not since been the slightest symptom of stomach trouble. No wonder I praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

DURANT COMPANY CANADA, PROBABLY TO SHOW PROFIT

Leadside Works Were Active During 1926; Expert Business Helps.

BUT NO DIVIDENDS YET.

Big Cash Dividends Will Be Kept For Spring Commitments and For Emergencies; Yet Hope Dawns.

(From The Financial Post of Jan. 7, 1927)

Although it will be several weeks before the annual balance sheet of Durant Motors of Canada will be published, it is known that the Canadian company has continued in 1926 steadily to improve its position. The works at Leaside (Toronto) are closed down at the moment for the usual period for stocktaking, but production is expected to be resumed within two or three weeks.

Domestic sales of Star fours and sixes have been satisfactory throughout the year and the product has gained the goodwill of the motoring public. In view of this and the fact that the Dominion as a whole is becoming more prosperous, 1927 sales, it is safe to predict, will be satisfactory. The export business for the two chassis, with the various bodies, is holding up well, and is an important feature of the Canadian company's business which has been developed only since last August. It is estimated that 6,000 vehicles will have been sold in other countries at the end of twelve months of this trade. Sales in Canada are said to have averaged more than 800 cars a month, or approximately 10,000 a year. This latter production alone, it is reported, would enable the Leaside factory to be operated at an adequate profit, so that the profits in the export trade appreciably improve the prospects of the Canadian company.

Has Much Cash on Hand

The balance sheet as of December 31, 1926, which will be available for shareholders about the middle of March, will show a substantially improved cash position, according to authentic information. The company entered 1926 with $279,070 cash on hand and in banks. Inventories, materials and supplies totaled $1,024,185 and other items brought current assets up to a total of $1,405,152. Assuming that inventories at the end of 1926 were approximately the same, the total current assets are expected to be revealed as much larger.

Durant of Canada has no bank loans. Its Leaside plant is considered to be worth at least $1,250,000 and it is entirely free of debt, there being no mortgage bonds, or liens of any description.

The largest item on the liability side of the 1925 balance sheet was $267,789 for accounts payable for materials and expense and accrued liabilities not due were only $37,774. Similarly modest amounts may be expected on the 1926 balance sheet.

Net Profit Expected

Durant of Canada operated at a net deficit of $20,883 in 1925. But it is predicted that the 1926 balance sheet will show a net operating profit of a considerable amount after ample allowances for depreciation and operating reserve.

Shareholders who have waited for several long years for Durant of Canada to show a profit, will be gratified at the improved position of the company, although the directors apparently will not for some time consider the advisability of declaring an initial dividend. The cash reserve will be needed, at least in part, to take care of the spring commitments, which are heavy in the automobile manufacturing business, and it is believed that the directors will deem it advisable to maintain a fairly large reserve for contingencies.

While this attitude may be disappointing to some of the shareholders, who for the most part have been patient, the ultimate result of such a policy cannot but be beneficial to all concerned, assuming that the management of the company remains in its present excellent hands, the products retains the goodwill of the motoring public and there is no tinkering with the tariff which will tend to impair the earning power of Canadian automobile manufacturers.

Conversion Was Mistake

It is apparent that Canadian shareholders who refrained from transferring their shares from Durant of Canada to Durant of Delaware are in the better position, assuming that they wish to hang on to their stock. The one big advantage in share ownership in the Delaware company is that the stock is more readily marketed. The stock is traded on the New York curb. It achieved its 1926 high of 14⅞ in September and its low of 3½ in May. The closing price December 30, was 8¼. The Canadian shares, A, B and C classes, were transferable on the basis of 2, 2½ and 3 shares in the Delaware company for one Canadian. The latest quotation on the Canadian shares by a large dealer in unlisted securities is $1.50 bid and $2.50 asked.

The privilege of conversion from the Canadian to Delaware shares expired last August and since that date the distinction between the three classes of Canadian shares has been wiped out.

While the Delaware company from the beginning owned 56 per cent. of the stock in Durant Motors of Canada, and while this margin of control has been materially increased by the conversion of stock, the parent company is precluded from participating in the profits of Durant of Canada until 8 per cent. has been paid on the Canadian shares. This fact appreciably enhances the potential worth, although it may tend to make the controlling interests conservative in their attitude as to distribution of profits.—(Advt.)

CHARGE RAISED IN MADOC CASE

AT NEXT ASSIZES.

MADOC, Jan. 29.—The preliminary hearing of the trial of Abraham Robinson on the charge of attempted murder of the late Charles St. Charles was held yesterday in the Town Hall at Madoc. Evidence was taken as at the inquest held at the time of the death of Bailiff St. Charles, and the facts of the case reviewed. As a result of the hearing Abraham Robinson was committed to jail on a charge of the murder of Bailiff Charles St. Charles, where he will await trial at the spring assizes.

Last evening the Women Teachers' Guild held a dinner party in the Paragon Tea-Rooms, attended by Seventy-five of the teachers of the city, and presided over by the president, Miss Agnes Stout. Guests of honor were Mrs. Groves of Toronto, Mrs. W. R. Morris and Mrs. A. Mowat. Mrs. Groves, who is a member of the Toronto Board of Education, and whose prominence in educational work has been recognized to the extent of having one of the Queen City's schools named after her, is much interested in auxiliary classes for children and gave the members some idea of the work being done, in interesting anecdotes gleaned from personal experiences, also reading some of her own poems about children. A vote of thanks to the speaker was moved by Miss M. Ross and seconded by Miss A. Hunter. During the evening, vocal solos were given by Miss Margaret Dickson, with piano accompaniment by Miss Cora Smith.

Evening Examiner "Ideal Fashions" by Fair Belle Hamilton

A Simple and Practical Girls' Dress

If you are thinking of making a new little frock for your young daughter, you will find this smart design very simple to fashion. The dress has the popular kimona shoulders, and long sleeves gathered to narrow wrist-bands. The neck has a front opening and is finished with a neat round collar. An inverted plait at each side of the skirt gives added width, and a belt and patch pocket complete this trim little dress. NO. 1366 is in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 8 years requires 2¾ yards 36-inch, or 1⅝ yards 54-inch material. 20 cents.

Our new Fashion Book contains many styles showing how to dress boys and girls. Simplicity is the rule for well-dressed children. Clothes of character and individuality are hard to buy, but easy to make with our patterns. A small amount of money spent on good materials, cut on simple lines, will give children the privilege of wearing adorable things. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

THE EGG-BEATER

Never let the egg-beater soak in water after you have finished using it. Wash it at once and set it to dry. The water will draw the oil from the gears and make the beater useless.

SCISSORS FOR CHICKEN

When cutting up chicken for a salad, use a knife instead of putting it in a chopping bowl. A pair of shears will do the work effectively, too.

UP the hills and over, soaring like a bird, the ski-er rejoices in the snow, and in his pocket repose two big sacks of delicious Planters—one for him and one for her.

Planters SALTED PEANUTS "The Nicest Lunch"

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

During the last few days before Thanksgiving—the date set for the wedding of eighteen-year-old Cherry Lane to Ralph Cluny, who, in spite of his distinguished appearance, looked every day of his sixty-eight years, the entire Lane family, with the exception of Cherry's father, came to know and to be very fond of the elderly bridegroom.

Cherry amazed them. Faith most of all, with her sudden change of manner toward him. Where she had been impudent, provacative, high-minded, she now, unaccountably, became demure and sweet, even tender toward the old man unto whose keeping she was determined to give her lovely youth.

"It is almost possible to believe that she has fallen in love with him," Faith told Bob on one of their stolen drives. "It is pathetic to watch him. He's been coming to the house every night, you know. We've had him for dinner twice this last week, and he behaved with the most exquisite courtesy. He's quite mad about Joy, who climbs all over him like a little monkey. He brings her a gift every time he comes. He says—when Dad isn't listening, for Dad is awfully rude to him sometimes—that he is going to give Joy every advantage that a clever girl can possibly want. It's wonderful for Joy to have someone noticing her, thinking she's clever and cute. Poor kid! We've all been too busy to make her very happy, I'm afraid."

"Joy will be all right always," Bob comforted her. "She's got good stuff in her. Do you really think Cherry's fond of the old chap? I'm awfully keen on him, and I'd rather see him dead than unhappily married at his age. He's such a rare old sort—one of the last of his species, a gentleman of the old school."

"I think Cherry is beginning to be impressed by his beautiful manners and by his unfailing good taste in everything, even in wedding decorations. It's really awfully funny to see them together, planning every detail of the wedding. He never tells Cherry that her taste is vulgar and unformed, but he gently leads her into the right paths. The truth is that Cherry is beginning to look up to him, a thing she never did before in her life. And it's good for him. He worships her, of course, because she is so deliciously young and lovely. This new gentleness and sweetness of hers is vastly becoming."

"Long" confided to Faith a few days before the wedding that "old Monkey-Gland" had offered to set him up in business, with an automobile accessories store of his own, the investment to be paid back out of the profits of the store.

"I told him I'd rather paddle my own canoe," "Long" concluded, "but it was darned white of him, and I hope Cherry treats him square."

Mrs. Lane was always tearfully voluble and grateful and awed in the old man's distinguished presence. The idea of having the rich old man for a son-in-law was overwhelming, but she surprisingly had tact enough never to refer to the future relationship in Mr. Cluny's hearing. Cherry, through her fiance's generosity, had provided her mother with a very handsome and extremely expensive black satin dress and a sealskin coat, to be worn at the church service and the reception at the hotel afterwards. Only Jim Lane held out stubbornly and sadly against either Ralph Cluny's generosity or his friendship. With his own money he bought himself a decent new business suit and hat, gruffly repudiating Cherry's insistent offer of tailored-to-order dinner clothes.

"I've never had on a Tuxedo in my life, and I'm too old to put on dog now at another man's expense," he told her sternly, and not even Martha Lane's tearful pleadings could move him an inch.

Joy, who was to precede the bridal procession as a flower girl, was ecstatic over her own exquisite frock of white chiffon. Faith found her half a dozen times standing before the open closet door, staring at it with adoring grey eyes, her thin little hands clasped tightly as if in prayer.

"Do I look pretty in it, Faith?" she asked once, her small, sharp face, framed in its bell-shaped bob of strawcolored hair, avid for praise. "Mr. Cluny says I'm going to grow up to be a beauty. Cora Parsons says he's kiddin' me. Do you think he is?"

"You look adorable in the new dress, and Mr. Cluny's not kidding you for a minute. You have personality, darling, and more brains than any of the rest of us. You're going to make one of those dashing, smart girls, the kind of girl that just pretty-pretty girls are frightfully envious of."

"Oh, Faith, if Cherry should change her mind and not get married now, I'd just die," Joy confided in a frightened whisper, her grey eyes devouring the dress adoringly.

"I don't think Cherry will change her mind," Faith answered slowly. Not for the world would she have added that she had been praying night and day that Cherry would change her mind, no matter what the cost.

And so, the eve of her wedding day had dawned at last.

Became So Weak Could Hardly Stand

Mrs. Wm. Palmer, Tomahawk, Alta., writes:—"Last spring I had a long spell of sickness and became so weak I could hardly stand. I could not sleep at night as the least little noise would wake me up. I tried blood tonics and other nerve pills, but they did me no good, and I was getting worse.

I wrote my mother about my condition, and she sent me three boxes of CHILDREN LIKE THEM.

Baby's Own Tablets Are Effective and Easy To Give.

You do not have to coax and threaten to get the little ones to take Baby's Own Tablets. The case with which they are given, as compared with liquid medicines, will appeal to every mother. None is spilled or wasted; you know just how big a dose has reached the little stomach. As a remedy for the ills of childhood arising from derangement of the stomach and bowels they are most satisfactory.

Mrs. Rose Veyer, Willimantic, Conn., says: "I used Baby's Own Tablets in the Canadian Northwest and found them a wonderful medicine for children's troubles, especially indigestion and constipation. I have also given them to my children for simple fever and the restlessness accompanying teething and they always gave relief. I can recommend Baby's Own Tablets to all mothers."

PIANO RECITAL.

Miss Viola White, of Bailieboro, Gives Varied Programme.

An interesting Piano Recital was held in the Conservatory of Music Hall last evening, when Miss Viola White, of Bailieboro, gave a pleasing programme. Miss White, who is a pupil of Mr. R. Gliddon, is a youthful musician whose rendition of a varied programme of modern and classical compositions was marked by a quality of exceptional brilliancy and charm. Playing the entire programme from memory, she demonstrated possession of a technique capable of meeting many demands and an ease and assurance, combined with a soft, velvety touch and fine sense of rhythm, that made her music attractive in the extreme. Enthusiastic encores were accorded every number on a programme whose outstanding selection was probably the little-known Beethoven Sonata from Opus 10, Number 2, with movements of the "Allegro," "Allegretto" and "Presto" order, in which the young lady's fine musicianship was displayed to much advantage.

In Friml's "Etude Fantastique" were demonstrated the clarity of tone and transparent melody which were pleasing attributes of the player, and Chopin's Ballade Number Three also showed excellent training and attention to technical intricacies.

Other numbers were Nollet's Elegie-C Sharp Minor, and a trio of light numbers which included two of the selections on Ernest Seits' programme, when he appeared here, in Palmgren's "Valse Mignone" and Glasounoff's "Gavotte," also Lavallee's "Le Papillon."

Miss White, who received a beautiful bouquet of flowers at the conclusion of the performance, was assisted by a quartette of pupils of Mrs. Dorothy Allan Park, whose vocal numbers, in the absence of Mrs. Park in Toronto, were directed by Mr. Gliddon. The quartette, composed of Mrs. H. F. Doig, Mrs. I. Clark, Miss Margaret Dickson, and Miss B. Hill, sang, in pleasing voice, "Soft Music" by Rickett and Vogt's "Indian Lullaby." Accompaniments were played by Miss Elizabeth Webber.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

Feather boas have been revived as an evening accessory. Sometimes they are long and sometimes quite short like the one shown here of green feathers. It is worn with a green sequin frock.

Ostrich feathers once belonged exclusively on hats. Milliners had a monopoly in using them—just as once leather and kid were used exclusively by the shoemakers and glovemakers. Now things are turned topsy turvy. We wear clothes of leather and shoes of moire and wear ostrich feathers almost anywhere but on our hats.

This spring and summer we may see a revival of ostrich boas as an accessory for day-time wear. They may even be worn with the street costume—but just now the feather boa is exclusively an evening accessory. A well-known society woman attracted much favorable attention this winter when she appeared at the opera wearing a very long boa of uncurled green ostrich. So long were the flues of the ostrich that they covered her shoulders and almost hid her arms—the ends trailed almost down to the hem of her rather long period frock.

It takes quite a bit of skill to carry a boa of such length, but there is something always graceful and attractive about the shorter feather boas that have been seen quite a bit this winter.

Women have got so out of the habit of having something close up about their throats that many of us have forgotten how comfortable and convenient some such thing is. Of course, we have shawls and scarfs. But from morning till night we wear frocks that are collarless, with necklines often harsh, that comes directly next the skin.

If we begin to wear all sorts of little collars again—and we may—with ostrich feather boas as well as scarfs and shawls to wrap about our throats, we may again realize how many sartorial sins may be covered by some such device.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

SUNDAY, JANUARY 30, 1927

While benefic aspect dominate to-day, according to astrology, there are certain signs of ill omen.

Under this planetary rule, women will take the lead in charity and philanthropy, for the winter will develop many opportunities to do good.

It has been prophesied frequently by the seers that women were coming to a period when they must perform great public service and it is probable that 1927 will offer many chances for real heroism.

There is an aspect making for clear vision and for contemplation but the mind may be clouded by strange impressions while this configuration prevails.

There are signs presaging for the churches added work and broader fields of activity.

Again the ministry will attain something like the reverence that it once commanded, astrologers foretell, inasmuch as the clergy will lead through periods of supreme human experiences.

The minds of the people now will turn more uniformly to religion than in recent years, the seers prognosticate, for there will be tremendous soul struggles and many human sorrows.

Service is to become more of a watchword than it has been since the war and there is to be serious reaction after a period of liberty of action that has often degenerated into license.

Selfishness and greed are to be scourged from the heart, if the nation is to continue to lead the world in its peace and prosperity, astrologers warn.

Years of the greatest test are at hand, the seers announce, and the United States is to prove how much it can accomplish toward the redemption of the world from its many troubles.

While wars and rumors of wars are disturbing Europe and Asia, art is to develop marvelously in this country.

The day is not far distant, astrologers predict, when travelers will come to the United States to view the masterpieces gathered in the galleries of the nation.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of much interest in small matters that bring happiness.

Children born on this day probably will gain success by attention to detail. They probably will prosper in a quiet way all through life.

MONDAY, JANUARY 31, 1927

Although this is rather an unimportant day in planetary direction, according to astrology, its dominating aspect is benefic.

This should be a rule beneficial for engineers, builders and all who plan constructive work.

Gigantic building tasks are to be undertaken, which will reach the pinnacle of achievement in many directions.

Military matters will be much discussed in Congress and in state legislatures, it is foretold, and honors will be bestowed on army officers.

Transportation of an American pleasure-seeking army to Europe may precipitate troubles next summer, the seers warn, for they will be imbued with the spirit of Mars, which is dangerous in a foreign land.

There is a menacing aspect for labor, which may suffer from wage reductions that cause strikes or other troubles.

An astrologer foretells serious clashes between the United States and Mexico within six months.

Women will return to more feminine fashions and will revive old-time customs after their long enjoyment of short hair and short dresses, but this is not a happy omen, according to occultism.

Art is to be generally patronized and it will produce lasting monuments in fine buildings and lovely sculpture, but it will represent the extreme of American activities which include many preparedness enterprises.

Genius is to be discovered in many places in the United States and it will be developed rapidly according to new scientific methods, if the stars are rightly interpreted.

Romance will flourish this year as never before, but it will presage great adventures in which lives are sacrificed, the seers warn.

Prosperity is to be enjoyed everywhere in the country and education will flourish as never before.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of prosperity, but they must avoid lending money.

Children born on this day probably will be talented and versatile. Both boys and girls probably will have unusual ability.

Kingston Mayor Criticizes Automobile Tax Reduction

KINGSTON, Jan. 20.—In addressing Frontenac County Council yesterday, Mayor Price of Kingston said he thought the time was near at hand when the Ontario Department of Public Highways would pay the total cost of the work done on the suburban area roads. His Worship thought the Government has made a mistake in reducing the motor license fees and amusement tax, as people who drove cars and attended the shows could well afford to pay the shot.

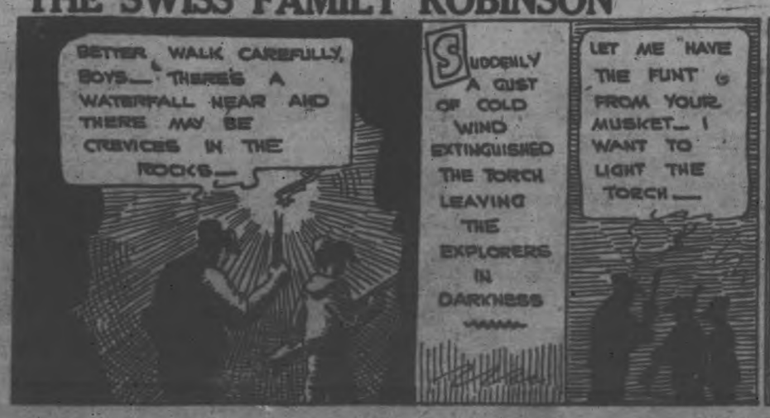
THE SWISS FAMILY ROBINSON



The Explorer's Plight

A Child's Own Room - - - By Annette Bradshaw.

Fortunate are the youngsters who can have their playtime, their meal time and their study time in a room of their own, such as the one shown here. Grown-ups are beginning to realize the advisability and the fairness of allowing little folks to live and move and have their being in an environment all their own. And very sympathetic adults, who can possibly do so, are now providing tables, chairs, book shelves and what-not that will appeal to the child's love of the fitness of things.

Picture two healthy children, or two who are not so well, spending their indoor time in a big, airy room, like the one portrayed above. Note the splendid lighting, the grace and the simplicity of the window curtains. Then pause a moment to appreciate the possibilities of the beautiful window seat that invites one, about so big, to curl up there to "read pictures" or to cut paper dolls mayhap.

In this playroom and living room that belongs essentially to the child-hood world, there is of course a table—for whoever heard of at-home amusement that did not include a table, just exactly the right height, there is a bench, big enough for two or maybe three, and sometimes even four, if all of them are good-natured and happy.

The table and bench as shown are quaint replicas of early American pieces in hard maple—sturdy, useful and built to last through generations of wear and tear. This small scale furniture is polished in its natural wood and waxed to bring out the green. The book-case is similarly treated. When scratched or marred the furniture can be restored to its original beauty easily.

If it is possible to adorn the walls of the child's room with murals or panoramic scenes that depict familiar activities or suggest the gorgeous land of fairy tales, the room will become a sort of hallowed spot in the home, as well as a good place to keep the children.

The book shelf and desk on the left is of more than ordinary importance. For it is here that the child's treasured belongings are kept. It is here that he comes to exhibit his skill as an artist or a writer or a builder. That's why it is so necessary to have the desk just the right size and in every way adapted to the child's comfort.

Not the least of the attractions in this juvenile room is the spacious upholstered chair, where one may sink his tired little body into the softness of its cushions, when one is through with play. After a long journey on a stick horse, or a protracted chase after the dog on wheels it is most pleasant to have a comfortable place to rest. It is still more gratifying to recline so close to the floor, so that the danger of toppling out upon one's head is practically removed.

CRISP FIRST.

SQUARE JARS.

Conserve refrigerator space by keeping a set of square jars with lids, to hold left-over foods.

YELLOW CABBAGE.

Cabbage turns yellow only when it is cooked too long. It should have the same pale green shade of raw cabbage.

ICE BOX EFFICIENCY.

You can economize space in your ice box by having the right sort of containers. Those of glass or earthenware with fitted covers are excellent. Square-cornered nested dishes are very satisfactory and can be arranged to good advantage.

PIES AND PUDDINGS.

Your meringue will be evener and of a much more inviting color if you cook it in a slow oven.

SAVE THE BRUSHES.

All brushes should be kept clean and scalded by dipping to the back and no deeper in boiling water. Then dry in the open air, with the brush side down.

FOR BETTER WEAR.

CHANGING COLORS.

Before attempting to dye any fabric, wash it thoroughly and see that all spots have been removed.

IT DAMAGES THEM.

When you put the egg beater to soak, do not allow the cogs to get wet.

GOOD FOR LUNCHEON.

Sandwiches filled with tuna fish or salmon mixed with celery and mayonnaise dressing are highly nutritive and very delicious.

COLD WATER FIRST.

Glassware that has contained milk should always be rinsed in cold water before it is washed in hot.

BORAX BLEACHES.

Add a teaspoonful of powdered borax to the water in which handkerchiefs are to be washed. It will whiten them perceptibly.

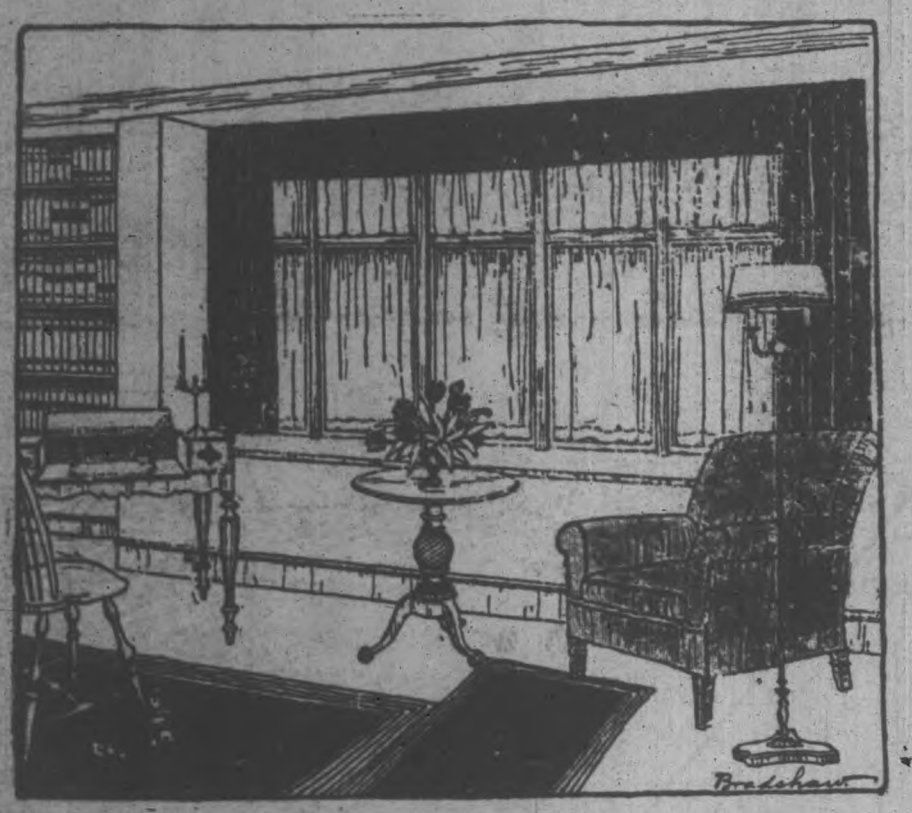
REMOVES STAIN.

Equal parts of egg and glycerine applied to grass stains will remove them.

WRING BY HAND.

When laundering table linen never put it through the wringer as that makes creases that are almost impossible to remove.

An Attractive Corner - - - By Annette Bradshaw.



It is the big casement-window with the long window-seat beneath, that makes this corner of the family living-room a thing of beauty and a joy forever.

In case the window-seat was not built when the house was constructed, any carpenter or even the man of the house can build it. It should be about 18 inches wide and be made of 1½-inch planks—matched lumber. The framing underneath is made of 2 by 4 lumber. Chestnut or oak is the best wood for the purpose and the seat is stained to match the woodwork of the room.

If the seat is built a little below the level of the window-sash, a two-inch stuffed cushion of material that matches the draperies adds greatly to the comfort of the corner.

Sometimes this window-seat is used to hide the radiator. Sometimes it has hinges which enable the housewife to use it as a chest for storing things. Curled up on the window-seat Miss Sixteen can revel in the latest novel. There also Mrs. Maturity can read the morning paper or finish that bit of sewing, or plan her Winter's social campaign. For the environment is conducive to just that sort of occupation. And a few feet away is Madame's charming desk that positively invites you to sit down and write those letters.

Note the cool effect of the draperies, which are just heavy enough to hide the lines and angles that need to be softened, and light enough to suggest airiness and comfort.

The handsome upholstered chair has the slip-covers of linen for the Summer. And just at the proper angle sits the reading lamp. Nearby is the small table, placed for the convenience of the head of the house who smokes while he reads his papers in the evening.

One of those little things which make the living room beautiful in detail and general design is the woodwork. Woodwork is, of course, part of the house itself, but in this day of modern efficiency, it is also furniture. The built-in book-case and the window-seat are the outstanding features of this attractive corner.

Harmony and proportion and good taste in the selection of the articles that furnish the favorite corner are of all things most important.

REPAIRING TORN BOOKS.

Teaching children to repair torn books with the use of paste and tissue paper is an easy way to inculcate the idea that books and magazines should not be torn.

SAVES THE FABRIC.

Clothes soaked in borax water will come out clean, with neither the cloth nor color injured. Borax water will not harm the hands as other strong cleansers do.

TO KEEP MEATS.

To keep meats juicy, remove them from their papers and place in a china or glass container on the ice. Paper will absorb the juices.

WOODEN FRUIT BOWLS.

Wooden fruit bowls, lacquered in bright colors, have salad spoon and fork to match. They should not be subjected to very hot water, but should be washed in warm water and dried quickly and thoroughly.

MINT JELLY.

Mint flavored jelly is the most refreshing accompaniment for veal, lamb or fowl. Its base is apple juice.

AVOID WASTE.

Cornmeal and hominy spoil quickly, and consequently should be purchased in small quantities.

The Evening Examiner

MAGAZINE SECTION

HOME DECORATION NUMBER

We've been criticized for our levity; we've been charged with lacking poise; we've been accused with the need of an artistic sense altogether lacking in former Magazine Sections.

We do not protest. But this is where we get back at the highbrow critics who have been high-hatting us since the very successful Magazine first shocked their sense of the appropriate seven months ago.

They said we had no eye for artistry. So we got interior decorators who know their business to carry the war into the castles of the staid citizens, who are so lofty they refuse to laugh with us in our weekly kick over the traces of every-day boredom.

And now we ask these persons to compare the ideal decorations portrayed in this section with the actuality in their homes—and consider whether they are really as artistically gifted as they thought.

And we ask our friendly readers who like a little nonsense now and then to have a laugh at the highbrows.

DO YOU SUIT YOUR HOME?

The last word on home transformation comes from James Blauvelt, famous Fifth Avenue decorator, who has to his credit many of the most distinguished interiors in the east.

Mr. Blauvelt's first warning is: "Preserve unity! Make your house express your mood, your style of living and your personality.

"Consider the surroundings of the house, and its style of architecture, so that your furnishings may harmonize with their setting.

"Give a thought to your personal and family background. What racial tradition have you? Is there, among your heirlooms, an old Spanish chest, a French table, a Dutch settle, or an English tea service?

"If so, you will be wise to use these treasures as a center for your new acquisitions.

"Personality is a vague and tenuous quality; but it may be expressed in one's physical surroundings. Perhaps you have seen a hearty, heavy bourgeois family making a ludicrous spectacle of itself in a home full of old French inlay and taffeta valances and delicate bric-a-brac.

"To avoid this sort of mistake, stop to think of your own tastes and background before you furnish your house. No matter how much money you spend, or how many decorators give you advice, your home is a failure if it is not a suitable, pleasant place for you to live in."

The craze for "period style" houses and rooms is to be questioned, Mr. Blauvelt believes. Slavish imitation of a remote historical period will not necessarily produce a home that meets the needs of a twentieth century family.

"The ideal house should express something of the staccato, dynamic energy of the new age.

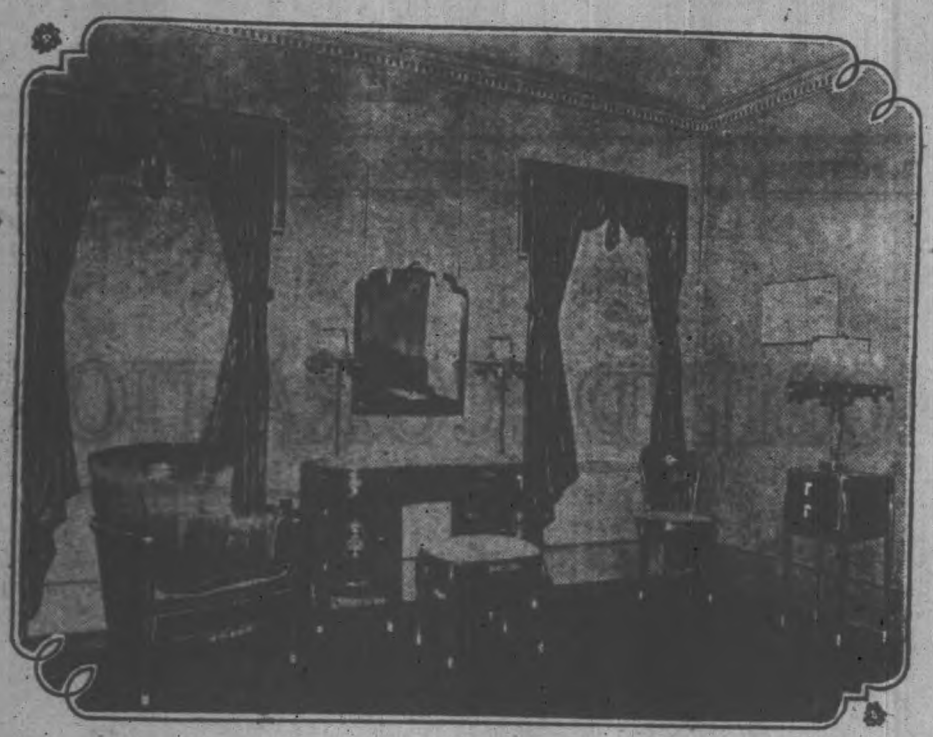
"This energy is producing a marvelous new architecture which thus far is America's most distinctive contribution to art.

"Our jagged terraced skylines, our ingenious devices for space and time saving, the electricity with which our life is charged—all these things are a part of the new age in art.

"Our homes can reflect this spirit of electricity and speed to some extent, without losing tranquility.

"We must not reject history in our decorations. But we should choose the best from every period in the past, while keeping an open mind for the innovations offered us by modern designers.

"We may admire early New England furnishings or Georgian; but we must remember that they too were created by a fusing of the beautiful things that had gone before. The best decoration is an accumulation from many sources.



The modern room shown at the New York Art-in-Trades Exhibit. The design draws inspiration from several historic periods, while introducing innovations in material and line.

No Historical Unity.

"I do not see that it is reasonable for a 1927 family to live in a house that strictly follows the Elizabethan mode, at the cost of all the beautiful and useful objects produced since 1600."

In selecting from several periods, the decorator must choose objects harmonious in line and color and scale, Mr. Blauvelt warns. A general unity of spirit and proportion is far more important than a unity of historic detail.

"Only in great mansions is it advisable to use a strikingly different treatment for every room—to have an old French dining-room, an English hall and a Japanese cardroom.

"The furnishings of the smaller house must more nearly adhere to the type determined by its architecture. Most Canadian houses can best use English and early Canadian furnishings, because the Canadian people are of the English tradition."

ASH TRAYS.

Clean ash trays of brass or nickel with denatured alcohol applied with a tooth brush, then rinse in vinegar and dry.

DISH MOP.

A new fibre dish mop is connected by tubes with the faucet, and rinses while it scrubs.

EGG BEATER.

Never let the cogs of an egg beater get into the dish water.

BATHE HANDS.

After dishwashing, bathe your hands and rub with a glycerine lotion.

TO PROTECT NAILS.

BOIL PERCOLATOR.

Boil out the percolator with soda and water at least once a week.

RICE WATER.

Cretonnes washed and then rinsed in water in which rice has been boiled will retain their original "body."

WHOLE WHEAT BREAD.

Fresh whole wheat bread spread with butter and then with cream cheese and chopped nuts, makes good school lunch sandwiches.

FRUIT STAINS

Rub the hands with cornmeal and vinegar to remove fruit stains.

DEEP JARS.

Deep jars for growing plants make for healthy roots.

Wall Treatment Fundamental

It will be no hardship to spend these winter evenings within your own four walls, if those walls are so treated as to make a charming background for the furnishings of your home, and to add an interest of their own to the general effect.

The walls have a decisive influence upon the mood of a room, and partially determine its style of furnishing.

For example, if you are lucky enough to have a room paneled in wood, you must consider the type of paneling. If it is in small, square divisions, the room is distinctly seventeenth century and Jacobean furniture should predominate.

Eighteenth century rooms have larger, oblong panels and demand marble mantels and Georgian furnishings.

Utilizing Light.

However, wood-paneled walls are expensive and therefore rarely found save in very fine houses and apartment buildings. The painted, plastered and papered walls used in most homes are no less charming when skillfully handled.

You will of course, remember, in decorating your house, that north rooms require wall tones of yellow or rose or mulberry or tan to counteract the cold north light.

Plaster walls give satisfying backgrounds when painted in a solid color and accented with wood moldings, in a deeper tone.

The question of ceilings can be solved by considering the height of the walls. If they are very lofty, use a lighter tint of the color used on the walls, or a warm buff, to decrease the height and make the room more intimate and interesting.

White ceilings are useful to increase the height of the walls.

If you intend to paper your walls, you have a still wider choice of delightful backgrounds. The papers now being made show a marked improvement in design and color over those of a few years ago.

A few main principles must be kept in mind when you select any wall paper. First, vertical stripes give height to the walls. Second, large, bold patterns decrease the size of the room and are liable to grow monotonous sooner than the quieter patterns.

Most popular, and most practical for the English or early house are the chintz papers, designed after chintz fabric patterns.

Like Oil Paintings.

The use of paper panels against a plaster wall is illustrated in the room pictured at the bottom of the page. They give almost the effect of oil paintings, without approaching the latter in costliness.

Strikingly beautiful effects may be achieved with the scenic papers which are purchased in sets, to form a complete panorama when placed on the wall.

These scenic papers are placed above a chair rail, so that the eye is on a level with their scenes, and they are protected from the rubbing of chair backs.

Tapestries Costly.

Chinese, French and early American designs are most favored in the scenic papers. There are also elaborate classic motifs, like that of Cupid and Psyche, for spacious, formal rooms.

Tapestries and damasks are effective wall coverings for elaborate houses. But their costliness and the problems of sanitation they present prohibit them for general use. They are useful, chiefly, for large Georgian or French apartments.

When you have prepared your walls as backgrounds for your rooms, you have laid the foundations for a consistent scheme of decoration.

GREEN COLOR.

To set the color in green dyes, use four ounces of alum to a tubful of water.

CLEANING FLUID

A good cleaning fluid may be made at home, of a half pint each of grain alcohol and chloroform and a table-spoon of ammonia.

CEREAL.

Oats or wheat cereals should never be added to the water until it is boiling and salted.

IMPORTANT FINAL TOUCHES

Wise choice of ornamental objects lightens and adds charm to this W. and J. Sloane living room. The chintz lamp shade repeats the colors of the draperies, and the mantel mirror brightens a dark wall space.

The ornaments you choose for your home will tell the world a long story about you—what your background is, whether you have inherent taste, whether you merely want to splurge with costly articles you do not really care for.

The choosing of the little things about the house requires as much care as the selection of the big ones. For a single bad floor lamp or an overloaded mantel may ruin the entire room on which you have spent so much energy and money. Here is a cluster of random suggestions about a variety of these smaller items.

Modern trends in lighting are toward greater simplicity. Many modern homes have no ceiling lights or wall brackets at all, but are lighted with an even glow from a number of soft-colored table, floor and bridge lamps.

Use Candles Where Possible.

You may wish a ceiling pinwheel cluster in the dining-room, but you will want to use candlelight for the table, wherever possible. If you can light your dining-room with table candles and a great sideboard candelabra, you will get an effect of charm never to be equalled by electricity.

The hall is sometimes a rather empty room, and will benefit by a hanging lantern of quaint design.

If you must have fixtures built in, allow enough money in the building budget to get very good ones, for the cheap fixtures so common are so bad in line and material as to wreck the whole scheme of decoration.

If you are building, install a great number of base plugs and spend your money on lamps of different kinds.

Lamp shades are another problem that call for caution. English and early American homes may be suitably decorated with shades of parchment paper, old maps, music scores, old Godey prints and hunting prints.

Luckily, women are learning that heavy marble lamps, with twining flowers and cupids and much ribbon and folderol are not the height of luxury in a home, but an evidence of extremely bad taste.

Wrought Iron Effective.

If you can afford a wrought iron bannister on the staircase, wrought iron flower stands and radiator boxes and light fixtures, you will find it most effective.

Place the harp or curved end of your piano toward the room, and drape it with some rich fabric, or ornament it with a lamp or a bowl of flowers. To conserve space, push its side against the wall.

Keep your mantels clear of all but the ornaments that really belong on it. A pair of candlesticks or vases, with a painting, or fabric or mirror hung above the mantel, furnish all the decoration any fireplace needs.

Round pillows are most in favor now, and the usual size for use on a six-foot davenport is between 16 and 18 inches. The covers should repeat color notes of the room, and should be harmonized with one another, as well as with the davenport covering.

A black couch with rather vivid, variegated pillows gives a smart effect.

The tendency now is to make city houses as much like country houses as possible, and to use in the winter the same bright slip covers used in summer.

I prefer slip covers pleated and hung within a half inch of the floor. Glazed chintz is too slippery and limp for slip covers. But you may have the piece upholstered in it, and then tack on the flounces, to stimulate a slip cover.

Screens are extremely useful to break an awkward line, to soften a corner, to give privacy or intimacy to a nook, or to shield a bed from draughts.

Mirrors Multiply Beauty.

If you cannot afford tooled leather screens, there are chintz and toile and to shield a bed from draughts.

Mirrors Multiply Beauty.

I you cannot afford tooled leather screens, there are chintz and toile and scenic paper screens that are almost as beautiful. A scenic screen or a landscape painting lends perspective to a small room. Chinese screens are especially pretty in English rooms.

Mirrors are also useful to give perspective, and to lighten dark spaces. Plan so that each mirror reflects something beautiful, and catches light where light is needed. A crystal candelabra placed in front of a mirror is multiplied in beauty.

A home should not be "decorated" and then left to stand, complete, immobile and uninteresting, till the next renovation. It should be a growing, changing work of art, on which you may work forever, without finishing or growing tired.

WATCH OUT!

Handle Pictures With Care

If your walls are just w-a-l-l-s, look to your pictures. It is surprising what the hanging of a picture can do to your room. The best pictures that money can buy will look cold and indifferent, almost snobbish, if you don't give them a chance to be friendly.

"I have been in homes where the pictures hung so high that one needed a step-ladder to look at them," says Marjorie Currey, Director of the American Art Bureau and a writer for "Farm and Fireside."

"Pictures are to be lived with, down on a level with people. That's why their center should be about even with your eye when you come into a room. If a picture is extra large, let the lower part be at this point. If small pictures are hung by themselves, place them low near a table, a desk or a reading nook. There you can see them intimately. You are close enough to read their thoughts.

May Look Awkward.

"I have been in rooms where the pictures tipped out from the wall, and hung staring down at an awkward angle. They looked uncomfortable and made me feel that way. Pictures need to be flat against the wall, hung up by a small nail at their back. You can get nails made for this purpose that will not spoil your plaster.

"A large picture, of course, must be hung from the molding. You fasten this with two parallel wires or cords. When a picture hangs from one hook, the wire forms a triangle of lines that takes the eye traveling up along the wires and away from the picture. And, too, the triangle interferes with the unity of the room.

"The cord or wires should not be heavy. If you choose them in tone to match the wall covering, still less attention will be detracted from the picture. A pleasing fashion of many years ago that has been revived is the use of cords which have loops finished off at the molding with a tassel or medallion.

Avoid Overbalance.

Large pictures need plenty of space for "breathing room," Miss Currey says. "If you have an open grate, the central picture belongs over the mantelpiece. It should be of the same general proportions as its wall space, though, of course, not so large.

And in the room without a fireplace the central picture or group of pictures should be hung over the piano or davenport. "A safe rule to remember," Miss Curry says, "is that the width of the picture should be less than the width of the piece beneath it. There is no grouping more awkward than a fragile bookstand or a delicate chair overshadowed by a massive picture.

"Small pictures belong to the small paces," she says. "If you have a large wall space and only small pictures, try grouping them. This will give the effect of a large unit. Group pictures should be harmonious in subject and appearance—a group of landscapes, figures or silhouettes.

Of Same Shape.

"Paneled walls are a pleasing space to hang pictures. The small outline molding of the panel acts as an emphasis of the frame, providing the picture and the panel are of the same general shape, and, of course, they should be.

"Pictures we live with must be chosen carefully. For a poor picture, like a poor companion, grows more and more boring. In this day there is no excuse for bad pictures—we can all have good ones. The masterpieces of every age are being reproduced in excellent color prints that vary in price from $2 up to $25. You can get them in a wide variety of subjects and size.

"Good original paintings may often be purchased at reasonable prices, but it is better to have a fine reproduction of a painting of acknowledged merit than a poor original."

CHOPS BROILED.

Chops broiled in waxed paper tightly twisted around them have a rich flavor.

A LITTLE SALT.

Nearly every cake or muffin recipe needs a little salt—about a half level teaspoon for an average cake.

GRAPEFRUIT FIBRE.

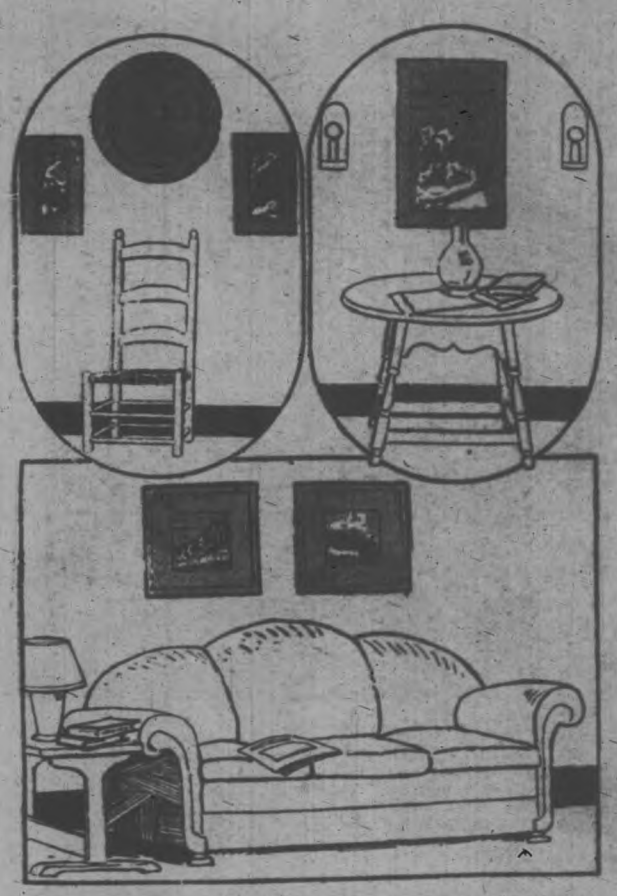
Grapefruit is much more palatable when every bit of the fibre is removed, leaving the rind like a cup full of pulp and juice.

OIL CLEANS WOOD.

Kerosene is excellent for cleaning polished woods that would be injured by alkalies.

AVOIDING D[illegible]

Before beginning to [illegible] see that no food is left uncovered in the room.



These groups illustrate some of Miss Currey's principles of proper picture-hanging.

MODERN WINDOW DECORATION

The inspired textile makers of the twentieth century have seen to it that our modern houses shall go in purple and fine linen. Our curtains, rugs and slip covers may be as rich and costly as we choose, or as simple and quaint.

For the variety of fascinating textiles now available will satisfy every taste and every purse.

To be smart today, we will probably dress our windows in hand blocked linen, or glazed chintz or damask. The velour and mohair curtains and upholstery of yesterday are no longer in style. They were too heavy and stiff and unsanitary to please the home maker for long. And they failed to express the joyous, dynamic spirit of the present.

There was another drawback—they wore too well! Every home maker knows the misery of owning a household article that simply won't wear out, and that is still too good to discard; though it has outlasted its desirability.

Old Patterns Out.

The modern decorator demands furnishings that can be changed often enough to keep the house interesting.

The tapestries of past centuries were exquisitely beautiful and almost imperishable. But no one could imagine wanting to discard textiles that were masterpieces of art.

Modern looms are making beautiful tapestries also; but with the old conventionalized patterns, with their exquisite jewel borders are a thing of the past. Modern tapestries are more vivid in coloring, more naturalistic in design, and modernistic in feeling.

I find damask, Brocatelle or linen most satisfactory for the modern home, with sometimes a glazed chintz for variety.

In choosing your over-curtains, select a sun-fast material if possible. However, any good material will do, if you are willing to line it for protection against the sun. A lining sateen in beautiful colors is now being made sun-fast, and an inter-lining of thin cotton flannel is an added protection.

There are three main reasons for lining curtains; to protect them from the sun, to make them hang well, and to make the windows of the house appear harmonious from the outside. Windows fitted with rainbow-colored unlined draperies may make the building look like a crazy quilt from the street.

For glass curtains, the best materials are silk or wool casement cloth, net, silk gauze or marquisette. Lace curtains are definitely passe.

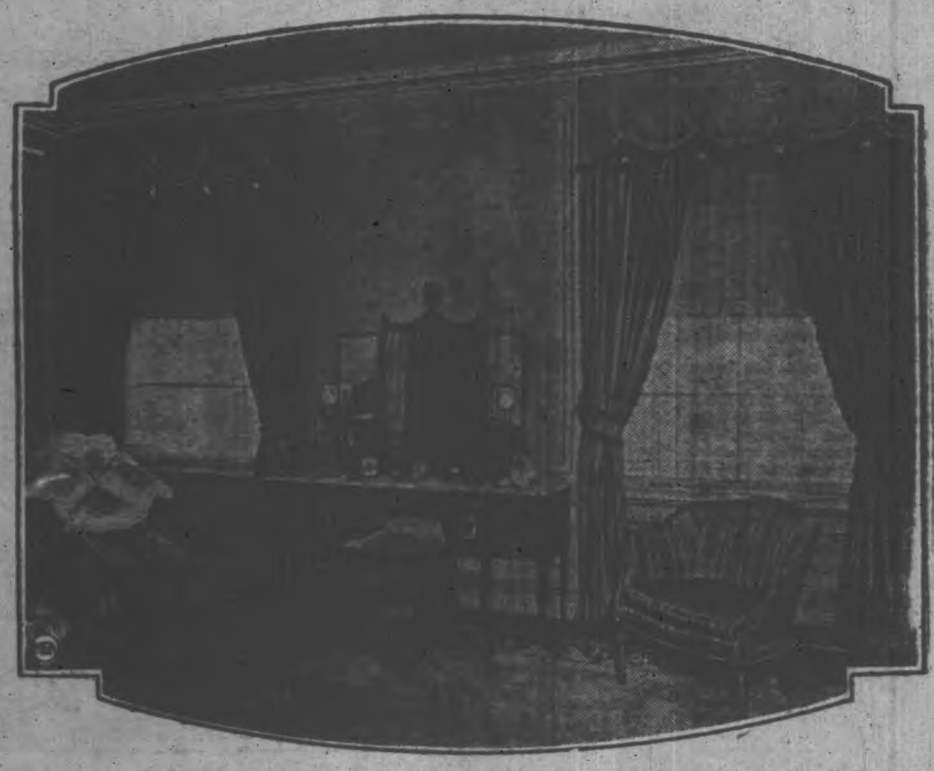
Glass Curtains Colored.

The glass curtains nowadays must fit into the color harmony of the draperies and the room. The old cream white and ivory are not used in the most up-to-date homes. Do not be afraid to use in your glass curtains a lighter tint of the predominating color in the over-curtains. View the material with the sunlight shining through it, before you make your selection.

Deep ecru or coffee colored glass curtains are attractive in a room which has a great deal of color.

For example, you will use striped curtains and upholstery to accentuate the height of the room. You will also use stripes and a straight line arrangement of the material, to give accent to a room full of flowers and curves.

When the over-curtains are conspicuously patterned, you must cut the separate drapes so that their patterns will match when hung. This sometimes means a waste of material, but is absolutely necessary to the beauty of your windows.



Over-curtains of taffeta, edged with narrow fringe and topped by a valance cut in English scallops, were used in this bedroom. Glass curtains are of marquisette.

The valance, or skirt which encloses the top of the draperies is useful as a decoration, and to lessen the height of the windows. It should be carefully shaped and fitted on a buckram frame.

Roughly speaking, the valance should be about one-fifth as deep as the window is tall.

Many decorators are omitting the valance, either to give the window height, or to economize on material and labor, or to lighten the total effect of the window treatment.

Fullness Essential.

The old-fashioned pelmet, or narrow band of embroidery used in place of the valance to enclose the top of the window, is coming back into fashion. Painted boards are sometimes substituted for the valance.

We usually make the over curtains reach the floor, and the under-curtains reach the sill.

All draperies should be hung with fifty per cent fullness.

Tie-backs are either bands of material or silk cords. They may be omitted to increase the height of the window and give dignified straight lines to a florid room.

MIXING CAKES.

For cake mixing always use an earthen bowl and a wooden spoon because a tin dish and iron spoon are likely to discolor.

FOR RICHER SAUCE.

To make your white sauce richer, use part cream. Use one and one-half teaspoonfuls of flour to one cup of cream.

BLEND PERIODS CAREFULLY

The history of furniture is the history of civilization. The household articles with which man has surrounded himself through the ages have reflected his taste and his interests at each period of his progress.

It will always be possible to judge a house old by the furniture it gathers around it. Not only because impeccable taste will reflect credit on the home maker, but also because it materially adds to the enjoyment of the home, is it necessary for the mistress of the household to study furniture before she makes her choice.

Architectural line is fundamentally important in furniture. Wherever possible, it must follow to some extent the architectural type of the house itself, and the structure of the room. Harmony of line and color and scale is far more important than a strict adherence to "periods."

Know Your History.

However, it is best to learn something about the historic periods in furniture before you begin to combine them. The marks which distinguish periods may be seen in the shape of the backs and legs of chairs and tables, in the ornamental detail, in the carving and metal accessories, and in the upholstering and wood.

We know that before the Renaissance there was no upholstery, and furniture was massive and crude and somewhat uncomfortable. Later, cane seats and backs and ornamental carvings were introduced in an effort toward luxury and beauty.

With Louis XIII, velvets and tapestries and damasks came into use for upholstery, chairs and couches and for beds. Each successive period is an increasing feeling for beauty and comfort in household goods.

After gaining a general knowledge of periods and tradition, the home maker needs a few practical hints on the choice of individual pieces.

First of all, there is the question of woods. Oak, cherry and cypress came into use in Elizabethan and Jacobean times; walnut, beech and holly were first extensively used between 1660 and 1700; the early American woods were pine, oak, walnut and elm, until 1820, when maple and mahogany from San Domingo were added to the list.

Many women ask: "May we use several woods in the same room?"

Here again, I must plead for variety, rather than monotony. Blended with care, several different woods give far more charm to a room than a "set" of any one material. Walnut, is successfully combined with the duller colors of mahogany, with cherry, and even with certain shades of maple.

Styles and materials must be blended intelligently, according to a knowledge of history and of art. Thus, you will not hesitate to use a Chinese lacquered cabinet in a Queen Anne room, if you know that the Queen Anne period actually introduced Chinese furnishings into England and Holland, as a result of the opening of the great Oriental trade routes.

Lacquer may be adapted to many types of rooms, because its rich color and design add piquancy and variety, without interfering with the general scheme.

"Sets" of furniture have, happily, gone the way of many conventional ugly things. Even dining rooms are being furnished with miscellaneous pieces and are benefitting greatly by the innovation.

A stately Georgian cabinet that serves as bookcase, desk and chest of drawers, especially useful in an apartment or small house, where space must be conserved.

The arrangement of furniture is almost as important as its selection. The decorator must first draw a sketch, to scale of room he is working on. Then he must mark the large spaces and decide what heavy pieces shall go into them. The smaller pieces then can be grouped more easily.

Observe the principles of balance in plotting your floor and wall space. Do not overload one side of the room with heavy pieces, leaving the other side almost empty.

Place large articles of furniture in relation to the architectural lines of the room. For example, in a long, narrow room, place your davenport along the long side of the room, rather than crosswise in the center, where it would cut the room in two. Of course, if the room is very large, or almost square, this crosswise placing would be correct.

Antiques? Be Careful.

A heavy davenport placed against the shorter wall is liable to overbalance the other end of the room.

And now about antiques! Do not fall into the snares that unscrupulous dealers are setting daily for buyers everywhere. Remember that only a fraction of the "antiques" sold deserve the name, and that it takes an expert to distinguish the real from the spurious.

Good reproductions, however, are to be desired. In fact, I consider a good reproduction far superior to an original, unless the original is in a state of exceptionally good preservation, or is a family heirloom, in which latter case, of course, its sentimental value is incalculable.

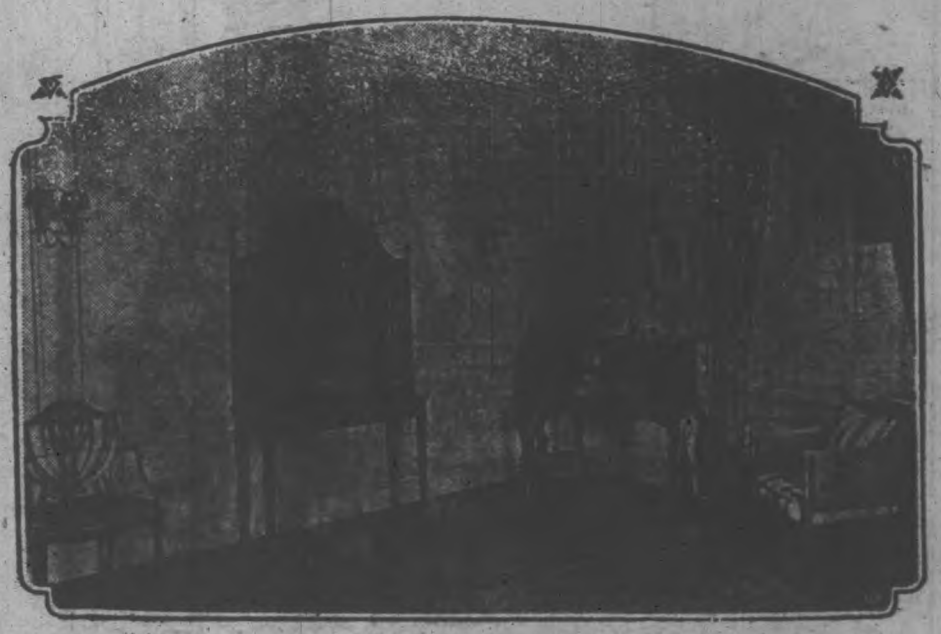
DANCE FOR VOTES

CHEYENNE, Wyoming.—Jan. 27.—The woman political campaigner in Wyoming now must dance instead of talk. Political meetings in the smaller towns are inevitably followed by dances, and the woman politician has to fox-trot many hours every night, according to Mrs. Katherine A. Morton, superintendent of public instruction.

AVOIDING BREAKAGE.

When washing the glassware dip the pieces in the warm water so they will be wet on the inside and outside at the same time. Unequal expansion of the glass caused by one part being suddenly heated is what breaks them.

SELECTING NEW FLOOR COVERINGS



A bedroom of dignity and simpli city, carpeted with a plain fabric to the baseboard, to increase the sense of spaciousness.

Floors and their coverings have progressed a long way since the sixteenth century, when a carpet of rushes served to protect people's feet from the cold stone floor, and to catch all the dust and refuse of the house, growing dirtier and dirtier until the time for the periodic sweeping out and laying of new rushes.

The first purpose of carpets is to supply warmth, of course; but nowadays we expect them to add beauty and style as well as comfort to our homes.

The floors themselves should be the best the home builder can buy. Oak, maple and ash are the most durable and beautiful woods for floors, though pine is satisfactory and much less expensive.

Of the humbler floor coverings, linoleum has perhaps the most varied uses. It is unexcelled as a kitchen floor covering, and is often used in bathrooms and vestibules. More pretentious designs of linoleum are very smart for foyers and sun rooms, billiard and card rooms, giving a smooth, spacious effect to a small floor.

A Word for Orientals.

Rag rugs and hook rugs, now much in vogue, are an interesting and sometimes beautiful product of the home maker's art, reflecting the early period when women of necessity made most of the fabrics used in their homes.

But these rugs cannot be compared, for beauty and artistic value, with the richer types of rugs such as those that come from the Orient.

Among floor coverings for general use are: the Aubusson and Gobelin carpets, limited by their cost to monumental houses; Argonne velvets, printed in colors; the seamless Wilton, a short pile fabric of great durability; the seamless chenille carpet, and the Axminster carpet, a yarn from the Wilton, with a high pile.

As to the pile of a rug, the general conception that a high pile indicates high quality is false. In a cheap carpet, a high pile will mat and become most unsightly. Unless you can afford the best, stick to a short, compact pile.

In redecorating your home this fall, lay out a carpet scheme as soon as the walls are finished. If you wish variety of color and pattern in the furnishings of a room, choose a plain neutral carpet. For a conspicuous carpet "does the talking" in a room, and everything else must be made subservient to its color and pattern.

Light colors in rugs are unsatisfactory, soiling easily and showing up the shadows of the furniture in a stark, unpleasing way.

As in choosing wall coverings, select warm-colored rugs for a cold north room, and cooler tints for sunny rooms.

The tet de negro or dark taupe carpet makes an especially good background for the bright evening dresses worn in a drawing room.

The shape of the rugs must not compete with the architectural structure of the rooms. Long lines of rugs must run parallel to the long lines of the room. Large center medallions in carpets are difficult to handle for they may not be placed harmoniously with the chandeliers and furniture.

To increase the size of a room, choose a plain or small-patterned carpet and cover the entire floor to the base board. A border of bare floor cuts down the apparent size of the floor.

Though small rugs are flexible and make housecleaning easier, they decrease the size of a room by breaking up the floor space into little islands. In the finest houses, Oriental rugs are laid here and there against a background of plain dull velvet.

A large plain carpet is useful in case you move into a new house, for it may be cut up and placed in various ways.

The proper width of the border—if you have a room large enough to admit of a bare border, is from a foot to eighteen inches.

Oriental rugs are a life study in themselves, but it is useful for every home maker to know something of their main classification and qualities.

First, they are durable, and will outlast several sets of cheap domestic rugs.

Second, there are many grades of Oriental rugs. Not every Oriental rug is a fine one, though the name has become a tag for luxury in decoration.

Bagdad is the center of the rug weaving industry today. Most of its weavers are subsidized by American and European capital.

Harmony Is Difficult.

The commonest Orientals in this country are the Turkestan rugs, made of Buffalo and horse hair. They usually have a brick red background which is hard to handle in modern home color schemes, where the rose shades of red are preferred.

The kashshan is a valuable rug, with a small over-all pattern, and 350 knots to the square inch—a mark of the finest rug fabrics.

However, you can expect better wear from a rug with 100 or 150 knots to the inch.

The cheaper grades of Chinese rugs have swept the country like a plague. Very beautiful rugs do come out of China, but most of the medium-priced ones shown in the cheaper stores are very difficult for the decorator's use, because their designs and texture are poor.

The unwashed Chinese rugs are a possible menace to health, for they are made of wool from dead horses and cattle.

In general, intricacy of pattern in Oriental rugs mean high quality and high price, but the knot test is the standard of judgment.

The Purchase Of Oriental Rugs

(As Told by a Buyer.)

We cornered him one day in his office in that huge departmental store. Smilingly he greeted us.

We had not proceeded far, along conversational paths, before we had him headed towards that subject which he knew so well.

Laughing, he said: "Did I ever tell you how we buy our oriental rugs?"

This was his story:

Over there, one is apt to meet many different dialects and the first essential is an interpreter, and not only one but three or four are sometimes needed on one journey.

Then, as the native does not trust us, nor are we supposed to have much confidence in him, the next essential is a broker.

To this man we explain the kind of rug we require, and he probably can inform us who is the best person to approach.

Perhaps we are directed to an old man sitting on his pile of rugs in the market-place, or it may be at the wharf the purchase has to be made.

We sally forth, purchaser, interpreter and broker, to find the merchant. We find him sitting on his pile of rugs, casually gazing at the passers-by.

My broker approaches, and, through my interpreter, I explain that I have heard of the fame of his collection of rugs, and am desirous of seeing them.

Then he says he is honored in showing them to me, but first we must have coffee. (That is, if he is a Turk. If he is a Persian, tea is offered.) This is an ordeal to the foreigner, because the coffee, which is sold on all the streets, is black in color, and of the density and appearance of mud, and, besides, it is a mark of discourtesy not to finish the contents of the cup.

This ceremony over, I make my inspection of the mats, then inform the owner that they are the most wonderful rugs I have ever seen, the finest wools, the brightest dyes, and praise his choice when making his selection (this, of course, through the interpreter). Then we retire for probably twenty minutes, during which time I inform my broker just how much I will pay for each rug, for I must buy them all at one time or none at all.

My broker then returns to the man and explains that I have good money—cash. This is the subject of a lengthy discourse. Finally, the old native may pull out a card and inform us that it is the wrong phase of the moon—not for twelve days can he sell—or perhaps for no apparent reason he refuses to negotiate until the next day.

He is in no hurry. His family are caring for his flocks and he need not return home until winter.

However, if he will begin business, he must summon a broker. Again, we must drink our cups of coffee, but this time I am host.

First, his broker gives a lengthy harangue on the beauty and value of the rugs. This may last from fifteen minutes to three-quarters of an hour. Then my broker must reply before we begin business in earnest. From now on I hold the hand of the owner. Before this I have probably set fifty livees as my highest price.

His broker tells of the splendid bargain he is giving us—he is going to be very generous because he sees the purchaser is such a fine man—yes, for one hundred livees will he give them to us. Apparently, not hearing the offer, my broker begins to tell of the generosity of his client, and his desire to pay well for the rugs and finally offers twenty.

Then the other, after lengthy statements about his desire to please, offers the rugs, probably, for ninety-nine livees each. My broker will come to twenty-two.

Thus, little by little, the price is raised on one side and lowered on the other, each broker, with an eagle eye, watching the other.

A handshake is the sign that the transaction is finally closed, and many a foreigner has come to grief in that way.

The first time I bought rugs, without the least idea, I had. My hand had grown tired with holding the hand of the native so long. However, when I tensed my muscles for a moment, I discovered I had closed the deal.

Ordinarily, my broker waits till he gets my price, then gives the signal and I quickly shake hands. The rival broker is on the watch for the least sign which he can call a handshake, and so close the deal advantageously for his client.

Once done, my broker pays the cash and a cart, which has followed us down, is loaded with the rugs.

It is a long and tedious transaction but it has its laughable aspects too.

And when the rugs are bought, often their colors can not be recognized and they may be damaged, but their value is not impaired.

They are sent off to the cleaning factories, which are stationed in many places in the East. There, after many washings, the beauty of the oriental rug is revealed, and they are fit for sale.

BUILD ROADS

HONOLULU, Jan. 27.—Announcement has been made by territorial officials that the federal government will soon place at the disposal of Hawaii, a sum in excess of $200,000 for road construction. Part of this allotment will be spent in the Chain-of-Craters highway, along which are nine craters, many of which steam actively.

WAR ON THISTLE

MOOSE JAW, Sask., Jan. 28.—Children who brought 100 roots of thistle to the city fathers in Moose Jaw received 12 ½ cents for their trouble, according to a recent offer. Sixty thousand roots were brought in the second day after the offer, which held for a week, was made. More than $1000 was paid out to the children during the week. Thousands of the menacing weeds were exterminated.

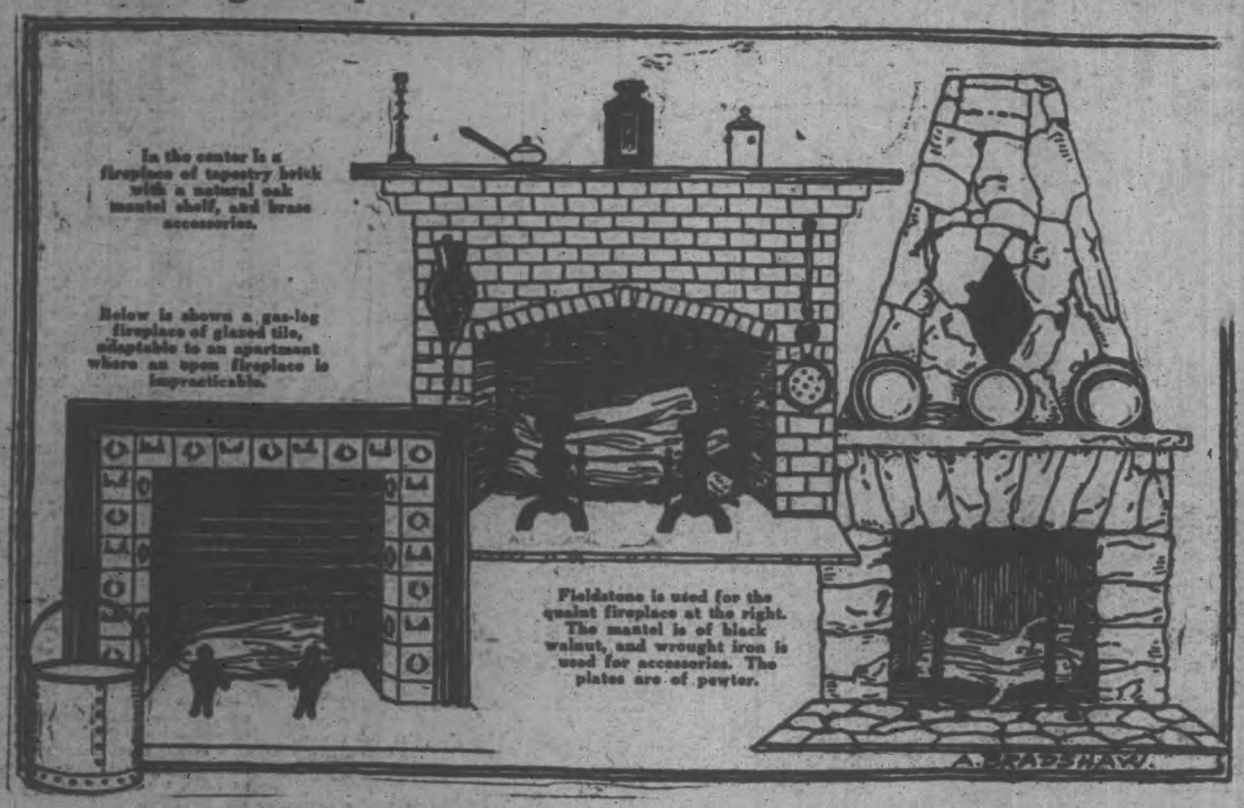
Three Charming Fireplaces

By Annette Bradshaw.



I've often though that if I ever built a house to my own plans, I should have a fireplace in every room. Even though one had steam heat with all its advantages, there is nothing that can give the comfort of the fireplace. For the cool evenings in the Fall, what is more delightful than the cheery warmth of a dancing fire?

Pictured above are three charming fireplaces. At the lower left is one of glazed tile, which is adapted to the gas-logs of the city apartment. Of course, this is not a "real-for-sure" fireplace, but it answers the purpose admirably, and is a welcome addition to a homey living room.

In the center is pictured a fireplace of tapestry brick. This has a broad mantel-shelf of oak, which is unvarnished, and shows the lovely natural grain of the wood. The woodwork of the living-room matches the mantel. On either side of the fireplace there was embedded old-fashioned brass hooks, one for the bellows and one for the warming-pan. The andirons are of solid brass and rather massive to hold the logs. This fireplace could also have a grate in which coal could be used.

At the right is illustrated a real country home fireplace of field-stone. With its hearth also of field-stone, and the stones extended to the ceiling enclosing the chimney, this is a fireplace that will delight the heart of everyone. The mantel of this fireplace is a slab of black walnut, which needed little decoration beside the three old pewter plates which stood bravely in a row reflecting in their dull depths the dancing flames. Wrought iron andirons and hearth set completed the quaint atmosphere. The room was furnished in early American furniture carrying out the picture of antiquity, which endeared the room to its owners.

Never over-furnish a fireplace. This is so easy to do with the charming accessories which are to be had nowadays. A simple mantel-shelf, with a few pieces of brass or pewtre or copper, or perhaps a ship's model, is always in good taste. But the cluttered shelf, with its motly collection of vases, plates, pictures and what-not, is invariably the expression of a cluttered mind, and never gives a very restful impression.

Warmer Homes by Use of Insulating Materials

Heat, such as we try to secure for our homes during typical Canadian winter weather, and try to exclude in the summer time, is an elusive thing. In fact, it is much more elusive and harder to retain in a prescribed compass than most of us appreciate. Heat will actually leak through the average wall or roof much as water will leak through cloth, and definite measurements have been made that demonstrate this. What, then, is the remedy?

The remedy is simple and twofold. The first requisite is proper construction of buildings, that is, absence of "skimping," good "fittings," etc. That is apparent and generally appreciated. The second requisite is the use of heat-resisting or "insulating" materials. The latter factor is not so well known by the average builder or householder, but a little study and intelligent expenditure would repay the outlay many times over.

Use of Insunating Materials Increasing.

During the past few years the use of various insulating materials in building construction has been steadily increasing. By such means the escape of indoor heat is prevented in winter, and outdoor heat is barred in summer. Not only are substantial fuel and labor savings effected by building insulation; but more comfortable and healthful living conditions are provided and the salability of buildings so treated is greatly enhanced.

Depending on individual preferences, several different types of heat insulators are in common use, such as wall fillers, quilts, blocks, flexible sheets and rigid boards.

Outlet for Un-otilized Natural Resources.

The growing demand for these materials, according to the Natural Resources Intelligence Service of the Department of the Interior, is already providing an added outlet for many Canadian raw materisl, some of which would otherwise be wasted. Among such materillas may be mentioned wood waste, eel grass, flax and other vegetable fibres, gypsum rock and asbestos. Other Canadian raw materials which, in future, may be utilized in the manufacture of low temperature heat insulators include, limestone rock, mica waste, scrap glass, waste rubber and peat.

One of Canada's largest waste utilization problems is the economic treatment of wood waste. It is, therefore, interesting to note that appreciable quantities of sawdust, shavings and other wood waste are made use of in insulating buildings.

Sawdust is used to some extent in heat insulation. Due to certain disadvantages—it readily absorbs moisture and is therefore subject to decay, settles rapidly and harbors vermin—, it is rarely used in house insulation being confined to out-buildings, ice-houses, bee-hives and water pipes.

Planer shavings, preferably finer than excelsior, made from odorless woods, form an excellent insulating material for filling hollow walls and packing between roof rafters or joists in attic floors. They may also be used for mixing in any proportions with other wall fillers such as granulated cork to provide a cheaper product. Beneficial results in the elimination of vermin and moisture may be obtained by creosoting the shavings or mixing air-slaked lime with them in the approximate proportions of 1 lb. lime to 10 lbs. shavings.

Artificial Lumber from Mill Waste.

Another interesting development in the utilization of wood waste is the establishment of a Canadian plant for the production of insulating lumber from sawdust, coarse fibre screenings from pulp mills, shavings and mill waste. In the process of manufacture, the wood waste is thoroughly reduced to fibrous pulp in disintegrators. The pulp is then cooked in digesters to remove wood juices and resins, the fibres freed from excess moisture, waterproofed and forced into a solid board under enormous pressure by hydraulic machinery. The board is finally prepared for the market by baking for several hours in steam heated kilns. This lumber is used for insulation, sound deadening and in some acoustical correction, and is usually sold in large sheets which may be sawn and nailed like ordinary lumber. A noteworthy example of forest conservation is thus afforded in the production of this material entirely from wood waste. For certain purposes in building construction it may be used to replace lumber and lath, releasing an equal amount of lumber for other purposes and thus enables a 25 per cent greater utilization to be made of the timber cut. Over four million feet of this "man-made" lumber was used in the Canadian Building at Wembley.

Cattle Hair and Sea Grass Used.

Another Canadian firm manufactures a flexible insulating blanket or quilt from cattle hair. The hair, after a chemical treatment to render it sanitary, vermin proof and odorless, is felted into a batt and sewn between two layers o f heavy paper. Various grades of paper are used as asphalt, asbestos, heavy building, etc., depending on the use and location of the quilt in construction. Quilts of this type are used for insulations and sound deadening and have been aptly described as "Underwear for Houses."

The rapidly mounting demand for insulating materials has resulted in the establishment of a good market in Eastern Canada for a sea weed, called eel grass. This "harvest of the sea," which was formerly allowed to go to waste, occurs in abundance along the coasts of Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Quebec. It is torn off the vast, submerged flats thrown up on shore by the waves, where it is carefully gathered, washed in fresh water to eliminate mineral salts and cured in the sun. It is then delivered to collecting stations, baled and shipped to the United States, to be manufactured into a quilt insulator. Eel grass is an ideal material for insulation purposes, as its fibres contain a maximum of entrained air cells; it is insect and vermin proof, does not burn readily and is not subject to decay.

By the utilization of this waste seaweed a part-time industry is provided for fishermen and farmers, enabling them to earn considerable money in their spare time.

A good insulating material is one which has a low specific gravity and contains a large number of minute air cells. The fibres of flax and some of the cereal straws are therefore frequently used. A company in Western Canada uses flax straw in the manufacture of a flexible board insulator. The straw is first disintegrated to separate the fibres from the husk or waste portion, and the flax fibres felted into a semi-rigid board which is thoroughly baked before using for insulation and sound deadening. The fibres of the other cereal straws are also sometimes used to mix with wall fillers and quilt materials.

Rock Products as Insulators.

Gypsum rock forms the basis of another interesting heat insulator produced in Canada. The gypsum is first crushed, calcined in a furnace, ground to a powder and then mixed with certain chemicals which impart to it very desirable insulating qualities. In applying this wall filler, which is furnished in the form of a powder, water is added, causing the mixture to rise like a loaf of bread. It finally swells to about four times its original volume and sets in twenty minutes to form a hard, porous mass containing an enormous number of enclosed air cells. Its chief use is in filling hollow wall structures and pouring into place on roofs and in floors, etc. It may also be cast into slabs for insulating balloon frame buildings.

The same firm which produces the cattle hair quilt mentioned above also markets an insulating wall filler, composed of asbestos fibres mixed with other powdered and fibrous materials.

In the U.S.A. in addition to the production of duplicates of the above Canadian insulators, several other heat conserving materials are marketed, utilizing such raw materials as bagasse, limestone, slag and mica.

An insulating lumber is produced from bagasse (waste sugar cane fibre) and a quilt manufactured from flax and cereal straw fibres.

The process of making mineral wool from argillaceous limestone or slag is most interesting. The raw material, either rock or slag, is melted in a furnace and the molten stream flowing from the taphole is met by a jet of high pressure air or steam which blows this stream into thousands of tiny threads some of which reach 40 feet in length. It is a novel sight to see the myriad streamers of fire branching out from the central golden mass, rivalling any pyrotechnical display. The resultant mineral wool resembles sheep's wool superficially, but on closer examination is found to possess a hard vitreous structure. This material which contains 90 per cent entrained air, weighs only 10 to 15 pounds per cubic foot, as compared with 170 pounds per cubic foot for the rock. In addition to being used in bulk for filling hollow walls and air spaces, mineral wool is made into flexible quilts between wire netting, fabric or paper, and is also moulded into blocks either with or without a paraffin binder.

Near Libby, Montana, occurs a mountain of altered mica, called vermiculite, which is not suitable for electrical insulation. This vast deposit was regarded as valueless until a few years ago when, by accident, a piece of the mica was thrown on a fire. The astonishing discovery was made that the mica, under the action of heat, expanded to fifteen times its original volume and contained a great many enclosed air cells. The possibilities of using this fireproof material for insulating safes, and hollow walls was at once realized and a company formed to exploit the deposit. Subsequent experiments revealed that the fire treatment caused this black mineral to turn a beautiful golden color, while a variation in the heating treatment produced a silver-colored product. Both the gold and silver products were found suitable, when ground, for tinting wall paper and paints. Thus a lucky accident disclosed the fact that a seeming valueless mountain was, in reality, a gold mine.

Experimental Work Should Extend Field.

The above discussion has demonstrated the importance of the heat insulation field in providing a new outlet for many raw materials and it may be confidently predicted, says the Natural Resources Intelligence Service, in conclusion, that, as the benefits derived by insulating buildings against heat and cold become more generally recognized, and as more experimental work is effected, present markets in tlhs field will be greatly extended, and similar uses developed for many other waste materials.

TO CLEAN SILVERWARE.

An easy way to clean silverware that is not too tarnished is to moisten a soft cloth with water, dip it in whiting, rub off with another cloth, and polish with whiting.

Window Decorations

A SHORT STORY.

By John Evans

"It's exactly what I've always wanted to do," exclaimed Hope Chandler, when she had been called to the office of the department store where she had been working. The manager had offered her an opportunity to try her han d at window decorating.

"You show some aptitude in that line and we like to give our employees a chance in their own direction. It is better for us—and better for you," said the manager,—He was curt but kindly and Hope went away from his office almost walking on air.

The beginners in this line were usually given a chance to try their ability on the small windows that faced the underground arcade leading from one street to another. Thousands of pedestrians passed these shop windows every day and there were displays on both sides of the tunnel, well-lighted, effective exhibits of the shop's goods.

"I'm going to do a perfume window tomorrow," she cried, gladly, to one of her co-workers after having had her orders from the head of the department.

"Oh—for the big drug sale?" asked her friend. "Great! Step on it, kid. You're coming on, all right."

She worked hard on the window that would display all the varieties of perfume that the shop was to have on sale. She laughed at the silly names on the fragrant powders and essences and yet she knew that in the marketing of this kind of ware there was much in a name. "Kiss Me" and "Flowers of Love" sold by their names, no doubt.

She was arranging a pyramid of ornately formed bottles in a lower corner of the window when the top bottle tumbled off its precarious perch. Fortunately, it did not break, but it tapped rather sharply the plate-glass pane.

"Dear me—how lucky!" breathed Hope as she bent to see if the pane had been scratched.

As she did so, she observed, for the first time, the slender figure of a young man dressing a window opposite her in the narrow tunnelled passageway. He had heard the knock on the glass and was looking at her. He, too, had seen Hope for the first time.

Hope was embarrassed. Did he think she had tapped at the window to attract his attention? She continued her work with only an occasional surreptitious glance at the man in the window. She had seen enough of his face to know that she liked him.

He was arranging cigars, cigarettes, tubes, pipes, ash trays. Hope had never seen him in the store. She wondered who he was.

That night when she left the shop she saw him swinging along the street She liked him the more for his easy, graceful manner of moving.

The next morning she looked at his window. It was as artistic as anyone could have made it, and there was something about the colorful schemes in which he had arranged the slender cigarette-holders with the trays that matched that gave the casual eye a sense of harmony. Hope decided that the young man was an artist.

Without seeming pointed in her purpose, she inquired about some of the other window dressers.

"Oh—you know we are having a good deal of work done just now by students from the commercial art school uptown. They want the practical experience and we—well, we get it done free, gratis, for nothing," a fellow worker told her. "The lad that did the cigar window yesterday in the subway store is one of them. Notice it?"

Nearly a month later she was standing looking at the first outside window she had ever been assigned to. She had put a great deal of thought and effort on it and had raised the shade on a stunning rainbow window of silks arranged according to the new science of color. It was an original idea. She had taken groups of colors from a book on this subject, and had made charts in the window and labelled them as such so that passersby might choose and study their own colors, their influence, vibrations, etc. The window was attracting much attention.

"Pardon me," said a voice at her elbow.

"Oh—" said Hope, looking up into the face of the young artist.

"I must congratulate you on this window," he was saying. "I have asked about it from the management and they told me you were outside, now they believed, and they gave me permission to tell you in person."

"You—you like it?" asked Hope, timidly.

"It's splendid, both in conception and execution," he said.

Hope was adding admiration for his deep, rich tones to the already sufficiently large list of things she liked about this man.

"I am a director in a commercial art school and am, therefore, perhaps, not an ordinary judge of such work. I do an occasional window just to demonstrate to the students that it is an absorbing profession and one that is far from insignificant—even in its early stages."

"Yes—I saw you in the subway windows, did I not? I had dropped a perfume bottle and it tapped the glass. I——"

"Yes—I knew you were embarrassed because you thought I believed you had done it deliberately."

Then they both laughed.

It was not three months later that they admitted to each other that that perfume bottle, toppling from its pinnacle, had been merely an instrument of Fate tapping to them both to take notice.

A Beamed Living Room - - - - By Annette Bradshaw.

The outstanding feature of the room shown here is the ceiling. Because of the handsome appearance that a beam ceiling gives a room, those who enter the doorway immediately receive an impression of comfort that hints of splendor.

This room has the wide floor boards; and the patterned hooked rugs enhance the beauty of the polished floor.

Beautiful in its simplicity is the mantel above the fireplace—which for some reason is always the center of every room regardless of the arrangement or the furnishing of the place.

The glazed chintz covering of the spacious arm chair corresponds in tone with the soft tan color of the painted walls and of the stained floor.

On the opposite side of the luxurious fireplace is the upholstered lounge, that invites the weary to rest or the idlers to sit a while. "And speaking of inviting things, note the handy hassock—without which no family living-room is complete.

In a room like this the furniture must be simple in design. It may well be in mahogany and of Chippendale, Sheraton or Duncan Phyfe type.

Households that are fortunate enough to have inherited an antique bookcase with old leather-bound volumes of the classics will find peculiar pleasure in placing such a valuable heritage in a beamed-ceiling room like this. These ceilings call for accompanying articles that are massive and suggestive of long-life and steady purpose. For, indeed, walls and ceilings and the furniture within a room has a language all its own—and a sort of "aura." That is why the minor furnishings and decorations must be carefully chosen. A quiet but colorful lamp; an artistic bowl of flowers; plain and sheer white curtains—these are the details that proclaim the fact that Madame is a woman of fine discrimination and taste.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE.

SHAFT RECORD

CAPE TOWN, Jan. 26.—A record in mine-shaft sinking was made recently at the Randtfontein Gold Mine in South Africa, when 332 feet of shaft was sunk in 31 days. An average of 420 tons of rock was hoisted out of the shaft each day.

BLOOD TELLS

JACKSON, Miss., Jan. 29—A bloodhound, in order to qualify as a witness in a murder trial, must be purebred, according to a recent decision of the supreme court of Mississippi.

EXCLUSIVELY FOR DISHES.

Never use dishcloths for any purpose except washing dishes. Have other cloths for wiping up spilled food and for handling dishes.

CLOTHING CARE.

Soiled clothes should never be put in the clothes closet, neither should damp coats or mud-stained shoes.

SWEEP—THEN MOP.

Always sweep a floor before you begin to mop or scrub it.

SCRUB WITH SODA.

The only way to keep your garbage pail hygienic is to scrub it once a day with soda and boiling water, and if possible dry in the sunshine.

BRISTLES DOWN.

After you have carefully washed out your scrubbing brushes, turn the bristles down and dry in the sunshine.

REPLACE COVER.

As soon as you have taken the quantity you want from the flour barrel, sugar bucket, spice cans and all closed containers, be sure that you put back the cover immediately.

Romance Of The Oriental Rug

(By F. G. C.)

In furnishing a modern room, we must first choose some aspect of the room from which to build our color scheme and furniture arrangements.

Many interior decorators now plan their rooms from the rug, using it as a background.

Of course, there are many kinds and descriptions of rugs, but oriental rugs are paramount in interest and beauty. To many people the mere thought of possessing an oriental rug seems an impossibility, but there are many kinds and grades.

What is the history of this beautiful conglomeration of colors?

The tribes of the Orient, moving about from place to place, had to economize on furniture, so they made these rugs, and many and varied were their uses. They covered the floor, they formed one's bed on a pile of sand, and a specially woven one, filtered with holes was placed over the doorway to let in air but keep out mosquitoes. Also, rugs with beautiful tassels formed the saddle on their steed—the camel.

Their land was especially adapted for grazing and so sheep raising was one of the chief industries. The quantities of wool thus acquired were dyed in tufts and put away in huge bunches for the rug, the women of the house always had on hand.

The fact that only a small portion was done at one time and that many different lots of wool were dyed before one rug was completed shows frequently in our rugs.

The colors are not always the same tints and we can trace part of the history of the rugs by this color effect. Oriental rugs are of many sizes and weights, but the finest are made among the Persian tribes.

Each tribe makes its own peculiar kind—some coarse and heavy, and others, finer. Consequently, some are less valuable than others.

Some of the tribes have perfected the art to such an extent that over five hundred knots are calculated to the square inch. These are more valuable than the coarser ones, but in our homes the coarser ones are more practical. They wear better and lie better on our highly polished floors.

Turkish rugs conform more to these conditions, and, consequently, they have commercialized the business to some extent.

This does not mean that they are not hand-woven, because they are.

But men have set up a business buying huge quantities of wool, dyeing it and letting it out to the villagers to be woven into rugs and then selling them to the foreigners.

It is an interesting fact, also, that quite a business of this kind is carried on by Armenian refugees in the Greek archipelago, and some of their people are finding work which will prevent starvation.

In studying rugs, we see in the less commercialized rugs the ideas of the people being pictured on their rugs. Some tribes, more remote, can only make blue and red dyes, and their rugs, therefore, are composed of only these colors.

Others have the idea of the Star o Bethlehem shown in their rugs. This figures prominently in Persian rugs. Other tribes use the dog. While another tribe, which dwells in the north, weaves in pictures of all the trees they know. These characteristics make it more interesting to us when we purchase a rug.

A custom in one part of Persia is the making of the love mats. Each young girl, as soon as she is able, commences to weave small mats. At first, these are crude and coarse, but in time she grows more skillful. As each, in turn, is finished, she gives it to a man, until, finally, one day she has become so skillful that, on receiving her mat, some man will decide that it would be good business to marry her, and so the arrangements are made.

It is an interesting sight, in the more remote districts, to see them hung from the limb of a tree with the other end weighted down to the ground and the worker busily tying the tifts of wool which are to become such a beautiful whole.

The work is done outdoors, and, when the caravan moves on, the rug is rolled up until there is time to add some more.

As we furnish our home, it is much more interesting to know that the various articles we place there have a history, and none have any more romantic or fascinating tale to tell than the oriental rug.

COUNTY COUNCIL SESSION ENDED

Warden and Treasurer Authorized To Borrow Money For Year.

NEW MEMBERS HEARD.

At the final session of the County Council this morning the necessary by-laws were passed allowing the Warden and treasurer to borrow money to meet expenditures for the year as the taxes are not paid until the end of the year. They will borrow $90,000 to meet the necessary corporate expenditure, $80,000 for ordinary highway construction, $10,00 for bridge construction, $30,000 for county roads construction and $35,000 for maintenance of the same. The Warden and treasurer were also authorized to borrow certain sums which will be necessary to meet the unknown expenditure on the Provincial Highway. The money will be borrowed from the Bank of Commerce at 5.75 per cent.

Each of the new members was called upon to address the council just before the body adjourned. Deputy Reeve Dobbin of North Monaghan thought the weed cutting on the Provincial Highway was rather high. Last year it cost $476.35 to cut the weeds as far as Scott's Corners and $91.13 as half the cost of the remaining four miles to Frazerville. Ex-warden Curtis suggested that all the bad weeds were not found in Dunmer.

NORMAL STUDENTS ARE ENTERTAINED

Senior Club Members of George Street Church Act as Hosts.

The Senior Club of George street church, the young peoples' association of the church, entertained the Normal students in the Sunday school hall last evening, the affair being attended by over 200 people.

Trevor Miller acted as chairmon for a jolly concert, which included a pianoforte duet by the Misses Bessie Elcock and Alda Bartlett, humorous readings by Miss Eva Outram, a short sing song and three stunts put on by the Normal class in the Sunday school, the major attraction being a camp fire stunt, with appropriate decorations, and a "kitchen" orchestra with kazoos and pans and egg-beaters.

Group games, which formed part of the evening's entertainment, were in charge of the Misses Roseborough, Gladys Coon and Esther Thornton, and Fred Ash. Refreshments were served later. In the absence of the pastor, Rev. Mr. Todd, the guests were welcomed by one of the superannuated ministers of the church, Rev Mr. Brown.

OBITUARY.

DAVID LAW

The death occurred last evening, after an illness extending over many years, of David Law, in his seventy-seventh year. The deceased was a native of Peterborough and spent most of a long life here.

He is survived by his sorrowing wife and two daughters, Mrs. Robert Routley and Mrs. J. T. Braund, both of this city.

The funeral will take place from the residence of Mrs. Routley, 336 Downie street, at half past two o'clock on Monday afternoon, to the Little Lake Cemetery, with services conducted by Adjutant Ham.

JAMES CASSIDY, SENIOR

The Leeds News, of Leeds, North Dakota, under the heading, "The Passing of a Pioneer," contains the following obituary notice. The deceased was born on a farm on the 9th line of Smith, Peterborough County, where he lived for many years. His sister, Mrs. Mary J. Eastland, predeceased him in Peterborough the previous week.

"In the death of James Cassidy Sr., another of Benson County's pioneers is taken from the rapidly decreasing numbers of those who braved hardship and trials of the early pioneer days.

James Cassidy was born at Lakefield, Ontario, Canada, April 12th, 1841, and grew to manhood in the Dominion. In 1869 he was married to Sarah Gillespie and they resided in Canada until 1883 when they went to Oregon. They made their home in Oregon three years, coming to Benson County, in 1886 and taking a homestead in York Township. This homestead was their home until 1909 when they retired from farm life and moved to Leeds to make their permanent home.

Mr. Cassidy has been in poor health for several years but at times has been able to be about and wait on himself and then again would be so poorly that it was thought he could not possibly regain his health. He rallied from several very severe spells in the past few years but the past year he failed rapidly. Death came early Thursday morning, January 13th.

Funeral services were held on Saturday afternoon, January 15th and interment was made here. In the absence of Rev. F. M. Irwin, pastor of the Congregational Church, Rev. W. M. Osborn, of Crary, conducted the services.

His aged wife and four children survive him. One son, Dave Cassidy, died in 1909. W. J. Cassidy, Robert G. Cassidy, reside in Canada, Mrs. C. J. Fox and James Cassidy, Jr., are residents of this city. All of the children were with their father when death called him on. To the bereaved family is extended sincere sympathy at this time."

"Y" SENIORS DEFEAT C.G.E.

Best Game of Season in Ladies' Basketball League.

WESTCLOX LOSES.

The best game of the season was played last night by the "Y" Seniors and the C.G.E. Miss Gertrude Gimblett and Miss Irene Chambers scored in the "Y" Seniors. In the C.G.E. team the honors were divided Miss Violet Langton scoring most. The score at half time was 8 to 5 in favor of the "Y" Seniors, and at full time 16 to 9 in favor of "Y" Seniors.

Line-up for game was:

"Y" Seniors.—Verda Graham, Hazel Jacksan, Irene Chambers, Eva Outram, Dorothy Graham, Gertie Gimblett.

C.G.E.—Dorothy Mortimer, Cathie Taylor, Hazel Plunkett, Violet Langton, Mabel McLaren, Florence Greer, Anine Logan.

Quakers defaulted to "Y" Elementaries.

Westclox vs. Bell Telephone was the second game. Miss Hamilton scoring most shots for the Bell Telephone, and Miss B. Scott for the Westclox. Good combination was shown but Westclox did not show their usual form. Splendid team work was shown by Bell Telephone.

Line-up for game was:

Westclox.—G. McIlwain, I. Thornbeck, B. Scott, C. Finley, G. Thomas. Sub., K. Murphy.

DOCTORS FIND CAUSE OF FLU

COMES FROM NOSE.

LONDON, Jan. 29.—(Canadian Press.)—A letter from two Edinburgh doctors, David and Robert Thomson, brothers, recounting the discovery of what they term an unusual streptococcus, has aroused another discussion over influenza bacillus.

The letter, which appears in the medical journal, "The Lancet," says the streptococcus was obtained from the nasal discharge and blood of one of the brothers who was suffering from flu. They were expecting to find "bacterium pneumosints" discovered by Doctors Clitsky and Gates of the Rockefeller Institute, which supposedly but unprovedly is the cause of disease. They tell of failing to discover the "obeyniaubtsm and of their surprise in finding this new streptococcus which tentatively suggests a real cause, invading the blood from a primary focus in the nose."

What is probably the most extraordinary forest in the world occupies a narrow tableland near the West Coast of Africa. Though their trunks are as much as four feet in diameter, the trees only reach a height of one foot. No tree bears more than two leaves, and the latter are sometimes six feet long.

REFINANCING OF $8,325,000 INVESTMENT IS GIVEN AS REASON BY CHIEF ENGINEER

Change Affects Only Municipalities Not Owing Their Own Services — Oshawa, Belleville, Lindsay, Cobourg Are Included—Kingston Has No Increase.

(Special to The Examiner)

TORONTO, Jan. 31.—Refinancing of the $8,325,000 investment made by the Ontario Government ten years ago in the Central Hydro-Electric district, was given by F. A. Gaby, Chief Hydro Engineer, today as the reason why the Hydro power rates have been increased twenty-five per cent in Oshawa, Belleville, Peterborough, Lindsay, Cobourg, Port Hope, Brighton, Trenton, Napanee and some other municipalities in the Central district. Kingston, at the other end of the section, included in the district, is not affected by the increase because of the conditions in its original agreement. The original agreement of the Canada Cement at Belleville, a big power user, also puts that company in a position where it is not affected by the latest increase.

Chief Engineer Gaby would not enumerate the particular municipalities which would have to pass the increased rate, but it is understood that the towns stated will be assessed the higher power charge which Oshawa is fighting.

Mr. Gaby flatly denied the claim made by Mayor S. D. Preston that the rate increase was in violation of certain contracts and agreements with the Hydro. The franchise agreement permits the Hydro to charge a much higher rate than it is charging now, he said. The Hydro could go as high as eight cents per kilowatt hour, whereas the rate for the last ten years since the Government took over the services the rate has been three cents, increased to four by the latest change. Before the taking over in 1916 the rate was ten cents.

Under the new rate, Oshawa and a number of municipalities will pay just twice as much as Toronto

BIG BUS FALLS ABOUT 50 FEET

NEAR TILLSONBURG.

TILLSONBURG, Ont., Jan. 31.—The recent mild weather has played havoc with the roads of this district and has been the cause of numerous accidents over the week-end culminating on Saturday night when one of the large United Lines' buses plying between St. Thomas and Simcoe, went over the embankment at the famouse Forge Hill, west of Tillsonburg, taking a drop of about 50 feet from the roadbed to the Otetr River below, the nose of the huge bus being almost totally immersed. At the time of the accident there were only four passengers on board with the driver, Reginald Crosbie of Simcoe, all of them escaping without injury.

Three of the passengers were district men: James Devlin of Tillsonburg, George Raymond, employed by Robert Scott of Bayham Township, and J. V. Smith, a laborer. The fourth passenger was headed for Simcoe, and his name was not learned. Aparently something went wrong near the top of the hill, and Crosbie did everything he could to stop the vehicle, succeeding at last in getting it in low gear, but the big bus kept making its way toward the fence on the icy road, finally breaking off three of the fence posts and tearing down the wire fence.

Fortunately for the occupants, the bus headed straight down the embankment, instead of toppling over on its side and came to rest with the whole front part under the water.

FRONTIER FORTS BEING DISCUSSED

German and Allies Commissions Nearing Agreement On Demolition.

HAVE TILL MIDNIGHT.

PARIS, Jan. 31. Canadian Press.—The Inter-allied Military Control Committee presided over by Marshal Foch, and the German delegation, headed by General Von Pawolz, have virtually reached an eleventh hour agreement on the question of Germany's eastern frontier fortifications. One point alone remains unsettled namely the number of fortified works to be destroyed in the Koenigsburg, Kuestrin and Plogav zones.

The Germans have communicated with the Berlin government on the subject, and it is expected they will be abl- to satisfy Marshal Foch and his colleagues before the expiration at midnight to-night of the time limit for consideration of the German military control question by the Control Committee.

OPUS MAGNUM IS TRANSLATED

Roger Bacon's Great Work Written in English By Philadelphia Man.

TOOK FOUR YEARS.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 31.—The first translation into a modern language ever made of Roger Bacon's entire "Opus Magnum" has just been completed by Dr. Robert Belle Burke, dean of the college of the University of Pennsylvania, and professor of Latin, it was revealed yesterday. Dr. Burke has translated the work into English.

Four years were required to complete the translation, which was begun at the suggestion of the late Dr. William Romaine Newbold, who was professor of intellectual and moral philosophy at the University of Pennsylvania, and whose solution of the famous cipher used by Bacon in his writings attracted world-wide attention.

The "Opus Magnum," the two volumes of which in Latin contain more than 800 pages, is a resume of the learning of the 13th century and is almost encyclopaedic in its range. It was composed by Bacon, Franciscan monk and scientist, at the request of Pope Clement IV, and was sent to him in 1266.

In one section Bacon emphasizes the need of experimetnal method in the search for truths, pointing out that reasoning and logic alone cannot always lead to accurate knowledge.

In another passage he digresses from his usual scientific channel of thought and describes with apparent sincerity, a complicated formula which he offers as an elixir to prolong life. In this passage Bacon describes in detail the various components which should comprise the formula, stressing the specific value of each.

FRENCH CAPITAL IS SUSPICIOUS OF THE NEW FRENCH CABINET TROUBLE OVER RHINE PREDICTED

Reconciliation Policy With Reichstag Is Believed Threatened.

PAPERS COMMENT.

Temps Says New Cabinet Represents Great Advance For Nationalists.

PARIS, Jan. 31.—The new German Cabinet was coldly received in Paris, as was to have been expected. France could not be expected to derive any assurance from a German movement to the Right and the prediction is freely made here that the policy of reconciliation between Germany and France will suffer.

While a Government depending on the Nationalists for a majority in the Reichstag and containing Dr. Otto Gessler as Minister of Defence can only with difficulty be held up as a Government of democracy and republicanism, nevertheless it seems worth-while pointing out that when Premier Poincare became the Premier of France the Germans predicted that Locarno had gone to the bad and, yet, Poincare has not done a great deal to interfere with Aristide Briand's foreign policy, regardless of how he personally feels about it.

Considering that Gustav Stresemann remains in the new German Cabinet, as M. Briand is still in Poincare's Cabinet, one may say that if the German Cabinet has four Nationalists, Drs. Hergt, Graefe, Koch and Schiele, the French Cabinet likewise includes Mm. Poincare, Barthou, Tardieu, Marin and Bokanowski.

Interesting enough the first duty of the new German Government will be to act on the negotiations now going on with regard to the alleged German defaults on the miitary provisions of the Treaty of Versailles. If the two capitals do not agree by February 1, the contest goes before the Council of the League of Nations. All the points are now agreed upon, except the German eastern fortification, and a special meeting is to be held to-day to try to reach a settlement.

If the Marx Cabinet shows a spirit of compromise the result may be to assuage French fears aroused by the political complexion of the new Government of the Reich.

The Temps finds that the new German Cabinet represents a great advance for the Nationalists and lays that at the door of President von Hindenburg. The Temps says that when Dr. Gessler was repudiated by his own party and suspected by all the German republicans, how can it be expected that the French will not be suspicious of his intentions.

This paper sees a return to the old monarchical system by which the army stood above political consideration, and adds:

"The new Cabinet marks a grave check for democratic Germany and a warning for Europe, of which all the friends of peace must take account."

The Journal des Debats says it expects no good of the new German Government, but is willing to wait and see. It refuses to believe that the Nationalists are sincere when they say that they are in favor of the spirit of Locarno.

The Gaulois says that if the formation of the new Cabinet opens the eyes of the French who believed that Germany was really republican, it will have accomplished some good for France.

Pertinax in the Echo de Paris predicts that the new Government will follow the Locarno plan as long as it promises something for Ger-

Duchess Uses Airplane To Keep Pace With Times

LONDON, Jan. 31 — The Duchess of Bedford, one of the newest recruits to flying, threatens to become a rival of Mrs. Sophie Elliott Lynn, Britain's pioneer airwoman. The duchess does not have her own airplane, as she prefers to hire one for occasions. She makes frequent trips from London to Manchester by air, and also always goes to her seat at Newton Stewart, Wigan boro, by the same method.

The duchess contends that to keep pace with the times, it is cheaper, in a way, to hire machines and thus avoid the expense of upkeep.

Stolen $31,000 Found On Street By a Youth

FLINT, Mich., Jan. 31.—Thirty-one thousand dollars in securities, which were in an automobile stolen here Tuesday evening from Charles E. Godfrey, of Bancroft, were turned over to the police Saturday by Ira Honeyball, 21 years old, 2434 Lippincott Boulevard.

Honeyball sent a telegram to Godfrey at Bancroft Saturday saying he had the missing securities in his possession.

Honeyball told the police that he found the securities, a quantity of clothing and two travelling bags in the street near his home while returning from a park where he had been skating.

The car was abandoned in another part of the city five miles from Honeyball's home.

Honeyball said when he found the valuables they were lying beside the two bags which had been ransacked.

FIRE DESTROYS CRYSTAL PALACE

UNKNOWN ORIGIN.

LONDON, Ont., Jan. 31 (Canadian Press).—The central building, known as the Crystal Palace, at the Western Fair Grounds, was totally destroyed by fire of unknown origin early yesterday morning. It was possibly one of the best known buildings in Western Ontario, as it was erected some 40 years ago, and has been visited by many hundreds of thousands of people.

The fire was discovered by a passer-by shortly before 4 a.m., and at that time the interior of the building was a mass of flames. By the time the firemen reached the scene, there was no possibility of saving the structure, which was located near the main entrance to the grounds and rather apart from other structures. Within a few minutes after the fire fighters arrived, the roof of the building fell in, and shortly afterward the walls went down. All that remains is a pile of charred timbers, some twisted pipes and a pile of tin which formerly was the roof.

The women's rest room about 20 feet from the burned structure was saved. Other buildings were considerably further away. There was quite a wind from the south-west, and burning embers were carried for long distance, but fortunately there had been a heavy rain a few hours before and practically no other fires were started, although the roof of the Park Hotel, about two city blocks east of the building, was on fire twice. Part of the tin roof of the burning building was found three-quarters of a mile east on the grounds of the Ontario Hospital. Paint on buildings across the street was scorched. The fire was possibly the most spectacular in London in the last five or six years, as flames shot high into the air, particularly just after the roof caved in. The fire was seen for miles, and inquiries regarding it came from as far east as Woodstock and from points almost equally distant in other directions. Western Fair Board officials were not ready to state yesterday just what their loss is, but estimates are as high as $75,000, with about $50,000 of insurance. There is to be a meeting of the board to-day, when plans for a new building will be discussed. For some time it has been recognized that a larger building was necessary and extensions to this building have been made on several occasions.

"Keep Quiet, You Idiot" Parrot Yells At Judge

GRATZ, Austria, Jan. 31—(AP) — Brought into a court room as an exhibit, an African parrot addressed the judge in such a way that the court refused to proceed with the case.

The suit was brought against Jacob H. Dieser, boarding-house roomer and owner of the parrot, by Henry Bergner, living in an adjoining room, who complained that every time he started moving about Dieser's parrot would shriek "keep quiet, you idiot!"

Hardly had the judge started a remark when the parrot, on a perch near the bench, yelled "keep quiet, you idiot!"

Then the judge decided that such a courageous bird deserved some consideration and declined to grant the demand for its destruction.

SHIPS COLLIDE IN HEAVY FOG

American Steamer Juvigny Sunk By British Vessel—Crew Rescued.

STEAMER ASHORE.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 31 (Canadian Press).—The American steamship Juvigny was sunk in Delaware Bay to-day when she collided with the British freighter Valemore. The crew of thirty was saved. A heavy fog was hanging over the bay at the time of the collision. The Valemore is bringing the rescued men to this city.

According to the men aboard the ships, the vessels were on "top of each other" before the navigators on the bridges realized the danger. Sirens screamed and propellors were reversed, but it was too late.

The bay was filled with floating ice and it was with great difficulty that the boats of the Valemore were lowered.

Pushing their way through the floes, the rescuers made their way to the Juvigny, which sank a few minutes after the crew had been removed.

Steamer Ashore.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (Canadian Press). — The steamer Anthony O'Boyle, bound from Norfolk to Boston, ran aground at Vineyard Haven, Mass., during a heavy fog yesterday and is leaking badly. The heavy fog was responsible for three marine accidents, but no lives were lost.

EXCITED YOUTH CAUSE OF PANIC

Shouts Fire During Showing of Picture, "The Fire Fighters."

THREE PEOPLE HURT.

BAYONNE, N. J., Jan. 1. United News. — Three persons were injured in a stampede that followed the cry of "Fire" in the Strand Theatre yesterday.

The young man who emitted the cry of alarm had become excited over the picture, which was entitled "The Fire Fighters."

When a fire engine rolled into view on the screen the boy stood in his seat and shouted "Fire!"

The audience of 300 persons rushed for the exits and three persons were trampled.

STORMS DAMAGED SHIPS ON ATLANTIC

Vessels "Walchern" and "Storviken" Reported Adrift in Mid-Atlantic.

LONDON, Jan 31. Canadian Press—Storms on the Atlantic are responsible for damage to two vessels reported in distress by wireless messages to Lloyd's from Valencia. The Dutch steamer Walchern, 2130 tons bound for Bremen, suffered great damage 400 miles west of Sicily, losing several of the lifeboats while the Norwegian teamer Storviken, 2975 tons from Copenhagen for Boston, battled for seven days in a storm. She drifted westward, the rudder having been put out of commission. Her afterhold is full of water and she is short of coal, and is trying to make Saint John, Nfld. If the storm does not abate she may go to the Azores.

Says Present System In China Is Unsuited To Modern Conditions

Sir Austen Chamberlain An nounces in Making Known Chinese Settlement Poli cy — Recognize Chinese Courts With New Codes and Tariff Autonomy.

LACK OF NATIONAL GO VERNMENT LEADS TO SUGGESTION O F UNILATERAL ACTION

BIRMINGHAM, England, Jan. 31 (Canadian Press).—Coming authoritatively from Sir Austen Chamberlain, Secretary for Foreign Affairs, Great Britain's proposals looking for a settlement of the Chinese problem, were outlined to the public Saturday night.

In a long speech devoted entirely to Chinese relations, Sir Austen declared that Great Britain was prepared for change on all points desired by China—extra-territoriality, the tariff, and the quasi independent status of the concessions.

On all these points, the present system, he contended, was antiquated, unsuited to modern conditions, and no longer afforded protection to British merchants.

The much-discussed proposal which Charge O'Malley had presented to the Cantonese Foreign Minister at Hankow, the Foreign Minister said, included recognition of modern Chinese law courts without the attendance of British officials, as competent courts for cases brought by British complainants. The British Government, he added, was ready to apply to British courts in China existing modern Chinese civil and criminal codes and duly enacted subordinate legislation.

"We will go further than this," the Secretary continued, "as soon as all the Chinese codes and judical administration are ready. We are prepared to make British subjects liable to pay the regular Chinese taxation not involving discrimination against British subjects or goods.

"This would include taxation levied under a national tariff when such a law is promulgated, and so far as we alone can effect such an object, this removes the last obstacle to full tariff autonomy.

"As regards the concession, we are prepared to enter into local arrangements according to the particular circumstances of each port, either for the amalgamation of the administration with that of adjacent areas under Chinese control, or for some other method of handing over the administration to the Chinese, while securing to the British community due voice in municipal matters.

"You will see that we go much farther than half way. But I am certain it is the right and wise course to take. I am thinking, not of the inconvenience of the moment, but of our relations with China for the next 100 years.

"These proposals can be put into force by the unilateral action of the British government. For the moment there can be no new treaty for a treaty can only be signed with a recognized government, and we cannot yet recognize any government as the government of the whole of China."

Dangerous Factor

The Secretary admitted that the anti-British policy of the Cantonese was an additional difficulty in dealing with them, and discursed at length the reasons why Great Britain was singled out for this attack. He protested that the so-called opium war, which had opened China to foreign trade, was no more an opium war than the American War of Independence was a tea war. Declaring that alien influences did not realtate to preach to the Chinese that the British were more responsible

REPORT SHOWS PURCHASES HAVE HEAVY INCREASE

Year's Trade Report for the Dominion Considered Satisfactory.

EXPORTS LARGER.

Negotiations of New Commercial Treaties is Being Contemplated.

OTTAWA, Jan. 31. — Canadian trade affairs for the last calendar year are outlined in a report just issued by the bureau of statistics. Some of the figures tell an interesting tale. They show, for one thing, that Canada's purchases abroad have been greater in every branch of trade in 1923, as compared with the two previous years. The total value of imports in 1926 was $1,008,341,911, of which $642,442,478 were dutiable, and $365,893,433 duty free. The duty collected amounted to $155,166,405, which is lightly under 25 per cent. of the value of the dutiable goods on the average. The imports last year were $100,700,000 greater than in 1925, and $290,000,000 greater than in 1924. Exports in 1926 were $1,233,939,268, about $850,000 more than in 1925, and more than $200,000,000 above the 1924 figures.

Empire Treaties.

Canada purchased $144,708,959 worth from the United Kingdom, and sold the Old Country $459,226,013 worth. She bought $669,457,564 worth from the United States, and sold that country $465,205,500 worth. The British West Indies and Australian treaties show their worth in greater business with those countries in both sides of the ledger. Canada's desire to negotiate a trade treaty with Cuba is probably a result of what has been learned from totalling up the 1621 figures. Imports are down greatly and exports dropped quite a bit.

Chinese Situation.

War with China is shown to be bad business for Canada. In recent years trade with that country has been growing rapidly. Last year's imports from China totalled $4,797,477 in value, almost double those of the previous year. Exports of Canadian goods to China last year amounted to $18,242,290 in value. Exports have been growing at the rate of several millions a year. Imports from Germany have almost doubled yearly in the last three years, and Canada's exports to the Fatherland are declining. Russia spurted in 1925, when she took goods from Canada to the value of more than $14,000,000; last year exports to Russia were less than a million and a quarter.

Mainly Satisfactory.

The trade returns generally are regarded as highly satisfactory, except in one or two minor spots. Reports are heard that the government sees many chances to get business in South America, despite the manner in which the United States has sealed up most of the countries there, and observers here would not be surprised to see the Finance Minister, Hon. James Robb, produce half a dozen treaties to aid trade this year.

Sing Sing was named after the Sin-Sinck Indians, who originally lived in the neighborhood where the New York prison now stands.

Former Empress Charlotte Leaves Legacy of About $720,000.

BRUSSELS, Jan. 31 (Canadian Press) — The estate of the former Empress Charlotte, widow of Maximillian, one time emperor of Mexico, will be about $720,000, after deducting inheritance taxes and other charges, the Belga Agency understands, so that each of the six heirs will receive $120,000.

Probably the oldest typist in the world is Miss Jane Sharman, who recently celebrated her ninety-fifth birthday. She still manages an orphanage in London which she established sixty years ago, and personally typewrites her correspondence.

SAYS PROVINCES SURE TO FOLLOW MARITIME LEAD

Premier John Oliver Makes Forecast When Asking For Readjustment.

BETTER TERMS.

Expect Ask For Royal Commission To Probe Whole Matter.

VICTORIA, B.C., Jan. 31 (Canadian Press).—If the Federal Parliament gives effect to the recommendations of the Royal Commission, which last year investigated the claims of the Maritime Provinces for better treatment, the other six provinces of Canada will immediately demand readjustment of the terms on which they form part of the Dominion.

Premier John Oliver made this prediction when he laid his "better terms" case before the Legislature, and appealed to the House to forget politics in a united effort to secure the return of the railway grant lands to provincial control, and to "secure this measure of justice to which the province is entitled."

Influence Ottawa.

Bring in his motion asking the Legislature's approval of past endeavors to support of future efforts, the Premier said he believed that if the British Columbia House passed the resolution, it would have a hastening effect on the Ottawa administration.

British Columbia had paid for the construction of the Canadian Pacific railway, "not only with the pound of flesh, but with the drop of blood," he contended. The province paid first when it contributed its full quota of land, a second time in the form of its proportion of $73,000,000 public moneys of the Dominion expended in aid of construction, and a third time in the form of what he declared to be exhorbitant freight rates.

B. C. Neglected.

Mr. Oliver continued:

"I believe from my past experience there is lack of interest in the Federal capital in regard to British Columbia's interests. This is a question on which we must forget political advantage. For my part, I am actuated solely by a desire to serve British Columbia. I ask the members to bend their united efforts to secure this measure of justice to which the province is entitled."

The debate was adjourned by H. D. Twigg, Conservative, Victoria. It is understood that he will offer an amendment to the Premier's motion, calling for the appointment by the Dominion Government of a Royal Commission to go into the whole matter of "better terms" in a similar way to what was done in the case of the Maritime provinces.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

SOMEWHERE HOME

Dreaming in the twilight,
Longing in the gloam
For a glimpse of my light;
Leading somewhere home,
Wishing, when I'm weary,
Not for fame or gold,
But a cottage cheery
And the friends of old.

Though so much we covet,
Though so much desire,
Oh, the poorness of it
Far from home and fire,
Wishing, while we bicker,
Not for gold or fame,
But the firelight's flicker
And the candle's flame.

Somewhere there are mothers;
Somewhere there are friends;
What are all the others,
When the journey ends?
Take away your platters,
Heaped however high;
All that ever matters
Gold can never buy.

Fast the years are flitting;
While the hair grows white;
Sometime you'll be sitting
As I sit tonight;
Dreaming in the twilight;
Longing in the gloam,
For a glimpse of my light;
Leading somewhere home.

May Test Heart Action Of Criminal In Chair By Recording Beats On Film, Warden Reveals

OSSINING, N.Y., Jan. 31.—Warden Lawes of Sing Sing Prison said yesterday that plans were being considered for making a scientific study of the heart action of a man put to death in the electric chair.

If the plans are carried out, delicate apparatus will be attached to criminals as they are strapped into the chair. This will record the heart action before, during and after the current has passed throug the body.

"No formal application has been made to me for permission to carry on this study," said Warden Lawes, "but I understand that the subject is being considered by specialists including a representative of the Rockefeller Institute.

Formerly it took three shocks of electricity to dispatch the man in the electric chair; and there was some skepticism then as to whether the shock actually caused death. There were some who believed that the death sentence was actually carried out on the autopsy table.

"An electrical engineer of the General Electric Company investigated the electric chair and made certain improvements. He enabled us to kill with a single shock. He and certain medical men are now considering the possibility of studying the reaction of the condemned man to the current of electricity that is passed through the body."

The instrument to be used in the proposed test is an extremely delicate one which records on motion-picture film the electrical impulses that accompany heart action. It is so sensitive that it will record in one-thousandth part of a second.

More Fires In 1926, But Fires Decreased

TORONTO, Jan. 31.—The toll of damages which fire exacted in Ontario during the 12 months of 1926 is placed in figures which the Provincial Fire Marshal has compiled at $12,535,909. The total is lower by $1,300,000 than the 1925 total of $13,845,000. Despite this decreased loss, however, the number of fires during the last year are declared to have been 497 greater in number.

BETHANY PERSONALS

BETHANY, Jan. 31.—Mr. R. C. Waram spent the week end with Toronto friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Price attended the funeral of the late Mr. Edwin Veal of St. Catharines at Nestleton on Tuesday.

Mrs. Ona Thorndyke went to Nestleton on Monday to be present at the funeral of her late brother-in-law, Mr. Edwin Veal, on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Jemison spent Tuesday visiting their son, Arthur Jemison, Cavan.

A game of hockey between Omemee and Bethany was played on the skating rink here on Monday night, the score being 4-1 in favor of Omemee. Two of the boys on the home team received injuries requiring a doctor's attention, Arthur Jemison getting his lower lip spilt, which needed four stitches and Harold Palmer getting a cut beneath the eye which required three.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Flack spent Wednesday visiting Peterborough friends.

Mrs. Lamb of London is visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. William Mulligan.

Mrs. Isaiah Strong was a visitor to Peterboro on Wednesday.

Mrs. Tom Logan spent Wednesday in Lindsay on business.

A meeting of the Ladies' Aid of the United church was held at the parsonage on Wednesday afternoon. In spite of the extreme cold quite a number of ladies attended. It was decided during the meeting, which was conducted by Mrs. Poulter, that there would be no social activities for a few weeks until those of the members who are ill have recovered, and that sometime before Easter some form of entertainment would be held to help the treasury funds of which are becoming very low.

Mrs. Poulter then served a dainty supper and a social time was spent.

Mr. Fred Gray, reeve of Manvers, is attending the County Council at Cobourg this week.

YOUNG TO MAKE OVER $100,000

Places Prize Money in Trust, Mother To Draw Interest.

OWN ARRANGEMENT.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31, (Canadian Press).—George Young, the 17-year-old Toronto boy who swam the Catalina Channel, will make between $100,000 and $150,000 as a result of his exploit, William Wrigley, Jr., who promoted the swim, said upon his arrival here yesterday from the Pacific coast.

Wrigley also revealed that his swimming party cost him about $100,000. Besides Young and 101 others who swam, there were about 1,500 other guests of Mr. Wrigley, none of whom got wet.

"I had a good time," said Wrigley. "It was worth all it cost. I don't know whether there will be another one. I haven't recovered from this one yet. You know you can't pull a party like that every few minutes. Young is one of the greatest young men I have ever met. I am convinced that he is the only man in the world who could have completed that terrific swim.

"When I left California Young was making $1,000 a day in public appearances. His $25,000 prize money is intact. My attorney has the bank book. His mother suggested he take 40 per cent. of the cash to use, but he refused, and the money is to be put in trust, the mother to draw interest until she dies and George to get interest until he is forty, when he is to get the principal. It is his own arrangement."

EAST EMILY NEWS

EAST EMILY, Jan. 31 — Mrs. William Casey spent a few days last week with relatives at Fenelon Falls, where she attended her cousin's funeral.

Mrs. Skuce has returned home after spending the past week with her daughter, Mrs. David Wilson, of Otonabee.

Mr. Wellington Lowes held an auction sale of his farm stock and implements at his home on the seventh concession of Emily on Wednesday, Jan. 19.

The prices brought for both stock and implements proved very satisfacty and a great many men were in attendance, despite the inclement weather.

Mr. Jackson of Port Perry was auctioneer.

Mr. Wiliam Moncrief of South Monaghan spent Thursday visiting with his nephew, Mr. Walter Moncrief of East Emily.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Brien entertained a large number of their friends at dancing in their home on Thursday evening.

Get Radio Licenses Or Appear In Court

OTTAWA, Jan. 31.—Unlicensed radio set owners are likely to find themselves in court. Despite warnings issued, the Department of Marine and Fisheries at Ottawa states that there are still many unlicensed radio receiving sets. Prosecutions are now being ordered from coast to coast and will be vigorously pursued, says the department.

OLD MASTERS

How sleep the brave, who sink to rest
By all their country's wishes blest!
When Spring, with dewy fingers cold,
Returns to deck their hallowed mould,
She there shall dress a sweeter sod
Than Fancy's feet have ever trod.

By fairy hands their knell is rung,
By forms unseen their dirge is sung:
There Honor comes, a pilgrim gray,
To bless the turf that wraps the clay;
And Freedom shall awhile repair
To dwell a weeping hermit there!
—W. Collins: Ode Written in 1746.

TOLL INCREASED OVER HURRICANE

Report Shows Twenty Killed When Gale Sweeps Britain.

MANY INJURED.

LONDON, Jan. 31. Canadian Press—The death tolls of the great rain and wind storm which swept Great Britain from the south of England to the northern tip of Scotland Friday and Saturday night, had reached 20 with fully 300 injured by the flying debris.

Nineteen of the deaths were in Scotland, while one was in Armagh, Ireland.

Furthog damage has been reported while despatches from the more remote towns showed the great extent of the storm area.

Early Saturday morning London was visited by a winter thunderstorm of unprecedented severity during which hundreds of wireless aerials, trees, fences and chimney pots, were hurled through the air. Several persons were injured by falling shop signs and pieces of masonry.

On the Bridge Road modishly dressed wax dummies, complete with the latest hats were hurled about the roadway.

Almost 150 long distance telephone lines in England and seven of the 18 Paris lines, were disabled. Although torrential rain fell in London, Scotland and Northern England had a regular blizzard which added to the difficulties of clearing up the debris scattered during the storm. The Oxford and Cambridge boat crews braved the weather for practice on the Thames but found the going exceedingly hard.

The worst of the storm was abated but it still continued gusty and the official weather forecasts hold out the discouraging prospect of another depression from the Atlantic, which would bring more storms.

Heavy seas battered shipping all along the British coast line. The sailings of the Cunarder Aurania for New York and the White Star Cermic for Australia were held up for many hours, as they were unable to embark their passengers. But the air services to the continent continued, although the pilots were reported to be storm tossed.

In Western England, numerous rivers are overflowing.

Despite everything both the reception and transmission by trans-Atlantic radiophone Sunday was remarkably good.

STORE IS DAMAGED AT FENELON FALLS

Fire Partially Destroys Upper Storey of People's Produce Store.

LINDSAY, Jan. 31.—The upper storey of the People's Produce store at Fenelon Falls has been partially destroyed by a fire of unknown origin. The contents of the store were badly damaged by the chemical in the hands of the village fire brigade. Had the fire gained further headway, the entire brick block would undoubtedly have been destroyed. The stock was covered by insurance.

Mr. M. Littleton, a member of the brigade, was badly injured when a cap on the chemical engine blew off, striking him in the face and causing several deep cuts.

Hadn't Spoken Since '11 So Couple Are Divorced

AKRON, O., Jan. 31 (A.P.).—Sixteen years of married life, during which husband and wife lived in the same home without speaking to each other, were revealed here Saturday when a divorce was granted to Mrs. Elizabeth Arnold, 69 years old, from her husband, John Arnold, 71, farmer.

The Arnolds had been married 50 years. Mrs. Arnold charged that her husband ceased speaking to her in 1910 "even at times sleeping in the barn to aggrieve her, and habitually ignoring and treating her with contempt."

Testimony at the hearing showed that when meals were served, Mrs. Arnold rang a bell to summon her husband. They then sat at the table together, each reaching for food without asking for it to be passed.

NEWS BRIEFS.

CANADIAN DIES.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Jan. 31.—(Canadian Press).—Major-General James C. MacDougall, who commanded the Canadian Training Division at Shorncliffe, England, in 1915-16, died at King Edward Hospital here yesterday.

Major-General MacDougall was born in Toronto in 1863. He joined the Canadian permanent force in 1885; served in South Africa and throughout the European war.

ARRIVE AT BASE.

MT. CLEMENS, Mich., Jan. 31.—(Canadian Press).—Ten of the army pursuit planes from the army air base at Selfridge field, near here, arrived at the home base last night after completing a good-will tour of Canadian cities. Two of the planes, disabled, were left behind near Rochester, N. Y., and a convoy plane at Oswego, according to Major P. N. Lanphier, in command of the tour.

STEAMERS COLLIDE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—(Canadian Press).—The White Star passenger steamer Celtic and the American Diamond Line steamer Anaconda collided during a thick fog near Nantucket today. A wireless message from the Celtic said the steamer had received some damage above the water line and was proceeding to Boston. The Anaconda, from Rotterdam, was able to continue her journey to New York.

POSTPONE CONTESTS.

DETROIT, Mich., Jan. 31.—(Canadian Press).—Soggy ice again caused the postponement of the national ice skating races here yesterday. A third attempt to stage the contests will be made tonight.

OBITUARY.

JAMES GIBSON.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 31—The funeral of the late James Gibson took place on Friday morning from his late residence on George street to St. Mary's Catholic church, where services were conductd by Rev. Father Phelan.

Interment took place in the Roman Catholic cemetery, Warkworth.

JOHN W. LUCAS.

The death occurred yesterday at his late residence in Bailieboro, of John W. Lucas, aged 86, a highly respected citizen in the community.

In former years he conducted a successful carriage manufacturing business, retiring afterwards to take up farming. Later he retired from farming and took up residence in Bailieboro. He was an Anglican by religion and in politics was an ardent Conservative.

He is survived by two daughters, Mrs. Dawson of Bailieboro and Miss Minnie Lucas at home; one son, W. T. Lucas, Progressive member for Camrose, Alberta, in the Federal House.

The funeral will take place from his late residence on Wednesday, at 2 o'clock to St. Paul's cemetery on the fourth line of Cavan.

DAVID BARRIE.

NORWOOD, Jan. 31. — Sadness again overspread Norwood when it became known that another of her highly respected residents, Mr. David Barrie had passed away.

The deceased who was in his 73rd year, had been in failing health for quite a while and was taken to Mrs. Cumming's private hospital at Havelock, a week ago. All that could be done for him was done but of no avail. What makes his passing doubly sorrowful is the fact that his wife is in a very serious condition, and also that their eldest daughter, Mrs. George Barr, died about a month ago.

The funeral will be held from his late residence in Dummer on Monday afternoon, and interment will be made in the family plot in Norwood cemetery.

His wife, one daughter, Miss Jennie Barrie, and two sons Mr. W. J. Barrie and Mr. Roderick Barrie, are left to mourn the loss of a good and kind husband and father.

JAPAN GROWING ANTI-BRITISH

Feeling Aroused by the Dispatch of Troops.

AGREE WITH STATES.

TOKIO, Jan. 31 (Canadian Press) — An undercurrent of anti-British feeling is intimated in many of the vernacular newspapers because of the movement of troops to China.

At the same time the journals express almost unanimous approval of the statement of Frank B. Kellogg, United States Secretary of State, the Kokumin Shimbun, one of the leading Japanese dailies, saying that the United States attitude reflects wisdom and good sense in contradiction to the British steps.

The Nichi Nichim, an independent afternoon newspaper, published in Osaka, welcomes the United States statemen, but fears that the British proposal to relinquish concessions might undermine the United States and Japanese positions.

The Jiji Shimpo, widely read by officials and business men, finds the United States and the Japanese policy of neutrality to be sympathetic and considerate. The Journal coincidentally remarks that such a policy will go a long way toward encouraging the Chinese.

TRADE REPORT

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 29 (Canadian Press)—The weekly trade report of the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association Limited, reads as follows:

Saint John: The volume of business reported by the wholesale trade during the past week is just fair. The retail trade is still inclined to be rather slow. Collections fair.

Montreal: A good volume of business is reported by the wholesale trade throughout the province with an increase in the sale of dry goods over the previous week. Boot and shoe dealers report business is evident in the gent's furnishings and clothing line. Ladies' wear, however, continues fairly quiet but considered satisfactory. All lines of hardware, electrical goods, etc., have been brisk. Other lines are very fair. A fair volume of business has been transacted with city retailers during the past week and conditions in the country are considered fair. Wholesale collections may be considered fair. Retail, however, is a little slow. The activity of the building trade continues unabated and lumber centers are expecting a large cut. Pulp and paper companies are very busy and in many cases are increasing their plants. Mining camps also report a good amount of ore mined with a satisfactory yield. Unemployment in the city of Montreal appears less than usual and practically none reported elsewhere in the province.

Toronto: The steady demand for seasonable goods such as heavy underwear, clothing, rubbers, overshoes etc., continues unabated, according to reports received from the wholesale trade Other lines however are still comparatively quiet. A very satisfactory volume of business is being transacted by the retail merchants. Collections on the whole are fair.

Winnipeg wholesale dry goods and boots and shoes dealers continue to report a normal volume of business. Hardware and other lines are fairly quiet but considered satisfactor.. A fairly steady demand for seasonable goods, such as heavy underwear, clothing, rubbers, overshoes etc., is reported by the retail merchants and clearance sales have to some extent increased their volume. Collections satisfactory.

Regina: Wholesale grocers report a fair volume of business during the past week. Dry goods and boots and shoes, however, are very quiet; hardware and other lines report sales as quiet but satisfactory. Retailers have been doing a very fair volume of business, while country merchants report things as quiet. Wholesale and country retail collections are still very slow. City merchants however advise that their accounts are being cleaned up in a satisfactory manner.

Saskatoon: Wholesale grocers and drygoods dealers advise a satisfactory increase of volume of the previous week. Boots and shoes and hardware sale fair; other lines just fair. City retail trade slow; country fair. Wholesalers report collections during the past week as rather slow. City retailers fair; retail country slow. The cold weather prevailing during the past week has to some extent kept people at home.

Calgary: Business continues steady—numerous merchandise sales are in some quarers slightly affecting the retail trade, but all indications point to satisfactory business for some months to come. Collections fair.

Edmonton: Wholesale and retail trade generally steady; collections not up to expectations.

Vancouver: A fair volume of business is reported by local manufacturers. Wholesale grocery sales are good. Other lines fair to good and improving. The retail trade during the past week has been inclined to be quiet.

Hotel Serves 250 Guests Five Miles From Kitchens

WINNIPEG, Man., Jan. 31.—Something new in long distance catering was undertaken in Winipeg today, when the Western Retail Lumbermen's Association, which is holding its annual convention here this week, sat down to a luncheon in the Manitoba Gypsum Mill, more than five miles from the heart of the city. There were two hundred and fifty guests present, and the catering was undertaken by the Fort Garry Hotel.

All the equipment and food had to be moved from the hotel to the mill and a train of the C.N.R. was required for the purpose. The equipment included 2,500 pieces of cutlery; 3,000 pieces of china; 350 pieces of linen; 32 long tables; 300 chairs; an electric range; three 12-foot steam tables; and three 12-foot steam plate warmers.

FRENCH CAPITAL IS SUSPICIOUS

many, but, afterwards, will throw it aside ruthlessly.

All in all the new German Government appears headed toward serious difficulties in persuading the French to get off the Rhine this year and that certainly is what Germany expects.

Failure to do that may have a repercussion in Germany and cause Wilhelmstrasse to regret its propaganda campaign, which goes so far as to cause to be sung at least one song about the oppressed Rhinelanders in every evening's cabaret programme in the nachtlokals of the German capital.

SAYS PRESENT SYSTEM, ETC.

than any other people for Chinese woes, Sir Austen said that undoubtedly the anti-British cry was the most dangerous factor in the present situation.

Outline Events.

Proceeding to outline recent events at Hankow, he characterized the seizure of the British concession as an outrageous and unjustifable attack on the long established rights of a peaceful British commercial community, and, combined with a similar outrage at Kiukiang, proved there was no guarantee of safety for British lives under the authority of the Cantonese government in the present revolutionary state of affairs.

He argued that while it was comparatively easy to evacuate the few British residents from Hankow, it would not be so easy from Shanghai; hence, while he did not desire to assume that there would be bloodshed at Shanghai, it would be a dereliction of duty if the British Government failed to take proper precautions.

Emphasizing that the defence force was non-aggressive, Sir Austen added:

"I hope no occasion will arise for its use. There is no intention on our part to hold Shanghai if we can obtain satisfactory assurances that what has happened at Hankow will not be repeated at Shanghai."

He heartily reciprocated the expressed desire of Eugene Chen, the Cantonese Foreign Minister for a settlement of the treaty and other questions on a basis of economical equality and respect for each other's political and territorial sovereignty. He therefore desired to saying nothing to make a friendly settlement more difficult, but preferred to look for what he hoped would be a happier future.

GREAT INCREASE IN IMMIGRATION

Rural Population of Canada Has Received Large Addition.

FROM NORTH EUROPE.

MONTREAL, Jan. 31. — There has been an appreciable increase in the movement of new settlers to the Dominion from the British Isles, the Scandinavian countries and other places in Europe, during the year just ended, and in directing these people to Canada and placing them on the land, the Department of Colonization, Agriculture and Natural Resources of the Canadian National Railways, has played an important part by means of the overseas organization and through the forces established in this country. The Director of the Department, Dr. W. J. Black, in reporting on the season's work to W. D. Robb, Vice-President in charge of colonization is enabled to state that in the matter of families transferred to new homes in Canada, domestics brought across and placed in employment juveniles sent to farm apprenticeship and men placed in agricultural work, the activities of the department during 1926 show an increase of 216 per cent in comparison with 1925.

It requires some time to effect a complete analysis of arrivals at the Atlantic ports, but with a general increase in third class passengers it is quite clear that the rural population of Canada has received considerable addition. In twelve months of 1926, third class passengers arriving at the ports of Quebec, Halifax and Saint John, numbered approximately 125,000 and of that total more than 66,000 proceeded to their destinations in this country over the lines of the Canadian National Railways.

Not all third class passengers are immigrants, and, on the other hand a percentage of settlers will always be found in the cabin class. Again there are returning Canadians included in third class returns, as well as tourists, but the greater proportion of those crossing the Atlantic in the third class are new to the country.

In the report prepared by Dr. Black it is shown that the number of families from the British Isles who came to Canada during the year was double that of the previous year. In the movement from the Scandinavian countries, from Holland, from Switzerland, from Belgium and from other parts of Europe, there is also shown an increase in the number of families, which is regarded as highly satisfactory.

Another section of the report deals with the results of land seekers' excursions, a movement encouraged by the department's staff which periodically directs prospective land purchasers towards suitable sections in the west. During the year the excursionists who came from various points in the Western part of the United States purchased land from the company and from private owners amounting to 24,000 acres, paying more than $427,000 for these lands.

The general activities of the Colonization Department in Canada include the enlargement of facilities and the establishment of accommodation at Winnipeg to take care of new settlers. Considerable work has been done in establishing settlements, one such being at Pass Lake Sibley Township near Port Arthur, where a settlement of Danish agriculturists has had considerable success. In the Abitibi district of Quebec a number of Polish families have been placed.

In connection with the work in the British Isles, attention is drawn to Dr. Black's report to the correspondence lecture course in Canadian farming. This course, comprising ten separate lectures, has been devised for the salaried worker or the young man at the threshold of life's work who has come to realize that while there may be little ahead of him in the crowded conditions in the Old Country, there exists for him real opportunities in the free open-air life of Canada. This course has been specially designed for the man interested in Canadian farming who is ambitious to possess a farm of his own. So successful has been the plan since its inception in the British Isles that the Department of Colonization has now decided to extend it to some of the Continental countries and the course is now being translated into the languages of the countries concerned. Up to the period dealt with by Dr. Black's report 1502 students had enrolled in the British Isles for the course.

Reports from Overseas officers of the Colonization Department, Canadian National Railway, indicate extensive bookings for the current year with a consequent increase during 1927 of the flow of immigration to Canada.

CHINA WEDDING DAY OBSERVED

Mr. and Mrs. David Patton Receive Gifts From Friends.

MILLBROOK NEWS

MILLBROOK, Jan. 29.—A pleasant surprise was prepared for Mr. and Mrs. David Patton, Zion line, Cavan, on Wednesday evening, Jan. 26, when over seventy-five of their neighbors and friends, many of the latter coming a considerable distance, gathered at their home to celebrate with them the twentieth anniversary of their wedding day.

With their customary warm-hearted hospitality, Mr. and Mrs. Patton welcomed their self-invited "guests," and after some time spent in enjoyable conversation, Mr. M. Thexton, who acted as chairman for the occasion, invited the bride and groom to a central position in the group, when Mr. D. Gallagher read the following address, and on behalf of a wide circle of relatives and friends, Mrs. Thexton presented to Mrs. Patton a tea service of fine china and a beautiful service tray, while to Mr. Patton was given a handsome mantel clock, Miss Bena Brown offering the gift:

"To Mr. and Mrs. David Patton.

"Dear Friends, — We, your friends and neighbors, have gathered here this evening to celebrate with you the twentieth anniversary of your wedding day.

"It is with great pleasure that we have taken this opportunity, and though a few years have faded away since that happy occasion, yet our sincerest wishes are that Providence may grant you and Mr. Patton many more years to your happy union, and that prosperity may ever be in your pathway.

"Since your residence within our midst you have in every way shown yourselves worthy of the highest respect and esteem in our neighborhood, ready at all times to lend a helping hand when called upon.

"You both carry with you our noblest wishes that many bountiful blessings may abide with you and your family; and now, to show in a slight degree our esteem and good wishes toward you, we would ask you, Mrs. Patton, to accept this tea service and tray, and Mr. Patton this clock, not because of their intrinsic value, but because of the sincerity and respect in which you are held among us.

"Wishing you all this life can achieve in a full and plenteous future.

"Signed on behalf of your friends and neighbors — Mr. M. Thexton, Miss Bena Brown, Mrs. M. Thexton, Mr. Alvin Brown."

Mr. Patton made a suitable reply on behalf of his wife and himself, and all joined in singing, "For They Are Jolly Good Fellows." Quite a number of letters were then read from friends at a distance, expressing regret because of inability to attend the happy gatherings and offering sincere congratulations to the bride and groom of twenty years' standing on having the privilege of celebrating their china wedding anniversary.

A brief speech from Mr. Keegan Brown was followed by a piano solo by Miss Lillian Crocker and vocal solos from Mr. D. Gallagher, and the singing of "Auld Lang Syne" brought the formal programme to a fitting close.

The "guests" having come with well-laden baskets, a bountiful supper was served by the committee in charge, after which music, games, etc., were indulged in before a very delightful evening concluded, and the guests, with reiterated good wishes left for their respective homes.

Among those from outside points who were present were the bride's brother, Mr. J. Byers, of Janetville; Miss Hazel Husk, of Omemee; Mrs. Fred Rorke, Mrs. F. Sanderson and Mrs. William Brisbin, of Peterboro.

Church Night.

The weekly "Church Night" held each Wednesday at 7.30 p.m., in the basement of the United Church, is apparently growing in interest and popularity, the attendance this week being larger than on either of the nights in the two previous weeks since the occasion was inaugurated.

The Fallis line group was responsible for the evening's entertainment, and fulfilled its obligation in a very enjoyable manner. Mr. W. Fred Fallis was chairman, and explained that "the man behind the plow, with his accessories," made up the party in charge for this particular gathering.

The formal programme had the following items:

Piano duet—Misses Flossie and Annie McMahon.

Recitation—"Two Frogs," by Mary Ball.

Brass quartette—"Medley of Sacred Airs" by Messrs. G. E. Burnham, W. H. Coombe, A. A. Birchard and J. H. Isbister.

Recitation—"Aunt Tabitha," by Miss Hazel McMahon.

Recitation—"A Boy's Essay on Goats," by Lloyd McMahon.

Reading—"Aunt Sally and the Amalekites," by Mrs. A. J. Brown.

Selection by the Brass Quartette.

Recitation—"Halloo," by Miss Hazel McMahon.

Reading—"Fighting Temeraire," by Miss Florence Fallis.

An old-fashioned spelling match was interjected at this point, which created a good deal of merriment. Messrs. A. J. Brown and W. F. Fallis were captains and Miss Hazel McMahon gave out the words, Mr. Fallis' side having the largest number still lined up when time was called.

A generous serving of pie and whipped cream provided quite satisfactory refreshments, and the usual community singing of hymns thrown on the screen was followed by a brief talk by the pastor, Rev. F. H. Howard, on the subject, "God's Trust in the Ordinary Common Man to Put Over the Projects of the Kingdom." "God united His energies to the will that chooses and the heart that trusts," summed up the topic briefly, and the gathering was dismissed with the benediction.

Next Wednesday the East End group will provide the programme and entertainment for the evening. Everybody is invited, though the primary object is to bring all the families connected with the church into a happy social relationship and Christian fellowship.

CROSS BURNED AT TRENT TOWN

Campbellford Citizens Startled By Fiery Symbol on High Hill.

SATURDAY NIGHT.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 31—From the highest pinnacle of Ogilvie's Hill, in the western section of the town, the spectacle of a burning cross was presented to the citizens of the community on Saturday night.

From its high point of vantage the flaming cross shot volumes of smoke and flames high into the air and could be viewed from nearly every section of the town, and for miles around. The first glimpse of the burning cross was seen shortly after 10 p.m. and continued for about an hour.

Coates Party To Enjoy Alberta Dinner At Sea

WINNIPEG, Jan. 29. — Somewhere between Honolulu and the Fiji Islands the Rt. Hon. J. Coates, Premier of New Zealand, his wife, the members of his party who recently passed through the Dominion, will enjoy an all-Alberta dinner. Buffalo steaks, wild ducks, Prairie chicken, partridge, moose, venison, and buffalo tongues in sufficient quantities to provide several meals, were presented to the visiting Premier by A. S. Ducklos, of Edmonton, when the party passed through, recently, some of it was used on the train, but at the request of Mr. Coates, some has been saved and is being placed in refrigerators on board the ship, to be served when the ship is in mid-Pacific.

In making this request known to C. K. Howard, general tourist agent of the C.N.R., who accompanied the party, Mr. Coates said, "I want to preserve not only the memory but the taste of Canada as long as I can. It is a delightful country and my visit has been exceptionally pleasant."

In recent years many women throughout the United States have taken up the breeding of pedigreed dogs as a business and have found it to be a very profitable line of work.

Rules of The Mail and Empire "C-Word" Picture Puzzle Game

THESE EASY RULES TELL YOU WHAT WORDS TO USE AND WHAT WORDS NOT TO USE.

1. Any man, woman or child who lives in Canada, and is not a resident of Toronto, and who is not in the employ of The Mail and Empire or a member of an employe's family, may submit an answer. It costs nothing to try.

2. Prize winners in former picture puzzle games conducted by The Mail and Empire winning $200.00 or more are not eligible to participate in this puzzle.

3. All answers must be mailed by Saturday, February 19, 1927, and addressed to Puzzle Manager, Room 206, The Mail and Empire, Toronto, Canada.

4. All lists of names should be written on one side of the paper only, and words numbered consecutively 1, 2, 3, etc. Write your full name and address on each page in the upper right-hand corner. If you desire to write anything else use a separate sheet.

5. Only words that are nouns commencing with the letter "C" as are found in Webster's New International Dictionary, 1926 edition, will be counted. The nouns must be the names of objects seen in the picture. Do not use obsolete words. Do not use hyphenated words. Do not use compound words or words formed by the combination of two or more complete English words, each of which in itself is the name of an object. Do not use words denoting a condition, abstract words, colloquial words, and words described as foreign. The words must name concrete objects seen in the picture. Where the plural is used the singular cannot be counted, and vice versa.

6. Words of the same spelling cannot be used more than once, even though used to designate different objects. The same object can be named only once; the object so named, however, may contain as one or more of its parts other objects which may also be named.

7. The answer having the largest and nearest correct list of names of visible concrete objects shown in the picture that begin with the letter "C," with the least or fewest number of errors, will be awarded first prize. The second largest list of correct words, with the least or fewest number of errors, will be awarded second prize, and so on through the list until all prizes have been awarded. The prizes will be decided and awarded on a percentage basis. Misspelled words will be counted as errors. Neatness, style or handwriting have no bearing upon deciding the winners.

8. Any number of people may co-operate in answering the puzzle, but only one prize will be awarded to any one household, nor will prizes be awarded to more than one of any group where two or more have been working together.

9. In case a tie results from two lists having the same number of correct words, the list of these two having the fewest words wrong will receive the prize. In the event of a tie for any prize offered, where two or more answers contain the same number of correct words, and the same number of wrong words, the full amount of such prize will be paid to each tied participant.

10. Subscriptions, both new and renewal, payable in advance at $5.00 per year by mail, or $6.00 per year delivered by carrier boy in Hamilton or London, will be accepted. However, in qualifying for the $3,000 prize at least one new subscription must be sent in. No subscription for delivery in the City of Toronto will be accepted to qualify answers.

11. All new subscriptions will be carefully verified by the Puzzle Manager. Candidates sending old subscriptions as new will positively forfeit the credit of such subscription as qualifying for prizes.

12. All answers will receive the same consideration regardless of whether or not a subscription to The Mail and Empire is sent in.

13. Three prominent Toronto citizens, having no connection with The Mail and Empire, will be appointed to act as judges to select the winners, and participants by sending in their answers agree to accept the decision of the judges as final and conclusive.

14. The judges will meet on March 2nd, and announcement of the prize winners and correct list of words will be published in The Mail and Empire as quickly thereafter as possible.

50 CASH PRIZES--How Prizes Will Be Awarded

$7,000.00 CASH PRIZES

Here you are—the big prize awards. Winning answers will receive cash prizes according to the table below. Remember—a qualified winning answer wins the larger amounts. Aim for the big $5,000 award.

50 GRAND PRIZES	Prize if No Subscriptions Are Sent	Prize if One Subscription Is Sent	Prize if Three Subscriptions Are Sent
1st Prize	$50.00	$1,000.00	$5,000.00
2nd Prize	25.00	500.00	1,500.00

In the event of a Tie for any prize offered, the full amount of such prize will be paid to each tied participant.

Subscription Rates—Payable in Advance

The Mail and Empire anywhere in Canada by mail, $5.00 per year. Delivered by carrier-boy in Hamilton or London, $6.00 per year.

No payment will be accepted that will advance subscriptions more than three years from March next.

The "C-Word" Picture Puzzle Game is a campaign to increase the popularity of The Mail and Empire. It costs nothing to take part, and you don't have to send in a subscription to win a prize. If your list of "C-Words" is awarded First Prize by the Judges you will win $30.00; we are making the following special offer whereby you can win greater cash prizes by sending in ONE or THREE yearly subscriptions to The Mail and Empire.

Here's How Big Prizes Will be Awarded

$1,000.00 instead of $30.00 will be awarded to the answer winning first prize, provided ONE yearly subscription to The Mail and Empire at $5.00 per year has been sent in. Second Prize, $500.00; Third Prize, $200.00, etc. (See second column of figures in Prize List.)

$3,000.00 instead of $30.00 will be awarded to the answer winning first prize, provided THREE yearly subscriptions to The Mail and Empire (by mail at $5.00 per year each, or $6.00 each if delivered in Hamilton or London) are sent in. Second Prize, $1,500.00; Third Prize, $1,000.00, etc. (See third column of figures in Prize List.) In qualifying for the $3,000 prize at least one new subscription must be sent in.

And that's not all. We will give extra amounts on all prizes in the same manner. If your answer is qualified by THREE yearly subscriptions and you win fourth prize, you will receive $200, and so forth down the prize list.

Your own subscription will count, or subscriptions to start at some future date. Just write on the order when you want the paper started and it will start promptly on that date. You will find it easy to get subscriptions to The Mail and Empire to qualify your answer for the $3,000 Prize. It is by far the best daily newspaper published in Ontario.

. . . MIRROR OF THE PUBLIC MIND . . . INTERPRETER OF THE PUBLIC INTENT . . . TROUBLER OF THE PUBLIC CONSCIENCE.

MR. SQUIRE'S RESIGNATION.

Many Peterboro people who had come into contact with S. L. Squire, Deputy Minister of Highways for the Province, during his term of office have learned with regret that he has resigned from the position to accept an offer from a commercial firm that will give him bigger financial rewards for his ability.

Mr. Squire has made an excellent Deputy Minister, and the tribute paid him by the Minister of Highways that "any success we have had in improving the administration of the department is due in a great measure to Mr. Squire," has been richly earned.

He was an enthusiast in the matter of better roads, and combined with his zeal in behalf of improved highway facilities, splendid ability as an administrator.

His resignation to enter the commercial field is another proof of the difficulty of keeping good men in the public service, where the financial rewards do not begin to compare with the returns such men can obtain elsewhere.

Probably the majority of our public officials—certainly those who have proved their worth in the positions they occupy—could command better salaries in the field of private business; a condition that is often overlooked.

FOREST PRESERVATION.

Forest fires constitute the greatest menace to the preservation of our forest wealth. Such is the conclusion which must be drawn from the reports and discussions of the Canadian Forestry Association's convention at Montreal, says The Brockville Recorder and Times. An active propaganda for the prevention of forest fires is being carried on with gratifying results, but continued work in this direction is most necessary.

The ravages of fire annually destroys thousands of acres of valuable timber. Fully ninety per cent. of these fires, it is asserted, are preventable. This fact makes obvious the necessity of a continued, never ceasing battle to reduce the great loss of natural wealth in our forests and to impress on the public the significance of the situation.

Fire loss is closely associated with reforestration. The importance of a broad policy aiming to replace our forests which have been cut or burned has received general recognition. But such a policy desirable and necessary as it is can be more than counterbalanced by the fire loss. Efficient fire prevention safeguards our existing forest wealth; reforestration provides for its continuance in the future.

GENERALS—BUT NO ARMY.

Among many Canadians, particularly those who served with the Canadian forces overseas, there is a feeling that the resignation of Major-General J. H. MacBrien, Chief of Staff, is a national loss.

Major-General MacBrien is regarded as one of Canada's brainiest military men, an officer whose services the Department of Defence can ill afford to dispense with.

As to the reasons for his resignation one is said to be his inability to secure sufficient appropriations for military training in Canada.

Those officers of the militia who have been trying to keep the body and soul of their units together under the present inadequate financial support accorded them by the Government know that the Chief of Staff was not responsible for the existing conditions.

As a matter of fact, military training in Canada at present is an expensive farce.

The authorized strength of such units as our own Peterboro Rangers, for example, leaves only a handful of men for service in the ranks.

No real training can be done, and except in some city units where part of the expense is defrayed out of private pockets, the Canadian militia is able to make no progress.

And yet while this is the case, so far as the militia units are concerned, Canada is maintaining a headquarters staff in thirteen military districts throughout the country large enough to operate a huge army.

Each of these districts has a district officer commanding, an assistant adjutant and quartermaster-general, a deputy assistant adjutant and quartermaster-general, a general staff officer, an engineering officer, a medical officer, army service corps officers and a signal officer, not to mention the staff of subordinate ranks on clerical duties.

The overhead goes on and no results are being obtained.

In fact, the militia situation has developed to such a point that unless the appropriations for military training are increased sufficiently to guarantee some efficiency in the non-permanent forces the time has come to materially reduce the headquarters personnel.

That course would at least be consistent, which is more than can be said of the present attitude toward military training.

THE COUNCIL-MANAGER PLAN.

The Citizens' Research Institute has begun a series of pamphlets on the very interesting subject of the Council-Manager plan of municipal government, explaining, however, that the articles are intended merely to give information and not as a brief for or against the system.

The first of the series, just received by The Examiner, points out that there is a tremendous amount of hazy thinking and misinformation about the Council-Manager plan, due partly to the fact that the name early applied to it was Commission-Manager.

This gives the idea to some people that the Commission system and the Council-Manager system are the same thing, whereas they are fundamentally different.

Others get the impression that the system is autocratic because so many other commissions appointed for other purposes have been given autocratic powers, and because the word manager has been given a sinister meaning.

In the system variously styled the Council-Manager system, the Commission-Manager system or the Manager system the Council or Commission is simply a body elected by the citizens to formulate policies and see that they are carried out.

It should never have been called anything but a Council.

A Commission in a Commission-Manager city is only a Council, and a Council in a Council-Manager city is simply an elected body of representatives commissioned by the citizens to act for them.

If a municipality has (1) a Council or legislative body which decides on policies, sees that they are carried out but does not, itself, directly administer the carrying of them out, and (2) a chief administrative official called a Manager, Administrator or some other descriptive name, charged with the duty of carrying out the policies formulated by the legislative body and clothed with the necessary executive powers for carrying out the policies, including the right to appoint (or to nominate for appointment), promote and dismiss subordinates under a definite procedure laid down by Council, it is a Council-Manager city. If it has a Council which interferes in administrative details, or if it has a Manager which interferes in legislative details, or if the Manager is a Manager only because he has that name and draws the salary of that position, while at the same time having powers insufficient to make management possible, it is not a Council-Manager city. Names guarantee nothing. It is quite conceivable that many Mayor-Council cities may be in reality nearer to the Council-Manager system than some cities which are officially styled Council-Manager cities.

TORONTO AND HER HERO.

Since the news was flashed across the continent that George Young, the seventeen-year-old Canadian, had won the Catalina Channel marathon, Toronto has been in a state of hysterical excitement bordering on delirium. Of all the heroes she has ever honored in her own ecstatic way, he is, to judge from her rapture, the greatest. If only he would return to receive the homage that awaits him, there is nothing that the good people of the good city would not offer him, from a pass on the street railway and honorary membership in the Y.M.C.A. to the freedom of the city and a life endowment.

Toronto has every reason to be proud of her youthful Leander. His was a wonderful feat performed under conditions that made it one of the most dramatic adventures in the annals of sport; and all credit is due to big-minded, generous men of the city, that claims him as her own, who have taken steps to ensure suitable recognition of his achievement and safeguard his future.

But the thought must have occurred to many that Toronto's unrestrained hero-worship would have come with better grace if she had shown a little more appreciation of her prodigy before he set out on the adventure that was to win him fame and fortune. When encouragement was needed, none was forthcoming. He was the Canadian amateur swimming champion. He had a good title to ask help. But when he looked for financial assistance to enable him to undertake the journey to the Pacific, he looked in vain. In the city that, above all others, prides itself upon its Christian virtues, to say nothing of its sportsmanship, there was neither faith, hope, nor charity enough to cover even a loan to the lad. He begged for a chance to realize his dream, and all he received from the people now in raptures over him was, in Yonge street parlance, the "icy mitt" and a Y.M.C.A. letter of introduction.

It was not as if Young had emerged as a "dark horse" without a name or reputation. He had broken a number of records in swimming, and held quite a few championships. Over long distances he had outrivalled all competitors. He had convinced his trainer that he was "not only the greatest swimmer that Canada has produced, but the greatest swimmer the world has produced." And yet when he decided to sacrifice what he prized most, his amateur standing, in an effort to win glory for himself, credit for his city and country, and a comfortable future for his mother, there was not in the Toronto that is today pouring incense upon his head and would willingly anoint his feet, one good Samaritan, or one good sport, with sufficient interest in his adventure, or sufficient faith in his pluck and ability to help him along.

It was left to his mother to furnish, out of her slender savings, the "stake" for which he had appealed to others in vain. To her, and to the chum who accompanied him on his trip, he owed all the encouragement he received from his home town. And, but for the kindness of strangers en route, and the assistance of a fellow-Canadian in California, who attended to his final training, the gallant purpose with which he set out might never have been accomplished.

Toronto may well rejoice over the achievement of her adopted son, but remembering how she "passed him by" when he sought her aid, her ecstasy should be tempered by a sense of regret, if not of shame, for the sporting opportunity she missed in her ill-judged indifference to the champion she now vociferously acclaims—and should be laying up a moral to do better in future when a deserving cause looms up needing a bit of a boost.—Ottawa Journal.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Jan. 31 (Canadian Press).—The export trade in Canadian grain on the Montreal market Saturday continued quiet. The domestic trade was also slow, but the tone of the market was steady.

Prices for all grades of Spring and Winter wheat grades of flour were well maintained under a limited demand.

The millfeed market was fairly active with a firm undertone. The market for standard grades of rolled oats was quiet and prices were unchanged.

The feature of the egg trade last week was the weak feeling that prevailed in the market for fresh eggs and prices closed with a decline of 2 to 5 cents per dozen. This was attributed to the increased arrivals from British Columbia and the fact that several cars from the United States were shipped here on consignment, which also had a depressing influence on the situation. The receipts Saturday were 1,249 cases.

In sympathy with the above prices for storage eggs were also reduced 2 to 4 cents per dozen during the week.

Extreme dullness again marked the cheese trade, but values were unchanged. The receipts were 42 boxes.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO Jan. 31 (Canadian Press).—Wheat gave evidence of underlying strength Saturday, especially in the late dealings. Further reduction of the United States visible supply total today was forecast, and North American wheat was in fairly good demand by Europe. Closing quotations on wheat were firm, unchanged to 1-4c higher; corn a shade to 1-4 and 3-8c up; oats unchanged to 1-8c off, and provisions varying from 5c decline to a rise of 25c.

New export sales of corn helped to lift corn and oats as the day drew to an end. New Yorkers were also asking for offers of corn for export, last half of February Gulf shipment from Missouri River points.

THE CHINESE WAR.

Editor, Examiner:

Sir,—There is a general outcry in America against missionaries as the cause of the hatred of the western nations by the Chinese. Do they deserve it? I submit that they do not. It is the western nations themselves that are at fault. The Bible says, "By their fruits shall ye know them." And that a good tree brings forth good fruit. The Great War, with all its savagery, though the Chinese were opposed to the Germans, undeceived the Chinese. If these are the fruits of "Christian" people, and they certainly were, then said the Chinese we will have no more of them. These westerners are great pretenders, they say. Then the modernist laughs at much of the Bible and decides to preach a new gospel and to back it up with force which has roused the Chinese to fury. Unless we let God speak for Himself in "all" that do and say, in our lives and actions, and refrain from acting like a lot of self-appointed upstarts, we will destroy the world, and we are doing it. We are too conceited about ourselves. That is what is the matter.

Common Sense.

FROM MR. FAIRBURN

Lakefield, Jan. 28, 1927.

To the Editor:

Through undue ministerial influence, we were voted out of our property by an adverse vote. We have held together, holding afternoon services for seven months in the Baptist Church, kindly given by our good friends of that denomination. The Unionists have both churches and both manses "Presbyterian and Methodist." We have no property, but we hold the faith of our fathers which is more valuable than brick or stone or lumber. We have been holding morning and evening services in the theatre since May last. On November 14th we held Communion service in the theatre with forty-two present. Rev. Mr. Ross was minister and we were favored with having four members of St. Paul's Church, Peterborough, present with us. On January 2nd we organized a Sabbath School and Bible Class, and are gathering some in who attended no church or school.

Who can read the above without righteous indignation that in Canada, in the twentieth century, such things can happen, a free people, their church property taken from them by iniquitous legislation, because they would not change their faith, and a civil corporation, calling itself a Christian church, holding "both church and both manses." Who can read it without gratitude for the true Christian spirit shown by the Baptists That is Christian unity such as Christ prayed for.

Who can read it without admiration for the brave stand made by the Presbyterians for their religious liberty, as their fathers in bygone days have often done. There are many other cases from Halifax to Vancouver, of a brave stand, sometimes against even greater odds than ours.

May God forgive the authors and inspirers of such iniquity in the name of a religion.

A. FAIRBAIRN.

YOUNG HAS JUST BEGUN.

Editor, Examiner:

Dear Sir,—Before now the news of the thrilling accomplishment of George Young, Canadian swimmer, will have travelled to all parts of the world.

Of all the people who will read or hear of this marvellous feat of endurance, ninety per cent. will be thrilled for the moment at the youth's success and monetary reward, and sigh as they remark, "The lucky fish! He's made. No more work for him." And then go on to the next news item.

Possibly some readers will be thrilled at the accomplishment of a human being — like unto themselves in every way—filled with a sense of pride as they realize the relationship of his successful effort to their own powerful latent possibilities.

Maybe one per cent. of our busy workaday world will see behind the boy's splendid success an enormous amount of hard work, perseverance, courage and confidence—the essentials to any permanent success.

I purposely avoid the use of the word "luck."

Young may have been working toward a particular objective. He may have been preparing for an attempt to swim the English Channel. I do not know. But I do know, he was preparing himself, training constantly, so as to to fit when opportunity presented itself, as it inevitably will.

He worked hard. Opportunity appeared. He was ready. He will reap this reward.

Opportunity did not take him by the hand. It did not knock on his door. It simply beckoned to him. He had to work his way two thousand miles to meet it. His demonstration of courage and confidence in going to meet Dame Fortune was the last, and by no means the least, valuable lap in this period of training.

The climax was just 15 hours' hard work in which he was aided by the greatest of incentives—a mother's love.

His work is not done. It has just begun. He is just a boy at the impressionable age of 17, like your son and mine attending High school. His character is merely in the molding. He will be subject to countless temptations; more than you and I can realize because we have neither fame nor great fortune. And we think our temptations are "plenty."

He "sits in" to the game of life with a winning hand—three Aces, Health, his Mother, Money—and a pair of kings, Opportunity and Ability. It's a Full House. But it can be beaten. The stakes are Success, Friends, Happiness, Fame and Fortune do not always lead to these. Chaplin, Dempsey, Cobb and many other celebrities know this.

And pondering over these thoughts, I wonder where will George Young be two years hence and what place will he hold in the mind of the fickle public.

Admire George Young by all means and let his wonderful accomplishment fire you with ambition and hope in your own calling; feel proud that he, a Canuck—you might say a neighbor—has brought honor to Canada and Canadians. But don't think his work is done. It has just begun.

Yours truly,
F. McM.

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?

(By C. N. Lurie.)

Common Errors in English and How To Avoid Them.

"OR" FOLLOWED BY "THEMSELVES"

When two nouns or pronouns are connected by "or," the grammatical construction is singular in form, not plural. Therefore, the references to such nouns or pronouns should be put in the singular, not in the plural. To illustrate what is meant by the foregoing, the following incorrect sentence is quoted from a New York newspaper:

"The wage-earning invalid, male or female, who has a family to support and cannot, therefore, afford to cease working, may avail themselves of this unusual opportunity."

"Themselves" is incorrect. It should be "himself or herself." Why? Because the subject of the sentence quoted is "invalid" which is singular in number. "Themselves" is, of course, plural.

This error is common, and even persons who speak correct English, as a rule, are frequently guilty of it.

A New York man has read the Bible through 702 times in 30 years, wearing out 13 Bibles in the reading.

Why? is it that so many folks take PEPPERMINT LIFE SAVERS after meals ?

DR. FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL.

A HARD LUCK STORY

By Dr. Frank Crane.

I saw a news item in the paper the other day and whenever I am feeling bad and as though the world had given me an unjust wallop, I like to get it out and read it. It shows me that I am not so bad off after all.

There is a man in Los Angeles who told a hard luck story to the Judge, about as follows:

He said he was a prosperous business man for twenty-five years and then fate began to hand him a few.

First he lost all his money and tried to recoup his finances by ranching.

Then fate settled down to work.

His wind mill tank blew down, then his cow died, and then a mule that he had just bought for $500 passed away.

He got discouraged with farming and moved into the city.

This did him no good. There was no use trying to dodge his Jinks. He broke three fingers, then his nose and three ribs were broken and also his collar bone.

Besides this his mother, father and brother were now seriously ill.

To top it off his wife, Maggie, had a dog that bit him whenever she commanded it to. She was stronger than he and could whip him and he didn't know what to do about it.

She called him "Jiggs" because he was so hen-pecked, and the last straw was that after he was in jail somebody slammed a door on him and smashed his thumb.

He was arrested when he telephoned the police to come and get him away from his wife. They found him in bed trying to comfort himself with a bottle of bootleg.

The Judge was so grieved that he fined him $100 and then suspended the fine, and let him go with an expression of sympathy.

The news item said the Judge was moved to tears and I don't blame him. I wiped my eye a little myself.

MODERN METHODS OF DIAGNOSIS

While the science of administering medicine to the sick body has not improved very much in the last thousand years, still the science of diagnosis has reached a very high stage of development in the last century. It means very little guesswork by the modern physicians who are willing to diagnose, or who attempt to do so, by simply looking at the patient's tongue or by taking his pulse, but the doctor who makes such snap diagnosis is rapidly losing his practice to the ones who are more conscientious and scientific, and who keep abreast of the times.

In the last twenty years, the X-ray method of diagnosis has improved to such an extent as to make the diagnosis of such diseases as tuberculosis, stomach ulcer, gall stones, kidney stones and many other diseases quite accurate, and the physician can be reasonably sure of his diagnosis of these diseases. Of course, the X-ray by itself is not an infallible method of diagnosis, but should be supplemented by all of the other laboratory methods known to medical science.

The blood count test is also one of the modern developments of diagnostic science; which is of great value to physicians in determining the quality and quantity of the blood. This test will determine the color of the hemoglobin of the blood, and an accurate count can also be made of the number of red blood cells, which carry nourishment to the tissues, and of the white corpuscles, which act as policemen in the body. A scientific physician can read the reports of the blood test and arrive at a definite understanding of their significance.

The examination of the urine is of great value to the diagnostician, who can by this means discover many diseases in their incipient stage, and by this be able to teach the patient how to avoid further trouble.

The sphygmomanometer, a blood pressure instrument, will show the tension of the arterial walls. This point is of inestimable value in many diseases.

The electro-cardiograph is an instrument which will draw a diagram of the heart action and show the relative strength of the different heart valves.

Metabolism can now be measured by a delicate instrument, which will show how far metabolism has become perverted. Readings of this instrument will indicate when a patient has returned to normal health.

These are only a few of the methods of diagnosis which the modern physician uses. As the laymen learn to understand how well equipped the physician is today for diagnosing any kind of trouble, the quicker he will seek his doctor's assistance in discovering the early stages of constitutional or functional weakness.

The time will soon come when everyone will feel the value of going to their doctor every six months to have a complete physical examination made, the same as they now go to their dentist to have their teeth looked over.

NEURITIS

Neuritis in many instances is nothing more than a pressure symptom; a functional disturbance of spinal origin, due to some interference with the blood supply to the nerve trunk affected.

Don't Tell the Wife

BY WILLIAM B. COURTNEY

SYNOPSIS

Ranny Forbes, star polo player, and his beautiful wife, Joan, are temperamental mismates. Joan wants a divorce. Ranny hesitates, loving her, although secretly knowing she loves Abner Gratman. While they are all guests on a week-end cruise on the yacht of Stivner, a lumber king, a widow, Clare, vamps Ranny, arousing Stivner's jealousy. But when Ranny avows Clare means nothing to him, Stivner aids Ranny punish Abner, who is trapped with Joan. Abner is set in a dory behind the yacht. Joan defiantly joins Abner, who recklessly cuts adrift. They are lost in the stormy night.

CHAPTER XIII.—Continued.

Suddenly there rushed down upon Abner a great fear—a fear of the storm, of the savage sea, of the weird loneliness, The racing waves, plucking at the oars, nearly tore the arms out of Abner's body.

He drew in the oars and whimpered: "I can't seem to make any headway!"

Joan was as cool as he was excited: "My word, man, keep your head! Are you afraid?"

Without waiting for a reply, she went on:

"Chaps like you really shouldn't embark on this sort of joyride, you know! You've had no experience at this sort of scrape. It takes a man like Ranny to make a woman feel comfortable—in the open. What ever possessed you to cut loose, Abner, dear?"

There was no reproach, only indulgent wonder, in her voice. She felt strangely impelled to mother this helpless male.

Abner's demoralization, however, was so complete by now that his only lucid thought was that he was at last alone

"You're mine—mine—mine!"

A bestial blue flame made his eyes gleam in the pitchy darkness like an animal's, as he rose in the tossing boat and lurched toward Joan.

"Abner, you chump, sit down!" cried Joan in quick apprehension as the man tried to reach her. "You'll get a broken head, or have us both drowned, if you don't sit down!"

But there was no halting Abner now. The storm and the peril of the moment had been shoved into the background of his consciousness by the desire to possess—by an all-consuming primitive lust.

He was the tribal runt, quaking in a usurped cave with a stolen mate under the gods of storm and the wraths of pursuers, blindly and desperately bidding for one full moment of coveted delight and physical happiness before the mountain should topple down upon him.

Joan fought to free herself. "Abner, have you gone insane?"

"Yes" he mewled, "insane about you. Nothing else in all the world matters but you, dearest—"

"Tell that to me some other time, man!"

"There will be no other time. I've wanted you so long, ached for you—and now I have you alone at last. You're mine, now—mine alone!"

"Not until I get a divorce, I've told you!"

Divorce be hanged!" He was almost gibbering. "You're mine—mine mine —"

Deep within, Joan, too, felt a primal impulse—a barbaric joy in the wildness of the elements, the clutching hardness of her lover's arms, the brutishness of his hot breath and incandescent eyes. For one long, burning minute Joan's nature reverted ten thousand years. The whip of cold, wild-driven rain only served to sting her blood to greater frenzy. The pitching of the boat intoxicated her. Something latent in her being, some inherited passion, unstirred for countless generations, answered the animal glint in Abner's fevered eyes. It was a moment of madness.

A rare moment, in which the world stood wildly still and trembled on the bruising kiss of seeking lips.

But a moment, also, that the storm selected to send along a particularly high wave, which the dory crested—and an uncommonly deep after-trough, into which it dropped sickeningly.

Fate, the humorist, as the dory crashed, brought together with a vicious rap the lips that sought each other in the darkness. And bumped Abner's forehead hard against Joan's nose.

The pain snapped Joan out of the primitive past, to the perilous present. In her irritation she lost all desire to kiss Abner.

In his scare, Abner, too lost all desire to kiss Joan. Jarred out of a miasmatic fog of passion, he CLUNG to Joan.

The romantic side of Joan had been flattered to think of a lover who could be so oblivious to the possibility of death, which stared him in the face, and could think only of seizing the chance, however inopportune, to press his love. Joan had thought that this augured well for his enthusiasm. But Joan, being a woman, was romantic SECOND—and pragmatic first!

This practical turn of her nature was flabbergasted by the insanity of the situation. She realized, for the first time, on a flood of reaction, that Abner was CLINGING to her, not embracing her. There was decidedly a difference.

"Abner," she shouted sharply, "brace up and do something to get us out of this before we're swamped!"

"But I've told you there's nothing I can do," he whined.

"Come, come!" She broke his hold and wrestled him toward the rowing seat. "You row, and I'll bail. Hurry, or we'll founder in no time!"

"I can't row!"

Joan was coming more and more each moment to the realization that if the crisis was to be mastered, she would have to assume full charge. She did so, calmly, patiently, and with an almost motherly attitude of pity and protectiveness toward Abner.

Even when she sought to set him an example by scooping out handfuls of the water which the dory was shipping in increasing amounts each instant, Abner cowered inactively.

Joan thereupon adopted another tact, still mild.

"If Ranny were in this pickle," she yelled, "he'd say, 'Cheerio, lady mine! While there's life there's fight. We'll keep trying!' Come, now, why can't you be like that, dear? Do you want to see me drown?"

"Blast Ranny! Why can't you leave his name out of this? I don't care what he'd do or say. There's no use in doing or saying anything!"

"Are you—quitting?" Joan asked.

The violence of her efforts to bail the boat had warmed her, despite the fact that she was kneeling in two inches of water and was soaked to the skin by rain and spume, and was growing deathly ill from the incessant lurching and spinning of the unguided boat.

"Look, Abner! Montauk Light is growing dimmer. We're drifting out to sea. Do something, for God's sake, before we go down."

"There's no hope!" he cried wildly. Pitching forward, he took a deathlike hold of her, pinioning her arms so that she was helpless to bail, or to move.

"Let go of me! Oh, this is all Ranny's fault. He'll be satisfied now that he's killed me!"

Joan was going to pieces. It was in the nature of things that she should, for, despite her uncommon physical courage, the psychological strain of Abner's panic had subtly disintegrated her own fibre.

The dory was whirling, bobbing, crazily threatening every moment to somersault from the summit of some wave.

A last surge of fighting courage swept over Joan. If she must go down, she would go down fighting.

She had imbibed that courageous philosophy of the game of life from Ranny.

Ranny! Oh, if Ranny were only here now—no—! Hang Ranny! She never wanted to see him again. It was all his fault. All — his — fault — he'd be—sorry—

Desperately she threw off Abner's twining arms, sobbing frame. She crept on her knees through the water in the bottom of the dory and dragged herself into the rowing seat.

Pluckily she worked to list the heavy oars into the tholes, and tried to head the dory into the wind.

The storm snapped the oars out of her hands like matchwood, whirled them away, and in the same moment Abner threw himself against her legs, clawing in fear.

As thus they fought—she to continue the fight for life, he to abandon it, a monstrous wave overwhelmed the dory. Two humans spun clear into the boiling sea.

Then the sea gagged her, while the storm furies howled their ribald mirth.

UNCLE WIGGILY AND DUMPLE'S LEGS

(By Howard R. Garis.)

Once upon a time, as Uncle Wiggily was standing in front of his hollow stump bungalow, sort of looking at the snow and icicles and wondering if his pink, twinkling nose would freeze if he should go adventuring, all of a sudden, once upon a time, the bunny rabbit gentleman saw a little green wooden boy skiddering along the path.

"That's one of the Wogglejigs," said Uncle Wiggily to himself, speaking of the jolly little wooden children who lived with Boppy and Um in the bungleump across the garden. "Let me see, now, who would that be—green in color," Uncle Wiggily thought musingly to himself. "Ah, I remember—it's Bumple! But why is he skiddering along in such a funny way?"

Well might Uncle Wiggily ask that, for Bumple, the green boy Wogglejig, was walking very unevenly. He seemed to limp along as if he had a pebble in one of his shoes.

"I know!" said Uncle Wiggily with a laugh. "Bumple is playing hippity hop to the barber shop!"

"Stop! Don't try that!" warned Uncle Wiggily.

But when the rabbit gentleman, who could hop very fast, had caught up to Bumple, the rabbit saw that something had happened. For Bumple had only three green legs instead of four which was his regular number.

"What happened?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Oh, we were playing our scramble game," said the green Wogglejig, "and somebody took off my four legs but they only gave me three back. I think it was my brother Dumple," he added.

"Dumple is red, isn't he?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"Yes," replied Bumple, "Dumple has a red head, red legs and everything. I know I had one of his legs but I thought I got all mine back before it was time to go to school."

"It's almost past time now," said the rabbit, looking at his watch. "You'll be late if you don't hurry, Bumple!"

"That's what I'm afraid of," sadly said the green Wogglejig. "But I can't go any faster on three legs!" and he tried to but nearly fell down.

"Stop! Don't try that!" warned Uncle Wiggily. "You need another leg, Bumple."

"I thought maybe Dumple would have my leg in school just as I once had Dazie's tail. Maybe he forgot and put it in his pocket," said Bumple.

"Maybe," agreed Uncle Wiggily. "So let's hurry to school and find out. And if you go faster you won't be late."

"But I can't go any faster," said Bumple. "You know we tried and—"

"Oh, so we did—I'm forgetting!" spoke Uncle Wiggily.

"But I think," said Bumple slowly, as he leaned against a tree, for it was hard for him to stand on three legs, "I think if I had a lollypop I could go much faster."

"Ha! Ha! That's pretty good!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "You want me to buy a lollypop to eat and I suppose you think if you have some candy you will be strong enough to go as fast on three legs as you used to go on four."

"Oh, not at all! Not at all!" exclaimed Bumple quickly. "What I meant was that lollypops come on sticks, just about the size of my leg, only longer. Now, if you were to buy a lollypop and take off the candy part—of course, I don't mind eating it if you want me to. And when the candy is eaten we'll have the stick left and you could make me a leg."

"So I could!" said Uncle Wiggily. "I never thought of that. I beg your pardon for imputing an ulterior motive to you."

"What's that?" asked Bumple.

"It means lollypop," said the bunny. "You wait here!" So Uncle Wiggily hurried to the candy store and soon came back with a peppermint lollypop on a stick. Bumple ate the candy, which was rather hard work, and then Uncle Wiggily cut the lollypop stick down the right size for a Wogglejig's leg. And when it was in place the bunny said:

"Hurry now! Hop to school!"

"Ha! Ha!" laughed Bumple. "I just happened to think! To-day's Saturday and there isn't any school. I guess my leg must be back home." And that's just where it was. But, anyhow, Bumple had a lollypop,

SHORT STORY

JIM BLAKEHAM'S CLOTHES

By Rose Meredith.

Jim Blakeham, the most important of all the cowboys at Red Gulf Ranch, was getting ready for the dance at the Gulf Schoolhouse.

"You look like a blue-eyed baby," offered Frank Perks.

"I am," retorted Jim shortly.

"How about the new school teacher—we can't all dance with her?"

"Why try it, then?" was Jim's reply.

"If you'd stay home once—only once, and give some of us other fellers a chance," complained another young man mournfully.

"Try to keep me home," suggested Jim gaily. And it was that remark that started the thing. One by one his companions left the table and hurried to the bunk house.

By the time Jim Blakeham reached his own room, the bunk house was empty and his companions were riding off the range, in one swift moving body.

His best clothes had completely disappeared. If he went to the dance at the schoolhouse, it would have to be in a suit of khaki, clean and cool—but working clothes.

Jim Blakeham was not angry—he knew it was a mischievous trick they had played upon him. But they couldn't keep him home that way—he cared too much about going to see this new school teacher for she bore the same name as a girl he used to know—Millie Gray. If this was his Millie Gray, perhaps he could discover from her own lips why she had never answered the important letter he had written to her.

If it was his Millie Gray, she wouldn't care about his clothes. He got into them—glad that the khaki was clean and that he had a new black tie. When he was finished from sombrero to polished brown boots that reached to his knees, anyone would have had to admit that Jim was good looking.

All the windows in the schoolhouse were wide open when Jim arrived, and the sound of fiddles and the thump of dancing feet, was exhilarating. Outside, in the moonlight, many couples strolled under the cottonwoods, so that when Jim bent his head to enter the schoolhouse door, his appearance was an event. The voices of his friends greeted him, and someone started a little applause. Jim bowed gracefully, and the whole thing was getting along splendidly, when someone exclaimed:

"Look at the school ma'm—she's fainting!"

"It's Millie—my Millie!" thought Jim as he pushed his way forward, but by the time he reached Dick Forest, the girl had been borne away by ministering women.

"That spoils your dance with the school teacher," taunted Dick Forest. "Believe me, boy, she is some dancer, too."

The next morning all the men went rushing off to a long day's riding, quite forgetting about the new school teacher. Jim Blakeham himself was the only one who actually had her on his mind that morning as he rode toward Red Gulch post office. He had made up his mind that if Millie Gray appeared cold and indifferent, he would not be the one to try to arouse her interest.

Dreaming thus as his white pony ambled along the trail, Jim suddenly heard a horse's hoofs, and then, turning, saw the girl of his heart riding closely behind him. She did not glance up at his face at first. It was only when he whirled his pony out of the trail and gave her a free passage that she looked up gratefully.

"Oh, thank you—I was just a bit afraid of an Indian I met yonder—why, Jim—Jim Blakeham! Is it really you?" She was radiant with delight, and Jim rode up to her, hat in hand.

"I didn't believe you'd remember me, Millie," he said, contentedly.

"Remember you? How ridiculous!" She blushed warmly, but her blue eyes were dancing with pure delight. "Just imagine, seeing you here!"

"Imagine meeting the only girl I ever loved out here in my loneliness," muttered Jim in a low, tense tone.

For a moment the girl stared at him unbelievingly, then the loveliest look came into her eyes, and she smiled happily. "Oh, Jim Blakeham, do you really mean that?" she whispered softly.

"Ah, Millie Gray, Millie Gray, my heart has ached for you ever since I left Leadenville—I mailed you a letter, and you never answered it, and so, I just pulled stakes and came out here—is it true—that you care?" He was holding her hands now, and his hungry eyes asked questions.

Millie hung her head. Presently she nodded gently, and added so that only his ear heard in that vast prairie. "Would I be here today, Jim, if I did not? Last spring I read in the paper something about you and the ranch here—and that night I applied for the office of school teacher! I never received your letter—and my heart was broken——"

"Surely it is quite all right now, sweetheart?" asked Jim as he took her into his arms.

ANNA Q. NILSSON IN "PONJOLA" ROLE.

Portrays a Romantic Hobo in "Miss Nobody," a New Comedy-Drama.

Reminiscent of her immensely successful role in "Ponjola," in which she takes the part of an English gentleman, is Miss Nilsson's role in "Miss Nobody," now playing at the Regent Theatre here.

In "Miss Nobody," however, the beautiful First National star is seen in the role of a hobo. Others featured in the cast are Walter Pidgeon, Mitchell Lewis, Arthur Stone and Clyde Cook. The picture is an adaptation of the celebrated novel "Shebo," by Tiffany Wells. Lambert Hillyer directed.

"Miss Nobody" details the astonishing exploits of an heiress and young society favorite who learns of her father's death and bankruptcy amid a revel on board an ocean liner as she returned from a gay season in Europe. She hides her sudden penury from her friends, seeks work, holding positions with poor success as her rent becomes ever more overdue, and finally, with her last presentable evening gown, attends a New Year's Eve party to which the friends she has avoided have bidden her.

The heroine escapes from the insults of a host who has become aware of her poverty, garbs herself in male attire in the servants' quarters and comes to join a band of hoboes.

All the featured male members of the cast appear as tramps. Without exception they grew beards for their roles, it being the fashion these days for screen actors to raise their own beards instead of borrowing them.

GEN. J. C. M'DOUGAL DEAD AT BERMUDA

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Jan. 31.—Major-General James C. MacDougall, who commanded the Canadian Training Division at Shorncliffe, England, in 1915-16, died at the King Edward Hospital here yesterday.

Major-General MacDougall was born in Toronto in 1863, being a son of the late Alexander D. MacDougall, a barrister. He was educated at the Toronto Collegiate Institute and the Royal Military College, Kingston. He joined the 14th Regiment in 1881, was promoted to captain in 1883 and to brevet-major in 1897. Transferring to the Royal Canadian Regiment, he attained his majority in 1899. He was made lieutenant-colonel in 1901. He served in Toronto for nine years, and acted for a time as adjutant for the 48th Highlanders. His ability in military matters was demonstrated when he went to England for a regular course of instruction and passed one of the ablest examinations in the records of the School of Military Instruction, Chelsea Barracks. At the diamond jubilee celebrations in London, England, in 1897, he was selected as adjutant for the Canadian contingent.

During the South African War he acted as railway transport officer, D.A.A.G., and chief staff officer. From 1909 to 1911 he was with the Maritime Provinces command, and subsequently was A.A.G. in charge of administration, 4th Division. During the late war he was well-known to thousands of Canadians by reason of his position at Shorncliffe.

INVESTIGATION MADE

Complaint That Hon. R. B. Bennett Was Misquoted is Settled.

TORONTO, Jan. 31.—"At request of Hon. R. B. Bennett we have investigated the report carried by the Canadian Press of his speech in Mr. Meighen's constituency at Portage Le Prairie in the closing days of the last Dominion election campaign," said J. F. B. Livesay, its general manager, who has returned from a trip to the coast. "This speech was made on September 9, and on the following day Mr. Bennett wired from Maple Creek that what he had said about the Hudson Bay Railway had been misquoted, adding that he had read at the meeting Mr. Meighen's reply to the On-to-the-Bay Association, stating that such was the policy of the government and by that he stood. The Canadian Press promptly carried this statement over its news wires Friday night, and next day carried a fuller statement to the same effect given out by Mr. Bennett upon his return to Calgary.

"The Canadian Press regrets," said Mr. Livesay, "that its summarized report failed to record that Mr. Bennet said he stood by his leader in this matter. Mr. Bennett does not question the good faith of the Canadian Press, and it seems but just to him that this further explanation be now made."

Although she has twenty-four children of her own, a woman living near Barnsley, England, has adopted several more. One of her daughters has already twelve children, and two more have eleven each.

To Whiten "Off-Color" Teeth

and Firm Gums to healthy color quickly, remove FILM FROM TEETH as dentists advise

"OFF-COLOR" teeth can be lightened amazingly, even to often give dazzling whiteness.

With right daily care you can work a great change in the color of your teeth. Can give them clear and charming gleam.

There is a new way in tooth and gum care. A way that removes the dingy film that clouds your teeth . . . A film that absorbs discolorations and keeps teeth dingy looking.

Just run your tongue across your teeth. And you will feel that film. It is the great enemy of pretty teeth and healthy gums.

It clings to the teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It forms a breeding place for germs. It lays your gums open to bacterial attack, your teeth open to decay. Those germs, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

Old-time methods failed in successfully fighting film. So ugly teeth were common. You must remove it. Ordinary brushing won't do it satisfactorily. Under it are the clear, whiter teeth you envy in others.

Now modern science has perfected an effective film combatant, called Pepsodent. It acts to curdle film, then remove it. It firms and protects gums; beautifies teeth quickly and correctly.

BETTER DAYS FOR THE FARMER URGES SPEAKER

Farmer Guests of Rotarian Club Listen To Prof. Dean.

SPLENDID MEETING.

Get Together Luncheon Featured By Fine Address.

That the average yearly income of the Canadian farmer was not more than $500 as compared with an average of some $1,200 for those engaged in other occupations was one of a series of striking statements made by Professor Dean of the Ontario Agricultural College in a powerful plea for better conditions for the farmer at a joint meeting of Rotarians and farmers here to-day.

Last year the Peterboro Rotary Club entertained some 70 representative farmers of the district at a similar luncheon; to-day they were hosts to as many other farmers from all parts of the surrounding county, and the get-together session was thoroughy enjoyed both by the Rotarians and their guests.

An atmosphere of good fellowship pervaded the entire proceedings, and Professor Dean's splendid address was a worthy feature of the most successful affair.

President C. H. Rogers welcomed the guests and briefly outlined the aims and objects of the Rotary movement, explaining that it was not political nor sectarian, and that it was truly international in its nature, comprising clubs in thirty-five countries.

Rotarian Geo. A. Gillespie, chairman of Rotary's Farmer Committee, who arranged the details of to-day's luncheon, thanked the farmers for their splendid response, and introduced the speaker, paying a hearty tribute to Professor Dean's great work on behalf of the dairy industry.

Professor Dean's speech was a masterly arrangement of statistics in demand of more consideration for the interests of the Canadian farmer. In beginning he pointed out that city dwellers and farmers were inextricably mixed so far as their welfare was concerned. What was good for one class was good for the other, and anything that tended to give the farmer a larger income would be of benefit to every tradesman in this country. If the average income of the Canadian farmer was to be increased but $100 a year it would mean that the farmers of Canada would have $70,000,000 more a year to spend in farm machinery, electrical appliances, motor cars, clothing, boots and shoes and many other things.

Referring to the question of annual income, Professor Dean declared that while the farmers of this country produced almost one-half of the national wealth, their returns were not in proportion. Giving figures of an investigation in British Columbia, the speaker felt justified in placing the average income of the farmers of this county at $500, while statistics in regard to Peterboro's industries showed that the average wages for the industrial workers of this city were around $1,000 a year.

The farmers, he declared, were not paid enough for their products. The price of milk, for example should be twice what it is in view of the great value of milk as a food, and he could not see why the consumer should expect a reduction in the price of milk in the summer months when he did not get cheaper meat or bread or any other commodity.

Remedies were briefly discussed by Professor Dean. Canada, he said, was apparently committed to a system of political tariffs and although he was a free trader by principle, he felt that if protection was to be the system, farmers as well as manufacturers should be protected. The farmer must improve his prices, he pointed out, by limiting his production, taking a step in this respect from the manufacturers. Another thing that might be done was to adopt the Australian scheme of bonusing exported products. And again the system of subsidizing and bonusing, which was carried on on behalf of certain industries, might be extended to the farming industry. If there were subsidies for manufacturers here was no reason why the farmer, without whose efforts the world would starev in six months, should not receive the benefit of similar assistance.

Rotarian Fred L. Roy, expressed he thansk of the Rotary Club to Professor Dean for his fine address. While Ernest Deyell on behalf of the guests, hanked the Rotarians for their hospitality.

Among the guests present were H. T. Adamson, J. S. Cathcart, W. A. Hill, J. C. Swain, C. J. Blackwell, Bruce Elliott, Norman Fee, C. F. Heard, W. A. Heard, Albert Hunter, George Hunter, S. Kelk, S. Swedish Prince and Party Visit Humble Italian Cafe Eat 90 Cent Supper Among Clerks and Tradesmen

ROME, Jan. 31 (United Press)—Here is the menu of a 90 cent meal eaten in a humble Roman restaurant by Crown Prince Gustave of Sweden, the Crown Princess, and several companions.

The Swedish heir is visiting here in the strictest incognito and last night he sat in the Alfredo restaurant next to a table occupied by a United Press correspondent, who was the only patron to recognize the royal guests.

For 90 cents the Crown Princess ate:

Fettuccini, a dish resembling noodles; breaded turkey served on thick porcelain plates; Italian desert; figs and other fruit; Frascati wine.

Around the room were other families of clerks and tradesmen out for the usual Sunday evening festivities.

YAQUIS REFUSE TO GIVE UP ARMS

Negotiations With Mexican Government Come To Unsatisfactory End.

BLOCKADE RESUMED.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 31.—(Canadian Press.) — Negotiations for the submission of the rebellious Yaqui Indians in the State of Sonora have failed and the government therefore has decided to continue to blockade their strongholds, hoping to bring the tribesmen to reason through hunger.

Though willing to surrender, the Yaquis refuse to deliver their arms and demand continuance of the subsidy which the government gave them before they started their rising last summer.

JALISCO REBELLION BROKEN.

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 31.—(Canadian Press.) — After the sharpest and most sanguinary conflict in the State of Jalisco, a report to the War Department says, the Jalisco rebellion has received its death blow. The rebels fled, divided into small groups, pursued by Federal forces. The number of casualties is not mentioned.

MINER SHOOTS WIFE AND SELF

Calls Her To Door of Hall at Timmins and Kills Her.

COMMITS SUICIDE.

TIMMINS, Ont., Jan. 31—Tragedy stalked in to a merry gathering at South Porcupine on Friday evening, when Mike Pulich visited the Ukrainian hall about ten p.m. while rehearsal of a play was in progress and asked his wife to step outside. When she refused he drew a pistol and fired eight shots. One of these entered the unfortunate woman's face below the right eye, killing her instantly. Pulich then calmly reloaded the magazine of the pistol and left the building. It appears that he intended to visit the home of his wife's father and mother and commit a further crime there, but Chief McGinnis had removed the couple downtown.

Immediately after the occurrence, Pulich disappeared and additional officers were called in to assist in the hunt for the murderer. After about three hours of searching through barns, stables, etc., he was seen making his way across vacant lots towards the Dome Road about two a.m. Before he had gone far he found a police car and some of the officers guarding that avenue of escape.

Turning he again found himself headed off and was surrounded by the nine police officers who had been trailing him in small parties. When ordered to put up his hands, Pulich raised them, but in so doing he put his pistol to his head and shot himself, living less than ten minutes.

Pulich was a miner, employed at the Dome mines; he was slightly under thirty years of age, and his wife was about twenty. They were married about two years ago, but had not been living together for the past four months; chiefly owing, it is said, to the man's bad temper. It is stated that he has recently made frequent threats regarding his wife and also her parents. The dead woman was employed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Cunningham, South Porcupine. Both are stated to be of Ukrainian nationality.

The inquest will probably take place on Tuesday.

CO-OPERATIVES JOIN LABORITES

Resolution Passed as First Step Toward Party Union.

WEALTHY BODY.

LONDON, Jan. 31 (Canadian Press) — The Co-operative Party, hitherto an independent political body of about 5,000,000 persons, has adopted resolutions marking the first definite step toward an alliance with the Labor party headed by former premier Ramsay Macdonald. The alliance will be subject to a guarantee under which the Co-operatives will retain their separate identity.

The Co-operative movement is a wealthy body and its alliance would greatly strengthen the Labor party, with which its members have previously had much sympathy.

BURNABY RESIGNS.

TORONTO, Jan. 31 (Canadian Press).—R. W. E. Burnaby has resigned from the presidency and board of directors of The Farmers' Sun Publishing Company. He will be succeeded by W. C. Good, director, and former M.P. for Brant. Mrs. W. S. Amos of Palmerston is elected

3RD PETERBOROUGH TROOP "VIMY"

How would you tie two 3-inch hawsers together? This question was answered in several ways—reef knot, sheet bend, fisherman's knot—none of which were practical for different reasons. The correct way to join the hawsers would be to use the "Carrick Bend." This bend was demonstrated by Scout Inch of the Chickadees. How many Scout readers can tie a Carick Bend? When is it used? Why are the two ends lashed to the standing parts?

P. L. Archie Inch passed his First Class Savings test during the week. This was the only test passed—more are expected next week.

At the Council Circle it was announced that on Tuesday night Frank C. Irwin, Assistant Provincial Commissioner, will be in Peterborough tomorrow, Tuesday, February 1st. A supper meeting will be held in the Y.M.C.A. at 6 p.m. for the Third and Fourth Troops, at which meeting Mr. Irwin will present troop charters to these troops. A full turnout of all Scouts in these troops is requested. Full uniform to be worn if possible.

Next week the Wolves will be in charge of the Council Circle and it is reported that P. L. Gordon Roper will try for his Entertainer badge.

Since Friday night P. L. Roper has completed the tests for his Second Class badge and has fulfilled the requirements of the Artist Badge. These two badges will be presented to Scout Roper at the meeting Tuesday night.

The passing of these two badges earns for the Wolves a total of 15 points.

Scout Roper is the first Second Class Scout in Vimy Troop.

There are two or three more who should earn their badge within the next two weeks or so.

A troop library has been started. A shelf is to be put up in the troop room and already several books have been loaned for use. All Scouts who have suitable books which can be loaned to the troop for reading by the boys, please hand them to the A.S.M. at the next meeting. The best of care will be taken of all books so loaned.

The Chickadees had another good night, remaining well in front of the Hounds, with the Hawks and Wolves still farther back. The standing is reversed this time, Chickadees were last in the previous competition with the Wolves in first place. Now the Chickadees have a 16 point lead over the Wolves. Stick to it, Chickadees.

The standing Friday night was Chickadees 154, Hounds 146½, Hawks 140¼, Wolves 136.

QUIET IN CHINA SAY ADVICES TO FOREIGN OFFICE

Official Text of British Proposals Will Be Issued Shortly.

KOO PROTESTS.

North China Foreign Minister Urges Withdrawal of Troops From Shanghai.

LONDON, Jan. 31. — (Canadian Press).—Advices to the Foreign Office to-day indicated that the Chinese political and military situation was quiet.

The official text of the British proposals, which were made simultaneously to the northern and southern factions, will be issued in a day or so, but it is stated that they will not add materially to the points made by Sir Austen Chamberlain in his Birmingham speech.

Koo Asks Withdrawal.

PEKING, Jan. 31 (Canadian Press).—V. K. Wellington Koo, Foreign Minister of the Northern Government, to-day addressed a note to the British Legation protesting against the despatching of British forces to Shanghai and asked that it be transmitted to London in the hope that the British Government would "give the necessary instructions for the immediate withdrawal of the troops despatched to China so nothing untoward may happen to mar the friendly relations of the two nations."

Looting at Changsha.

SANGHAI, Jan. 31 (Canadian Press).—Despatches from the Upper Yangtse Valley to-day reported new disorders and looting on foreign property. Word from Changsha, the capital of Honan Province, said mobs broke into and looted three British firms there, and that the treasurer and a doctor of the Yale in China College there had been imprisoned.

Take Refuge on Island.

HANKOW, Jan. 31. — (United Press).—Foreigners remaining in Changsha are menaced by a mob and are being protected by a British gunboat, according to reports from Sunan. The foreigners have taken refuge on an island. The Spanish Catholic Mission is reported to have ordered the withdrawal of its foreign staffs in all sections of the province.

Confer in London.

LONDON, Jan. 31 (United Press) United States Ambassador Alanson B. Houghton and Foreign Secretary Sir Austen Chamberlain, it was said to-day, would confer in a few days about China.

Houghton reached England on Saturday midnight after a holiday in the United States.

No Withdrawal

LONDON, Jan. 31 (Canadian Press).—The British Government, competent circles say, does not take seriously the protest made by the Peking Government today protesting the despatch of British forces to Shanghai and asking for their immediate withdrawal.

This expression of the British Government's position indicates that the demands will not be granted.

Short Circuit Believed Cause of Explosion in Coal Mine.

MADISONVILLE, Ky., Jan. 31 (Canadian Press).—Four men were entombed behind a fall of slate in the coal mine of the Isley Coal Company, near Dawson Springs, today.

The fall followed an explosion supposed to have been caused by a short circuit when the electric current was turned on this morning. The mine is two miles deep. Efforts have been begun to reach the men, but there is little hope that they will be rescued alive.

TWO POLICEMEN SHOT.

Hold-Ups In New York End in Shooting—Both Serious.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (Canadian Press).—Two policement were shot by robbers in hold-ups today. Patrolman Hugh Clark was shot in the right eye and abdomen when he surprised two robbers as they were binding the manager of an apartment. The robbers escaped with $83. Patrolman J. Masterson was seriously injured when he fell under a shower of bullets during a restaurant hold-up.

PAPERS DISCUSS M'KENNA'S PLAN

Agree That Some Benefits Would Come From Bank Scheme.

SOME DRAWBACKS

LONDON, Jan. 31 (Canadian Press).—The suggestion of Reginald McKenna, former Chancellor of the Exchequer, that the Bank of England should be placed on a basis somewhat similar to that of the Federal Reserve Bank in the United States, has awakened special interest and has drawn comment from the whole press.

The gist of most of the press comment appears to be summed up in the statement of one newspaper that the "expert consideration of the theoretical basis and practical technique of the British credit and currency system" which Mr. McKenna advocates, would be advantageous, particularly as the impending fusion of treasury notes and Bank of England notes seems to make inevitable some modification of the Bank Act.

Notwithstanding this conclusion, however, financial commentators point out that conditions in the United States differ widely from those here, and dwell on those differences at considerable length.

The London Times, while believing that English bankers more generally agree with Frank Goodenough, chairman of Barclay's Bank, who recently said the United States system probably would not suit British conditions, says that Mr. McKenna's statement amounts to an assertion that the Bank Act of 1884 is obsolete.

ST. PETER'S CATHEDRAL

Preaching at the morning Masses at St. Peter's Cathedral yesterday, Rev. K. Corkery spoke briefly from the text: "If thou wouldst enter into life, keep the commandments," taken from the 17th verse of the 19th Chapter of the Gospel of St. Matthew.

The commandments given to Moses were verified by Christ in the New Lad, and His followeds were adjured to keep them in order to attain to eternal salvation.

Sins against the First Commandment are sins against faith, hope and charity. "We sin against faith by not believing all that God has taught, by not expressing our belief in all that God has taught and by not endeavoring to know all that God has taught." We must believe in our religion, practise it and know it, and take every means to do these things at all times, if we wish to obtain happiness in this life and communion with God in eternity.

BIBLE HISTORY GIVEN BY PASTOR

Rev. R. Garratt Preaches Interesting Sermon at Hiawatha.

MANY VERSIONS.

HIAWATHA, Jan. 31.—In the United Church on Sunday, January 16, Rev. Mr. Garratt, following along the theme of the International Sabbath School helps, spoke on the Text Luke 8-11,—"The Seed is the Word of God." The Bible, he said, had been brought up to date by the Revised Version being printed. He then traced the different developments.

When the revised version was completed a few years ago, not only among the common classes, but among many highly educated people, as well, there was a puzzled half-suspicious feeling in regard to the new Bible, superseding the one which their fathers and forefathers had for hundreds of years past read as the inspired Word of God to the world. Men were surprised at finding some passages of the old Bible altered, and still more at some being omitted, and so the question constantly arose, "What new information has come to these Bible revisors?"

By what right do men 1800 years after our Lord venture to meddle with words of His revelation, which still further led to the questions as to the existance of the originals of the present Scriptures and the way they have come down to the present.

We have a knowledge of the reception of the New Testament writings soon after the time of the apostles, in the life time of men whose fathers and grandfathers were living side by side with the Apostles St. John and St. Paul. We also have the Scriptures of the second, third and fourth centuries already translated into several different languages and the testimony of a cloud of witnesses, able scholars, and deep thinkers bearing united testimony to these Scriptures as the production of the Apostles and evangelists, and regarding them with the deepest reverence, as the inspired Word of God.

But there is something of a haziness in the minds of many as to how the Bible came down to us.

Most people have two points fixed. One, the present existance of our Bible. The other, a dim, hazy speck, one thousand years ago, when as we are told, holy men of God spake and wrote as they were moved by the Holy Ghost. Between these two points is a great blank, where doubts are easily developed.

The Old and New Testaments in the first century were manuscripts. The Old Testament in the original was Hebrew and the New, Greek, that being the language most commonly used and known. Many of the Old Testament books were translated into Greek for general use in the Jewish churches.

There are three sources of information open to those who have brought the Bible within our reach today: manuscripts, versions and quotations.

There are fifteen hundred manuscripts of the Scriptures in the original tongue of Greek. Three of the greatest of these, belonging to the Christian Church are the Alexandrian, which belongs to Protestant England, now in the British Museum; the Vatican, property of the Roman Catholic Church, in the Vatican Library at Rome; the Siniatic—lately discovered, and a treasure of the former Greek Church at Leningrad.

These manuscripts show us the Bible as it existed soon after the apostles' days. Each has its history, and it is generally agreed the Vatican manuscript is the most ancient. It has been for four or five hundred years in the Vatican library at Rome. For a long time it was most jealously guarded, and people capable of examining it aright were refused access to it. Dr. Tregelles, an eminent student, made an attempt, but was not allowed to open the volume until his pockets were searched and pens and ink were taken from him,or if he studied any part too long, two priests, who were guarding their treasure, would snatch away the book, or if too intent on any passage they would try to distract his attention. Of late years it has, however, become easily accessible, through facsimilii copies, made by order of Pope Pious III., which may be seen at the chief public libraries. It consists of seven hundred leaves (of vellum) about one foot square, bound together in book form. Each page has three columns. It is printed in capital letters, with no divisions between them.

The Siniatic manuscript—this is very much like the one at the Vatican. It is so called from the place where it was found, about forty years ago. The story of its discovery is full of interest. Dr. Tichendorf, a scholar, whose whole life was given to the discovering of ancient manuscripts and documents, travelled all over the East, searching for them in every old library he could get into for the purpose. Quiet unexpectedly he found it in St. Catherine's Convent, at the foot of Mount Sinai. The "Pearl of his Researches" he calls it. In May 1844, being in the library of the convent, he perceived in the middle of the hall a basket full of parchment and the librarian told him that two heaps had been used for fires. What was his surprise, when he found a number of sheets of a copy of the Greek Old Testament, the most ancient he had ever seen. They allowed him to take away about forty sheets, only intended for fire, but he showed such satisfaction that they refused to give him any more. He returned to his native country and created a great sensation in the literary and religious world with his precious sheets, taking care not to tell where he had obtained them.

Dr. Tichendorf tried, through the help of an influential friend at the Court of Egypt to procure the rest of the manuscript, but without success. "The people in charge of the Convent," wrote his friend, "have since your departure learned the value of the parchments and now will not part with them at any price."

He paid another visit to Mount Sinai, but could find only one sheet containing eleven lines of the book of Genesis.

After fifteen years, during which time he had enlisted the sympathy of the Emperor of Russia, he went again to the Convent with a commission from the Emperor himself. He found very little of any value and made arrangements to leave. He was walking in the garden with the steward, and the monk asked him into his cell to take some light refreshments. This was only a pretext to get him into his room. He then said, "I too, have read a copy of that Septuagint."

He took down a bulky bundle wrapped in a red cloth and laid it on the table, and he allowed Tichendorf to open it. To his surprise, he found fragments seen fifteen years before, other parts of the Old Testament, and the New Testament complete. Though full of joy, he concealed it, and asked permission in a careless way to look over it in his bedroom. He found it was one of the most precious Biblical treasures in existence. At length, through the Emperor's influence, he succeeded in getting the valuable papers, which before the War were in St. Petersburg.

After fifteen centuries, it was restored to the world and is now accessible through the copies in all great libraries.

The other manuscripts—the Alexandrian, the youngest of the three, presented to Charles by the Patriarch of Constantinople, is in the British Museum, and copies like it are in chief libraries. There are discrepencies in this but what is lacking in the one is made up in the others.

The Latin Vulgate.

Of all the different copies of early translators, the most important of the ancient versions is St. Jerome's Latin Vulgate. Towards the end of the fourth century, so many errors had crept into the old Latin versions that the Latin-speaking churches were in danger of losing the pure Scripture of the apostolic days. Just at this crisis, when scholars were so keenly feeling the need of a revision, there returned to Rome from the Bethlehem hermitage, one of the greatest scholars and holiest men of his day, St. Jerome, who undertook the revision. It was complete in 385 A.D., and the Old Testament he afterwards translated direct from the original Hebrew, a task of which no other scholar in his time was capable. This work is almost as old as the earliest of the present Greek manuscripts. Since he used the oldest manuscript to be had in his day, his authorities would probably have extended back to the days of the apostles.

No other work has ever had such an influence on the history of the Bible. For over one thousand years it was the parent of every version of the Scriptures in Western Europe, and had a perceptible influence on the Authorized Version. In fact, for centuries everything was against it that bigotry could suggest, to bring it into disrepute.

At the Council of Trent, 1000 years later, the learned men were as attached to the Version of St. Jerome as they had been to others, in fact they seem to have forgotten it was only a translation. They said, "It is the version of the Church (Roman) in her own language." They, as a Council, decreed that it should be considered correct, and to this day their Church has refused to advance any further.

Quotations of early Christian writers,—the quantity of these is very great, some going back to the original day of the New Testament writings. Thus there is a three-fold line of evidence available for purposes of bringing to us the Bible: Greek and Hebrew manuscripts, ancient versions, and quotations from Scriptures by early writers, in their works.

Though England had no complete Bible before Wycliffe's day, attempts were made very early to present it in the language of the people. After the Anglo-Saxon version came a long period in the history of Bible translation.

In May, 1378, John Wycliffe, a parish priest, was brought before a tribunal at Blackfriars' Hall. He dared to attack the corruptions of the Church, denouncing pardons and indulgences, and masses for the souls as part of a gigantic system of fraud, but worst of all, he had translated the Scriptures into the English tongue, making it, as one said, "Too common." Wycliffe said that the sacred works were the property of the people. The result of Blackfriars' Synod was, that after three days he was excommunicated and his teaching condemned. He returned to his parsonage and lab till the great work of his life was complete, the translation of the Bible into the mother tongue. At the close of the year, when his enemies were preparing to strike, the old man passed away, while holding service, for God took him.

The division into chapters was in Wycliffe's Bible, but not verses. His work, in spite of being in manuscript, had a wide circulation throughout the Kingdom. Many who could not possess it, gained access to it.

The Bible was precious in those fargone days. A load of hay was given for permission to read for a certain period for one hour a day. A woman by the name of Alice Collins was sent to little gatherings to recite the Ten Commandments and parts of the epistles of St. Paul and St. Peter, which she knew by heart.

The appearance of Wycliffe's Bible aroused fierce opposition. Men and women were executed for teaching their children the Lord's Prayer and Commandments in English. Children were forced to light death fires, burning their parents and wives of husbands. People who owned a copy of the Bible of the translation of Wycliffe were hunted down as if they were wild beasts.

With the days of Wycliffe, the toilsome manuscript period was over. In 1540, at Gutenburg, a boy discovered the art of printing, while cutting his name on the bark of a tree. The Bible which took the copyist of Wycliffe ten months to prepare, can now be produced by a London firm at the rate of two copies a minute. The cost then was 40pounds; now it is one penny.

One hundred years later, William Tyndale was born, a student at Oxford and Cambridge. He soon became familiar with this wonderful book in Greek by Erasmus. Tyndale said, "I will one day make the boy that drives the plow in England to know more of the Scriptures than does the Pope."

Driven from home in England, he translated the Bible on the Continent. After imprisonment and many hardships, he was strangled to death at the stake, and his body burned. His prayer was, "Lord, open the King of England's eyes." Before three years there was a Bible in every parish church. During this time, Miles, Coverdale, and Matthew had made translations which were based on Tyndale's.

Three years had gone by, since men had brought him to his death, and here was his work in their midst, and on the front page a note, explaining it was overseen and perused by the King and Cuthbert, Bishop of Durham, the very man who had purchased so many of his copies and burned them, and had hurled from the pulpit the translation, which now went forth bearing his name.

Twenty years later, when the dark reign of Mary was over, Elizabeth was being crowned Queen, and the streets of London were bright with banners. The shouting ceased at a point where the procession stopped, and before the Queen stood an old man in peculiar dress. Her Grace was told that he was Time; beside him stood a white-robed maiden, who was introduced as Truth. In her hand was an English Bible, which she gave to the Queen, who immediately raised it to her lips with both hands. Then she pressed it to her bosom, amid the shouting of the multitude, gracefully thanking them for so precious a gift.

The reformers returned from Geneva, whence they had fled, and brought the new version of the Bible, accepted by Elizabeth, and it became the most popular version that ever appeared in England. Based on Tyndale's work, it was the first to recognize division into verses.

James the First, a Scotch man, next, fifty years later took a hand at printing, and the King James' Version, now so universally used, was the result. It is known as the Authorized Version.

Why the Revised Version?

At the beginning of the present century several partial revisions by private individuals had been made. A need was felt to get the new facts from the manuscripts found at Mount Sinai. Bishop Wilberforce in the year 1870, on May 10th, arose in the Upper House and proposed a committee of both Houses to confer on the desirability of a revision of the Authorized New Testament and also the Old Testament was included in an enlarged resulotion.

Work was started four months later. It was done so carefully that fourteen years passed before it was completed.

Rev. Mr. Garratt also spoke of the development of the British and Foreign Bible Society, which is a great printing company which spreads the Scriptures in almost every tongue. The inspiration for the starting of this enterprise came from a little Welsh girl, Mary Jones, who walked many miles after her first Bible.

She Could Not Walk To The Barn and Back

Mrs. Nickerson Now Praises Dodd's Kidney Pills

"I have been taking Dodd's Kidney Pills for two and a half years," writes Mrs. W. W. Nickerson, Crowel, N.S. "I am sure I should not have been here to-day if I had not taken them. I could not walk to the barn and back to the house without resting. It is only a little way from the house. Now I can run there and back if I want to. Dodd's Kidney Pills have done wonders for me and I can never give them half the praise they deserve."

The Care of Her Family Weighs Upon the Energies of the Mother

Mrs. Matilda Milne

London, Ont.—"Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a splendid tonic for women to take at any time when weak and rundown. While I was bringing up my family I found the 'Favorite Prescription' very beneficial as a strengthening tonic and nerve builder. On several occasions I took it when in a run-down and nervous state of health and it built me right up. I found it especially beneficial during expectancy. It not only kept me in good physical condition but was a great help to my mental state, also."—Mrs. Matilda Milne, 15 Wyatt St.

A Smart Dress with Slenderizing Lines

Dignity and grace are combined in the attractive daytime dress shown here. The bodice is slightly gathered to the skirt in front, while the back is in one piece. Slenderizing lines are accentuated by means of the deep V front, shawl collar extending to the waist, and the plaited front tunic. The sleeves are in two sections, the lower part being of contrasting material to match the vestee. NO. 1461 is for ladies and is in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust. Size 38 requires 3½ yards 39-inch material and ⅝ yard 36-inch contrasting for sleeves and vestee. Price 20 cents the pattern.

Many styles of smart apparel may be found in our Fashion Book. Our designers originate their patterns in the heart of the style centers, and their creations are those of tested popularity, brought within the means of the average woman. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

Women's New Hygiene

Ends disposal problem — Discards like tissue

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

THE old-time sanitary pad has been supplanted by a new and better way called KOTEX.

✓ It ends the embarrassment of laundry and disposal. You discard Kotex as easily as tissue.

It's five times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads, and thus protects amazingly. You wear sheer gowns and gay frocks under the most trying conditions.

Also deodorizes, and thus ends all fear of offending. 8 in 10 better class women now use it. Great hospitals employ it. Doctors widely urge it.

Most stores have Kotex on counters wrapped in plain paper, ready to be picked up without even asking.

Costs only a few cents for a package of 12. Be sure you get the genuine KOTEX, for only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

To Faith it seemed that that gay, gay rehearsal of the wedding, within St. Peter's beautiful, austere, echoing immensity, on the even of Cherry's wedding day, was as binding as an actual ceremony could be.

It was bitterly cold outside, and since there were no services at St. Peter's that day, the church was like a vast, iced vault. Frances Warren and Selma Pruitt, who had sweetly acknowledged Cherry's rather impudent but sincere notes of apology for the scene she had created in their presence, were bundled in fur coats.

"You're going to have a fur coat by Christmas," Bob, there in the capacity of usher, along with Bill Warren and George Pruitt, whispered to Faith, as she withdrew from the center of the clamorous group after the rehearsal.

"Isn't it heartbreaking to see how proud Mr. Cluny looks?" Faith countered, though the sudden sweep of color into her pale cheeks had answered him mutely. "He tries to walk so—so jauntily, as if he were trying to prove he isn't really old—just in his prime. I'm afraid that strenuous trip to Europe is going to be too much for him. Cherry will want to do everything and see everything, from riding in a Venetian gondola to climbing the Alps, and he looks as if a sudden gust of this November wind would carry him away. Oh, Bob, I hope she'll be kind to him! It's breaking my heart to see him so proud and happy and so determined to be the gay young dog!"

"Let's run away and have an hour to ourselves," Bob's fingers closed tightly around her arm, ardently, possessively. "I'm starving for you, darling. Cherry has kept you so frantically busy that I haven't had a real kiss for days."

"I'll have to tell her I'm going," Faith whispered.

When she edged quietly into the clamorous group about Cherry and the elderly bridegroom, she heard her sister saying, in a high, nervous, excited voice:

"Yes, I'm all packed. Every last one of my seven trunks was checked today, right to New York. Ralph did it himself, the darling." Her golden eyes were lifted fleetingly but with something like shy tenderness to the silver-haired old man who bent so possessively, so yearningly over her. "Two blessed, thrilling weeks in New York, and then—Europe! I'm so excited I can't sleep. All of you come over to the house now. Faith has made enough Thanksgiving pies for a dozen families, and Ralph has given Mother a case of the most marvelous sherry. Good for her, you know, but she won't be piggy about it."

"I think you ought to go right home and go to bed, darling," Faith tugged gently at the sleeve of the mink coat. "Bob and I are going for a little drive. I'll be home in an hour, to give you a bromide if you aren't already sleeping."

"I don't want to sleep!" Cherry laughed shrilly. "I can get plenty of sleep when I'm a settled old married woman, but this last night—the very last night when I'll be Miss Cherry Lane, I want to dance all night. Come on, boys and girls! I've been learning to do the 'Black Bottom' and I can Charleston any one of you under the table."

A quick flush splotched the thin, waxen cheeks of the old man she was going to marry. Faith, her heart throbbing with pity, saw his hand tremble on Cherry's shoulder.

"You'll do no such thing, Cherry Lane!" Faith laughed. "Mother's all worn out with excitement as it is, and I'm not going to let her be kept awake all night by jazz music and right home, won't you, and give her strict orders to go to bed? You must begin to assert your authority over her. I've found her a handful, myself."

The gayety was wiped instantly from Cherry's vivid, lovely little face. "Oh, all right. Faith bosses me to death," she wailed plaintively. "You'll be nicer to me than Faith is, won't you?"

Ralph Cluny put an arm stiffly about Cherry's shoulders, and Faith was horribly embarrassed to see the quick tears of age film his pale gray eyes. "I'll be good to you, my dear child. I'll do everything in the world to make you happy."

When the wedding party had dispersed, Cherry obediently allowing herself to be escorted home alone by her bridegroom, Faith found that her heart was too heavy for the relief either of words or tears. Bob Hathaway, driving his new sedan swiftly and almost silently through the wind-swept streets, now lightly powdered with the first snow of the season, understood and mercifully remained as silent as she.

"It is going to be not later than Christmas, isn't it, darling?" he asked after a long while, and Faith knew what he meant.

"I must go to Cherry now," she parried his question with a long kiss. "Poor Cherry! I wish—but it's too late to wish now."

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

Simple in material and in line but fairly elaborate in design is this frock of navy blue crepe satin made up partly on one side and partly on the other. It is typical of the frocks made for afternoon wear by the conservative dressmakers at present.

Generally speaking, the frocks that women wear may still be divided according to the time of day when they are worn. For women, as well as for men there are still morning frocks, afternoon frocks and evening frocks.

But we have heard much recently from the women who are in favor of doing away entirely with the second group of apparel. Time is too precious to spend over much of it on dressing—and it is too much to ask any woman to change from morning clothes into afternoon clothes and then into evening attire. So, within recent years you have been able to see even fashionable women at luncheon, at afternoon bridge, at receptions, at tea and even at weddings in simple clothes that would once have been regarded appropriate only for morning. There are, too, thousands of well-dressed business and professional women who dress once for the day—and for whatever social diversions they may indulge in during the afternoon they are content to wear rather simple daytime costume.

But that is only one way of simplifying the matter. The other is to do away with morning clothes at least for the winter season. This would hardly be a practical solution for the women of affairs or of business activities—but for the women of society it seems to work very well.

One of the French dressmakers has formally announced this winter that he will show only afternoon and evening frocks. The social life in winter, he says, does not begin until nearly tea time. It is almost too much to expect a society woman to appear for luncheon, though you may meet them in the late afternoon at a concert, at a famous antique shop or for tea in the drawing-room of a friend or at some favorite restaurant. There is something decidedly simple about these afternoon frocks. Few of them would be conspicuously out of place even in the morning. They are straight in line, long sleeved and sometimes high necked. The skirts are short but not outrageously so. Their trimming is extremely simple—the ornamentation often consisting of a clever manipulation of the fabric of which the frock is made.

SHAWL PAGEANT GIVEN BY LADIES

BEAUTIFUL EXHIBITS.

A Pageant of Shawls was the unique offering of the Women's Art Association at their meeting in the studio of the Conservatory of Music on Saturday afternoon. There was a capacity audience for the affair, which proved to be one of the most successful of the programmes given this season under the auspices of the Art Association. A number of beautiful shawls were on exhibit, placed on the walls of the studio, and the Pageant itself exhibited a variety of old-time costuming of the most interesting type. The ladies who portrayed national characters wore shawls native to the country depicted, and sang or recited verses appropriate to the delineation. There was also a charming portrayal, also in old fashioned dress, of the Five Ages of Woman. A great deal of interest was manifested by the audience in a novel and unique entertainment, which was followed by the service of afternoon tea.

The president, Mrs. William Blackwell, made several announcements prior to the presentation of the Pageant, which was under the direction of Mrs. B. L. Barns and Mrs. J. E. R. Munro, assisted by Mrs. J. H. Seels. Mrs. Munro, as "Dame Knowledge," wearing a dress and shawl and bonnet of old-time fashion and Mrs. Barns, read in turn some interesting facts about shawls and their making, and Miss Mary Harsone, also in old-fashioned attire, who provided piano accompaniments for the soloists who followed, gave as a prelude to the Pageant the Morris dance and the Shepherd dance from the incidental music to "King Henry Eighth."

Figures in the Pageant which delineated national characters, were little Irish girl, in white fringed shawl and emerald green costume, portrayed by Miss Florence Murray, singing 'Mother Machree"; Mrs. G. S. Parlour, who made a hit as a Scotch lassie, wearing a tartan shawl of the Cameron Clan of Lochiel, loaned by Mrs. Douglas Carlisle, and singing "My Love is but a Lassie Yet"; a Canadian United Empire Loyalist lady, (Mrs. H. E. Connelly) who wore a lovely white silk shawl, with old time puckered bonnet, black lace mittens and tiny parasol of delicate lace tatting loaned by Miss Dench of "The Poplars," and reciting "The Old Elder"; Miss Mathilde Masson as a Spanish gipsy, wearing her grandmother's gypsy shawl of black lace, and singing "The Maid of Zingara"; Mrs. F. C. Neal, as an Indian princess, with feathered headband and Navajo blanket, loaned by Mrs. F. A. Hodgson, reciting the old Indian legend of the Pleiades, the dancing stars, and the pine trees; and Miss S. A. Tomkins as an Irish immigrant, in plaid shawl, loaned by Mrs. Stapleton, with red bandana handkerchief, and grey head covering, reciting some descriptive verses.

The Ages of Woman were the next offering on the programme in a very interesting series that included the Infant Girl, with Mrs. W. R. Widdess, in grey basque costume, singing a 'Lullaby" to a baby, wrapped in a white flannel embroidered shawl, loaned by Mrs. M. Sauer; Miss Geraldine Glover, as a brilliant Young Girl of modern type, in a seafoam evening dress and lovely Venetian shawl; Mrs. R. A. Browne as a bride, a vision of long ago, in a pale mauve dress of heavy moire silk, loaned by Miss Dench, with old-fashioned frilled edged nosegay, and fringed white silk shawl of appliqued net, loaned by Mrs. E. W. Borbridge; Mrs. F. A. Hodgson as a woman of serene middle age in purple silk and black lace, with an old Paisley shawl, reciting a very interesting poem of her own composition, and Mrs. H. W. Morphet, depicting old age, with a black lace mantilla, over a white shoulder shawl, reciting Longfellow's beautiful poem, "The Day is Done."

During the entrance of the bride, Mrs. Barns recited a portion of Whitcomb Riley's poem, "My Bride That is To Be."

In turn, all the ladies who had taken part in the pageant came to salute the hand of Old Age (Mrs. Morphet) sitting in her large chair, and the pageant concluded with the singing by the audience in unison of "Auld Lang Syne."

Other ladies in old-time costume who assisted during the afternoon were Mrs. R. Gliddon, Madame Masson and Mrs. D. Carmichael.

The exhibit of shawls which accompanied the pageant was very interesting, including seldom-seen examples of beautiful work in white and black lace in shoulder and cape designs, camel's hair, silk Paisley, Limerick and Carrickmacross, Spanish and Duchess lace, a Kashmir burnoose, cream cashmere, Indian and Persian designs, Venetian modern shawls, shawls in patterns embroidered and darned and applied on heavy net and silk. Among those who loaned shawls and gowns and scarfs for the occasion, exclusive of those already mentioned, were Mrs. J. H. Eastwood, Mrs. Victor Tully, Mrs. A. Stevenson, Mrs. N. D. Seaton, Mrs. R. S. Merrell, Mrs. C. Waite, Miss G. Glover, Mrs. J. E. R. Munro, Mrs. C. C. Cragg, Mrs. Wm. Blackwell, Mrs. Arthur Amys, Miss Laidlaw, and Miss Dunlop. Miss Dench of "The Poplars" loaned many beautiful things for the occasion.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

(Copyright, 1927, McClure Syndicate.)

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 1, 1927.

Friendly stars rule this day, according to astrology, which finds that benefic aspects strongly dominate.

All the signs appear to indicate great thought activity on the part of the public, which will inquire into political matters and will advocate reforms of various sorts.

Aviation is to have a tremendous impulse, the seers prophesy, through some sort of an international situation. Educators now will prosper and heads of universities again will be consulted much regarding the state and the nation.

This is a day most auspicious for the desires and ambitions of women who are to succeed in new plans for important service, civic and national.

Under this rule weddings should be fairly lucky since it indicates a fair amount of prosperity as well as plenty of common sense in romance.

This is a fairly fortunate sway for theatres and places of amusement, but there will be many experiments in management which may not be successful this season.

This is a planetary government which promises much to agriculturists who are to profit unexpectedly, astrologers foretell.

From now on in the United States the acquirement of land will assume a new importance and significance, if the stars are read aright.

Women are warned that there is an aspect which seems to indicate from them mental reactions which should be overcome; among these are egotism and a childish desire for recognition, he seers point out.

Love affairs may intrude into business engagements, while this direction of the stars prevails, and women may be unusually inclined to romance.

All the signs appear to foreshadow increased magnificence in the scale of American homes. Dress again is to be extremely costly, it is forecast.

Persons whose birthdate it is have a year especially suited for study and serious thought.

Children born on this day probably will be exceedingly clever and inclined toward the deeper view of life. Many historians are born under this sign.

THE SWISS FAMILY ROBINSON

An Escape From the Cavern

THE EXAMINER PICTURE PAGE

Survey appears to show that women in the service of the empire are paid lower than those in the United Stats. There are, of course, exceptions. Quee[illegible]ming that he king splits the annual roya grant of $550,000 is the highest paid woman in the empire. The Duchess of Atholl, LEFT, receives $6,000 a year as parliamentary secretary to the board of education. Miss Margaret Bondfield, CENTRE, former shop girl, and the first woman to hold British ministerial rank, was paid $6,000 for the tenure of the MacDonald government. Of Lady Astor, RIGHT, it is intersting to note that she might aspire to the premiership at $25,000.

Empress Carlotta, widow of Emperor Maximilian of Mexico, who was shot by his subjects nearly 60 years ago. She was known as the "Mad Empress." A daughter of Leopold I. of Belgium, it is estimated that she leaves a fortune of a score of millions of dollars. Her early life was one of romance and dventure. When the German army swept through Belgium in 1914 Her chateau was untouched by direct orders of the Kaiser. The photographs show Empress Carlotta when she was one of Europe's proud beauties, and Maximilian in coronation robes.

MANY PENALTIES FEATURES IN OTTAWA GAME

Statisticians Show Minor Penalties Sets Record for League.

OVERTIME PLAY

Large Crowd Watch Ottawa-Maroons Battle to Scoreless Deadlock.

MONTREAL, Que., Jan. 31 (Canadian Press)—Twelve thousand hockey fans jammed the Forum Saturday night in the expectation of witnessing the Ottawa Senators and Montreal Maroons furnish a possible blow-up similar to that which occurred in their clash at Ottawa one week previously. They did not see any of the deliberate stick swinging and fisticuffs which brought six match penalties in the game at the Capital. But they saw a characteristic Ottawa-Maroon tussle in which the two teams fought strenuously throughout a full overtime game to a scoreless deadlock, a stalemate reached in a contest dotted with 33 minor penalties for every infringement of the hockey code except deliberate fighting.

Statisticans found plenty of excuses to send them delving deep into the misty files. As far as is known 33 minor penalties sets a record for a league match. To the files must be recorded yet another scoreless tie between the two teams—the second this season and the third in two years. A further entry comes in the scoring tables. In four games this season Ottawa have counted only two goals against the Maroons, while shutting the Montrealers out completely.

For a time in Saturday's struggle it appeared as if Montreal was going to upset the accepted order and tally against Alex Connell, for the Maroons dominated the play in the first period and in the final session and overtime play and launched many dangerous threats. Munro, Broadbent, Oatman, Stewart and Siebert all were close in at various times for promising shots, but Connell demonstrated that no mere luck keeps his goal intact. Frequently he saved certain tallies by outguessing the sharpshooters boring in on him.

Ottawa played a defensive style practicaly throughout the game. In the early play the Maroons forced an open brand of hockey and the Senators were forced to follow, but a few threats on each goal, first when Dunc Munro broke through on Connell, but drove into the pads, and later when Cy Denneny rifled several whistlers which were just wide of the mark, sent the teams to a more careful system of play. Penalties started to deplete first one and then the other and sometimes both sides to skeleton proportions and defensive hockey became general until well on in the third period.

At this defensive game both sides used exactly the same tactics; both attempted to wear the opposition down with heavy body checking and the stalemate resulted.

None of the players was willing to resort to open warfare, but there was an apparent ill-feeling between the two sides from the first and everything short of an open clash broke during the battle. Body checks were heavy. Tripping, slashing, hooking, elbows, high sticks, knees, everything was mived up in a wild assortment as the battle raged and the penalty parade was maintained in steady proportions until the end of the game. The officials were deluged, but after the game reckoned that Montreal had secured 17 and Ottawa 16.

Hooley Smith wielded a long poke check to break up Maroon attacks with great regularity. He either got the puck or spileid the Mroon puck-carrier over his stick. If this failed, Hooley resorted to squatting on the ice on his knees and letting the onrushing Montrealer spill over him. It was a sort of rugby clip. Once he sent Phillips hurtling to his head on the ice. It was the second fall for the Montrealer. Early in the game George Boucher had lifted him into the fence head first and escaped without penalty. When Phillips went over Smith, he was dazed and for the second time in the game sat mournfully by himself counting the lights in the rafters. Smith's style of poke-checking was effective but dangerous. Aside from Connell in goal, it was Smith and King Clancy who carried the brunt of the play for the Senators. Smith hooked the puck consistently from Maroons and started rushes the other way. Clancy blocked steadily and rushed wildly on the Montreal goal, with such effect that he drew unstinted applause from local fans for his courageous display. Clancy is the battler on the Ottawa team who sets the pace for his teammates and he fights from the first whistle to the last bell. Frank Nighbor was early out of action when he had his leg twisted in a strenuous scuffle. Kilrea and Finnegan worked hard but were well tied up by their checks.

It was ot a brilliant hockey test. Penalties forced both sides to kill time frequently and close checking kept concerted rushes to a minimum.

The line-up:

Montreal		Ottawa
Benedict	goal	Connell
Munro	defence	Boucher
Noble		Clancy
Stewart	centre	Nighbor
Siebert	wing	Denneny
Broadbent		H. Smith

LAKEFIELD HERE TUESDAY NIGHT

Fast Game Expected in Final for Group Two Championship.

REGULAR LINE-UPS.

Tomorrow night the fast Lakefield Junior outfit will be here to play the Peterboro juniors in the second and final game of the series for the championship of group two.

In the struggle in Lakefield on Friday night the result was two-all and Tuesday night's game will be one of the best junior games that will be seen here this year. Both teams are very fast, especially the Lakfield boys, who are regular speed artists, and who are in fine condition as they played the 60 minutes on Friday night without using a sub.

The Peterboro boys on the other hand are a smooth working outfit, they carry the puck well and at times show fine combination. On Friday night they were rather at a disadvantage on the small Lakefield ice surface.

Lakefield is expected to have their regular line up, with Morin back in the game. The Peterboro line up will be the same in all probability as that which started in Lakefield as Bob Allin's eye will be better by that time. Bert McLeod is expected to handle the bell and the game will be started at 8.30 sharp. Tickets for this important fixture may be procured at Bond's Drug Store.

The line up in all probability will be:

Resident Of Windsor 108 Years Old This Week

WINDSOR, Jan. 29.—To have lived long past the allotted span, has been the good fortune of Mrs. Margaret McRa., who celebrated her 108th birthday yesteday. Though she has seen many winters and summers come and go the weight of years rests lightly upon her shoulders.

Born at Cape Breton Island, N. S., of hardy pioneer stock, she was brought by her parents to Three Rivers, Quebec, and later to Wolfe Island, near Kingston, and finally to Victoria County, where most of her life was spent. For the past 18 years she has been residing in the Border Cities with her son, J. L. McRae, 4 Askin Boulevard.

The stirring events of the days of the Rebellion of 1837, Confederation, and subsequent political events, are quite familiar to Mrs. McRae. She knew the late Sir John A. Macdonald personally.

BRISTLING BATTLES of BARE FIST DAYS

(MY LIFE STORY)
by Jack McAuliffe

CHAPTER TWENTY-TWO

I was scared silly and hurt so badly I was nearly in a frenzy when I broke my right arm in the eighth round of my famous fight with Billy Myers, the Streator Cyclone, at North Judson, Ind.

I figured I was in for it, as he had a punch that could knock my earsoff.

I continued cautiously stabbing with my left and waving my right. He was still dizzy from the knockdown I had scored. So things went on until the 30th round.

Then two strangers, nice-looking fellows, came around to my corner and asked me how I felt.

"Can you go another 10 rounds?" they asked.

"I can go 50 more," I says, and they thanked me kindly, walked away and I forgot all about them. Onehalf hour later the fight still was on, and they came to my corner again and asked me for my Chicago address.

In the meantime Myers and I had been putting up a fight not half savage enough to please the fans and they began to give us the Bronx cheer.

Dawn broke and many of the miners wanted to get out and go to work, but the doors were locked and nobody allowed to leave. That was the 58th round. Finally the referee announced he would stop the fight in six more rounds if we were both on our feet. I tried hard to put Myers down with my left but was just too weak from the pain of my fractured right. At the 64th round we were still fighting weakly. He called it a draw.

The Cyclone and I walked downstairs. There was a strange sight met us. In the middle of the floor was the safe and scattered all over the room were papers. There wasn't a cent of our side bet anywhere and it, together with all the betters' money, was gone.

The miners wanted to raise murder and clean up the town, but it availed them nothing. I had my arm set and returned to Chicago. At the saloon where I made my headquarters the bartender said:

"I have an envelope for you."

I opened it. There was $2300 in bills in it, my end of the purse. The two strangers who visited me during the fight had not taken my address in vain.

Later I learned the names of the two safecrackers who pulled the job. They were experts. One of them cracked a big Canadian bank afterwards and got so much money he had to leave $100,000 behind because he couldn't carry it.

OFFERING TO FIGHT SHARKEY

Rickard Fails in Efforts to Clinch Match for Feb. 25.

MANAGER DEMURRED

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—(Canadian Press).—Mike McTigue was moved to capitalize his sensational four-round triumph over Paul Berlenbach by offering to fight Jack Sharkey of Boston in Tex Rickard's heavyweight elimination tournament.

Rickard's efforts to clinch the match for Feb. 25, the date on which the Boston heavyweight had contracted to meet Berlenbach, struck a snag, however, when Johnny Buckley, Sharkey's manager, demurred. Rickard said he considered McTigue had established himself as a strong heavyweight contender, in spite of the fact that he scaled only 169 pounds.

SLOOPY FIELDS IN ENGLISH CUP GAMES

Five Replays Necessary in Eleven Games Decided on Saturday.

LONDON, Jan. 31 (Canadian Press Cable).—The storm over the week-end militated against good football Saturday, and had its effect on the attendance at the sixteen games which constituted the fourth round of the English Football Association Cup. For the most part the encounters were staged on sloppy fields and in boisterous breezes. Perhaps this accounted for the fact that of the eleven games that were decided, six went in favor of visiting teams. Five replays were rendered necessary through indecisive results.

The two Welsh teams, Cardiff City and Swansea Town, went into the fifth round by virtue of their sterling victories at Darlington and Barnsley respectively. Middlesborough were also advanced when they blanked Preston North End at Preston, while the league leaders, Newcastle United, had little difficulty in disposing of the amateur Corinthians. Burnley, Reading, Millwall, Liverpool and Southampton were also moved up one more notch.

The drawn games were at Leeds, where the United and the present cup holders, Bolton Wanderers, played through to a scoreless draw; at Upton Park where West Ham were also forced to take a second try against Brentford, a third division team; at Sheffield with the Wednesday and South Shields tied; at Port Vale where the Cheshire team held the Arsenal; and at Hull, where the City and Everton divided the score.

Only four first divison league games were played Saturday, the schedule being notable for a belated victory by West Bromwich Albion scored at the expense of Bury, while Aston Villa also secured a couple of points from Blackburn Rovers at Villa Park, taking them by the odd goal in seven.

Princeton has adopted the huddle system for basketball. The quintet will go into a huddle before each tip-off to give the signal for the offensive play.

BELLEVILLE HIGH ARE VICTORS AT CAMPBELLFORD

Win Shut-out in Interscholastic League Fixture on Friday.

FAST SKATERS

Take Early Lead by Scoring Five Goals in First.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan 31. — The Belleville high school had too much speed for the local high school boys, in an interscholastic league fixture played at Covert's Arena on Friday night, and the visitors were returned winners by a score of 7 to 0.

While the Quinte City boys deserved their win on the night's play they were hardly entitled to the seven-goal margin. Five of their goals were registered in the first period on shots that would ordinarily have been easy for Irwin, but the young goaler was clearly off his game, and it was not till the second period that he commenced to show his real form.

The locals had many opportunities to register as the visitors in both the first and second periods, and Ibey and Blute were in on Colling repeatedly, but something went wrong at the last moment or Colling turned the shot aside. The first period score was 5 to 0. Neither team scored in the second, and Belleville counted twice in the final period; they had the better of the final session, and were on the offensive till the whistle blew.

Belleville showed a well balanced team. Colling in goal had plenty to do, and turned in a clever game. Miles and Young gave him good protection; they were a hard pair to get around and covered up well in front of their own goal.

The forwards are all first class skaters and good puck carriers, and excelled themselves in back checking, time after time overtaking the Red, Orange and Black puck carrier when he had a good start on them.

With the exception of Ibey and Blute Belleville outskated the local boys at every turn.

Ibey worked himself into a state of exhaustion and was unlucky not to have been rewarded with a tally; he had more speed than any boy out there, and in addition to his efforts to score, did an immense amount of backchecking. Blute ran him a close second and while not as flashy as the colorful all round athlete was mighty effective. McAvoy showed improvement and a willingness to give and take with the best of them but just lacked the necessary speed to make him as effective as the other pair.

The rest of the locals were outfooted at every turn by the fast-skating Quinte bunch.

WOOLLENS WINS FROM DE LAVAL

Good Basketball Played in Ladies' League on Saturday.

SCORE 14-8.

The De Laval and Canadian Woollens provided an interesting game of basketball on Saturday afternoon. Misses E. and L. Bradley and L. Slaughter scored for the Woollens. Miss R. MacPherson, H. Carson and E. Forester scored for the De Laval. Faster combination was shown during the second period. The score at half-time was 8-4 in favor of the Woollens. Final score was 14-8 in favor of the Woollens. Mr. McLeish was referee. The teams:

De Laval—H. Carson, M. Cameron, E. Forster, B. Conroy, F. Giroux, R. MacPherson.

Canadian Woollens—M. Bradley, L. Bradley, L. Slaughter, E. Bradley, J. Gregory, M. Ronco, L. Simons.

CAMPBELLFORD MIDGETS WIN

COMBINATION GOOD.

CAMPBELLFORD, Jan. 31.—Instigators of the Midget Hockey League had their efforts amply rewarded on Saturday afternoon at Covert's Arena, when a Boy Scout sextette picked from the three midget teams defeated Belleville Boy Scouts 11 to 5. Belleville were the bigger team and just as fast skaters but it was stick-handling and combination that won for the local midgets. The majority of their goals were the result of combination plays that carried them right through to the goal-mouth, and their passes were fast and accurate. Particularly prominent in this respect was the work of Lambert and the Runions brothers, and their numerous expeditions into Belleville territory were a treat to watch. While these three were outstanding, the others were not far behind.

The whole team played with confidence, and apparently had something in reserve, for when Belleville drew up to within two goals by scoring at the start of the second period. The midgets took on a new offensive and tallied a pair of counters. Again at the start of the third period, Belleville were the first to score, two markers bringing them within two goals of evening the count, and again the local midgets opened up in clever style and ran in four goals.

The home boys didn't play perfect hockey by any means. They were particularly lax when the puck was behind their own blue line and in the danger zone, and Belleville got most of their tallies from mix-ups near the Campbellford net. A little improvement in this department would add materially to their effectiveness.

The line-up:

Campbellford—Goal, Heptonstall; defence, McPherson and Lambert; centre, D. Runions; wings, Hendry and G. Runions; subs., Blute and Stocker.

Belleville—Goal, Carter; defence, Burns and Smith; centre, Sprague; wings, Hallam and C. Fowel; subs. J. Fowel and Fisher.

Referee—Jack Cowell.

ST. PATS SWAMP CHICAGO HAWKS

Score Four Goals in Less Than Six Minutes of Last Period.

CANADIENS WIN.

TORONTO, Jan. 31—Remembering that they have come from behind in the third period to win in a number of games this season, the Chicago Black Hawks, trailing by 2 goals to 1, with twenty minutes to play, in their final National League appearance of the season in Toronto on Saturday night, sent four men up on the attack and with less than ten minutes to go, they had all but Goalie Lehman on the Irish side of centre ice and this aggressive style of attack certainly produced a scoring bee but it was with reverse English, the Irish running in four goals in the space of five and a half minutes and skating off the ice with a 5 to 1 victory which gave them an even break in games, with the Hawks on the season's play, the locals having a 15 to 11 edge in the matter of goals in the four games.

The game was clean, there being only seven penalties imposed by Referees Mallinson and Romeril, the latter making his N.H.L. debut. The teams:

St. Patrick's—Goal, Roach; defence, Brydge and McCaffery; centre Carson; wings, Bailey and Day; subs Keeling, Dennenay, Halderson and Corbeau.

The Summary

First Period

1—St. Patrick's, Keeling (McCaffery) 16.35

Second Period

2—Chicago—Dye, (McVeigh) ..7.30
3—St. Patrick's, Bryde (Halderson) 2.30

Third Period

4—St. Patrick's, Carson (McCaffery) 14.30
5—St. Patrick's, Bailey 4.30
6—St. Patrick's—Keeling (Brydge) .... .20
7—St. Patrick's—Halderson ... .40

Final score—St. Patrick's 6; Chicago 1.

Canadiens, 2; Americans, 1.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Jan. 31—Canadiens of Montreal jumped into second place in the standing of the clubs in the international division of the National Hockey League by defeating the New York Americans, 2 to 1 in overtime here last night. Canadiens and Americans were previously tied for the place position.

A goal by Pete Lapine, substitute forward, brought the game to a sudden conclusion, Lepine circling the American net and coming out in front to slip the puck into the corner past Forbes. The flying Frenchmen were short-handed at the time, Mantha serving a minor for tripping.

MARMORA WINS GAME AT MADOC

SCORE 2-1.

MADOC, Jan. 31.—A good crowd turned out to see the Marmora-Madoc hockey match on Friday night which resulted in a score of 2—1 in favor of Marmora.

Marmora was strengthened by the return of Auger and the inclusion of Jack, who was playing his first game of the season. Madoc lacked the services of Moon, who had his knee badly hurt in the last game.

The play in the first period was a bit slow. Marmora scored once, Wood netting during a scramble in front of Madoc goal.

Early in the second period, combination between Brady and McWilliams resulted in the former netting. Madoc made rushes in which Henderson was most conspicuous but could not equalize.

In the third period, Madoc boys were successful, Henderson with a fast shot from mid-ice baffling Neal.

Both goalies played well. The ice was heavy and sticky and made good play impossible in the early part of the game. Marmora was inclined to keep things well mixed, and laid on enough of the hickory to put several Madocers out of commission.

Marmora.—C. Neal, goal; V. Jack and E. Bennett, defence; G. McWilliams, centre; C. Brady and C. Wood, wings.

Madoc.—C. Wallbridge, goal; L. Blue and T. Rupert, defence; N. Whytock, centre; J. Henderson and J. Watson, wings.

Goal umpires.—J. Gardiner and J. Henry.

PETES PLAY T. C. C. IN TORONTO TO-NIGHT

The Petes are playing one of the most important games of the group schedule in Toronto to-night with the Toronto Canoe Club as their opponents. The Paddlers are a greatly improved team and are picked by many hockey experts as the team to play off with Varsity for the group honors. However, the Petes are confident of beating them to-night.

The North Toronto game originally scheduled for Toronto has been transferred here, and will be played on Friday night.

They have fitted up here a very modern shop for Refinishing Cars, both in Duco and brush finish. They also have a fine ground floor shop for all kinds of Top and Body Repairs. 6d, 31, 1779

WATCH THE KIDNEYS

Fatigue and that tired feeling is the result of poison in the blood. When the kidneys fail to remove this poison from the system it leads to backache, rheumatic pains and sometimes to that fatal ailment known as Bright's disease. When this condition exists, don't delay, go to your druggist and get a box of Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills and they will quickly correct the cause of your trouble.

Mr. Arthur Pinch of Smith Township states that Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills give him more speedy relief than any other preparation that he had tried.

PETERBOROUGH USERS OF POWER

domestic users pay for power. Toronto's rate is two cents per kilowatt hour. Service charges here and the central rate remain the same—thirty cents.

Municipalities Must Pay.

Mr. Gaby explained that the refinancing of the huge investment in the central area by reason of the maturing of the original ten-year bonds last year involved an added expenditure for interest, etc., of some $200,000 which would have to be borne by the municipalities in the area which are in the position of Oshawa—not owning their own Hydro services but benefitting by Hydro services owned by the Ontario Government and operated by the Hydro-Electric Commission.

The refinancing involves interest, accounting for part of the additional carrying cost of the Central system. The four per cent rate of 1916 has increased to about five now and an amount greater than the original investment is involved because of the generating stations and other extensions and improvements requiring additional capital outlay, it is said.

Mr. Gaby wanted it understood that the rate change would not affect the whole central area from Oshawa to Kingston but only those municipalities not owning their own services and in a similar position with Oshawa. There was a plan being worked out to establish a retiring found for the bonds covering these and the sinking fund idea was included in the refinancing.

No Statement.

W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., chairman of the Utilities Commission of Peterborough, and a member, were interviewed by The Examiner this afternoon regarding the increase, but they had no statements to make. They had not received any official notification at that time, they said.

The Commission was in session this afternoon, but at the time of going to press nothing pertaining to the increase had come up for discussion.

R. R. Hall's View.

"The announcement of an increase in the cost of power to the City of Peterboro of 25 per cent. does not come as a real surprise to me," declared R. R. Hall, when interviewed by The Examiner.

"It means that the wholesale power rate has been increased from $22.50 per horse power to $28.12 per horse power. As a matter of fact during the last two years the city has been paying between $26 and $27 but the bills were rendered in such a way that it was made to appear that the city was only paying $22.50 per horsepower, whereas in fact an annual bill of $15,000 or more was being rendered by the Hydro and paid by the local commission.

"These increased rates are really a chain of tragedies that has afflicted Peterboro," he continued. "We have water power right at our own door, but we do not know enough to develop it. It could be developed so that our power would not cost us one half of what we are now paying. Then with the high price of power in all parts of the Province of Ontario, Peterborough by developing her own power would be in the running to attract new industries.

"With the Ontario Legislature and the Dominion Parliament about to sit our city council should take immediate action to have the necessary legislation passed to develop our own power at dams 4 and 5, and at Burleigh Falls, where about 15,000 horse power, more than the city's present requirements, could be developed."

DOG DERBY OFF.

Second Heat Cancelled and Cup Presented to Sepalla.

POLAND SPRINGS, Maine, Jan. 31.—(Canadian Press.)—The second heat of the New England dog derby was cancelled to-day and the cup presented to Leonard Sepalla, who won the first heat on Friday. The warm weather and rain of two days covered the 25 mile course with ice, which made a precarious footing for the dogs.

WEDDING BELLS.

RIDDELL—HARPER

MILLBROOK, Jan. 31—A wedding of local interest took place in Knox College Chapel, Toronto, on Tuesday, January 25, when Gertrude Alberta, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Harper, became the bride of Rev. John Riddell, pastor of Grace Presbyterian church, Millbrook.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Cunningham. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a becoming French dress of embroidered, rosewood georgette; her hat was of a matching shade, and she carried a bouquet of Butterfly roses.

Immediately following the ceremony in the chapel, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, and the wedding luncheon served. Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Riddell left afterward for a honeymoon at points east, and upon their return will reside at the Manse, Millbrook.

OBITUARY.

CHARLES NORRIS TERRY.

The funeral of the late Mr. Terry, who died so suddenly in the city on Thursday morning, took place from the funeral home of D. Belleghem and Sons, to the 11.52 C.P.R. train for interment in the family lot in Tweed cemetery.

ANN RICHARDSON.

An old and highly respected resident, in the person of Ann Richardson, passed away Saturday afternoon very suddenly.

The deceased was in her 78th year and had been living with her sister, Mrs. White and her brother, John Richardson.

The funeral took place this afternoon from the family residence, Crowly Line, Otonabee, to Norwood cemetery, the Rev. Mr. Richards officiating.

MRS. W. D. LANIGAN.

VICTORIA, B.C., Jan. 31 (Canadian Press)—The death occurred here yesterday of Mrs. Athilla Lanigan, wife of W.D. Lanigan, for many years freight traffic manager, Canadian Pacific railway. Deceased was born in Mallorytown, Ontario, and came here four years ago with her husband to reside. Burial will be held here on Wednesday.

MRS. S. HAMBLIN.

The death occurred early Sunday morning of Charlotte Payne, widow of the late Samuel Hamlin, in her 77th year, after a short illness. There are left to mourn her loss three sons, George of Lakefield, Roy of Daud, Manitoba, and Harold of this city, and five daughters, Mrs. R. G. Moore, Warsaw, Mrs. T. W. Oke, Toronto, Mrs. J. Marshall, Florida, Mrs. H. G. Reynolds, Daud, Man., and Mrs. W. J. Bartindale, Conquest, Man.

The funeral will take place from the residence of her son, 21 Brown street, on Tuesday, Feb. 1st, service at 1 o'clock, conducted by the Rev. Mr. Todd.

Interment in Warsaw cemetery.

MISS BRIDGET GERTRUDE BOLIN.

The death occurred last night at the home of her sister, Mrs. John F. Gartland, 934 Main street west, Rochester, New York, after a brief illness, of Miss Bridget Gertrude Bolin, daughter of the late John Bolin and his wife, (formerly Bridget Quinn) of the township of Otonabee.

The deceased lady was born in Otonabee and lived for much of her life in this vicinity, where she was widely known and respected for her sterling Christian character and quiet, unassuming disposition.

One of a family of fourteen children, four of whom pre-deceased her, she is survived by six brothers: James Bolin, of St. Louis, Mo., Patrick of Keene, Hugh of Kansas City, Michael of Joliette, Illinois, Richard of Rochester, N. Y., and Frank of Winnipeg, Manitoba and three sisters, Mrs. P. Heffernan, 377 Reid street, Peterborough, Mrs. John J. Doherty of Hastings, and Mrs. John F. Gartland, of Rochester, N.Y.

The remains will arrive here on the midnight C.P.R. to-night. The funeral will take place from the residence of her sister, Mrs. P. Heffernan, Reid street, on Wednesday morning, to St. Peter's Cathedral, where services will be solemnized at nine o'clock, to St. Peter's cemetery for interment.

MRS. ROBERT SMITH.

MILLBROOK, Jan. 31. — The late Mrs. Robert Smith, whose death took place on Monday, January 24, following some weeks of gradually failing health, was born near Norwood, in Peterborough County, a little over 78 years ago.

Deceased was one of a family of eight children, five sons and three daughters, only one of whom, a brother living now in Grey County, still survives.

Fifty-six years ago the marriage of Margaret Hannon and the late Robert Smith took place, but owing to the serious illness of her husband no formal celebration of the golden wedding took place. Mr. Smith predeceased his wife by six years, passing away in January, 1920, within a few days of the date of his wife's death.

Thirty-three years ago Mr. and Mrs. Smith came to live on the farm a mile or more east of the village, and this continued to be the family homestead until a few years ago, when they purchased the house now occupied by Mr. H. Murney at the east end of the town, and here they were living when Mr. Smith's decease took place.

For the past two or three years Mrs. Smith had made her home with her son, Mr. Leonard W. Smith, on the homestead, failing health preventing her from retaining her residence in Millbrook.

Deceased was a member of the former Methodist church, interested in its activities, and faithful in attendance, as long as health and strength would permit. She was a member of the Woman's Missionary Auxiliary for some years, and was also connected with the Sunday school.

Besides the son, and the brother already mentioned, Mrs. Smith is survived by her eldest son, Thomas R., of San Francisco, California, and one daughter, Mrs. Wilbert Larmer, of Cavan; another daughter predeceased her mother by several years; there are nine grandchildren.

The funeral took place on Thursday, at 2.30 p.m. from the homestead, lot 16, concession 5, Cavan, her pastor, Rev. F. H. Howard, having charge of the services at the house and graveside. The pallbearers were Messrs. W. and S. Gray, and E. Wilson, of Perrytown, and three nephews, A. Edwards, Albert Edwards, of Warsaw, and P. C. Hannon, of Grey County. Beautiful floral tributes were laid in loving memory upon the casket.

Interment was in the family burial plot at Gardiner's cemetery.

Among those from outside points who attended the funeral were: Mrs. LeMaye, Mrs. Miller, Mrs. Abbott and Miss Smith, of Lakefield, and Messrs. Gray and Dunbar, of Perrytown.

NEW ORDERS SOLVE GERMAN DIFFICULTY

Arbitration By League of Nations May Be Avoided.

BERLIN, Jan. 31 (Canadian Press).—New instructions were sent by the Cabinet today to the Germans negotiating in Paris with Allied representatives regarding German armaments. The Foreign Office is confident that these instructions will solve the question of the maintenance of the German Eastern frontier fortress without the necessity of arbitrating by the League of Nations Council, which was provided for at the recent Geneva session, unless a settlement were reached at midnight tonight.

Under the Geneva agreement, the military control of Germany by 150 officers of the inter-Allied military control commission ceases tonight, to be superseded by League supervision.

STEAMERS AGROUND.

Storm-Swept Shores Hold Vessels—No Danger Believed.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (Canadian Press)—The three masted wooden schooner James M. W. Hall, of Boston, with a crew of nine, ran aground in the lower bay to-day. She was believed to be in no immediate danger.

VINEYARD HAVEN, Mass., Jan. 31 (Canadian Press) — The Coast Guard patrol boats are standing by the steamship O'Boyle, aground near here, ready to take off the crew of 25 in case she weather should turn bad.

WOODS HOLE, Mass., Jan. 31 (Canadian Press)—A radio message intercepted here said that the steamer Newton was aground near Stone House light vessel at the eastern entrance to Nantucket Sound. The message gave no further details.

Instances in which needles, inadvertently stepped upon, have worked their way through the human body for years have attracted attention from time to time, but probably the most remarkable case of this kind is reported from Amiens, France. Twenty years ago a woman in that city was operated upon by a surgeon. Recently the patient had to undergo a second operation, during which the surgeon found a pair of surgical scissors which had been left in the patient's body at the first operation.

FRANK HEAD WINS AT POULTRY SHOWS.

Frank Head returned from Kingston and Picton on Friday night, after showing his Barred Rocks at the poultry shows there. At Picton he had 25 birds and carried off all the prizes in the class. He won first for two exhibition pens and also won the sweepstake cup in that class.

At Kingston he did the same thing, carrying off all the prizes in this class of fowl. The cup which he won at Picton is on exhibition in Roland Denne's feed store window.

SPLENDID SERMONS AT CAMPBELLFORD

Rev. E. Harston, of Woodville, Speaks at St. John's Church.

In the morning he told the children a story. Father, mother and children were sitting in the living room, when suddenly they heard a noise-nibble, nibble. Mother said: "That's a mouse," so they set a trap and that night caught the mouse. Just so, in the busy life of to-day, is the sin trap for young people, with a savory bait to entice and attract, and the only way to keep clear of the trap is by having clean thoughts and doing good deeds."

He took for his text, Job 38 chap., 1st verse: "Then the Lord answered Job out of the whirlwind." The pastor said in his thoughts the writer of Job was a born dramatist. Job was a God-fearing man who was accused of living a good life for his own selfish purposes. In order to test Job's allegiance he is robbed of home, family, possessions, everything that life held dear, but he was still faithful, and himself asked God for an explanation of these calamities. God has many ways of bringing people face to face with the grim realities of life and many times when calamities and failure is sent to man, it is really God's way of bringing man back to better ways of living. People should remember that often God is always nearest when he seems to be the farthest away and that often dark and hostile things have something in them that are friendly if they only look on the bright side and face life with His fellowship.

In the evening Mr. Harston took his text from Isaiah 13th chapter, 12th verse: "I will make a man more precious than fine gold," and Daniel 11th chapter, 32nd verse. Mr. Harston's theme for the evening was "Canada's greatest need." The speaker's idea as to Canada's greatest need was for something material, to have her manhood and womanhood so permeated with the spirit of Jesus for in a crisis, it is not on material forces a nation depends, but on the spiritual powers, and fortitude of the people. Christians so often lead a life of mockery when they really need reality. A need for the revival of home religion is also universal, in that way giving the growing generation a fair chance.

The music for the services was capably rendered by Mr. Hazell and hi. choir. The choir sang "In Heavenly Love Abiding," for their anthem in the morning and Mr. Walter Lowe delighted the congregation with a cornet solo. In the evening the choir rendered "Just as I am," and Mr. W. Lucy sang a solo "This is my Task."

SYBIL BAUER DEAD.

Holder of Many Women's Swimming Records Dies at Chicago.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31 (Canadian Press)—Sybil Bauer, 23 year old holder of all world's backstroke records in women's class, died to-day following an illness that developed last winter.

Miss Bauer held 23 world's backstroke records in all distances from the 100 metre to the quarter mile. Her victories included the 1924 Olympic backstroke championship. Despite her comparative youth, Miss Bauer had been engaged in aquatic

The Fog

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

SO often we don't trouble to explain things to the child because we simply assume he won't understand anyway. Well, he may not grasp all of an explanation the first time, but his eager little mind will add bit to bit each time and gradually get the whole conception. Fog, for instance, is not so difficult to explain as one might at first think. Fog is moisture which gathers on the myriads of little dust particles always floating in the air, but it only happens when warm moist air strikes colder air, as when air from the hilltop drops to the valley, then the moisture gathers on these dust particles so we can see it and we call it fog.

Former Organist of St. Paul's Conducting Chorus For Radio.

AT SPOKANE.

A large broadcasting station is being opened on Monday, January 31, at Spokane, Wash., the Mendelssohn Club (Male voices) of which Mr. Tattersall is conductor, will be on the air about 9.30 to 10.30. This will be from 12.30 to 1.30 Eastern time.

Mr. Tattersall was well known in Peterborough and organist of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church.

If anyone should pick it up and would let him know, he would report it to the club. The station is KGA, 340 to 341 meters, 1917 Riverside North, Spokane, Wash.

THE MARKETS.

Seagrams Makes Debut In Its Listed Career

TORONTO, Jan. 31 (Canadian Press)—Seagrams commenced its listed career on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day with a climb of 1 1-2 points to 20 1-2, a record high. The stock was the dominating issue of the whole market and had a turnover of nearly 7,000 shares. From the high mark, however, it sold down to 19 7-8, closing at that mark at noon, seven eighths higher. Hiram Walker, intensely active, gained a point at 38 and Gooderham and Worts, the third leader, sold up seven eighths at 84 3-8c. International Nickel was a strong spot in the very active market, firming 1 1-8 at 41 1-4, and Industrial Alcohol sharing the strength of the other brewery or distillery issues, climbed 1 3-8 at 23 1-2. British Columbia Fishing softened 1 1-4 at 85.

Wheat Uses a Little On Foreign Steadiness

CHICAGO, Jan. 31 (Canadian Press).—Wheat averaged a little higher early today as the result of the surprising steadiness of the foreign markets in the face of large world shipments. Exhaustion of wheat stocks at Liverpool continued to attract notice.

Opening unchanged to 1-8 cent up, Chicago wheat hardened further but then reacted somewhat. Corn, oats and provisions were easier, corn starting unchanged to 1-4 cent off and continuing to sag.

Opening quotations—wheat, May 1.42 1-8; July 1.33 1-8. Corn, May 81 3-8. July 84 1-2; Oats, May 48 1-8, July 48.

Toronto Trading Heavy But Devoid Of Feature

TORONTO, Jan. 31 (Canadian Press).—Trading was heavy in volume on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning, but the market was devoid of any feature. Stocks generally advanced moderately and recessions were few. Quebec stocks retained active leadership, and Laval-Quebec improved a point at 35. Duprat sold up 2½ at 25, and Corona advanced 1¼ at 24¾, Nipissing firming 14 at 9.00, and Teck Hughes advancing 25 at 6.05. Amulet softened five at 1.55, but Area strengthened a point at 56. Castle Trethewey advanced 7 at 124.

Stock Recovery At N. Y. Continues; C.P.R New High

NEW YORK, Jan. 31 (Canadian Press) — The recovery in stock prices continued today with industrials in the forefront of the advance. Rails also did better, but with the exception of Canadian Pacific, which moved up over three points to the highest price since 1916, gains in that group were moderate in character. Trading was moderately heavy in volume and appeared to be largely professional in character.

Houston Oil, ordinarily inactive, was run up over four points to 73 3-4, the highest price in over ten years. United States Cast Iron Pipe extended its early gain to more than five points on revival of rumors of an early six for one stock split up. Strength of American Smelting was associated with reports that the Mexican government had reinstated several oil drilling permits.

OLD COUNTRY SOCCER

LONDON, Jan. 31 (Canadian Press Cable)—The draw for the fifth round of the English Football Association ties was made today as follows:

Wolverhampton Wanderers versus Hull or Everton.
Chelsea vs. Burnley.
Port Vale or Arsenal vs. Liverpool.
Leeds United or Bolton Wanderers vs. Cardiff.
Southampton vs. Newcastle United Millwall vs. Middlesborough.
Reading vs. West Hom or Brentford.
The Wednesday or South Shields vs. Swansea.

SEPARATE SCHOOL APPEAL ALLOWED

Peterborough Trustees Involved in Claim For Public Moneys.

TORONTO, Jan. 31 (Canadian Press).—Leave to appeal to the Supreme Court of Canada was granted when the Separate School Trustees of the Township of Tiny, the city of Peterborough, and all other Separate School trustees in Ontario were reported before the First Appellate Division of Ontario at Osgoode Hall today. The appeal will be taken against the decision of the First Appellate Division, which upheld a previous decision disallowing the trustee's claim for a declaration that they are entitled to share in all public monies granted by the government for school purposes and that they have the right to Government support for the maintenance of Separate Schools giving secondary education. I. F. Hellmuth, K.C., represented the trustees.

IN POLICE COURT.

Alfred Marshall, driver for The Examiner, was fined $5.00 and $3.50 costs this morning in Police Court for crossing an intersection at a speed greater than ten miles an hour.

AROUND THE CITY.

Bank clearings for the month were $3,730,527.

On Sunday afternoon at the Young Women's Christian Association friendly hour service, Miss Davidson, one of the secretaries of the Upper Canada Tract Society, gave a very interesting talk on the work of the society. Miss Davidson spoke especially of the service to sailors on the great lakes, at the ports, to military hospitals and to the lighthouses along the coasts. Musical numbers were contributed by Miss M. Walker and Miss E. Deyell.

DIAMOND CASE COMES BEFORE WINTER COURT

Mr. Justice Logie Presides at the Assizes in Peterborough.

JURORS CHOSEN.

At the opening of the Winter Assizes this afternoon before the Honorable Mr. Justice Logie the only case to come before the Grand Jury was that of the King against Thomas Leslie Diamond.

In his charge to the Grand Jury His Lordship explained the various degrees of criminal negligence that might lead to manslaughter in order that they might decide whether the accused should be placed on trial or not.

The Grand Jury retired to consider the Diamond case at 1.15.

CASE SETTLED.

Damage Suit Arising Out of Motor Accident Won't Be Heard.

At the assizes opening today the case of Miss Bertha Hill against J. Willen Kelly and Western Kelly, for damages caused her on or about the eleventh day of June, 1926, while on a trip to Cobourg, when she was a passenger in the car of Willen Kelly, has been settled. The amount paid in settlement of damages is not stated.

Whistle, Girls, Whistle, If You're Seeking Beauty

CHICAGO, Feb. 1 (Associated Press).—Pucker up and whistle, girls, if it's beauty you are seeking.

That's what dental authorities, in convention here, said just before concluding their three-day meeting.

"Whistle daily," said Dr. Hugo G. Fisher of the Chicago Dental Society, "to help shape the mouth into a more perfect one, and with the so-called miracles that dental science performs to-day in strengthening, shaping and patching up unbecoming teeth and unattractive mouths, a perfect cupid's bow and a set of shining teeth should make for every girl the pulchritude she desires."

DUFFUS HEADS DELEGATION TO PREMIER KING

Ontario Associated Boards of Trade Has Appointment Thursday.

AT TORONTO.

Queen City En Fete As Temporary Capital—Big Banquet.

TORONTO, Feb. 1 (Canadian Press).—Premier Mackenzie King and from 12 to 15 members of his Cabinet will arrive here on Thursday. This city has prepared itself for all the distinctions of a temporary capital for Thursday, Friday, and Saturday, during which the Prime Minister and his colleagues will be here. The complimentary banquet to be tendered by provincial and local Liberal organizations to the Premier on Thursday will be the big event of the three-day programme, while various public bodies will present their views to the Cabinet members. The Ontario Associated Boards of Trade, headed by J. J. Duffus, Peterboro; the City Council and Board of Trade of Toronto, headed by Mayor Foster, and the Dominion Boards of Trade, headed by S. B. Gundy, Toronto, all have appointments to meet Premier King here on Friday. The Ontario Motor League will meet Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Railways, and will advocate better protection at level crossings. Applications for appointments with various members of the Cabinet have fairly swamped the committee.

U.S. PLANE LANDS NEAR GANANOQUE

Mishap Brings Plane to Forced Landing at Noon Yesterday.

GANANOQUE, Feb. 1. Canadian Press. — One of the airplanes, accompanying a bombing plane, was forced to descend to the ice in front of this town yesterday at noon, and will have to remain here until a set of wheels arrives here from Detroit Michigan. The plane is of the peace fleet from Detroit to Ottawa, and are returning by way of Montreal. Lack of snow on the ground made it dangerous to land with the present equipment so that precaution is being taken by having wheels sent here to be put on before proceeding on their journey.

The plane is under the charge of of Commander B. K. Newcombe. The party numbering eight members, are being tendered a dinner and a civic welcome at the Provincial Hotel here this evening. They expect to leave here for Detroit, Mich., Wednesday morning.

THE WEATHER

February 1st. We tear off a leaf of our calendar, and turn over another page of the year book of our lives. February is the shortest month of the year, but is usually the most severe in our Canadian climate. What it lacks in duration it more than makes up in intensity of cold and Arctic blizzards. Perhaps this winter it will be on its good behaviour—we will look for the best. January had 14 day below zero. This was more than the average number. The coldest we had was 25 degrees below. The highest the thermometer reached was 45 degrees. Taken as a whole the month was just an average January. The snowfall however was light, and there was an unusual absence of drifting. The rainfall was .29; the snowfall only 15 inches.—W. P.

FIREMAN TELLS OF CAR CRASH IN BY-LAW CASE

Driver of Automobile Charged With Breach of City By-law.

DEFENCE OPENS.

Grafton Woman Declares She Obeyed the Stop Sign at Corner.

Following an accident in which the fire truck on January 6 went through the iron railing protecting the creek at the corner of Aylmer and Brock Streets, Mrs. Agnes Morgan appeared in police court before Magistrate O. A. Langley this morning. The defendant was charged with "while being the operator of a motor vehicle driven west on Brock Street, did fail to bring the said motor vehicle to a stop before entering Aylmer Street as required by by-law No. 2662."

Joseph Wearing, City Solicitor, appeared for the prosecution. The defendant was represented by F. D. Kerr, K.C.

S. R. Armstrong, City Clerk, the first witness called, testified that the by-law was properly certified and passed.

Witnesses for both sides were excluded from the court during the hearing of the case.

Robert Carr

Robert Carr, the driver of the truck, stated that at the time of the accident the roadbed was in bad condition for travelling, due to the snow. The time was about 11 o'clock, he said, and he was responding to a fire alarm at 368 Smith Street.

When the accident ocurred he was driving north on Aylmer Street and was travelling in the centre of the road.

It is. It also has a whistle operated from the exhaust.

Was the whistle going that day?

Yes. It was going passing Hunter Street.

What happened?

On approaching Brock Street I noticed a car coming west on Brock Street about 35 feet away. It was occupied by two ladies and was more toward the south side of Brock Street. The car was coming at a snail's pace. I thought the driver would give me the right of way, but she did not; instead she kept proceeding slowly toward the intersection. I swerved the truck west in order to prevent a collision, but after passing the centre of the intersection, the driver of the car turned north on Aylmer.

As a consequence, he continued, she did not leave me enough room to go between her and the bridge. To avoid hitting the two ladies I took the bridge and landed on all fours.

Did the lady make any statements to you?

When I went over to the car where the ladies were sitting, I asked her if "she had hear the siren?" and she replied "No."

What have you to say as to whether she stopped the car or not?

In my opinion she did not stop the car before entering Aylmer Street.

In cross examination by Mr. Kerr, the witness testified:

You were travelling at a fast rate of speed?

25 to 30 miles an hour.

You sometimes hit higher?

It depends on what kind of fire it is.

You don't feel restricted?

No.

You don't obey the by-laws?

Not going to a fire.

When you saw the women, they were on Brock?

Yes.

Where?

About 30 feet east of Aylmer and was very slowly.

Where did you locate their car after the accident?

Close to the curb on the east side of Aylmer near Dr. Hammond's door.

BIG INCREASE IN FIRE LOSS

December Alone Topped Total For Entire Year 1925.

$44,274 FOR MONTH.

Last year there were a few bad fires in the month of December, which greatly increased the fire loss for the year. The loss in December was $44,274.44, or over $15,000 greater than for all of 1925. The total loss for the year was $76,448.20, being $47,686.38 greater than in 1925.

In 1925 there were 51 actual fires, and in 1926 there were 52, but the alarms for last year showed an increase over 1925, there being 465 alarms last year and 375 in 1925.

Wife Of Phillipine Leader Learns Flapperism And Returns With Bobbed Hair To Head Rebels

(By W. R. Kuhns, United Press Staff Correspondent)

JOLO, P.I., Feb. 1—Pursued by the Philippine Constabulary a band of defeated rebels was in retreat to-day, believed to be led by the American-educated Princess Tarhata, known as "Moroland's only flapper."

Incited by Tarhata and her husband, the band of rebels, 250 strong, took up the fight against the constabulary because of alleged injustices, chief of which were high taxes.

The constabulary won, demolishing all the rebel strongholds, killing 35 natives and routing the rest of the band. Today the remnants of the rebels, tattered and bleeding were in retreat.

During the fighting, Princess Tarhata passed back and forth to where the rebels were entrenched. Fear of harming her and thereby arousing the whole Morocco country caused the constabulary to delay the attack.

When it was learned that she had disappeared the constabulary soon quelled the uprising and started out in pursuit of the survivors. It was believed Tarhata has joined Tahil in an attempt to lead the native warriors to safety.

CONTINENTAL NATIONS ARE NOW TURNING TOWARDS CHEMICALS AS A DEFENSIVE NEED IN WARFARE

Storing Huge Reservoirs of Deadly Fumes for Future Use.

TRAINING MEN

Disclosed by French Move for Organizing Flame-Throwing Units

PARIS, Feb. 1.—The announcement by the Ministry of War to the effect that liquid flame-throwing squads will soon be incorporated in every battalion of the French Army has led to the disclosure that every army in Europe, including that of France, is now undergoing intensive training in "defensive" chemical warfare.

The French army is maintaining a large gas school at Aubervilliers, near Paris, where hundreds of officers are being instructed in the latest phases of chemical fighting.

In explanation of this type of warfare, which was so widely denounced in the World War, the French High Command says it is not the intention of France to use gas first, but only to be prepared in case an enemy employs it in the next conflict.

The defensive aspect of the matter is strongly emphasized and in support of it the officials point to the Moroccan war, in which chemical warfare was not resorted to in any engagement.

Actuated by Fear of Neighbors

France, like all the other signatories of the Treaty of Versailles, undertook under Article 171 not to use gas in future wars, but her army leaders are frankly skeptical.

In view of the recent revelation that Germany is working night and day to perfect two new gases, one said to render harmless all known forms of gases and the other putting whole armies to sleep for four hours, and the sryptic statement emanating from high officials at Moscow several weeks ago that "Russia would rather not discuss what she is doing in chemical warfare," the French army chiefs feel that they are completely justified in their extensive defensive preparations.

Naturally enough, American experts who have made investigation of the war gas situation in Europe found the French arguments practically the same as those applied by the army heads of other European nations. Every country promptly rejects the idea that its gas preparation is for anything but defensive purposes.

Italy and Belgium say they are forced to build up formidable defensive chemical warfare departments because "all the other countries are doing it."

Strong Reservoirs of War Gas.

Besides training a personnel of technicians, each nation is also developing a huge reservoir of chemicals again with the excuse of "in case" an enemy makes the first gas attack.

Research work in connection with the chemical defensive arm is likewise comprehensive. It is no secret that many new deadly bases have been discovered since the armistice. The temptation to try them out, should another war occur, probably would prove too great for some of the participants, according to the frank opinion held by many European army experts, hence each nation's concern over what the makers of the Treaty of Versailles hoped would be outlawed as a branch of European fighting machines.

Next to aviation secrets, those of chemical warfare are the most sought after by the Intelligence services of various nations. Just now France and other nations are eagerly seeking information concerning the two new German gases.

The "Human Squirrel," a noted steeplejack, has declined a request to remove a swarm of bees from the cornice of the Tulare county courthouse in Callfrnia.

CHEN BREAKS NEGOTIATIONS WITH BRITAIN

Refuses To Sign Agreement While Armed Forces Gather at Shanghai.

BRITISH GENEROUS.

All Foreign Concessions Would Have Been Returned To Governments.

HANKOW, Feb. 1 (Canadian Press).—Negotiations between the Cantonese and the British here for a new modus vivandi to take the place of the treaties now in effect between China and Great Britain were broken off today by Eugene Chen, Cantonese Foreign Minister.

The Cantonese Foreign Minister, who had been negotiating with Owen O'Malley, British Charge d'Affaires, refused to sign the agreement proposed by the British as long as armed forces of Great Britain are concentrating at Shanghai.

The negotiations were undertaken in an attempt to establish relations between China and Great Britain which would virtually do away with the foreign concessions, extra territoriality, and the existing customs treaties, to which both the Cantonese and Peking Governments have offered strenuous objection. Although the terms upon which Great Britain approached the Cantonese were not officially made public, they were said to be most liberal, assuring virtual tariff autonomy to China.

Miles Lampson, British Minister to China, is negotiating with the Peking Government on terms similar to those offered the Cantonese.

PEACE WAS OBJECTA

Designed apparently to overcome the wave of anti-British feeling which has swept China from north to the south in a few weeks, the British proposals practically would have returned all foreign concessions to the respective Chinese governments, with the exception of Shanghai, which is an international settlement.

It was understood that Britain asked only minor conditions designed to insure the efficient administration of the foreign concessions which would have been surrendered to the Cantonese rule.

These proposals were presented simultaneously to the Peking and Canton governments last Friday and were generally regarded by foreign circles in China as being too generous to be refused.

BRITISH PROTEST.

PEKING, Feb. 1. — Canadian Press. — The British legation protested to the Foreign office of the Peking government against the dismissal yesterday of Sir Francis Aglen, the Inspector General of the Chinese Maritime Customs.

BANKERS PROTEST.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 1. United Press —Representatives of the Chinese Bankers' Association to-day protested to the Peking government against the dismissal of Sir Francis Aglen, the British Inspector General of Customs. The bankers said they feared the dismissal would cause bonds to slump.

Sir Francis' dismissal was believed to have been caused by his refusal to collect the surtax which recently has been imposed by all the Chinese factions.

River Thames Rising; Towns Are Inundated

LONDON, Feb. 1 (United Press).—Rains which fell over Southern England during the violent gales of Friday and Saturday have caused the Thames to rise five feet in two days and yesterday parts of Shepperton and Halliford, Walton and Chertsey were flooded.

Unsettled weather continued in parts of Britain. Roofs were lifted by a gale in Counties Tyrone and Donegal, Ireland, on Sunday, and yesterday the unroofed houses contained a foot of snow, which fell during the night.

FORCES GATHER FOR OFFENSIVE ON HANKOW

Sir Austin Chamberlain's Speech Gets Press Reception in London

REPEATS WARNING

Is Expected That Cantonese Will Accept British Settlement Policy.

LONDON, Feb. 1. Canadian Press —Sir Austen Chamberlain's Birmingham speech continues to get an excellent press reception despite the fact that the terms offered to China are universally admitted to go even further than was indicated in the Christmas memorandum to the powers and it is supposed that this may be due to the conversations between British Charge O'Malley and Eugene Chen, the Cantonese minister at Hankow.

It is thought that the British foreign secretary would not have secured such strong backing for his generous terms had not the government disarmed criticism in advance by sending adequate armed forces to China.

News from Peking yesterday reports plans for a big offensive at an early date of the northern forces against Hankow with large Nationalist contingents from Ichang and other points, moving on Hankow. The Peking government's protest against the British expeditionary force is not regarded very seriously in official quarters here; it is considered as another manifestation of the prestige competition between the northern and the Cantonese governments.

It is noted that while the protests characterize the British action as "extraordinary," it does not complain that it is unfriendly.

APPROVES OF TERMS.

PORT TALBOT, Wales, Feb. 1.—Canadian Press. — Former Premier Ramsay MacDonald, speaking here last night, repeated his former warnings, that the British government was playing with fire in sending large armed forces to China, but heartily approved Foreign Secretary Chamberlain's speech at Birmingham yesterday and said that he was optimistic enough to believe that everything would turn out well.

He promised the Government that the labor party, of which he is the leader, would offer its cordial support as long as it continued to negotiate with China on the lines announced by the foreign secretary.

EXPECT ACCEPTANCE.

LONDON, Feb. 1. Canadian Press —The Daily Mail learns that such satisfactory progress has been made in the discussions between British Charge O'Malley, and the Cantonese foreign minister, Chen, that there is every likelihood that Chen will accept the British proposals.

SEEK TREATY RE WATERWAY

No Attempt Be Made to Secure Action at This Session.

U. S. SENATE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 (Canadian Press).—No serious attempt by friends of the St. Lawrence waterway project nor by the administration itself will be made to secure any action by Congress in the present short session to promote negotiations with Canada on that subject. The present plan is to endeavor to negotiate a treaty with Canada in the course of next summer and fall in order that it may be ready to submit to the Senate at the regular session which opens next December.

The arrival of the Hon. Vincent Massey here some time this month is expected to facilitate negotiations.

CURB ACTIVITIES OF RUM VESSELS BY NEW RULINGS

Captains Must Give Name of the Last Port of Call.

REQUIRE STATEMENT

Trade With United States Will Be Greatly Restricted.

OTTAWA, Feb. 1. — The Customs Department is closely following up the liquor shipping situation as revealed at the Vancouver sessions of the royal commission on Customs frauds. Orders were issued over the week-end by which it is hoped to do away with much of the double shuffling that has been going on in the past. Incidentally, the Department finds it has always had the power to check alleged abuses of clearances and rum-carrier voyages. It was brought out at the inquiry that vessels have tripped merrily about until their goings and comings were beyond the ken of officialdom and have finally landed at a Canadian port and entered themselves as from the high seas. This was held to be a particularly bad feature of the liquor handling business.

In an order just issued the Department holds that the question of port and country whence arrived is not satisfactorily answered by the indefinite statement that the vessel came from the high seas, but that instead the intention of the act from the first was to require a statement showing a definite place from which the ship had cleared.

Name Last Port.

In future, port officers are ordered to require masters of vessels reporting inwards to name the port and country from which last clearance was obtained, and to make a complete affidavit in respect of any addition to, change in, or disposition of cargo since the date of last clearance, whether occurring at sea or at any other place.

Vessels clearing from Canada with liquor, trans-shipping it at sea for U.S. ports, will be barred from making their speedy trips of 48 hours to the South Pole, or thereabouts, and return. It is thought that enforcement of this order will materially reduce the terrying business to rum rows off the U.S. coasts, east and west.

CEMETERIES GET FLAT WATER RATE

Granted at Meeting of Utilities Commission Held Yesterday Afternoon

Commissioner Gordon S. Matthews will act as chairman of the Utilities Commission if any meetings come up unexpectedly during the absence of Chairman W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., in Toronto for the forthcoming session of the Provincial Legislature. This was decided at the meeting of the commission held yesterday afternoon.

A deputation from the Little Lake Cemetery Board waited on the commission with regard to water rates. W. G. Morrow acted as spokesman, and was backed up by F. Brownscombe and R. Denne. They expressed the belief that a recent upward revision of their rate had been excessive, and it was decided to give them a flat rate for 1927. The meter which has ben instaled will be left there and the rate in future years will be determined from its reading. A similar arrangement will be made with those in charge of St. Peter's Cemetery.

The license granted by the Department of Railways and Canals for the line over the canal at Maria street contains a clause giving the canal authorities authority to move the line without notice, and the commissions solicitor will take the matter up with the department to get this remedied in some way.

The engineer was given authority to negotiate with the Hydro Electric Power Commission for the sale of a switching panel to be used to connect the lines in the suburban area to the Utilities switchboard in the substation.

The accountant presented an interim statement for the Electric department, which showed most items comparing favorably with last year. Certain items have yet to be completed before the commission can announce the exact result of the year's operations.

Reports on the street lighting system, including improvements to the lighting of George street, prepared by the engineer, were referred to the Fire, Water and Light committee of the City Council.

COUNCIL IS STILL UNCERTAIN OVER DISARMAMENT

Time Limit for Agreement Extended Until To-day Noon.

NOT SATISFIED

German Crisis Blamed for Failure of Conference Thus Far.

PARIS, Feb. 1. — (Canadian Press).—Although the last day of January was the date fixed for the settlement of the German disarmament problem between the allies and the Germans, when military control would pass from the allied mission to the League, an agreement had not been reached last night, and the allied council of ambassadors postponed their meeting, while the clock was turned back.

By special dispensation, which the Ambassadors' Council assumed authority to accord, however, the time limit was extended until to-day noon, when a final meeting of the council will be held to take note whether an agreement has been reached.

The real question at issue was dismantlement of the Koenigsberg and other fortifications in Eastern Germany. The Germans made slight concessions regarding these fortifications, but the interallied war committee was not satisfied as to the extent of the new concrete field works on the Polish frontier which the Germans were willing to destroy.

The Berlin Cabinet crisis is charged with all responsibility for the failure thus far, as the German delegates appear as eager as the allies to come to a final settlement. The feeling in Berlin, as reflected by German experts here, is that a settlement with the allies now would be better than to inaugurate League control, with the vexed question of fortifications on the east Prussian border, which the allies contend are contrary to the Treaty of Versailles.

It has now come down to a matter of kilometers of concrete trenches, and the approval of the German Government to the necessary concessions is looked for, as Berlin is quite as anxious as the allies to settle the affair before the whole matter goes to the League.

CAMPBELLFORD NEWS.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 1.—Mr. Alfred Burley, of Sandwich, spent the past week with Mr. and Mrs. H. E. Cassan. Mrs. Burley (Jessie Cassan) and baby, who have been visiting her parents for the past two months, returned to Sandwich with Mr. Burley.

Messrs. O. R. Thompson and C. F. Maybee spent Thursday in town.

OLD MASTERS

The man of life upright,
Whose guiltless heart is free
From all dishonest deeds,
Or thought of vanity;

The man whose silent days
In harmless joys are spent,
Whom hopes cannot delude
Nor sorrow discontent:

That man needs neither towers
Nor armor for defense,
Nor secret vaults to fly
From thunder's violence:

He only can behold
With unaffrighted eyes
The horrors of the deep
And terrors of the skies.

Thus scorning all the cares
That fate or fortune brings,
He makes the heavens his book,
His wisdom heavenly things;

Good thoughts his only friend,
His wealth a well-spent age,
The earth his sober inn
And quiet pilgrimage.

PARIS, Feb. 1—Divorces were granted to 280 American couples in Paris last year, according to reliable figures. This is an increase of 100 over the previous year. The expectation is that 400 will be recorded during 1927.

There must be added to the 1926 total an unknown number of decrees granted at Nice, where the secrecy surrounding the proceedings is even greater than that in Paris. American lawyers have reaped a harvest from the actions, nearly all the applicants being wealthy and paying fees ranging from $3,000 to $10,000.

The attractions of Paris and the fact that no evidence can be published are given as the two chief reasons for the popularity of the French capital with Americans seeking marital freedom.

If the figures for the last three months of 1926, 1,002, are taken as an average, more than 4,000 divorces were granted to Parisians last year, as compared, approximately, to 36,000 marriages.

The record of France is held by the town of Lozere, where not a single divorce has been granted in the last six months.

WARSAW LADIES' AID

Report Shows Finances to be in Very Good Condition.

WARSAW, Feb. 1—Mrs. Thomas Clements entertained the United Church Ladies' Aid on Thursday afternoon.

The president, Mrs. Herrington, was in the chair. The scripture lesson was the story of Jesus going to the home of Mary and Martha for rest. Mrs. Herrington read a short comment upon the story. Mrs. Edwards read a very interesting article on "talents." The writer showed that talents of some kind belong to every single person. Talents are not necessarily those gifts which bring applause. They may be that, but they are those things which people can do to make the world around them better. Emily and May Payne sang "What would you take for me, papa?" The treasurer's statement showed that after all bills were paid and the fifty dollars donated to the committee on re-roofing the shed, there is still over twenty-five dollars on hand. The Aid is to put on a play, "The Last Loaf" to help pay the indebtedness. The president asked for criticisms on or suggestions for the meetings. The roll call was answered by a verse of scripture. The next meeting will be held at Mrs. McCauley's home.

Mr. and Mrs. Alford, Lakefield, spent a few days with their daughter, Mrs. Percy Lloyd.

The population of the world at the beginning of the 19th century was estimated at 700,000,000. It is now about 1,660,000,000 having more than doubled itself in ... years.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

MY SHIP OF DREAMS

My ship of dreams, I wonder where you're sailing?
Have you forgot the hand that sent you forth?
Perhaps tonight strange harbors you are hailing,
Or sailing south, who should be sailing north.
Perhaps tonight you lie forever resting
Upon a reef where not a beacon beams,
Your sailing o'er, an end to all my questing,
And end to all my schemes, my ship of dreams.

I sent you forth to find the fabled islands,
To bring me silk, and gold, and jeweled urn,
And now I stand upon the lonely highlands
And watch in vain to see my ship return.
For not a sail I see upon the ocean,
And not a light at night to seaward gleams;
My life a thing without a thing in motion,
My only gold my schemes, my ship of dreams.

Oh, if you sail, if still the world you wander,
If still you pennons flutter in the air,
Speed, speed, my ship, from islands over yonder,
For fear you stay so long I do not care.
For even love finds lonely loving dreary,
A song will die, however sweet it seems;
Speed, speed, my ship, for fear I grow too weary—
Yes, even of my schemes, my ship of dreams.

SAYS THAT APE MUST SAVE RACE

Dr. Voronoff, Experimenter of Glands, Forsees an Age of Supermen

LIFE DOUBLED

LONDON, Feb. 1. (United Press.)—Descendants of the gibbering monkey who evolutionists say, gave man his first start in life, will soon sacrifice his glands to create a world of supermen, Dr. Voronoff, world-famed experimenter of monkey glands, has predicted.

Envisioning a world in which monkey farms will be as numerous as chicken yards and morons as rare as dodos, Dr. Voronoff, in an interview with a Daily Express correspondent at Monte Carlo, foresaw a lengthening of the human life span to double its present term through monkey gland grafting.

"I look into the future and see clearly the possibility of a race of supermen, rich in thought, strength and intelligence," he said. "Monkeys provide us with a set of glands which act on the heart and brain. It is very well to graft glands on aged humans; that sets the clock back.

"But by the reverse process of grafting glands of male children of from eight to ten years a race of supermen will be produced. There must however be an adequate supply of glands, and vast monkey farms, therefore, must be created."

The doctor expressed the belief that renewal of human energy was still in its infancy. Salvation of the human race, he felt, must come from the monkey.

"Fifty years hence we should be able to double the span of human life," he concluded.

ENGLISH LINE NEWS

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 1. — League of Tabernacle church, English Line, met on Tuesday evening under the convenership of the missionary department. As the president Mrs. Herbert Tinney, was absent owing to illness, the meeting was led by Mr. Ernest Craighead. The feature of the evening was a series of lantern slides presented by the pastor, Rev. C. D. Daniel, covering the mission work of the province of Schezwan, West China, around which part of the present Chinese disturbance has ocurred. Pictures portrayed the work of the evangelist striving to overcome Chinese superstitions also the evangelist's fight against existing law morals. The medical and education work was also reviewed. The pictures were such that every one felt they had received a better impression of Chinese affairs and therefore would be more sympathetic to the present situation

The League service will not be held next Tuesday evening but on Friday evening, Feb. 4th, when the Tabernacle League will act as host to Stephen's League.

Sleigh Riding.

"Backward, turn backward"—is ever true. Using the school bobs all the young people of the community of the English Line, and also many of the older folk, have revived the sport of sleigh riding and coasting. Two hills, which meet at the corner, Tuck's and Dunk's, have been prepared and are being used. They are lighted with gas lanterns, making the track as light as day. Down these, the bobs, ladened with from sixteen to eighteen passengers, speed at a teriffic rate for almost a mile. Occassionally, the sleigh turns too sharply and then there is the accustomed spill. In one of these on Monday evening, Mrs. Harry Campbell had her foot badly wrenched and although painful is now progressing nicely. Many happy evenings are being spent in this wholesome sport.

Another sleighing accident on the sixth line occurred on Bennett's hill when a bob sleigh hit a toboggan which was unable to get off the track in time.

Mrs. Fred Stollery, who has been ill since before Christmas, is now progressing favorably.

HOPE FOR UNION OF RAILWAYMEN

Expect Joint Conference of Different Organizations to be Called.

ELIMINATE FRICTION

LONDON, Feb. 1. Canadian Press—A joint conference will probably be called very soon to consider the often-debated amalgamation of the three big unions—the National Union of Railwaymen, Associated Society of Locomotive Engineers and Firemen, and the Transportation Workers' Union.

It is hardly denied by the leaders that the present independent attitude of the unions raises constant jealousies and interferes with the progress of union among the railwaymen as a whole.

J. H. Thomas, former Labor cabinet minister, is secretary of the Locomotive Engineers and Firemen's union, and Harry Goslin, secretary of the Transportation Workers' Union.

MILLBROOK SCHOOL TRUSTEES ORGANIZE

G. E. Burnham Elected Chairman for Year at Inaugural Meeting.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 1. — The School Board held its inaugural meeting on Monday evening and effected organization for 1927 as follows:

Chairman—G. E. Burnham.

Management Committee— Messrs. J. A. Vance, H. R. Armstrong, L. C. Russell.

Secretary - Treasurer — A. A. Smith.

The chairman was appointed delegate to attend the annual Ontario Educational Association convention to be held in Toronto during Easter week.

Mr. Smith is ex-chairman of the board, and has held the office of secretary-treasurer for over twenty consecutive years.

Nelles Rowland, who represented Durham East (not including Port Hope) at the Sixth Older Boys' Parliament which met at Queen's Park during Christmas week, gave an instructive report at the Young Peoples' League on Monday evening.

Albert Tucker, who has been a member of the Boys' Parliament for four years, and Speaker of the House for the past two sessions, is the only son of Rev. W. B. Tucker, and a nephew of Rev. S. T. Tucker, of Orono, who was pastor of the Millbrook circuit for four years. He represented the constituency of Manitoulin at the Parliament.

The Boys' Parliament originated in Ontario, and has proved its merits by the fact that practically every other province in the Dominion has adopted the idea: the United States is also considering putting it over, and from Cuba came a report that it will probably have a place in the boy life of that island as well.

Among interesting sidelights on the social activities was the "Get Acquainted" supper on the opening night; every boy must rise in turn and "tell who he is, where he is from, what he is noted for, and what the constituency he represents is noted for." Along with some others, the members for Durham East could say his riding voted dry in the last provincial election.

The Boys' Work Board provided the banquet the next evening, and a luncheon at Hart House, with a young Scotch entertainer, featured the following day; a skating party, under the auspices of the C.G.I.T. groups of the city, and a bus ride to visit the principal points in Toronto, were both thoroughly enjoyed. A "father and son" banquet at the King Edward Hotel, given by the Rotary Club, completed the list of entertainment.

A number of homes in Toronto extend hospitality to the boy members for bed and breakfast during the week, the other meals being taken elsewhere. To provide for travelling expenses each constituency has a stated amount to raise, and the surplus is pooled, when a member's ticket costs less than the sum allotted, so there is an extra fund from which to provide for those who have a heavy mileage due to living a considerable distance from Toronto.

The legislation passed in previous years by which each boy elected must be a member of some evangelical church came up for considerable discussion at the last session, and was finally revised. The regulations now are that a member elect must believe in one God; must attend regularly some place of worship; and must be endeavoring to live the Jesus way. A certificate from a recognized religious leader to the above effect will entitle a boy to stand for election, and the conditions are broad enough to admit of Hebrews, Roman Catholics, and Protestants of any denomination becoming members. There was one Hebrew in attendance at the last session from North Bay he was given a Cabinet position without portfolio pending the amended legislation.

The financial objective this year is $12,000, an increase of $1,000 over last year, and the bond-selling campaign is now on. Durham East and West has an apportionment of $100; last year but $5.00 was contributed, so there is need of considerable activity among the boy members to reach the objective for this season. Port Hope has also an allotment of $100. Bonds are in denominations of $1, and $5.

The expenses of the Parliament totalled $300.00, and last year $500.00 was expended in sending Gordon Lapp, formerly of Brighton, to the Worlds' Brotherhood Convention at Helsingfor, Finland.

Some of the money is used to provide circulating libraries for boys in isolated sections of Northern Ontario where no regular meetings of a Tuxis Square are possible; the boys must be kept in touch with the work in some other way. Earl Lautenslager, premier of the Boys' Parliament, will speak at Trenton during the bond-selling campaign, and one of the Boys' Work secretaries, probably Mr. Plewman, will be at Port Hope, if present plans are carried out.

World Brotherhood is emphasized at the Boys' Parliament, and the secretary, who is in correspondence with boys in Europe, reported a German boy as writing in response to the question 'what do you think of war?' that the working classes, at least, in Germany think there has been enough war, and are earnestly desirous that the Prince of Peace may reign supreme.

The League of Nations, and its work, is studied: bonds entitling one to literature on its activities once a quarter, sell at 25 cents each, and may be procured from the members of the Boys' Parliament.

There was one colored boy elected a member of the last Parliament and in attendance at its sessions in December.

A bank in Portland, Me., has installed a periscope as protection against bandits and burglars. A small peep-hole on the street level enables the police to see into the vaults at any time.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 1 (Canadian Press). — Wheat turned decidedly downward yesterday in the late dealings. Enlarged offerings, especially by the southwest, had a bearish influence. Closing quotations on wheat were heavy, 3-4 to 1 1-8c net lower; corn 3-8 to 1-2c off; oats 1-4 to 1 7-8c down, and provisions unchanged to 15 cents decline.

Corn held better than wheat, but was responsive to Iowa reports of a larger interior movement, especially to Milwaukee. Besides, feeder demand was less active. Discouraged holders sold oats and for the first time May lost its premium over July.

WAR MAKERS

Have a care—
You, to whom war is nil—
For, when next tempted
To light your flare,
And fling the world
Into the pit of misery—
You go first
Thro the mill.

That is fair—
You glory in let blood—
Other people's gore—
And now they dare
Assign your place;
In case you forget again,
Your veins feed
The red flood.

Let those first
Fight, whose clarion tongue
Embroil their brethren
In gruesome burst;
Then, when they're proved
By their complete sacrifice,
Why—let their Names be sung.

Live in peace—
Proudly its emblems wear.
Fear to breed hatred,
That makes love cease
Among mankind,
In their hard struggle upward.
War makers—
Have a care.

Nick O'Teen.

RESIGNS POST

Major-General James H. MacBrien, C.M.G., D.S.O., who served through the South African war and the late war, and who was Canadas' chief military adviser at the imperial conferences of 1923 and 1926, has resigned his post as chief of general staff, owing, it is said, to the inadequacy of the pay and allowances granted some of the senior officers of the Canadian permanet force.

He Dieted to Get Thin; Crazy, Says the Coroner

LONDON, Feb. 1. — A diet can go a little too far, it appears from a coroner's inquest in Hastings, near here. There a young man, a faddist in matters of food, decided to restrict himself to a diet which even a fanatic might consider extreme. He ate one orange and two grapes for breakfast, half a lettuce and a spoonful of grated carrot for lunch, and for dinner two dry biscuits and some scraped beets.

He was trying to get thin. But he died. The coroner said death was "self-imposed while temporarily insane."

U. S. CITIZENS LEAVE INTERIOR

Follow American Minister's Advice for Evacuation to Seacoast.

ENDORSE POLICY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 (Canadian Press).—Following the advice of United States Minister MacMurray, American citizens in interior Chinese cities whose safety had been menaced by movements of Cantonese forces, have started an evacuation to the sea coast, Admiral C. W. Williams, in command of the Asiatic fleet, yesterday reported to the Navy Department.

Among the cities which are being cleared of United States nationals are Chung King, Chang Sha Szechwan, Foochow, while at Hankow and Nanking warnings for them to leave have been issued by consuls, and at Amoy, Swatow, and Canton residents have been concentrated at points which could be readily evacuated.

From the interior cities on the Yangtse River the refugees will be assembled at Chung King and taken down the river as rapidly as possible. The State Department was advised yesterday that the United States Chamber of Commerce at Shanghai had endorsed the policy statement of China issued recently by Secretary Kellogg and had expressed appreciation of the assurances given by the Washington administration that U. S. lives and property would be protected.

Perpetual Motion Clock Operated by Temperature

ZURICH, Feb. 1. — An inventor here has devised a clock which is hailed as a long step toward solution of the problem of perpetual motion. The clock is based on the principle of the thermometer, the mechanism being worked by variations in temperature.

A difference of two degrees daily is sufficient to assure perfect regularity of the clock, the inventor says. It winds itself and can continue running indefinitely, he declares.

The model has been tested for a year at the Federal Polytechnical Institute in Zurich, and though untouched by human hands during that time it is still going.

Wife Moves 10 Times; Now It Is His Move

DETROIT, Feb. 1.—Charging that he never was able to get her to settle down, Robert S. Jarboe Friday filed suit for divorce against Winnifred T. Jarboe.

After they were married at Medicine Hat, Alberta, Canada, May 24, 1910, she forced him to move ten times, he said, becoming dissatisfied with each town to which they moved.

When she left him for parts unknown, December 15, 1924, Jarboe said, she told him that up to that moment she did not know whether she wanted him or not but that now she was convinced she did not want him.

TEAM RUNS AWAY DAMAGING FENCES

Wooler Man Slightly Hurt During Escapade—Was Drawing Water.

WOOLER, Feb. 1.—The boys of the community have built a new skating rink and during these cold days are busy flooding it. They are planning for real sport. On Thursday, L. C. McColl was driving his team, on a sleigh full of cows, at the creek where the boys were filling the cans with water, when the team became frightened and ran away, causing damage to fences, especially the new fence in front of the Anglican church, striking a car which was at the "Putnam" garage, and finally being caught when one horse fell.

Mr. McColl was badly bruised but not seriously hurt.

Leonard Scott and his men are busy running two trucks of baled hay, on an average of ten tons a day, into Trenton, to the new paper plant.

Maurice Rose who recently with his family has moved into the village, has opened up a bake shop.

Elsie Irvine, who was operated on in the Western Hospital, Toronto, is convalescing, and hopes to return to her home with Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Terrill.

On Friday Lewis Herrington, Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Herrington and three children spent the day with Mr. and Mrs. Esli Terrill.

Mr. and Mrs. Al. Sharpe opened their home on Thursday evening to the cottage prayer meeting with an attendance of twenty-two. Rev. H. B. Neal took the subject, "Temptation" and gave the key to the next Sunday school lesson.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. McColl entertained Rev. and Mrs. Neal, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Wessels, Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Terrill, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Dorland, Mr. and Mrs. W. Montgomery and Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Terrill. After a sumptuous repast, the evening was spent in contests and games until a late hour.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Bowers visited friends in Picton the past two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Downey, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Coulter, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Mouck and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Mouck were entertained at the home of Mr. William R. Kerr on Saturday evening.

Mrs. Melbourne Adams is quite ill.

Mrs. G. H. Sherry has not been enjoying very good health, but is around again now.

Mr. and Mrs. G. English, of Shannonville, spent a few days with friends here recently.

Mr. J. D. Embry was a few days at Kingston visiting his son, Russell, who was confined to hospital.

The annual school meeting was held as usual. Messrs. J. R. Bateman, H. Kennedy and M. Green were appointed Trustees. Mr. C. Pounder has the contract for supplying the wood.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bateman spent Thursday at the home of Mr. Herbert Mouck.

Miss Mary Howe has returned from Peterboro, where she was visiting friends.

SUCCESSFUL DANCE

Trent River Fish and Game Association Hold Social

TRENT RIVER, Feb. 1.—The Fish and Game Protective Association held a dance at Mrs. A. Wight's home on Friday night. Owing to other attractions the crowd was not as large as expected. The old time square dance, to the tune of several violins with piano accompaniment, was indulged in. The committee furnished sandwiches and the local ladies furnished cakes, and there was abundance of good things for all. The proceeds from the door amounted to $33.

Mrs. Claud Insley and son, Billie, returned to Healy Falls on Saturday after spending a week with Mrs. Frank Pollock.

Mrs. James Cook entertained the L.O.B.A. No.179 to a euchre and ten cent tea at her home on Thursday afternoon.

YAQUI INDIANS CANCEL OFFERS TO SURRENDER

Negotiations for Submission of Rebels at Sonora Fail.

BLOCKADE CAMPS

Mexico Hopes Hunger Will Force Tribesmen to Give In.

MEXICO CITY, Mexico, Feb. 1. —(Canadian Press).—Negotiations for submission of the rebellious Yaqui Indians in the state of Sonora have failed. The government therefore has decided to continue to blockade their strongholds, hoping to bring the tribesmen to reason through hunger.

Though willing to surrender, the Yaquis refuse to deliver up their arms and demand continuance of the subsidy which the government gave them before they started their rising, last summer.

Several days ago it appeared as though Sonora was to enjoy another period of peace, President Calles announcing his intention to accept the offer of unconditional surrender by the Yaqui Indians. He had given orders to incorporate in the Mexican army the Yaqui warriors who were unwilling to give up their arms.

When Adolfo de la Huerta was provisional president of Mexico an agreement was reached with the Yaquis, whereby they received monthly pay as "members of the army." It was announced this agreement would virtually continue in effect, but the warriors, instead of being permitted to idle in the mountains, would be placed on active service.

Death Blow Received.

After the sharpest and most sanguinary combat in the state of Jalisco, says a report to the War Department, the Jalisco rebellion has received its death blow. The rebels fled, divided into small troops, pursued by the Federal forces. The number of casualties is not mentioned.

While it is learned here that all Roman Catholic priests of the state of Jalisco have been notified to report daily to the Department of the Interior in Mexico City after to-day, so far as is known priests in other states will not be molested. Similar orders were given to the priests of the state of Durango a few weeks ago.

Special despatches from Guadelajera, telling of the order to the Jalisco priests, say the action was taken because of "Catholic agitation" in that state.

NORHAM LADIES' AID WILL HOLD SOCIAL

Regular Meeting Held With Good Attendance—Ice Cutting Starts.

NORHAM, Feb. 1.—The Ladies Aid held its regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Oney Isaac, on Thursday afternoon. There were twenty-one members and three visitors present. It was decided that the next regular meeting should assume the form of a social evening to be held in the League Hall on the last Thursday of February. Mrs. F. H. Huycke, Mrs J. Diamond, and Mrs. Lorne Evans were appointed a committee to prepare the programme. Lunch was served at the close of the meeting.

Ice cutting has begun both at Orland and Warkworth. One cutter stated that an inch in thickness was added in a night during the cold snap. A cake that was weighed by Robert Ryckman tipped the scales at 128 pounds.

The Mount Olivet Ladies Aid has planned for a social, to be held in the school house on Friday evening, February 4th.

SHAKESPEARE PLAY CODRINGTON HALL

Young People of Dartford Enact Part of "Merchant of Venice."

NORHAM, Feb. 1.—An entertainment comprising several special numbers, a synopsis of the first three acts, and the fourth and fifth acts in drama of the "Merchant of Venice," was given in Codrington Orange Hall, on Tuesday evening in behalf of the work of Bethany United church, by the Dartford Dramatic Club, the officers of which are: President, Helen Darling; vice-president, Arthur Ward; secretary, Mildred Nelson; treasurer Charles Honey.

The hall was comfortably seated and the hearers had many words of praise and considerable applause for those taking part in the program. Each of the artists performed with great acceptability. The costumes wer thoughtfully and carefully arranged to suit the different characters. There was evidence of hard word and careful training. Special mention might be made of Mrs. Norman Latta, who gave the synopsis and carried the responsibility of stage manager.

The play was also given at Dartford on the previous Friday evening, when Mrs. McClelland, elocutionist, of Peterboro, gave a number of readings. This was Mrs. McClelland's second appearance at Dartford since last October.

The proceeds of the Dartford entertainment amounted to $55.00 and that of Codrington to $37.00. Rev. W. W. Jones, of Warkworth, pastor of the United church, had charge of the program at Dartford and Rev. J. F. Everson, of Norham, had charge at Codrington. Following are the numbers given:

"All Hail the Power of Jesus Name," by, the church choir, Miss Lorna McCall at the piano.

Selection by the Davey Orchestra; Misses Gladys and Gertrude Davey, Arthur and Clifford Davey.

Reading, "The Slave who Saved St. Michael's", Mrs. Lorne Evans.

Duets, Mrs. Leo J. Phillips and Rev. W. W. Jones, "He Knew it All" and "I Love Him," Mrs. W. W. Jones at the piano.

Selection by Davey Orchestra.

Reading, "A Child's Faith in God," Mrs. William Hopkins.

Mouthorgan solo, Flossie Everson.

Following is the cast of charatters for the play:

STOMACH TROUBLE GONE; BAKES 40 PIES

"I was a nervous wreck with stomach trouble. Had dizzy spells and could scarcely walk. I began taking Adlerika, and now I run a restaurant and bake 40 pies a day. When my friends ask how I do it, I tell them about Adlerika."—Mrs. L. Amrol.

Adlerika differs from most medicines because it acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowel. It gives the system a REAL cleansing, and clears out old poisons which usually cause sour, gassy stomach, nervousness, sleeplessness, headache. Just ONE spoonful stops GAS, and relieves that full bloated feeling so that you can eat better and sleep better. Even if bowels move daily, Adlerika brings out much additional poison which you never guessed was in your system and which may have long caused trouble. No matter what you have tried for stomach and bowels, Adlerika will suprise you. At leading druggists.

AGREEMENT ON DISARMAMENT

All Questions of Military Control of Germany Are Settled

NEGOTIATIONS END

PARIS, Feb. 1 (Canadian Press). Full agreement on the disarmament questions which have been the subject of protracted negotiations between the Allies and Germany was reached today. The Allied Council of Ambassadors is working out a few remaining details, but all pending differences over the military control of Germany have been settled and there are no problems to be turned over to the League of Nations.

VARICOSE VEINS REDUCED OR MONEY BACK, SAYS -A-

Simple Home Treatment That Is Giving Amazing Results.

The world progresses. To-day ailments that took weeks to treat can now be ended in a few days. If you have varicose veins or bunches, you can start today to bring them back to normal size, and if you are wise you will do so.

Just get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil at any dispensing pharmacist and apply it night and morning to the enlarged veins. It is very powerful and penetrating, and only a little is required. After a few days' treatment the veins will begin to grow smaller and by regular use will soon reduce to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil is also a marvelous healing agent. One application for instance stops the itching of eczema, and a few applications cause the eruptions to dry up, scale off and completely disappear. It is equally as effective in barber's itch, salt rheum, redness and inflammatory skin trouble.

People who want to reduce varicose veins, or to get rid of eczema, ulcers, or piles in a few days should not hesitate to get a bottle at once. It is so powerful that a small bottle lasts a long time. Any pharmacy can supply you. Boyd's Drug Store sells lots of it.

STAINS ON HOSIERY.

KIWANIANS STARTED PLANS FOR JUBILEE

Orillia Club Originated Scheme of Dominion-Wide Celebration on July 1.

ORILLIA, Jan. 31.—The announcement that His Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales, and possibly the Right Hon. Stanley Baldwin, Prime Minister of Great Britain, will visit Canada in 1927, for the purpose of taking part in the Dominion Day celebration, July 1st, recalls the fact that the movement to celebrate the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation on a truly national scale was first publicly proposed at the Kiwanis Club of Orillia, Ontario.

At the meeting of the Orillia Kiwanis Club Monday, July 5, 1925, the sepaker for the day was Mr. C. Harold Hale, Editor of the Orillia Packet and Times. In a thirty minute address, Mr. Hale appealed to the members of the Club to sponsor a movement for the fitting celebration of the Sixtieth Anniversary of Confederation, July 1st, 1927. He outlined very briefly some of the features of a programme which might be made to cover a three days' celebration. A notable suggestion was that their Majesties, King George and Queen Mary, should be invited to come to Canada for the occasion.

The Club heartily approved and adopted Mr. Hale's suggestion, appointed a committee to invite representatives of other organizations, including civic bodies, to meet and consider the project in detail. This committee gave its unanimous approval, and the project was crystallized by the formation of a committee of ten, which functioned as the Orillia Diamond Jubilee Executive. Of this Executive of ten, five were members of the Kiwanis Club, the chairman being Mr. Cecil George, Past President, and Secretary-Treasurer the author of this article. The programme as outlined by Mr. Hale was adopted in tot, and broadcast over Canada from coast to coast.

The Orillia Jubilee Executive labored diligently for over two months, sending out the provincial programme and an inspirational letter to representative public men, heads of educational institutions, officers of Service Clubs, and many others, covering every city and town from the Atlantic to the Pacific. The project caught on like wildfire, and the response was hearty and unanimous. Representative men in public life, heads of Universities, civic and other officials, wrote in reply, many of them at considerable length, and all offering their services in furtherance of the project. The public press also cordially supported the movement.

The proposal having now been fairly and successfully launched, the Orillia Executive sought the best means of carrying out the details of the celebration as a national undertaking. The District Kiwanis Convention of Ontario and Quebec, held at Toronto, September 20, 21, heartily endorsed the project in a strongly worded resolution. It was also brought to the attention of the National Association of Canadian Clubs, in annual session at Ottawa about the same time, the president of the Orillia Canadian Club, Mr. O. Garnet Smith, and an enthusiastic member of the Jubilee Executive, presenting and supporting the resolution, which finally was unanimously adopted. Eventually the whole matter was turned over to the Associated Canadian Clubs, as it was felt their organization was the most suitable from a national standpoint, and having as they already do, Clubs functioning in every city and most of the towns from coast to coast. This national organization, of which Mr. Graham Spry, 55 Metcalfe street, Ottawa, Ontario, is the Secretary, has since waited upon the Dominion Government, and secured the approval of the Cabinet, and the Government has now undertaken not only to foster the project but to provide financial and other assistance to put the celebration over in a large way.

The Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Prime Minister of Canada, while in attendance at the Imperial Conference held recently in London, England, extended the invitation to the King and Queen to visit Canada. He learned that this was not possible, but that His Royal Highness, the Prince of Wales, would represent them. Premier King also extended an invitation to all the Prime Ministers of other Dominions and Commonwealths in the British Empire to be present, and it is altogether probable that some of them will attend personally or at least send representatives. Premier Baldwin also accepted the invitation to be present if at all possible.

Briefly outlined, the tentative programme for the Diamond Jubilee celebration of Confederation is as follows:

1. In order to impress upon the minds of the rising generation the meaning of Confederation, a Children's Picnic should be an important feature of every local programme.

2. Beacon fires to be lit in every city, town and village across the continent, at the same hour in the evening.

3. A salute to be fired by electricity from Ottawa in every Provincial Capital where there is artillery stationed.

4. A great national banquet to be held in Ottawa, the Capital of the Dominion, the speeches to be broadcast by radio. At this banquet the representative of Royalty to be present, aswell as leaders in Canadian and other Governments. Banquets also to be held in each Provincial Capital, and to be broadcast locally.

5. Wherever practicable, special programmes on Saturday, July 2, to feature distinctively Canadian sports.

6. Services of national re-dedication and consecration on Sunday, July 3rd, in every place of public worship in Canada, if possible at the same hour.

A word in regard to Confederation and the Diamond Jubilee celebration may not be out of place. In 1867, after long and careful deliberation, confederation of five Provinces were consummated, under the name and style of the Dominion of Canada. There are now nine Provinces in the Confederation, the original file, viz.: Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia, New Brunswick, Prince Edward Island, these being since joined by British Columbia, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta. The Yukon District and Northwest Teritories are also included, making one vast Dominion, with an area in square miles larger than that of the United States.

Prior to Confederation, Canada was known as Upper and Lower Canada, each Province legislating in its own interests and with little or no regard to Canada as a whole. There was no unity of purpose, and nationhood was only a dream in the hearts and minds of a few statesmen possessed of strong patriotism and a broad vision. All honor to the Fathers of Confederation who conceived the idea and carried into execution in spite of bitter opposition the federation of the widely distant and sparsely settled Provinces and made of them one glorious Dominion.

The Sixtieth Anniversary of Confederation must not be confused with the birthday of Canada. That event dates back almost to the time of the discovery of America by Christopher Columbus in 1492. Five years later, in 1497, John Cabot, and his son, Sebastin, crossed the Atlantic and reache the Straits of Belle Isle, Canadas' eastermost boundary. In 1534 Jacques Cartier came from France and went up the St. Lawrence as far as what is now the site of the City of Montreal. In 1615 another intrepid French explorer, Samuel de Champlain, went through Canada as far as the Georgian Bay, and he spent the winter of that year on the site of what is now the flourishing town of Orillia. The public spirited citzens of Orillia also inaugurated and carried to successful completion another national achievement when they undertook the erection of a monument to Champlain. This monument is in the public park on the waterfront, was unveiled two years ago, and is said to be one of the finest pieces of sculpture to be seen anywhere in Canada, and thousands of tourists visit Orillia each year for the purpose of beholding the exquisite workmanship.

Time has abundantly proved the wisdom of the action of those who brought the Confederation of the Provinces into being, and today the Dominion of Canada is united, progressive and prosperous, and while still a unit in the British Empire, has the status of a nation not only in the administration of its internal affairs, but in its commercial relations with other countries as well.

While the Orillia Kiwanis Club does not take credit for originating the idea it does take credit for starting the movement for the great national celebration of the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation. It is also gratifying to know that it has been instrumental, in some measure, at least, in fostering and propagating the project that cannot help but be far-reaching in promoting a truly patriotic and national spirit in Canada.

An urn represented each candidate, according to a method of voting used by the ancient Greeks for 2500 years. The voter tossed in a white pebble.

The palatable way to take Yeast

Soak a cake of Royal Yeast with a little sugar in a quarter of a glass of tepid water over night. Stir well, strain and drink the liquid. Many people prefer to take it in orange juice.

CHARGED WITH DRUGGING WIFE

THREATENED SUICIDE

PORT HOPE, Feb. 1.—After a search of over a week, George Ryan, Sullivan Street, was located and apprehended by police at Newcastle Sunday night and was brought to the jail here. In police court before Magistrate W. A. Campbell yesterday, Ryan was charged with attempting to administer chloroform to Annie Ryan, his wife, on January 19th.

Ryan, it is alleged, placed a cloth over his wife's face as she sat in a chair asleep at 3 Sullivan Street, on the evening of January 19th. Mrs. Ryan evaded the attempt and escaped to a neighbor's. Later in the evening, it is stated, Ryan went to a tree near his home, placed a rope over a high branch and threatened to commit suicide; only desisting when neighbors approached. When police searched for him next morning it was found he had left for parts unknown.

ICE CANS.

When you plan a fruit salad from canned fruit, place the cans on ice early in the day. They will take less room in the icebox than if you poured the fruit into bowls.

He's Not Skinny Bill Now!

Gained Pounds of Weight in Only 3 Weeks with New Yeast and Iron—or pay nothing

Thousands are amazed at IRONIZED YEAST. They can't understand the magic by which IRONIZED YEAST transforms thin, run down, pasty-faced men into well-filled-out, clear-skinned, vigorous people. Those who have been benefited could tell you (for their letters tell us) how a one course treatment of IRONIZED YEAST gave 5 to 15 pounds of firm flesh, cleared the skin, improved digestion and bowel action. It has put them on their feet again—given them a new interest and pleasure in life.

Vegetable iron and yeast have always been known as ideal blood and body builders. But it remained for us to combine them in a highly concentrated form. By our new, special formula IRONIZED YEAST is 9 times more effective than ordinary baker's yeast and iron alone. IRONIZED YEAST gives you all the weight-building benefits contained in cod liver oil.

IRONIZED YEAST speeds up assimilation so that you get the full benefit of the food you eat. It clears the blood of impurities that ruin complexion, giving you a nice, clear, healthy skin. It will pick you right up and fill you with the pep and "life" you have always longed for.

If you are below normal weight—take warning! Underweight people have low resistance to disease. Put on good firm flesh. Take IRONIZED YEAST, 6$ tablets to a package. See your body build up. Notice how your skin clears, your digestion improves and you feel new strength and pep. Absolutely safe, containing no harmful drugs.

Try It on "Money-Back" Offer.

Go today to any drug store and get a full size treatment of IRONIZED YEAST. LODGE MEETING.

Held By Laurel Rebekah Lodge, I.O.O.F. at Stirling.

STIRLING, Jan. 31.—At the regular meeting of Laurel Rebekah Lodge, I. O. O. F., last Tuesday night, the D. D. P., Mrs. Logan, was present for the purpose of installing the officers for the ensuing term. In her work, she was assisted by Sisters Megginson, Burkitt, Brooks, Moon, Newton, Brown and Thompson. The officers installed were as follows:

P. N. G., Sister Effie Bailey; N. G., Sister Alberta Farrell; V. G., Sister Alice Sine; Rec. Secy., Sister Mabel Megginson; Fin. Secy., Sister Bertha Thompson, P. N. G.; Treas., Sister Agnes Hammond; Warden, Sister Cora Waller; Con., Sister Hattie Hubbel; Chap., Sister Rada Carlisle; R. S. N. G., Sister Mabel Brooks; L. S. N. G., Sister Evelyn Drewry; R. S. V. G., Sister Esther Green; L. S. V. G., Sister Eva Green; I. G., Sister Jennie Spry; O. G., Sister Lonise Anderson; Pianist, Sister Vera Pyear.

An interesting feature of the evening's work was the presentation of a Past Noble Grand's jewel to the retiring Noble Grand, Mrs. E. Bailey. Visitors were present from Madoc, Delta and Tweed. Refreshments were served at the close of the lodge business.

Business Changes.

Mr. Joe Whitehead, who has managed Mr. Thos. Cranston's grocery and restaurant for the past year, has purchased the business and is making some improvements to the store, and will carry on an up-to-date service in this line.

Mr. A. C. Connor, proprietor of the Stone mill, has purchased the bakery business of Mr. Norman Moore, and has employed Isaac McCaughen as baker and Charles Y. Bailey as driver of his delivery truck.

Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church was held on Wednesday night last. There was a smaller attendance than usual on account of the severity of the weather. Mr. A. B. Fargey acted as chairman. The meeting was opened by singing "O God, Our Help in Ages Past," and the reading of the twenty-first Psalm. The reports of the work of the different organizations were then presented, each showing a successful year's work, as follows: Women's Missionary Society, 200.96; Mission Band, 66.97; Sunday School, 279.64; A. B. C., 27.38; Ladies' Aid, 803.15; Choir, 51.45; King's Messengers, 20.33; Schemes, 411.55; General Fund—Weekly Envelopes and Special Subscriptions, 2,911.70; Total Receipts, 4,773.13.

The expenses for the year totaled 4,182.57; that is what each organization had expended to carry on their work or forwarded to the provincial officers of the church.

The church was newly roofed and all outside woodwork of church and manse painted at a cost of nearly 450.00; this was provided for by a special subscription. The church was also redecorated inside, the Ladies' Aid providing funds for this at a cost of nearly 400.00; they also voted 150.00 towards reducing the debt of 300.00. The managers will look after the remainder, which leaves the church free of debt and able to start 1927 with a clean sheet and sufficient funds for immediate demands.

The retiring managers, Messrs. B. Hoard and E. Reid, were re-elected. After the business was concluded, lunch was served by the Ladies' Aid.

Young People's League.

At the regular meeting of the Young People's League of St. Paul's United Church last Monday evening, an interesting programme was given, as follows: The topic, "Canada in its Progress," was ably dealt with in an interesting manner by Mr. F. T. Hulin. Mrs. J. G. Butler sang "God of Our Fathers," followed by a contest, managed by Miss Ruby Richardson. An invitation from West Huntingdon League to visit them and provide the programme was accepted. Committees were appointed to arrange the programme, also look after the transportation for this occasion.

Personals.

Mr. Wm. McCaw, of Goodwater, Sask., is visiting his cousin, Mrs. George Bailey.

Mrs. A. B. Payne and two sons, of Athens, are visiting her parents at St. John's rectory.

Mr. Mack Tucker, of Belleville, was in town for a couple of days on business.

Regret is expressed that, owing to her continued illness, Mrs. (Rev.) Joblin had to go to Toronto for further treatment.

Mrs. W. J. Whitby is a patient in St. Michael's Hospital, Toronto.

Mr. John Heagle, who was seriously ill, is recovering.

Raymond McConnell, son of Mr. Conger McConnell, at Mount Pleasant, while helping operate a circular saw, had the misfortune to cut his left hand severely, and, being taken to Belleville Hospital, it was found necessary to amputate the second finger.

WELCOME LEAGUE REGULAR MEETING

Young People Hear Report of Conference Winter School.

WELCOME, Jan. 31.—The Young People's League held its weekly meeting in Welcome Church on Thursday night.

The Social and Literary Department had charge of the programme.

Rev. D. R. Clare led the devotional period, dealing with the subject, "Prayer." Mr. Ernest Bamsey sang a solo.

Miss Violet McCann gave a very interesting report of the Conference Winter School, held in Cobourg, January 10-17, where she was a delegate from Welcome League.

Miss McCann gave a very concise account of the different departments of the school, emphasizing the points that would be beneficial to the local League.

The winners were Miss Hazel Bamsey and Mr. E. H. Martyn. The prizes were boxes of home-made candy, which the winners generously shared with all.

A very enjoyable Literary Evening was spent at the home of Miss Wallace of Wesleyville, on Tuesday night, to which all the community was invited.

Mr Hayden, who is a well-known elocutionist, formerly of Toronto, but now living in Wesleyville, impersonated "Doreen and The Sentimental Bloke," —an Australian story.

The story, which was written by J. C. Denis, of the "Melbourne Argus," is just a simple story of life, but written in such an entrancing style, in which humor, and pathos is enriched by the cockney dialect, that it holds the reader spellbound. The comment, heard on the side was, "It is so human."

The beauty of the selection was made more impressive by Mr. Hayden's interpretation of the characters, and the evening was much enjoyed by all. This is the third monthly gathering, at which Mr. Hayden has given an evening interpreting some gem of literature, and it is hoped these will promote the love of good literature in the community.

Rev. D. R. Clare, in a few well-chosen words, voiced the appreciation of those present to Mr. Hayden.

The ladies were hostesses during the social hour which followed.

Personals.

Miss Gertrude Lewis of Peterborough Normal spent the week-end at her home.

Rev. and Mrs. Foley of Fraserville were callers in Welcome on Wednesday morning as they were motoring to Oshawa.

TROUBLE SIGNS FOR THOSE PAST 40

Bladder Weakness, Nervousness, Headaches, Frequent, Painful, Scanty Urination, Getting-up Nights

The embarrasing annoyance and genuine misery of Bladder Weakness, often brings discomforts of old age" to those who really ought to be in the very prime of life.

Countless thousands, perhaps seven out of ten, of folks near middle life are pitiful victims of Headaches, Nervousness, Pains in back and down through groins, frequent but scanty and painful urination—Getting-up-nights.

While serious, if neglected—it is ordinarily a simple matter to relieve these troubles by the pleasant home use of Dr Southworth's URATABS, which have been victorious in thousands of cases, after other treatments have failed.

No matter how serious or of how long standing your condition may be, you can quickly prove the valde of URATABS without risk of cost—for any good druggist will supply you on an absolute guarantee of satisfaction or money back. If URATABS bring you quick and certain comfort, you will be greatly pleased. If they do not fully satisfy, their use will cost you nothing. Try URATABS today, and see what a difference they make.

MILLBROOK NEWS.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 1.—Mr. and Mrs. Tom Campbell, of Bakerville, B.C., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Ball, and other friends in Millbrook and vicinity.

Miss Helena Needler, of Lindsay, is the guest of her cousins, Mr. A. A. and Miss Etta Needler for the week end.

THROWN FROM CUTTER

BAILIEBORO, Feb. 1. — While returning to their home on Friday evening, after having spent the evening with friends, Mr. and Mrs. John Perrin were thrown from the cutter when the horse they were driving was frightened by a pig on the side of the road. Fortunately the snow was deep where the cutter turned over, and with the exception of being badly shaken up neither Mr. nor Mrs. Perrin was seriously inured.

Mothers especially like it for children as it takes the place of internal medicines.

Local Druggists Have Modern Remedy for Colds

A Vaporizing Salve which is Rubbed Over Throat and Chest for Colds.

When Vicks VapoRub, the "external" method of treating sore throat, bronchitis, deep chest colds, or croup, is applied over throat or chest, the ingredients are released as vapors by the body heat.

These vapors, inhaled with each breath carry the medication directly to the affected air passages, loosening the phlegm and relieving the congestion.

Colds are usually relieved over night.

HOW ABOUT PETERBORO?

Reports from Western Ontario, following the recent blaze in London where a party of young people was trapped in a lodge room at the top of a building when fire broke out downstairs, indicate that cities in that part of the Province have been checking up places of public assemblage.

Woodstock, St. Thomas, Chatham and Windsor are among the centres mentioned as active in this regard, with a view to eliminating fire-traps and to provide safeguards.

This is something that every Ontario municipality, not excepting Peterboro, should find it profitable to do.

What about similar halls and lodge rooms here?

What would happen if a fire broke out on the lower floors of some of our local buildings when a social gathering was being held upstairs?

There is no use arguing that there is small chance of such an emergency arising.

They thought that in London until the recent tragedy.

What should be faced is the question of how we are protected should the same situation develop.

How many of our places of public assemblage are provided with emergency means of escape,

Think it over.

COMING TOGETHER.

Representative farmers from the surrounding district were the guests of the Peterboro Rotary Club yesterday, and the programme was given over to an address by Professor Dean of the Ontario Agricultural College and to the development of a better understanding between the urbanites as represented by the Rotarians and the farmers.

Both the local service clubs have for some time interested themselves in bringing about a closer relationship between the city and country, and they could engage in few activities that promised more lasting benefit to the whole community.

There is not as yet that entente between the two elements that is necessary for the progress of this country.

There are too many city people who regard the farmer as tight-fisted and narrow-minded; there are too many farmers who look upon the fellow-Canadian in the city with suspicion so far as their business dealings are concerned and as lazy and pleasure-loving.

The fact that both classes are wrong in these opinions does not help the situation, and the only hope of a change is that by bringing the two together more often each will be able to see that there is not a great deal of difference between a Canadian living in town and a Canadian living on the farm.

Gatherings such as that of yesterday are of material assistance in linking up city and country.

There cannot be too many of such affairs.

THE MAILED FIST.

Western Canada is developing a Kaiser, judging by the manner in which Henry Wise Wood, President of the United Farmers of Alberta and of the Alberta Wheat Pool, has been shaking the mailed fist at other industrial groups.

Addressing a combined meeting of Rotarians and farmers recently, the power behind the Alberta farmers' government he announced in no uncertain terms the plans he has in view.

"When we get efficiency here we are going to seek the co-operation of other industries," he declared, "and if we cannot do it that way, we will try to force them to co-operate."

By other industries he had previously explained he meant manufacturers, professional men, labour, and, in fact, all other classes in Canada other than farmers.

There is no objection to Western farmers organising to put their industry on a better footing, nor should there be any fault found with them in seeking the co-operation of other industries in furthering their plans.

But the campaign should end there.

When a leader like Mr. Wood calmly announces that if negotiations do not succeed a movement will be inaugurated to force other interests to fall in with the plans of the farmers, the majority of Canadians will feel inclined to protest.

The people of this country are not admirers of big stick methods; they have an aversion to the shaking of the mailed fist by Mr. Henry Wise Wood or anybody else for that matter.

SPORT AND SUCCESS.

The Collingwood Enterprise had a very interesting editorial recently in which the viewpoint of D. L. Darroch, former President of the O.H.A., in regard to clean sport was commended.

Said the Enterprise:

"Mr. D. L. Darroch, Past President of the O.H.A., Collingwood's able Postmaster, always an enthusiastic supporter of sports, especially hockey, and never afraid to speak out, has done much to keep the amateur field clean of professionalism. Away back in 1906, when he discontinued active participation in athletic affairs, in addressing the Ontario Hockey Association, he advocated the policy that sports were only a means to an end, and not the life's business of young men. The game was too strenuous to permit a man continuing in active work, and if he wasted the formative period of his life and neglected the time to prepare himself for the business of his life he would wind up by being a wreck long before his time. The O.H.A. was an association for playing the game for the game's sake,' and any player who desired money for his services must step out of this association and contract himself with some body to which a 'fee for your service' and 'control over your movements' is part of a legitimate contract. The O.H.A. must be maintained solely for sport's sake, and the duty of its officers was to prevent sport being commercialized, for, excepting baseball, commercialized sport will not have a long life. Now Mr. Darroch's viewpoint, so earnestly and continuously impressed upon the people of Canada, is finding a responsive chord in the United States."

With Mr. Darroch's views many people will be in thorough accord.

Sport can be given too prominent a place in the mind of a young man, and the wise youth is he who seeks make his participation in athletics serve him in his older years, to use his proficiency in some form of sport to legitimately help him to succeed in the more serious competition of life.

The story of Angus Campbell whose appointment as manager of the famous Castle-Trethewey mine at Gowganda has just been announced, is an example.

Famous first as a hockey star with the University of Toronto and at Cobalt, Mr. Campbell's interest in sport and his attention to business both helped him to climb the ladder of success in the North Country.

As a member of the O.H.A. Executive there was no one on that board who showed a greater knowledge of the needs of the association, nor more ability to create legislation to meet those needs, than Mr. Campbell, who while finding time to further the interests of sport in Northern Ontario, was progressing in business also until he is now manager of one of Canada's great mines.

MRS. YOUNG GOES TO CALIFORNIA.

Without in any way modifying its admiration for the wonderful swimming record made by George Young, of Toronto, in California, we feel sure that a long-suffering public will learn with delight that at last the momentous question as to whether George was coming home, or Mrs. Young was going to California, has been settled. Mrs. Young is going to California, and she is going to take Aunt Isabella with her. Now that it is all settled, perhaps the Toronto newspapers and the telegraphic news services will be able to devote a few columns to other matters.

Frankly, the public is fed up on the whole thing. Toronto newspapers have made their city, their leading citizens and themselves ridiculous by the amount of space they have given to this matter; they have exploited it from every legitimate angle and many not so legitimate. The public was tremendously interested when it heard that George Young had won the $25,000 prize, and that he won it by beating over a hundred first rank swimmers in a gruelling contest. The chances are that outside of California very few people knew that such a contest was contemplated until it was won, but that did not prevent them from giving glory and credit where it was due. But having done this, why should they be fed columns of stuff daily as to what George was doing and what his mother and his aunt and other friends and relatives were saying. Toronto let George Young, a Canadian amateur swimming champion, make his own way to California as best he could. No one helped him except his widowed mother. He owed his training to Henry O'Byrne, who took a chance in the matter, but who had a regular agreement signed by George and his mother allowing him 40 per cent. of George's earnings for a year if he won.

Of course, immediately the boy won the swim Toronto ran true to form, and finding that up to date it had cost the city nothing, the big drum was pounded and the hero-worshippers gathered for the usual pow-wow. Everybody was interviewed. Everything that George said was published, even to the actual words he is said to have used in proposing to a daughter of O'Byrne's not yet 15. Mrs. Young was quoted daily by the yard. Then Aunt Isabella Young got into the limelight with her photo in the papers, and her ungracious remarks about O'Byrne getting 40 per cent. were quoted as if they were really worth considering. Not content with that, a brother and sister-in-law of O'Byrne got a column and their pictures in the paper. We thought the height of ridiculousness was reached when a number of leading Toronto business men solemnly banded themselves together to help George invest his $25,000 but it was eclipsed when a minister of the gospel asked his congregation to pray for George to come home. One would think the boy was a half-wit, or at least mentally defective, instead of a sturdy young Canadian, strong physically and mentally, who had enough confidence in himself to fight his way to the coast, and common sense enough to put himself through a gruelling training for the event.

George Young is a hero. All honor to him. He owes nothing to Toronto as a city, and we feel sure he is well able to take care of himself. If no other evidence is needed of the stuff this boy is made of than his refusal to let O'Byrne break his 60-40 agreement, when a lot of jealous busybodies were criticising O'Byrne for taking so much, that is enough. For the time being he has decided to stay in California. That's his business. He is wise enough to know that the time to do the reaping is when the harvest is ripe. Let him make all he can out of his wonderful feat down there. He and his mother need the money. When he comes back to Canada let him be welcomed appropriately as an heroic Canadian, but spare us the insane vaporings of a lot of unimportant people who want to bask in a little reflected glory.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

A lot of Ontario people will be listening in soon to hear Mr. Ferguson say "when."

British doctor says that the scantier clothing worn by the women of today increases their resistance to cold. In a few years then they will probably be impervious to zero temperature.

Some individuals seem to think that a war with China would afford a good opportunity to get revenge for a multitude of saw-edged collars.

Perhaps the Mayor was thinking of the sidewalks when he referred to Peterboro's opportunities for free skating.

The Farmers' Advocate says that a little more attention to better feeding of dairy cattle would put a million dollars a year more into the pockets of Ontario farmers. That's not a difficult way to make a million.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK.

TORONTO, Feb. 1.—A moderate run of cattle for the opening offering this week held the market just about steady. A heavier run would probably have brought prices down a little, as trade, while fairly active for the best offerings, gave no evidence of an urgent demand. Export buyers took 275 steers and a few bulls. Steers steady at $7 to $7.60. Buls $4.50 to $5. One or two extra choice, $5.25.

Choice butcher steers and heifers in fair demand at steady prices from $6.75 to $7.25. Heavy beef steers, choice quality, $7 to $7.60. Medium fair butcher, trade none too brisk, but steady around $6 to $6.50.

Fat cows a little easier than last week, at $5.25 tops.

Calves steady, $13 to $14.

Lambs steady to firm, $11.50 to $12.

Hogs unsettled, $11 f.o.b. bid, and $11.25 asked.

WINNIPEG LIVESTOCK

WINNIPEG, Feb. 1 (Canadian Press).—Livestock receipts 1,700 sale cattle and calves, 3,250 hogs, and 122 sheep and lambs. Twenty-four cars due yesterday.

The cattle market opened extremely dull and inactive. Buyers holding off for easier prices. When trading gets under way, most killing classes will likely sell on a 25 to 50c lower basis.

Stockers and feeders are expected to go a trifle lower from last week's close, but a sharp price decline is not expected.

For thick smooth hogs packers were bidding $10.75.

CHICAGO CATTLE

CHICAGO, Feb. 1 (Canadian Press).—Cattle 24,000; extreme top heavy fed steers $12.60; yearlings $11.85; numerous loads weighty steers $11.00 to $11.50; few loads $12.25; most stockers and feeders $6.75 to $8.00; vealers $12.00 to $12.50; shippers around $14.00.

Hogs 56,000; closing slow, weak; top $12.25; bulk desirable 150 to 200 pound averages $12.15 to $12.25; mostly butchers $12.05 to $12.10; most packing sows $11.00 to $11.25; bulk desirable strong weight slaughter pigs $11.90 to $12.15; selected lots upward to $12.25.

Sheep 25,000; choice lambs to shippers $13.25; heavy lambs $12.50 to $12.75; extreme weights $11.60 to $11.85; choice fat ewes $8.50; bulk better grades $7.50 to $8.25.

MONREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Feb. 1 (Canadian Press).—The foreign demand for Canadian grain on the Montreal market yesterday was again of a very limited character, and little business was done. The trade in cash grain on the domestic market was also rather quiet, the demand being chiefly for odd cars to meet immediate wants. Prices were unchanged.

A feature of the flour trade was the weaker feeling that developed in the market for Spring wheat grades and prices were reduced 10 cents per barrel. A moderate amount of business was worked both for local and export account.

There was no change in the condition of the market for Winter wheat flour, prices being about steady on account of the small stocks held on spot, and the light offerings from Ontario millers.

An active business was transacted in all lines of millfeed and values were firm. The trade in standard grades of rolled oats was again quiet but the tone was steady.

Owing to the continued liberal supplies of fresh eggs coming forward from British Columbia and the United States on both orders and consignment, the local market displayed further weakness and prices scored another decline today of 2 to 3 cents per dozen. There was a better demand at the lower level of prices and a fair business was done.

The market for storage eggs was about steady with a small trade passing. The receipts were 793 cases.

The demand for potatoes showed improvement and a larger volume of business was transacted. Car lots of Prince Edward Island Green Mountains were quoted at $1.80 per bag of 90 pounds, and Quebec White stock at $1.40 per bag of 90 pounds in bulk, ex-track.

Prices for all grades of butter were well maintained under a quiet demand. The receipts were 26 packages.

The foreign and local demand for cheese was quiet but values were firm. The receipts were 124 boxes.

ROYAL APPETITES

By Dr. Frank Crane.

It is as hard for a king as for a commoner to diet.

The excitement about Ferdinand's relapse is said, by latest reports, to have been caused by His Royal Highness eating too much carp.

Royal appetites are as hard to govern as any other. Moreover they are beset by greater temptations than are common cravings.

Henry the First of England died from indigestion and fever brought on by eating lamprey, a fish against which he had been warned by his doctor.

Napoleon, after his six years' exile in the dilapidated one-story house that had once been a cow shed on his prison island of St. Helena died of indigestion brought on by eating food he had been warned to avoid.

Hadrian wished the words enscribed over his tomb:

"A multitude of physicians have destroyed me."

Although he did not mention it, it is highly probable that a multitude of dishes delivered him into the physicians' hands.

When the Emperor Charles The Fifth died, it was said that he had brought on his own death by his habit of overeating.

History records the remark of one of his attendants who said at the time:

"Kings seem to think that their stomachs are not made like other men's."

Kingly authority over others will not help when health depends upon right diet unless there is also authority over self.

Only will-power keeps a person on the straight road of diet, and unless a king has self-control he feels all the aches and pains that common flesh is heir to.

HOW DO YOU SAY IT?

(By C. N. Lurie.)

Common Errors in English and How To Avoid Them.

WRONG USE OF "OTHER"

In describing a meeting of the French Academy, recently, a newspaper dispatch from Paris read:

"Except for Marshal Lyautey, who is detained in Morocco, the other marshals, including Joffre and Foch, were present, as well as Premier Poincare, Minister of Justice Barthou and Alexandre Ribot."

The word "other" is used in this sentence without need for it. It is evidently the intention of the writer to say that the marshals of France, who are members of the French Academy, include Lyautey, Foch and Joffre. He should have written:

Except for Marshal Lyautey, who is detained in Morocco, the marshals, including Joffre and Foch, were present," etc.

Or he could have said:

"Marshal Lyautey, who is detained in Morocco, was absent, but the other marshals who are members of the Academy, including Joffre and Foch, were present."

A Thought For To-day

There are deeds of heroism that cannot be pictured, there are sufferings that can never be voiced; there is love and understanding that have no equal this side of heaven, there are actions that are living prayers.

Memory is a shrine that we place in the temple of our thoughts and to it we bring a scant or a bountiful harvest, according to our understanding, our charity, and our love.

Memory is a paradise, a garden where grows the bitter sweets of knowledge and experience intermingled with the delicate blossoms of love and affection and the sturdier plants of courage and sacrifice.

"An ounce of Mother," says a Spanish proverb, "is worth a pound of clergy," and memories of Mothers are priceless treasures.

Scotland's greatest railway station, Waverley, Edinburgh, covers more than 1000 trains a day. It's largest platform is more than three miles in length.

THE CAUSE OF RHEUMATISM

It is always true that there must be a toxic state of the system before an infection will have a chance to bring on any type of rheumatism. Those people who are slightly toxic may suffer from violent attacks of muscular rheumatism, if they are subjected to exposure or cold where the circulation of the blood and the circulation of the fluids in the body become congested and the elimination of poisons retarded.

When this retention of impurities takes place in the muscles only, it is called muscular rheumatism. If the poisons go from the muscles and finally locate in the joints, the disease is then called articular rheumatism.

Severe types of rheumatism may result from exposure to cold or to wet weather where the clothing is literally soaked with water for several hours at a time. Where such an exposure does not occur, one can also develop a case of severe rheumatic fever by over-exercising, when the body is not used to much exercise. Taking too long a hike or exercising too strenuously in a gymnasium for two or three hours will bring on an acute attack, even though one has been an athlete before in his life. Shooting pains in the joints or the muscles develop, and unless suitable treatment is taken, the patient is liable to develop a dangerous kind of rheumatism; called rheumatic fever. The pulse increases; the temperature rises and the joints become very painful if moved.

Any such attack of rheumatic fever is liable to end disastrously. It increases the heart beat and the disease will quickly develop into a chronic form which will necessitate treatment for many weeks in order to effect a cure.

Articular rheumatism or rheumatism of the joints, if allowed to continue; will develop into arthritis deformans, where the joints are affected in such a manner that the fingers will turn backward and the feet become club shaped. Nodules will appear on the joints of some patients, while in another case parts of the joints will be destroyed.

If the rheumatism extends to the lower back, it is called lumbago; if it extends to the ribs, it is called inter-costal neuralgia.

When inflammation extends to the nervous system and causes irritating material to accumulate around the nerve trunks, it develops a disease commonly called sciatica or neuritis.

The infectious cause of gonorrheal rheumatism lies in abscesses or infections of the genital organs with the gonicoccus germ, or this disease develops also after the use of vaccine or serum. Wherever any foreign substance is introduced into the blood stream, which contains an excess of streptococcus or staphlococcus bacteria, a form of rheumatism is likely to develop, if the system is in a condition of toxicosis.

The principal cause of rheumatism, however, may be traced to the fermentation of an excess of carbohydrate food, or from poisons generated by fermentation of foods when using the wrong food combinations. This will build up a condition of acidosis, which is favorable to a rheumatic disease, provided an effective treatment is not used to stop the disease.

A permanent cure cannot be expected, unless all of these toxins are removed from the system by some eliminative treatment, such as a fasting and diet regime. No amount of medication will have any real effect in producing such elimination necessary to effect a lasting cure.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

It is too bad. Just when Aimee decided she would go out and give a couple of lectures, along came the Chaplin case!

George Young says he was able to swim the Catalina channel because he lived cleanly. But he did admit taking flappers to the movies a couple of times.

The critics agreed "Abie's Irish Rose" was trash. It played its 2000th performance recently. Maybe the show still has a chance.

Don't Tell the Wife

BY WILLIAM B. COURTNEY

SYNOPSIS

Ranny Forbes, star polo player, and his beautiful wife, Joan, are temperamental mismates. Joan wants a divorce. Ranny hesitates, loving her, although secretly knowing she loves Abner Gratman. While they are all guests on a week-end cruise on the yacht of Stivner, a lumber king, a widow, Clare, vamps Ranny, arousing Stivner's jealousy. But when Ranny avows Clare means nothing to him, Stivner aids Ranny punish Abner, who is trapped with Joan. Abner is set in a dory towed behind the yacht. Joan defiantly joins Abner, who recklessly cuts adrift. Lost in a storm, the dory capsizes.

CHAPTER XIV.

All through that wild, long night the Speedwell cruised the turbulent waters off Montauk, and anxious eyes strained to follow every yard of the systematic sweeping of her searchlight.

In vain.

Dawn broke—or, rather the night merged almost imperceptibly into a morning of grayness and steady rain, while the gale abated but the seas continued to run high and fast toward the distant strand.

Though no word went down from the bridge, yet somehow the news of what had happened permeated through the ship; and everyone of the guests, oblivious to the rain and illy-dressed against it, huddled along the forward rails—silently staring, staring.

It was a grave, a tragic, group; far different from the lightly gabbing crowd who had started out the previous afternoon.

Terrible concern lent supernal power to Ranny's vision. A cry escaped his lips, simultaneously with a grunt from Captain Marty, whose trained eyes had also seen that far blotch upon the water. A shiny, dark spot with two bobbing specks beside it.

"It's them" the Captain shouted, after a rapid survey through his binoculars. He was genuinely excited for perhaps the first time in his life. "The dory's capsized. They're clinging to it!"

"Thank God!" cried Ranny.

He, too, was unstrung, for the first time in his life. Trembling.

Clay took firm hold of his shoulders, and shook him encouragingly, while Stivner puffed furiously on a black cigar.

There had been enough excitement on this cruise to satisfy even a lumber king!

Within an incredibly brief time, Captain Marty maneuvered the big Speedwell alongside the castaways.

Abner, plain to behold was totally tuckered.

While seamen let down a rope ladder Ranny went overboard in a shallow dive and took physical control of the situation in the water.

"Joan, Joan, are you all right?" he sputtered beseechingly as he came up beside her and swiftly relieved her of the practically dead weight of Abner, who was apparently in a semi-conscious condition. "Oh, Joan, why did you do this? Why, why?—Oh, I'm so sorry—"

Joan, a ghastly greenish white from nausea and fatigue, avoided his eyes—ignored him.

When the rope ladder fell within her reach, she scorned his helping hand, and dragged herself stiffly up until the willing hands on the yacht took hold of her. Then she collapsed; fainted dead away, as she was borne off to a cabin and the first aid of anxious women friends.

Captain Marty looked Abner over contemptuously. "Nothing much the matter with him, except a scarcity of guts!" he commented harshly. "He'll be all right after a hooker. But if it hadn't been for the woman, the fool would have drowned!"

Ranny was rushing down to Joan's cabin when he met Clay, emerging.

Clay caught hold of him: "Here, now, Ranny, old son, take it easy! Listen to me—if you've ever had to keep your head, you have to keep it now!"

"Joan, Joan—is she all right? Tell me, old man, tell me the truth!"

"Of course, she's all right! Done in, though. You'd be, too, Mrs. Teffens and a couple of the women are undressing her, rubbing her. The stewardess has warm blankets ready. There's no danger, and no need at all for you down there. So stay up here with me. I want to talk to you!"

Ranny, weak from a grateful flood of relief, suffered himself to be lead to an obscure corner of the deck by Clay; unwillingly, though.

"I ought to be down there with Joan. That's my place!" he kept repeating.

Clay soothed him lightly. "You wouldn't think so if you heard what she was saying about you! Blaming it all on you. The sight of you would be as welcome to her loving eyes now as a Klan speaker to Tammy Hall. But the point is this: She saved Abner! Get that? She saved Abner!"

"What are you driving at?"

"Simply this, she'd never have had to save YOU. You would have saved her. It's a long, long circle, but that brings us back to what I warned you of the day of the game. She either rules, or is ruled. There's no give and take in her. Your mistake is that you softened on the domineering stuff, and patronizingly tried to compromise. You gave over being a caveman, and tried to be a broad-minded husband. You've taken her into your mental confidence, when you should have kept her guessing—"

"Well-well-well—"

"Well, just this. I've got a plan. I have to do all your thinking for you and I've got a plan. You're going to insist that she take Abner. This is a hopeless tangle, and you've got to go after a divorce. The place and the time are not propitious to tell you my plan now, except that hereafter, instead of letting your wife in on all your thoughts—on this plan, particularly!—your motto from this hour forward must be DON'T TELL THE WIFE!"

CHAPTER XV.

For the rest of that cruise—and Stivner cut it short, under the circumstances, by having Captain Marty steam back to Glen Cove as speedily as possible—Joan kept to her cabin and frigidly avoided her husband.

Abner, coming out of his daze of fear and physical weakness, made violent threats to have Ranny jailed—to prosecute all the conspirators, in fact, including Stivner and Captain Marty Wales.

Clay Varick, fat and foxy diplomat, soothed him out of that.

"I think you'll find a change," he said. "Forbes realizes that his wife no longer loves him, but loves you and would even sacrifice her life for you. I think you will find him—err-r, tractable!"

"I hope so for it's the only thing that'll keep you all out of jail!" Abner growled, in the way a little and thoroughly frightened dog growls at big rough dogs from behind the safety of a high fence.

The yachting party had gone to smash, of course. Nobody could work up much fun in what was a cross between an armed camp and a morgue. A hearty laugh would have sounded as out of place there as at an inquest.

Of course, there were furtive snickers and a great deal of sub rosa jabbering in the smoking room, in the drawing room, and on the lounge deck. Here was the first decent, downright sensation in a jaded Society since Mrs. German eloped with her chauffeur—and this was heaps more thrilling.

But most of the gatherings were by twos and threes. The community spirit was playing possum, until the eagerly awaited near future date when all could get together without the restraint of the nearness of the event and the presence of the principals.

Distance and time would lend color to the tales!

The embroidery, in fact, had started already; whispered rumors, when the actors did not appear, of outlandish developments. Rumors, rumors everywhere, but never a stop-to-think!

Speculation, too. No end of it. Particularly over the mysteriously aloof and earnest conferences that took place, off and on, during the homeward run, between Ranny and Stivner and Clay.

The guests noted that there were many wise smiles exchanged among the three, to the accompaniment of much chuckling. Clearly, a plot was in the hatching—a plan was on the fire.

Mrs. Teffens added the final touch of gnawing misery to the all-consuming curiosity of the week-enders when she eagerly, yet furtively, broadcast the information that she had quite accidentally overheard Ranny warn Stivner:

"Remember, now, don't tell the wife!"

FOR INFLAMED BREATHING TUBES

Try Dr. Blosser's Medical Cigarettes in the Next Attack.

Nasal catarrh is not only disagreeable and offensive, but it will lead to serious trouble.

That inflamed condition of the mucous membranes of the air passages of the head, nose and throat may spread to the point where it is incurable and a danger to life.

Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes are composed of medicinal herbs, flowers and berries. The warm smoke vapor is inhaled into the affected air passages and will go where sprays, douches and salves cannot reach. They contain no tobacco or cubebs, and being harmless are used by children as well as adults.

If you suffer from any catarrhal trouble, chain nasal catarrh, catarrhal deafness, hay fever, asthma, bronchial irritations, or are subject to frequent colds, get from any druggist a convenient pocket size package of Dr. Blosser's Cigarettes, and prove for yourself their pleasant, beneficial effects.

BOY OF TWELVE HERO OF FLOOD

Saves Brother and Sister From Drowning at Little Rock.

LITTLE ROCK, Arkansas, Feb. 1 (Canadian Press). — More than a hundred thousands acres of land was under water today as a result of levee breaks caused by floods in the St. Francis district here, but reported deaths in the stricken area were discounted by Red Cross workers.

Boyle Clem, a 12-year-old boy, thrice reported drowned, not only was alive and well today but was lauded by Little Rock relief workers for the rescue of his younger brother and baby sister. When the house became flooded while his mother was away, Boyle took the children to a bridge over the stream. Midstream, wading on a rail of the bridge waist deep in water, he could go no farther. For hours the boy held the two young children above water until they were reached by a rescue party in a boat.

THEATRE AT THE CAPITOL

DOROTHY GISH IN "LONDON"

Another of the pictures with the interesting English background is the feature at the Capitol Theatre for the first half of this week, in "London," with the charming Dorothy Gish as the heroine. The English films may lack some of the pep that characterizes American productions, but they have an interest all their own, in their old-world setting, and although, as a rule, of ultra sex stuff. There are several opportunities in "London" for portrayal of scenes that sometimes offend in other pictures, but the producer has not taken advantage of them.

"London" is the tale of a girl of the Limehouse district, whose cruel aunt sells her to a Chinaman for the sum of three pounds. She escapes at the last moment and spends several nights on the Thames Embankment, among the sordid habitues of the place. Practically starving, she enlists the aid of a society man dining at an Italian restaurant in the quarter, and his aunt, seeing a marked resemblance to her own dead daughter, Joan, in the waif of the slums, Mavis Hogan, practically adopts her. Mavis has a flirtation with her benefactor, Paul Merlan, her adopted mother's nephew, and runs foul of his fiancee, Alice Cranston. In the smashing of her romance, Mavis runs away again to Limehouse, and the genial Charlie Downs, proprietor of its noted "pub," where Geoffrey Malvern finds her and marries her.

Limehouse and Mayfair, with their contrasting environment and lives, are portrayed in turn in this picture, in its delineation of the dual role of London as tyrant and benefactor. There are interesting places and personages on the screen, including the famous "Kit Cat Club," haunt of the Prince of Wales and his companions, and Paul Whiteman, directing his noted band. The ladies of Mayfair, dancing the Charleston with abandon on polished ballroom floors, and the girls of Limehouse, stepping to the tune of a concertina on the boards of Charlie Downs' "pub," are shown in turn, differing only in manner and dress, and the women of the Thames Embankment wait for their men, while the ladies of fashion fight over a popular youth. It is an interesting picture, with a jerky type of continuity, and an odd, abrupt ending.

There is a good comedy, with plenty of laughs in its odd unfolding, and the usual run of short reels.—Jeanette.

AT THE REGENT

GAY ROMANCE OF HOBO-HEMIA.

Anna Q. Nilsson in the Title Role of Film Version of "Shebo."

An adventure in contentment is "Miss Nobody," which had a premiere last night at the Regent Theatre.

It brings to those who see it not only a sense of the lure of vagabondage but imparts as well some understanding of the cloistered peace of soul that comes to that clan in their state of economic apartness.

Duke, Bertie, Happy, Harmony, and, not the least by any means, the Kid, populate in a major sense this really unique photodrama of the season. The Kid is none other than Anna Q. Nilsson, reverting for the first time since her remarkable performance in "Ponjola," to male attire. She, in common with the others named, portrays a happy-go-lucky knight of the road.

Disdaining the services of a "double" in this play of hobo life, Miss Nilsson actually "rides the rods" on a speeding freight train, paces the brakeman's runway on top of careening cars, perches on the bounding "bumpers" and undergoes the rigors of the brakeman's pet device for dislodging tramps clinging to the chassis of cars, the method known as "hanging a coupling pin."

Never in the knowledge of the critic has a star taken such personal risks as are faced by the courageous Miss Nilsson in this production for the sake of realism.

The play is based on the Tiffany Wells novel, "Shebo," was directed by Lambert Hillyer and produced under the editorial guidance of Wid Gunning, the noted screen critic. It is a First National release.

HIGH-GRADE ORE FOUND IN PILLOW

Police Searching Timmins' Home For Liquor Make Second Find.

LAY TWO CHARGES.

TIMMINS, Ont., Feb. 1.—When the police were searching the premises of Louis Mehedan at 170 Maple Street North for liquor there were intent on making a good job of it. Knowing that beds sometimes conceal illegal supplies, Constable Raycraft entered the bedroom only to find Mrs. Mehedan occupying the bed. For a woman presumably ill, Mrs. Mehedan looked surprisingly well, so he asked her to sit up while he examined the pillow.

Plunging his hand under the pillow slip the policeman felt a small, hard package, which proved to be a quantity of high-grade ore which the head of the house could not account for. Altogether there were about twenty pieces of ore freely dotted with the precious yellow metal. It is estimated that the total value of the find is approximately $200. About 200 bottles of home-brew and half a bottle of rum were also unearthed.

Mehedan will appear in Police Court on Wednesday morning and will probably face charges of illegal sale of liquor and high-grading.

MONCTON MAN KILLED IN CRASH NEAR SPRINGHILL

Seventeen Hurt When Two C. N. R. Passenger Trains Collide

ON PASSING TRACK.

Two Huge New Locomotives Smashed, One Being Turned Over.

MONTREAL, Feb. 1. Canadian Press. — Donald Carruthers, of Moncton, N. B., was killed, and 17 persons injured as a result of a train collision at Thompson's Siding, on the Springhill, N. S., sub-division of the Canadian National Railways, at 6.50 o'clock yesterday evening. The trains involved were the eastbound Ocean Limited, which left Montreal at 7 o'clock on Sunday evening, and the westbound Maritime Express which left Halifax at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Details as to the accident continue meagre due to wire transmission troubles in the vicinity of the wreck, but from information furnished by the head offices of the railways here last night it is established that the collision occurred on a passing track and that the Maritime Express crashed into the Limited, which was standing stationary on the side track waiting on the express to pass.

The shock of the impact smashed both of the powerful locomotives, which were of the new 6000 type, while the leading cars of both trains were also reduced to ruins. One of the engines was turned completely on its side.

Doctors on the Scene.

As soon as word of the wreck could be got out a special train with doctors and nurses was rushed from Amherst and auxiliary trains were despatched from Stellarton and Moncton.

Several of the injured sustained serious hurts, notably F. B. Jacques, and Allan McNeil of Halifax.

Clarence MacDonald of Moncton fireman on the express, and Engineer R. E. Linden, both of Moncton, were scalded and bruised, while like injuries were suffered by Engineer Willard Rushton of Moncton, who was on the Limited.

BURGLARS THROW WOMAN IN CELLAR

Roomer Discovers Mrs. Noll Bound and House Ransacked.

TORONTO, Feb. 1 (Canadian Press)—Bound and gagged by two armed burglars, Mrs. Christina Noll, a widow, 35 years of age, was thrust by them down the steps into the cellar fo her home on St. John's Road last night and was not released until a roomer returning to the house today heard her cries and went to her aid.

Mrs Noll declared the burglars, after forcing an entrance and binding her, bundled her to the top of the cellar steps and let her roll down. The house was ransacked by the men but so far as could be discovered today, only $10 in cash was missing.

FIREMAN TELLS

Mrs. E. Wallace

Mrs. E. Wallace stated that she lived at 190 Brock Street. At the time of the accident she had just come out of the house when she heard the fire engine whistle. As she walked along toward Aylmer, a car passed her. The car continued to go, and toward the corner slowed down considerably but did not actually stop. Just then the fire truck came along and swerved to the left, the other car at that instant just turning around the corner.

Cross examination by Mr. Kerr:

You heard a whistle blow?

Yes.

Would you swear the car stopped?

I did not see it actually stop.

Could it have stopped momentarily without you knowing it?

It did not look that way to me.

T. B. Drumm.

T. B. Drumm stated that he was a 'bus driver for the Hydro-Electric Company. He was at the corner of Murray and Aylmer when the accident occurred at the corner of Brock Street. He noticed the fire truck coming north on Aylmer and then saw a car shoot out in front of it.

What do you mean by "shoot out" enquired Mr. Wearing.

I mean it went out slowly, a little over half-way across the intersection and then turned north on Aylmer.

Cross-examination by Mr. Kerr.

Where was the fire truck when you first saw it?

Between Hunter and Brock Streets.

The other car was going very slowly?

Yes—very slowly.

Martin Gahagan.

Martin Gahagan stated that when the fire truck passed him he was at the corner of Hunter and Aylmer Streets. He did not see the private car ston.

Edward Maudsley.

Edward Maudsley said that at the time of the accident he was standing at the north-east corner of Brock and Aylmer. He heard the siren of the fire truck, which at that time was near Hunter Street on Aylmer. When the truck was about half-way between Hunter and Brock, he noticed a car coming west on Brock towards Aylmer.

How far from the stop sign was it when you saw it?

About 25 feet east.

What speed was it travelling?

Not very fast—not more than 8 miles an hour.

What happened?

As the car neared the corner it slowed up but still kept going.

Did you see it turn the corner?

I did. It looked as if the driver was going up Brock street towards St. Andrew's church, but she seemed to change her mind and swung north on Aylmer.

Could the car have stopped without your seeing it?

No.

Did it stop or not?

It did not stop.

Cross examination by Mr. Kerr.

What caused you to take your eyes off the fire truck?

I just happened to look over my shoulder.

Did the car stop momentarily?

It did not stop.

Lieutenant Robert Wilson.

Lieutenant Robert Wilson, who had his shoulder fractured as a result of the accident, was the next witness called.

Did you see the car approaching Aymer as you came north?

Yes.

How far east of the corner was it when you saw it?

About 35 or 40 feet.

Did you see the car stop?

I did not.

Was your whistle going?

It was.

Cross examination by Mr. Kerr.

Who was working the whistle?

I was.

You knew you were travelling on a through street and you expected the car would stop?

Yes.

How fast did the car come out on Aylmer street?

About 10 or 12 miles an hour. It slowed up when it got on Aylmer.

Miss Lapointe.

Miss Lapointe testified that she saw the accident occur.

Did you see a motor car going west on Brock?

Yes.

Did you see a stop sign?

Not just then, but I saw one afterwards.

How far east of the stop sign was the car when you first saw it?

It was about the edge of Dr. Hammond's property.

What happened?

I saw the car go west on Brock Street and then take a wide turn north on Aylmer Street.

Did it stop?

It did not stop.

Cross-examination by Mr. Kerr.

The first thing you heard was the fire truck?

Yes. I heard the whistle.

What rate of speed was the car going?

Not very fast.

Was it going 10 miles an hour.

I couldn't say.

Did it get down to a snail's pace?

Yes. Near the corner it went a little slower.

This concluded the case for the prosecution.

Moves for Dismissal

F. D. Kerr, K.C., before opening his evidence, moved for dismissal of the case, as the prosecution had not given any evidence that the stop sign at the corner of Aylmer and Brock Streets is in accordance with the regulations of the Department of Public Highways.

Mr. Wearing stated that in the City Clerk's evidence, the by-law had been met with and signs erected.

Mrs. Morgan

The defendant, in giving her evidence, said she lived in the Village of Grafton and has driven a car for eight years and a Chrysler car for one year. On the day of the accident, she was proceeding west on Brock Street accompanied by Marion Hutchison of Grafton. On approaching the intersection, she noticed the stop sign and brought her car to a complete stop and then changed the car into second gear and proceeded west very slowly.

The attention of the witness was attracted by the siren of the fire truck just as they entered Aylmer Street, and seeing that she could not cross the street, she turned north into Aylmer Street, expecting the fire truck to go by, but instead of that it crashed through the railing on the bridge and landed in the creek.

As to the stop sign the witness was quite sure she obeyed the stop sign, as she said she could not put her car into second going down a grade without stopping.

In the cross examination by Mr. Wearing, the witness stated that she was going no more than 10 miles an hour, and on entering Aylmer Street was not going more than three miles an hour at the most. The witness maintained she did not enter the centre of Aylmer Street.

C.N.R. EARNINGS SHOW INCREASE

Statement Shows Amount $14,135,585 in Favor Year 1926

43.21 PER CENT

MONTREAL, Feb. 1. Canadian Press. — A preliminary statement of the earnings of the Canadian National Railways for the 12 months of 1926, issued here to-day, shows that the net earnings of the system, excluding the Central Vermont Railway system ,amount to $46,400,000.

This figure compares with a net of $32,264,414 for the year 1925, an increase in favor of the year recently ended of $14,135,585, equivalent to an improvement of 43.81 per cent. for the operating results of 1926.

During 1926, the railway operating revenues amounted to $266,270,000, while in the previous year the total was $244,971,202.

In the 12 months of 1926 the railway operating expenses reached a total of $219,870,000, which total compares with $212,706,787.

The increase in revenue during 1926 over the previous year amounted to $21,298,797, or 8.69 per cent. In the 12 month period of 1926 the increase in operating expenses amounted to $7,163,12, or 3.37 per cent.

This condition by which the revenues increased at a greater percentage than did the operating expenses, is reflected in a continued improvement in the operating ratio. This ratio for the twelve months of 1926 is 82.57, which is a reduction from the operating ratio of 1925 which was 86.83 per cent.

These figures may be slightly altered when the final results for the year are in, but the variation will be negligible.

Keep Baby's Skin Soft as Velvet

Prevent and Relieve Eczema

Mrs. Albert Bishop, 38 Laplanche St., Amherst, N.S. writes:—"In one week my baby was entirely relieved of eczema by the use of two boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment. He had sores all over his back."

EVERYWHERE Dr. Chase's Ointment is known and appreciated by mothers who have with gratitude witnessed the benefit it has brought to their suffering children.

Chafing and cracking of the skin is often the beginning of eczema. The trouble develops where two surfaces of skin rub together—as in the neck, armpits or between the legs of fleshy infants.

Dr. Chase's Ointment applied after the bath brings relief from this condition and prevents eczema.

MASONS HOLD MIXED BANQUET

Held by Percy Lodge 161, A. F. and A. M., at Norham.

SEVERAL SPEAKERS

NORHAM, Jan. 31.—On Wednesday evening, in the Town Hall, in Warkworth, eighty members of Percy Lodge No. 161, A.F. & A.M., with their wives and sweethearts, together with several visitors, of which Frederick W. Davis, of Heward Lodge, No. 29, Saskatchewan, was the most distinguished, partook of a sumptuous chicken banquet, which was given by the Lodge in honor of the ladies.

The hall was beautifully decorated with balloons, bunting and emblems of the craft, draped with varied colors. The Hastings orchestra, composed of Gladys Stevenson, piano; Carlos Runnels, banjo; Mrs. J. A. Knight, drums and traps and J. A. Knight, violinist, rendered a number of musical selections throughout the evening. Mr. Long, of Campbellford did the catering, and twenty sons and daughters of the Masons present did the serving. Ray R. Mallory, Master of Percy Lodge was toastmaster, and proposed the toast to the King, after which the National Anthem was sung.

This was followed by "Pack All Your Troubles In Your Old Kit Bag" and "Get Acquainted," from the community song sheet. Joseph Dixon and Ina Bowen rendered an instrumental duet.

James Frure, Manager of the Royal Bank, proposed the toast to the ladies. In his address Mr. Frure stated that the banquet was long over due. The members of the Lodge had acted somewhat selfish, although they meant well. They did, however, appreciate what the ladies had done for them and knew that every lady present was interested in the Lodge. "There were two things," said Mr. Frure, "that ladies could not do well. One was make afternoon speeches and the reason given was that they couldn't wait that long. They were not good at keeping secrets and would not make good masons. The speaker assured the honored guests of the evening that masons regarded their position as second to none and held them in the highest regard."

The toast to the ladies was responded to by Mrs. Dr. C. C. Armstrong and Mrs. A. M. Smale. Mrs. Armstrong stated that the banquet had been carried through with wonderful success, although the ladies had not been consulted. They were surprised at what had been accomplished. Whereas, sometimes, the ladies may have objected to some features of the Lodge, they were now proud of the members. Woman's greatest field was the home. She was satisfied to concern herself with the more refined things in life and leave the rougher and sterner things to men. Women would work shoulder to shoulder with men in the cause of human welfare. Most of the men I know, stated the speaker, want to be true and walk straight.

Mrs. Smale stated that the men had stepped out and showed the ladies what they could do. The ladies appreciated the kind spirit that had prompted such a wonderful treat in recognition of their worth and worthiness.

John Story, of Campbellford, accompanied by Mrs. Story on the piano, sang, "When Will You Marry Me," and "Mabel Taught The Children At School."

The toast to the Craft was proposed by Dr. C. C. Armstrong, who stated that Masonry surpassed all but the Church in teaching the brotherhood of man. It aimed to find a brother in every man. Atheists and blasphemers were excluded from its ranks. Masons were sworn to protect the chastity of women. The motto of Masonry was—"Brotherly Love, Relief and Truth."

In introducing Benjamin Buchanan, who responded to the toast to the Craft, Mr. Mallory referred to the signal honor done Mr. Buchanan, and also Percy Lodge, in that he had been elected Deputy District Master. Mr. Buchanan said, "The banquet had been anticipated for sometime, and quoted from the words of another, who said, 'The best among us need deal lightly with the faults of women'. The Craft," the speaker stated, "was universal in its personnel and influence. Some of the brightest and best of men are associated with it. Its influence has elevated every nation it has touched."

Lorne Darling, of Morganston sang, "Riding Over The Deep Blue Sea." Mrs. Darling presided at the piano.

The audience then sang, "Roaming In The Gloaming" and "There's a Long, Long Trail."

The toast to "Our Country" was proposed by Maurice Ames, of Codrington.—Mr. Ames drew attention to the resources of Canada, stating that these were being rapidly developed. There were some 2,000,000 acres of forest, which was the sort of timber needed to-day. Mining and fishing was a resourceful industry. Play grounds and tourist traffic were something to be noticed. Premier Coates of New Zealand, who recently visited Niagara Falls considered them marvelous. There were over 7,000,000 tourists in Canada last year, 5,000,000 of whom had visited Ontario and left a lot of money in the country.

Rev. J. F. Everson, Chaplain of Percy Lodge responded to this toast, and pointed out that Canada had achieved greatness through the sacrifices of the Great War, but more recently through the achievement of George Young, of Toronto, whose mother was a praying woman, who influenced her boy for right. Mr. Everson also referred to the growing spirit of patriotism and loyalty among Canadians.

The same principles that were responsible for the influence and strength of Masonry had made Canada great. The Constitution of both rested on the Word of God. "O Canada" was then sung by the audience.

Readings, "If I Could Be By Her Side" and "Is That You Marie," were given by Miss Laurel Arkels, of Castleton.

William Smoker, accompanied by Joseph Dixon on the piano, sang, "Toil and Rest." The toast to "The Town" was proposed by Dr. H. S. Allen, who emphasized the value and worth-whileness of boosting.

The message of Peter Ewing, who seconded this toast is contained in the following lines which are original by Mr. Ewing—

"Close screened by hills on either side
From winter's storm of snow or sleet,
Lies Warkworth, fairest in the land
Serene, magnificent, complete."

John Storey then sang, "There's a Family Next Door," and "There's a Little Kid."

Benjamin Buchanan moved a vote of thanks to the waiters, after which the audience sang, "'Till We Meet Again" and closed with the National Anthem.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ENTERTAINMENT

Excellent Programme Given by Members of St. Thomas' S. S.

AT MILLBROOK

MILLBROOK, Jan. 31.—The annual entertainment, under the auspices of St. Thomas' Church Sunday school, was held in the Town Hall on Thursday evening, the auditorium being filled to capacity for the occasion.

An excellent programme was provided, the performers taking in the Sunday school scholars, the choir boys and members of the A.Y.P.A. Much credit for the able manner in which each did his and her part is due Mrs. (Canon) Allen, who prepared the cantata, "Red Riding Hood;" Miss M. B. Turner, B.A., who supervised the play, "A Case of Suspension;" and Mr. H. Jordan, who trained the boys for the "Cane Drill."

The accompanists of the evening were Mrs. Allen and Miss M. Collins, and piano duets, while the audience was gathering and between the programme numbers, were given by Miss Martha and Marguerite Lang, and Mrs. Allen and Miss Ada Attwooll. A vocal solo, "The May Morning," rendered by Mrs. (Rev.) P. C. Howard was much enjoyed, and the recitation, "Has Any One Seen My Mouse," by Eric Abbott, also called forth hearty applause.

The stage was beautifully arranged as a woodland scene for the opening number, "Red Riding Hood," an attractive portrayal of the story familiar to childhood and beloved by all.

The Fairy Queen (Miss Gladys Gray), robed in white and silver, with glittering crown and wand, summoned her helpers (Mary and Marjorie Vance, Mary Nattrass, Henrietta and Suzanne Grassett, and Jean Todd) whose dainty dresses in rainbow shades of pink, blue, yellow, and mauve, were tinsel trimmed, and each was silver crowned, to guard Red Riding Hood (Elizabeth Russell) from the wolf (Mr. R. Stone), who was prowling about the forest through which the little maiden, in her white dress with red hood and cape, must go carrying the basket of good things to her grandmother (Miss Mary Pitt), whose home was in the wood.

The interior of the grandmother's cottage, with its spinning-wheel, red-covered table, and old-fashioned rocking-chair, was quite in keeping with the story, and the scene when the wolf appeared, expressing satisfaction after a good meal, having apparently despatched the old lady who had run screaming at his approach, was decidedly effective. There was plenty of laughter while the wolf donned the grandmother's nightie and cap, and covered himself up in her bed.

Excitement ran high when the woodcutter (Mr. A. H. Barnes) rushed into the cottage and felled the fierce intruder with his axe to save his little daughter from sharing her grandmother's fate. The Fairy Queen and her helpers were also on the scene as the final stage was reached, and Red Riding Hood's mother (Miss M. Gray) was another attractive figure in the unfolding of the story.

There were some very pretty choruses throughout the cantata, and the warning song of the "Rose" (Mrs. W. McKee Bingham), was a popular number. The meeting with the "Buttercup (Miss Gray) and the "Bluebells" (Evalina Todd, Margaret Russell, Eva Howson, Winnie Lord, Margaret McCarthy, Kate Donnelly, Nellie Miller, Eloise Lamb), with the dances daintily executed by the fairies and the flowers, were other attractive features.

A "Good-night" chorus, with all the characters massed upon the stage, brought the cantata to a fitting and effective close.

Had the audience had its way, the "cane drill," given by eleven boys would have been immediately repeated. The burlesque costumes, and acting, with the exact time kept, and the precision in the various figures, made this one of the 'hits' of the evening. Those taking part were: George and Henry Gray, William Todd, Edward Budd, Ernest Lamb, Cameron Vance, Eddie Nattrass, Burton Russell, Buster and Gerald Raper and George Harkness.

A song, in costume, "The French Doll and the Tin Soldier," by Elizabeth Russell, preceded the final number on the programme, a comedy in three acts, "A Case of Suspension."

Three girls at a young ladies' seminary, Dorothy, Alice and Mildred (Misses A. Attwooll, and Muriel and Martha Lang) decide to have a 'spread' and smuggle in their boy friends, Harold, Tom and Jack (Messrs. Lynden Russell, Jercey Pitt, and Howard Jordan), to enjoy the evening with them. They succeed in bribing the maid, Kathleen O'Grady (Miss K. Fowler) to bring them a clothes basket, and the man of all work, Jonas (Mr. A. A. Needler), is coaxed into giving them a strong rope, as the plot is to get the college boys in through the window when the required signal is given.

Professor Edgerton (Rev. P. C. Howard) happens into the room and, finding his suspicions of something unlawful afoot confirmed, feels it his duty "to investigate, as it were." Accordingly, the professor is on hand when the boys are being drawn through the window, and gets into the basket to be on the scene also. Discovering who their 'cargo' is, the young folk decide it is "a case of suspension" in the swaying basket for the unhappy professor unless he gives his word of honor he will breathe no word to the principal. Miss Ophelia Judkins (Mrs. P. C. Howard) of the prank which is under way. Naturally the member of the faculty is forced to consent.

The professor's injufed dignity, especially when the young people compel him to join in a merry dance around the table to the tune of "We Won't Go Home 'Till Morning," was quite ludicrous. His predicament was considerably enhanced when Miss Judkins suddenly entered the room and demanded an explanation of his extraordinary conduct.

However, in the end, even Miss Ophelia is induced to unbend a trifle when the professor declares he feels at least ten years younger for his unwonted exercise, and though her feet apparently do not travel very willingly she joins with the others as they again circle about the table, and the gay music kept them all moving rapidly, while the audience was convulsed with laughter.

Kathleen and Jonas had both arrived earlier on the scene to warn the girls that Miss Judkins was likely to make a sudden descent on the room and catch them at their unlawful merrymaking, and their amazement at finding the lady already there, and the professor also, provoked a good deal of mirth. They, too, are drawn into the circle and have a share in the happy conclusion of the "Case of Suspension."

CEMETERY BOARD HOLDS MEETING

R. H. Johnston is Re-elected President—Omemee News.

OMEMEE, Jan. 31.—A meeting of the Omemee Cemetery Board was held on Monday afternoon. With the exception of the directors, the same officers as last year were elected. They are as follows: President, R. H. Johnston; Sec.-Treasurer, O. G. Williamson. Directors: William Robinson, H. Lamb, Walter Magee, J. T. Beatty, G. Switzer, B. Sanderson and S. Carew.

Everyone was well pleased with the new pumping outfit, consisting of the pressure tank system which was installed last summer, and to the caretaker, Mr. Paragreen, who has done much to add to the beauty of the numerous plots which were growing wild, goes the praise of not only the Board, but the community at large.

On Friday afternoon a meeting of the Agricultural Society wa held in Omemee. The reports of last year were given, showing very satisfactory results. Several enterprising farmers had entered the standing field competitions in oats and other grain and were successful in winning cash prizes for Emily township. Three of the contestants, Messrs. Wesley Wilson, Vincent Jones and William Burgess, received a sufficient number of points to be eligible to enter competitions at Toronto and Ottawa, where they again came out victorious.

President, Mr. B. Sanderson.

Vice-President, Mr. Joseph Bradley.

Sec.-Treasurer, Mr. O. G. Williamson.

Directors—Messrs. Isaac Fee, R. H. Johnston, W. Veals, W. Burgess, E. Switzer, D. Weir, R. Boyd, Norman Fee and D. H. Dick.

Personals.

Messrs. E. H. Mitchell, N. Clemett, E. J. Dunfee, R. Faulkner and F. Clemett motored to Peterborough on Thursday evening to witness the Hockey game between Toronto University and Peterborough.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchitis, asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited

In Peterborough Churches

TRINITY UNITED CHURCH

On Sunday and Monday, Trinity Church passed another milestone in its history. Very successful anniversary services were conducted when the high standard of former years was sustained. Rev. Dr. R. S. Laidlaw, of Erskine United Church, sustained his reputation as a forceful and eloquent evangelical preacher. In two masterly sermons he left a very deep impression upon the large and enthusiastic congregations gathered for the occasion. In the morning his theme was "Dwellers in Christ," a portrayal of the vastness of the privilege belonging to the Christians who enter into the full and complete surrender of their lives to Christ. In a very trenchant manner the distinguished speaker dealt with the spirit of self-complacency so manifest in modern days of living outside instead of inside the privilege belonging to the children of Faith. The tendency of the time was to drift with the age, rather than settling down in Christ. To the dwellers in Christ were revealed the deep secrets of God, and the revelation of his spirits which would make possible the new day when the deep spiritual forces would be released for the great tasks before the church at this time. The morning message was a close-fitting one, and left a deep impression upon a large and attentive congregation.

In the evening the theme was "The Immortal Hope," which the preacher developed along new and practical lines. The thought of immortality is a subject of personal interest to men. The verdict of Science, the verdict of Philosophy, the verdict of Revelation, all bear testimony to the belief in the life beyond. These were sustained by the great realities of life, such as personality, love, hope, and the law of progress. Nature leads to the invisible, the unseen. With Jesus the unseen was a deep reality. Life's incompleteness, Nature's indestructibility, all pointed to a life beyond. The evening message brought to a climax the deep spiritual note sounded throughout the day, and the congregation will look forward to a return visit of Dr. Laidlaw.

Miss Pearl Brock, who has sung so frequently, again delighted the congregation with her splendid voice. Her selections were well chosen, and added much to the successful services of the day. The music by the choir was of a high character, and was much appreciated by the congregation.

The fowl supper attracted a large crowd, over 500 being fed in the basement of the church. A splendid programme was presented after the supper, consisting of musical selections from Mr. Gliddon's orchestra; violin solos by Mr. Stewart Widdiss, and solos by Miss Brock and Mr. Maurice Park. The financial response was very gratifying, and Trinity Church enters with enthusiasm upon the new year.

ALL SAINTS', ANGLICAN.

Speaking from the text "If ye offer the blind for sacrifice is it not evil?" the Rev. W. M. Loucks, who was assistant curate at St. John's, when the South Ward Mission Building, now the Parish Hall of All Saints' Parish, was opened on Jan. 22nd, 1891, addressed the congregation on Sunday morning. The special services in commemoration of the semi-jubilee of the parish were concluded yesterday, and included the dedication of a window in the north wall of the church, as a memorial to Mrs. Sarah Cairns.

In the passage from which the text was taken the Prophet Malachi was rebuking the people of Israel for offering dishonor to God by giving Him poor sacrifices, acting on the principle that anything was good enough for God. In similar manner the speaker charged people now who know God's will, disobey it, thinking that anything will do for Him.

Speaking in the matter of God's house — it used to be considered by many people who wanted their own houses well furnished, that it should be bare and uncomfortable. Now it is considered that it should be well fitted up, and decorated.

In the matter of personal devotions the speaker said that most people say they have no time for morning prayers, and give God the end of the day, when they are worn out. They say the prayers they have said for years, without a change due to their changed conditions.

The devotion of lives to God was also taken up. The preacher referred to the practice of French Canadians of designating boys in childhood for the priesthood, and giving them green school badges as a mark of distinction. He urged parents to give up their children for the service of God. To those who might think it too late, as they had wasted their lives, he said that Jesus had died to save them from their sins and didn't want them to go back to them.

Rev. Mr. Loucks addressed the Senior Sunday school in the afternoon on Service, and preached again at the evening service. Special music was sung by the choir at both services.

LIBRARY SUITE FOR SEYMOUR PEOPLE

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Fairman Are Moving to Hastings.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 1. — About sixty friends and neighbors on Wednesday evening gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Fairman, Seymour West, to present a memory token before they take up their new residence in Hastings.

The early hours of the evening were spent in games and music and before lunch was served the guests gathered in the living room. Mr. and Mrs. Fairman were seated in a prominent place and the following address was read by Miss Clemena Ivey, and a presentation of a seven-piece fumed oak library suite made to them:

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Fairman.—As you are about to depart from our midst, we feel it our pleasant duty tonight to show some slight mark of respect and to recognize in some tangible form our appreciation for the kindness you have shown towards us.

Your life amongst us has been a source of pleasure and you genial manner has gained for you the confidence and appreciation of a large circle of friends.

Your loss to the community is felt by all, but lessened by the knowledge that you are not going far beyond our reach, and, in order that this expression of our regard and esteem for you may be shown in a more obvious manner, we request your acceptance of this library suite and ask you to value it not as something indispensable, but as a reminder of the many happy times that we have mingled together, and of the kindly feeling that the people of this district bear toward you.

As you enter into your new home, it is the sincere and heartfelt desire of all that you may long be spared to enjoy the greatest happiness, being confident that your qualities will carry you far towards the realization of your greatest hopes.

Wheat Falls When Rate From Argentine Lowered

CHICAGO, Feb. 1 (Canadian Press).—Coincident with the decline in freight rates from the Argentine, wheat averaged lower in the early dealings to-day. Argentine shippers were also reported as offering wheat in larger quantities. Opening at 3-8c decline to 1-8c advance, wheat held near the initial range. Corn, oats and provisions were easy, with corn starting at a shade to ¼c off and later showing an additional sag.

Opening prices: Wheat, May 140 7-8; July 132. Corn—May 80 3-4; July 84. Oats—May 47¼; July 47¼.

Seagram Leads Upturn To a New Record High

TORONTO, Feb. 1 (Canadian Press).—Seagram led the moderate upturn on the Toronto Stock Exchange to-day, climbing to a new record high of 21 1-8 in dealings that amounted to more than six thousand shares. The high was a point and an eighth higher than yesterday. Hiram Walker, Goderham and Worts and Industrial Alcohol shared in the great activity, Walker firming 5-8 at 39 3-8, G. and W. holding firm at 48½, and Alcohol strengthening an eighth at 24 5-8. International Nickel firmed a quarter at 41½. Barcelona was a half higher at 114½, and British Columbia Fishing advanced one at 26.

Hollinger Advance Marks Toronto Mining Exchange

TORONTO, Feb. 1 (Canadian Press).—Hollinger's remarkable advance of two dollars at 22.50 was the feature of this morning's session of the Standard Mining Exchange. Dealings in the stock were comparatively heavy. The rest of the list mostly was firm, although a number of recessions were shown. On the firmer side Teck Hughes advanced seven at 6.17, Area one at 58, and Amulet four at 164, while Noranda climbed 85 cents at 21.75. Argonaut softened a half at 42, and Castle Trethewey was four lower at 121.

Oil Shares' Revival Shares Rail Limelight

NEW YORK, Feb. 1 (Canadian Press)—A revival of activity and strength in the oil shares and the resumption of bullish operations in the so called "Merger Rails" divided the chief speculative interest in today's rising stock market. Wheeling and Lake Erie preferred was sensational individual performer, soaring nearly 11 points to 74 3-4, a new high record price since the re-organization of the road in 1916 and nearly thirty points above the low level of last month. The common hovered around 64. Western Maryland common and second preferred jumped about five points each to new peak prices. Other rails also displayed a strong undertone.

Accumulation of the Oils was based on reports of an improved trade position reflected in recent price advances. Houston and Atlantic Refining led the advance in that group. Rubbers were bid up on reports that a further decrease of ten per cent had been ordered in shipments from British possessions.

Laclede Gas, Western Union, Warren Brothers and Weber and Heil-Brener were among the outstanding strong spots in the specialty group.

LADIES' AUXILIARY OF Y.M.C.A. MEETS

Annual Meeting Held, Reports Showing Successful Year.

The annual meeting of the Ladies' Auxiliary to the Y.M.C.A. took place on Friday, with a good attendance. Election of officers took place and reports were read. At the conclusion of the business session, refreshments were served by the Social Committee and a social hour spent.

Plans were made for the holding of a Valentine tea in the reading-room of the Y.M.C.A. on February 14th.

The election of officers was as follows:

Hon. President — Mrs. William Davidson.

President—Mrs. G. H. Roper.

1st Vice-President — Mrs. Harry Foote.

2nd Vice-President—Mrs. Thomas Hooper.

Secretary—Mrs. Bert Jackson.

Treasurer—Mrs. Percy Fitzgerald.

Convenor of House Committee—Mrs. J. J. Turner.

Convenor of Social Committee—Mrs. R. J. Martin.

The report of the secretary, Mrs. W. R. Breyfogle, showing a very successful year just ended, follows:

The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Y.M.C.A. meets in the reading room on the fourth Friday of each month, with the exception of the summer months.

The object is to make plans for the comfort of those residing in the building and to secure needed supplies for the dormitories.

On October 6th a tea and sale of home cooking was held, at which time a nice sum of money was realized to aid in buying supplies.

The convenor of the house committee has met with the directors to help in arranging for decorations.

The Auxiliary inspected the building early in the year and again after the renovating and decorating had been done, and were very much pleased with the improved conditions.

The ladies assisted in serving suppers to the canvassers during the financial campaign in April and supplied 30 home-made pies for the boys' work conference in October. Also looked after the finding of rugs for the bedrooms.

The following articles have been bought during the year: Half dozen bedspreads, 48 2-3 yards of curtain material, 9 yards of sheeting, 3 doz. pillow cases, 3 large tablecloths, 7 doz. hand towels, cooking utensils.

Woolworth Tower Steps Climbed In 9 Minutes

A Smart Daytime Dress

Decidedly smart is the daytime dress shown here. The skirt has an inverted plait in each side seam and is joined to a bodice of unusual design, while the back is in one piece. A belt fastening at the sides achieves the modish two-piece effect. The long dart-fitted sleeves are finished with shaped cuffs to correspond with the bodice in cut, and the collar is of the becoming convertible type. NO. 1504 is for misses and small women and is in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 18 (36 bust) requires 3¼ yards 39-inch material, or 2⅝ yards 54-inch. Price 20 cents the pattern.

The secret of distinctive dress lies in good taste rather than a lavish expenditure of money. Every woman should want to make her own clothes, and the home dressmaker will find the designs illustrated in our new Fashion Book to be practical and simple, yet maintaining the spirit of the mode of the moment. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

SAINT and SINNER

For years the entire Lane clan had gathered at the Myrtle Street home of Jim Lane for Thanksgiving dinner, and Faith had determined that Cherry's wedding should not interfere with the tradition. For days she had baked and cleaned house in preparation for the big feast day. A lordly turkey, the largest that Jim Lane could find in the city, was ready for the oven before the other members of the family straggled into the dining room for a late breakfast. Dinner was to be at two o'clock, and the eight guests would begin to arrive by noon.

Thanksgiving breakfast was as traditional as Thanksgiving dinner in that old-fashioned household. By nine o'clock Faith was ready to serve the fluffy, delicately browned buckwheat cakes and the crispy friend link sausage. Hours of work lay ahead of her before she could summon the fourteen hungry diners to the feast. The wide sink board was piled high with celery, lettuce, cauliflower, sweet potatoes, carrots and parsnips, and ranged in the window was a row of glasses, filled with ruby-red cranberry jelly, made the day before.

"Do you think we've got enough food in the house?" Mrs. Lane sighed over her first cup of coffee.

"Food enough?" Faith retorted wearily. "I've baked enough for a regiment. I think it's positively indecent to eat as much as this family does at Thanksgiving and Christmas. By the time I get it all cooked I hate the sight of a chocolate cake or a stuffed turkey. I've asked Bob Hathaway for dinner," she concluded, with a glance at her father's troubled face.

"That's good—glad you did," he answered, with more enthusiasm than he had shown for weeks.

"Gee, so am I!" "Long" grinned embarrassedly. "Say, Sis, Fay's folks have all gone to Chicago for Thanksgiving and she didn't go because her grandparents are sore at her—you know!" He flushed at his necessity to allude even so indirectly to his sweetheart's runaway marriage of the year before—a marriage which had been promptly annulled because of the extreme youth of both bride and groom.

"Oh, well," Faith sighed, then forced herself to smile warmly. "One more won't make any difference, I guess. Tell her to come along. Do you know whether Cherry's up yet, Mother? I hope she does sleep late."

"I'm up," a languid voice from the doorway answered. "Couldn't sleep. Lord, I'm dead, simply dead. I'll be glad when all the fuss is over.

Faith, studying the pale face that was usually so vivid, saw a flicker of fear and distaste in the shadowed topaz eyes, that gave the lie to her last words. No, Faith thought sadly, Cherry would not be glad when it was all over.

"Could I have just a glass of orange juice, Faith darling?" Cherry dropped into a chair and stared with lip-curling distaste at the platter of sausages and their syrupy pancakes on the plates about her. "Did I hear you say Fay Allen is coming to dinner, Junior? I'm glad she is. I—I like her, Long. She's a good kid, and I'm sorry for all the nasty things I've said about her. Did Aunt Hattie get the hem right in your dress, Muggy?"

"I guess so," Mrs. Lane sighed. "I hardly knew whether I was standing on my head or feet. Hattie talked so hard and fast while she was fitting it. I told her if she wore that old black taffeta of hers to the wedding—"

"Oh, let's don't talk about the wedding!" Cherry burst out petulantly, her childish lips quivering. "Wedding, wedding, wedding! I haven't heard anything else 'till I think I'll shriek. Who's got the paper?" she demanded, inconsistently. "Did they use the pictures?"

"Here it is! There's nearly a whole page about the weddin'" Joy shrilled from the living room, where she had been so absorbed in contemplating the miracle of her own picture in the paper that she had ignored repeated calls to breakfast. "They've got my picture, too, Cherry! Right spang in the middle of the page!"

"Give it here!" Excitement brought color and sparkle into Cherry's tired little face. "Oh, Muggy, we're simply spread all over the society page. Listen—'May and December Wedding Most Impressive of Season'! I wish they'd lay off that 'May and December' stuff."

She was still staring in fascination at the extravagant layout of pictures and headlines when the family had finished breakfast. Faith, clearing the table, was thankful that it took so little to restore her good spirits.

"I'd give anything if the whole darn outfit of kinfolks wasn't coming!" she flung down the paper and stared at Faith with suddenly tragic eyes. "I feel like I can't possibly go through the day. They'll be picking at me all day long. And you'll be dog-tired when it's all over. Can I help you, darling?"

"I want you to rest," Faith told her fondly.

"Rest?" Cherry's voice was bitter. "I didn't sleep a wink all night. I've got to keep so busy today that I won't have time to think. If I think—oh my God, Faith! What am I doing? What am I doing? Faith!" Her voice rose in a shrill crescendo of fright and pain, then broke on a flood of tears.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

(Copyright, 1927, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 2, 1927

Although one benefic aspect is strong today, astrologers read much that is adverse and see the rule as rather unfavorable to dwellers on Earth.

Finance and labor are likely seriously to clash under this direction of the stars which indicates new economic problems.

It is a most unfavorable day for pushing one's interests in business and distinctly hostile to all promoters.

There is a forbidding aspect for those who would seek employment of any sort and they will profit by delaying any sort of initiative.

Trouble or at least anxiety over bills may be emphasized while this sway continues and it is best to avoid financial settlements until a more encouraging configuration prevails.

This is an auspicious sway for newspaper and magazines. Editors and publishers will profit, for there will be much thrilling world news in the new year.

A London astrologer prophesies a great scandal in Great Britain, which may shake the foundations of government.

Military movements will focus attention in England where there will be much excitement regarding public affairs.

France and Great Britain are to exchange many diplomatic messages and some sort of financial agreement concerning Germany is to be reached, the seers foretell.

New alliances among nations are foreshadowed and the world will be greatly disturbed in 1927.

Many market fluctuations in staple products may be expected and speculation will be widespread, if the stars are read aright.

Devastations of many sorts are prognosticated for European countries, where there will be much loss of life.

Persons whose birthdate it is may have temptation to indulge in law suits, but this should be resisted. The year will be comparatively uneventful.

Children born on this day may be sensitive and easily tempted to quarrel. They usually are gifted, but they must be wisely directed.

PATRIOTIC LEAGUE ELECTS OFFICERS

Mrs. R. H. Parsons President of Ashburnham Ladies For 1927.

The annual meeting of the Ashburnham Women's Patriotic League was held last evening at the home of Mrs. John Butcher, Burnham street, when election of officers for the year was made, as follows:

Honorary president, Mrs. R. B. Rogers; president, Mrs. R. H. Parsons; 1st vice-president, Mrs. Wilena Taylor; 2nd vice-president, Mrs. G. L. Hay; corresponding secretary, Mrs. T. N. D. Kelly; secretary, Miss E. Scott; treasurer, Mrs. T. H. Glover; Social committee, Mrs. D. A. Lawrence and Mrs. A. S. Couper; Flower committee, Mrs. Carleton Perry and Mrs. F. Sedgewick; Telephone committee, Mrs. I. Mein, Mrs. J. Butcher, Mrs. C. Perry and Mrs. A. Wright.

The next meeting of the League will be held on Monday, February 28th, at the home of Mrs. A. S. Couper, Engleburn avenue.

SOAP SUGGESTION.

There is a certain degree of economy in buying soap in quantity, because it hardens as it stands, and hence goes further as it ages.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

A jumper of green and gold lame is combined with a pleated skirt of cloth of gold to make a wearable little evening frock.

There are women who are giving up the jumper as part of their sports wardrobes in favor of the neat tailored jackets which carry with them an air of boyishness that is still considered desirable. We still cling to the jumper as it appears in evening dresses or as part of the more or less formal velvet costume.

One thing that was considered very desirable about the jumper—the fact that it went on over the head and needed no fasteners—makes it less desirable now when it appears in its original, slip-on guise. When the tousled bob was the fashion no one minded the somewhat dishevelling process of slipping on a jumper over the head. Now, though hair is usually cut shorter than ever, the fastidious woman is as anxious not to disarrange her carefully arranged sleek hair as she was to avoid disarranging long hair elaborately held in place with pins and hair net. It is for this reason that for informal wear the short tailored jacket has gained favor over the sports jumper. The evening jumper with its deeper neckline may be donned with less danger of disarranging the hair, but is often made with an opening at one shoulder, that fastens with snappers, and the higher necked afternoon jumpers are frequently of this sort.

In Paris where the two-piece velvet suit has been more generally adopted as a rather formal afternoon costume the silver or gold jumper has been its most frequent bodice. Sometimes these are perfectly plain—but those of striped lame have enjoyed and still enjoy much favor also. They are, of course, inspired by Patou's famous sports jumpers with wide horizontal stripes. In the case of the lame jumpers one set of wide stripes is of gold or silver, while the alternating stripes are of wine, blue, green or black to match the velvet skirt and coat with which they are worn.

In many ways they have departed from the original jumper. Some of them are finished with pleated frills at collar, cuff and around the hem. Some of these metal jumpers are heavily wrought with sequin embroidery so that they present the effect of a coat of brilliant armor.

Browning Case Sickens He-Man, Says Sunday

BIRMINGHAM, Feb. 1 — (United Press).—"It sickens a red-blooded he man to see a publicity hunting old reprobate like Browning chasing a young squab like Peaches," commented the Rev. Billy Sunday yesterday when asked his opinion of the separation trial in progress at White Plains, N.Y.

"Bunny Browning is a fool," volunteered the evangelist. "But that Peaches, she is not such a fool. Neither of them is over-burdened with commonsense."

They'll come back HUNGRY for it!

Do not fail the kiddies, mother! Be sure there is a tin of FRY'S always in the house. A steaming hot cup of FRY'S at breakfast and another when they come in from play in the afternoon will help to keep them happy, vigorous and free from colds and sickness.

HUMOROUS LECTURE AT ALL SAINTS' HALL

Rev. W. M. Loucks Gives Address on Tour of Western Europe.

A travel talk that combined descriptions of the grandeur and dignity of the scenery and buildings in Western Europe with accounts of humorous episodes of the journey was "The Parson Abroad," given by Rev. Walter M. Loucks, of Holy Trinity Church, Toronto, in All Saints' Parish Hall last night. At times the speaker's humorous anecdotes had his audience convulsed with laughter, while at others the descriptions of solemn scenes and famous places inspired feelings of a graver nature.

Mr. Loucks sailed from Montreal to Liverpool, went direct to London, then went up through England to Edinburgh and Aberdeen, back south to England and across into France, Belgium, and Holland, winding up with a journey across the south of England.

Among the most touching of his references were those to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier, with its constant crowd of mourners and its decorations of flowers. When he was there the beautiful wreath of orchids in a silver holder, sent by the King of Siam, lay side by side with the tiny bouquet of garden flowers, wrapped in brown paper, the tribute of some soldier's loved one. The reverence paid by all to the Cenotaph was also remarked by the speaker, who said that every man, even if he passes it a hundred times a day, raises his hat as he goes by, a custom which he thought might well be copied here.

The field of Waterloo, a battle insignificant beside some of the engagements of the recent war in point of size, but of immense importance on the history of Europe, and the mole of Zeebrugge, scene of one of the most daring exploits of the Great War, were visited by the speaker, who remarked on the feelings, first of awe, and then of pride that he too was British, which were inspired at these places.

Extremely humorous were the descriptions given by the speaker of his visit to the Midway at Wembley, where he patronized the roller-coaster, and slid on a door mat down a long incline into a bowl, where dozens of people stood laughing at the antics of those who made the descent. His description of an encounter, during the consecration of Liverpool Cathedral, with a Welsh clergyman who viewed with suspicion his attempts to strike up an acquaintance, was also very amusing.

The beauties of English scenery and the dignity of the great cathedrals of England made a profound impression on the speaker, who conveyed to his audience something of the spirit of their effect on him. He spoke in highest terms of the reception given him wherever he went, the people receiving him with courtesy and hospitality and doing all in their power to help him enjoy his holiday.

A musical programme was given, consisting of violin selections by Mrs. Percy Hooper, and solos by Miss Daisy Murray and Mr. Jarvis. The solo sung by Miss Murray was "Land of Hope and Glory," which the speaker said he had had sung every time he gave the lecture. The whole audience united in singing the chorus, followed by the National Anthem. Expressions of thanks were conveyed to the speaker and artists by W. H. Butler, and seconded by Mrs. John Davidson.

Drunk, Says Physician Prisoners Gravely Agree

LONDON, Feb. 1 (Canadian Press).—After pleading guilty to intoxication and disorderly conduct, the Earl of Northesk was fined forty shillings and costs in Police Court yesterday.

Lord Northesk, who received a great deal of publicity in 1923 when he married a "Follies" girl, Jessica Brown, in New York, was arrested in the early hours of Sunday, with Charles Kearly, a friend, who was also fined. Their shouting and singing had aroused the attention of a policeman who discovered they had uprooted a lamp post. A doctor who examined them, gave the opinion that both were intoxicated, and they gravely agreed with him.

SUNDAY SUPPER CLUB MEETING

Young Men Gather at Y.M.C.A. and Hear Interesting Talk.

BY MR. WEARING.

In the Y.M.C.A. on Sunday afternoon about forty boys gathered around the fireside and sang hymns and then they were served with supper by the members of the Leaders' Corps, who were the hosts of the evening.

This is a weekly event which has been started by the officials of the Y.M.C.A., and Joseph Wearing is to give a Bible talk each night at the supper table. On Sunday night his subject was the life of Caleb. Mr. Wearing, in choosing this subject, said he desired to take a man who has been a success but of whom little was heard or known. Next Sunday will be the unsuccessful man, and for this position he has chosen Absalom.

The main point in Mr. Wearing's address was the manner in which Caleb and Joshua brought back their report after spying out the land of Canaan. They reported what they saw and they did not fear the Canaanites, for they believed God to be on their side, and with His power and assistance they were willing to go ahead and take the land.

In closing, Mr. Wearing asked the boys to stick to their jobs, although they might be dissatisfied at first and did not like the idea of commencing at the bottom of the ladder. In time through faithfulness to work and to their employer they would rise to heights unattained by anyone who failed to stick with his job.

Petes Deadlocked With T.C.C. After 30 Minutes Overtime

PADDLERS COME FROM BEHIND THREE TIMES DURING STRUGGLE AND HOLD PETES IN OVERTIME

Questionable Goals Allowed by Referee Rutherford Enable Them to Tie

FINAL SCORE 4-4

Up and Down Style of Hockey Makes Ideal Game for Fans.

(By F. D. C.)

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 1.—The Petes came within 37 seconds of a victory last night over the Toronto Canoe Club at the Arena here that would have given them a stranglehold on second place, but with the game almost over the Paddlers tied the score at 4 to 4 on a very doubtful play, and the two tired but game teams played 30 minutes' overtime without breaking the deadlock.

The 4-4 tie gives each of them a point so that the Petes remain in second place.

Eddie Wright's team, however, should have had a win. The goal that sent the teams into overtime was scored by Joe Wright after a scrimmage in front of the Peterboro nets, during which Joe Dwyer was being held down by a Paddler forward. The puck finally got loose, and with Dwyer still pinned by the Canoe Club attacker, Wright lifted it over the pile into the net.

It was interference, plain and simple, and Referee Murray Rutherford should have disallowed the goal. In spite of the Petes' protests, however, Rutherford held that the play was legal, and the Blue and White team had victory snatched out of their hands when the game seemed to be safely in the stick bag.

This goal was not the only questionable one scored by the Paddlers, who tied the score in the second period on a rush in which two men loafing twenty feet offside broke with the puck-carrier. The play should have been stopped as soon as the loafers were noticed, but Rutherford allowed it to go through and a score resulted. Lou Marsh was to have handled the game, but was unable to be on hand, and the substitute official had a bad night, getting in wrong with both clubs. However, the Petes were the worst sufferers by reason of the two tainted goals secured by the Paddlers.

It was a grand game of hockey, noted by Queen City fans as one of the best of the season. It was fast going all the way, and the last period and the extra sessions were crammed full of thrills. The Petes took an early lead, getting the only two goals of the first period. The Paddlers tied it up with a brace in the second, and each team scored twice in the last twenty minutes. The Petes were ahead three times during the game, while their rivals never were out in front.

Both teams showed plenty of speed, good stick-handling, and flashes of effective combination, and the up and down the ice nature of the play made it an ideal game from the spectators' standpoint.

While the whole squad turned in a nice game, Ranger and Collins stood out in the Peterboro crew. Ranger, moved to centre ice, played his finest hockey of the year, and was the most dangerous attacker on the Petes' line-up, breaking rush after rush by clever checking. Ranger got two beautiful goals, and missed by inches twice after wonderful stick-handling. Collins too gave his best performance of the year, scoring two clever goals and giving a pass for a third, while his checking was of great assistance. Bogardis was not far behind in point of effectiveness, playing fine hockey, and Kane gave an excellent account of himself. Williams, not used as much as the others, gave all he had.

The defence pair both checked with good judgment, and each figured in a goal-scoring play, Collins contributing the finishing touch on both occasions.

Dwyer made a flock of fine stops and did not come out unscathed, having his cheek cut in a mix-up, and later being massaged over the head with a stick.

The Paddlers' ace was Art Smith, the shifty, fast-skating defence man, who was a real threat every time he sailed down. Smith scored two goals, and came close half a dozen other times. Baker performed brilliantly in the nets and up in front Bond and Grant were particularly prominent, with Mollenhauer showing flashes of fast hockey, and Mills, the former Lindsay player, showing his best stuff in the overtime periods.

A Flying Start.

Two smart goals by Frankie Collins in the first six minutes sent the Petes away to a flying start. Less than three minutes after the game got under way, Rose started a rush from his own blue line, skated around Goldsmith, and let drive a hard shot from outside the defence. Collins slipped in and batted the re-bound past Baker. Shortly after McLeod and Collins came down together, and Collins netted the rebound from McLeod's shot, putting the Petes two goals in front. They held their lead without much difficulty for the balance of the period, in fact came close to increasing it.

Early in the second period the Paddlers got their first goal, and it came with a man short. Smith bodied Ranger in mid-ice, and was fenced while Ranger retired for repairs. Almost immediately after Grant and Bond broke away, and the latter scored from close in. The goal put a lot of fight into the Paddlers, and they played hard, determined hockey for the balance of the period, giving Dwyer plenty to do. At that, the best scoring opportunity of the period saw Ranger miss by inches after stick-handling through the whole Paddlers' team and pulling Baker out of the nets.

There was no score until over three-quarters of the period had gone, when Grant broke away and passed to Smith, who scored with a side shot. The Paddlers had a couple of men loafing in centre ice on this play, and when the breakaway came McLeod was all alone on the Petes' defence. It was a very questionable goal, but Referee Rutherford overlooked the loafing and the score was tied. Rose threw his stick on this play and was penalized.

The Petes led twice in the third period but were overhauled on both occasions. The session was just nicely under way when Ranger and Bogardis broke together and, taking a perfect pass from Bogardis as the defence was reached, Ranger closed in at top speed, circled across the goal, and gave Baker no chance to save. Soon after Ranger was hurt when he was dumped by Wright, who drew a penalty while Ranger had to leave the ice for a while. Smith sewed up the game by a beautiful rush that carried him around the Peterboro defence and gave him a chance to slip a low one past Dwyer.

Smith came right back with another dangerous rush that came close to a score. Then Ranger returned to the game and shortly afterward put the Petes in the lead again when he took a pass from Collins and beat Baker with a high fast drive into the corner of the net.

That looked like the winning goal as the minutes rapidly flew by and the Petes successfully held out the desperate Paddlers. Then as the end of the period was in sight Collins was chased for charging Baker and soon after Ranger followed him for tripping, leaving the Petes two men short. It was Canoe Club's opportunity but McLeod and Rose ragged with the puck behind the Petes' net so effectively that the Paddlers failed to touch the disc until Collins was back. The danger looked to be over then but with less than a minute to go Canoe Club staged a determined rush and Dwyer had to make a nice stop to save a goal. He fell on the rubber, a Canoe Club forward fell on top of him, and there was a pile up in front of the Petes' net during which Dwyer had his face cut. Somehow the rubber drifted out to Joe Wright and with a Paddler still parked on top of Dwyer Wright lifted the rubber over the pile and scored. The Petes vigorously protested the decision but of course it went and the game was tied up, full time being called almost immediately after.

The three overtime periods were full of thrills, narrow escapes, fine goal-keeping, and great hockey but no goals. Both had plenty of opportunities but could not land the much-wanted marker. Both goalies made some great saves, Baker diving into a shot by Bogardis that looked to have him beaten and Dwyer robbing Mollenhauer when the latter was right in. The best chance of the overtime period, however, fell to the lot of Ranger, who in a beautiful rush in the last overtime period stick handled through everybody only to be foiled by Baker when the winning counter seemed certain.

The line-up:

Toronto Canoe Club—Goal, Baker; defence, Wright and Smith; centre, Goldsmith; right wing, Mollenhauer; left wing, Bond; subs, Grant and Mills.

Peterboro — Goal, Dwyer; defence, McLeod and Rose; centre, Ranger; right wing, Collins; left wing, Bogardis; subs, Kane and Williams.

KITCHENER WINS FROM PRESTON

Riversides Lack Star Players Because of Flu and Lose 10—1

SEAGRAM STARS

KITCHENER, Feb. 1.—The Preston Riversides, weakened by the absence of three regulars, were beaten 10 to 1 here last night at the auditorium before a packed house. The appearance of the Riversides minus Talbot, Arnott and Hodgins was a keen surprise to Twin City fans and after the Green Shirts had scored four goals in the initial period it was just a question of how high the score would be. Talbot has been ill with the 'flu," while Arnott went to bed yesterday afternoon owing to the same cause, and Hodgins has a strained side. The Green Shirts were at full strength. The win puts the Green Shirts two full games out ahead of the Riversides, who are now a game and a half ahead of the Terriers and they meet the latter in two games shortly that will just about determine which of the two teams will get into the play-off.

The feature of the game last night was the playing of Cammie Seagram, who uncorked his best game of the season and he collected six goals, three of them within a two-minute period midway through the first session. Seagram was bouncing them in the corner out of the reach of Schmalz.

The last goal of the game also fell to Seagram, who drilled a fast one in from outside the defence and just inside the line with four minutes to go. The teams:

Preston—Goal, Schmalz; defence, Skelly and Julke; centre, Circuiro; wings, Clarke and Woodley; subs, McKenna and Reis.

Twin City—Goal, Fries; defence, Karges and Hinsperger; centre, Roth; wings, Gross and Hillmer; subs, Seagram and Hillman.

Referee—Mike Rodden, Toronto.

FEW CHANGES RUGBY RULES

"Forward Pass" May Be Tried in Exhibition Games

REDUCE PENALTIES

TORONTO, Feb. 1.—Very few changes were made in the rules at the meeting of the Canadian Rugby Union rules commission held at the King Edward Hotel on Saturday afternoon.

It was expected that the suggestion to introduce the "forward pass" would cause considerable discussion, and encounter much opposition, but such was not the case, owing to the Intercollegiate turning down the suggestion at a meeting in the morning, and President Stuart Forbes of the C.R.U., representing the Intercollegiate, withdrawing the suggestion.

In connection with the forward pass, while the matter was not officially before the meeting, it was discussed, and the opinion was that the introduction of the play was too radical a step without it being tried out, and the chances are that the play will be given one or more trials in exhibition games next fall. It it proves successful in opening up the play to an extent it may receive favorable consideration in a year's time.

The delegates expressed satisfaction with the present rules, and made only minor amendments to make them clearer.

The "no yards" penalty on a kick, by which the non-offending team received possession of the ball twenty-five yards in front of where the offense was committed, was considered too severe, and distance was reduced to fifteen yards.

In order to encourage passing on extension runs the penalty for the forward pass was reduced. Instead of being loss of the ball the penalty next fall will be loss of a down and ten yards.

In the past when a player kicked into his own scrimmage, no matter on what down, his team lost possession of the ball. This caused to reduce the number of attempts at field goals, on the first and second down, and the rule was changed so that in future if a player kicks the ball into his own scrimmage on the first or second down, and the ball is recovered by a member of his team, the offending team will be penalized ten yards and one down. Under the old rule and possession where the offense was committed was equal to a los of about forty yards with the team not in possesion often having no part in the play which gave them a forty-yard gain.

The penalty for holding was also modified. Instead of the player guilty of the offense being penalized for not less than three minutes and his team lose ten yards, the distance penalty will alone prevail. In future no player will be sent off the field for anything but rough play, and in future individual penalties will carry a stigma not previously attached to them. This change came after the longest discussion of the meeting.

The convert after touchdown was also altered. Last year the rule called for the ball to be taken straight out from the point where the touchdown was scored, at least 20 yards from the goal line, and that the effort to pick up the additional point be by means of a drop kick. The latter was an innovation that proved succesful. However, it was felt that in many cases a touchdown, scored at one side of the field was better earned than some directly under the goal posts, and in future the attempt to convert will be by a drop kick, from not closen than 35 yards from the goal line, the player making the attempt to select his point anywhere across the field This will permit allowance for a cross field wind and will also do away with the scrambling behind the goal line after the ball has been carried across, there being no need to try and carry it around behind the posts.

The suggestion to bar line men from carrying the ball received little consideration. The cry in recent years has been to open up the game and to make the offensive stronger, and any reduction in the number of men eligible to carry the ball would weaken the offensive.

BRISTLING BATTLES of BARE FIST DAYS

(MY LIFE STORY)
by Jack McAuliffe

CHAPTER TWENTY-THREE

One of the greatest fighters in the world has his career shortened and his heart broken by a man he had legitimately whipped once and one he was always superior of. I refer to Jack Dempsey and his knockout at the hands, or rather I should say the elbow, of George La Blanche, the French Canadian marine.

Dempsey easily knocked out La Blanche in 13 rounds at Larchmont, in 1886. In 1889 La Blanche was in San Francisco training under Jimmy Carroll, a British lightweight, who was an instructor at the C.A.C.

Carroll, not La Blanche, as everyone believes, invented the illegal "pivot punch."

It was a punch used with a swing starting from a left hand lead. The body would be swung clear around as on the heel as a pivot with the right arm up and the elbow stuck out shoulder high horizontal to the body. It was the theory that if the elbow did not strike the opponent on the jaw the fist was sure to land with terrific force and momentum.

Carroll taught La Blanche the punch and the fight was held Aug. 27, 1889.

In the 32d round La Blanche, who was getting an unmerciful beating and staggering along the ropes, suddenly went into to the ring, whirled and his ELBOW hit Dempsey a terrible smash.

Dempsey fell flat on his face and broke his nose.

I was angry at the illegal tactics used and determined to seek revenge for my good friend Dempsey. I determined to go out to San Francisco and paste this guy Carroll who taught La Blanche the pivot punch.

I started out for San Francisco with hardly a cent in my pocket and railroad tickets to Chicago. I met Jake Schaeffer, the billiard champion, there and he lent me $1000 to get to Frisco.

NOTE—In the next chapter McAuliffe tells of his experiences training for the Carroll fight and his fight superstitions.

MENIE PLAY CLERKS TUESDAY EVENING

Winner Stands Chance Being in Finals Campbellford District League

BURNBRAE, Feb. 1.—Hockey is the main topic of conversation at all gatherings around this district and everyone is discussing the probable fate of the Menie hockey team. After a flying start, the local squad have dropped the last two games and are now on equal terms with the Clerks who have won their last two encounters. The game tonight between these two squads is bound to be hot, as Menie won the first game and the Clerks are out for revenge. The winner stands a good chance of being a finalist. Menie dropped a hard game on Wednesday last, when the Mill won 3—2 in 20 minutes overtime. With the addition of Sargin-son, just returned from Kingston, the Mill team were far stronger than previously, but on the night's play were in no wise superior to Menie. The winning goal was a decided fluke. Some have stated that Owens allowed the puck to slip through his pads, but such was not the case. The shot looked easy to handle but struck a loose piece of ice and was deflected to the opposite corner of the net, so that Owens never even touched the puck. Great credit is due to the little goalie for the splendid game he put up on Wednesday night, some of his stops being marvellous. Shillinglow is fast returning to his old time form and his lone dash through the whole Mill team to score the winning goal only a minute to go was the feature of the game. Hume was back again and while not as speedy as of yore, due to lack of practice and lack of condition, was good defensively and his knack of starting combination plays adds to the game from the spectators' point of view.

A national appeal is being made in England to raise $15,000 to cover the expense of a team of 10 British golf professionals to defend the Ryder Cup in the United States. The Britishers will also plan to compete in the British American championship.

JUNIOR HOCKEY TEAM FORMED

Armand Clement Moving Spirit in Organization of Omemee Boys.

OFFICERS ELECTED

OMEMEE, Feb. 1.—Mr. Armand Clement, a hockey enthusiast, who has resided in Omemee a short time, has organized a junior hockey team, and has already commenced drilling the team in preparation to meet the 'teen age teams from Peterboro if such can be arranged.

A meeting of those interested was called last Monday evening, and the following officers were elected; also a fee of 50c was attached to any members who care to join the club and render the assistance necessary to make the sport a success:

Hon. President — L. A. Southworth.

Hon. Vice-President—Dr. G. N. Earle.

Vice-President—M. D. Earle.

Secretary-Treasurer—F. A. McConnell.

Manager of team — Armand Clement.

Advisory Committee—The officers of club and J. Mackey, Howard Wilson, Floyd Parsons and Fred Parker.

On Wednesday evening the local hockey team and several fans motored to Peterboro, where they met the C.G.E. team in a lively game. Unfortunately for Omemee, the goal-tender, Mr. Stanley Tripp, suffered a blow in the eye before the game commenced and was handicapped for the first period. The game resulted in a score of 3-2 in favor of Peterboro.

SPEAKER PLAY WITH SENATORS

Will Make Up .300 Hitting Outfield for Washington.

CENTRE GARDEN

WASHINGTON, Feb. 1 (Canadian Press).—Tris Speaker has agreed to sign with the Washington Senators, according to word received here last night from Clark Griffith, president of the Washington club, who is now in Tampa, Fla.

The terms of the contract offered Speaker, who was cleared recently of charges of attempting to fix a baseball game, were not disclosed.

It is the intention of Griffith and Manager Harris to use Speaker regularly in centre field. He would be flanked in right field by Sam Rice and in left by "Goose" Goslin.

This lineup would give the Senators an outfield made up of .300 hitters; Goslin last season having averaged .354 at bat; Rice .337, and Speaker .304.

McNeely played centre field for Washington most of last season. He has signed for another year.

Bowling

LADIES VS. MECHANICAL.

The ladies' team rolled three games away from Mechanicals, and Mrs. Campbell had a real high three for a lady bowler of 591, with Miss Byers rolling 546, and singles of 207, 212 and 201. Hulfish for Mechanicals rolled 543, which was lower than the ladies' high three. It looks like a win for the ladies.

LENGLEN PLANS SURPRISE FOR TENNIS WORLD

London Sketch Hints She May Run Opposition at Wimbledon.

FOR REVENGE.

Would Avenge Slights, Real or Fancied, By Drawing Crowds Away.

LONDON, Feb. 1 (Canadian Press).—Suzanne Lenglen, French tennis star, who some months ago gave up her amateur status to become a professional, is said by The Sketch to be preparing a surprise for the English lawn tennis world.

Recalling Mme. Lenglen's disagrement with officials of the Wimbledon Tournament in 1926, the paper hints that Suzanne proposes to organize a series of professional matches during the Wimbledon meet with a view to drawing the crowds away from the famous tennis series.

"Suzanne," The Sketch comments, "would certainly regard this as sweet revenge for the insults, fancied or otherwise, she suffered from Wimbledon officials."

Mlle. Lenglen was the centre of unpleasaht incidents at the Wimbledon Golden Jubilee Tennis Tournament last June. She was severely censured for her failure to set foot on the courts when Queen Mary sat in the stands to see her play. Explaining her point of view later, she said that at first she was willing to play in her doubles match on that day, but after being "scolded" for not appearing for the singles match, of which she knew nothing, she was too excited and upset to play at all. A few days later she definitely withdrew from the Wimbledon singles championship competition, on the ple of illness. She had held the championship six times.

SULLIVAN CLAIMS CATALINA VICTORY

One of Losers in Recent Race Takes Quiet Afternoon To Cross.

LONG BEACH, Calif., Feb. 1 (Canadian Press)—A municipal observer on Pine Avenue pier stated that Henry F. Sullivan, Lowell, Mass., landed on the pier here about eight o'clock this morning, declaring that he had swam the San Pedro channel from Santa Catalina Island in 22 hours, 45 minutes. Sullivan, who conquered the English Channel several years ago but failed in the recent Island marathon race, won by George Young, Toronto, had been quietly training here for the last fortnight in preparation for another attempt at the channel crossing.

ROBBERS SEIZE BAG OF MONEY

IN BROAD DAYLIGHT

TORONTO, Feb. 1. — Halting William H. Johnston, manager of the Oakland Dairy, 108 Nassau Street, with a revolver, as he was hurrying along Nassau Street, with cash and cheques totalling $4,117.09 in the direction of the Standard Bank, Bathurst and Dundas Streets, about three o'clock yesterday afternoon, three thugs relieved Johnston of the entire amount. They got clear of the scene in a light-green sedan, equipped with markers stolen from a motor car owned by Hyman Warshavrsky, 56 Huron Street. The licence plates were taken from Warshavrsky's car while it stood in the garage some time yesterday afternoon. The loot consists of $2,112 in cash, and $2,005.09 in cheques. The whole was contained in a brown bag. The money and securities are insured.

Johnston said that he was walking along the south side of Nassau Street, near Lippincott Street, bag in hand, when a man opened the door of a light-green sedan, and pointing a revolver at him, ordered him to stick up his hands. As the fellow made a grab for the bag, Johnston flung the receptacle upon a lawn nearby. This did not avail, however, for a confederate of the thief, who had been walking behind, darted to the lawn, picked up the precious bag, and returning to the sidewalk, hurled the booty into the car. This done, he climbed inside and was driven away. The car was last seen disappearing around the corner of Lippincott and Oxford Streets.

Victim Unarmed.

Johnston said that the cash and cheques were the week-end receipts from the dairy, and, as was his custom, he was on his way to deposit the money in the bank. He had no thought of anything untoward, and carried no revolver for protection. He had traversed the route dozens of times without mishap.

The robbery was so daring and brief that, though there were people in the neighborhood at the time, they had no suspicion of what had happened until Johnston cried out that he had been robbed.

The police were notified. Immediately a police car put out from headquarters with Detective-Sergts. Alexander, Silverthorne, Levitt and Taylor aboard. Divisional officers arrived on the scene almost simultaneously with the headquarters men.

A quick survey of the scene was made. While some of the police scoured the district in motor cars other officers interviewed Johnston and persons living in the vicinity regarding the outrage. Johnston told his story briefly. He said that the money was contained in a brown satchel.

GIRLS IMPROVE

LONDON, Feb. 1 — London's working girls are growing comelier year by year, according to Sir Thomas Legge, senior medical inspector of factories. He attributes their increasing beauty to more open air exercise and less worry following higher wages.

PIGEONS STOP CLOCK.

RUSHVILLE, Ind., Feb. 1. — Housewives were irritated and husbands went hungry when pigeons roosted on the minute hand of a clock in the court house tower here recently and stopped the clock for 40 minutes. The time read 5.40 when it really was 6.20 p.m.

LEGION NOTES

Last night the Canadian Legion rooms were crowded to capacity when some six hundred veterans and their friends spent an enjoyable evening. A concert of the highest order was produced by the "Waikiki Company" composed of the following artists: A. E. Everett, T. Stazicker, G. Wesley, Dave Quinlan, J. Minicola, together with Mrs. J. Dwyer and Miss Dora Quinlan. From start to finish the programme was a huge success and all of the artists were complimented on the high class talent presented. Every artist was a star, and their efforts brought forth much applause from the audience. During the intermission the President, Col. C. Ackerman, addressed the audience, thanking them for their attendance. He also expressed his thanks to the artists for the splendid programme which they had prepared and which all present had so thoroughly enjoyed. He then spoke on the membership in the Canadian Legion urging all that were eligible to become members, pointing out those who were eligible under the present constitution. As a result of these remarks a number of new applications were received. It is gratifying to know that the membership is gradually increasing, new applications being received at the rate of an average of two a day.

At the conclusion of the concert a hearty vote of thanks to the artists was moved by Comrade F. Millard seconded by Comrade J. R. Davis. This was accorded in the usual manner, after which the room was cleared of the chairs, and the remainder of the evening spent in dancing the music being provided by P. O'Keefe's Orchestra. The committee desire to express to the artists and all those who assisted in any way their thanks for their efforts which culminated in providing one of the best evenings spent among the veterans this season. Particulars of the next social will be announced later.

On Friday evening, February 11, arrangements are being made to bring Mr. Tothill, the billiard champion of Toronto to give an exhibition here. Full particulars will be given through the medium of The Examiner. Billiard enthusiasts are requested to keep this date open.

BROWNING DENIES 'MONKEY TRICKS'

Says He May Have Crawled on Floor When a Year Old.

WHITE PLAINS, Feb. 1 (Canadian Press).—Edward Browning, millionaire real estate operator of New York, took the witness stand to-day to deny that he was a cruel husband during his six months' married life with Frances Peaches Heenan Browning, from whom he seeks separation on grounds of abandonment.

Browning described how he met Peaches at a sorority dance. He said she gave her age at 23, but gradually reduced the age as he got better acquainted.

Excuses were made when he gave the girl $300, and her mother, Mrs. Carolyn Heenan, $300 to put towards the girl's education, he testified. He was told Peaches could not gain admission to schools, and preferred to go on the stage anyway.

The first knowledge he had of the acid throwing which burned Peaches' face was a telephone message from Mrs. Heenan, he said. Although Mrs. Heenan was a trained nurse, the mother had done "nothing" for the burns. The only connection he had with the acid burning was to secure help and medical attention and call the police against Mrs. Heenan's wishes. He denied ever striking his wife. His wife gave several reasons why she did not want children, Browning testified, and outlined the nature of her protests.

The alleged throwing of telephone books and the incident of the alarm clock which Mrs. Browning charged he used to startle her from sleep were denied. "When I was one year old I might have crawled on the floor, but never since," the witness said, laughingly, when asked if he had ever jumped about like a monkey on the floor.

Browning said that Mrs. Heenan had frequently boosted her daughter as a person who "would make him a good wife" and who was "innocent in every way."

Open Safety Pin Taken From Throat Of Infant

BALTIMORE, Md. Feb. 1 (United News).—Bertha Rodey, 15 months old, swallowed an open safety pin yesterday. She was hurried to the dispensary of the South Baltimore General Hospital. A physician probed the baby's throat, found the pin, squeezed it shut, and removed it. The whole process required less than fifteen minutes. Mrs. Anne Rodey, the mother, was bathing the baby when the child picked the pin up.

LANGTRY DENIES WRIGHT STORY

Actress Sends Telegram Repudiating Accusation He Made.

AT LIBEL SUIT.

LONDON, Feb. 1 (Canadian Press).—A telegram from Lillie Langtry (Jersey Lily) at Monte Carlo, repudiating the testimony of Captain Peter Wright last week that he had been told the famous actress at one time was intimate with the late William Gladstone, Victorian Prime Minister, caused a sensation at the resumption to-day of the libel case brought by Captain Wright against Lord Gladstone. The telegram read: "I strongly repudiate the slanderous accusation of Peter Wright."

On Friday, Captain Wright expressed regret for bringing the name of Lillie Langtry into the case.

Wright is suing Lord Gladstone for denouncing him as a "liar, coward, and fool," the trouble growing out of a book written by Wright in which the moral character of the elder Gladstone is assailed and to which Lord Gladstone took exception.

Supreme Court Declares Alberta Legislature Act Is Ultra Vires.

OTTAWA. Feb. 1 (Canadian Press) — The Supreme Court of Canada this morning ruled that the act passed by the Legislature of Alberta to provide an ultimate heir of lands and next of kin of intestate persons is ultra vires. The act provides, among other things, that the University of Alberta will be entitled to succeed to property of an intestate in default of all other persons entitled thereto.

Burns Wife's Clothes So She Can't Leave Home

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa, Feb. 1 (United News).—Mrs. W. D. Merveaux of Iowa City had her husband arrested yesterday because, she claimed, he forced her at the point of a gun to disrobe. She charged that he burned every stitch of her wardrobe and that she could not even leave the house to make a complaint. She waved a bed blanket out of the window, she said, attracting the neighbors. With borrowed clothes she went to police headquarters and swore out a warrant, charging him with assault and intent to do bodily harm.

Collar Stud Useless in New Style Shirt

LONDON, Feb. 1.—A woman claims she has invented a shirt which eliminates the ancient sport of hunting for a collar button under the bureau. Her system of buttons at the front and back of the neckband is made so that the collar fastens under the neckband. The idea came to her while she was playing cards and watching her son fiddling with a loose collar.

"I wondered why it was necessary for the man to waste so much time and breath swearing over collar buttons in the mornings," says Mrs. L. Eden, who wants to gain Paradise by curbing swearing over lost buttons.

WOMAN FINED FOR BREACH OF CITY BY-LAW

Mrs. Agnes Morgan To Pay $5.00 and Costs of Court.

WITNESS CALLED.

Could Not Hear Sound of Siren Because of the Strong Wind.

Mrs. Agnes Morgan was fined $5 and costs yesterday by Police Magistrate O. A. Langley for failing to stop before entering a through street. In giving his decision His Worship was of the opinion that the car did not stop before it entered Aylmer Street and hence the defendant had not obeyed the city by-law.

Miss Marion Hutchison was the second witness for the defence. "She was the lady who was accompanying Mrs. Morgan on the day of the accident, and as they approached Aylmer Street at a rate of speed not exceeding 10 miles an hour they saw the stop sign and Mrs. Morgan brought her car to a complete stop," said the witness.

Mr. Kerr — "A number of witnesses have said that the car did not stop, just slowed up."

Witness—"I am perfectly satisfied that it stopped."

Miss Hutchison said that she was looking south on Aylmer as they entered that street, and they saw no fire truck until they were well out onto the street. Mrs. Morgan immediately turned to the right, drove her car up alongside the curb, expecting to see the fire truck go by, but as they looked out the side of their car they saw it crash into the creek.

In the cross-examination by Mr. Wearing the witness said that while stopped at the stop-sign they were unable to see anything coming up Aylmer as the view is obscured here. They could not hear anything coming either as there was a strong wind blowing.

Mr. Kerr, in presenting his case to His Worship, said that the law does not go into force until each particular sign is approved by the Department. "That this sign is one of the signs erected by the city there is no proof," said Mr. Kerr. The evidence of the prosecution is that the car did not stop, and that of the two defence witnesses is that they stopped. The stopping only has to be momentarily in order that the by-law may be complied with. This stop would easily not be noticed by the onlookers as they were trying to watch two cars that might collide. One was moving fast and the other coming very slowly. The young women should be in a better position to judge, and they are swearing as to what they know they did and the others are swearing to what they did not see them do.

Mr. Wearing, in presenting his case, thought Mr. Kerr was treading on very thin ice when he uses the word momentarily, for the Act says that the vehicle must be brought to a full stop. A full stop, claimed Mr. Wearing, would be such as people would see it. Three witnesses say the car did not stop, and in their evidence they corroborate each other. In closing, Mr. Wearing submitted that the defendants shifted their gears, and this is what they called a momentary stop. The costs of the case amounted to $13.95, and it is expected no civil action will follow.

FEWER UNEMPLOYED.

Jan. 24 Figures For Great Britain Show Large Decrease.

LONDON, Feb. 2 (United News) —Unemployment in Great Britain numbered 1,348,700 on January 24, it has been officially announced. This number was 42,318 fewer than during the previous week but 147,000 more than during the corresponding week of last year.

THE WEATHER

This is Candlemas Day, a church feast day instituted in A.D. 492, in commemoration of the presentation of Christ in the Temple. It is perhaps better known to most people as the day on which the bear comes forth to see if spring is near, or not. He could easily see his shadow today and therefore has gone back to sleep for another six weeks. This legend is centuries old, and it is a curious fact that the idea is prevalent in every country where there is a winter season. With some the animal is a ground hog, in others a fox, while in Poland it is a certain strong-smelling creature which it is not polite to name in respectable company.—W. P.

Judge Beats Wife Beater When Jail Fails To Cure

AKRON, Ohio, Feb. 2 (United News)—When repeated jail sentences failed to cure John Caves of beating his wife, Judge E. E. Zesiger resorted to the Mosaic law of "an eye for an eye."

Stepping down from his bench the Judge led Caves into a corner and gave him a sound thrashing with a rubber hose.

Judge Zesiger then dismissed all outstanding charges against the defendant and sent him home to his wife.

PROGRESS SLOW IN MAP MAKING

President of Surveyors Says It Will Take 70 Years To Explore North.

URGES SPEED.

OTTAWA, Feb. 2 (Canadian Press).—"At the present rate of progress it will take seventy years to explore Canada's rich northland to the extent of showing its principal features on our maps," Frank B. Henderson, D.L.S., President of the Dominion Land Surveyors' Association, told the convention here today. In the address he urged the Dominion Land Surveyors, "who had made possible the orderly settlement of the fertile wheat lands of Western Canada, to use the utmost efforts to speed up colonization of the almost totally unexplored and unexploited hinterlands of Canada." The first requisite to development, Mr. Henderson pointed out, is adequate maps. He quoted the fact that recent mapping operations showed within a radius of 35 miles of one Northern Ontario town there are 1,800 lakes. "How is man ever to penetrate such a country without maps?" he asked.

BANQUET GIVEN SCOUTS AT "Y"

Charters of Membership Presented Scoutmasters G. H. Roper and A. Corbett.

VISITING SPEAKER.

At an enthusiastic banquet and meeting of the Boy Scouts' Association of Peterborough, held in the Y.M.C.A. last night, F. C. Irwin of Toronto, assistant Provincial Commissioner, presented two charters of membership issued by the Canadian General Council to Scoutmasters G. H. Roper and Clarence A. Corbett, of the Third and Fourth Peterborough Troops respectively.

Assistant Scoutmaster F. Taylor of the Third Troop also received from the hands of Mr. Irwin a handsomely bound volume of "The Scout," which was presented by the members of the Wolf and Hound Patrols to their troop for their library.

Mr. Irwin stated that while in Owen Sound last week he had visited the troop formerly presided over by Dr. G. Murray Fraser, now Peterborough's District Scoutmaster. "They had," he said, "informed him that he must take back an expression of their sentiment and good feeling towards their former Scoutmaster in the nature of three cheers." "Mr. Irwin, feeling unable," he said, "to do full justice to the sentiments expressed alone, called on the boys present to help him out." The spontaneous outburst when he called for the cheers indicated that Dr. Fraser had earned for himself a reputation with the Peterborough boys as well as those in Owen Sound.

Mr. Irwin, in a brief address, told the boys a story based on the experiences of three boys in Denmark some 600 years ago, bringing out what the real scouting spirit meant to boys. "Far greater than money," he declared, "was the knowledge gained and the perseverance shown in attempting to achieve the better things in life. Happy service for others was the great thing to be strived for," he said. Every boy has the opportunity, but some use them while others throw the chance away.

Patrol Leader Gordon Roper of the Third Troop was presented with the second-class badge and the artists' badge, he having passed the prescribed tests.

Members of the local executive were present as follows: J. J. Turner, District Commissioner; Dr. G. Murray Fraser, District Scoutmaster; F. J. A. Morris, treasurer of the local association; A. Hope, Cubmaster of the local pack; Scoutmaster G. H. Roper, Scoutmaster Clarence A. Corbett, Assistant Scoutmaster F. Taylor and Joseph John.

REPORT SHOWS LARGE DECREASE SCHOOL EXPENSE

Operation Costs For City Schools $3,000 Less For 1927.

ATTENDANCE LOW.

First Aid Appliances To Be Installed in Manual Training Departments.

The Board of Education will require $3,000 less than last year to operate the schools of the city. The Public School estimates are $1900 higher than last year's but the Collegiate will require $4900 less. The total reguired is $220,600.

Last night's meeting was taken up principally with the hearing of reports submitted by the various officials outlining the activities of their departments during the past year.

It was also decided that first aid appliances and fire extinguishers should be put in the wood working shops in the schools.

The attendance report for January show a very low average in two schools, due to a great many of the pupils being absent from illness.

The figures follow:

	On roll	Av.	P. C.
Collegiate Institute	581	555	96
Prince of Wales	604	569	94
King Edward	495	447	90
Central	475	449	94
Queen Mary	467	421	90
Queen Alexandra	392	373	95
King George	355	328	92
South Central	57	53	93

Public School Inspector A. Mowat submitted his annual report on the Public Schools of the city as follows:

1. The Teaching Staff.

The teaching staff comprises 77 class-room teachers and 4 special teachers. Of these 15 are men and 66 are women.

The members of the staff are all regularly qualified. Four are University graduates, 18 hold First class certificates, 5 have Kindergarten Primary certificates, and the rest hold Second class certificates.

A large percentage of the staff is either pursuing University courses or is completing the work required for First class certificates.

During the year four teachers resigned. Of these one resigned to get married, one to attend college, one to enter business, and one on account of illness.

I am pleased to report that on the whole, the teaching staff is efficient and doing work of a high order.

The supply of teachers is now such that the Board is enabled to secure the services of those of the highest qualifications, ability and skill.

2. School Registration and Attendance.

The Public School population has remained practically stationary for the past five years.

There was a slight increase in the average attendance during the year 1926.

The regularity of attendance during the year was exceptionally good. In no month during the year did the average fall below 93 per cent., and in some months it reached as high as 95 per cent. This was rendered possible by the absence of epidemics of any kind.

The number of pupils enrolled in the various schools during the year was as follows:

Prince of Wales	718
King Edward	562
Queen Mary	558
Central	547
Queen Alexandra	446
King George	428
South Central	99

3. Accommodation and Equipment.

The condition of the school buildings and the grounds is very satisfactory. Repairs, sanitary arrangements and improvements to the playgrounds have all received careful attention.

There has been little or no overcrowding in any of the schools.

4. Physical Training.

The physical training of the school children constitutes an important part of the school curriculum.

Regular exercises are given daily in the class-rooms. These are supplemented by supervised games on the playgrounds for both boys and girls.

A flourishing Cadet Corps at each school supplements the training for the boys.

At the annual inspection for 1926, the Denne Cup was awarded to the Queen Alexandra School by the inspecting officer.

5. Teaching and Progress of the Pupils.

A noticeable trend in present day teaching is that the teachers are presenting new lessons with greater care. Greater interest, on the part of the teachers, in the individual pupil is also manfest. The formation of the reading habit on the part of the pupils is also receiving much attention. This is being fostered by regular study periods.

Progress is being made in accuracy but this is a difficult habit to

Patient "Tuned In" Forgets Operation

CHICAGO, Feb. 2 (Associated Press):—Radio is being used successfully to banish fear in operations where only a local anaesthetic is used, Louis Curtis, vice-president of the board of St. Luke's Hospital, said in making public the result of recent tests there.

Radio music, he said, has been found valuable in distracting the patient's attention from the operation and thus averting the mental shock in cases where only a local anaesthetic can be administered because of a weak heart or other physical complications.

DAYLIGHT THIEF IS ACTIVE AGAIN

Robs Theatre and Two Stores in Downtown Part of Toronto.

MAKES ESCAPE.

TORONTO, Feb. 2.—Emboldened no doubt by the success of the desperadoes who held up William H. Johnston, manager of the Oakland Dairy, Nassau Street, at Nassau and Lippincott Streets, on Monday afternoon, a lone thug, from 3.30 yesterday afternoon to 8 o'clock last night, held up no less than three local places of business—the Tivoli Theatre, Richmond and Victoria Streets, where he stole $8.70; an orange juice shop at 338 Bay Street, where he got $33, and the Laura Secord candy shop, 389 Bay Street, which contributed a little over $60 to his coffers. In neither instance could the woman victims of the robberies say that the thug was armed. The only hint of a weapon was contained in the way the man held his coat, with his right hand in the pocket and the whole directed toward the victim.

The Secord depredation was accomplished in full view of half a dozen soldiers from Stanley Barracks. The robber, a swarthy, dirty looking man, clad in a shabby brown coat and Fedora hat, pulled low over his eyes, walked into the shop, and bluntly ordered Miss Rose St. Onge, of Bloor Street West, the saleswoman, to hand over the contents of the cash register. With one frightened glance at the uplifted pocket with which the fellow intimidated her, Miss St. Onge turned to the register at her back, opened it, and grabbing a handful of bills, handed them over. Two other persons who were in the store at the time, a man and a woman, were also held up by the desperado. Their contributions totalled $4. His work completed, the robber backed to the door, still threatening with the uplifted arm, passed through the soldiers and the other astounded citizens, then walked coolly north on Bay Street to Queen Street.

Newsboys Give Chase.

Samuel Dacks, Borden Street, a newsboy, who was a witness of the Tivoli robbery in the afternoon, saw the whole episode. He was selling newspapers at Bay and Queen Streets at the time. As the man approached him, Dacks, along with a chum, Solly Applebaum, 6 Kensington Avenue, endeavored to capture him by making a running tackle at the fellow's lower limbs. But the thug eluded them and took to his heels. They went in pursuit east on Queen Street. At the Woolworth store the man turned north at a dog trot. On gaining Shuter and Yonge Streets, the newsboys say, the robber jumped into a motor car, evidently in wait for him there, and got away.

REPORTED BREAK IN NEGOTIATIONS NOT CONFIRMED

London Papers Advise Discount of Rumors—Blame Soviets.

URGE SEVERANCE.

Break of Diplomatic Relations With Russia Would Have Good Effect.

LONDON, Feb. 2. Canadian Press. Canadian Press. — As British transports are steaming into Chinese waters with troops to protect the property and lives of British Nationals and others, who may be endangered, a report has reached London from Hankow that the Cantonese Foreign Minister Eugene Chen, announced he would sign no agreement with the British while their forces are concentrating on Shanghai. The report of the rupture of negotiations at Hankow betwen Chen and the British Charge d'Affairs, O'Malley, has not been confirmed in official quarters, nevertheless it is given much attention by the newspapers, together with the action of the Peking government in dismissing Sir Francis Aglen as Inspector General of the Chinese Maritime Customs.

Assuming that it is true that Chen has broken off negotiations, the Times thinks the step is due to the influence of Michael Borodin, of Russia, "acting in consultation with Bolshevist conspirators, who are employing the Chinese national movement for their own purposes."

The Daily Mail calls for the immediate severance of British diplomatic relations with Russia, arguing that this would have an instantaneous effect in the Far East.

TROUBLE WITH BILLETING

SHANGHAI, Feb. 2. Canadian Press. — British authorities preparing accommodation here for the expeditionary forces in the present trouble, to-day encountered a difficulty when they were reminded that the Shanghai foreign settlement is purely British.

It was understood that this development led to the advisability of diverting portions of the expeditionary force to Hong Kong and Weihaiwei, a British settlement 400 miles north of here, where they would be held in readiness.

The change in the British plans was due to opposition from non-British members of the Shanghai municipal council, which supervises the foreign settlement, it is understood.

LONDON, Feb. 2. United Press. —League of Nations intervention in the Chinese controversy will be resented by the South Chinese Nationalists, Viscount Grey of Fallodon believes.

"The League should not be brought into the Chinese question," said Englands veteran authority on the international body at Geneva.

"In the first place the Chinese are engaged in a civil war, which is the sort of dispute from which the league is intended to remain aloof. In the second place, the Chinese Nationalist party has been considerably influenced by the Soviet, which is hostile to the League.

"For that reason invocation of the Leagues' assistance at this time would be construed by the Nationalists and their Soviet advisors as a hostile gesture and a challenge."

THE GROUNDHOG SEES HIS SHADOW!

OLD MASTERS

O Captain! my Captain! our fearful trip is done,
The ship has weather'd every rack, the prize we sought is won,
The port is near, the bells I hear, the people all exulting,
While follow eyes the steady keel, the vessel grim and daring,
But O heart! heart! heart!
O the bleeding drops of red!
Where on the deck my Captain lies,
Fallen cold and dead.

O Captain! my Captain! rise up and hear the bells;
Rise up—for you the flag is flung—for you the bugle trills,
For you bouquets and ribbon'd wreaths—for you the shores a-crowding,
For you they call, the swaying mass, their eager faces turning;
Here Captain! dear father!
This arm beneath your head!
It is some dream that on the deck
You've fallen cold and dead.

My Captain does not answer, his lips are pale and still,
My father does not feel my arm, he has no pulse nor will;
The ship is anchor'd safe and sound, its voyage closed and done,
From fearful trip the victor ship comes in with object won;
Exult, O shores, and ring, O bells!
But I with mournful tread,
Walk the deck my Captain lies,
Fallen cold and dead.

—W. Whitman: O Captain! My Captain!

Few Major Measures Forecast In Speech For Coming Session

Legislation To Give Effect To Change in Control of Sale of Liquor Most Important Mentioned—Brilliant Assembly Hears Governor Speak.

INCOME AND AMUSEMENT TAX CHANGES TO BE PUT THROUGH

Speech Notes Improvement In Butter Due to Cream Grading and General Success of Agriculture—Travelling Schools Commended.

TORONTO, Feb. 2 (Canadian Press).—Comparatively little major legislation apart from the Government Control Bill, was forecast in the Speech from the Throne read by His Honor Lieutenant-Governor W. D. Ross at the formal opening of the Seventeenth Session of the Ontario Legislative Assembly.

W. D. Black, M.L.A. for Addington, was duly elected Speaker, on nomination of Premier Ferguson, and the House adjourned for the Speaker's reception after conclusion of the ceremonies. The floor and galleries of the Chamber were crowded with a brilliant assemblange. It was remarked that there was a new Legislature with a new Lieutenant-Governor, a new Speaker, and a new Clerk of the House (A. C. Lewis, former M.L.A. for Toronto East.

The most important part of the document to which the brilliant and crowded assembly listened, was the following paragraph:

Legislation will be introduced to recognize and give effect to the expressed desire of the people of the province for an improvement in the method of control and administration of the sale of liquor.

Among other measures which will be submitted to the Legislature are:

A bill to increase the exemption of income under the assessment law;

NEW PRODUCT IS PREPARED BY BIG PETERBOROUGH FIRM

Quaker Oats Company Capitalize Canada's Wheat in the Manufacture of Quker Cake Flour — United States' Wheat Formerly Held Monopoly.

MANY TESTS PROVE HIGH CAKE QUALITY; REPUTATION OF COMPANY IS WARRANTY

Consistent with their reputation for being to the forefront in everything pertaining to the milling business, the local Quaker Oats Company has just put on the market a new package known as Quaker Cake Flour.

Heretofore it had been thought that only certain grades of soft wheat grown in limited sections of the United States would produce delicate cake flour. The Quaker Oats Company, however, believing that our own good wheat grown in Ontario could be so milled as to produce a flour for cakes second to none, has been experimenting along this line for over a year, and now in offering Quaker Cake Flour stake their reputation that it is the finest and easiest handled cake flour on the market.

The flour used is made from selected Ontario white wheat and ground specially by the most modern machinery. Due to the high quality necessary for this new cake flour, for every one hundred pounds of wheat ground less than twenty-five pounds of cake flour are obtained.

With this fine Ontario wheat flour there is then mixed a small portion of patent potato flour, as, from experiments carefully made, the company found that this gives the final touch of perfection for cake flour purposes. The addition of the potato flour also adds to the keeping qualities of any cake.

Throughout the continuous experiments made, Quaker Cake Flour was continually tested by experts in domestic science and as a result they have become enthusiastic advertisers of this new product.

The flour has been subjected to the most severe tests under all practical baking conditions—recipes for its use printed on the package are eminently practical and simple, but Quaker Cake Flour can readily be used in any home recipe for cake baking.

This package is now being first offered to the people of Peterborough in the local stores. It is a local product, an Ontario product, and all Canadian made — another Quaker product that will add to Peterborough's fame as the home of The Quaker Oats Company, the world's largest cereal millers.

A tasteful exhibit of Quaker Cake Flour is arranged in The Examiner Office window.

DUKE OF YORK DUCKED TO-DAY

Initiated As Sea Dog When Renown Crosses Equator.

MANY NOVICES.

H. M. S. RENOWN, Feb. 2:—(Wireless to the Associated Press.) The Duke of York, King George's second son, now can properly call himself an old sea dog. He was, with his Duchess, duly initiated into King Neptunes kingdom to-day as the Renown crossed the equator in the Pacific en route to Australia.

The Duchess escaped the ducking, which is a traditional part of the ceremony, but her royal spouse was chucked into a big canvas bath where the "Bears" soused him mercilessly. He emerged smilingly, as did his brother, the Prince of Wales, on a similar occasion. Before the ducking, the Duke was well lathered and shaved with a big wooden razor.

The ceremonies were carried out with exaggerated pomp and in elaborate costumes. A thousand other novices (those crossing the equator for the first time) were initiated, and it required half the day to duck them all.

CANTEEN FUNDS BOARD MEETING

To Approve Arrangement For Investment in Ontario Bonds.

DISPOSAL DISCUSSED.

TORONTO, Feb. 2 (Canadian Press).—Deliberations of interest to all veterans of the Great War are under way at the Parliament Buildings, where the canteen fund committee is in session formally approving the arrangement made with the Province of Ontario for investment of the fund of some nine hundred and fifty thousand dollars in a manner that will permit the return of adequate interest and ensure safety.

The money will be invested in a Provincial Government bond issue bearing interest at five per cent., which means that the fund will be enriched each year by forty-seven thousand five hundred in interest.

In considering the disposal of the monies invested, the committee will be governed by the Canteen Fund Act, which states that any plans formulated should be based on the assumption that there shall be beneficiaries for some years to come; that any cases of relief should be limited to cases where there is no other form of relief provided for; and if provision is made for scholarships in schools for children of soldiers they should not be confined necessarily to the higher grades. The Board is now engaged in reviewing and considering various suggestions received from returned men as to the disposition of the fund.

POLITICAL FUND INQUIRY PASSED BY B.C. HOUSE

Royal Commission Lost By One Vote After Long Debate.

MEMBERS APPOINTED.

Control of Campaign Contributions, Federal and Provincial Also Involved.

VICTORIA, B. C., Feb. 2. Canadian Press. — The government amendment to the motion of F. A. Browne, Labor, Burnaby, for a royal commission to enquire into liquor campaign fund contributions, passed the legislature Monday following a prolonged sitting, by a vote of 21 to 20. The government amendment calls for the appointment of a select committe of the legislature to investigate and report on what action should be taken in connection with the campaign funds situation.

The vote followed a debate that lasted for two hours and a half. It took three divisions to go through the ritual of striking out the Browne motion for a royal commission, adding Attorney-General A. M. Manson's amendment for a select committee and carrying the amended resolution. On all three the vote was the same, 20 to 21.

Five Members.

As a result of the vote, the house appointed five of its members, Brig.-General V. W. Odlum, Dr. H. C. Wrinch, Dugald McPherson, Liberals; W. A. McKenzie, Conservative, and R. H. Neelands, Labor, to examine a transcript of the evidence taken before the federal customs inquiry commission and make recommendations to the House. The resolution also commits the house to enacting legislation to control the collection of campaign funds, federal and provincial, within the province. The committee has power to take evidence under oath.

The announcement was made by R. H. Pooley, Conservative house leader, that his following were not prepared to appoint their own judges in the matter, and declared before the debate concluded that none of them would act on the select committee were the amendment of the government carried. Mr. Neelands while opposing the amendment, said that if the amendment carried, he would assume his duties as one of the select committee named in the resolution and act.

Thomas Uphill, Independent, Fernie, said he had not a great deal of use for royal commissions. He alluded to the one apointed to inquire into the customs laws and which he claimed, so far as he himself, could see, had been turned into a prohibition commission.

OLD MASTERS

So fallen! so lost; the light withdrawn
Which once he wore!
The glory from his gray hair gone
Forevermore!

Revile him not, the Tempter hath
A snare for all;
And pitying tears, not scorn and wrath
Befit his fall!

Oh, dumb be passion's stormy rage,
When he who might have lighted up and led his age,
Falls back in night.

Let not the land once proud of him
Insult him now,
Nor brand with deeper shame his dim,
Dishonored brow.

Then pay the reverence of old days
To his dead fame;
Walk backward, with averted gaze,
And hide the shame!

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

IT'S UP TO ME

I have my toil, I have my task,
I have a duty, mine to do,
And strength and courage it will ask
To plan it well, and see it through.
And I may talk of handicaps,
Of luck, of opportunity.
Of competition, too, perhaps—
But, after all, it's up to me.

I have a life I have to live,
To live it well or live it ill.
But not the aid that others give
Will ever get me up the hill.
It's well to pray for help divine,
But better yet divine to be;
For, after all, this life is mine.
And, good or bad, it's up to me.

I have my trouble; men have theirs;
My brother his, and I my own,
And ev'ry life has need of pray'rs,
But few will win by pray'r alone.
It's up to me just how it ends,
Whatever end the end may be—
Not up to God, not up to friends,
Not up to luck, but up to me!

Naval Construction For Canada Forecast

LONDON, Feb. 2 (Canadian Press Service). — The London editor of The Glasgow Herald, in yesterday's issue, intimates that Premier Mackenzie King will probably submit in parliament shortly what would be, for Canada, an elaborate program of naval development. The speeches of Premier S. M. Bruce, of Australia, and Premier J. G. Coates, of New Zealand, while they were in Canada, urging the view that Dominions should contribute more to Empire difence did not surprise Premier King, The Herald says, suggesting that Premier King welcomed them as paving the way for submission of an enlarged naval program.

STERRY JAILED ON THEFT COUNT

Principal in Blasphemy Case Found Guilty of Stealing $200.

TORONTO, Feb. 2.—Ernest V. Sterry, who has figured in the local police court on a charge of blasphemous libel, was yesterday morning sentenced to four months in the Ontario reformatory for the theft of $200 from a Chinaman.

Sterry declined to take the oath, but "affirmed" that he would tell the truth. The magistrate, however, thought the Chinaman's story more believable and registered a conviction. The sentence is for four months, to be followed by an indeterminate sentence not exceeding six months.

Lionel Cross, a colored lawyer acting for Sterry, was most astonished at the result, and said the charge dated back to 1924 and had not been pressed until the blasphemy charge had been laid.

REPORTED BREAK

Daily Telegraph, to-day cables the following statement attributed to Hon. E. G. Theodore, Labor candidate in the Dalley by-election.

"Australia cannot afford to be embroiled in England's continental manoeuvres. Let her mind her own business. Leave England to deal with her own troubles, and her neighbors without involving Australia who could exert no real influence in European diplomacy. Nothing could be more mischievous than the Federal government contemplating intervention by Australia in China."

CABINET TO MEET.

LONDON, Feb. 2 Canadian Press —The British cabinet was called into session early this afternoon to consider what the newspapers term the "grave" reports from China. The foreign office, in a published statement, insists that the negotiations with the Cantonese at Hankow have not broken down but admits that foreign minister Chen's action in raising the question of the despatch of their military forces to Shanghai, has ruined the prospect of an early signature of the draft agreement negotiated by Chen and the British Charge D'Affaires, Owen O'Malley.

This agreement would provide for the settlement of recent incidents in Hankow and Kiukiang in which the British concesions were stormed by anti-foreign mobs.

FIGHT REDUCTION.

Bituminous Workers Will Be Directed To Oppose Cut.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Feb. 2. — (United Press).—Representatives of the miners in the forthcoming joint wage conference with the bituminous coal operators will bear instructions to reject any proposal for a reduction in wages, it was learned yesterday.

A definite stand against any cut in the basic pay of $7.50 per day, under the present Jacksonville wage agreement, has been decided on by the wage scale committee of the United Mine Workers' convention. The report of the committee will be given by Harry Fishwick, Springfield, Ill., to-day.

NORTH ON MARCH AGAINST SOUTH

Cantonese Mustering Their Forces For Defensive Against War Lords.

DAWNING NEW YEAR.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 2 (Can. Press). —China's new year, which dawned yesterday, was marked by a revival of military activity that threatened to make the coming twelve months as sanguinary as those just past.

Reports from Chekiang province show that the Cantonese Government has six divisions of troops strongly based on Chuchow, near the frontier of Kiangsi province. Fighting is known to have taken place on this front. The centre of the force of Marshal Sun Chuan Fang, battling to uphold his supremacy in Eastern China, retreated northward to Yen Chow.

Simultaneously, heavy movements by the troops of the Cantonese and Peking governments presaged a new phase in the campaign in Honan province, where the alliance of northern war loads established its lines as a barrier to the advance of the Cantonese toward Peking. The Manchurians, commanded by Chang Hsueh - Liang, son of Chang Tso-lin, who leads the northern alliance, continue to pour into the province to unite their strength with that of Marshal Wu Pei-Fu. Wu is mustering his forces to regain his Central China provinces, which he lost when he was forced out of Hankow by the Cantonese last August.

The Cantonese are mustering their forces to meet the war machine rolling down from the north. They are engaged in wholesale commandeering of foreign registered ships on the upper Yangtse River to move their troops from Ichang and other points to Hankow. Japanese, Italian, French and Swedish steamers were impressed into this service.

The southerners tried to take over the United States vessel Chechuen, but official representations to Nationalist authorities caused them to order the troops removed.

FEW MAJOR MEASURES, ETC.

Measures regarding the amusement Tax Act;

Legislation to further the interests of agriculture;

Measures to amend the Marriage Act;

Revision and consolidation of a number of existing laws.

The Speech noted that, despite the unusual weather conditions, the results from agriculture last year closely approximated the average yield. The inauguration of the grading of cream has brought about a gratifying improvement in the quality of the commercial make of butter. Plans which were put into effect during the past year for the placing of British boys on Ontario farms were said to warrant a material expansion of the project in the near future.

In connection with sessional matters, the Speech announced that the Government was pursuing a policy of providing increased facilities for advanced courses of instruction at local centres, the aim being to place the benefits of higher education within the reach of all. The plan recently inaugurated by which pupils in remote settlements are being given primary instruction for the first time by means of travelling schools has been markedly successful and will be extended as required to cover all districts not at present served with schools. Hope was expressed that the inquiry into certain schools attended by French-speaking pupils will be concluded this year.

The speech adds: "A measure of progress has been made in the preliminary steps for the development of the powers of the St. Lawrence River in international waters. As this power will not be available, under the most favorable circumstances, in time to meet the immediately approaching needs of the province, the Hydro-Electric Power Commission has entered into agreements to secure a supply of electrical energy from the Gatineau River. Furthermore, my Ministers and commission have conferred with the Government of Quebec with a view to utilization of the powers of the Ottawa River in inter-provincial waters."

Take Over More Roads.

Dealing with highways, it was announced that it is proposed to take over from the counties five hundred miles of roads and bring them up to the provincial standard. Reorganization of the county road systems would effect a marked improvement in the construction and maintenance of local avenues of traffic while the reduction of fees for motor licenses would afford an appreciable measure of relief to the public.

The speech also stated that negotiations were in progress for acquiring additional lands in the vicinity of Queen's Park from the University of Toronto for the purpose of controlling property that will eventually be needed for the increasing legislative, departmental, and educational requirements of the province.

Among numerous other matters with which the speech dealt were that noted improvements "continues to mark the administration of the provincial finances and that through the instrumentality of the Boys' Training School at Bowmanville, youths who were in danger of becoming problems to the community owing to lack of discipline and training were now qualifying for useful careers.

Rebel Leader Flees As 35 Moros Die In Fight With the Beseigers After Princess Quits Fort

MANILA, Feb. 2 (A.P.).—Thirty-five Moros were killed and an undetermined number injured at dawn Monday by Philippine constabularly under Colonel Luther B. Stevens of the Island of Jolo.

Attempts to end the Moro uprising peacefully having failed, the constabulary attacked Datu Tahill's fortress with tear gas and rifles. The fighting was continued for several hours, says a dispatch to The Manila Daily Bulletin from Zamboanga.

The Moro resistance proving futile, Tahill, as on the last occasion when he resisted Government forces, fled, leaving his 200 followers to carry on the fight and take their punishment.

The Sultan of Sulu and Hadji Butu, a prominent Moro chieftain, went to Tahil's fort Monday and tried with success to persuade him to surrender. They succeeded, however, in taking out of the fort the Princess Tarhata Kiram before the fighting began.

The Princess, who formerly attended the University of Illinois, became wife No. 4 of Tahil, and for more than a week immured herself in his fort. This delayed the assault upon the fort, the constabulary fearing that she might be killed in the fighting.

WILL ADJOURN ALBERTA CASE

Autonomy Act Hearing on Education Will Be Postponed.

CASE NOT COMPLETE.

OTTAWA, Feb. 2. — When the question of the constitutionality of the Autonomy Act in reference to education in Alberta comes before the Supreme Court to-day, it is not intended to proceed with it at once. The intimation is that the case will likely be deferred until a later stage of the present sitting of the court. The case for the province, it is said, is not quite complete.

At the opening of the February sittings yesterday the case under review was a reference by the Government to determine the question whether gold and silver in the Hudson Bay lands are still the property of the company or were included in the surrender of the lands. If they were surrendered, the question arises as to whether the company is entitled to these precious metals in the lands which were substituted for the original grant.

form and there is yet much room for improvement in this regard.

The progress of the pupils throughout the year was satisfactory. A large class entered the Collegiate, and a larger percentage than heretofore is enrolled in Book 4.

6. The Adolescent Act.

While the Adolescent Act has not been rigidly enforced in Peterborough yet reasonable supervision over adolescents under 16 years of age has been maintained.

Three main difficulties have met the Attendance Officer. Economic needs in some families have necessitated the help of children between 14 and 16; a few others are mentally unfit to profit by further study; and in other cases no suitable courses of study were available for them.

These difficulties were met and dealt with in a reasonable and satisfactory way by the Attendance Officer.

7. Household Science and Manual Training.

The work in the Household Science and Manual Training Departemnts increased during the year owing to the increase in the number of Book IV Classes.

The Provincial Inspector has already reported favorably upon the work being done in these Departments.

These subjects of study among other things teach the students how to use their hands, and good working habits are developed. The value of these subjects is fully appreciated by the majority of parents.

Sewing for the girls of Books II and III is being supervised by Miss Kendall of the Collegiate Staff.

The display of Public School and Collegiate Sewing at the Fall Exhibition showed the scope and practical value of the work.

8. Art and Music.

Art and Music have taken a firm hold on the pupils and their study is looked forward to with enthusiasm and pleasure.

The work in these Departments is being carried on by the teachers with increasing interest under the careful supervision of Miss McRae and Miss Rannie.

CANTON GENERAL.

MONCTON MAN KILLED IN CRASH NEAR SPRINGHILL

Seventeen Hurt When Two C. N. R. Passenger Trains Collide

ON PASSING TRACK.

Two Huge New Locomotives Smashed, One Being Turned Over.

MONTREAL, Feb. 1. Canadian Press. — Donald Carruthers of Moncton, N. B., was killed, and 17 persons injured as a result of a train collision at Thompson's Siding, on the Springhill, N. S., sub-division of the Canadian National Railways, at 6.50 o'clock yesterday evening. The trains involved were the eastbound Ocean Limited, which left Montreal at 7 o'clock on Sunday evening, and the westbound Maritime Express which left Halifax at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Details as to the accident continue meagre due to wire transmission troubles in the vicinity of the wreck, but from information furnished by the head offices of the railways here last night it is established that the collision occurred on a passing track and that the Maritime Express crashed into the Limited, which was standing stationary on the side track waiting on the express to pass.

The shock of the impact smashed both of the powerful locomotives, which were of the new 6000 type, while the leading cars of both trains were also reduced to ruins. One of the engines was turned completely on its side.

Doctors on the Scene.

As soon as word of the wreck could be got out a special train with doctors and nurses was rushed from Amherst and auxiliary trains were despatched from Stellarton and Moncton.

Several of the injured sustained serious hurts, notably F. H. Jacques, and Dan McNeil of Halifax.

Clarence MacDonald of Moncton fireman on the express, and Engineer R. E. Linden, both of Moncton, were scalded and bruised, while like injuries were suffered by Engineer Willard Rushton of Moncton, who was on the Limited.

GENERAL DUNCAN SAILS FOR CHINA

Expresses Conviction Before Sailing That No Trouble Will Arise.

COMMAND FORCES.

LONDON, Feb. 2 (Canadian Press)—Bound for China with Major General John Duncan, who will command the land forces in the Far East, aboard, the Megantic departed from Malta yesterday after embarking two battalions, with auxiliaries, medical forces and nurses.

Other transports are steaming for China, which would seem to indicate that the British government will carry through its original plan to assemble adequate ships and troops in the disturbed area of China to protect British nationals and other foreign residents.

As the Megantic passed through a line of battleships glittering with lights, the crews manned the sides and there was great cheering and singing of "Shanghai" and "Auld Lang Syne."

Before his departure, General Duncan is quoted in dispatches from Malta as expressing the conviction that no trouble would arise.

Disturbing word from China reached London yesterday, seemingly showing that the negotiations looking to a settlement of the whole Chinese problem were not going smoothly either at Peking or Hankow.

The dismissal of Sir Francis Aglin, Inspector-General of the Chinese maritime customs, by the Peking Government Monday, though not considered in official quarters in London as a matter of grave importance, is yet embarrassing as a further manifestation of the antagonistic spirit of Peking. The British customs Inspector-General, who was an appointee of the Peking Government, declined to collect surtaxes, offering the technical objection that he was not entitled to collect them until all the treaty Powers had consented.

Negotiations Broken

Hankow dispatches report that the British Charge, Owen O'Malley, and the Cantonese Foreign Minister, Eugene Chen, had broken off negotiations, but no explanation of the reason for this, or even confirmation, was to be obtained from official quarters here. Latest reports received, it was stated, were that the negotiations were still going smoothly.

The Chinese Legation took occasion yesterday to deny a report that the Chinese Minister to Great Britain had been recalled. The British government has Peking's protest not on British military measures under consideration, but no decisive action has been taken yet.

CAVAN NEWS

CAVAN, Feb. 2.—Mrs. Floyd McMahon, Eighth line, is very ill at the home of her mother, Mrs. L. Morton, Millbrook. Her friends hope for a speedy recovery.

A meeting of a committee of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. D. J. Hunter on Wednesday evening to make arrangements for the "old-time" party to be held in Cavan Community Hall on Friday evening, Feb. 4.

On Wednesday evening, Jan. 26, Mr. and Mrs. David Patton, Zion line, Cavan, celebrated their china wedding. Their friends and neighbors presented them with a set of china dishes and an eight-day clock. A pleasant time was enjoyed.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Bigelow and little daughter, Elinor, are in Florida.

Miss McCullough has resumed her duties as teacher at Buckwood School. Miss Muriel Matchett substituted for three weeks while the former was ill.

Feathers and Flowers To Adorn Hats Again

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—Return of flowers and feathers to women's hats is predicted by milliners, who hold their fashion pageant at the Hotel Astor to-day.

The pageant is sponsored by the Millinery Research Alliance and the Retail Millinery Association, and their "hat consciousness committee."

An advance view of the models bears out the prediction. Flowers, large and small, and even the once-cherished drooping plume, appear in controlled profusion. Picture hats, with flowers faintly shadowed on the horsehair brim, and toques of tightly-packed violets suggest a return to the days when feminine charm was the keynote of dress.

U. S. TO PROTECT RIGHTS IN CHINA

Move 1,200 Marines Closer as a Precautionary Measure.

AWAIT AGREEMENT.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (Canadian Press). — Sailing orders under which 1,200 United States Marines now at San Diego, Calif., will be moved closed to China, as a precautionary measure, coincided yesterday with disclosure that President Coolidge does not anticipate that it will be necessary for United States nationals to be evacuated from Shanghai, although the government is taking all possible precautions to assure them protection or, if necessary, transportation.

The Marines are scheduled to sail Thursday on the transport Chaumont bound for Asiatic stations. It is expected that detachments will be left at Gam to replace Marines ordered from there to Manila. They will be available for use in China if called for by Admiral Williams, commanding United States naval forces in the Orient.

President Coolidge is still awaiting some intimation from China that an agreement can be reached between the warring Chinese factions under which negotiations of new treaties with China can be taken up.

ROSENEATH COUPLE NARROW ESCAPE

Car Broke Through Ice While Crossing Rice Lake Near Keene.

KEENE, Feb. 2 — Mr. and Mrs. Covert of Roseneath had a narrow escape from drowning in Rice Lake early Saturday morning when they ran into a wide crack in the ice throwing them into the icy water. The crack was about fifteen feet wide and instead of the usual heave of the ice it sloped down into the water and Mr. Covert was unable to see it until he was almost into it. Mr. Covert yelled to Mrs. Covert to jump when he saw that he could not miss it and the momentum of the car carried her into the water. Mr. Covert got out himself and had the presence of mind to tear a carpet into strip to make a rope to pull Mrs. Covert out. The crack was closer to the south shore and they eventually got out on the north side and had to walk about four miles to Keene to secure dry clothing. Mr. Earl Thackeray of Roseneath and a local garage man succeeded in getting the car out which was luckily caught on the edge of the ice. The chickens which they were taking to Peterboro market floated down the lake.

FIRE IN HOSPITAL

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Feb. 2 (Canadian Press). — Fire broke out here last night in the University of Michigan Hospital. A general alarm was turned in and police were rushed to the scene to assist in removing patients from the building. Approximately 200 patients were confined in the building.

RECORD TREMORS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2 (Canadian Press).—An earthquake, described by Director Tendorf as "very severe," was recorded yesterday by the Georgetown University seismograph. The tremors began at 1.15 p.m. and continued until 3.30, reaching a maximum between 2.04 and 2.11. The distance was estimated at 7,200 miles from Washington.

BOY HALTS TRAFFIC

LONDON, Feb. 2 — London Bridge wasn't falling down, but it was all tied up when little Danny Riordon, 6, got his head stuck between two railings on the balustrade the other day. It took a strong police force, two fire engines, a motor ambulance, a police tug and auxiliary boats, three doctors, a squad of workmen with scaffolding, hack saws, hammers and cold chisels, etc., to get him out. They even used vaseline. A chisel finally did the work.

REPUTATION OF FORMER ENGLISH PREMIER UPHELD

Lily Langtry Sends Telegram Denouncing Accusations Made By Wright.

DISCUSS "SERAGLIO."

Author Denounced By Counsel as Man of No Word.

LONDON, Feb. 2. — (Canadian Press.)— The good name and reputation of the late William E. Gladstone, England's grand old man, yestreday was vigorously defended in court against intimations in a recent book by Captain Peter Wright that he was a hypocrite in matters of sex.

Lily Langrty, the noted actress, with whose name Captain Wright had linked Gladstone's during his testimony in trial of his libel suit against Lord Gladstone, son of the late prime minister, sent a telegram from Monte Carlo repudiating the "slanderous accusation." The famous actress, who is now Lady De Bathe, broke a silence of many years to defend herself against Captain Wright's statements regarding her friendship for the elder Gladstone.

Before a court room crowded with many notable figures in London's fashionable and legal world, Norman Birkett, counsel for Lord Gladstone, denounced Captain Wright as a man who had shown himself "careless of the pain he might inflict and one whose word on any matter of importance is not worth the slightest credence."

Wincing under the ordeal, Captain Wright said that he was sorry that he had written the passage in his book "Portraits and and Criticisms," casting aspersions on the elder Gladstone's moral character, and that he regretted hurting the feelings of the Gladstone family, but that he could not withdraw what he believed to be the truth.

"What's the use of saying that?" interrupted Justice Avory drily.

Mr. Birkett, defending Lord Gladstone on the charges of calling Capt. Wright a "liar, coward and fool," declared that the captain and not Lord Gladstone was the real libeller "who had libelled the dead."

The meaning of the word "seraglio," which came under discussion at a previous hearing, recurred again yesterday when Mr. Birkett invited Captain Wright to read a passage from Boswell's "Life of Johnson," in which Johnson was cited as jocularly referring to his group of household women as a "seraglio."

Captain Wright said that Boswell might have joked in his use of the word, but that the late Lord Milner, who he cited as once using it with reference to the elder Gladstone, had not.

Later Captain Wright said that he had spoken of the elder Gladstone as one speaks of any great man of the past, like Napoleon. "I had no thought of his family or descendants," he said. Only 900 copies of his book had been sold, he said.

Letters of the noted Russian beauty, Olga Novikoff, to the elder Gladstone were then read in an effort to refute a statement by Captain Wright that she too had been intimate with the late prime minister. One letter said:

"If in free England people cannot correspond without being most vulgarly calumniated, then England is degenerating."

Captain Wright interpreted this as showing that the elder Gladstone was under the absolute subjection of Mme. Novikoff.

Justice Avory ruled that Lord Gladstone's letter to the secretary of the Bath Club, which contained the characterizations on which Captain Wright is basing his libel suit was written on a privileged occasion, but left the question of whether it was actuated by malice for decision by the jury.

Willing Workers Give Cups and Saucers to Their President.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 2—The Willing Workers of Christ church held their weekly meeting in the Parish Hall on Monday evening. There were twenty five ladies present. After the usual business was disposed of a very pleasing duty was performed by the ladies to their president, Mrs. Fred Linton. Mrs. Linton has been a faithful president of the society for several years and has freely given of her time and talent and been foremost in all undertakings of the church. The first vice-president, Miss Jennie Martin, on behalf of the society, presented Mrs. Linton with a handsome set of china cups and saucers, in appreciation of her services. Mrs. Linton was very much surprised and thanked the ladies for their gifts.

Mrs. Lloyd, Mrs. M. West and Miss L. Smith as a committee served lunch, and a social time was enjoyed by all.

In Peterborough Churches

The fifty sixth anniversary services held in Trinity church over the week end, concluded last evening with a fowl supper and concert, and were one of the most successful affairs in the history of the church. The services were well attended on Sunday and last evening's fowl supper was patronized by over five hundred people, who enjoyed the splendid viands provided by those in charge, the choir, and the Young Peoples' Club of the church, with Miss Mabel Clarry, the organist, and Mr. W. Derry, president of the Y. P.S., looking after affairs in general.

On Sunday, the visiting speaker, Rev. R. S. Laidlaw, pastor of Erskine United Church, in Toronto, delivered two inspirational addresses, the morning sermon being based on "The Closed Door," and the evening sermon on "Immortality."

The music was exceptionally good. Miss Pearl Brock, contralto soloist, of Toronto, who is possessed of a rich, full vibrant voice, assisted the choir, which gave a fine account of itself, under the leadership of Miss Clarry. In the morning the anthem was sung, "I Hear a Great Voice," by Cobb, with solos by Miss Brock "The Publican," by Vanderwater and "Jesu! Thou art Standing," and in the evening the anthem Kramer-Spicker's "Hymn to the Saviour" was rendered, with tenor obligato by Mr. Maurice H. Park, and contralto solos by Miss Brock, the "Gloria" by Buzzi-Pecci, and "The Lord is Mindful of His Own."

Last evening a splendid fowl supper was served in the basement of the church, which was decorated tastefully for the occasion with quantities of bright flags, the color scheme for table decorations being carried out in light and dark amber and green, with paper streamers crossing the white cloths, and fringed paper shades of the spring-like colors, over the electroliers. Yellow candles in silver holders and daffodils in black bowls completed a very attractive effect. Ladies in charge of the tables were Mesdames Fife, Bentley, Adams, Kidd, Widdess, Brown, Wolstenholme, Derry and Lyle. Members of the Board of the Church welcomed the supper patrons.

A brief concert in the auditorium of the church completed the evening's programme, with Rev. Mr. Wren acting as chairman. The Sunday School Orchestra, augmented by members of the Symphony Orchestra, delivered several selections, also playing during the supper hour among their renditions being the charming fantasia, "In a Persian Garden." Vocal solos were given by Miss Brock, including "In the Garden of Tomorrow," "Coming Home," "Bird of Love Divine," and "Sundown," also by Mr. M. H. Park who sang "Come Into the Garden, Maud," "Draw the Sword, Scotland," and "Mary of Argyle." Mr. Stewart Widdess played violin numbers, in the "Volga Boat Song" and Beethoven's "Minuet." Accompaniments were played by Miss M. Clarry and Miss M. Widdess.

LEAGUE MEETING

Regular Service Held at Zion Church on Thursday Evening.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, Feb 2.—The regular League service at Zion church on Thursday evening last was a great success both as to attendance and interest in the programme. Over seventy were present, with the four colors closely grouped. Khaki led with 31 joints, Whites 30 points, Reds 20 and Blues 22. The race for position is close and the added points for church attendance adds an element of uncertainty to the results. Mr. Earl Fairman, missionary convener, had charge of the programme, with Mr. R. Forde as leader. After a short programme including Mr. Fairman's topic, "Going to school in Central India," Rev. Mr. Daniel took charge of the proceedings and gave another series of lantern slides, "A Trip Through West China." These pictures gave the audience a good deal of information as to the lives and customs of the Chinese, and the difficulties faced by the missionaries in their work in this section. The views dealt with all phases of missionary work, the evangelistic, educational and medical. As this is the part of China now so prominent in current news, much interest was shown in the pictures dealing with the causes of the uprising. Mr. Daniel gives a short talk on each picture so that everyone became quite familiar with conditions as they really are in West China.

HASTINGS NEWS

HASTINGS, Feb. 2.—Rev. John Coburn, of Toronto, gave two very inspiring addresses in the United church on Sunday, on the work and progress of the United church in general. Large congregations attended both services.

Mr. Charles Pilkey is in Oshawa this week on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Varcoe, of Campbellford, attended the funeral of Mr. Wallace on Tuesday afternoon.

One of the largest gatherings of its kind was at the United church on Monday evening when the local church Young People entertained those of the Bethel appointment. The programme was given by the latter and lunch was served at the close.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Hutchinson, of Havelock, are the guests of the former's mother, Mrs. Wm. Preston, Norwood road.

STRICT ON DRUNKS.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—England's new criminal code has made stringent provisions for the punishment of drunken drivers. Conviction for driving while intoxicated brings a $250 fine and four months imprisonment. The offender is also deprived of his motor license for a year.

THERMOMETERS FAIL TO AGREE TEMPERATURE

15 DEGREE SPREAD.

Two That Are Only a Few Feet Apart Show 12 Degrees Difference.

Thermometers are queer things. If they go down too far you look at them from between the ends of your collar, your head shrinking another couple of inches down into your shoulders, and a decided shivery feeling in the region of your spinal column, and growl. If, on the other hand, they register around 90 degrees in the shade, you gasp as you put an already moist handkerchief to your forehead, and seek an ice cream soda at the nearest fountain, and growl.

If they register between the two you growl anyway, figuring in man's obstinate way, that it isn't just hot or cold enough for whatever you have in view.

In the down-town section of Peterborough from Brock to Charlotte and from there to the Canadian National Railways freight sheds there are no fewer than twelve exposed thermometers, and most of them tell a different story, only four of them agreeing and then only in pairs.

A spread of 15 degrees was registered between the first and the last visited, and in one case the thermometers, although separated by only a couple of doors, disagreed to the extent of twelve degrees.

The two situated on the posts of the Empress Hotel, one facing east and the other west, about twelve feet apart, disagreed by one degree.

Three out of the twelve faced north with only three degrees difference; four faced east with a spread of five degrees; two faced south with a spread of nine degrees; and three faced west with a spread of ten degrees.

If you want to know the temperature either pick your choice from any particular one you fancy; or better still, wait until you get your Examiner and read "W.P.'s" notes and get the authentic registration.

The following is a reading of the various thermometers taken yesterday afternoon in a round trip, with only a few minutes between calls:

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story.

By Howard R. Garis

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY AND LULU QUACK

Jimmie Wibblewobble, the duck boy waddled very fast over to Uncle Wiggily's hollow stump bungalow one day.

"Good morning, Jimmie," greeted the old rabbit gentleman, as he hopped out on the front steps, twinkling his pink nose. "You are going early to school this morning," went on Mr. Longears.

"Quackity ack ock!" said Jimmie.

"What's that?" asked Uncle Wiggily, for the boy duck was excited, and mumbled his words so queerly, that the bunny could not understand him. "What did you say, Jimmie?"

"Ock, ach quackity!" spluttered Jimmie.

"I guess you must be playing some game!" laughed the rabbit uncle. "But as I don't know the rules, Jimmie, I can't play it with you. However, don't be late for school! The Lady Mouse teacher doesn't like her pupils to come late."

"I'm running to get Dr. Possum!"

Then Jimmie seemed to find his voice, for he quacked:

"I'm not going to school, Uncle Wiggily! At least not right away. I'm running to get Dr. Possum!"

"Dr. Possum!" exclaimed Mr. Longears. "Who is ill at your house, Jimmie? I know it can't be you, for you look fine."

"Oh, I'm all right!" answered the boy duck. "It's my sister, Lulu."

"What's the matter with Lulu?" asked Uncle Wiggily.

"She has lost her quack!" answered Jimmie.

"Ho! Ho! Ha! Ha!" laughed Uncle Wiggily. "You are teasing me! The idea of a little duck girl losing her quack! I guess you mean she has lost the penny I gave her last week to buy a lollypop, Jimmie. Lulu lost her penny down a crack—she didn't lose her quack!"

"Oh, yes she did, Uncle Wiggily!" exclaimed Jimmie. "Excuse me for seeming to contradict you," he went on, politely, "but Lulu has lost her quack, and I'm going to get Dr. Possum to see if he can make her a new one!"

"Oh, dear, this is very sad and quite too bad!" said the rabbit gentleman. "Very well, Jimmie, you waddle along after the doctor and I will go to your house to see what I can do."

When Uncle Wiggily reached the pen where the ducks lived, he found every one much excited. Alice, the other duck girl, was hurrying here and there, trying to help her mother, who was quacking away at a great rate. Mr. Wibblewobble was scurrying around so fast in the yard that a lot of his feathers were flying out. As for Lulu, she sat in an easy chair, with some bed quilts wrapped around her.

"What is this I hear about you, Lulu?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "Jimmie said you had lost your quack—have you?"

Lulu opened her beak, but only some whispering sounds came out. Try as she did, she could not speak, or quack which is a duck's way of talking.

"Dear me! It's true! Lulu has lost her quack!" said Uncle Wiggily, and he knew it was very serious. For when a duck girl loses her quack it's as sad as if a little puppy dog lost his bark. "Where did you lose it, Lulu?" asked the bunny. "I'll go look and see if I can find it?"

All Lulu could do was to siss and whisper. Not a quack could she make. But her mother said for her:

"Lulu must have lost her quack down at the pond."

"She and I were siding on the thin ice last night," quacked Alice.

"I'll go to the pond and look!" offered the bunny. But as he was leaving in came Dr. Possum and Jimmie, and as soon as the animal doctor looked at Lulu, listened to her breathing and had heard her try to talk, he said, said Dr. Possum:

"Pooh! She hasn't lost her quack! She has just caught cold and her throat is swelled and she is so hoarse she can't quack! I'll soon fix her!" So Dr. Possum gave Lulu some medicine that soothed her sore throat and the next day she could quack as well and as loudly as ever.

"I'm very glad," said Uncle Wiggily when he heard about it. "But I might have had an adventure if I had looked for Lulu's quack that wasn't lost. However, perhaps it is best as it is." And so it was, I think. Anyhow, if the June Bug doesn't sit down on the fly paper instead of reading it as he should, properly, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily's roast potatoes.

THE C.N.R.'S RECORD.

The people of this country can find no more cheerful reading these days than the reports of the Canadian National Railways.

The preliminary statement covering the earnings of the system for the twelve months of last year shows net earnings of $46,400,000.

This is a record total amounting to over $14,000,000 more than the figure for 1925, an improvement of 43.81 per cent.

While it is true that operating expenses increased by 8.37 per cent. during the year, this increase is small when the fact that the increase in revenue for 1926 was $21,298,797 is taken into consideration.

The operating ratio shows a noteworthy decrease from 86.53 per cent. in 1925 to 82.57 last year.

The figures will give Canadians much over which to enthuse.

PETERBORO'S PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

A satisfactory condition in regard to the operation of Peterboro's Public Schools during the past year, as shown by the annual report of Inspector A. Mowat, is the fact that the regularity of attendance during the year was exceptionally good.

The report points out that in no month during the year did the average fall below 93 per cent., and in some months it reached as high as 95 per cent., an increase over the preceeding year being noted.

Not so satisfactory perhaps from a general viewpoint—at least, from the viewpoint of those who regard a larger city as necessarily a better one—is the fact that the Public School population of Peterboro has remained practically stationary for the past five years, the total number enrolled in the various schools last year being 3,358.

Conditions generally in Peterboro's schools receive the commendation of the Inspector, who finds the teaching staff, on the whole, "efficient and doing work of a high order, the condition of the school buildings and grounds as very satisfactory, with little or no overcrowding, and that the progress of the pupils during the year was satisfactory."

WHERE CO-OPERATION COUNTS.

The annual meeting of the Peterboro Fish and Game Association is announced for tomorrow night, and all Peterboro people who are interested in hunting and fishing have been invited to attend.

If these pastimes are to be preserved for the benefit of this district it is evident that co-operation on the part of hunters and fishers is necessary.

The Fish and Game Association affords an opportunity for united action on behalf of better protection for our fish and game resources, and for a better observance of the laws in this regard.

The whole responsibility cannot be left to the Provincial Government.

Governments as a rule move only when there is pressure of public opinion to prod them into action, and this condition applies to the protection of fish and game, as it does to other forms of Government activity.

There is, therefore, a real field of service for an organization of this kind, and the stronger it is numerically the more successful will be its efforts.

Tomorrow's meeting should be largely attended, and the association as a result should be able to report an increased membership.

LET THE DRIVE GO ON.

The Orillia Board of Trade has declined to associate itself with the effort that is being made by the Trent Waterway Development Association to impress upon the Dominion Government the desirability of completing the Trent Canal.

The Orillia body takes the position that for the present Canada's expenditures should be confined to meeting national obligations.

There would be no quarrel with that view if it were generally adopted.

But the trouble is, that money is being spent on public works in all parts of the Dominion that cannot be classed as national in their importance, and whether the Trent Canal is completed or not these other works will go on.

There is nothing particularly to be gained then by this district sitting back and advising the Government to confine its expenditures to national purposes when other sections are demanding and securing a share of public works.

The drive for a completed canal should go on—a large amount of money has already been expended upon the waterway, and it can be finished for a comparatively small sum, the expenditure of which will make the waterway of much greater use than it can be in its present condition.

PENSION ADJUSTMENTS.

Through some legal or technical oversight, the pension laws governing the disability claims for the soldiers and their dependents have been misinterpreted until they have disrupted the intentions of their enactment.

As we understood the intention of the law, it was for the purpose of alleviating suffering, to make it easier, and to mitigate any injustice to those who may be dependant upon the nation for sustenance, maintainance or support of life. In many cases it has cost the Government and the Dominion more money to pay officials to disrupt and to interrupt the laws enacted to benefit the widow and the ex-soldier than it would to have had the law carried out as made, then to have them technically interpreted. Lawyers and doctors, as a rule, are poor interpreters both of justice and the letter and spirit of a law enacted to serve any purpose—one takes one side, and so on, and someone takes the other side—the division of opinion has to be adjudicated by an impartial judge to get what is considered justice. In the meantime there is no relief and the injustice and suffering goes on, often to those who should be beneficiaries according to the intent of the law enactment, until they become mentally and physically exhausted—and the applicants for which the law was enacted to relieve pass on and say: Deo duce, ferro comitante ("My God my guide, and my sword my companion.")

We are cognizant of many cases of suffering through the expert and the technical interpretation of the law, which it was intended, should be a relief to those who had suffered through wounds. The applicant, under the circumstances, should be granted the benefit of the doubt when in all cases of a technical dispute suffering has been caused—law or no law—especially when the law itself is not clear upon any and every case coming under its intended application.

Amendments to the pension legislation is now before the House of Commons to remedy the evil complained of, and we hope the efforts of the Canadian Legion, which passed certain resolutions to adjust the difficulty, will pass the House and Senate at Ottawa at the earliest date possible. The proposed amendments are suggested from experience of the working of the Acts dealing with pensions both to men and their widows and dependents.—The Khaki Call.

THE CIGARETTE FINDS A CHAMPION.

The cigarette, counting its addicts and slaves by the millions, has had few friends. It has been condemned by the doctors, anathematized by the preachers, apologized for by its users, denounced by social organizations, made illegal by some virtuous legislators. And while the cigarette was not being denounced as "coffin nails," and blamed for stunting growths, and sallowing complexions, and making mental and physical wrecks, it was being blamed for starting fires. Who ever read of a great conflagration without the almost proverbial cigarette butt being blamed for the disaster?

Now, however, a famous medical authority, Sir Robert Armstrong Jones, comes forward to champion the cigarette. Writing in the "Practitioner," a well-known British medical journal, he makes this definite statement:

"Of the various forms cigarette smoking is the most wholesome, preferably without a holder."

Sir Robert Armstrong Jones bases this conclusion upon the fact that the chief factor of harm in smoking is nicotine poisoning, and that so far as that menace is concerned both common sense and common experience show that there is less poison in the mild cigarette than in the strong cigar or the reeking pipe.

"Perhaps one thing that has told against the cigarette has been the lordly superiority which the pipe-smokers have affected toward it. Pipe-smokers have had two lines of attack, and it is to be noted that they have been mutually destructive. Sometimes they have taken the familiar line that cigarette smoking was 'pernicious'; how much healthier was the rich and juicy pipe! The other complaint was that cigarette smoking was an effeminate trifling with tobacco, unworthy of a grown man. But, if cigarette-smoking was really as pernicious as it was supposed to be, surely the real heroes were those who so indulged, and not those swaggering but secretly craven hearts who played for safety first with a pipe?"

Another thing which The Guardian points out, and which has a lot to support it, is that in literary tributes the pipe-smokers have long had it all their own way. Most of the anthologies have hardly anything on cigarettes except a dubious remark by Wilde in "The Picture of Dorian Grey": "A cigarette is the perfect type of the perfect pleasure. It is exquisite and it leaves one unsatisfied." On the other hand, the pipe-smokers have covered a large share of literature with complacent tributes to their own form of indulgence. Philosophers are always somehow pictured with a pipe; Mr. Baldwin's briar has all but made pipes an essential of statesmanship; and there is hardly a doubt but that many simpletons consider that a large, fat, evil-smelling pipe a condition of literary output.

However, Joseph Conrad, who left a little mark on the literary world, depended upon incessant cigarettes to support him in his labors. And there are many others in the world who at least try to use their brains who rely on the same consolation. Ask any poor devil who has to pound out a column or so upon short notice to catch an inexorable press! But while the cigarette addict, more modest than the pipe-worshipper, just lights yet another "fag" and gets on with his work, the pipe devotee draws up a hymn of praise on behalf of his own preference and tries to persuade the world that his indulgence is an example of noble and heroic virtue.

But there is one thing against cigarettes, ignored by Dr. Jones. It is that, usually, the man who smokes cigarettes consumes much more tobacco than the man who smokes a pipe. A single cigarette contains as much tobacco as the ordinary pipe will hold. Therefore, when a cigarette smoker, as not infrequently happens, smokes thirty or forty cigarettes a day, he is smoking as much as the pipe-user would smoke if he consumed that many pipe-fulls—which he doesn't. Twenty pipe-fulls a day, we fancy, is the extreme limit of the most confirmed pipe-smoker. So that, after all, the cigarette user may absorb the most nicotine.

But the controversy, though interesting, is futile. The pipe-users will cleave to their briars, and hymn their praises; while if statistics are dependable there is certainly no diminution in use of cigarettes.—Ottawa Journal.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 2 (Canadian Press)—There was an improved demand from local exporters for Manitoba spring wheat and sales of No. 2 Northern were made at 13c per bushel over the Winnipeg May option, and No. 3 Northern at 22c per bushel over, f.o.b. Saint John, N.B. New York exporters were also in the market for rye and sales of quite a few loads were made.

Thre was also a better demand for car lots of coarse grains and a moderate trade was done with sales of American No. 3 yellow corn at 98c, sample yellow corn at 86c, cool sweet corn at 85c, No. 2 Canadian western oats at 75c, No. 3 C.W. at 67c, No. 1 feed at 65c and No. 2 feed at 63c per bushel, ex-store.

There were no further developments in the local flour market for spring wheat grades yesterday, prices being steady at the late decline noted.

The millfeed market was fairly active with a steady trade continuing. The market for rolled oats was quiet and steady.

The trade in baled hay was again rather slow and the market was quiet with prices unchanged.

Egg receipts were 1,225 cases. The undertone continues easy at the late decline. There was no change in the market for potatoes, prices being steady with receipts rather small. Sales of car lots of Prince Edward Island Green Mountains were made at $1.80 per bag, and Quebec White Stock at $1.40 per bag of 90 lbs. in bulk ex-track.

Butter receipts 59 packages. The trade was more active than it has been lately and the tones was firmer. A fair trade was done in New Zealand finest creamery butter in a jobbing way at 44c per lb. in solid packages, and at 45c per lb. in 1 lb. blocks.

Receipts of cheese were 149 boxes Trading was again quiet. Prices were steady with Western grass-made No. 1 white and colored quoted at 19 1-4c to 19 3-8c per lb., Eastern at 19 1-8c per lb., and current receipts at 17 1-2c to 18c per lb.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 2 (Canadian Press) — Somewhat of a flurry in wheat resulted yesterday from an erroneous rumor that the Chinese minister to London had asked for his passports. Denials of the report were not received until after the market had closed. Final quotations on wheat were firm, 3-8 to 5-8c net higher, corn 3-8 to 1-2c down; oats at 1-8 to 1-4c decline to 1-8c advance, and provisions unchanged to 10 cents up.

Tightening up of wheat prices came about chiefly in the last few minutes of trading. Previous sellers rushed to buy and the close was at the day's top level. Aside from tenseness over the Chinese situation, the market was bullishly affected toward the last by predictions that increased movement of domestic wheat southwest would fade away before the end of the week. A decrease of 4,283,000 bushels in the world available supply tended also to strengthen the market.

Indications of increasing arrivals of corn had a bearish effect both on corn values and on oats.

Provisions were higher.

Her Little Boy Caught Cold While Out Playing

Mrs. F. Cada, Elmwood, Man., writes:—"My little boy caught cold while out playing in the snow. He coughed incessantly all that night and the next day, and nothing I gave him seemed to relieve him. When my husband came home he brought a bottle of with him. After the second dose my boy was greatly relieved and after the third dose he went to sleep and slept the whole night through without any coughing. I am never without it in the house, and whenever any of the children get the slightest cold it's the first thing I give them."

A Thought For To-day

THE SPOILED CHILD

There are two things that often bother a husband—his business cares and his home life. So let's start this way:

Fond parents who show a decided preference for their boy-child, mothers who tenderly respond to every whim or wish of their "little man," are preparing to send their "darling" out into the world thoroughly familiar with family favors, but totally unfamiliar with the cunningness of competition and the coldness of business. Naturally, the grown-up "kid" often comes home early in the afternoon, peeved and pouting.

Here is where a wise wife comes in handy as a second mother. Here's where a wise wife can be of great help to the overgrown boy, her husband.

The longer I live, the more I am convinced that a man is nothing but a spoiled child, and that he will look to his wife to bind up his stubbed toe.

If she lacks 'second mother' sympathy, there will be trouble to pay.

Then there's the home life.

Husbands have been known to come home at night and demand chicken for dinner when the good wife had prepared a substantial spread of ham and eggs.

Now I'm going to make a suggestion that few will agree with, and it is this: The wise wife will say to her spoiled child, "Go out and get a chicken—get two chickens if you like chicken so well—and bring them both home and I'll roast them."

There is nothing that will sooner mature a man's mind than a wife's willingness to see that his appetite is satisfied and his toys undisturbed.

The wise wife can age the average man ten to twenty years in one day, and then, but not till then, will some spoiled child be made a man.

When a woman accepts the responsibilty of a wife, she has contracted to bring up a spoiled child and this is some job.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

No need to be alarmed because Gus Comstock drank 85 cups of coffee. They all came from a restaurant percolator.

A pessimist is a man who has met too many optimists.

This week we're voting against the radio announcer who blows a horn and says, "We're certainly having a hot old time here to-night."

We sent some "good will" fliers on a trip around South America recently. Maybe the warships are just a follow-up.

Now that a man has conquered the Catalina channel, we'd better be keeping an eye on grandma.

PLENTY OF RUM.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—The warehouses of London contain enough rum to intoxicate the whole British population within a half hour, Lord Ritchie revealed during a recent parliamentary inspection trip. There was enough meat to feed the population three months and enough tobacco to last a year.

HEALTH AND DIET ADVICE

By Dr Frank McCoy

Author of "The Fast Way to Health"

QUESTIONS IN REGARD TO HEALTH & DIET WILL BE ANSWERED BY DR. McCOY WHO CAN BE ADDRESSED IN CARE OF THIS PAPER

© 1927 DR. COY HEALTH SERVICE, LOS ANGELES, CAL.

CURING RHEUMATISM

In every form of rheumatism: no matter whether it seems to be caused by a general toxemia, or whether the cause appears to be some infection which entered the system through infected teeth, vaccination, or the use of serums, or through infection entering through the genital organs, the first thing to do is to get rid of the general toxicosis existing, which is the soil in which all forms of rheumatism grow. For this purpose I have never found any method to equal the fasting and diet cure, if used persistently and judiciously.

If the rheumatism has only reached the stage of muscular rheumatism it will disappear very quickly under a fasting regime; whereas, if the toxins have accumulated around the joints in any form of articular rheumatism, or arthritis deformans; the cure will be much slower and will take weeks, and even months, to effect a permanent and lasting cure. In the case of these last forms of rheumatisms, it is necessary to take an extended fast, lasting three or four weeks, if one is to expect any real cure. A short fast, of course, will bring about some satisfactory results; and the system being freed of some impurities, will be sufficiently detoxic so that some of the soreness will disappear, but if there is a drop of the rheumatic poisons remaining in the body, it will surely show up again in some joint, and this trouble will keep on re-appearing until a long enough fast is taken to completely rid the system of the irritating material.

In the treatment of muscular rheumatism the use of hot applications over the parts affected is of great value in freeing the congested circulation. One or two immersions daily in a tub of hot water, to which has been added a handful of epsom salts, will aid in bringing about a rapid recovery, but usually the muscular soreness will leave in two or three days after beginning the fast.

In articular rheumatism great benefit will be experienced at the start of the fast, but a complete cure cannot be expected for a considerable period of time; because of the bone changes taking place, and the necessity for the solidification of all of the liquid bone which has been thrown around the joints before the fast was started. You may expect a permanent cure to take at least as long as it would take a broken bone to heal. In this form of rheumatism it is always a good plan for the patient to remain quiet in bed, and to pack all of the joints in cotton, after rubbing the skin with oil of wintergreen, which will assist in producing copious perspiration. The circulation will be helped if a hot water bottle or electric padis put at the foot of the bed. The joints should be moved but very little, as any irritation will only delay the progress of the cure.

If one fast does not suffice to bring about a complete cure, it may be necessary to live on a correct diet for a short time, and then return to the fast again.

If the bones are very much distorted it will be impossible for them to ever regain their normal shape, but at least the soreness can be entirely taken out of these joints by a suitable fasting and dietetic regime.

After the fast, the diet should consist of well-balanced food combinations, and no particular kind of food is to be used or avoided. Care should be used in taking only a small amount of any kind of food, and the most important point to remember is that whatever foods are used must be used in correct combinations so that the food does not ferment. For a while it is well to eliminate all sugars and starches, as these foods ferment so easily.

Do not be anxious to take up exercises quickly after the cure seems to be achieved as this will only encourage the return of your former trouble.

DR. FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL.

THE DEAF

By Dr. Frank Crane.

An endeavor is being made through the organization known as the American Federation of Organizations for the Hard of Hearing to alleviate the lot of those who are deaf.

Some one was asked why blind people always seem so cheerful and deaf people so sad. The answer was that you can speak to blind people and they will hear you; while the deaf do not know whether you are talking or not.

It is a toss up whether one would want to be isolated from the world by blindness or by deafness, but either case is sad enough.

This organization to help the deaf deserves every support. The growth of civilization has been marked by growth of the disposition of the strong to help the weak, of those who are fortunate to help the unfortunate.

The deaf do not ask for charity, but they have a right to expect that children of the next generation who are born hard of hearing shall be helped more distinctly than such children have been heretofore.

It is estimated that four out of every ten persons in the United States have impaired hearing. The noises of modern life are tremendous. From three to five per cent of the school children in the United States have incipient deafness. Many of these cases could be checked or cured.

The work of the Federation will be largely preventive; just as the Rockefeller Institute spends millions of dollars to prevent disease and as it has wiped out malaria, etc.

There is a vast work yet to be done, but the Federation has already demonstrated that it can work efficiently if it has proper financial support.

The work, therefore, depends upon the disposition of those who are able to give.

In 1910 Mr. Edward B. Nitchie began to realize that there was much more than mere teaching to be done in connection with his work in deafness, which he inaugurated for the deafened in this country. The league which he organized fills such a vital need that similar organizations were started in other cities.

In 1919 Dr. Wendell Phillips became convinced that the time had arrived to consolidate the various leagues into a national organization. Out of this arose the national organization for the Hard of Hearing.

Dr. Wendell Phillips was its first president. His standing was such that afterwards he was elected President of the American Medical Association. The Federation working say that a man shall not ask, "What shall I do if I lost my hearing?" but is going a step farther and making that question unnecessary.

Nearly three-fourths of the cases of deafness may be checked if taken in time.

Just as soon as the Federation receives proper financial support it can undertake larger and more effective work.

This is a worthy cause and one to be recommended for public support.

Don't Tell the Wife

BY WILLIAM B. COURTNEY

SYNOPSIS

Ranny Forbes, star polo player, and his beautiful wife, Joan, are temperamental mismates. Joan wants a divorce. Ranny hesitates, loving her, although secretly knowing she loves Abner Gratman. While they are guests on a week-end cruise on the Stivner yacht, a widow, Clare, vamps Ranny, arousing Stivner's jealousy. Ranny avows Clare means nothing to him, mollifying Stivner. Ranny punishes Abner in a way that nearly costs his life and Joans', and his chums confer mysteriously on another scheme. The guests are consumed with curiosity when they hear Ranny say his motto now is "Don't Tell the Wife!"

CHAPTER XV.—Continued.

Mrs. Teffens and the other furry-pawed ones were of a mind to put Clare Clemoneau and her blonde widowy wiles on the task of ferreting out of Livingstone Stivner what all the mystery was about.

But Clare, strange to say, had a rather well-defined sense of the fitness of certain things. A much deeper and cleverer slant and attack than her purring confreres. She adopted a mousey quietness—tiptoed about demure and subdued, and appeared quite awed by the near-tragedy, made no eyes at Ranny, and was docile and affectionately partial to Stivner.

Clare knew the gentle art of biding time!

CHAPTER XVI.

It was a whole week after their return home before Ranny could get a word, edgewise or anywise, with Joan.

Immediately upon landing at Glen Cove she had engaged a taxi and driven off alone and aloof.

At home she had closed herself in her apartment, taking her meals there, carefully going out for airings and so forth only when assured that Ranny was not at home and not likely to encounter her.

"I'm going away" he explained.

The sum total of information that Ranny could get out of Joan's personal maid by bribery and cajolery was:

"Madame ees packing, sir. She ees going to Europe so soon she get finee, Monsieur!"

He bluffed and bullied his way into her boudoir one night, finally.

The stare Joan turned upon him was utterly impersonal, profoundly indifferent.

"You needn't look so plagued remote—as though you had never seen this poor fish before!" he began, lamely but it won't be so bad for Abner, eh? Of course, you are madly in love with him, Joan?"

"Well, yes, I guess—don't say madly, though, old dear. Don't say madly, though, old dear. Don't exaggerate!" she said slowly, rather thoughtfully.

"Then, also, I think I'd ought to advise him to take up athletics—exercise, gymnasium, and that rot. A husband ought to be in tip-top shape always, for in these days of bandits and what-not, a chap never knows when he'll have to fight for his wife."

"But," quickly changing the subject, "what are your plans for getting the divorce?"

"Nothing simpler. My first trip will be to Minnesota. I'll establish a home, and at the end of six months I'll merely prove that you've never lived with me. Under the laws of that state, therefore, I am a wronged and deserted husband, deprived of the services and company of my wife, and justly entitled to the relief contemplated by a divorce."

"What got into you all of a sudden, Ranny? A week ago you wouldn't hear of a divorce, and now you can rattle state divorce laws off like an ambulance chaser."

"Nothing got into me, except a desire to sacrifice myself in order to assure your happiness."

"Sacrifice yourself? My dear! It's YOU, who will be suing me for divorce! Is that the—ah, most gallant way out?" Joan's words dripped with sarcasm, as only Joan's words could.

"Desertion is the easiest and least distressing cause for suit. Even that we'll have to manufacture. And it will save you a lot of time and bother if you'll let me do all the dirty work of preparing the way. You see, one of the drawbacks of having a model husband like me—ahem, if I must say it myself—is that it—he—I gives—gave you no legal or moral justification for canning him. There are no possible grounds for you to sue me on, except—"

"Well!" agressively.

"Well, cruelty—and as Heaven is my witness, I've never been that!"

"Of course the night of terror you subjected me to last week was an act of loving kindness!"

THIS CANADA OF OURS

PETROLEUM IN CANADA

Q.—What is the production of petroleum in Canada?

A.—The production of crude petroleum in Canada shows a marked increase in 1925 over 1924, valued at $1,260,705, largely due to the production from the Royalite well in Alberta. Canada imported $43,842,427 of petroleum and its products in 1925. The industry in Canada has 180 plants.

SHORT STORY

TARRYING AT JERICHO

"A-l-a-b-a-s-t-e-r!" Now what please is alabaster?" Penny asked. She had spelled the word, with a giggle after each letter—now the giggles were guffaws.

"Lemme see! O! It's some kind of old rock," Meg, the studious Elliot, said over her shoulder, not raising her eyes from her book.

Penny sprang instantly upright, stamped a foot—small and mightily pretty—and cried viciously: "The idea! That calf Clint Mason darin' to call me a rock-face! I'll never, never speak to him again!"

"How! And what! And why!" Meg demanded, sitting up straight. "Lemme see that letter."

Meg seized the letter and read:

"If only I might kiss that alabaster brow, I'd know the wildest bliss that life can promise now."

"Really, Penelope, I'm struck dumb. Many, many things have I thought of you—but never, never, NEVER ONCE that you'd inspire poetry like that. Tell me truly—what conjure are you usin' right now?"

"Shut up—else I'll scratch your eyes out!" Penny spluttered through Meg's fingers firm upon her lips. And just then black Susanna flung wide the door, saying grimly: "Dat dar Mason boy's at de doah—and say he's bound fer come inside—lawsy! Hyur he is! Walk in Clint and fine out whut de ructiom is—dese two gals gibs me'n Aunt."

Meg had said of Clint: "He'll be mighty good lookin' if he lives to get over gettin grown"—and spoke exact truth. As to height he was full-grown—rising six feet, but so loose-knit, gangling, uncertain of complexion, eke of voice, as to make the heighth almost comic. Striding uncertainly forward he asked huskily: "Have you—got somethin'—with—with my name signed to it?"

"What you askin' that for?" from Penny over her shoulder.

"Say—didn't the postman bring you—anything signed with my name?"

"Pen got a letter—but she wouldn't let me see it," Meg answered half-truthfully.

"Did—did she say why?" from Clint, still truculent.

Meg shook her head. Pen turning to face the querist demanded: "Is it any of your concern who writes to me?"

"None at all—unless they go and sign my name," Clint blurted out.

"You mean—without your knowin' all about it?" Meg cried.

Clint nodded, half choking to say: "That's just how it is. Pat John—damn him—an' his gang collogued together to make up I d'know what—and send it—makin' out it come from me."

"They never could have made up what I got!" Pen rashly admitted.

"Lemme see what they said!" said Clint.

Pen made a mutinous face. 'Caint! I never show letters—not from any boy body."

Clint began to rumble violently, turning all colors to beat the best chameleon, so Meg intervened diplomatically: "That's how we've been raised, Clint—remember, I told you she wouldn't show even me. Besides—no matter what's in the letter—what you don't know can't possibly hurt you. If you truly don't know—why, the joke's all on them—their pains and their postage are wasted clean as wheat."

"You really reckon I can put that across so's it'll stick?" from Clint, no longer frowning. Pen darted to fling the absurd letter in the fire, saying breathlessly as it went up in flame and fantastic ash:

"There! You can't ever know—and if those wretches dare to come askin' me—they'll hardly dare—but if they do, I'll tell the truth—that I couldnt have got a letter from you, because—you never sent me one."

"Hoo-ray! That'll fix 'em—the pison bunch!" Clint shouted, sinking into the nearest chair with a huge sigh of relief. After a minute he grinned shyly, saying meditatively: "Pen—I 'most wish I'd seen—what they made me say—"

"Shut up! You make me sick," Pen said maternally. "Take it from me—you'll find words enough— when you've really got anything to say. At least I hope so—I know if I had a—a sweetheart, and he came parrotin' as if he'd learned things out of a book, I wouldn't even trouble to say No—Just quote Scripture: 'Tarry at Jericho till thy beard is grown.'"

"That's certainly Pat. How'd you come to know it?" from Clint admiringly.

"By bein, Meg's sister—she knows 'most everything," Pen confessed.

"I'm glad of it," said Clint. "Saved me from makin' a plumb fool of myself—I was all set to go at that bunch o' meddlers with a flail—if I had——"

"You'd have ruined the party Friday night—nobody able to dance—heads bandaged and faces all over surgeon's plaster," Pen interrupted.

Clint beamed. "You think I could have made hash of 'em?" he asked sitting very straight.

"I know you could," Miss Penny murmured looking down: "You're so tall, and quick-moving—and got such strong arms — why! You've scared the lot of 'em out of a year's growth—or maybe crippled them for life."

or maybe crippled them for life."

Meg had discreetly vanished—feeling she must laugh out or die. Clint rose, his awkwardness falling from him as a garment. Gently he lifted Penny to her feet, saying humbly, with yet a touch of impudence: "Lemme show you—my arms are—stronger'n they look." He suited action to words, without evoking any protest from the smiling and blushing Penelope. For suddenly she knew Clint had found Jericho to his profit.

THEATRE

BRILLIANT CAST IN NEW BARTHELMESS FILM

Dorothy Dunbar and Gardner James Head Fine Supporting Company in "The Amateur Gentleman."

Richard Barthelmess, star of "The Amateur Gentleman," an Inspiration Picture coming to the Capitol Theatre to-morrow boasts an unusually fine cast in his newest starring vehicle.

Dorothy Dunbar, his leading lady, is a newcomer to the screen, but is hailed as a "find." She enacts the role of Lady Cleone in the film version of Jeffery Farnol's romance of the Regency period. J. Edwards Davis plays the role of John Barty, ex-champion pugilist of England and father of Barnabas (the Barthelmess role.)

Gardner James, who created such a distinct sensation in "Well Bent Fer Heaven," has what is considered one of the most important supporting roles in "The Amateur Gentleman," that of Ronald Barrymaine, the dissolute brother of Lady Cleone. Sidney de Gray is the lovable Capt. Chumley, while Nigel Barrie scowls with gusto in the role of the villain.

John Miljan, heretofore a screen villain himself, turns about and plays the very sympathetic role of Viscount Devenham, who stands by Barnabas throughout his trials in London society. Brandon Hurst, famed as the Caliph in "The Thief of Bagdad," acts as the poacher-valet to Barnabas, a role replete with humor.

Herbert Grimwood, whose characterization of Savonarola, the martyr saint of Florence in "Romola" which was also produced by Inspiration, created world wide acclaim, portraps the role of Jasper Gaunt.

Billie Bennett acts the part of the Duchess of Camberhurst, who champions the suit of Barnabas for the hand of her niece, Lady Cleone. Gino Corrado plays the Prince Regent, while John S. Peters enacts Captain Slingsby.

"The Amateur Gentleman" was directed by Sidney Olcott and photographed by David W. Gobbett. It is released through First National.

The condor, of which a baby specimen, measuring 10 feet from wing to wing has recently been brought to England, is not only the world's largest bird but is the highest flier. Naturalists have discovered it flies sometimes at a height greater than 20,000 feet.

BOY SCOUTS

4TH PETERBROUGH TROOP

There is no law that says a Scout must be observant, but a Scout would not be a Scout unless he was.

Last Thursday night's meeting of the 4th Peterborough Troop of Boy Scouts was Observation and Memory Test Night.

At every meeting some little mark is made on the wall or floor or a rope may be hung up somewhere with a badly tied knot, or a sign or picture may be hung crooked; these details are a test in observation. The first Scout to spot the evening's observation test is given a point in the patrol competition, so that everybody is always keeping his eyes open for the unusual.

The test last Thursday night was a piece of bark shaven nearly off a cedar pole. It was spotted by a keen-eyed Owl.

The next test was one for the memory. Each patrol formed a single line, with the Scouts five or six yards apart. The first Scout in each patrol was handed a written message which he memorizes and then relayed verbally to the next Scout, and so on down the line until it came to the last Scout, who, after memorizing it, wrote it down on a piece of paper and handed it in. Points were taken off for inaccuracy in report and for wrong spelling.

Another simple observation test was shown to the Scouts for a period of one minute's observation. It was a picture of four men, three sitting and one standing beside a camp fire telling a story. Mountains could be seen in the distance, also the shimmer of a little lake surrounded by tall pine trees. It was just before supper time, for the pots were on the fire. The guide, who had a few minutes to spare, was repairing a saddle for the next day's ride.

The Scouts were then asked questions such as these:

1—What kind of country is it?

2—How many men are there in the picture. (Some said five).

3—How many men are smoking? (Only one correct answer).

4.—How are they travelling?

5—What is the main point in the picture?

This kind of a test sounds very easy, but it is really one to show how very unobservant most people are.

The troop meeting ended with a hearty sing-song and a short talk by Scout Jack Heffernan on Forest Fires, which was excellent.

ST. JOHN'S W.M.S.

Campbellford Ladies Discuss Holding Union Prayer Meeting.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 2. — The ladies of St. John's Church held their regular W.M.S. meeting on Tuesday afternoon in the Sunday School rooms. The meeting opened with a hymn, "The Lord is my Shepherd," after which Mrs. Boyle led in prayer. The Scripture lesson, Psalm 24, was led by Mrs. Haig and read responsively. The secretary's and treasurer's reports were read and approved, after which Mrs. Haig read a paper on "Keeping Sacred the Season of Lent," and urged all members to help make this Easter offering the best yet. Mrs. Elliott led in prayer for mission work and the troubled areas of China.

Mrs. Ashton and Mrs. Douglas were appointed as a committee to meet committees from other churches to discuss holding a union prayer meeting on March 4. A committee was also appointed to make arrangements for the tea to be held on Tuesday, February 14, in the evening. Mrs. David Stillman then led in prayer. Mrs. Hammond gave an interesting synopsis on the fifth chapter of the study book, "New Days in Old India." The closing hymn, "The Morning Light is Breaking," was sung, after which Mrs. Longmore closed the meeting with prayer and all joined in repeating the Lord's Prayer.

SOCIAL EVENING.

Under Auspices of L.O.B.A. No. 129 at Petherick's Corners.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, Feb. 2.—The Monday evening entertainment of the local L.O.A.B.A. No. 129, held in Sentinel Hall, was well attended by people of this community and others from a distance. Mr. James Irwin, of Campbellford, acted as chairman, and under his direction a short, but highly entertaining programme was presented. The opening number by Spencer's orchestra was followed by a reading, Miss Florence Dunk "When the minister comes to tea"; Mr. Elliott, comic entertainer and elocutionist, of Campbellford, then gave a few short sketches which drew forth much applause. The orchestra again played while the next number was getting under way. This was a play entitled "Village Gossip" and showed how a story started in the smallest possible way can grow to unheard-of proportions. The ladies taking part were Mrs. Herbert Spencer, Mrs. John Simpson, Mrs. Wesley McKenzie, Mrs. Minnie Petherick, Mrs. Harry Southworth, Miss Gladys Simpson, Mrs. Ernest Irwin and Miss Florence Dunk. After this number, Rev. Chas. Daniels gave a short address, taking as his subject "Woman." He pointed out some ways in which the ladies, through their organization as part of the Orange Order could work for the betterment of conditions throughout the community and the country at large. A number of his references to the female of the species were decidedly witty and called for great applause from the male members of the audience.

At the close of the programme the members of the lodge served lunch and a very enjoyable social hour was spent.

LINDSAY AGOG OVER WEDDING

Preparations Go On For Marriage of Miss Aleen Hughes.

ON FEBRUARY 12.

LINDSAY, Feb. 2. — Society circles are all agog over the approaching marriage of Aleen Victoria Hughes, daughter of the late Sir Sam. Hughes and Lady Hughes, and James Freeman Clarke, of Boston. The wedding will be solemnized in the First United Church, Lindsay, on February 12, and promises to be the greatest social event in the history of this section of the province. The officiating clergymen are Rev. T. E. Holling, pastor of the First United Church, and Rev. Canon Marsh, rector of St. Paul's Church, Lindsay.

Over one thousand invitations have been issued for the event, six hundred of which have been extended to the friends of the bride and groom in Boston. The sum of $500 is to be spent in floral decorations alone. Miss Hughes will have six bridesmaids. She recently returned from Paris in company with her sister, Mrs. Byron Green, where she purchased her trousseau.

Elaborate preparations are being made at the home of Lady Hughes for the reception and entertainment of the guests, who will include Major-General Garnet Hughes, brother of the bride-elect, as well as three uncles with the rank of General. The guests from Boston are arriving in a special train, and will include the society editors of the Boston newspapers. The society editors of the Toronto and other Dominion and Provincial papers will also send special writers to cover the function.

Y.M.C.A. REPORT

The following reports were read at the annual meeting of the Y. M. C. A.:

General Secretary.

The year 1926 has closed and we are in a position to look back over its record and to encourage ourselves in its successes and to profit for the future by experience gained and lessons learned. Nineteen hundred and twenty-six has been the most difficult year in financing the association, especially during the summer period, but we expect this was a common experience of business generally throughout the city, and during the fall there was a steady improvement which did not show altogether to the financial situation. There seems to be more optimistic spirit prevailing throughout the membership. This is due, no doubt, to the very much improved condition in employment in the different industries of the city. We are confident that conditions will continue to improve steadily and we look forward to 1927 with a good deal more confidence than we have reason to feel for some time. The spirit pervading the association seems to be finer than we have experienced at any other period. The work of the physical and boys' departments will be dealt with separately.

Organization.

Mr. G. A. Gillespie, our president, was re-elected by the board for his eleventh consecutive term of office at the February meeing and has given thes association his customary conscientious leadership. The board of directors have served the association faithfully and well during the last year, and, in addition to a very successful annual canvass in April, they undertook the complete renovation of the building, taking care of the entire expenses of the lobby, reading room, game-rooms, dining-room, kitchen and the boys' rooms with the assistance of two or three friends of the association. As a result of this effort, our building presents a very attractive appearance.

Membership.

The membership objective for the year was reached and the following is the present divisions of the membership in the association Sustaining 16 business men, 74; seniors, 126; young men, 103; social, 20; rural, 18; total—men's membership, 357. Membership of the boys' department is divided as follows: Intermediate, 54; juniors, 110; and beginners, 63; total—boys, 227.

The new departure in membership was the establishing of a rural division, covering young men who live outside the city limits engaged in rural occupation. Twenty-one of these have been enrolled and there is developing a fine spirit among this new group of association members. We expect that this group will be considerably enlarged during the coming year.

Finances.

During the year, we have been able to meet current expenses but we have not been successful in wiping out a deficit incurred during the previous year. The problem of securing outstanding membership fees at the end of the year is one of the most difficult problems we have. In the matter of finances, this is perhaps due to the fact that the majority of memberships are renewed in the latter part of the year and the Christmas and holiday season make extra and heavy demands on the finances of these members.

Some facts taken from the association year-book for 1926 would, no doubt, be interesting to association members and friends. Peterboro' association is in group four, comprising cities between ten and twenty-five thousand population in comparative facts and worked out in percentages. Subscriptions to local work in Peterboro' are 41 per cent of the average for the group; operating expenditures, 48 per cent; association members, 61 per cent; profit and funds, 28 per cent; summer camps, 95 per cent; gymnasium classes, 125 per cent; educational classes, 118 per cent; Bible study classes, 95 per cent; uniting the church, 55 per cent. The above figures show that the ratio of operating expenditure in relation to subscriptions raised is remarkably low. Seventy cents out of every dollar expended by the association is raised from membership fees or other revenues. Since 1918 the fees or other revenues. Since 1918 the percentage of revenue increased from 50 per cent of the total to 70 per cent at present.

Religious Work.

Sunday afternoon meetings, conducted during the late winter and spring of the year were well attended, having an average of 27 each Sunday. A special series of luncheon meetings on Sunday evening were held under the auspices of the Leaders' corps, when a series of addresses by Mr. W. R. Richman proved to be very helpful and inspiring. The Friday supper club has continued to hold the interest of young men, and twenty meetings were held with a total attendance of 520.

Bowling Department.

Some concern was felt regarding the outlook this fall with the addition of the large number of alleys in the city. However, all of the leagues promoted by the association are in operation again this year and bowling at the "Y" alley seems to be more popular than ever. Four leagues are conducted, with 24 teams entered. The ladies' leagues are held during the supper period when the alleys are in little demand by the men.

Educational.

The first aid class in the early part of the year concluded a successful course under the direction of Dr. H. M. Yelland, assisted by Mr. F. G. McNeely. Twenty-two of the 24 enrolled in the class secured their certificates. This class is being conducted again this year with slightly smaller enrollment but increased interest.

Dormitory Department.

The dormitories were completely renovated throughout during the summer and are in attractive condition. There is a constant stream of young men arriving as strangers in the city who find the dormitory a home away from home until they secure friends in the city. Owing to the location of our building, a good many of these young men find it necessary to secure quarters closer to their work, which, as a rule, is in the southern part of the city. For this reason we lose a considerable number of our best young men.

General.

The association building has served as a meeting place of various organizations, such as the Boys' Work Board, Religious Educational Council, Ministerial Association, and many civic bodies which hold their meetings in the building from time to time without charge.

Ladies' Auxiliary.

The ladies' auxiliary have served the association in a splendid way, and have supplied equipment for the dormitory and kitchen when the need has arisen. The report of their activities is being presented.

New Basis of Membership.

At the last annual meeting a notice of motion was presented regarding the basis of membership which has been proposed for the associations of Canada. The old basis of membership was as follows: Male members in good standing in an evangelical church who are not less than 17 years of age may become active members of the association. Only active members will have the right to vote and hold office. A new alternative basis of membership is as follows: Active membership shall be open to any man over 17 years of age who is a member of an evangelical church or who signs the personal declaration of faith and purpose, and, in addition, believes in statement of purpose of the association and commits himself to voluntary service and support.

It will be necessary to amend the constitution of our association by an unanimous vote at this meeting in order to make this new basis of membership operative. If it is the desire of the association to have it adopted, an opportunity will be presented to vote on this matter.

Conclusion.

In concluding this report, I would like to express my sincere thanks to the hearty co-operation of the members of the staff and for the loyal support of the directors of the association and the members generally.

PHYSICAL DEPARTMENT

The hexathlon, or indoor athletic championships, was trained for during the winter term and was officially conducted during the month of March.

G. H. Corsan, expert swimmer, was engaged for a two-week special swimming campaign during May. Classes were organized at a low fee for men and boys. Following Corsan's classes, we organized lessons for those who had not had the benefit of his instruction and also continued to supervise the classes already formed. The results of these are, we believe, evident in the part played in aquatic events by present and former participants.

The leaders' corp was organized in January. Fifteen members attended the conference in Toronto, at which the present of the local corps was elected to the office of president of the Ontario corps. In October, the annual Ontario conference was held in Peterboro' with considerable enthusiasm manifesting itself. The display in the gymnasium was particularly worth while for our corps in the light of new members displayed by the visitors and in the opportunity given for comparison and exchange of ideas.

At the military camp, the physical director supervised the physical and social programs for the men under canvas.

City championship events were conducted in connection with athletic day at the Industrial Exhibition. The lack of interest displayed on the part of those who should be participants in these events is to be regretted. In former years, competition was keen; whereas, now, we have difficulty in getting entrants for the various events.

The physical director served on the committee promoting the Thanksgiving Day relay race. The association entered a team in the race. The association building was used as headquarters before and during the race. Dressing-room and shower privileges were provided all runners.

The leaders' corps successfully organized a series of Sunday evening meetings, with Mr. W. W. Richman as leader. After a real presentation of a Christian challenge, the meeting attended service in one of the nearby churches.

Class Summary.	On Roll.	Attendance.
Business Men	60	609
Seniors	52	528
Young Men	51	411
Senior School	31	454
Inter-school	27	307
Junior School	78	924
Beginners	61	398
Leaders	21	352
Inter-employed	22	227

In addition to the above we have 15 weekly class periods in connection with the calisthenics of the Collegiate Institute.

BOYS' DIVISION.

We have much pleasure in again submitting for your approval the report of the boys' division—embracing those of our membership between the ages of ten and sixteen, inclusive. This report is but a brief survey of a year's activity. It can never attempt to show that thing which we consider to be the great aim in our contacts with a boy, namely, the training of his life so that he may live it in a Christ-like manner.

Character is the product of this association and the measure of its service in the community. Whatever claim may be made for recognition as a factor in the lives of the boys of this city we base that claim on our efforts toward character building. Any young fellow is super-sensitive to publicity when it refers to character-moulding, and, as there is a certainty of this report finding its way to the press, we give no specific reports along this line. Sufficient is it to say that our efforts to assist individual chaps to find their feet have been successful in many cases. Conferences with parents, teachers, employers, members of service clubs, and with the boys themselves have all been a means toward that end.

Most gratifying is the growing evidence of the spirit of service which is growing among our boy members. This Ideal has been expressed in many ways during the past season. The intermediates have undertaken the sponsoring of teams in the beginner and junior sections—one member being assigned to each team, where he uses his experience to the end that the younger, and particularly the newer boy, shall be established in the life of his group. In all departments we have had a splendid reponse to our appeal on behalf of "the boys of other lands," going over the top on the original budget.

We made history last year by conducting our camp in conjunction with the Rotary club for the entire summer—a period of nine weeks. This arrangement made for a continuity of program and direction which encouraged boys to spend a longer period in camp than would otherwise have been the case. Some interesting figures will more adequately convey an idea of the field covered. Campers were made up of 81 public school, 23 high-school, and three employed boys. Of this number, 102 were Protestant, four Roman Catholic and one Jewish. At the time application was made, 94 were swimmers and 13 non-swimmers. The ages and number of each age are: 2-9, 11-10, 16-11, 15-12, 30-13, 25-14, 5-15, 2-16, 1-17. The high week was that of June 28, with 38, and the low week that of August 23, with 19. The average number in camp, including boys and leaders, was 33 per week.

Growing out of our approaches through the summer we now have a goodly number of the campers enrolled in our regular membership.

During the year we had a movie show for the members of all departments every second week with an average attendance of 75. In addition to these, we had our machine in use at the military camp during June, and at the Christmas entertainments of the Oddfellows, St. Andrew's, Murray street and Trinity Sunday schools. Whenever we have a worth-while program brought in for our own use, we arrange to have it shown at the Shelter.

Each class has been entertained to a movie show and social evening in succession. On Hallowe'en, the entire division, with members and friends, had a costume frolic with ghost walk and all that goes with the spooky evening. On November 10, we assisted the Rotary club in the putting across of a social evening for their boys.

Each class is, as in former years, carrying a program of Bible study either before or after the gymnasium period. Bible study examinations were held last spring, the leading boy taking 87 per cent.

In concluding this report, we bespeak of every member his whole-hearted co-operation in the work we dendevor to do with boys. We ask that you be not "too busy" or "have no time" when the opportunity is given for service. The Y.M. C. A. is not a building but is is the spirit that builds lives. All activities of the boys' division are only methods of touching boys that they may come to know the spirit of the Christ-life. We can accomplish something when we plod on alone, but how infinitely much more when we work as a team.

LADIES' AUXILIARY

The ladies' auxiliary of the Young Men's Christian Association meets in the reading-room on the fourth Friday of each month, with the exception of the summer months.

The object is to make plans for the comfort of those residing in the building and to secure needed supplies for the dormitories.

On October 6, a tea and sale of home cooking was held, at which time a nice sum of money was realized to aid in the buying of supplies.

The convenor of the house committee has met with the directors to help in arranging for renovating and decorating.

The auxiliary inspected the building early in the year and again after the renovating and decorating had been finished and were very much pleased with the improved conditions.

The ladies assisted in serving suppers to the canvassers during the financial campaign in April and supplied thirty home-made pies for the boys' work conference in October; also looked after the binding of a number of bedroom rugs.

The following articles have been bought during the year: Half dozen bedspreads; 48 2-3 yards of curtain material; three dozen pillow-cases; nine yards of sheeting; seven dozen towels; three table-cloths, and cooking utensils.

SOCIETY

The members of the Art Study Club of the Womens Art Association were hostesses at a very jolly party held last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Widdess, Stewart street, when, departing from their usual custom, they spent the evening in social fashion instead of in the consideration of artistic works. Following out the latest idea in entertainment which is becoming popular in large cities, games were the order of the programme, and Mrs. J. H. Seels, convenor of the affair, contrived an evening that was interesting and mirth-provoking in the extreme. Mrs. Seels, whose ideas are always original and different, was in charge of the various contests and stunts that enlivened the evening, and received a great deal of praise for the games which gave much pleasure to the participants, showing how much time and attention had been spent in their contrivance. From the opening verses of original composition read by Mrs. Seels, alluding in humorous fashion to various members of the Club, to the original farewell, the evening was one of mirth and jolly good humour, and ended with the voicing of much appreciation of the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Widdess, and the convenor, Mrs. J. H. Seels, by Mrs. F. C. Neal, and the singing of "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow" in honor of Mrs. Seels. The final stunt was one of the funniest of the evening, with Mrs. N. H. Sutton carrying off the prize for best delineation of various emotions, in company with a septette of lady contestants. A feature of the programme was the reading by Miss S. A. Tomkins of a lengthy address, worded in legal fashion, to the president, Mrs B. L. Barns, who was also presented by Mrs. J. E. R. Munro with a tiny gavel. The musical programme of the evening included two vocal solos by Miss Mathilde Masson, who sang "The Flowers that Bloom in the Spring" and "The Icicle Song." Miss Margaret Widdess and Mr. Stewart Widdess provided musical accompaniments for seevral of the stunts. The service of buffet refreshments was in charge of Mrs. R. J. Kidd and Miss B. Beatty Members and guests present included Mr. and Mrs. B. L. Barns, Mr. and Mrs. V. S. Foster, Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Shirley, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Seels, Dr. and Mrs. C. B. Waite Mr. and Mrs. R. A. The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Paul's Presbyterian Church held a very successful Silver Tea, attended by over three hundred ladies, in the Sunday School hall of the church, yesterday afternoon. The big room was converted into a bower of natural beauty by the use of quantities of ferns, palms and flowers, which decorated the tables in profusion. The color scheme was enriched by the use of yellow candles in silver holders, and tulle in shades of gold and American Beauty, also by the number of tall lighted floor lamps. The guests were received by the president, Mrs. D. Jordan, Mrs. J. Garbutt, Mrs. H. Morgan, and Mrs. J. J. Hall. A musical programme was in charge of Miss Daisy Davidson. Ladies pouring tea at the various tables were Mesdames W. H. Hill, Wm. Allan, Robert Hall, Brodigan, R. W. Davidson, H. B. Cowan, J. Sands, W. Lyburn, A. McLeish, J. A. McIntyre, C. A. White, Chas. McClelland, D. W. Clark, H. Gilgour, C. Blewett, J. Taylor, P. Gilgour, M. McNabb, assisted by Mesdames H. C. Sherwood, W. D. Taylor, A. Deyell, J. H. Savigny, J. P. Pulkinghorn, Selkirk, W. McKee, H. Jackson, Jones, W. Hancock, J. Gillespie, C. Jordan, W. Burrell, and the Misses MacBrien, N. Davidson, Montgomery, H. Fisher. Other ladies assisting with refreshments were Mesdames G. S. McKee, S. Taylor, R. H. Hunter, W. Henry, Vincent. The musical programme included pianoforte solos by Mrs. H. Carey; vocal numbers by Mrs. H. F. Doig, Miss Bertha Hill, and Miss Daisy Davidson; violin selections by Mrs. P. Hooper and Arnold Spencer, and a reading by Mrs. Hazel D. McClelland. Accompanists were Mrs. W. A. Logan and Miss Gwen Donley.

All the Family Uses Them With Satisfaction

So Says Mrs. H. C. Deamond of Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Nova Scotia Lady Used Them For Headaches, Pains in the Back and Urinary Troubles.

SIMPSON CORNER, N.S., Feb. 3.—(Special).—"I have used Dodd's Kidney Pills for over nine years and found them very good for headaches and pains in the back," writes Mrs. Deamond, who resides at this place. "My husband has used them for rheumatism and I have also given them to the children on several occasions, and am glad to say they have given great satisfaction in the case of involuntary urination. I would not be without them. I have also used your Diamond Dinner Pills and found them excellent."

All over Canada, Dodd's Kidney Pills are recognized as suffering women's best friend. They act directly on the kidneys, making them strong and healthy. Diseased kidneys are the cause of nine-tenths of all ills women are heir to. Sound kidneys mean pure blood. Pure blood means good health.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

The wedding was to take place at nine o'clock that Thanksgiving evening. At seven peace descended upon the Lane household in Myrtle Street. The last of the over-fed relatives had departed at six.

Faith had ordered all members of the family, except "Long" who had of course taken Fay home and was not expected to rejoin the family until they all met in the church, to go to bed for a nap or a rest before time to dress for the wedding.

Cherry had borne herself gaily, nonchalantly, through the ordeal of the dinner, after having helped Faith loyally, if inefficiently, in the kitchen all morning. During those hours of work shared together the sisters had come closer than they had been in weeks.

As she closed the door upon a night-robed, weary little Cherry, Faith's heart was almost bursting with love and pity.

"Try and go to sleep, darling. I'll have your bath drawn, and all scented with rose bath salts at eight. Then I'll help you dress and you can hook me up. I'm glad you didn't let Frances or Selma come here to dress and help you dress, as they wanted to. Now, darling, just close your eyes and make your mind a blank. I'm going to lie down myself, but I'll hear you if you call."

"You're so good to me, Faith!" the whispery, languid voice answered. Joy, who had been stuffed with too much rich food, was already asleep, a new white kid slippers, stuffed with her first all-silk white socks, cuddled against her cheek. Faith, smiling wearily, was glad that one member of the Lane family was enjoying the wedding wholeheartedly.

She lay in bed, tense, wakeful, achingly weary, for an interminable hour, when she tiptoed into the bathroom and made preparations for Cherry's hot-bath in the short, rust-stained tub. She found Cherry awake, clad in a quilted blue satin dressing gown, and seated on the bed, surrounded by scores of letters.

"I was reading some of my old love letters," she twisted her red lips into a bitter smile. "I thought I'd burn them, but now I don't believe I will. They may be all I'll—ever know—of love. Bath ready?" her voice changed miraculously. "Scrub my neck and ears and back, like you used to when I was a grubby little kid, honey. I—I don't want to be alone," she begged, somewhat frightened, cornered look coming back into her violet shadowed topaz eyes.

"I'd love it," Faith made her voice laugh, while her heart was breaking. "Doesn't it smell gorgeous?" Cherry wrinkled her short little nose as she tested the temperature of the water with a wary, dainty foot.

"You help Muggy dress first, while I brush my hair and touch up my nails," Cherry told her sister later, after Faith had dried the rosy little body with a great, fleecy towel.

But Faith found that her mother had completed her dressing, and was tweaking at Joy's short, white silk skirt with a fussy hand.

"I wish that henna-headed woman had made Joy's dress just a mite longer," she grumbled. "Her knees look like doorknobs. Now, don't tune up and cry!" she shook Joy by a shoulder. "You look all right. Pretty is as pretty does, and if you act half as nice as you look, they won't put you out of the church. Faith, I wish you'd catch up them loose back hairs of mine with an invisible hairpin. And dust a little powder on the back of my neck. Do I look all right?"

"You look stunning, Mother!" Faith assured her as she wound the straggling hairs on a tiny hairpin. "Dad, do you want me to fix your tie for you? Your new suit fits fine, doesn't it?"

When she finished with his black string tie she stood back and surveyed her father admiringly. His thinning pepper-and-salt hair was parted sleekly and wetly, talcum showed faintly over his close shave. His shoulders, usually bowed under his invisible load of care, were conscientiously straightened, as if the decent newness of his inexpensive gray suit had to be lived up to.

"You're a real sheik, Dad," she laughed huskily and kissed him.

"Your Ma's too fine for me, in that grand new dress of hers," he deprecated. "When's George Pruitt going to come for us?"

"Half past eight," Faith answered. "I'm going to wait and go with Cherry, you know. Mr. Cluny's sending his car for us at a quarter to nine. I've got to hurry now with my own dressing and help her dress."

"Will the flowers be sure to be there?" Joy demanded, hopping about excitedly on one white-slippered foot. "I'd just die if I didn't get to carry the flowers."

"They'll be there. Good-bye, darlings. Don't get fidgety if things start a little late. Weddings are always late, I've noticed."

A few minutes later she heard George Pruitt's cheerful, booming voice, and the flurry of her mother's and father's and Joy's departure. Clad only in her delicate lace and silk underthings, and with her bridesmaid's dress over her arm, she hurried down the hall to Cherry's room, to help her finish dressing.

The door was locked.

"Cherry! Time to dress, darling. We've got to hurry."

There was no answer.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

Red crepe de chine has been made into a frock that, though rather fussy, is most attractive when worn by a woman with a slender figure. It is an excellent example of the sort of frock that the stout woman ought to avoid.

Just possibly you are getting tired of red dresses. Unless you are color blind or have a peculiar fondness for shades of crimson and scarlet you must be just a trifle weary of the color. Both in Paris and in large cities in this country the red dress was at the opening of the season the very desirable choice of the few, and its popularity has increased until it is the ubiquitous choice of the many.

Once we noted here and there at tea time a girl in what we fondly called a little red dress, now we perhaps sigh a little as a fur coat is slipped from young—or old—shoulders to display one more frock of this color.

One way that the fashionable Parisian gets around the difficulty is to avoid frocks of an out-and-out poppy shade. They satisfy their innate desire to wear something of a reddish hue by choosing plum color, cyclamen, cerise, ruby, rust, or some other tone that is a little less obvious—and not quite so popular.

The all-enveloping fur coat has done much to establish the vogue for the red dress. When coats were relatively short enough to show some of the frock beneath, many women would have hesitated to wear red, feeling that it was a little conspicuous for the street. It took considerable courage to wear a red suit or red cloth ensemble. But the fur coat of dark or neutral tone perfectly hides the red frock worn beneath, which gives a bright and cheerful tone when the coat is removed.

The shade of red must be chosen not only to suit your complexion but to harmonize with your fur coat. Clear reds usually look well only under black or gray furs. Browns and beiges require either a decidedly "plum" shade or a rust red, the brown tones of which agree with the brown tinge of the fur.

Accessories with the red frock must be chosen with great care and one authority on smart dressing warns us against wearing any sort of conspicuous jewelry or any neck ornament save the simplest when a red frock is chosen.

A necklace of small real or imitation pearls is perhaps the best selection. Heavy gold jewelry, large pearls or crystal jewelry may give to your red frock a note of emphasis that is anything but attractive.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 3, 1927.

(Copyright, 1927, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Good aspects dominate to-day, according to astrology. Two adverse influences, however, are strong.

It is a day that promises much from dealings with bankers or men engaged in big enterprises.

Changes in one's position or financial status are supposed to be fortunate under this direction of the stars.

It is a promising day for those who seek employment, especially if they are trained in the arts.

Late in the day there is a sign of great hope for writers and those who devote attention to journalism should be especially favored.

This is read as a happy wedding day in which there is the foreshadowing of prosperity and progress.

Women should push all their ambitions to-day, which gives promise of much important attainment in the coming year.

Amusements are to be sought more then ever, it is prophesied, and for that reason theatres will benefit greatly.

Changes in social standards and ideals will be noticeable in 1927 when there will be many reactions.

Church and clergy come under a sway that is read as most favorable as there will be a revival of general interest in religion.

To-day there is an aspect most lucky for politicians and statesmen. Washington is to come under a rule that will test members of Congress.

Both men and women to-day should profit from wise initiative. New callings are to develop in the coming months, owing to extraordinary needs.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of much good fortune in the coming year.

Children born on this day probably will have great personal charm, which aids them all through life.

BIG SISTERHOOD DOES GOOD WORK DURING WINTER

Distribution of Clothing Important Part of Society's Efforts.

EXTREME CASES.

Most Requests Come From Families in Great Want.

The Big Sisterhood, one of the charitable organizations of the city which commenced to function here about three years ago, reports a busy pre-Christmas season, although, as usual, the peak of their activities is not reached until later on in the year, the highest demands for such services usually coming during the months of February and March. The ladies who control the work of this society husband their resources, generally, until after Christmas is over, confining their Christmas giving to actual need and preparing for the heavier responsibilities which come later on.

This year, so far, has not seen as much need in the city, as far as the Big Sisterhood is concerned with this aspect of charitable work, as in other seasons, but the cases encountered have been of an extreme character, some of a desperate type requiring attention at once. People who are almost on the verge of starvation will make application to such a society when they hesitate, through pride, to approach civic authorities.

The ever-present menace of sickness and its twin, unemployment, harasses many a home, and hangs as a dark shadow over many a hearth. When the bread-winner, often an unskilled laborer, is laid low with illness, and the family (and, as a rule, the stork favors those homes where funds are not the most plentiful) is compelled to subsist on what has been saved or what may be gleaned from charity, winter does not appeal as much as it might to readers of "Our Lady of the Snows" and kindred poems. It is in such instances that organizations like the Big Sisterhood and kindred societies, doing unostentatious work among the needy of the city, have their opportunity.

On Saturday, for instance, a little boy of about ten years of age applied to this society for clothing and was fitted out at once. He wore very little under a little girls' ragged coat, which formed his outer covering, and his feet, in broken stockings, were encased in a pair of girls' slippers, also broken at the toes. There are many little boys who come in ragged garments, and a special need of the society just now is clothing for boys of this type, from head to foot, including underwear, suits, coats and footwear.

Again, there is a home where the father lies ill in bed. The mother, with a year-old baby to look after, will soon have another baby, and she has nothing prepared for it. A layette, and supplies for an infant, as well as bedding for the mother, would be welcomed here, where the ladies, on their first visit, found in the cupboard only a little sugar, a small portion of butter and some dry bread. Fuel supplies are also very low.

In another home, where circumstances make the case particularly pitiable, there is very little of anything, because the people who occupy it were burnt out recently and have had no way of getting supplies since. There are several children here and a sick bread-winner again, and still another small Canadian citizen will make another mouth to feed in the near future. Babies' supplies and furniture and clothing of almost every type are needed.

The Big Sisters have been fortunate this year in procuring free, through the kindness of the civic authorities, the use of a room in the City Buildings, situated near the Relief Officer's quarters, and, through the co-operation of the Relief Officer and the Police Department, are enabled to receive supplies here at any time, although the room is open for distribution on only two afternoons, Wednesday and Saturday, in the week.

This year, the ladies of Bridgenorth and the ladies of Stewart Hall in Otonabee have been benefactors from the district to the Big Sisters, sending them bales of useful articles, which included quilts, bedding, underwear and good clothing. They also received a donation of $25 from the Business Girls' Club, and the annual generous response to appeals, from citizens who have sent them quantities of clothing and supplies. Owing to several cash donations and a balance from last year's fund, they have been able to supply two families with milk and also give grocery and fuel orders. Such contributions are welcomed at any time, and may be made to the credit of the society through the Bank of Montreal.

In two instances, where the men of the family are out of work, the society has been supplementing the means of the householders by such assistance, and they report several cases where the homes are spotlessly clean and the presence of illness and unemployment are the only reasons why the inhabitants are asking for help.

GLADSTONE GIVES TESTIMONY TO-DAY

Refuses To Withdraw Statements on Which Suit is Based.

LONDON, Feb. 2 (Canadian Press).—Viscount Gladstone, taking the stand today in Captain Wright's libel suit, declined to withdraw his characterization of Wright as "liar, coward, and foul fellow."

Ostensibly defending himself against Captain Wright's suit, Lord Gladstone in reality seeks to vindicate the memory of his father, the great Victorian Prime Minister, who is pictured in Wright's book, "Portraits and Criticisms," as immoral and a hypocrite.

On the stand today, Lord Gladstone described Wright's allegations against his father as "foul, revolting, and false." He refused to withdraw the words used in his letter to the committee of the Bath Club, on which document Captain Wright's suit is based.

Lord Gladstone testified that he had been very close to his distinguished father, and that until 1885 he had always lived with the elder Gladstone at Carlton House or in Downing Street, the official residence of the Prime Minister.

Self Starter

By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

OBEDIENCE is a highly desirable quality in a child, but it is only a means to an end, after all. The end to be worked for is self-control. When a child is obedient his will is obeying the direction of some other. When he has learned to control himself in proper channels and actions he needs no direction but chooses his own course of action. We must take care not to arrest self-development by continuing to dictate when the child has developed self-control which should be exercised. Teach him right courses in early obedience and then let him control himself along the same lines as soon as possible.

And then sits at the wheel to steer,
Or else all 'round about 'twould dart,

But everything I say, or do
And where I go and what I play
I start myself inside o' me
And just keep going on that way
I start myself, and steer and stop
And no one winds me like a top!

WITNESSES DESCRIBE ACCIDENT ON KEENE ROAD LAST SUMMER WHICH CAUSED WOMAN'S DEATH

Stories About Speed of the Car Vary—Hill Described.

MANY CURVES.

Defence Witnesses Say Stillman Told Them Nobody Was To Blame.

Thomas Leslie Diamond of Campbellford was arraigned before the Honorable Mr. Justice Logie at the Winter Assizes here to-day.

He was charged with "that on June 25 last he did unlawfully kill and slay Mrs. Stillman."

The case arose out of an accident that occurred about four miles from Peterboro on the Keene Road on June 25 last year, when the accused, his wife, niece and Mr. and Mrs. Stillman were motoring to this city to attend the circus. Coming round a curve near the Duffus homestead, the car left the road and crashed into a fence and then struck a tree. As a result of the accident, Mrs. Stillman was killed outright, the other members of the party being more or less injured.

Gordon N. Shaver of Toronto appeared for the Crown. The accused was represented by Charles A. Payne of Belleville.

W. J. Stillman said he left Campbellford at five minutes to 12 on the day of the accident. The accused was driving the car, his wife, Diamond's wife and Diamond's niece, Mary McGregor, were in the back, the driver and himself in the front. Mrs. Stillman was behind the driver, and Mrs. Diamond on the other side. They came to Tuffs Corners, about 8 miles from Campbellford, and took a detour.

How much was added by the detour?

3 3-10 miles.

How fast did you travel on the detour?

About 8 miles an hour.

Apart from detour, what speed did you travel from Campbellford to Keene?

45 to 50 miles.

Describe the roadway for say 200 yards back from the scene of the accident.

It was a good road.

Do you remember anything about the accident?

I couldn't tell anything after the car left the road.

What happened your wife?

She was killed.

Cross-examination:

You have known Diamond a long time?

Quite a while.

You have been his guest in his car at numerous times?

About half a dozen times.

You have taken an active interest in this case against Diamond?

No, sir.

Did you wire Assistant Attorney-General to have this case brought up in February?

I was worried and wanted it over with.

Did you wire?

Yes; I authorized it.

During the trip, you did not comment on the speed of the car?

No.

Did you tell George L. Hay in Peterboro that at the time of the accident you were talking to Miss McGregor in the back seat?

No sir, not to my knowledge.

Did you?

The last time you looked at the speedometer was two miles back?

Somewhere around that.

Were you observing the speed of the car?

Not directly.

Did you remember coming to the hill?

Not in particular.

Do you remember a bend in the road?

Not in particular. I was looking at the field.

Then the speed of the car was not sufficient to make you look straight ahead and watch the road?

I left that to the driver.

You don't remember any particular point 200 yards back from the scene of the accident?

Not in particular.

Did you suggest to Florence Shannon in the hospital at Peterboro that the car was not going at a fast rate of speed?

I don't remember.

Provincial Constable Norman Maker.

On June 25 he received a phone call about 1 o'clock. About 3 1-2 miles out the Keene road he saw a car lying in the ditch. A lady was lying beside the car, and had a deep wound in her head; he felt her pulse and came to the conclusion she was dead. On the other side of the car he found Stillman, who had a broken leg. He asked Mrs. Diamond if she was badly hurt; also Miss Mcgregor. He saw Diamond and asked him if he was driving the car, and he said yes. I asked him what speed he was going and he said 30 miles, and that he did not know whether he stepped on the brake or the gas.

Constable Maker at this point gave in detail the measurements he had taken around the scene of the accident and also identified several pictures which had been taken in his presence.

To what extent from the top of the hill could a driver see the bottom?

He could not see the bottom.

There is not a clear view at this curve?

There is not.

Cross-examined by Mr. Payne:

This particular curve is a bad one?

Are there any signs on it?

No.

At the curve there was loose gravel on right hand side?

Yes?

As a matter of fact there have been numerous accidents at this curve?

No. I have only attended one since I came here.

How long is that?

About 2½ years.

Dr. J. Malcolm McCulloch said that on June 25, he was called to the accident on the Keene Road just beyond the old Duffus homestead. He saw Mrs. Stillman, but she was dead. He then looked after the remainder, and had them sent to the hospital.

What was the cause of death?

Describe the road?

There are three curves on the slope of the hill. One right, one left, and a serious one near the bottom. The curve to the left at which the accident occurred was almost a right angle.

Harry Redmond

Harry Redmond said that at time of accident he was going to the hill and the car was coming down, at what looked like a high rate of speed. Driving a horse and democrat, he pulled over to one side. The auto hit the wire fence—slid a long 120 feet, and then hit the tree. The doors flew open and Mrs. Stillman fell out on the road. She was bleeding from the ear and was apparently badly hurt.

This was about 1.15 p.m. The witness could not estimate the speed of the car, describing it as fast.

Thomas Heffernan

Thomas Heffernan said that on June 25 last he was driving to Peterborough. He saw the accused three or four miles back of the scene of the accident.

He was going between 35 and 40 miles an hour.

Cross examination by Mr. Payne:

You have known this curve for some time?

Yes.

Other witnesses have sworn it is a dangerous sharp turn.

Not so awfully sharp.

Thomas M. Coward.

Thomas M. Coward stated that on June 25 the accused had passed him on the road back of the scene of the accident, going about 35 miles an hour. He did not speak with Diamond at the scene of the accident but his wife did. He heard Diamond say, "I was going too fast and lost my head." He also said he was going about 60 miles an hour.

Albert Lawe.

Albert Lawe stated that on June 25 he was driving to Peterborough. The accused passed him about 3 miles back at a speed of 35 or over. He said that the turn was dangerous but he had not heard of any accidents there, nor had he noticed the loose gravel.

This concluded the case for the Crown.

Walter Wiggins.

Walter Wiggins, first witness for the defence, under examination by Mr. Payne, said he had known Stillman for some time. He saw Mr. Stillman in his room in the hospital. "When I saw him he cried and said, 'Walter, I owe you an account, but I'll pay you.' I told him not to worry. He also said, "My, my, Walter, isn't this awful. It was only an accident. We were just driving along and everybody having a good time. I was turned around talking and do not know what happened."

Cross-examined by Mr. Shaver, witness said he had sold the accused the car. It was a 6 cylinder car with 4 wheel brakes and was supposed to go 70 miles an hour.

David Stillman, a first cousin, said he had seen Stillman once. Stillman told him it was just an accident, that they were going along at a nice easy rate.

Mrs. Diamond

Mrs. Leslie Diamond, wife of the accused, a passenger in the automobile, said Mr. and Mrs. Stillman were life long friends. They left Campbellford at 11.55 on June 25 to go to the circus. Going through a detour they were travelling from 15 to 18 miles an hour.

Do you remember passing Keene?

Yes.

What happened?

Mr. Stillman turned round in the seat and addressed each one of us occasionally. He pulled his watch out of his pocket and said "See. It's 9 minutes after 1."

What speed were you going?

Average.

What do you mean by average?

About 20 miles an hour.

At the time of the accident Mr. Stillman was still turned around talking to her husband.

Just before the accident she saw her husband's head roll to one side.

Was he sick?

I don't know. I couldn't understand it. She attempted to reach forward when the car gave a lurch and went up. That was the last she remembered.

Cross examination by Mr. Shaver.

Your husband has had several cars?

Yes.

Has he ever had an experience such as this before?

Never in a car.

George E. Hay

George E. Hay stated he knew Mr. Stillman. He saw him about a week after the accident. He told him there was no one to blame; that it was a pure accident.

Mrs. Ruth Vandewater said she saw Mr. Stillman every day from the Saturday after the accident until the following Sunday.

Did you have any conversation with him?

Yes. He said he did not blame Mr. Diamond in any way as it was purely an accident. She was accompanied by Miss Shannon.

Miss F. Shannon

Miss F. Shannon said she had known Mr. Stillman all her life.

Do you remember any conversation that took place in hospital subsequent to the accident.

Yes. Mr. Stillman said he could not remember what happened—that it was an accident and that he did not blame Mr. Diamond in any way.

Charles Davidson.

Charles Davidson said he had known Mr. Stillman for 36 years. He had been out with Mr. Diamond a number of times and had always found him alright.

His Lordship — What do you mean by "all right."

Witness—"Well, I always found him a good driver—would go from 25 to 30 miles an hour."

In the hospital Mr. Stillman said it was an accident.

Lorne Pearce.

Lorne Pearce said he had known Stillman since 1924. In hospital Mr. Stillman told him Mr. Diamond was not to blame.

Cross-examiantion by Mr. Shaver:

Was this conversation before the inquest?

Yes.

Was it before the burial of Mrs. Stillman?

Yes.

Was Stillman crying when he was talking to you?

Yes.

He said it was just an accident?

Well, I can't say his exact words, but I inferred that from what he said.

John Gillespie.

John Gillespie stated he operated a garage in Peterborough. He received a call on the day of the accident.

Can you say at what speed a car would be travelling to cause damage as you saw it?

I cannot.

You know the place where the accident occurred?

Yes.

How long?

12 or 13 years.

What was the condition of the road?

I have been over it so often I don't think anything of it—but a stranger might experience trouble.

W. A. Diamond.

W. A. Diamond, a brother of the accused, said he was in Peterborough the day after the accident. Mr. Stillman told him it was too bad— that nobody was to blame, that it was just a clear accident. He visited the scene of the accident the day after.

Did you go to the brow of the hill?

Yes. Coming down grade you don't notice the corner until you are quite close to it. From the tracks he saw the car was 66 feet past the corner before it left the road.

Cross-examined by Mr. Shaver.

You are prepared to swear the car got around the curve?

I am.

Would you say that the curve had nothing to do with the accident?

Well, if it had been a straight road it might not have happened.

Would you consider it a dangerous curve at 35 miles an hour?

I would not like to try it.

Thomas L. Diamond.

Thomas L. Diamond, the accused, said that on June 25 he left Campbellford for Peterborough. He had been over the road once before in June.

What rate of speed did you travel between Campbellford and Keene?

About 30 miles.

Was there any occasion that you travelled faster?

No—we were just pleasure bent.

Describe what occurred.

Just prior to the accident, the car got hot and something came over my yees and I don't know what happened after that. The first thing I remember after that was that a man was holding me on the road.

Do you remember a witness here to-day by the name of Coward?

I never saw him before.

Did you tell him you were going too fast?

I don't remember.

You remember seeing Maker?

Yes.

During the journey, did anyone object to the rate of speed of the car?

None whatever.

Cross-examination by Mr. Shaver:

You have driven for a number of years.

Yes.

Between March 25 and June 25 you drove your car approximately 5,000 miles.?

I don't know.

You had no trouble with your car?

No.

Whether you drove it or not, will you admit it would go 60 miles an hour?

I never drove the car at a high speed.

Is it correct you have had any accidents in last few years.

I had one.

Did you have an accident with John Adams of Campbellford?

No?

Did you drive into a ditch at Myersburgh?

No.

Did you drive into a canal once.

Yes.

Did you turn over near Petherick's Corners once?

Yes, but the car was stopped when it simply turned over.

Did you have an accident near Welman's Corners?

No.

Was there an occasion in Campbellford about May 6, 1922, you were said to have been racing in your car?

Yes. I was fined $1.

Did you have an accident with George Wallace of Lindsay?

Yes.

You know Coward?

No.

Know his wife?

Never saw her.

Do you deny that you had a conversation with him?

I do—to my knowledge.

What do you mean, "to my knowledge"?

As far as I can remember.

Do you remember speaking to Maker?

Yes.

You told him you were not going over 30 miles an hour.

You remember that conversation, but you can't remember this other one that occurred only a few minutes before?

I don't remember it.

Are you prepared to admit that you could have seen the curves if you had looked.

I'm not prepared to admit anything, as I never examined it.

What precautions did you take?

I shut off the gas at the top of the hill.

Do you think that was a safe way to come down a hill with curves in it?

I didn't see the curves.

What is your excuse for doing so?

I think shutting the gas off was sufficient.

Did you realize coming over the crest that the road was not straight?

I couldn't see.

You swear you didn't go over 30 miles an hour that day?

I didn't go over 30 miles.

Do you deny the statement of Stillman that you were going up to 45 miles an hour?

I deny it.

Do you deny speaking to Coward?

I do, as far as I know.

If you are correct, all these other witnesses must be incorrect?

I never drove over 30 miles an hour.

How fast did you go over the detour?

Never over 15 miles an hour.

How long did it take you to go around detour?

Ten minutes.

You say as you came down the hill that you could not see it. How fast were you going?

About 25 miles.

Is there a clear view at the curve?

Yes, but there was not a clear view at top of the hill.

Why didn't you tell some person about the spells at the time of the accident?

I told it at the inquest.

Within three weeks after the accident did you tell any medical man about your spells?

Yes. Dr. Hay?

When?

In Campbellford.

After you came out of hospital?

Yes?

Mrs. Coward was driving to the circus with her husband on June 25 last.

Did you see Mr. Diamond.

Yes.

Please tell the jury what was said.

I was washing the blood off and he said: "I was driving too fast. I was going 60 miles an hour and lost my head."

Was he intelligent?

He appeared to be.

Did you know Stillman or Diamond before the accident?

No.

Cross-examination by Mr. Payne:

Who first interviewed you with regard to this accident?

Nobody that I know of.

Dr. Haig

Dr. Haig stated he attended Diamond before the accident and since.

Did you treat him for spells before the accident.

No.

Did he come to see you after he came from Peterboro?

Yes. About 11 days after. He said he had no appetite. I gave him a bottle and when it was emptied he came back and said something about spells. We didn't discuss it as I didn't want to be mixed up in it.

The hearing concluded at 2:30 the jury retiring for lunch.

The jury consisted of:

FOUR NEW CLUBS IN SEMI-FINALS

None of Remaining Teams Has Ever Won Tankard.

LINDSAY BEATEN.

TORONTO, Feb. 2— Kingston, Sarnia, Stratford and Oakwood rinks survived the second round of the Ontario Tankard competition, the Ontario championship event, yesterday afternoon. The second round saw the elimination of Lindsay, Stuffville, Brampton and Owen Sound clubs. The semi-finals will be played this morning starting at 9.30 o'clock at the Granite Club, and the final will be played this afternoon, also at Granite Club.

None of the remaining clubs has ever won the Tankard.

Yesterday's play saw some excellent curling at all three rinks, Granite, High Park and Victoria. Games in the first round were exceptionally close, although Sarnia, Stratford and Lindsay rinks won by wide margins. In the afternoon play, again competition was keen, two and three shot majorities being prominent in the matches.

The defeat of the strong Lindsay rinks, skipped by Walter Reesor and F. J. Carew was quite a surprise. The Kingston rinks of Travers and Hanson had a four-shot margin when the two games were finished Oakwood won a hard fought victory over Owen Sound, at Granite Club. H. D. Patterson's Oakwood rink lost to McKay of Owen Sound by four shots, but a seven-shot victory by Armitage, the other Oakwood skip, gave the local rinks their victory.

The first round of the Burden Trophy, the secondary competition, was played yesterday afternoon at the three rinks ,and the second round will be played this morning at Victoria and High Park Clubs. Toronto Vics, Paris, Hamilton Vics, Orillia, Brampton, Owen Sound, Stouffville and Lindsay are the survivors in this competition.

A large gallery attended the games at all rinks, particularly the Granite Slub.

MARMORA WINS IN CLOSE GAME

Beats Stirling —Fast Hockey Played During Snow Storm.

SCORE 3-2.

MARMORA, Feb. 2. — Marmora secured a further win in the Hastings County League last night, triumphing over their old rivals, Stirling, on the home rink by the score of 3 to 2. A snowstorm starting up in the first period caused Referee Barrett to divide the remaining forty minutes into three periods instead of two. Play opened fast with the ice good at the start. After Hulin had made three good saves, Wood netted from a rebound. Stirling soon equalized, Ackers beating Neal after combination with Wallace.

From the face-off in the second period McWilliams brought his team ahead, baffling Hulin with a fast shot. On the next face-off Stirling drew level through Scott getting a lucky goal.

The third period passed scoreless. Wood and Brady were unlucky with shots. In the final period, with the storm abated, both teams were able to give the standard of play for which they are famed. The winning goal came from Auger, who outwitted Hulin with a high shot three minutes before time was called.

Both teams played hard throughout, and penalties were few, the referee having fine control of the game. Wallace and Scott stood out for the losers, while the play of Manager Shannon's boys was uniformly good. The crowd, despite forbidding weather conditions, was the best thus far this season. A box social and dance in the Town Hall was the wind-up of a pleasant evening's recreation.

The line-up:

Stirling—Goal, Hulin; defence, H. Ingram and Tulloch; centre, J. Ackers; wings, Wallace and Scott; subs., F. Ingram and C. Ackers; goal umpire, T. Eisenring.

Marmora—Goal, C. Neal; defence Jack and Auger; centre, McWilliams; wings, Brady and Wood; subs., Shannon and R. Neal; goal umpire, J. Clairmont.

Referee — Leo Barrett of Belleville.

Women, Here are Facts!

Mrs. Walter Coles

Woodstock, Ont.—"I have been greatly benefited by taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and do not hesitate to recommend it as a woman's tonic and nervine. I was all rundown, weak and nervous—had a dragged, worn-out feeling. I took the 'Prescription' and found it very helpful. It built me up in health and strength and made me feel so well that I would take it again if I were ever in need of a tonic and nerve medicine, for I was very well satisfied with the way it helped me."—Mrs. Walter Coles, 53 Huron St.

The local juniors won their group last night when they defeated the Lakefield team, 7 goals to 2, at Brock street rink. The game was a hectic struggle throughout, with very little good hockey being exhibited.

The score, seven to two, by no means indicated that the local boys were that much superior over the Lakefield squad but on the night's play the blue and white deserved the win as they showed more finish especially around the mouth of the net.

In the final period the Lakefield team slowed up badly and seemed to be tired out for up until the last few moments of play they had only used one sub. Twenty-three penalties were handed out, the Petes being the worst offenders, carrying off twelve. With these twelve penalties it meant a man in the penalty box for 27 minutes or practically half the time that the game was in play. Lakefield were not much better as they spent 25 minutes in the penalty box. It seemed a hard luck night for Junkin, the Lakefield goalkeeper who played a fine game in the first period when he was called upon to stop many hard ones. Late in the second period he got struck on the head by the puck and had to have four stitches put in. In the third period he was not long back on the ice when he received another one on the head which dazed him for a few moments.

The majority of the goals were scored on combination plays. To pick the star of the night would be a difficult task for most of the players resorted to "the trying to get him plan" and thus spent considerable time in the penalty box. Cripps, Jones and Lawless played the cleanest game of the night as none of these players were in the penalty box. E. Wannamaker, the lightest man on the ice, played good hockey. Ted LeBarr gave good exhibits of stickhandling as did Lawless, but on the night's play nobody starred. The Petes were unable to as they were hard checked and the players grouped too much, and Lakefield seemed not to be able to hit their stride.

The Play.

The game broke fast and after one minute of play Stabler took a nice pass from Hamblin and pushed the rubber into the net for the first goal. Peterboro then carried the play right into Lakefield territory and after much hard checking Callidine took a pass from Jones for Peterboro's first tally. For the next eight minutes the Lakefield goalie was given a tough time of it, but he made some splendid saves. LeBarr was chased to the fence with Allin following but Callidine came to the rescue and held the puck in play until LeBarr came back. LeBarr then took the puck from the Peterboro blue line, beat the Lakefield defence and shot, the rubber struck Junkin's goal pads but Jones was in on the rebound for the Petes second goal. Hamblin was then given a penalty for tripping and he was no sooner back on the ice than he was sent again to the two-minute box for throwing his stick. The period closed with Callidine in the penalty box.

At the beginning of the second Callidine and Allin were both chased and as they came on, off went Stabler and E. Wannamaker and then came White and E. Wannamaker who started a little game of their own. LeBarr, after eight minutes of play, stickhandled up the ice and scored on a close one. Hamblin was then chased, but Bert McLeod got the wrong man as it should have been Sherrin. LeBarr was then fenced and then there was much hard checking and bunching around the puck in which Kenneally took a pass from Cripps and sent home the Petes second goal of the period. The period ended with Hamblin again in the penalty box.

In the third the Lakefield boys slowed up but the play still remained poor hockey. Stabler went to the box and Kenneally scored, being assisted by Jones. Hamblin was chased for the fifth time and in nine minutes of play Callidine scored. The next goal was scored on a pass from Callidine to Allin. Keneally and Hamblin then mixed and both went to the box. Kenneally was no sooner back on the ice than he was given a second two minutes for tripping on centre ice. White and Sherrin started a free-for-all down around the Lake field net with the goalie trying to get into the fray also. These players were given five minutes each. Kenneally was also sent to the box leaving the Petes with three men on the ice but Lakefield failed to score. In 16 minutes of play, with the Petes one man short, Stabler scored the final goal which was well earned after much stickhandling. LeBarr drew the final penalty for tripping.

BRISTLING BATTLES of BARE FIST DAYS

(MY LIFE STORY)

by Jack McAuliffe

CHAPTER TWENTY-FOUR

I started out practically broke to go from New York to San Francisco to fight Jim Carroll, the man who invented the pivot punch. I wanted to gain revenge for Jack Dempsey, who was beaten by La Blanche, protege of Carroll's.

Friends helped me along the way The day I landed in Frisco it was foggy. The first thing I found walking along the wet streets was a playing card—a ten of hearts.

I was strangely pursued by cards. I never failed before a big fight to find a playing card, generally a "heart."

I was the freak of the town with my fashions in San Francisco. I was sure putting on the dog. I had a long cape with a velvet collar and cuffs and wore it thrown back over my shoulders. I wore a high hat and although I was walking on the sidewalk I had my shoes continually shining like a looking glass. My fashions were new.

Dick Roche, well-known New York gambler, arrived in town. There was plenty of talk about the fight. Carroll was very popular with the coast fans and they were backing him heavily, showing their confidence. Roche met an additional $5.000 side bet asked by Carrol's backers. I had been drinking a bit with my Irish friends and was about 15 pounds over weight. Roche raised hell when he saw me and insisted on my going into heavy training right away.

I went over to Jack Dempsey's camp. He was training for a bout with Australian Jack McCarthy. I was very much impressed with the pivot punch because I realized its potentialities and expected Carroll would use it whenever possible.

I made the biggest mistake of my career at this time—that of underestimating an opponent. I figured Carroll was yellow. He had the courage of a bulldog.

But we sure got a dirty deal from the club authorities. They refused to let Dempsey act as my second and would not let my friends from the east into their exclusive clubhouse for the match.

"You and your burglars cannot come out here and run this club," William Vice, then presiding chairman of the club, said to me in refusing me my assistants and insisting on picking his own referee.

Then Dick Roche calmly took command of the situation. He was a regular guy and a great sport

"We forfeit, gentlemen," he said very, very quietly and all voices hushed as he stood up still and dramatically. He stressed the word "gentlemen."

"You mean you'll forfeit your $10,000 cash," Vice gasped in amazement.

"Yes," replied Roche, "rather than go through with a crooked fight." And we all left the room.

NOTE—In the next chapter McAuliffe tells of his thrilling battle with Carroll at Frisco.

CLERKS OBJECT TO DECISIONS AND LEAVE ICE

Cooler Counsel Prevails and They Return To Win Game.

SCORE 5-1.

Combination Play Wins For Storekeepers in Game With Menie.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 2. — Last night's Town League fixture at Covert's Arena nearly ended in a fiasco, when the Clerks left the ice just after the start of the third period. They claimed Cowell had been giving them much the worst of his decisions, and when he chased McMullen for bumping Lynn and Wood followed for telling Cowell what he thought of his refereeing, the whole team went to the dressing room. Cooler heads prevailed and they returned to the ice. Play had hardly started when Labrash followed his team mates to the cooler for slashing Rannie. That left McArthur and Atkinson to ward off the Menie attacks and with good work by Fox they held the fort till the others returned. The final score was 5 to 1 for the Clerks, with the period score 2 to 0, 3 to 1, and 5 to 1.

Two of the Clerk goals were of the lucky variety, but they had a margin on the play all the way through the piece and clearly earned their win.

Wood and Labrash were not as brilliant as in the last game, but held up their end in fine style. McArthur was the bright light for the Clerks, and his great poke check had the Menie forwards baffled at every turn, and it was seldom they got away for a clear shot on goal.

Fox turned in another fine performance in goal. And the defence pair gave him better protection than in any previous game. Kerr was the best for Menie, but refused to pass the puck to a team mate. Rannie, Shillinglaw, Hay and Lynn played nice hockey, but the most of their efforts were of the individual variety.

Labrash opened the scoring in four minutes after a clever effort. He grabbed the puck at centre and went down with Wood on his left. When they hit the defence, Labrash slid the puck between the defence instead of passing to Wood and went right in close on Owens.

One minute before the first period ended, Atkinson went down the north boards to the corner, and passed out in front of the Menie net and the puck was deflected into the net for a lucky goal.

Wood went through alone shortly after the start of the second period to beat Owens. Atkinson and Wood passed the puck back and forth from one end to the other to get in close on Owens, but the shot was wide of the net.

On Kerr's shot from outside the defence, Rannie came in fast to shove in the rebound for the only Menie Score. When the teams went back to full strength after the third period flare-up, McArthur scored for the Clerks when his shot over the net bounced back in front of the Menie cage and the Clerk captain slapped it home before any of the Menie boys could check him.

He came back with the last goal of the night, taking the puck from Kerr at centre and working through the defence to score from close range.

"Doug" Runions was used quite frequently and the clever Midget played better than in any previous game.

The Elks and Tigers battled 10 minutes overtime without either team hitting the cords. It was a close-checking affair with honors about even, and both goalies performing in fine style.

Line-ups

Elks.—Goal, Heptonsall; defence, Garrison and Dooher; centre, Hendy; wings, Grills and Lamber; sub. Douglas.

Tigers—Goal, Reynolds; defence, Wilks and Linton; centre, Blute; wings, Stocker and G. Runions; sub. Cubbit.

Referee—E. Coulter.

Clerks.—Goal, Fox; defence, McMullen and Atkinson; centre, McArthur; wings, Labrash and Wood; subs., D. Runions and Sloggett.

Menie.—Goal, Ted Owens; defence Shillinglaw and Hay; centre, Rannie; wings, Lynn and Kerr; subs., Coulter and W. Owens.

Referee Jack Cowell.

PARKDALE LOSES EIGHT IN A ROW

Galt Wins At Arena Against Greatly Weakened Team.

TORONTO, Feb. 2. — Just a shadow of the team that started the season wearing the colors of the Parkdale Canoe Club took a 3 to 1 defeat from the Galt Terriers in the senior O.H.A. game at the Arena last night. Jim Lount, sterling defence player; Red Armstrong, Bert Clayton and Ross Paul were absent, all out with injuries. Lount was on the bench, but nursing a cane instead of a hockey stick. The victory keeps Terriers in the running for the group playoff. It was Parkdale's eighth consecutive defeat.

The attendance was small, and the hockey lifeless. Two periods were scoreless, all the goals coming in the second chukker. Two fights gave the closing session some "pep." Radke and Art Gauthier starting one racket in front of the penalty box. Brother Al horned in, and while he was taking a few punches at Radke, Art Gauthier tapped the Parkdale defence player over the head.

TWEED WINS IN SNOW STORM

Beats Madoc 4-2 in Fast Game Despite Bad Weather.

M. GERALDI HURT.

TWEED, Feb. 2. — About four o'clock yesterday it looked as though the snowstorm would stop the Tweed and Madoc game of the Hastings County League, but about 5.30 the storm abated. As the teams went on the ice for the first period a snowstorm again started, and it was impossible to follow the puck. This period was rather slow owing to the amount of snow that was falling. Very good combination was played on both sides. Watson was the first to score with a long shot from left wing. In a few minutes Fred Geraldi picked up the puck on a pass from Houston and scored. With a few seconds to go in this period Alex. Geraldi took a pass from Madoc, and on a lone rush went through the Madoc defence, making the score 2 to 1.

At the opening of the second period the snowstorm had ceased a little, and the boys were working hard. Fred Geraldi was right in his position and dropped the puck in the net when only about three minutes of this period had been played. In the next few minutes there was a considerable mix-up in front of Madoc's goal, and Max Geraldi had a good chance and scored. Madoc also scored in this period. Max Geraldi was very unfortunate. He was skating up the ice very swiftly when he was tripped, falling on his head. He was carried off the ice unconscious and taken to the hospital. At the end of the game he was able to be taken to his home.

At the opening of the third period the storm was raging again. Both teams tried for goals but were unsuccessful. Brown in the Tweed net played remarkably well. He hasn't played the nets in five or six years. Only three penalties were handed out, one for Tweed and two for Madoc.

Jackson of Peterboro handled the game.

The line-up:

Madoc—Goal Wallbridge; defence Rupert and Henderson; centre, Moon; wings, Watson and Woods; sub., Smith.

Tweed—Goal, Clarke Brown; defence, Minorgan and Ray Quinn; centre, Bert Houston; wings, Fred. Geraldi and M. Geraldi; subs., A. Geraldi and B. Hansford.

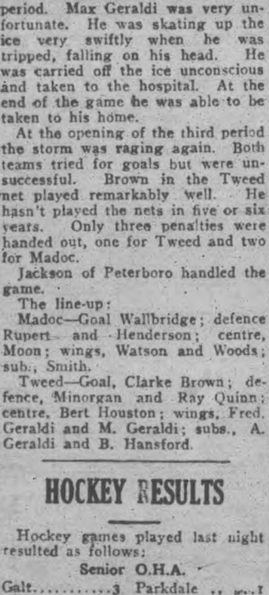
STARS IN N.H.L.



Bill Carson, who is doing great work in the N.H.L. this season.

TORONTO CHAMPION

Ross Robinson of the Toronto Speed Skating club, who defended his title last week in the Canadian championships which were held under the auspices of the Ontario speed skating association. Robinson likes a route but he is capable of sprinting with the best of them and is dangerous in any company as he proved recently at Chicago when he defeated a field of over a thousand blademen in the famous silver skate derby.

AT MILLBROOK.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 2. — Millbrook curlers were successful in the play off with Lindsay for the district cup at Peterboro on Monday, the results being:

Millbrook	Lindsay
H B Allen	C Perkins
W G Hetherington	H Forsyth
Ross Edmunds	G Edwards
J Steele	H Wood
Sk. 19	Sk. 10
T H Collins	K Sylvester
W E Ball	S Beaf
R H Edmunds	A Carew
G W Sayles	G Laidley
Sk. 17	Sk. 12
34	22

Evidently the Lindsay curlers felt certain the cup would remain in their keeping for they neglected to bring the trophy with them to Peterboro, and it will have to be sen here since it has now been won by the local club.

Winning the district cup the local club is now eligible to compete at Toronto for the Ontario trophy.

Greece is the most recent challenger of the Davis Cup. It is the thirty-first country to seek the valuable trophy since the first contest was played beween the United States and Great Britain 28 years ago. Since that time 30 nations, representing Europe, North and South America, Australia and New Zealand, have participated in the annual tennis competition.

NORTH TORONTO TEAM IS HERE FRIDAY NIGHT

Jimmy McFayden's Team Meets Petes in Senior Game.

A JUNIOR STAR.

"Big Team" Conacher's Brother May Be With Visitors.

Jimmy McFayden's North Toronto team will be here on Friday night for a Senior O.H.A. game at Brock Street Rink, and although his outfit are occupying a lowly position in the group race, they can be counted upon to give the Petes an interesting argument. North Toronto have made it close in most of their games, and their supporters claim they have been outlucked rather than outplayed in a number of fixtures.

Their line-up Friday night is likely to include Conacher, the clever North Toronto junior, who is a brother of the famous Lionel, and is playing great hockey. Jack Cain, Tracey Shaw and other well-known performers will be in action.

The Petes suffered a heavy casualty list on Monday night in the Canoe Club game, but hope to have their full team in action against North Toronto. Joe Dwyer's souvenir took the form of two stitches in his cheek, which was gashed by a skate. Ken Kane was bodied into a goal-post and had to have a stitch in a cut over his eye, and Ranger also received a skate gash in his cheek. The worst victim, however, from the viewpoint of disability is Frankie Collins, who was chopped over the leg and pulled up lame.

Tickets are already in demand for Friday's game, and a big crowd is certain.

OKE LOSES OUT IN SECOND ROUND

Local Rink Finds Curling in Slush Great Disadvantage.

SEDGEWICK WINS.

OSHAWA, Feb. 2 (Special).—Walter Oke lost his second game in the McLaughlin trophy competition to Charlie Snows, Toronto Lakeviews, the Peterborough rink finding the going in the soup much to their disadvantage. The rinks and scores were:

Peterboro	Toronto Lakeviews
M. Bredin	S. Graham
W. Rye	C. Garlick
N. P. Sutton	F. H. Sproule
W. J. Oke	C. Snows
Skip 5	Skip 14

In the preliminary round of the Albert Sykes Memorial Trophy competition, J. H. Sedgewick's Peterboro rink was again drawn to play J. W. Perry and his Oshawa quartette, and got revenge for their defeat in the McLaughlin competition by winning nine to six, and are up one shot on the round with the Motor City crew. All other games scheduled for the evening were postponed until nine o'clock Wednesday morning owing to the sticky condition of the ice. The players on the two rinks were the same as in the first event and are given above.

MILLBROOK PLAYS COGS TO-MORROW

Fast Game To Take Place on Cognawaga Rink at 6.30.

To-morrow night the Cosmos Club of Millbrook will play the Cognawaga Club team in a game of hockey, starting at 6.30. The boys who are leading the Church League have a fine bunch of speed merchants on their team. The Cosmos also have a strong line-up and are a hard bunch to beat, never letting up during the whole sixty minutes. The first time these teams met this year the Cosmos won by the odd goal. The Cogs are determined to reverse the verdict this time and a good game is assured.

ROVERS BEAT CANUCKS.

Good Game Played in Midget Hockey League—Score 3-2.

The Rovers won a victory over the Canucks last night by the score of 3-2. Both teams played very good hockey. Teams as follows:

Canucks—Goal, [illegible]; defence, McGrath and Companow; centre, Roach; wings, Meaher and Burke; subs., Collins and Jones.

Rovers—Goal, LeBarr; defence, Dorrington and Saunders; centre, Weir; wings, Dallin and Tranter; subs., Johnson and Palmer.

Referee Johnnie Ward handled the game very satisfactorily.

Things taste so good we can't help eating too much, now and then. Don't suffer for it. Take Seigel's Syrup. Any drug store.

BRUINS DEFEAT TORONTO TEAM BY LONE GOAL

Secure First Victory of Season Over St. Pats—Canadiens Win.

SCORE 1-0.

Detroit Beats Chicago and Americans Win in Ottawa.

BOSTON, Mass., Feb. 2—Boston Bruins obtained sweet revenge last night by defeating Toronto St. Patrick's 1 to 0 in a lively National Hockey League contest here. It was the first time this season that the Bruins had been able to win the decision over the Irish, and a crowd of more than ten thousand expressed appreciation of the event. Toronto has won two games from the Boston club in their previous meetings.

On their last appearance in Boston St. Pats defeated the local club 5 to 3, Carson being the main factor in the result. Last night big Frederickson, the former Western Canada League centre, drew the teeth of the Toronto attack and sewed up Carson's best efforts. Frederickson scored the only goal of the game in an unaided break through the Irish defence in the second period.

Canadiens 1; Rangers 0

NEW YORK, Feb. 2—Pete Lepines goal after sixteen minutes overtime play last night gave Canadiens of Montreal a 1-to-0 victory over the New York Rangers in one of the fastest and hardest fought National Hockey League battles seen at Madison Square Garden. It was the second time within three nights that a goal by Lepine had brought victory to the "Flying Frenchmen," the lanky substitute centre having brought a sudden end to the New York American-Canadien encounter on Sunday night.

Last night's victory was well earned by the visiting Canucks, their fast skating finally breaking through Chabot's brilliant goalkeepkeeping to cop the laurels. The Rangers were in the thick of the fray throughout but a steady defensive display by Gardiner, Mantha and Leduc backed by good goal tending by Hainesworth kept the locals at bay.

Detroit 4; Chicago 3

WINDSOR, Feb. 2—Departing from the form which landed them in the cellar of the American group of the National Hockey League the Detroit Cougars played the Chicago Black Hawks off their feet to win an overtime game, 4 to 3, here last night. Foyston scored the winning goal after seven minutes' extra play. Bellefeuille, of Detroit, made the first score of the game with a sensational shot which went like a bullet from well past mid-ice into the Black Hawk goal.

Americans 4; Ottawa 2

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 2—A furious second period onslaught which netted them a trio of goals, gave Tex Rickard's New York Americans, a sufficient margin to hand the Senators of Ottawa a 4 to 2 trimming in an N. H. L. engagement here last night. The Star Spangled men had a difficult time in stemming a torrid dush by the league leaders in the closing periods.

It was after the locals had gone into the lead on a tally by Kilrea that the Americans unleashed the attack in the middle period that continued relentless until Bouchard, Shorty Green and Conacher had bulged the Ottawa net twice. In the closing stanza the Senators' attempts to knot the score were aided when Hooley Smith bagged the rubber. Four and five-man rushes were trained on the New York citadel, but Vernon Forbes covered himself with glory in stemming the tide. Simpson stole away in the final minute to get the visitors' fourth goal.

TIE GAME PLAYED IN MILLBROOK LEAGUE

Ten Minutes' Overtime Fails To Break Two-Goal Deadlock.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 2. — A scheduled game in the local league series was played last night between the Anglicans and Presbyterians, resulting in a tie, 2-2, ten minutes overtime failing to change the score. The teams were:

Presbyterians—Goal, K. Larmer; defence, F. Gray and S. Gilmour; centre, F. Russell; wings, H. Brown and L. Ingram; subs., H. Lancashire and S. Brown.

Anglicans—Goal, D. Sheppard; defence H. Nattrass and A. Thorne; centre, J. Mitchell; wings, R. Shaw and S. Sloan; subs., W. Budd and H. Jordan.

A. McCorry is the official referee for all games in the local league.

At the end of the first period the score stood 1-1; each side added one goal during the second period, and no other goals were scored in the third period, or in the overtime play.

Thursday evening it is expected that the team from Garden Hill, which was to have played against the local Tuxis Boys on Saturday night but was prevented on account of soft ice, will be here and the game carried through.

TAX COLLECTOR'S DIFFICUTIES DID NOT EXIST 27 YEARS AGO

W. J. Green Has Held Office in Peterborough Since 1900.

RECALLS OLD TIMES.

Twenty-seven years ago this morning, just as the bear came out to see his shadow, William J. Green entered the services of the city as the tax collector. Peterborough was then a town, and the total taxes collected were $80,000. Since then Peterborough has grown and increased in population and with this has increased the amount of taxes collected each year, until last year it was nearly $800,000. The population and size has not increased according to the amount of taxes paid. In fact, said Mr. Green, the size of the city has increased very little, but it has become more compact and the vacant lots of 1900 are now the centres of thriving business or comfortable homes.

Mr. Green could not call to memory the exact tax rate then, but he was sure it was not over 24 mills on the dollar, while last year the rate was 36 mills, so the cost of governing this city has greatly increased since 1900.

Mr. Green has in his office three old receipts which were given in 1852, 1866, and 1867 for taxes. The receipts dated March 1st, 1852, is for the 1851 taxes on the property where the house of Mayor Holloway now stands. John Reid then owned the property, and William Cummings was tax collector. Money was then counted in pounds, shillings, and pence, and the total taxes for this lot amounted to sixteen shillings, seven and one-half pence, or $3.95 in present Canadian money.

When Mr. Green took over the tax collector's office, he did not find it hard to get the taxes paid, and it has just been in the last few years that there has been difficulty in getting in some of the money. He believes times are harder now than then, but he points out that Peterborough's most prosperous years were just before the war. The people who do not pay the taxes until after the new year are, in Mr. Green's estimation, people who have no system of financing.

Born In Monaghan.

Mr. Green was born in the township of North Monaghan, where now stands the Springville United church, and it was here he spent the first few years of his life. His home was a long log building and he was the youngest of a large family. Soon his father moved to the farm about three miles out of the city which is now owned by George Hunter. While at Springville Mr. Green can well remember his father helping to tow heavy loads up the Springville hill, for there were no railways in those days and the road did not then wind around the Springville hill as the highway does to-day and as the gravel road did.

The large willow tree about three miles out on the highway on the south side of the road is an old land mark planted by Mr. Green some seventy-five years ago, and to-day its large branches spread out over the highway, giving shade to many a passing motorist who stops for a few moments' rest.

Mr. Green had to attend the old town hall school and he can remember children who had to walk four and even more miles to school. Some pupils walked from almost the present western boundary of the city to that school. The rural part of the township of North Monaghan was then more densely inhabited, more people then living within a mile radius of Springville than in the whole rural part of the township to-day.

Between his home and what was the village of Peterborough was one of the finest pine ridges in this part of the province, and lumbering operations were in full swing when he was a boy. The trees in some cases were more than four feet in diameter and to-day the remains of this pine forest may be seen, for some of the farmers have built stump fences.

Mr. Green came to what is now the City of Peterborough and learned the tailoring and there was a time when he had eighteen men under him. Everything was made by hand at that time. Since then the great majority of suits are ready-made and on this line of manufacturing the Jewish race has obtained a strangle hold and commands it, said Mr. Green.

Sixty years ago there were more than 50 shoe makers in Peterborough, but to-day they are very few, for all the foot wear is factory made.

BROWNING FEARS OUTCOME OF SUIT

Says Woman Usually Wins, Whatever Evidence Shows.

NEW YORK, Feb. 2 (Canadian Press)—Edward West Browning, 52 year old wealthy realtor, was pessimistic today over the outcome of his separation suit against his sixteen year old wife, Frances "Peaches" Heenan Browning.

"You know how it is—the woman always had 99 chances out of 100," he said in an interview. "Justice and right may all be on the man's side but that seldom overcomes the mere fact that she is a woman."

The final hearing was held at White Plains yesterday. The rival counsel will have an opportunity to amplify the contentions and file briefs in the two weeks interval following next Saturday. The case has been taken under advisement by Supreme Court Justice Seeger, who says "any more trials like this will have to be heard by another judge."

RUINS DISCOVERED FORTY FEET DOWN

Peking Unbelievably Old City, Recent Excavations Reveal.

PEKIN, By Mail.—That Pekin is almost unbelievably ancient as a city, even though it has not always been China's capital, is evidenced by discoveries made here several years ago when excavations were being made for the $7,000,000 hospital and medical college buildings put up here by the Rockefeller Foundation. To a depth of 40 feet the remains of two distinct cities were found under the site of the present hospital, and deep wells dug indicate that there are the remains of other buried cities even below this level.

Pekin in winter shows how this gradual process was carried on. The "Hutungs" or narrow Chinese streets vary from four to 20 feet in width, and even now they are rising perceptibly above the levels of the areas between. The people dump ashes and all kinds of refuse into the streets, and these substances are ground into the soil.

Enormous Stone Lions.

At many points one can see through the gates in the walls which surround all Chinese houses, and the court yards are three, four and even five feet below street level in most cases, though some of them have been filled in. This filling in is done because during the heavy summer rains the water from the streets runs into the yards and has no drainage. Along the Hutungs stand enormous stone lions—waist-high to a man, and many of these are already buried shoulder high—objects for explorers to dig up centuries from now.

A similar process of entombment and the building of successive cities in the ruins of the old has been observed in the excavations of many ancient cities.

OBITUARY.

Miss B. G. BOLIN

The funeral of the late Miss Bridget Gertrude Bolin, whose death occurred in Rochester, New York, on Sunday night, took place this morning from the residence of her sister, Mrs. P. Heffernan, 377 Reid Stret, to St. Peter's Cathedral, where funeral mass was solemnized at nine o'clock by Rev. K. Corkery. A nephew of the deceased, John Carroll, Junior, served the mass. Rev. J. Finn officiated at the cemetery.

Pall-bearers were Messrs. F. Fairen, E. Conroy, L. D. Letellier, Wm. Rudkins, Thomas McAuley and Angus MacPherson.

Hollinger Stocks Go Down On Generally Firm Market

TORONTO, Feb. 2 (Canadian Press)—Hollinger lost sixty cents of its recent advance when it dropped back to 21.80 on the Standard Mining Exchange this morning. Barry Hollinger was another weak spot conspicuous in the generally firm list, losing 1 1-4 at 83 3-4. Teck Hughes was one of the firmer issues, gaining 1-8 at 6.43 and Amulet sold up seven cents at 174. Area moved up alongside Amulet, selling to 63, 3 1-2 higher. Consolidated West Dome sold up 1 5-8 at 18 7-8 and Laval Quebec firmed 1-4 at 37.

Supply For Export Low Wheat Prices Advance

CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—(Canadian Press.)— With estimates current that the United States can hereafter export less than 2,000,000 bushels of wheat this season, wheat developed early firmness to-day. On the other hand, vessel chartering from Argentina and Australia was reported very active.

Starting unchanged to 1-4 cent higher, wheat sagged a little and then scored an advance all around. Corn, oats and provisions were easy, corn opening unchanged to 1-8 cent off and subsequently averaging lower.

Opening prices were: Wheat, May, 141 5-8, July 132 7-8. Corn, May, 80 1-2, July 83 3-4. Oats, May 47 3-8, July 47 3-8.

Seagram Leads Advance In Toronto Stock Market

TORONTO, Feb. 2 (Canadian Press).—Seagram reached another record high on the Toronto Stock Exchange this morning at 22, and it closed at that mark at noon for a gain of 3-4 of a point. Hiram Walker was another leader in the general moderate upturn, gaining 1¼ at 96¼. Gooderham and Worts held firm at 48, but Industrial Alcohol eased a quarter at 24⅛. Shredded Wheat, Canadian Pacific Railway, and Barcelona were all firm spots in the regular list. Wheat and Canadian Pacific each gained 1⅛ points at 56⅛ and 172½, while Barcelona was a half point higher at 40 in active trading. Nipissing, with an advance of 35 cents at 10.25, featured the busy mining section.

Activity In Rail Shares Marks Upward Move

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—(Canadian Press.) — Widespread activity in the railroad shares, embracing both the second grade and seasoned dividend paying issue, featured the resumption of the upward movement in to-day's stock market. While the source of the buying in the rail shares was hard to trace, it was believed to represent not only purchases for investment and speculative accounts, but also acquisitions in connection with possible mergers.

Industrials did not advance to the same extent as rails, but pool activity was apparent in a number of issues. Consolidated Cigar was bid up three points on reports of expanding earnings. Pullman moved up 2 3-4 and several others advanced a point or two.

Canadian Pacific assumed the leadership of the railroad group by soaring over seven points. Norfolk and Western, Pere Marquette and Wheeling and Lake Erie common each extended their gains to four points or more. Several others, such as Delaware and Hudson, Union Pacific, Chesapeake and Ohio, and New York Central, moved up three points or more.

MORE PERMITS THAN LAST YEAR

Buildings Authorized During January To Cost Over Sixteen Thousand.

ONE FOR SMITHY.

Building in Peterborough got off to a good start, judging by the amount of permits issued for January. Last month seven permits were issued by the City Engineer, entailing an estimated amount for construction of $16,835. In January, 1926, there were three permits issued and the amount was $12,500.

Some of the principal permits issued in January were: Rebuilding the Canadian Canoe Company plant, the contract for which has been let to T. Ephgrave at an estimated cost of $14,500; repairing the Albion sweets, $1,000; and putting fixtures into the restaurant at 182½ Charlotte Street, estimated at $400.

The day of the blacksmith shop was thought to be past, but last month a permit was issued to build one at 245 McDonnel Street.

COLLEGIATE PRINCIPAL TELLS ABOUT INSTITUTE HANDICAPS

H. R. H. Kenner Reports "Unsatisfactory State of Affairs" To Board.

COMFORTS NEEDED.

The following report from H. R. H. Kenner, B.A., Principal of the Collegiate Institute, was read to the Board of Education last night. No action was taken.

"I deem it my duty to direct your attention to the unsatisfactory state of affairs which has for some time existed and still exists at the Collegiate Institute. This I shall do as briefly as possible, merely mentioning the many handicaps under which we are trying to do our work without elaborating each one.

We have an attendance of approximately six hundred pupils: Four hundred of these are in the main building, and two hundred, consisting of those taking Commercial work, are housed in the South Central School building which was discarded for Public School purposes at the time when the Prince of Wales School was erected.

Let me enumerate some of the handicaps the Commercial pupils, who are one-third of our number, are working under:

1. They have no Assembly Hall in which the pupils can assemble as a unit.
2. They have no Library.
3. They have no facilities for Physical Culture.
4. They have no playground worthy of the name.
5. They have no facilities for Manual Training or Household Science.

In fact they have nothing but the dull monotonous grind of the classroom. They are too far away to take any part in the school activities of the main school, and the building in which they are at present accommodated is totally unfitted for any corporate life of their own, and to make matters worse, they are in a building poorly heated, badly ventilated, poorly lighted—a building expensive to run, and more expensive to keep in repair.

With reference to the main building there are several serious defects. We enjoy the unenviable reputation of being the only Collegiate Institute in the Province having no gymnasium. It is true that from November to April the boys of the Upper and Middle Schools have two half-hours a week in the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium and the boys in the Lower School three half-hours a week. During September and October, April, May and June, when outdoor sports are indulged in, we have no gymnasium facilities at all. This I consider a serious handicap.

In the second place we have no equipment for Manual Training and Household Science. Six of our classes, it is true, are given the use of the equipment belonging to the Public School, but they have to leave their own building and go to the old Collegiate Institute building for this work. If we had proper accommodation the six classes in the Commercial school would be taking this work, and some other classes in the main building.

In the third place owing to lack of accommodation, we have been forced to refuse admission to pupils living in the County, except to a limited few. Non-resident pupils as a class are very beneficial to the schools who admit them, as for the most part they come to school prepared to work. At the present time we have forty-one non-resident pupils. They each pay fifty dollars a year for their tuition. The average cost per pupil in Peterborough last year was in the neighborhood of one hundred and twenty dollars. If accommodation for all county pupils were available the county council would be obliged to pay at least 80 per cent. of the average cost per pupil for each one of these.

In the next place we have no provision for Vocational Training in Peterborough. The following places in the Province have made provision for this kind of training: Chatham, Fort William, Galt, Guelph, Haileybury, Hamilton, Kitchener-Waterloo, Niagara Falls, Ottawa, Owen Sound, Port Arthur, Renfrew, St. Catharines, Sault Ste. Marie, Sarnia, Sudbury, Windsor-Walkerville and Weston. Surely it is time that we did something along this line. Educators in the past have made the great mistake in thinking that what is good for one is good for all in the way of education. They have, therefore, insisted upon the same course of study for all children. But some pupils are unable to generalize, to handle abstract ideas, or to use general principles, and it is useless to try to teach such pupils subjects that involve these acts. We have tried to do so, and that is why we have turned out of our schools so many boys and girls who could not compete in the struggle for existence nor manage their own affairs with ordinary prudence. When they left school they were not only not prepared to do anything by which they could earn a living, but they were discouraged and disheartened, and oftentimes disgruntled and anti-social. We should have trained these children to work and make things with their hands, rather than tried to train them to read and talk about things. Teach them the things they can learn, and we will send them out of school trained, and even skilled, in the doing of things that will enable them to compete in the struggle for existence. If this be true, there should be in our Secondary schools some provision made for Industrial or Vocational Training.

I might say in conclusion that if accommodation were made for Vocational Classes it would be a great boon for the Night Classes, which are doing their work at present in very unsuitable quarters.

SLAYER OF WIFE WOUNDED TWICE

Had Shot Himself Before Leaving Hall, Witnesses Say.

FUNERAL OF WOMAN.

TIMMINS, Ont., Feb. 2. — A post-mortem examination of the body of Nick Kulynch, the Ukrainian who murdered his wife and later shot himself when surrounded by police, disclosed two bullets, one lodged in the right temple and the other on the left side. The existence of two bullets puzzled the police until it was learned from eye witnesses that the murderer had fired several shots in the dance hall and had himself dropped to the floor before leaving the premises. It is now apparent that Kulynch turned the weapon on himself immediately after shooting his wife, but the bullet was deflected by a bone and failed to pass through the brain. One eye witness recalled seeing the man wipe some blood from his face before reloading his gun. A close examination of the head showed two small punctures side by side.

Funeral services over the body of Mary Kulynch were held yesterday at the South Porcupine Roman Catholic church, but, due to the heavy snowfall, interment was postponed until to-day. The body of the murderer will be buried without any service on Thursday.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE GIVEN T. L. DIAMOND, FOUND GUILTY ON MANSLAUGHTER CHARGE

Jury Verdict of Guilty Contains Recommendation Mercy.

HEALTH CONSIDERED.

Defendant Had Speed Bug, Says Justice Logie in Passing Sentence.

Thomas Leslie Diamond of Campbellford was found guilty on a charge of manslaughter after the jury deliberating on the case for one hour and fifty minutes. He was permitted to go on suspended sentence by the Honorable Mr. Justice Logie, who said that he was influenced in his decision by the obvious ill health of the accused.

The accused, who appeared to be a broken man, sat through the entire hearing which lasted all day as if in a trance. As the jury filed in after being out from 4.35 until 6.25 he raised his eyes and kept them fixed on the foreman awaiting the fatal decision.

When Vincent Eastwood, Jr., the foreman of the Jury in reply to the query, "Have you come to a verdict?" replied: "We have", a tense feeling was evident in the Court. "We find the accused guilty," stated Mr. Eastwood, "with recommendation for mercy."

The accused collapsed completely on hearing the verdict, slumping down in the corner of the prisoner's box and breaking into tears. His wife who was in the Court room fainted and had to be revived by water and smelling salts.

When His Lordship, after deciding that he would permit the accused to go on suspended sentence, had told him he was discharged the accused's daughter came forward to the railing in the court and clasped her father by the hand and kissed him. Mr. Diamond went over to his wife, who by this time had recovered sufficiently to walk, the both of them leaving the court arm in arm.

In the final summing up His Lordship paid a decided tribute to the Jury, declaring: "It renews one's confidence in the Juries of Ontario when you find them bringing in a verdict on the evidence regardless of the consequences."

Address to Jury.

C. A. Payne, the counsel for the accused, addressing the jury, declared: "This case has now reached the stage when the rest lies with you to determine the innocence or the guilt of the accused. The charge is one of the most serious offences, that of manslaughter. The accused is charged with causing the death of Mrs. Stillman.

"In charges of this kind the Crown must prove the accused guilty of gross negligence. On a charge such as this the only ver-

Increase Will Apply To Power For Peterborough

S. B. Iler, Hydro-Electric engineer, told The Examiner at Oshawa last night that the increased power rates would apply to Peterborough. The new rates are charged directly to Oshawa power consumers by the Hydro because, unlike Peterborough, Oshawa does not own its distribution system. Mr. Iler stated that in the price to Peterborough's Utilities Commission the general increase throughout the sytem would be included.

LUMBER PLANT BADLY DAMAGED BY GREAT FIRE

Loss of $100,000 Sustained By Hamilton Firm Last Night.

DRINKERS BLAMED.

Officials Say Men Gather in Yards To Drink Canned Heat.

HAMILTON, Ont., Feb. 3.—Fire did $100,000 damage last night to the Aitchison Lumber Company's plant on Main Street, between Park and Bay Streets, and while the flames were still shooting into the sky at midnight, the blaze was under control. For a time it appeared as if the whole block must go. Residents of apartment houses were warned to prepare to get out, and many of them left, scantily attired, with a few household effects, but they were able to return safely. The conflagration was the most spectacular in many years and the reflection attracted thousands.

Officials of the company last night had not had a chance to enter into the ruins of the planing mill, storeroom or other buildings, but they stated that the machinery they contained would be ruined by water, even if they had escaped the flames. There were many costly pieces of apparatus contained there. The company's representatives estimated their damage at $100,000.

The Bottling Works of Best and Bennett at the rear of the Aitchison structures were also badly gutted with a loss of several thousand dol-

KIDD BRINGS UP POWER QUESTION

Speaks of Needs of Eastern Ontario—Poisson Seconds Reply To Speech.

IN LEGISLATURE.

TORONTO, Feb. 3.— (Canadian Press.)—In moving the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne at the Legislature this afternoon, Major T. A. Kidd (Conservative) Kingston, called attention to the requirements of Eastern Ontario in the matter of Hydro-Electric power. The St. Lawrence river and Upper Ottawa river provided natural resources, he said, which could supply the demand and he urged their development as soon as possible.

In seconding the address, Dr. Paul Poisson, Conservative, North Essex, spoke of himself as a French-Canadian. He said he voiced the appreciation of French-Canadians for Premier Ferguson's efforts for the rights of the minorities. Speaking of the North America Act, Dr. Poisson said: "Let no petty jealousies mar your purposes." In regard to the Government control measure the member for North Essex said no doubt the legislation to be brought down "will provide sufficient liberty to the citizens to stimulate moral responsibility as to the use of liquor."

OMEMEE TANNERY EMPLOYS 85 IN MAKING PATENT LEATHER FOR HOME AND EXPORT TRADE

Thriving Business Built Up By Edwards and Edwards Co., Ltd.

HIGH GRADE ONLY.

Factory Organized By Peterborough Tanner, Whose Grandson Carries On.

The little village of Omemee may well be proud of its tannery, for it is one of the oldest operating tanneries in this part of Ontario. Seventy-five years ago the grandfather of Harry Lamb came to Omemee and there started a tannery. Up to a few years ago the tannery had always been operated by a member of the Lamb family passing through three generations, but Harry Lamb, at present an employee of the tannery, sold out to Edwards and Edwards Company, Ltd., of Cobourg.

The late Mr. Lamb learned his trade in Peterborough Tannery, which was then situated at the corner of Aylmer and Hunter Streets in the premises now occupied by Thomas Brightman. At the time Mr. Lamb moved to Omemee every little village and town in this district had its tannery. There was one in Millbrook, one in Hastings, one in Cobourg, one in Port Hope, one in Peterborough, and many other small tanneries scattered throughout the district. At that time all harness and shoes were made by hand and every person needed leather for some purpose or other.

Since then many of the smaller tanneries have disappeared, but during that space of seventy-five years the Omemee tannery has kept operating. It has made in that time various kinds of leather from the heavy harness leather to the patent leather, which is its specialty to-day. In manufacture these various leathers have all required different processes, and so the building has changed many times, each time being built on a larger scale, till to-day the firm has a fine modern three-storey building measuring 220 feet by 64 feet, and two smaller buildings 150 feet by 50 feet, one a storey and a half high and the other two storeys.

Edwards and Edwards, Ltd., have two factories, one at Cobourg, where they tan sheep skins; and the other at Omemee, where patent leather and bag and case leather are made. When this firm took over the Omemee tannery some seven years ago, it rebuilt the factory so that they would be able to make patent leather.

The factory is fully equipped with modern machinery, run by electricity. When running full strength, which is the rule, 85 men are employed. This makes the factory a wonderful adjunct to the little village between Peterborough and Lindsay.

They Praise Hydro.

It is Hydro that has made it possible to have a tannery in Omemee, and the citizens of this village all with one accord praise the wondrous works and achievements of the "Knight of Hydro." Omemee without this factory would not have the name it has to-day as being one of the most industrious villages in this part of the province. The pay-roll of the 85 men means a great deal to Omemee, and, according to statistics, these employees should represent a population of more than 200 women and children. Most of the men are married and have families.

Practically all the hides used in the tannery come from the Canadian farmer and on the day Omemee was visited by The Examiner two teams were busily engaged in hauling hides from freight cars to the tannery.

A big export trade is being built up principally with England and the United States, for in these countries there is a big demand today for patent leather. But Canada also requires a large amount, and so much of the leather that is made is sold in Canada and goes into the making of Canadian boots, shoes and club bags.

Making the Leather.

The tanning process of making patent leather requires about two weeks time. In this period a cow hide in the raw state is changed into a fine piece of leather, dyed to whatever color is desired by the shoe manufacturer. The processing of other leathers requires in some cases as long as six months before the leather is ready for the market.

Where does the tan bark come from? Around Omemee there are

Lawyer Teaches Wife Now Work As Partners

MILWAUKEE, Feb. 3. Canadian Press.—"Dolan and Dolan" is the new sign on the door of an attorneys' office here. Husband and wife are partners. Mrs. Dolan is one of two Milwaukee women recently admitted to the practice of law. She did not attend a law school—her tutor being her husband.

VERDICT GIVEN FOR GLADSTONE IN LIBEL SUIT

Closing Testimony For Defense Given This Morning.

O'CONNOR WITNESS.

Says Milner Meant Mrs. Gladstone When He Spoke of Seraglio.

LONDON, Feb. 3 (Canadian Press). — A verdict for Viscount Gladstone was returned in the libel suit against him today. Viscount Gladstone, 72-year-son of the great Prime Minister, was sued for libel by Captain Wright, author and clubman, for terming him a "liar, coward, and foul fellow," in a letter to the Bath Club following the publication of the book in which Captain Wright accused the elder Gladstone of voicing high principles in public and striving "in private to pursue and possess every sort of woman."

Justice Sir Horace Avery said the question he proposed leaving to the jury were: First, whether the alleged libel was, in substance, true; and second, whether the defendant, Viscount Gladstone, was actuated by malice in writing what he did about Captain Wright.

The closing testimony for the defence was marked by the appearance of "Tay Pay O'Connor, Lady Gwendoline Cecil, Charlie Thompson, and other character witnesses for the older Gladstone.

Thompson said that a year ago Captain Wright asked him to write a letter to the Bath Club narrating the story which Thompson had told to the captain. This was about a woman friend who had told him that an old gentleman—suggested to have been Mr. Gladstone—had attempted to get into conversation with her on the street. Thompson said he told the captain he would not write the letter.

"Tay Pay" O'Connor, veteran Irish Nationalist, took the stand to defend the character of his old friend.

Mr. O'Connor, known as "the Father of the House of Commons" because of his long service there, testified that the late Lord Milner had Mrs. Gladstone's extraordinary solicitude for her husband in mind when he laughingly referred to the Prime Minister's "seraglio." The reference occurs in Mr. O'Connor's obituary of Lord Milner.

"Tay Pay" supported his statement by giving a touching picture of how Mrs. Gladstone was always in the gallery of the Commons when her husband made an important speech and how afterward she would be in the lobby waiting to bundle him up and take him home.

Regarding the allegation that Mr. Gladstone connived in an illicit relationship between Charles Parnell, Irish Liberal leader, and Mrs. O'Shea, Mr. O'Connor declared he certainly believed the Prime Minister had no knowledge of the relationship, nor had many other people.

Fear Makes Man Blind After Drinking Moonshine

NEWARK, N.J., Feb. 3 (United News).—Howard Breener had read so much about wood alcohol that when he tossed off a little dram of bootleg liquor things seemed to become dark. Breener gulped down another one and was led to an ambulance which carted him to the city hospital.

"He really is blind," said physicians who examined him, "but he is blind from fear, not liquor. It's actual, but temporary.

Two men and a young girl were arrested for obtaining the liquor for Breener.

PAVING HIGHWAY OUT TO KENDRY

Provincial Department To Do Considerable Work in This District.

TENDERS CALLED.

Paving operations on a considerable scale will be undertaken by the Department of Public Highways during the coming summer on the Port Hope Highway and other roads in this residency, The Examiner learned today.

From Peterborough to Kendry, on the Port Hope highway, a distance of 7.2 miles, will be paved with a mixed macadam asphalt surface, a new type of paving in road construction. From Bewdley south to Davidson's Corners, on the same highway, a distance of 5 1-4 miles will be paved with cement.

Four miles of concrete will be laid on the Whitby road from Brooklin to the north boundary of Whitby Township.

Five and a half miles of concrete will be laid on the road from Oakwood to Lindsay, a distance of 5 1-2 miles.

The Examiner's informant said that the tenders would be advertised to-day and would call for all road to be the standard width of 20 feet, also that the work would commence about June 1 and would probably be finished during next summer.

It is rumored that the Chemong Road will be resurfaced for a distance of six miles from the city, but this could not be verified.

Buys Ebony Elephants For Fellow Kiwanians

SINGAPORE, Feb. 3 (by Cable).—Albert Platt, a traveller on the round-the-world cruise of the Canadian Pacific flagship, Empress of Scotland, bought 84 ebony elephants when the ship reached Ceylon, which he will present to fellow members of the Kiwanis Club at Denver, when he returns to that city.

Another passenger on the cruise Gustav Fauser, went hunting by flashlight in the jungles of Ceylon accompanied by only one Singalese guide. He had some fine sport, shooting one leopard and two wild cats. The skins, when cured, will be sent to New York.

BETTER LIGHTING IN CENTRE OF CITY WILL BE PROVIDED; COUNCIL COMMITTEES MEET

All Iron Standards on Main Streets To Be Fitted With Lights.

GARBAGE RATE SET.

Will Cost 6 Mills, Same as Last Year—New Industries To Be Sought.

Three committees of the City Council got under way with their 1927 work at meetings held last night. They were the Fire, Water, and Light Committee, the Property Committee, and the Manufacturers' Committee.

Alderman R. S. Cotton presided over the deliberations of the first-named body, and Harry Beatty, of the Utilities Commission staff, was on hand with a map showing all the street lights in the city to explain recommendations of the Commission for changes. It is suggested by the Commission that the lights should be replaced as first intended on every one of the iron standards on George and Charlotte Streets. The proposal is, however, to use incandescent lights, as already installed on one side of George Street, instead of magnetites, and there would be, altogether, forty more lights than there are now. Due to the lower cost of the incandescent lights to be used, the cost would be increased only $933 over last year's cost of $3,582.00, although there would be twice as much light in the main section of the city.

Ald. McIntyre asked if this was to be an annual cost, and if the aldermen knew where these changes would lead to in the end. It was pointed out by the chairman and the Mayor that changes in the other sections of the city would give more light for less money, due to the fact that the lights would not burn all day, as they do now. The west end section now being changed was quoted as one which would cost $31 less a year. It was decided that in view of the value of increased lighting on George and Charlotte Streets for advertising and protective purposes, that the change be authorized.

A company which stated modestly that it made the "finest fire-fighting equipment on the North American continent," wrote asking consideration when any purchases might be made for the department.

A change was made, at the chairman's request, in the lighting scheme for Park Street in front of the C.G.E. plant, and a smaller number of larger lights will be used.

Property Committee.

The rate for the disposal of garbage, to be levied on the property in the collection area, will again be 6-10 mills, at which figure it has

Dance On Slippery Street Wins Harold Freeman $5

Community dancing seemed to strike Peterborough this afternoon. People on George Street appeared to be practicing the latest steps on the slippery road, when first one foot and then the other slipped from under them. One man started off with an open umbrella to ward off the rain, but was unable to keep his balance even with this, and retired to the safety of his store.

The dancing was in some measure led by Harold Freeman, who gave an exhibition on Simcoe Street, thereby winning a $5 wager.

Gazette Warns Against Britain Being Used as Pawn By Chinese.

LONDON, Feb. 3 (United Press) —Editorial comments by leading London newspapers today on the interruption of the Hankow negotiations emphasized the delicacy of the situation but generally concurred in the belief that the dispute with China could be settled without resort to force.

"There must necessarily be a compromise to save our faces" The Daily Chronicle said. "Little seems to have been done by the British and Chinese, it was pointed out, save to explain Sir Austen Chamberlain's policy and "any pressure favoring the substitution of the big stick for the existing policy must be firmly repelled."

"Chen's reasons for not continuing the negotiations were admirably lucid," in the opinion of The Daily Herald. "The Government can halt military preparations and secure peace with honor or it can continue its concentration and thereby tread a perilous path, the end of which cannot be foreseen."

The Daily News insisted that "the new issue raised cannot be ignored.

Funeral Of Emperor To Be Rehearsed To-morrow

TOKYO, Feb. 3 (Canadian Press).—The final rehearsal for the funeral of the late Emperor Yoshisito on February 7 and 8, which probably will be the most impressive and costly event of its kind in the history of the Orient, will be held tomorrow. The cost of the funeral will be in excess of four and a half million yen (two and a quarter million dollars).

WOMAN ADMITS BEING BIGAMIST

Mother of Four Children Recently Burned Surrenders To Police.

TWO HUSBANDS ALIVE.

TORONTO, Feb. 3 (Canadian Press)—On a charge of bigamy, Mrs. Jean Taylor, mother of four young children of Augustine Jeoffrey, who were burned to death last month, voluntarily surrendered to the police. She admitted that fifteen years ago she was married to Clifford Taylor. Both husbands were at the hearing. The four children were burned to death when fire destroyed the home while the parents were at a party.

SEVERAL SPEAKERS AT BANQUET GIVEN BY LOCAL BRANCH O.V.G.A.

Stress Need of Higher Tariff on Produce Imported from U. S.

NEED CO-OPERATION.

Over $5,000,000 Worth of Vegetables Imported During 1926.

About sixty ladies and gentlemen were present at the annual banquet held last night in the Empress Hotel under the auspices of the Peterboro Branch of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association.

The speakers for the evening were Walter Cook, President of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association, and G. Rush, organizer for the Association.

Addresses were delivered also by Frank Kitney, Bruce Johnston, R. T. Lillico, S. Oke, Aldermen Denne and Macdonald, and E. A. Peck, M. P.

The two outside speakers made the tariff the main point of their address, and both speakers outlined in a very forcible and convincing way why the Ontario Vegetable Growers should be granted an increase in the tariff of vegetables.

A few weeks ago members of the Ontario Vegetable Growers' Association, presented their case to the Tariff Commission, and now they are waiting until the Finance Minister brings down his budget to see whether the government has seen fit to put into effect the changes which the growers want.

President Cook.

Mr. Cook in his address stressed the need for a higher tariff on vegetables coming into this country as the United States at present were using Canada as a kind of dumping ground, and this thing was tending to drive men away from growing vegetables, and also to put a very inferior class of vegetables on the market, which was being bought extensively by the Canadian consumer, sometimes at a much greater cost than the Ontario article.

Mr. Cook also maintained that there would be a decrease in the price of vegetables, and there would be a much larger demand all the year around, which would overcome this decrease in price many times. Canada will always remain the natural and only dumping ground that the United States Vegetable brokers have so Mr. Cook thought it was up

Boy's Presence Of Mind Results In Robber's Death

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 3.—United Press. — Bravery and presence of mind by Albert A. Corey, Junior, ten year old son of a grocer, last night, resulted in the killing of a negro who attempted to hold up his father's store. The man, believed to be Dewey Jones, aged 23, backed the father and son into the rear of the store. Spying a revolver behind a meat cleaver the junior Corey managed to grasp it, and hand it to his father. The negro turned his head for an instant, and received two bullets from Corey.

STETTIN, Germany, Feb. 3 (Canadian Press).—After cutting off the tip of his swetheart's nose to "cure her of the inveterate habit of flirting in public," Martin Richter, a local tradesman, went contentedly to jail and is there awaiting the young woman's recovery with fond hopes of a happy reunion.

The jealous lover showed no remorse after his deed and calmly gave himself up to the police, declaring that after long and careful reflection he had come to the conclusion that the only thing to ensure his future peace of mind would be the mutilation of his fiancee's attractive features. Now he was content, he said, and after serving time in prison hopes to marry Fraulin Zoellner, in the conviction that they will be happy together.

OSHAWA LEADS TRENT TOWNS IN PROTESTING NEW POWER RATES

Council Appoints Committee To Arrange For Conference of Municipalities.

WANT INFORMATION.

Representatives From Bowmanville and Durham-Northumberland Counties Are Present.

(Special Correspondence)

OSHAWA, Feb. 3.—The Hydro Electric Commission's increase in power rates in the Central Ontario system has drawn prompt and active protest from Oshawa. At a special meeting of the city council last night a committee was appointed to arrange with other municipalities for a meeting, probably at Cobourg, to discuss the Hydro's new charge to power consumers in this district. The committee is composed of Mayor R. D. Preston and Aldermen F. R. Johnston, E. A. Bradley and H. P. Schell.

Mayor Holgate of Bowmanville and Reeve Elliott, recently elected Warden of the counties of Northumberland and Durham, were present with other members of their Council and assured Oshawa of their earnest support.

"The first I knew of the increase in rates," said Mayor Holgate, "was a few days ago when I was asked to call at the office of the Hydro manager in Bowmanville, and he laid a letter before me. You have all got the same letter from the autocratic commission, and you know what it contains. We're right behind you in anything Oshawa starts."

MAKE EFFORTS BREAK DEADLOCK WITH CANTONESE

British Government Cables Fresh Instructions Regarding Anglo-Chinese Negotiations.

ISSUE AT STANDSTILL.

General Uneasiness at Hankow Result of Dispute Over Settlement.

LONDON, Feb. 3 (Canadian Press) — After a lengthy cabinet meeting last night the British Government cabled fresh instructions to Owen O'Malley, the British charge de affairs at Hankow, in an effort to break the deadlock which developed in the Anglo-Chinese negotiations there when the Cantonese foreign minister, Eugene Chen, questioned the right of Great Britain to despatch a Shanghai defence force to the Far East.

Shorn of technicalities, it is admitted in competent official quarters that the whole Chinese situation is at a standstill over the issue of the troops now on the way. There is no likelihood that the expedition will be recalled but there is a possibility that it may be partly diverted to Singapore and Hongkong, or that an agreement may be reached with the Chinese authorities regarding the length of its stay at Shanghai.

The foreign office maintains that the negotiations between Charge O'Malley and the Cantonese foreign minister have not been broken off, explaining that Chen has merely refused to sign the draft agreement dealing with the future status of the British concessions at Hankow and Kiukiang, where the recent rioting occurred.

This refusal has given the Anglo-Cantonese discussions a new turn with respect to the general British proposals, which were first announced in a Christmas memorandum to the powers, amplified by Sir Austen Chamberlain's Birmingham speech and officially made public yesterday afternoon. These proposals deal with the whole problem of China's relations with Great Britain, including the questions of extra territoriality, customs, missionaries and other important subjects.

British officials assert that these proposals were not the subject of the Hankow discussions, and the fact that Minister Chen has refused to sign an agreement with regard to the local situations at Hankow and Kiukiang, is taken by authoritatively informed officials as an indication that he is not likely to discuss national Chinese questions seriously until the problem of the British troops is settled.

The foreign office statement on the subject was as follows:

"It appears that during the negotiations regarding the future status of the British concessions in Hankow and Kiukiang, Chen raised the question of the despatch of British troops to China.

"Consequently the negotiations have taken a new turn and the prospects of an early signing of the draft agreement providing for an amicable settlement of the Kankow and Kiukiang incidents must be postponed."

Uneasiness Prevails

HANKOW, Feb. 3. (Canadian Press) — General uneasiness prevails among the foreign community here as a result of a statement of Cantonese Foreign Minister Eugene Chen Tuesday suspending treaty negotiations with Great Britain until British forces have been withdrawn from Shanhai, to which the British have not agreed.

The apprehension of foreigners was heightened because yesterday marked t he beginning of one month's idleness during which the Chinese will celebrate the advent of their new year.

Anti-British illustrated posters falsely depicting great slaughter of unarmed and peaceable Chinese by British armed troops and British cannon during the January 3 riot, again are making their appearance. These accusative cartoons are untrue as to the facts. Not a single shot was fired that day by the British, who defended their concession district against a coolie mob of thousands. Although a number of foreigners were injured with sticks or stones, the positive assertion is made that not one Chines e was killed.

OLD MASTERS

The despot's heel is on thy shore,
Maryland!
His torch is at thy temple door,
Maryland!
Avenge the patriotic gore
That flecked the streets of Baltimore,
And bye the battle-queen of yore,
Maryland, my Maryland!

Thou wilt not cower in the dust,
Maryland!
Thy beaming sword shall never rust,
Maryland!
Remember Carroll's sacred trust,
Remember Howard's warlike thrust,
And all thy slumberers with the just,
Maryland, my Maryland!

I hear the distant thunder hum,
Maryland!
The old line's bugle, fife and drum,
Maryland!
She is not dead, nor deaf, nor dumb;
Huzza! She spurns the northern scum!
She breathes! She burns! She'll come!
She'll come!

Bobbed Hair Is Doomed And Again Isn't Doomed

CHICAGO, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Bobbed hair is passing, and long hair is coming back. Bobber hair is here to stay, and long hair will never come back.

This is the information gleaned at the Illinois Cosmetician's Society's convention here Tuesday. Each point of view is based on good authority, so girls may feel equally safe whichever way they dress their hair.

WANT EX-RECRUITS FOR CHINA SERVICE

New Men To Be Sent To U. S. Attachments Garrisoned at Tientsin.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3 (Canadian Press).—As part of "a routine allotment of vacancies to recruiting districts," headquarters of the Second Corps Area, yesterday issued a call for ex-service men or "especially promising recruits" for service in China. The new men would be sent to the United States detachments garrisoned at Tientsin.

Major Benjamin B. Bailey, staff recruiting officer, declared the special designation of the recruits was without significance or connection with the international situation.

SENATE WILL SET SALARY OF ENVOYS

United States Also Appoints Minister To Irish Free State.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (Canadian Press). — Congress will in all probability soon authorize an appropriation of $10,000 as a salary for a United States Minister to Canada. The United States will also appoint a Minister to the Irish Free State.

Secretary of State Kellogg yesterday let it be known that he has been seeking appropriations for these two Ministerial posts for some months, the State Department has asked the budget bureau to make provision for such expenditures, and it is expected that they will be approved and agreed to by both Houses within a short time.

The first notice of the intention of the administration to appoint a Canadian Minister who will hold the same rank as Hon. Vincent Massey at Washington, came yesterday when the state, justice, commerce and labor bill was amended in Senate Committee to make provision for the expenses of the Ministry.

OMEMEE TANNERY

very few hemlock trees to be found. In making this kind of leather tan bark is not used. The tanning is done by what is known as the chrome process. This is a mmeral process, as opposed to the use of tan bark, which is a vegetable process. Only in the tanning of the leather for club bags is the vegetable process used.

The hide is taken into the tannery with the hair on, and the first thing which must be done is to remove the hair. To do this the hide is passed through several alkaline vats, and the solution of lime in these vats loosens the hair. The hide is then thrown on a beam and scraped with a blunt two-handled knife to remove the loosened hair. After unhairing, the loose flesh and fat are scraped from the inner side. The hide is then passed through a splitting machine, where the outer side of the hide is split from the inner side. From now on the two layers go through different processes, the outer layer coming out as patent leather and the inner layer as leather for the lining of club bags and for other articles which require a light leather. The hides which go into the making of this leather are called the splits.

After being split the hides are passed through several rotary drums and washed thoroughly. The brilliant smooth surface of the patent leather is due to the mode of finishing by stretching the tanned hides on wooden frames and then applying successive coats of dye and varnish. Each coat is dried and rubbed thoroughly with pumice stone. After the last coat has been put on, the hides are taken and put on a second wooden frame and hung in a very warm room to get thoroughly dried. The hides are then subjected to a kneading process which softens the leather and makes it very pliable.

The leather which is turned out by the Omemee tannery is of very excellent quality, and any shade or color desired may be obtained. The hide is measured by the square foot, and for this purpose a machine which is called the "Nightingale" is used. It measures all the hides correctly, no matter how irregular they are, and registers the amount on a dial.

RELEASE CARGO TO THE OWNERS

Cargo of Schooner "Chris Moeler" To Be Released on Conditions.

POSTING OF BOND.

VICTORIA, B.C., Feb. 3 (Canadian Press).—The liquor cargo of the auxiliary schooner Chris Moeller which has been held here by the department of customs since Dec. 1 will be released to the owners, conditionally, it was learned yesterday. Instructions were received Tuesday by Collector of Customs Fred W. Davey from the Customs Department at Ottawa to release the liquor upon the posting of double duty bonds and payment by the owners of all expenses connected with the seizure.

The vessel had on board about 20,000 cases of liquor and duty on the shipment is estimated at $200,000 which means that bonds and expenses amounting to nearly half a million dollars must be posted with the department before the cargo is released.

The Manitoba Refineries, Ltd., are owners of the liquor.

BETTER LIGHTING

stood for several years. This was announced by the chairman, Ald. W. J. Hancock, at the meeting of the Property Committee. It was also decided that the use of a room in the City Hall be granted the Children's Aid Society as an office for the agent. Ald. Stocker said that it has been the wish of members of the board for some years that they might have an office and regular hours for the agent so that people could get in touch with him more easily.

The chairman brought up several matters to be included in the tentative estimates, which were not ready for consideration at last night's meeting. The drinking fountain proposed for the corner of George and Charlotte Streets was approved by the committee as a needed convenience. The chairman was authorized to interview the City Trust Commission with regard to establishing a rest room for women near the same corner, it being suggested that an entrance could be made to part of the basement of one of the stores. The necessity of such a convenience was urged by Aldermen McIntyre and Fife, who said that the stores were being used as a convenience.

Ald. Hancock's proposal to pave the market square at a cost of six or seven thousand dollars was not given a favorable reception. Suggestions were made that it be oiled often, but no action was taken in the matter.

Manufacturers' Committee.

Advertising the city's advantages was considered by the Manufacturers' Committee under the chairmanship of Alderman Roland Denne, and it was decided to arrange a supper conference between the Council, the manufacturers, and the bank managers of the city, at which ways and means of making Peterborough bigger and better would be discussed.

Two proposals for advertisements were considered. That of the London Morning Post, offering a space 5¼ by 4½ inches in a special Canadian jubilee supplement for $25 was not entertained, but it was decided to take a six by two inch space in the New York Times in a special number in March.

Ald. Greene suggested the appropriation of two or three thousand dollars to be used in advertising during the year. Other cities, he said, could get factories but Peterborough was not getting any, and it was only by spending money in placing the city before prospective builders that they could be obtained. The chairman said that it would be better to spend the money on delegations which the Mayor could authorize at any time there was a chance of getting industries.

A thousand booklets setting forth the advantages of Peterborough will be ordered. These will be practically the same as a supply obtained some years ago, which has now been exhausted.

ST. ANDREW'S Y.P.S.

Showing Loyalty To Church Subject of Interesting Paper.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 3 — The Young People's meeting of St. Andrew's Church on Monday evening was opened by singing "The Lord is My Shepherd." Mr. Thomas Campbell presided over the meeting. The Scripture lesson was from Romans 12: 1-13; read in unison. Mrs. Scott presided over the remainder of the meeting. Mrs. Wynn then favored the audience with a solo, "Somebody," which was well rendered.

The topic was taken by Mrs. Stone and was entitled, "How to show loyalty to our church." The following points were mentioned and fully explained: Hospitality; Energetic workers; Loyalty through attendance; submission to discipline (we must seek modesty and privity); Loyal giving; Be interested in missions.

The collection was then taken and the meeting closed by the singing of "Wonderful Love," and repeating the Mizpah Benediction.

A Bible contest formed the recreation period. Next week's meeting will take the form of a sleigh riding party; lunch and oysters to be served afterwards.

Billion Was Offered For the Ford Plant

WASHINGTON, Feb. 3 (United Press).—An offer of $1,000,000,000 for the Ford plant was made within the last thirty days by Hornblower & Weeks, New York, John W. Prentiss, of that concern testified yesterday in the $3,000,000 Couzens tax appeal case here.

Prentiss revealed his company had sought four times since 1916 to acquire the mammoth automobile works. In 1916 Ford was offered $500,000,000. In 1924, 1925 and 1927, the offer was increased to $1,000,000,000, but each time was rejected.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE GIVEN T. L. DIAMOND

dict you can bring in is that he is guilty or not guilty.

"Mr. Diamond is a highly respected citizen of Campbellford. He and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Stillman, and Miss McGregor left Campbellford at 5 minutes to 12 on June 25 to attend the circus at Peterboro. They reached a place known as Duffus Hill and up to that point, as one of the witnesses said, 'Everything was going fine.'

"The accused had in his car, his own wife and people he would not intentionally do harm to. No one can regret, more than the accused, what did happen.

"The evidence of the defence is that of Mr. Diamond and his wife, who said that a normal speed of from 20 to 30 miles an hour had been maintained. The only evidence of any other occupant of the car is that of Stillman and he says they were going from 40 to 45 miles an hour and at one time were going 50 miles.

"I don't suggest", continued Mr. Payne, "that he is deliberately telling an untruth but we have the evidence of the other witnesses, one of whom was his own cousin, who said that Stillman told him that he did not attach any blame to Diamond.

"It is for you gentlemen to believe or disbelieve the statements of the witnesses. There is the evidence of several persons who say they saw the car at varying distances before the accident, but it is practically impossible that they could state the speed with any degree of accuracy.

"Mr. Diamond told you he shut off the gas, decreasing the speed of his car, and then something came over him causing him to lose control. Mrs. Diamond told you she saw his head roll over and as she jumped to grab the wheel the car lurched and she remembered nothing more.

"It is for you to believe whether Mr. Diamond and his wife are perjuring themselves in telling facts that are not true. It is for you to say whether he was guilty of culpable or wanton negligence while driving the car on that date. That practically means that you must find him guilty of wilful negligence.

"In arriving at a verdict as to whether the accused is guilty or not remember to find the accused guilty the Crown must prove in a clear way that the accused was guilty of a felony against our laws."

Mr. Shaver.

Mr. Shaver, the Crown Prosecutor, declared: "Like yourselves I too have the greatest sympathy with a respectable man charged with a serious offence. I take every satisfaction, however, despite my feeling of sympathy, that I am prepared in my small way to see that justice is done, not only to the accused, but to the public.

"This is a Crown prosecution and Stillman has nothing to do with it, except as a witness. Your duty is to decide on the facts of this particular case. The accused is entitled to every reasonable doubt, but a reasonable doubt is not a doubt that can be conjured up in your mind, but a doubt arising out of the evidence.

"The hill has been proved dangerous; there is the strongest possible evidence regarding speeding. His own evidence shows he was going 30 miles an hour. The law says 25 miles an hour and we should obey it and if we don't we are liable for the consequences. He admits he couldn't see the road just in front of him and even that he did not apply his brakes. If he did these things, would you be doing your duty, would I be doing mine if we disregarded such evidence. Mr. Stillman tells you he does not know how the accident occurred or even that there was a hill. In his evidence he says that the speed was 40 and 45 and up to 50 miles and he was in a place where he could see the speedometer.

"You have Stillman on the one side saying the speed was up to 50 miles, and you have Diamond on the other saying that the speed was 30 miles, a speed that was in excess of the legal limit.

Something All-Seeing That's a Detecoscope

DAYTON, O., Feb. 3—Robert E. Fosdick, of Eaton, has just obtained a patent on his new invention, a detectoscope, that can spot shoplifters, detect "stalling" employees, and expose lazy clerks in any part of the store, the shop, or the office. The instrument is described chiefly as being a multiple periscope, of an extended type, so designed that objects in any room or any floor of a store, a factory or other building may be seen from a central point.

"We are not concerned with what Stillman said in the hospital. When a man stands close to the brink of the grave, in such circumstances he does not desire to implicate anyone. Diamond swore he never travelled over 30 miles an hour. You have the evidence of three witnesses that he was going 35 miles an hour and over. He tells you about having the spell just before the car struck. His wife says she saw him stiffen. We have no evidence of that. The doctor said he complained of loss of appetite. You heard Mrs. Coward tell her story with all the earmarks of simplicity and honesty.

His Lordship.

"I wish you to understand it is your duty to decide the case on the evidence alone" declared His Lordship. "You have nothing to do with the penalty as it introduces an improper element into your mind.

"The Crown must prove its case beyond a reasonable doubt—a doubt that would affect the mind of a reasonable man. Manslaughter is where death occurs due to an unlawful act not premeditated. It is the duty of any man who drives any vehicle to drive it carefully and also observe the rules required by the statutes.

"Recklessness is more than ordinary negligence—it does not mean with intention to do harm, because otherwise it would be murder. The fact that no person complained of the speed is not a crime—this is not a civil action, but is a charge laid by the Crown. Stillman, apparently, has some action against him but that has nothing to do with this case.

"If Diamond had a weak turn there is no question at all but that he should be acquitted. One would think that if a fainting spell was genuine a doctor would be called, but no matter how women may act, a man does not usually have them.

Jury Retires.

The Jury then retired being absent from the Court for nearly two hours. As the time wore on and no decision was reached it was thought that the jury must be deadlocked and that a new trial might be possible in the event of a disagreement. The entrance of the jury, however, put an end to these conjectures.

When the foreman announced their decision as "Guilty, with a recommendation to mercy" His Lordship declared: "Gentlemen, I agree with your verdict. I believe the prisoner was driving at a very excessive rate of speed."

"Stand up Diamond" he said to the prisoner.

The prisoner rose slowly to his feet and stood leaning with one arm across his face and the other on the front of the prisoner's box as if supporting himself.

"It is with the greatest difficulty that I sentence you because you are not in the slightest sense a criminal," declared His Lordship.

"It is the hardest thing for a Judge to know what to do in a case of this kind. I will consider everything your counsel may say in mitigation of your punishment. You may sit down", he declared.

Mr. Payne, Counsel for the accused declared: "The accused is a highly respectable man. He is in a precarious state of health as also is his wife. I would suggest that as he has already suffered a great deal justice might be met if he were given suspended sentence."

His Lordship: "Taking into consideration his ill health, his age, and the offence, although it is manslaughter, in some cases such as this suspended sentence would meet the case. Mr. Shave," he said, addressing the Crown Prosecutor, "will you agree that justice would be met by allowing him to go on suspended sentence."

In replying, Mr. Shaver declared: "I feel the responsibility of my own position. The accused has been ably defended. I'm prepared to admit that the accused is a respectable man. If your Lordship saw fit to give him a life sentence it would meet with my approval, also if you see fit to give him suspended sentence, but I could not consent without seeing the Attorney-General." "I realize that", declared His Lordship. "If that is the case and your Lordship thinks so," declared Mr. Shaver in reply, "I will raise no objection."

His Lordship: "In view of what your counsel has said I feel that in view of your obvious health that the ends of justice would be met if you were allowed to go on suspended sentence. It is not usual in manslaughter cases, but in most cases there is usually an element of drunkeness or something of that kind. In this case I think you had the speed bug. You had a good car, good roads, and from the evidence the place where the accident occurred was deceptive and even your passengers were not alarmed. I therefore take the responsibility—I had felt that one year's imprisonment in the common jail would be a proper sentence—I therefore discharge you from custody to be brought up for sentence should your future conduct not be satisfactory."

A superstition once existed in England that the path over which a body had been carried to burial was unlucky. This was founded upon a belief that the Devil always followed funerals in the hope of adding to the population of the infernal regions.

MEXICO TROUBLE REPORTED QUIET

Rebels Promised Amnesty If They Lay Down Arms By Feb. 10.

OIL TO BACKGROUND.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 3 (Canadian Press). — For the moment the troubles of Mexico seem to have quieted. The religious and oil controversies had withdrawn into the background yesterday, while the war department announced that the rebellious movement was crushed, although some scattered bands of rebels remain in the field.

Coincidentally with this announcement, special dispatches from Guadalajara reported the killing of eleven revolutionaries and three federals in a recent engagement in the State of Jalisco.

The government has promised amnesty for all rebels who lay down their arms unconditional by February 10. Those who fail to accept the offer of leniency will be pursued relentlessly by federal troops and exterminated if possible.

The oil situation has become easier, it is thought, by reason of the denial that the Mexican government tends to adopt any confiscatory methods with respect to property held by foreigners.

He expects to be open for business in a few days.

JACK MINER COMING.

Jack Miner, the noted Canadian Naturalist, will lecture in George Street United Church Monday evening, February 21st. An address will also be given to the children in the same place at 4.15 in the afternoon.

Mr. Miner's appearance here is under the auspices of the Humane Society of Peterborough, and his coming will be looked forward to with pleasure. 1d-29-1815

PAPERS CONCUR

It is unlikely that the Government will recall its troops and it is equally unlikely that Chen will withdraw his dictum. There are two possibilities whereby the situation may be saved.

First, British troops should be withheld if the proposals should be signed in the meantime.

Secondly, the troops should be landed, not at Shanghai, but at the nearest convenient point providing definite assurance are given that the Cantonese will not menace Shanghai.

The Westminister Gazette said Great Britain had been caught between "huffers" and because of "the swaggering policy of both Northern and Southern Chinese Governments," it "must stir carefully lest the Chinese use her as a pawn or compose their quarrels and combine against her."

LUMBER PLANT DAMAGED

lars in stock and machinery. The fire was controlled after it reached this building.

Canned Heat Drinkers Blamed.

Canned heat drinkers are blamed for the blaze. Officials stated that the men gather in the yard at night and as many as 18 empty tins have been found in the morning. It is believed that they secreted themselves last night in one of the sheds, for it was in a small building to the west that the fire was discovered.

The first thought was to get the horses out, and the night watchman was successful in doing this. The motor trucks were not kept in the yards. The shed was soon enveloped in flames and then the tongues of fire started to move into the larger buildings. Before the firemen could get their hose lines into play the inflammable contents had all become ignited. The fire jumped into the large store and planing mill and once it ignited the dry lumber the fire fighters had a real task on their hands.

Machine Gun Is Used In $10,000 Robbery

CHICAGO, Feb. 3 (Canadian Press).—Blocking the only convenient exit with a machine gun, a gang of robbers ordered more than 100 bettors in a handbook establishment to lie face down on the floor while they escaped with $10,000 here Tuesday. Two of the robbers waved shotguns while their companion, armed with the automatic gun, led the escape.

His Optimism in 1836 Brings Millions in 1927

CHICAGO, Feb. 3 (A.P.).—Back in 1836 George W. Snow took a flyer in Chicago real estate. Being conservative, he bought only two blocks of land and paid $500 for it. On this he built a home and looking over his pretentious grounds wondered if, perhaps, he hadn't been too much of an optimist.

Today, however, his heirs looked on Mr. Snow as a man of wonderful foresight, for they sold a tiny fraction of his original $500 purchase—just 47 feet frontage—to Maurice Rothschild, men's clothier, for $1,100,000.

This was at the rate of about $23,52 a foot front. For this particular lot Mr. Snow paid about $14.28 or about 30 cents a front foot. The Rothschild store stands on the land purchased and other land adjoining.

BURGLAR SHOOTS SARNIA RESIDENT

George P. France in Critical Condition as Result of Revolver Wounds.

WAS IN CELLAR.

SARNIA, Ont., Feb. 3 (Canadian Press).—George P. France, Secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, was shot four times yesterday afternoon when he surprised a burglar in the cellar of his summer cottage, Beach Cliffe Lodge, on the lake shore. Mr. France lies in the hospital with a dangerous wound in his stomach, one in the head, and one in his right arm.

Mr. France had motored to his cottage and heard a noise in the cellar. Arming himself with a revolver he went downstairs, to be met with murderous fire at close range. Mr. France discharged the five chambers of his revolver at the fleeing man but evidently failed to hit him.

Rushing over to George French's cottage, about 300 yards away, he gave the alarm and doctors and an ambulance were dispatched to the scene about four miles on the lake road. City and County police were quickly on the scene and traced the fugitive to the lake shore in front of vacant cottages adjoining in the direction of Blackwell. The robber had been disturbed while making toast on an electric heater and had two bags full of different articles ready to take away.

Police with an armed posse are searching the country for miles in an easterly direction.

TENDERED BANQUET.

Bowmanville Citizens Honor M. J. Elliott on His Election as Warden.

BOWMANVILLE, Feb. 3. — A complimentary banquet was given Reeve M. J. Elliott of Bowmanville Monday night on his election as Warden of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham. About 120 citizens from the town and surrounding municipalities were present, including ex-Wardens J. L. McCamus, Millbrook; Harry R. Phillips, Brighton; Fred Slade, Northumberland County; Fred W. Bowen, M.P., Durham; Col. F. N. MacNaughton, veteran counties clerk and treasurer, Cobourg; John McMillan, superintendent House of Refuge, Cobourg, and others. Mayor T. S. Holgate presided, the banquet being held under the auspices of the Bowmanville Chamber of Commerce. This is the first time in 33 years that a representative of Bowmanville at the Counties Council has successfully contested the wardenship. Warden Elliott thanked the citizens for the honor conferred on him.

NAME OF QUEEN STRICTLY KEPT OUT OF TRIAL

Opinions of Victoria Barred By Judge in Goldsmith Trial.

UPHOLDS FATHER.

Viscount's Counsel Terms Captain Wright as "a Foul Fellow."

(By Clifford L. Day, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

LONDON, Feb. 3.—The name of Queen Victoria yesterday was drawn into the legal controversy over the alleged marital infidelity of William E. Gladstone, four times Her Majesty's Prime Minister, but the royal views and opinions were barred from court.

Viscount Gladstone, 73-year-old son of the great Liberal statesman, was on the witness stand yesterday in his own and his father's defence, the viscount charged with libeling Captain Peter Wright and the elder Gladstone having been charged by Wright with "pursuing and possessing every sort of woman."

The latter charge was made in Wright's book, Portraits and Criticisms. Viscount Gladstone publicly called Wright a liar, a coward and a fool because of his allegation, and challenged Wright to sue for libel, Wright did so.

Viscount Gladstone was the first witness yesterday in his own defence. When counsel asked regarding Queen Victoria's opinion of one of Gladstone's political views, the judge announced that the introduction of her majesty's name would be prohibited.

"Foul Mouth; Foul Mind."

Norman Birkett, King's Counsel, in his opening speech for the defence, asked the jury to approve without qualification the aged viscount's denunciation of Wright, including the terms liar and foul fellow. Birkett said Wright was "a foul fellow speaking with a foul mouth out of a foul mind."

Under Birkett's stern cross-examination, Wright had weakened and, during the lawyer's address to the jury, Wright wearily held his head in his hands. The viscount's counsel had directed a scathing cross-examination to destroy Wright's contention that Gladstone had been intimate with Lily Langtry, famous beauty of the time; Olga Novikoff, a Russian political agent; Laura Bell, and others.

Viscount Testifies

The viscount testified yesterday that up to 1885, when he was 31 years old, he had lived with his father at Carlton House terrace or in Downing Street, and that he had been brought into the closest relation with him. He said he considered Wright's reference to the elder Gladstone to have been "a revolting, foul charge," because he, the viscount, knew it to be false.

Asked the purpose of the letter upon which the present libel action is based, the viscount replied:

"I wrote it to force Captain Peter Wright into a court of law. I had no other remedy. My brother and I came to the conclusion that it was our duty to act at once. Soon we would be gone, and there would be nobody who knew the facts to act to get justice for our father."

The viscount's brother, Henry Neville Gladstone, is 75 years old.

Home Life Perfect

His father and mother lived together for nearly 60 years, and their relationship was perfect, Lord Gladstone said. Throughout their lives they devoted themselves to the reclamation of fallen women, working together in that cause.

In the couse of the work, the elder Gladstone spoke to such women in the streets and persisted in his rescue work regardless of the misconstruction which the world might put on his actions.

EUCHRE PARTY.

CRACKS IN ICE CAUSE TROUBLE

People Forced To Go Along Shore Instead of Landing at Hiawatha.

HIAWATHA NEWS.

HIAWATHA, Feb. 3.—On Friday evening by some mighty force the ice on the lake was cracked about one hundred yards from the shore. In some places it went in the form of a trough. In others the ice heaved up causing mound-like structures on the lake's surface.

Three cars crossed over to Gore's Landing that evening and when they came back they were unable to cross in the place where they went over several hours before. They had to go west, up the shore of the lake to the end of the crack. There they were able to come to land. The chances are, if they had not noticed the crack in time, that some of the people might have received a ducking, such as Mr. and Mrs. William Covert experienced from the same annoying crack, only farther down the lake, last Saturday morning when crossing from the Roseneath side of the lake to attend the market at Peterboro.

The local people think the cause of this cracking of the ice is due to expansion of the ice and shallowness of the water.

Crossing at night is not very safe but the lake has been crossed since last Friday by cars and people who know the safe route.

Mr. Dan Muskrat is visiting his mother for a few days after being in Peterboro for a time.

A great number of men of this neighborhood are busy in the woods, getting out a supply of fuel for next year's heating demands.

The friends of Mrs. S. Blaker will be sorry to know that she has been under doctor's care for a few days.

Some of the young men of this locality, George Coward, Clifford Coward, William Adams and William Drimmie were over to Harwood recently.

Mrs. Ernest Roseborough spent a few days of last week at the home of her sister, Mrs. Whitfield Northey at the Cedar Hedges Farm.

Mr. Arnold and Miss Lizzie Sexsmith were visiting their sister, Mrs. Ralph Godfrey, over the last week end.

Mr. F. Rufus Shilling has returned to Hiawatha after spending the week at Rama with his relatives.

A circular saw outfit from Villiers was in the village and its vicinity saving some folks back-breaking work with cross cut or buck saw.

The weather was very severe the days they were here, and some of the men had frozen ears.

DR. ROBERTSON GOES TO TORONTO

Northumberland Member Has Lived in County Since Boyhood.

NORHAM, Feb. 3.—Dr. William G. Robertson of Colborne, M.P.P. for Northumberland, with Mrs. Robertson and his mother, Mrs. David S. Robertson of Peterboro, left for Toronto, on Tuesday, where Mr. Robertson will attend, begining on Wednesday, the first session of the present Provincial Parliament.

Dr. Robertson was born in Lakefield, in 1873. That same year his parents, Mr. and Mrs. David S. Roberston, he moved to Coldsprings, where Mr. Robertson, Sr. kept store for a term of six years. In 1879 the family moved to Hastings where for two years Mr. Robertson was principal of the Public school; at the end of this term they moved to Warkworth where for several years the father occupied the same position in the public school. It was in Warkworth where Dr. Robertson received his public school education. After passing through the work in Warkworth, Dr. Robertson attended the Campbellford High school, and upon graduating from Campbellford attended Model school in Cobourg.

Having qualified for the teaching profession, he taught for a time in the Wilson Settlement, South and West of Hastings and later for a time at White school, near Bradleys Corners, on the road from Norham to Campbellford. He studied dentistry at Toronto University where he graduated in 1902, after which he located in Colborne, where he has remained ever since.

In 1905 Dr. Robertson married Annie McGlennon, daughter of the late James McGlennon, who at that time was president of the Chase Brothers Company, in Colborne. Frederick, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Robertson, is attending Colborne High School and Rosemary, a daughter, is attending the public school.

Dr. Robertson has always been a lover of clean sport. In his younger days he was active in cricket, baseball and football, while today his hobby along the sport line is curling.

When a lad Dr. Roberston was noted for his personal, unwavering convictions concerning the popular questions of the day. With interest he has watched the gradual development of temperance sentiment and states that he never doubted the loyalty and action of the people of Northumberland, when the principals of temperance were at stake.

Since taking up residence in Colborne Dr. Robertson has taken an active interest in growing, packing, and shipping apples to local markets and Great Britain. During the days of the Great War he was Reeve of Colborne and took an active part in patriotic work, being secretary of the local organization. In those days as a member of the Counties Council he exerted a strong influence in behalf of the introduction of the County Road System.

MAN LOSES LIFE WHEN HOUSE BURNS

Cause of Fire at Echo River, Near Sault, Is Unknown.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Feb. 3.—Charles Patrick, a widower living a retired life in a frame house on the old Alex. Findlay property on the Echo River, three miles from Echo Bay, was burned to death on Monday night when the dwelling took fire from an unknown cause.

Just how Patrick met his death is not known. Immediately the fire was discovered his nearest neighbors and several residents of Echo Bay hurried to the scene. A portion of Patrick's body, including the head, could be seen by the onlookers.

The Provincial Police at the Sault were notified and Constable E. W. Keen went down on the noon train; to make an investigation. Four sons and one daughter survive. Harold Patrick was living with his father at the time of the fatality, but was spending the evening in Echo Bay and was not located until some of those who witnessed the fire had returned to the Bay. A daughter resides in Toronto.

WOMAN SO NERVOUS CAN'T DIGEST FOOD

"I was bothered with gas so bad that I thought I would choke. Food wouldn't digest but stayed in big lumps. I was so nervous. Nothing helped till I heard of Adlerika. It has done wonders for me."—Mrs. T. A. Derosia.

Because Adlerika acts upon BOTH upper and lower bowel, it gives the system a REAL cleansing, and clears out old poisons which usually cause sour, gassy stomach, nervousness, sleeplessness, headache. Just ONE spoonful stops GAS, and relieves that full, bloated feeling so that you can eat better and sleep better. Even if bowels move daily, Adlerika brings out much additional poison which you never guessed was in your system and which may have long caused trouble. No matter what you have tried for stomach and bowels, Adlerika will surprise you. At leading druggists. In Peterboro at McDermid & Jury and other druggists.

. . . VOICE OF THE LOWLY AND OPPRESSED . . . ADVOCATE OF THE FRIENDLESS . . . RIGHTER OF PUBLIC AND PRIVATE WRONGS.

NOW IS THE TIME.

The announcement that Hon. Charles McCrea proposes to pilot through the Legislature during the present session a revision of Ontario's Fish and Game Act should not go unnoticed by such organizations as the Fish and Game Protective Association.

Among sportsmen there is a feeling that in many respects these regulations can be strengthened and made more effective, and with a revision promised the hunters and fishers should lose no time in placing their views before the Minister.

There probably will never be a fish and game act that will satisfy everyone, for the simple reason that there are strong differences of opinion among sportsmen themselves as to what things should be allowed and what prohibited.

At the same time, however, there are reforms upon which the majority of hunters and anglers can agree that should be urged upon the Government, one in particular, the need of greater protection for game fish during the spawning season.

The Government derives in revenue from game and fisheries much more than is spent on protecting these resources and a demand for more safeguard is therefore easy to justify.

THE SPEECH FROM THE THRONE.

There was nothing in the Speech from the Throne at the opening of the Ontario Legislature yesterday to occasion surprise.

The press forecasts of the contents of the Speech were quite accurate, the only legislation of importance announced being that needed to put into effect the policy of Government control of the sale of liquor.

The session will be chiefly notable because of that legislation, the details of which are being eagerly awaited by the people of the province.

Other measures mentioned in the Speech, while important enough in their way, are minor in so far as their effect upon the people generally is concerned, and will undoubtedly be passed without much opposition.

The liquor legislation is likely, however, to produce an abundance of discussion as the Progressive members, from Hon. W. E. Raney down, will want their innings and a chance to express for the benefit of their dry constituencies just what they think of the new policy.

Mr. Ferguson's prediction of a short session should be verified, however, for the Speech from the Throne contains nothing to prevent an early ending.

IMPROVING THE QUALITY.

The benefits of grading legislation is shown by the fact that at a conference between representatives of the Ontario Creamery Association and Hon. John S. Martin, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, it was stated that an improvement of 12 per cent. in the quality of Ontario's butter had been effected by the new cream grading law last year.

The legislation has justified itself, and there is no doubt that with the increased Government activity in enforcing the Act that has been promised by the Minister of Agriculture, future results should be even more satisfactory.

It is not surprising under the circumstances that producers in other lines should be anxious to get the benefit of similar legislation.

The Ontario Beekeepers' Association is the latest body to seek such assistance, waiting upon Hon. Mr. Martin to urge that a Government grading scheme be put into effect in regard to honey.

The honey producing industry feels that the greatest problem connected with the marketing of honey is the lack of uniformity in the product, and that the passing of grading regulations will increase public confidence and lead to greater consumption.

"AN UNSATISFACTORY STATE OF AFFAIRS."

The letter of H. R. H. Kenner, Principal of the Collegiate Institute, to the Board of Education setting forth what the writer described as an "unsatisfactory condition of affairs," should cause not only the members of the board but citizens generally to do some serious thinking in regard to the question of Collegiate Institute accommodation.

Undoubtedly the present situation is far from satisfactory.

The fact that 200 Collegiate Institute pupils have to be housed in the old South Central School, a building abandoned years ago as useless for Public School purposes, is enough in itself to justify a demand for more accommodation.

These pupils are being deprived of many of the advantages that they should have as Collegiate Institute students.

They are cut off from all the corporate activities of the Collegiate, have no assembly hall, no facilities for physical culture, no library, and an apology for a playground.

In addition, the building itself is poorly heated and badly ventilated and lighted, and as Mr. Kenner points out, "expensive to run and still more expensive to keep in repairs."

In regard to the main Collegiate Institute itself, the Principal is equally emphatic in calling attention to several serious defects.

It is the only Collegiate Institute in the whole Province without a gymnasium.

It has no equipment for manual training or household science.

No provision for vocational training is possible.

In addition, the accommodation is so inadequate that only a limited number of non-resident pupils can be taken care at a fee of $5 each per year, while the average cost per pupil is $120 a year.

Were the building large enough to accommodate all the outside pupils willing to attend, Mr. Kenner declares that the County Council would be obliged to pay at least 80 per cent. of the average cost per pupil for each of these non-resident students.

The head of the Collegiate Institute is justified in stressing these matters—in fact, he would not be doing his full duty if he did not bring all the factors in the situation before the Board of Education and before the people.

The question has been under consideration over a period of years, but this is one thing that does not improve with age, the conditions growing steadily worse as the passing years bring no relief.

WOLFE THE PROPHET.

The recent celebration of the Wolfe bi-centary, while testifying in a remarkable degree to the universal appreciation of one of the most romantic figures in military history, seem to have added little to the traditional and conventional estimate of the hero who won Canada for the British Crown.

Here and there, from the public tributes paid to his memory there emerged a ray of new light upon the personality and achievement of the victor on the Plains of Abraham, suggesting fresh study and independent investigation, and touching up certain lines of the portrait which history and tradition have made so familiar.

But, for the most part, the Wolfe signally honored and held up to public admiration at the two hundredth anniversary of his birth was the Wolfe of popular conception, though doubtful authenticity; the supposedly ugly, yet unquestionably gifted and courageous soldier whose strange temperament and freakish behavior were mistaken for something akin to madness; who on the eve of victory recited Gray's "Elegy" and proclaimed that he would rather have written that poem than have the honor of taking Quebec; whose strategy, though spectacular, is presumed to have been neither original nor safe, and whose dying message in the hour of glory has become immortal.

It is a conception of Wolfe which makes a romantic appeal to the public imagination, and which, for that reason, will probably continue to find general acceptance; but there are historical grounds for doubting whether it adequately represents the character and significance of the genius whose achievement stands among the world's most impressive military victories. Certainly, Wolfe possessed qualities which ,amid the glamor surrounding his name, have not received full recognition; and it has been reserved for a statesman with an acute sense of historical values to single out one that is eminently worth emphasizing.

Vision and faith are the attributes of genius, and Wolfe possessed both. When Voltaire foresaw the doom of New France, he scoffed at the prospect as signifying nothing more than the loss of "a few acres of snow.". It was otherwise with the hero of Quebec. As Mr. Winston Churchill pointed out in an admirable tribute, Wolfe, on his first landing on American soil, "discerned with infallible assurance the coming greatness and splendor of the New World." Writing to his mother, he predicted that > "this will be a vast empire, the seat of power and learning," adding, "nature has refused them nothing, and there will grow a people out of our little spot. England, that will fill these vast spaces and divide this great portion of the globe with the Spanish who are possessors of the other half."

True, he failed to divine, as his gallant antagonist, Montcalm, did, the course of events that was to separate the American colonies from the British Crown, but his vision and faith were certainly not at fault with respect to the particular country which inspired them. In the eloquent words of Churchill:

> "He saw a populous, wealthy, progressive community; he saw a nation arising in the vast wild spaces gained by his sword for the British Crown. And today we see that Canada displays, not only all that he foresaw; not only all that he dreamed of; not only these seats of power and learning which, nearly 200 years ago, he predicted would arise; but also that Canada presents facts which would have fired Wolfe's military eye, but which his mind, adventurous though it was, had never dreamed of."

In their admiration and reverence for Wolfe, Canadians should not forget that in the great soldier there was something of the prophet, whose keen discernment and far-reaching vision were not least among the qualities that won for him imperishable glory.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Up to the moment of going to press no one has written The Examiner to protest against the decrease in the Board of Education's appropriations.

Toronto man who died as a result of an accident had lived for years in a small back room, but after his death between $40,000 and $50,000 was discovered in his trunk. To head off unnecessary questions it may as well be told that he was a native of Aberdeenshire, Scotland.

Most of the Federal Cabinet are to visit Toronto, where they will be received just as cheerfully as if the Queen City folks had voted for them.

Mail and Empire says of a suicide victim that he was "seen standing in the water by a woman," but the story doesn't relate what happened to the latter.

Of course, the fact that the outbreak of a crime epidemic in Toronto is simultaneous with the beginning of the Legislature's session is only a coincidence.

The only important legislation foreshadowed in the Speech from the Throne is the Government Control Act. But that will be enough for most people.

CANNED GOODS

The title of canned goods is generally restricted to foods put up in tin cans and sterilized by heating. The object in all kinds of canning is the same, that is, to kill all mirco-organisms started, and then by the exclusion of all air to prevent any new ones from gaining entrance. Micro-organisms speedily render any food unfit for consumption, because they induce fermentation.

There are many varieties of canned foods on the market. All kinds of food, including fish, meat, fruit, vegetables, poultry, etc., are put up in cans, and the United States stands to-day as the foremost exponent of canned goods; the output of this country being considerably greater than the total of all other parts of the world combined.

The first method of canning was a process invented by a Frenchman, named Francois Apperp, a little more than a hundred years ago, and has been improved and amplified by modern mechanical devices and equipment. In this country the canning of all kinds of foods developed very rapidly during the Civil War period. The industry has gradually expanded because of the need of a greater conservation of vegetables and perishable goods of every kind. To-day our canneries serve the need largely as community kitchens in which all the rough and dirty work of vast quantities of food is done for the convenience and nourishment of enumerable households. Thousands of acres of fruit, grain, and vegetable land, and great herds of cows, and fisheries are dedicated to their service.

The details in cannery methods vary with different foods. Some foods are placed in the cans in a raw condition, and others are first blanched or parboiled as with asparagus, beans, and peas. The time required to insure sterilization varies. With some vegetables, those of a tougher texture, require a longer time for the full heat to penetrate to the center of the can, also because of their peculiar composition some foods need very long processing.

As long as fresh sound foods are used, if sterilization has been complete, and if the cans are very tight, the contents, whether meat, vegetables or fruit will be of equal nutritive value to those cooked in the household. Some dietitians argue that the vitamine content is lowered by standing in a can for months before the food is used, but there is no evidence to show that this decrease is very great.

Some of the best canned foods to use are: Spinach, asparagus, string-beans, corn, French artichokes, pineapple (especially if preserved without syrup), and olves.

When using canned foods of any kind, be sure and examine the contents carefully as soon as the can is opened, and empty out into a dish. If there is a strong odor noted upon opening the can this should always be regarded as a danger signal, whether with fish or any other food, and irrespective of the shape or appearance of the can.

Spinal Adjustment

There somehow seems to prevail in the minds of certain people, the idea that Osteopathy has something to do with "rubbing." In the bright lexicon of Osteopathy there is no such word as "rub."

It is now fifty-three years since Dr. A. T. Still, a regular physician and surgeon of the old school, gave to the word the theory of treatment by spinal adjustment — Osteopathy. That is what Osteopathy is to-day—spinal adjustment, but spinal adjustment PLUS. That is why we say that Osteopathy is BETTER.

If you haven't tried osteopathy you haven't given yourself a fair chance at health

THE SMART ALECK

(By Dr. Frank Crane.)

Fanny Heaslip Lea has written an amusing article on the Smart Aleck.

She puts him about the place he belongs. She said the first Smart Aleck was a fool on the king's throne steps. All he got was a laugh and occasionally a good kick from the king.

We forget sometimes that the Smart Aleck is merely the fool in modern dress.

Smart Aleckness is largely a point of view. It is a bystanding, cruel and indifferent way of looking at things. You are never to be interested. You are to have no moral background. Your whole duty is to laugh at humanity, and the more serious a human being is the more he is to be laughed at.

We have discovered, says Miss Lea, that "it is easier to be smart than to be intelligent and the Smart Aleck needs is a quick tongue and a total disregard of other people's feelings."

The Smart Aleck is own brother to the man who laughs when another has an accident of a serious character, when he falls down or bumps his nose or some such thing.

The ordinary man's sympathies are aroused by such a happening, but a Smart Aleck's risibilities alone are appealed to.

He laughs only for applause, and Miss Lea says he would knife his grandmother for a bon mot.

Smart Aleckness is really a form of the well-known inferiority complex. The Smart Aleck's whole ambition is to achieve "a line." He is of no value as to telling the truth. All he wants is to make some famous saying.

He hates sympathy and prides himself upon admiring nothing. He lacks sincerity, and Miss Lea says he would rather be bright than president.

You have got to use your brains to be president or hold down any other kind of a serious job, but to be a Smart Aleck you need only to use your wits.

What he wants is catch phrases and he is ready to ridicule anything in the world in order to get one.

Don't Tell the Wife

BY WILLIAM B. COURTNEY

SYNOPSIS

Ranny Forbes, star polo player, and his beautiful wife, Joan, are temperamental mismates. Joan wants a divorce. Ranny hesitates, loving her, although secretly knowing she loves Abner Gratman. While they are guests on the Stivner yacht a widow, Clare, vamps Ranny, arousing Stivner's jealousy. Ranny avows Clare means nothing to him, mollifying Stivner. Ranny punishes Abner in a way that nearly costs his life and Joan's. Later, Joan is overjoyed when Ranny tells her he will get a divorce. He selects desertion as a ground; when she reminds him of his recent cruel prank he claims he has been a model husband, saying—

CHAPTER XVI.—Continued.

"Come, now, Joan," said Ranny, "that little excursion wasn't entirely my fault. It was Abner's, for cutting the dory loose. Whatever his virtues as a lover, frankness compels me to remark that the lad does lack sense. If it hadn't been for you he'd have gone down. Oh, well, that's none of my affair. I was about to remark that inasmuch as I was not insane, a felon, impotent, consanguineous, or already married, when we were married, the only other possible chance for you would be to catch me at—er—misconduct. Intimacies with another female, as it were. And, of course, ha!" virtuously, with a perish-the-thought shrug, "such a charge would be absurd, against one of my well-known impeccable morality—"

"Indeed!"

"Look here, now, Joan. I don't like the tone of that 'indeed.!"

"To be blunt, then, I'm not so sure of your self-vaunted virtue. You

"To be blunt then I'm not so sure of your self-vaunted virtue."

were positively shameless with that nasty little blonde widow—"

"She's all right! Don't be too rough on her."

"Defending her, eh? I'm growing less and less sure about the disinterestedness of your willingness to get a divorce for MY sake!"

"Wel-l-l—"

"Why can't you look me in the eye? Why can't you give me a straightforward answer? Oh, Ranny, don't lie to me! Don't make believe you are doing all this for MY sake—"

"What else could be my motive, dear?"

"You're evasive. That's a suspicious sign. And it isn't loyal. Anyway, I've admitted my love for Abner. You ought to be honorably frank, too."

"But," laughing heartily, "I tell you there is no one!"

"See, you can't say it without laughing!"

"Oh," serious again, "but I can. No one can ever take your place in my heart. I shall live alone with my memories!"

"In the words of the cop who keeps company with our cook—applesauce!"

"Really dear. You're very silly!"

"Silly? I like that! What difference could it make to me now if, for instance, you told me that you wanted this divorce so that you could marry—well, let's see, say Mrs. Clemoneau!"

"Clare?"

"Oh, 'Clare,' eh? How familiarly and naturally you call her by her first name. Come, now, doesn't that make it plain?"

"Certainly not, and I must say it isn't becoming for you to jealously drag her into our private troubles."

"Further proof! Defending her again! The giddy, affected, intriguing creature—"

"There's the bell!" hastily. "It's Abner, I guess. I'll run down and keep him company until you are ready." Ranny made his escape with relief.

He noticed over his shoulder, however, as he went out that Joan, instead of making haste to finish her primping for Abner, sat and stared reflectively after him. This caused a slight, quizzical smile on his face as he descended the grand staircase, two at a time, to greet Abner.

Abner was awkward and ill at ease, hardly knowing whether or not this unexpected summons to the Forbes' mansion had been actuated by a desire on Ranny's part to commit mayhem and the rest of the seven cardinal varieties of assault and battery.

"What do you want, Forbes?" he asked petulantly. "Remember, I can still have you arrested—I've got plenty of witnesses."

"No need, Gratman," soothed Ranny lightly. "I just wanted you to call so that I could congratulate you!"

"Upon what?"

"Upon getting my wife's hand in marriage—that is, in the near future, after she is no longer my wife. Just a little matter of legal rigmarole to go through—and then she's yours, my boy!"

"Why should I believe a word you say?"

It was hard to be merry when one wanted to be murderous. But Ranny was. "Joan will be down herself in a moment or two. She'll confirm it!" he beamed.

Ranny hemmed and hawed after that until, out of the corner of his eye, he caught sight of Joan coming down the broad stairs, and knew she was within earshot. Then he went on in a conversational, matter-of-fact tone:

"Mighty lucky stroke of fortune for you, son, with your paltry income, to marry a woman with a million a year in her own name, eh, what? Sacrifice for her, of course—but a woman is happiest when making a sacrifice for the man she loves—"

"A full million a year, has she?" Abner asked eagerly. He had not yet noticed Joan's approach.

"Yes, and—oh, hullo, here's the happy bride-to-be, herself."

Joan's face was slightly clouded as she joined them. Ranny archly rambled on:

"I was just telling Abner that when I look at you two love birds in the future, tucked away in your modest little nest—if you live on Abner's income, and, of course, you should, for a wife can't respect a husband whom she supports—I'll be able to say: 'They are happy. Joan and Abner. And it is I who have made them so. It is my work! The thought is positively touching!'"

"Ranny, don't be so ridiculous. How can you joke about this matter?"

"How and where are you going to get a divorce?" prodded Abner.

"Well," with a quick glance at Joan, "I did plan to get it in Minnesota, when I'm living there on business. But I've reconsidered, because Joan raised the point that I would have to sue her. That was an unpardonable slip of gallantry in planning on my part. I'm sorry. I've figured out, instead, that as soon as I go away I won't tell Joan where I'm going, and I'll never communicate with her. Therefore she can sue me for divorce in New York State on the grounds of desertion—"

"That's better!" snapped Joan.

"But I thought that there was only one ground for divorce in New York—adultery?" objected Abner, suspicious again.

"No," said Ranny blandly, "desertion has lately been made a cause. The Enoch Arden law, it's called. There's only one slight inconvenience—"

"What's that?" simultaneously.

"You will have to wait seven years. The time necessary to pre-suppose a person, from whom you haven't heard, is dead!"

"SEVEN years! Impossible! Absurd!"

"Then it shall have to be as I suggest."

"Let him get it, Joan. What difference does it really make—so long as it sets you free?"

Joan was stubborn. "There's Paris!"

"We'd both have to go, and I can't take the time away from my new job!"

Joan shrugged. "I suppose you'll have it to your fancy!"

Ranny was contrite. "Oh, don't put it that way, Joan. Let's part friends—dear, dear friends."

He rang for the butler, and ordered his hat and stick. "Well, now that I've told you two the good news, I've got to toddle along to the club. Stivner's waiting for me. Important plans to discuss, you know, now that I'm a business man."

"Are you sure you're going to meet Stivner!"

"Ha! Ha! How funny you are Joan."

"Dodging again!"

He accepted his things from the butler. "Sorry, but I really have to run along now."

Suddenly, and so unexpectedly that he nearly knocked her over, Ranny bent and kissed Joan upon the forehead. His face was grave; his eyes far away.

"Excuse me if I seem a bit sentimental," he apologized, "but one cannot have lived so long in the greatest possible intimacy with a woman without there being—a certain grief at parting. You will think of me sometimes, Joan—and the jolly times we had together?"

"Righto!" said Joan, somehow feeling uncomfortably like an asinine movie heroine.

How to Play BRIDGE

ARTICLE No. 13

In a number of these articles reference has been made to the folly of rebidding no-trumps after a partner's suit bid just because you hold 100 aces. Game is the object of all sound bidding and any bid that lessens the chance for game, just to obtain an honor score, is unsound. The following hand is a good illustration of what not to do with a hand containing 100 aces:

Hearts — A, 8, 2
Clubs — A, K, Q, 7, 5
Diamonds — A, 7, 2
Spades — A, K

	Y
A		B
	Z

Hearts — J, 10, 4
Clubs — 10, 2
Diamonds — 8, 5
Spades — J, 10, 8, 7, 6, 3

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and passed. A passed, Y bid one no-trump and B passed. Z now bid two spades and A passed. Y should have remembered that Z passed as dealer and that his take-out must be from weakness, probably six or more, headed by the queen or jack. If this take-out were the probable one, Y-Z could undoubtedly make game in spades but could not do so in no-trump unless Z had a much stronger hand than the bidding indicated. In other words, game and rubber were a certainty at spades but doubtful at no-trump. Y, however, failed to consider all of these evident facts and bid two no-trump, allowing his judgment to be influenced by his 100 aces. All passed, for Z didn't feel that he should rebid his spades in the face of his partner's denial. B opened the diamond suit and Y-Z lost their bid by three tricks. At spades they could have made four odd, game and rubber. As their opponents scored game and rubber on the next deal, it was a costly error by Y. Don't let 100 aces influence you to make unsound bids.

Here is another hand that has caused considerable discussion. Think it over and then compare your opinion with the analysis that will be given in the next article.

Problem No. 17

Hearts — 8, 3
Clubs — A, K, 7, 5
Diamonds — Q, 10, 9, 8, 5, 2
Spades — 6

	Y
A		B
	Z

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one no-trump. If A passed what would you bid with Y's hand?

The test hands given in the preceding article have caused a wide divergence of opinion. If you don't agree with the analysis given, don't feel discouraged for you have a number who will still agree with you.

Answer to Problem No. 15

	Y
Hearts — 6
Clubs — 9, 5, 3, 2	A	B
Diamonds — A, K, 4
Spades — K, Q, J, 7, 5	Z

No score, first game. Z dealt and bid one spade. What should A bid? A has the choice of three courses of action. (a) He may pass, (b) he may bid no-trump or (c) he may double informatorily. The pass with this hand seems unsound. It is such a strong hand that A should give some indication thereof to his partner. If A passed, Y will certainly deny the spade bid so that the pass will be of no value, one way or the other. The bid of one no-trump is fair but gives too much information. Try to conceal the spade strength, if possible, in the hope that Z will bid two spades and thus give A the chance to double. For these reasons, an informatory double seems the proper bid with this hand. Y may bid over this double. If he does, Z may rebid spades and thus give A the chance to double. If Y passes, B may bid clubs or diamonds which suits A's hand. If B bids hearts and Z passes, A should now bid two no-trump. There is a good chance, however, that Z will rebid spades over a heart bid and thus give A the chance to double. Some correspondents even suggested that A bid two spades but this bid is obviously unsound. It gives no chance for game and resigns all hope of obtaining a double if Z rebids spades. All in all, the informatory double seems to offer the maximum opportunity.

Answer to Problem No. 16

	Hearts — Q, 4, 3
A		B
	Z

Clubs — K, 3
Diamonds — 10, 8, 7, 5, 4
Spades — A, J, 5

Score, Y-Z, 18; A-B, 0, rubber game. Z dealt and bid one diamond. A doubled and Y bid two diamonds. What should B bid? B should undoubtedly double. His hand is strong, not only in diamonds but also in side cards. If his partner has anything, A-B should defeat the two diamond bid by two or three tricks. His hand doesn't justify a two no-trump bid because there is no certainty of game. When in doubt, take the certainty. In this case, the certainty

No score, rubber game. Z dealt and bid is the double.

SCHOLASTIC SUCCESS.

Nephew of Local Man Obtains High Honors in England.

"We have to record with great satisfaction, the scholastic success of a Redditch boy, Mr. W. Valentine Mayneord, who is 24 years of age. He is the third son of Mr. W. Mayneord, of 12 Beaufort Street, Redditch, and is the adopted son of Mr. W. and Mrs. Watkins, 3 Greenhill, Evesham. After a brilliant career he has been appointed Research Physicist to the Fulham Road Hospital, London, in connection with X-Ray, radium and ultra-violet light research on cancer. In 1913, when a pupil of St. Mary's R. C. School, Evesham, he gained a county scholarship to Prince Henry's Grammar School, Evesham. In 1915 and 1916, he was awarded further county scholarships, and in 1917 he passed the Oxford Junior Examination with Honours. In 1918 he pass d the Oxford Senior Examination with first-class honors, and also gained a Workman Scholarship to the Birmingham University. In 1919 he took his inter-B.Sc., first-class, and was top in the faculty, he being the youngest student at Birmingham University that year. In 1920 he was granted a University Exhibition, and in 1921 took his Bachelor of Science degree. In 1922 he took his degree of Master of Science, and was awarded a further Exhibition, and also grants from the Scientific and Industrial Research Department, London. At Prince Henry's Grammar School he was a prefect and sergeant of cadets, and he is undoubtedly the most brilliant son that Holland House has up to the present produced. Mr. Mayneord is congratulated upon his latest appointment."—Redditch (England) Indicator.

Mr. Mayneord is a nephew of J. W. Mayneord, well known in curling and bowling circles in Peterboro.

LOCAL LIBERALS ATTEND BANQUET

Will Attend the Dinner in Honor of Premier King.

SPEECH BROADCAST.

At the monster Liberal banquet to-night, at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, the Prime Minister, Right Hon. Mackenzie King, will deliver one of the most important addresses in years, and will make his pronouncement with respect to the recent Imperial Conference.

On account of the importance of this address and the fact that only a small proportion of those applying for tickets to the banquet are able to get accommodation, the speech is being broadcast over four stations, namely CFCA Toronto, CGC London, CNRO Ottawa, and CNRM Montreal. It is expected that a large number in Peterboro will tune in to hear this important speech.

Those attending the banquet from Peterboro include Hon. G. N. Gordon, and Messrs. W. G. Morrow, A. A. McIntyre, J. J. Duffus, W. I. Scollard, F. D. Kerr and Jo.. Wearing.

THEATRE AT THE REGENT

FIELD'S VEHICLE WAS 1925'S PRIZE STORY

"So's Your Old Man" Taken From O. Henry Memorial Winner.

The O. Henry Memorial Prize Short Story of 1925, Julian Street's "Mr. Bisbee's Princess," provides a fine vehicle for W. C. Fields, Paramount's comedy star.

For screen purposes, the title has been changed and is now—"So's Your Old Man." It traces the life of Samuel Bisbee from the day he invents an unbreakable windshield, through his troubles while demonstrating it, in his endeavors to sell it, how he meets a beautiful Princess, what she does on landing in his home town, and finally, the social and financial success which come to him.

Imagine Fields, he of the ridiculous mustache and checked cutaway in a series of ridculous situations. Think of him as he pulls the famous golf gag which won him so much applause in the Ziegfeld Follies. To this,—add the histrionic efforts of beautiful Alice Joyce, a tender love affair between Charles Rogers, one of the Paramount Junior Stars; and Kittens Reichert, the strife between the two social factors of the village, and the continual hen-pecking which Fields receives from his harassed wife, Marcia Harris.

In the words of the song, "Put them all together," and then you can't even begin to imagine the laughs that are in store for you. If you've ever needed a laugh tonic, don't miss "So's Your Old Man" on its arrival at the Regent Theatre to-day. Here's a comedy you'll enjoy.

SARNIA WINS TANKARD FINAL

Eliminates Kingston and Stratford in Yesterday's Curling.

FIRST VICTORY.

TORONTO, Feb. 3.—The Sarnia Curling Club, led by the veteran Col. Robert MacKenzie, past president of the O.C.A., won the Ontario Tankard here yesterday afternoon at the Granite Club, when they defeated Stratford in the finals by a majority of 6 shots. The final was nip and tuck throughout, and a break might have decided it in Stratford's favor. In the third last end of the MacKenzie-Bruce game, the latter was lying shot until MacKenzie played the last stone, and when the smoke cleared away Sarnia was lying four shots. In the next end Bruce, of Stratford, if he had passed out two Sarnia rocks, would have counted five, but it was a difficult shot, and he got only one to count one himself. These two ends practically decided the location of the mug for next year.

In the morning Stratford defeated Oakwood in the semi-final by six shots, while Sarnia had the same margin over Kingston. In the Batchellor-Peterson match, which finished 17 to 12 in favor of Batchellor, the latter had his opponent 12 to 0 at one stage.

At the conclusion of the Tankard final President Larry O'Connor of the O. C. A. presented the trophy and prizes to the winning rink, Col. MacKenzie replying for the winners and E. A. Batchellor for the losers.

Three rinks are left in the Burden Trophy, owing to Stratford, the Tankard finalists, defaulting. This morning at the Toronto Club the Torontos play Lindsay at 9.30, the winner to meet Kingston in the finals in the afternoon. Scores:

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 4.—C. C. Pyle, better known as "Cash and Carry," reports that his first venture in professional tennis with Suzanne Lenglen as the headliner has been a big success financially. Football over, he now turns his attention to the movies as manager of "Red" Grange.

JUNIOR STARS TO HELP NORTH TORONTO TEAM

Manager MacFayden Hopes To Have Best Line-up Here.

PETES ARE READY.

Local Squad Has Recovered From Toronto Canoe Club Tilt.

Manager McFayden, of the North Toronto team, hopes to have his strongest line-up of the season in action against the Petes here tomorrow night, and although his squad are out of the running they can be depended upon to do their best to pull the local gang down into the heap. North Toronto have used a raft of players this season and to-morrow night will have the benefit of the services of several of their junior stars, including Concacher.

Harry Batstone, of football and baseball fame, has been named as referee.

The Petes came through last night's exhibition game at Lindsay without any injuries and will be able to toss out their full strength against North Toronto.

The game will attract a big crowd as the home talent are delighted with the hockey that has been provided by the Petes here this season.

A stadium is to be constructed at Bologna, Italy, to seat 50,000 spectators.

Barefoot football is a sport feature in Hawaii. Punts frequently average 50 yards.

RED RASH ON FACE AND NECK

Formed Eruptions. Suffered Much at Night. Cuticura Heals.

"I was troubled with a rash that broke out on my face and neck. It was very red, and the irritation caused me to scratch it in my sleep. After scratching, little, sore eruptions formed. I suffered much at night, and my sleep was broken.

"It looked hopeless until I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment. After a few days the eruptions started to heal, and after using five cakes of Soap and five or six boxes of Ointment I was healed." (Signed) G. Harding, 2233 Florian St., Montreal, Que.

Daily use of Cuticura Soap, with touches of Cuticura Ointment now and then, keeps the skin fresh, smooth and clear. Cuticura Talcum also is ideal for the skin.

HOCKEY NOTES

MARMORA, Feb. 3.—Keen interest is being taken in Tweed's visit to the Marmora rink on Friday. The previous visit of the easterners occasioned Marmora's only defeat of the season. For that game, the Green and Whites missed the services of Auger. With his return to the pack and Jack's donning the colors again, Marmora got back into the winning streak again, and Tweed is confronted by a hard task in endeavoring to repeat history at Marmora. C. Wood, the ex-Peterboro junior, heads the list of goal scorers for Marmora with seven scored in eight games. Marmora is credited by her rivals as having the fastest team for many a season, and with the lead already established, should get into the play-offs.

ARMATURE TEAMS CLASH AT HOCKEY

Score Is Finally Figured Out as Tied at Five All.

A hockey match was played on the 'Cog.' rink, between the Heavyweights and Lightweights of the Armature Department of the Canadian General Electric Co., resulting in one of the cleanest displays of the game ever played, only one penalty being given by the fellow who rang the bell. He should have had an alarm clock really to keep pace with the game's requirements.

King, who suffered the two minutes, should have had a match penalty at least for his indiscretions, tripping the referee, slashing anyone within 15 feet of him, in addition the spectators. Personal animosity was very prevalent when Tiny Killingbeck and Red Feely met. They were occasionally both on the same side, but remembered in time to prevent a goal being scored by either one or the other by holding and giving a real exhibition of "catch-as-catch can."

Both goal tenders are to be congratulated on having whole skins for it is considered difficult to protect a goal that can be moved to a more convenient position for scoring. This was done by one of the gang who moved it a couple of feet. Happily this escaped the eye of the referee he having been engaged with Bun Frost in an argument as to whether the score was 5-4 or 15-0.

The chief sufferer of the evening was "Asa." He never saw the puck but once and then shot at the wrong goal. O'Toole and Turley showed Varsity form (at least Asa said so) while Millard, Gilman and Maclean made the number up, with McIntosh, Henry and Reaney as alternates.

Interested spectators included John Roland Halpin, master of the Royal Order of Bums. His colleague, Alfred Mowry came late to miss the collection. The game was citing to say the least, and movie rights were purchased by Douglas Fairbanks and Charlie Chaplin. The game ended in a draw, 5-5.

BASKETBALL.

The schedule for the Ladies' basketball league games, to be played at the Y.W.C.A. gymnasium on Friday evening, Feb. 4, is as follows:

Lightning Wanders "Round and Round"

NEW YORK, February 3. — Lightning instead of being flat and jagged, really follows a spiral course and wanders 'round and round' in space' before arriving at its destination. Its course is similar to that of an irregularly coiled rope thrown from a ship.

Such are the findings of J. W. Legg an engineer of the Westinghouse Electric and Manfacturing Company as announced to-day. Mr. Legg has conducted his experiments with a specially designed camera which takes photographs at the rate of 2600 per second—150 times faster than the ordinary motion picture camera, which is Mr. Legg's own invention.

Competent to judge

There is no better way for you to learn the true value of commodities in general use than to read the advertisements day by day—regardless of whether or not you have any immediate intention of buying.

Those young housekeepers whose first experiences in marketing began in war-time have a fixed idea of high prices. Those of an older generation have an equally strong conviction that prices should be lower.

With the shifting changes of a rapidly moving world both prices and values are bound to fluctuate. A financier studies these trends with scrupulous care in published financial reports compiled by experts.

An intelligent housewife may similarly make herself a competent judge of values by studying each day's advertisements of the things she needs—just as the broker studies his stock list.

Then as she comes to buy she may do so with full confidence in her knowledge.

PHONE SYSTEM HAD GOOD YEAR

Annual Meeting of Alnwick Company Held—Progress Reported.

ROSENEATH NEWS.

ROSENEATH, Feb. 3—The annual meeting of the Alnwick Rural Telephone Co. was held on Wednesday afternoon, January 26th. There was a fairly good attendance and a considerable amount of business was attended to. The President, Mr. John T. Drope, presided. A lengthy discussion took place on the battery question which was finally left in the hands of the new directors. A special meeting will be held on Wednesday to choose a lineman, secretary-treasurer, president, etc. In the past year a new switchboard has been installed costing $625. Many new members and five private lines have been added to the list of subscribers. The assessment and rentals are the same as former years. An extra good report of outside calls for the year was given the total being 10,345. Expenditures of the company for the year 1926 amounted to $2414.47. The amount of cash to the credit of the Company including the balance from last year is $1094.13; uncollected accounts and supplies $544.98. The new directors for the year 1927 are Messrs. William Murphy, Herbert McCracken, Barton Thackeray, Nixon Timlin, Cecil Radley. Auditors, Messrs. James Webb and Andrew Brown. The meeting closed with giving the retiring directors a hearty vote of thanks for their assistance and faithful work of the past.

Mr. George Ingham is confined to his bed.

Mr. and Mrs. Covert are suffering heavy colds as a result of their experience of Saturday last. While driving across Rice Lake en route to Peterboro, Mr. Covert noticed a bad piece of ice but before he had time to stop the car it plunged into a hole, the water almost covering the car. Fortunately in some way Mr. and Mrs. Covert freed themselves from the car and though their clothing was soaked with the icy cold water managed to run as far as Keene where they found shelter and dry clothing.

MAN KILLS WIFE AFTER QUARREL OVER CARD GAME

Turns Pistol On Himself and Inflicts Fatal Wound.

NOT NORMAL.

Had Not Been Right Mentally Since Fall Last Year.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 3. — Criticism of a play in a card game led yesterday to a tragedy in which Charles B. Bolay killed himself and his wife. He shot Mrs. Bolay through the head, while a ten-year-old grandchild clung to her skirts begging him not to harm her grandmother.

Bolay then turned his pistol upon himself. Mrs. Bolay died in receiving hospital.

The shooting occurred in Bolay's home, 3843 Mount Elliott Avenue. There had been a game of cards Tuesday night. Mrs. Bolay is said to have chided her husband because he made an unwise play. He became morose. In the morning his state of mind was no better. He re-opened talk about his wife's criticism.

Mrs. Eleanore Hoskins, daughter of Mrs. Bolay by a former marriage, saw her stepfather enter the dining room with a pistol in his hand. She tried to jump between him and her mother.

"Get out of the way or I'll shoot you too," Bolay commanded. He forced her into the kitchen. Then Mrs. Hoskins said she heard one shot and a moment later the voice of her mother screaming. The mother had sought refuge in a bedroom. The first shot apparently had gone wild. Bolay followed his wife into the room. Mrs. Hoskins' ten-year-old daughter ran after him and clutched at her grandmother's clothing, pleading with Bolay not to shoot.

A bullet fired into Mrs. Bolay's head was the answer. Bolay then shot himself and died instantly.

Mrs. Bolay was 48 years of age. Her husband was 52. Bolay suffered a fall last year, according to members of the family, and had not been normal since.

SAYS DANGEROUS VARICOSE VEINS CAN BE REDUCED AT HOME

Rub Gently and Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way.

If your or any relative or friends are worried because of varicose veins, or bunches, the best advice that anyone in the world can give you is to ask your druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and apply night and morning to the swollen, enlarged veins. Soon you will notice that they are growing smaller and the treatment should be continued until the veins are of normal size. So penetrating and powerful is Emerald Oil that even Piles are quickly absorbed. Bond's Drug Store sells lots of it.

Demand From Liverpool Results In Slight Gains

CHICAGO, Feb. 3 (Canadian Press).—Reports of a good demand at Liverpool for nearby deliveries helped wheat to average higher here early today. Enlarged shipments from Argentina, however, were a check on advances. Opening at 1-8 cent to 1-2 cent gain, Chicago wheat held near to the initial figures.

Corn, oats, and provisions were also firm, corn starting at a shade to 1-4 cent up and later showing but little tendency to react.

Opening prices were: Wheat, May 1.42 5-8, July 1.33 3-4. Corn, May 81 1-8, July 84 1-2. Oats, May 47 1-2, July 47 3-4.

Seagram and Walker Stocks React Slightly

TORONTO, Feb. 3 (Canadian Press).—The first slackening in Seagram's advance on the Toronto Stock Exchange came today, when Seagram, the dominating leader, finished the morning session 3-8 lower than yesterday's close. The turnover in Seagram came close to 10,000 shares and it opened at the new record high of 24, a point higher. It sold down to a low of 21 7-8, recovering to 22 5-8 at the noon close. Hiram Walker eased an eighth at 38 3-4. The rest of the list remained firm, the strong feature being Canadian Pacific's sharp rise to 180, easto 178 1-2 at the close, C.P.R. was still 2 1-2 points better than yesterday's advance. Abitibi advanced 1 1-2 at 85 1-2 and Industrial Alcohol improved 5-8 at 24 7-8.

Market Generally Strong Rails Fluctuate Very Much

New York, Feb. 3. Canadian Press—Firmness of the stock market in the face of highly erratic fluctuations in some of the merger rails was the distinguishing characteristic of to-day's session. New leaders for the advance were found in both the rail and industrial groups, scores of issues recording extreme gains of one to nine points. Trading started off at a brisk pace but quieted down somewhat in the early afternoon.

Wheeling and Lake Erie Common was again the spectacular performer, breaking 5 1-4 points to 63, and then rallying to 75 1-2, a new high record for all time. 'Bears' were compelled to pay $1.50 a a day a share in order to loan the stock to make delivery against short sales. The preferred touched a new peak at 79 3-4. Western Maryland Common also broke sharpyly when an offer to sell 1500 shares above 33 disclosed no near bids, but it recovered the loss.

In the industrial division, steel, oil, railroad equipment, sugar and baking issues gave the best demonstrations of group strength. Laclede Gas with a ump of nine points and Otis elevator, with a gain of 5, featured the specialties. South Porto Rican Sugar, Houston Oil, Baldwin and Butterick Publishing all sold three to four points higher. Oils were bought in expectation of further favorable dividend developments

Mining Exchange Firm Area Up Another Point

TORONTO, Feb. 3 (Canadian Press)—Continued firmness marked to-day's sessions of the Standard Mining Exchange and the few recessions shown were mostly fractional. Area and Amulet each strengthened another point, Area moving up to 68 and Amulet to 177. Laval Quebec also gained a point at 37 1-2 and Premier firmed eight cents at 2.00. Argonaut improved two points at 45. Trading was comparatively light in volume and there were few features to the session. Duprat softened a half point at 23 1-2.

What does Mussolini know about whiskers?

He hasn't any!

He declares they are a sign of decadency. Are they?

Look at this layout of whisker wearers and answer!

1, Rev. Dr. A. MacGillivray, intellectual and eloquent; 2, Rev. Dr. Salem Bland, writer and thinker; 3, Mussolini himself, belittler of the beard; 4, Charles N. Candee, captain of industry; 5, Prof. St. Elme De Champ, with Toronto's champion whiskers; 6, Sir William Mulock, eminent octogenarian jurist; 7, George Bernard Shaw, belligerent and brilliant author; 8, Sir Rabindranath Tagore, poet and philosopher; 9, Sir Joseph Flavelle, baron of business.

What an array of wisdom and whiskers!

Mussolini must be mistaken.

SWIMMING MEET NEXT SATURDAY

Will Be Held in Connection With Mid-Winter Carnival.

IN BANFF POOL.

CALGARY, Alta., Feb. 3.—What will probably be the best swimming meet ever held in Western Canada and possibly in Canada, will take place on February 5 at the cave and basin swimming pool, Banff, in connection with the eleventh annual winter carnival. In 1925 a very satisfactory meet was held, but this year indications point to a meet of full championship calibre, based on inter-collegiate rules.

Entries have been received from the University of British Columbia, University of Saskatchewan, and Calgary Swimming Club, Calgary Y.M.C.A., and the Crystal Gardens, Victoria, B.C. A very fine cup has been put up by the carnival committee for annual competition, and will be held for one year by the club getting the greatest number of points on the 3.3 and 1 basis. It is surprising the interest that is being taken in the meet this year by the different swimming clubs, and the committee in charge has received splendid co-operation, which indicates that any endeavor to bring swimmers of Western Canada together is appreciated. Last year was the first year that the swimmers from the coast ever met the prairie swimmers, which was a step in the right direction, and they proved themselves slightly superior as they took the cup back with them.

This year, however, the prairie clubs have entered a strong array of talent, and will all go out to bring the cup back to the prairies.

The University of Saskatchewan swimming team has trained faithfully for the past two months for this event, and will be well up in the running. It is hoped this year that the lady swimmers from the coast and the prairies will be brought together for Western Canada honors.

With Miss Helen Woodside of the Calgary Swimming Club lined up on the defending side, the lady invaders from the west will have a tough battle ahead.

He plays C. H. Peacock, of Oshawa, at 3 o'clock this afternoon and W. A. Coad, of Oshawa, starting at six o'clock.

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR ON FRATERNAL VISIT

Local Preceptory Goes To Toronto For Banquet and Session.

The members of Moore Preceptory of the Knights Templar paid a fraternal visit to the members of Cyrene Preceptory, Toronto, last night.

Twenty-five members made the trip in a special car and arrived back in the city on the second midnight.

They were met at the station in Toronto and conveyed to the Yonge street Temple where they were entertained in royal fashion by their hosts.

J. Fred Reed, the presiding Preceptor of Moore Preceptory, and his officers exemplified several of the degrees at a session held after the banquet.

The Presiding Preceptor of the Toronto Lodge was Reg. Richmond.

Its fine qualities preserved in the modern Aluminum package.

RED ROSE TEA "is good tea"

RED ROSE ORANGE PEKOE is extra good.

Just a Word of Warning

The overwhelming public desire and demand for Radio without Batteries, coupled with the outstanding success of the Rogers Batteryless Radio, has inspired many dealers to advertise so-called "Light-Socket" operation for nearly every other make of radio.

This "Light-Socket" operation claimed by dealers for radios other than Rogers is not elimination of batteries, but a combination of batteries and a charger, which charger operates from your light socket.

—You still have batteries
—You still have chemicals
—You still have wires

It is not your radio but the charger that operates from the light socket. The current operates the charger, which charges your batteries. The batteries operate the radio set. Instead of eliminating anything, you have added one more part and expense.

These devices certainly have merit and are a real convenience to those who have radios and cannot afford to sacrifice them for a Rogers, but when you are buying a new radio and are led to believe it is "Batteryless" or so-called "Light-Socket" operation, just ask one question:

"Has it got batteries or chemicals or a charger?" Insist upon a straight answer —then insist on Rogers—with the A/C Tube!

BRITISH DISTILLERS IN ONTARIO FIELD

New Combine Largest Of Its Kind in Entire World.

HAMILTON, Feb. 3.—(Canadian Press.)—Announcement of the entry of a huge British and Canadian distilling organization into the Ontario field was made to-day. The incorporation of Distillers Company of Canada Limited, and Distillers Company Limited, of Great Britain, will make the new organization the largest of its kind in the world.

The parent company, with associates and subsidiaries, has a paid-up capital of one hundred and twenty-five million dollars. Headquarters are in Edinburgh. Nearly every well known brand of liquor is manufactured by the British Company. The Distillers Company Limited, of Canada, will have headquarters in Toronto. It is said to have already acquired a substantial interest in one Canadian distillery.

The personnel of the Board of Canadian Distillers Company Limited is: President, William H. Rose; Vice-President and Managing Director, W. B. Clelland; Directors, T. Herd, Deputy Managing Director, Parent Company; W. Harrison, Director, James Buchanan Co., Ltd., and Sir James Calder, chairman McDonald Greenlees Limited.

BROWNATONE

"Should be in every Home" Says Mrs. Villemaire

Three years of stomach and kidney disorders wrecked her health--Now fully recovered and feeling splendid, she thanks Tanlac

Mme. Eliza Villemaire lives at 432 St. Patrick Street, Ottawa. She is ruddy and robust, showing no signs of the distressing ordeal she went through for three years. "No words can express what I suffered," she said recently. "At times I thought my back must break, and I could not even stoop over to set the table.

"My stomach was just as bad, for food would lie there like a lump of lead. I used to bloat terribly, and at times could hardly catch my breath. Nervousness kept me awake half the night. I tried many remedies and treatments but though I spent a small fortune on them, nothing seemed to help me.

"I only wish I had taken Tanlac when my trouble first started for it certainly would have saved me a lot of suffering. The way my troubles disappeared after taking it was almost magical. It built me up and made me a new woman. Now my kidneys never bother me, I am free from all pain and my digestion is splendid. If I had my way I'd put Tanlac in every home in Canada. Thats how much I think about it."

Don't neglect nature's warnings. At the first sign of trouble, take Tanlac, nature's own tonic, made from roots, herbs and barks. Your druggist has it; get a bottle today. Over 52 million bottles sold.

LAKEFIELD UNITED CHURCH MEETING

Former Presbyterian Body Decides on Name 'Knox United Church.

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 3.—The annual business meeting of the United (Presbyterian) Church congregation was held on Tuesday evening, Jan. 25, with the pastor, Rev. T. M. Wesley, in the chair.

The reports of the various departments revealed that all were in a healthy condition. In the general fund all accounts to date have been paid, and there is a balance in the treasury. The manse has received considerable repairs.

In addition to the former officers re-elected, Mr. Hugh Kidd was elected to the Board of Managers and Mr. J. S. Montgomery and Mr. Roy Charlton as Auditors.

By unanimous vote of the meeting, it was agreed that the church be known in future as Knox United Church.

After the business was concluded a social hour was spent in the school room.

Annual Sleigh Drive.

The annual sleigh drive of the A.Y.P.A. was held on Tuesday evening last. About twenty assembled at the Parish Hall, all warmly wrapped up as the weather was hardly to be described as balmy. They drove through the village and out on the Peterboro road about a mile past the corners known as the "Goose-neck," and then turned back. Laughter and song, mingled with the sleigh bells, proclaimed to all and sundry that a merry party was on the topis. When the party arrived at the hall once more a hot supper was provided by the committee in charge.

Progressive euchre was played, the prizes being won by Miss Odell Watson and Mr. Braden Blewett, and the consolation prizes by Miss Grace Watson and Mr. E. Waldon.

The committee received a hearty vote of thanks for their splendid work, which had been so successful in providing a red letter night for the society.

News Briefs.

Eight tables of euchre were played at the weekly euchre of the A. Y. P. A. The prizes were won by Miss Odell Watson and Mr. W. S. Remnant, and the consolation prizes by Mrs. G. Pearson and Mr. C. C. Stenner.

The Volunteer Fire Brigade is holding a Valentine dance on Monday evening, Feb. 14, in the Town Hall.

The annual masquerade carnival will be held at the rink on Thursday evening, Feb. 10.

CREAMERY PLANS TO BROADEN OUT

East Emily Company Shareholders Decide To Increase Stock.

EAST EMILY, Feb. 3.—A meeting of the shareholders of the East Emily Creamery was held at the Creamery residence on the afternoon of Friday, Jan. 28. Though the day was anything but pleasant, a full house greeted the speakers, showing the enthusiasm displayed by the community in the interest and welfare of the industrial centre.

The turnover at the Creamery during the 1926 season was over sixty per cent. greater than the previous year, and a still further advance is expected this coming season, testifying to the high esteem held by the patronizing public for the East Emily Creamery and its popular manager, Mr. Murray.

The company is desirous of broadening out by increasing its capital for the benefit of the business and its numerous patrons. That their ideals along this line seem to be properly founded is evidenced by the fact that at the meeting a goodly number signed up as shareholders, taking new stock in the movement.

Further plans and preparations will be made at the annual meeting, to be held on Feb. 4.

It is expected that a personal canvas will be made of the neighborhood to include those not present at the meeting.

SEVERAL SPEAKERS AT BANQUET, ETC.

to the government to make this dumping ground as unfavorable as possible.

Need of co-operation was stressed by the speaker, and he said, "he hoped in the near future they would receive the whole-hearted co-operation of the French growers, and then he thought their chances might be pretty good when tariff provision came before the government."

The speaker said "he did not pay much attention to all this talk about the people drifting from the farm into the city, for he thought that this country would be better off today if twenty per cent. of those who were engaged in farming could find other occupations for they were merely making a very poor living on some unfertile soil."

In closing the speaker put the condition of the vegetable growers squarely before the public. They were only asking a square deal; they believe they have not received it in the past, as their trade has been ruined by imported vegetables, and that many of the vegetable growers and the industry as a whole were passing through very hard times.

George Rush.

"I am a dual alliance man," said Mr. Rush in commencing, for work both for the grower and the consumer. "Just as countries in the past have had men go ahead and find out the facts before treaties were made, so Mr. Rush goes ahead and finds out the needs of both the vegetable growers and the consumers.

"In Ontario to-day we have 12,000 vegetable growers and of this number only 1500 belong to the association, so there is great work to be done in organizing the vegetable growers of this province, and of the Dominion. In organization there is strength and it is with this in mind, so that we may act collectively, that I am desirous of getting a strong organization on," said the speaker.

Mr. Rush then gave figures as to the amount of vegetables brought into Canada last year. Over $5,000,000 worth of vegetables were imported from the United States, and about $13,500,000 of small fruits. There was also 1,000,000 pounds of tomatoes imported, and if men in Canada had grown these tomatoes alone it would have given 2500 men steady work the year around, and giving four members to each family, it would have meant a living for 10,000 people. Instead of this we lost the money the vegetable growers suffered an enormous loss, and the country as a whole suffered, for the money went into a foreign land. This sort of thing continued the speaker, is driving our own people away; they are not growing vegetables, and every year the amount being imported is being increased.

"In onions alone (and Ontario today has the best land in the world to grow this vegetable) there was over $400,000 worth imported from Spain and Egypt last year. This thing is depriving our own people and sending our money out to other countries. Research authorities and scientists claim that the Ontario-grown vegetables contain more protein and vitamines than vegetables grown in the United States, for we have a harder climate."

Mr. Rush then gave several examples of how the consumer was failing to co-operate with the Canadian vegetable grower. The other day in Toronto, he watched women buy peas in pods at the counter of a store. In one hour over 20 customers were served, many of them buying more than one pound, while a more superior class of peas in every way could be procured, canned by Canadian canners, at not half that price. The same thing was true about potatoes, and in this respect Mr. Rush blamed the consumer for the high cost of potatoes. The other day he watched 14 people buy potatoes. The Canadian ones were selling at 6c a pound, and the American ones at 20c a pound, and 12 out of the 14 buyers took the foreign potato. He had Dr. Hastings, the Provincial chemist, analyze these two kinds of potatoes, and he found the Canadian potato better in every degree.

Mr. Rush believed that if 90 per cent. of import trade was stopped the Canadian grower would be able to supply the demand, and he would go as far as to guarantee that the price of the vegetables would be lower, for the grower would grow more vegetables as he would have a bigger sale. The association hopes to establish cold storage plants all over the country so that vegetables may be supplied all the year around but to-day this idea of not having fresh vegetables in winter is being overcome in this city, for tomatoes may be bought that have been grown by F. Kitney.

In concluding the speaker stressed the need of co-operation for it was in numbers that there was strength, and from this would develop the home market in Canada, and that our markets would be markets of Canadian made goods.

E. A. Peck, M.P.

The federal member for Peterboro deplored the fact that women were not taking the place in the politicel life of the country that they should, but he was glad to see so many women present at the banquet. The speaker then gave a brief outline as to what the Federal and Provincial governments were endeavoring to do to agriculture. In the Dominion large sums are spent annually along the lines of production of food, and the department takes a deep interest in these lines of endeavor. There is one large experimental farm at Ottawa and 21 others scattered through out the Dominion. Grants were made every year to agricultural exhibitions.

"On the question of protection," said the speaker, "I am in favor of the protection of Canadian produced products, and I will assist all I can in that direction, but a man on the opposition has not much say in the government of the country."

Alderman Macdonald.

As a representative of the city, Alderman Macdonald brought the greetings of the city to the Vegetable Growers' Association, and he wished the growers the best of success in its future operations. He never expected to see such a large attendance when he accepted the invitation to come to the banquet, and he was proud to think that there was such an organization in this district, and he was also proud to know that the vegetables produced in this section compare favorably with any in the world. In closing Mr. Macdonald said "the day has come when every organization, no matter what it represented, must be thoroughly organized.

Alderman Denne.

President Denne of the Peterboro Exhibition, brought the greetings from that board and he thanked the members of the association who had helped in the past nine years to make the Peterboro Exhibition the only Federal recognized Class D show in Ontario.

Reeve Lillico brought the greetings from the County Council, and Bruce Johnston moved the toast to the ladies, with S. Oke replying and F. Kitney also gave a short address. A solo was sung by Mrs. Doig, accompanied by Miss Gwen Donley. Mrs. N. Moncrief played an instrumental solo, and Mrs. Barton gave a couple of readings. An orchestra was also in attendance.

OSHAWA LEADS TRENT TOWNS

was represented by S. B. Iler, assistant engineer of the Distribution department and G. F. Drewry, district superintendent, who explained that the higher rates announced a few days ago are to provide a sinking fund for the $14,500,000 which the Provincial government has expended on the Central Ontario system.

The original purchase cost was $8,350,000 and the additional six millions was required for improvements and expansion under the Hydro's management. The new rates will yield annually $200,000 for sinking fund purposes.

"And when we have it paid for who would own the system?" Col. J. F. Grierson, city solicitor, asked. "We would provide the required sinking fund but the property would still belong to the Government."

Mr. Drewry replied that no doubt the Government would recognize the completion of the funding by the municipalities.

"This is just one of the things we would like to ask the Government," Mayor Preston remarked.

An Old Grievance

Oshawa's main grievance may be expressed as follows:, "Why should our power consumers be loaded up with a share of the losses on such utilities as the Peterboro Street railway, several gas plants, the pulp mill at Campbellford, and several contracts such as that with Kingston and the cement company at Point Anne which are admittedly unprofitable?

It is a recurrence of the old demand for the unscrambling of the power and industrial properties acquired by the Government from the Electric Power Company. The tail was bought with the hide, and Oshawa now contends that the tail has become a burden that calls for the axe.

Queried about the Peterboro street railway and its deficit, Mr. Drewry said: "That is a most lamentable story. We have considered that it is better to operate the railway than to take a heavier loss by scrapping it. However, if the loss should become too great, then we will shut it down.

We have lots of property we have losses on. We admit that the electrical property has to carry the burden including the contracts at Kingston and Belleville that are losses."

Ald. Scheli — Are you forced to operate the pulp mill at a loss? Must you keep is going?

Mr. Drewry — We can shut it down, then you'd lose more money. The gas plant at Napanee has already suffered that fate.

Mr. Drewry intimated that the Hydro was "nursing along" some of these units in the hope that they would eventually prove profitable. As to the loss on the Peterboro Street Railway he said he was necessarily silent.

"That information was refused on the floor of the House," Mr. Drewry added.

Mayor Preston—It is only right that our citizens should know any question they want to know about these matters. You say the Hydro is treating us justly and fairly, but if we were to put an independent engineer on the Peterboro street railway he might disagree with you and advise that it be scrapped. It is up to us to ask the Government how we can get rid of this bunk.

Mr. Drewry said the Hydro had no "axe to grind" in Oshawa any more than in Belleville. "Your rates even at the increase are less than half what they used to be."

Mr. Iler said there had been no charge for sinking funds up to the present because the first bonds were issued for only ten years at 4 per cent during the war. It was not regarded as a good time "to finance a proposition like that" on long term securities. He reviewed the history of the development of the Central Ontario system from the time it was bought by the Government and entrusted to the management of the Hydro. The books showed $1,682,687 for renewals and contingency reserves. Interest on the investment of $14,000,000 was regarded as a fixed charge and had been met out of the earnings.

Mr. Drewry defended as good business the policy of deferring the establishment of a sinking fund on the short term bonds.

"Now we ask that you pay the burden on a property which we have developed."

The growth of the system is shown in the increased production from 21,000 h.p. to 40,000 h.p. This has created an obligation demanding an additional $200,000 a year under the new rates. One per cent for sinking fund furnishes $140,000 and the rate of interest is 4 instead of 5 per cent.

Government Ownership

To Col. Grierson's question "was the original purchase price excessive?" Mr. Drewry replied — "I'm not going to make any comments as to that. You are looking for something to argue about."

Mayor Holgate — Under public ownership we should know.

Mr. Drewry—This is government ownership, not public ownership. Then you would have every right to detail of figures, etc.

The contract with Kingston has seven or eight years to run.

"Then wait till we get the chance to raise Kingston's rates," he remarked significantly.

"Got Us By the Neck"

The discussion shifted to Oshawa's position and also to the adjustment of the rates.

In introducing the motion to consult with other municipalities Ald. Johnston declared "They've got us by the neck."

To feel right, you must have a balanced breakfast.

LAKEFIELD NEWS

LAKEFIELD, Feb. 2 — Mr. George Welbourne competed on Monday night forty-five years of continuous service for the C.N.R. between Lakefield and Belleville. On February 1, Mr. Welbourn went on the pension list, and his many friends wish him many years to enjoy life. He will continue to reside in Lakefield, where he has lived for nearly nineteen years, and where he feels much at home.

The Holy Name Society of St. Paul's Church are holding a card party and dance on Friday evening, February 4th, in the Hotel Lakefield.

Two sleigh loads of young people from the Peterborough Normal drove to the village on Thursday evening and were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Sutton. A delightful evening was the unanimous verdict of the party.

Lakefield friends of Major J. M. Bygott are delighted at his election as Reeve of Campbellford, and also at his appointment as church warden of Christ Church. Major Bygott took an active part in the municipal life and church work in Lakefield during his residence here.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Mackenzie entertained at bridge at Wednesday evening last in honor of Mr. J. A. Creasor, who shortly will joint the ranks of the benedicts.

Personals

Mrs. Cameron left on Monday for Toronto, where she will remain till Spring, visiting Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Cameron.

Mr. William Bullied left this week for Buffalo, where he has secured a position.

Mr. J. A. Creasor left on Thursday last for Ottawa, where his marriage to Miss Jean Burritt of that city took place on Saturday.

Mrs. Lawrence H. Graham is visiting friends in Toronto.

Mrs. Osborne and Miss Angela Osborne were in Peterborough on Saturday.

Mrs. G. J. Elmsley was in Toronto last week for a few days.

Mr. C. I. Grant of Toronto is visiting friends in the village.

Mrs. W. H. Stabler has returned from St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough, where she spent a couple of weeks undergoing treatment. Her condition has much improved.

Mrs. Mulkins, who spent two weeks in St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough, has recovered sufficiently to be removed to her home in the village.

Rev. Walter Loucks, M.A., of Toronto, was the guest of Rev. and Mrs. A. W. Mackenzie at The Grove on Saturday.

Dr. and Mrs. S. J. Gibson returned on Saturday from Campbellford, where they were called by the death of the former's father, Mr. James Gibson.

Mrs. C. R. May went to Ottawa, where she attended the marriage of Miss Jean Burritt to Mr. John A. Creasor.

Miss Olive Jackson of Peterborough was in the village on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Montgomery were in Cannington last week, called by the death of the latter's father, Mr. Frank Jay.

Mrs. H. J. Abbott, Mrs. James Millar, and Miss Lottie Smith were in Millbrook on Thursday last, attending the funeral of their aunt, Miss Lottie Smith.

Misses Elizabeth and Molly Thomson spent the week-end in Omemee.

C.G.I.T. GROUP GIVES LEAGUE PROGRAMME

Study of Canadian Prose Writers Taken Up—Millbrook News.

MILLBROOK, Feb. 3.— The Wide Awakes group of Canadian Girls in Training was in charge of the Young People's League meeting on Monday evening, the study of Canadian prose writers being taken up as fully as time would permit.

The president, Hazel McMahon, was in the chair, and the programme included:

Opening hymn and prayer.

Scripture lesson, John 6:1-14 (this is the special chapter for the C.G.I.T. group this year).

Talk, "God's Slow Making of Us", by the leader.

Canadian Authors: Ralph Connor, by Alvira Davis; Charles D. Roberts, by Elinor Fallis; L. M. Montgomery, by Wilma Fallis; Sir Gilbert Parker, by Hazel McMahon.

Unfortunately the members responsible for Marian Keith, Louis Kirby, Egerton Ryerson, and other writers, were unable to be present.

The object this year, in the series, is to have a vote taken at the close of each literary evening, and let the members show in this way which writer they consider the most outstanding in Canadian literature. Discussion on Monday evening led to the conclusion that Ralph Connor has touched on more phases of the national life in his writings than any other author, but so far as the girls are concerned L. M. Montgomery's books are the most popular.

The devotional committee is responsible for the meeting next Monday evening. Apparently the popularity of the weekly "Church Night" is lessening the attendance at the League gatherings.

The annual meeting of Durham County L.O.L. was held in the Orange Hall here on Monday afternoon, February 1, with a good representation of delegates from the various districts in attendance.

Brother James Roddy, who has been County Master for the past two years, presided.

The following officers for 1927 were elected, and installed by Past County Master, Brother James H. Paul:

Worshipful County Master—Brother W. E. Gray, Garden Hill.

Deputy County Master—Brother E. L. Etcher, Port Hope.

Chaplain—Brother (Rev.) F. Crissall, Garden Hill.

Marshal—Brother J. H. Paul, P.C.M.

Secretary— Brother N. Belch, Cavan.

Treasurer—Brother S. Fallis, Cavan.

Lectureman—Brother E. Zealand, Campbellcroft.

Deputy Lectureman— Brother J. Peacock, Garden Hill.

It was decided to attend the annual Orange walk at Bowmanville on July Twelfth this year.

Speeches were made by the retiring and the newly-elected officers, following the formal ceremony of installation, and before the business session was finally brought to a close.

Mrs. David Lunn, Fourth Line, Cavan, was hostess for the regular meeting of the Golden Links Mission Circle last week, Mr. Lunn bringing his sleigh and team to the village and conveying the members to his home for the gathering.

The superintendent, Mrs. V. C. Lambert, took the chair in the absence of the president, Mrs. J. McKnight, who was prevented from attending because of illness.

Following the regular business and devotional session a very pleasant social hour was spent with games, music, contests, and the service of dainty refreshments. Mrs. Lunn is a life member of the circle, the certificate to this effect being a wedding present from the officers and members shortly after her marriage took place. Previous to her marriage Mrs. Lunn was an annual member of the organization.

The February meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the United Church was held at the home of Miss M. Duncan on Tuesday afternoon, the vice-president, Mrs. A. J. Brown, taking the chair in the absence of the president, Miss M. E. Needham, who is making an extended stay in Toronto.

The treasurer's report, presented by Miss Duncan, showed that the entire indebtedness of $1,300 incurred through the lowering of the organ and choir loft, and other improvements, made at the church during the year has been paid up in less than twelve months. The special objective the Aid will have in view this year has not yet been decided upon, but the Society always holds itself responsible for needed repairs at the parsonage.

A scheme for raising extra funds in one month, called "Sunshine Bags", was outlined by Mrs. McKnight, and on motion was adopted for the month of April.

Mrs. F. H. Smith and Mrs. T. H. Aiken were appointed a committee on refreshments for the annual meeting the first Wednesday in March, the gathering to be at the home of Mrs. E. S. Burnham.

At the close of the business session a social hour was enjoyed, many of the members bringing their work and accomplishing something on articles intended for the annual bazaar next December; activity along this line goes on through the entire twelve months.

Through the kindness of Mrs. Brown ice-cream and cake was served before the gathering dispersed.

Mrs. Russell Howe, and daughter, Peggy, who has been for some weeks visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. Nattrass, have returned to their home in Toronto.

Miss S. Dean has been re-appointed truant officer for 1927 by the school board, at a salary of $50.00 per year.

Among those from here who went to Peterboro on Monday and took in the curling competition for the district cup were: Mr. and Mrs. T. Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Burnham, Mrs. G. W. Sayles, Mr. W. E. Ball, Mr. B. L. Richards.

Rev S. C. Moore, pastor of the United church at Colborne, who has many warm friends in this vicinity, has gone to Arizona for a stay of several months on account of an affection of the throat which requires a warmer climate if a cure is to be brought about.

Mr. Moore was at one time pastor of the former Cavan South circuit. He was unable to supply his own pulpit for several months past, except at rare intervals, and a specialist has ordered the Arizona stay, before further complications set in. Although built up in his general health the throat trouble has persisted. A student from Albert College, Belleville, is taking Mr Moore's work at Colborne during his absence. He is not expected to return until June.

Mr. and Mrs. R. N. Jones of Peterboro were week end visitors of Mr. and Mrs. P. I. Bentley.

Could Not Sleep Heart and Nerves Were So Bad

Mr. Geo. Meek, Windsor, Ont. writes:—"I suffered with my heart and nerves and could not sleep at night for noises in my head. I managed to keep at my work somehow, until I began to have dizzy spells which got so bad I could not go to my work. I was afraid to go out any place, for very often I would stagger on my feet, and everything in front of me would turn black and fade away. While I was home sick a friend told me to take MILBURN'S HEART NERVE PILLS. I got four boxes and by the time I had used them the pains and noises in my head ceased and I was able to get a good night's rest. Although that was six years ago I have never been troubled with that complaint again."

Price 50c. a box at all dealers, or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

A Smart Frock for the Miss or Small Woman

Delightfully girlish is the chic frock shown here and would be smart if fashioned of either woollen material or silk. The skirt has box-plaits in front and is joined to the bodice having tucks at each shoulder. The long raglan sleeves are finished with shaped cuffs, and a trim turn-down collar fastens onto the dress. The back is in one piece and a shaped belt achieves the two-piece mode. A smart note of contrast may be introduced in the collar, cuffs and belt. NO. 1527 is for misses and small women and is in sizes 16, 18 and 20 years. Size 18 requires 3¼ yards 39-inch material, or 3 yards 54-inch. If contrasting material is used, ⅜ yard 39-inch additional is required. Price 20 cents the pattern.

Many styles of smart apparel may be found in our Fashion Book. Our designers originate their patterns in the heart of the style centers, and their creations are those of tested popularity, brought within the means of the average woman. Price of the book 10 cents the copy.

SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

"What's the matter, darling? Are you crying? You really must hurry, Cherry baby," Faith leaned against the locked door and spoke softly, pityingly. If Cherry was spending those last minutes of her girlhood in lonely desolation and fear and remorse, her sister could not find it in her heart to blame her.

There was no answer. Something in that absolute stillness beyond the locked door sent a sharp, sickening pang of fear through Faith's overwrought nerves. What if Cherry had—oh, no! She couldn't do that, not life-loving little Cherry! But Faith, as she leaned dizzily against the door, remember that she had left the bottle of bromide tablets on the dresser, after giving Cherry a mild dose to quiet her nerves.

"Cherry! Cherry! You're scaring me to death!" she cried sharply, rattling the knob of the door desperately.

There was no answer. Faith, panic-stricken, dropped the lovely golden-poppy bridesmaid dress to the floor and flung her weight against the door.

"Cherry! Cherry! Open this door this minute!"

If only her mother and father or Junior were there to help her. But they were in the church by this time, or nearing it in George's swift car. But the chauffeur who was to call for her and Cherry—old Mr. Cluny's chauffeur, with the magnificent Rolls Royce that would be Cherry's, unless—

"Oh, I'm going crazy!" Faith groaned. Then realization of her partially clad state rushed over her and she sped into her bedroom, to fling on her shabby old winter coat.

She hardly knew what she was doing when she rushed from the house, down the path to the street, which was covered now with the feathery, big flakes of snow that were falling steadily, out of an almost windless sky. The Cluny limousine was not in sight. As she turned back toward the house, a glimpse of fluttering window drapery caught her eye. Cherry's window—open! Wide open! And the thermometer at thirty! Running through the six inches of soft snow in the yard, she arrived at Cherry's open, lighted window. By standing on tiptoe she could peer into the room.

Cherry was not in the room. On the floor, on one of the small rose-colored chenille rugs, lay a little pool of fire and snow—Cherry's rhinestone-and-pearly-embroidered wedding dress. And across a chair back drifted the feather-light cloud of Cherry's wedding veil. But there was no bride to wear them. The wedding dress was in a little round heap—as if Cherry had put it on, and had then let it slip to the floor and had stepped out of it.

Faith's first reaction from numbing horror was one of heart-clutching relief. At all events she was not dead. She had fled. But she was not dead. Her second reaction was one of almost insane joy that somehow Cherry had cheated the altar of the sacrifice of her growing youth. Anything was better than that lovely Cherry should marry an old man whom she did not love.

Near the window stood an old paint bucket, unless Joy had removed it. Faith groped for it in the dark, found it, snatched it up, planted it beneath the window, and hoisted herself. Surely Cherry would not run away without a word to her mother, to her sister who loved her and understood her, understood even the panic which would make her flee into the snow and the night.

She found it on the dresser, weighted down by a nail buffer—Cherry's hastily scrawled note, written with lead pencil on the back of an old envelope addressed in Chris Wiley's bold, black, dashing handwriting.

"I'm running away, Faith. Tell Muggy I'll be all right. Don't worry. I couldn't do it after all, Faith. He was so old! Please don't try to follow me. Give me time to get away or I'll kill myself. Love Cherry." And across the envelope was a childish row of crosses, made with quick, heavy slashes of the pencil.

Torn between her love for Cherry, which dictated that she heed the frantic girl's plea to give her a chance to get far enough away to elude pursuit, and her instinct to cry out for help, because she knew that she could not trust her own judgment in such a crisis, she moved almost mechanically to the telephone and called Bob Hathaway's number.

After what seemed an age of waiting without a response, she realized that Bob undoubtedly had left for his uncle's house, for it was he who was to escort the aged bridegroom to the church.

She had just hung up the receiver when there came a ring at the door, which she flew to answer. It was the chauffeur of Ralph Cluny's Rolls Royce, come to take bride and maid of honor to a wedding which would never be celebrated.

BEWARE OF BLADDER WEAKNESS GETTING-UP-NIGHTS

Disturbed Rest Undermines Health Says Vitality, States Physician Who Recommends Home Treatment

Men and women who are constantly annoyed and distressed by Bladder Weakness or Urinary Irritations should take immediate steps to combat their trouble before it reaches a serious or perhaps dangerous stage!

Backaches, Headaches, pains in feet and legs, nervousness, restlessness, frequent but scantly urination with burning and pain, getting-up-nights—these are some of the more troublesome signs of Bladder Weakness or Irritation that should have prompt attention.

No matter how stubborn your case may seem to be or how many different medicines you have tried without success—don't give up, and think your case hopeless or the natural consequence of advancing years, until you have tried the special private prescription of Dr. Southworth, a physician of nearly 50 years successful experience.

In order to reach the many thousands who cannot come to his office, Dr. Southworth has placed his URATABS in good, local drug stores—and invites you to try them without risk of cost, unless pleased. If URATABS bring you swift and certain comfort you will be happy. If they do not satisfy, they will cost you nothing—so, if you need this grand medicine, try it today. October's Party

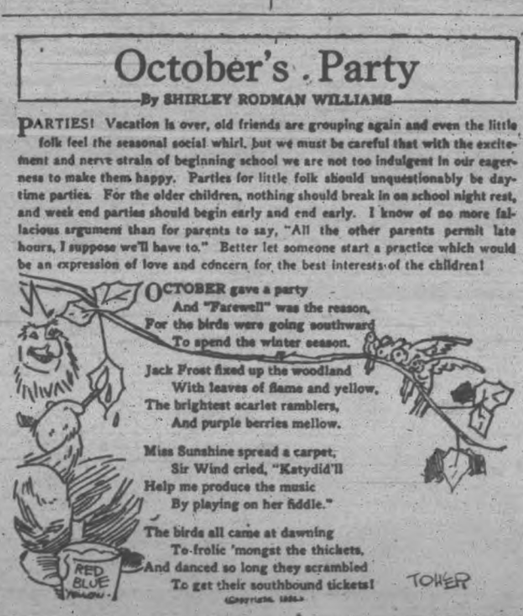
By SHIRLEY RODMAN WILLIAMS

PARTIES! Vacation is over, old friends are grouping again and even the little folk feel the seasonal social whirl, but we must be careful that with the excitement and nerve strain of beginning school we are not too indulgent in our eagerness to make them happy. Parties for little folk should unquestionably be daytime parties. For the older children, nothing should break in on school night rest, and week end parties should begin early and end early. I know of no more fallacious argument than for parents to say, "All the other parents permit late hours, I suppose we'll have to." Better let someone start a practice which would be an expression of love and concern for the best interests of the children!



DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

This evening gown gives a striking example of the present fashion for combining black and white. The bodice is of white georgette and the skirt of black satin.

The fashion of wearing dark skirts with light bodices that was so prevalent in the late nineties was one that pained the eye of many critics of feminine costumery. They pointed out that this trick of dividing the body in two in the middle was contrary to the best principles of art and would not have been tolerated in classic or mediæval times, when beauty of line was apparently more highly valued than in later days. And now for a time dark skirts and light bodices have been out of fashion.

But all things come to those who wait as far as fashions are concerned and it ought not to be surprising that this trick has been revived. Oddly enough it is in evening frocks that these white bodices and dark skirts make their appearance and—oddly enough also—they carry with them an air of undeniable smartness.

Jean Patou of Paris is given the credit—or possibly the blame—for launching the vogue for these black skirt-white bodice evening frocks and the fashion has made strong appeal this winter to many of the best dressed of American women. He first launched the idea in a frock with black velvet skirt and white velvet bodice and no doubt he was surprised to see how quickly the idea was seized upon and copied by others. To the taste of most American women the white velvet was too heavy for an evening bodice so the idea has been reproduced here for the most part by means of black velvet skirts and bodices of white beaded or sequin-trimmed georgette. The sketch shows a new evening frock in which the idea has been developed in lighter materials for spring—both sections being made of georgette.

The same idea has been developed in afternoon costumes showing white satin bodices combined with black velvet or black satin skirts. One thing that makes this fashion well liked by many women is that the slender little black skirt accentuates the slim lines of the hips and thighs.

WOMEN'S MUSIC CLUB MEETING

Paper on German Composers Given By Mrs. R. Gliddon.

GOOD PROGRAMME.

The regular fortnightly meeting of the Women's Music Club was held yesterday afternoon in the studio at the Conservatory of Music, with a good attendance. The president, Mrs. J. Forbes Allan, made several prelimmary announcements, and an interesting paper on German composers was read by Mrs. R. Gliddon. Departing from the usual custom, the instrumental selections which illustrate the addresses at these meetings, demonstrating the work of the various composers, were given at intervals during the address, and were especially pleasing. The programme, which was in charge of Mrs. R. Gliddon, Mrs. G. N. Gordon, and Miss F. Edwards, included the following numbers:

Pianoforte solos: Handel's "Gavotte," Bach's "Prelude and Fugé in F Minor," and Liszt's "Sonnet No. 6," a Travel Picture Impression of Italy, played by Miss Olga Fowler, Mozart's "Sonata No. 10," Beethoven's "Minuet in A flat Major" and "Sonato, Opus 26," and Schumann's "Nachstucke, Opus 24," played by Miss Florence Saunders, Schubert's "The Question," and Brahms' "Faithful Love," sung by Mrs. H. F. Doig, who also gave, in German, a verse of "The Lorelei," Schubert's "Maiden's Lament" and Schumann's "Widmung" and Carl Bohm's "Still wie die Nacht" sung in German by Miss Emma Meiklejohn of Campbellford.

Mrs. Gliddon opened her paper with a reference to folk song, "a form of music orally transmitted by the mind of a nation," as one of the fundamental inspirations for the later work of the great German masters in music. She went on to refer to the strong contrast noticeable in the music of Northern and Southern Germany, the music of the Protestant North being marked by nobility and dignity and an inclination toward the church; the music of the Catholic South being lively and humorous in character.

A review of some of the older German composers was given, the seventeenth century marking the parting of the ways in this realm of art, being the age of Bach, Handel, Gluck, Haydn and Mozart, and the beginning of the era of Schubert, Beethoven and Weber.

Owing to the great scope of the German composers, and their outstanding ability, Mrs. Gliddon was enabled to allude only very briefly to each master, referring in turn to Handel, Johann Sebastian Bach, and his son, Karl Philip Emmanuel Bach, Josef Haydn, Wolfgang Mozart, Ludwig van Beethoven, Franz Schubert, Felix Mendelssohn, Robert Schumann, Franz Liszt, who, although Hungarian by birth, was German by adoption; Richard Wagner, Brahms and Richard Struss.

At the conclusion of the programme, Mrs. Allan voiced a hearty vote of appreciation to Mrs. Gliddon, for her paper, and also to the assisting artists of the afternoon, and the accompanist, Miss Agnes Logan, who fulfilled her duties in her usual capable manner.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 4, 1927
(Copyright, 1927, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Friendly stars rule to-day without interference from adverse aspects, according to astrology. It is read as favorable for many sorts of financial transactions.

Women have the advantage of a most favorable direction of the stars, making for success in whatever they undertake.

The seers foretell for women a period in which they cultivate all the feminine charms while at the same time they make tremendous progress in public affairs.

Again, there is to be a trend toward romance in which men and women of all ages will be exceedingly susceptible.

Love affairs will accelerate business enterprises as well as impede them, if the stars are rightly interpreted.

This is read as a most lucky wedding day in which long life and unchanging loyalty appear to be forecast.

Labor movements are to gain tremendously in the coming year, the seers foretell, and will affect England most decidedly.

The effects of the eclipse of last month may now be noticeable in upheavals in world markets and much excitement on the stock exchanges.

In French Indo-China there will be new problems that are of special interest to residents of the United States.

Extraordinary prosperity is foretold for Southern America where new discoveries of minerals are indicated.

Mars will have a strong influence over Great Britain now and many big events will take place as a result of discontent among the people, the seers prophesy.

If there is anything in astrology, Mexico will not enjoy peaceful relations with other countries for many months, for the eclipse of the Sun in June presages new troubles.

Persons whose birthdate it is have a happy outlook for the year, which should bring much prosperity.

Children born on this day have the possibilities of the sort of success that provides a competence always.

Uncle Wiggily

To-day's Bedtime Story.

By Howard R, Garis

(Copyright, McClure Syndicate.)

UNCLE WIGGILY'S PIECE OF PIE

"Who is in my pantry?" asked Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy one day, as she hopped into the kitchen and heard a noise in the closet where she kept many good things to eat, as well as dishes, pots and pans. "Who is in my pantry?"

Now if the muskrat lady housekeeper expected to hear the voice of the Wolf, Fox or Bob Cat she was most delightfully surprised, for it was Uncle Wiggily, who spoke, saying:

"I am here, my dear Nurse Jane."

"Oh, that's all right," went on Miss Fuzzy Wuzzy. "Are you looking for anything?"

"Just a piece of pie," answered Mr. Longears. "I am going out in the woods to see if I can find an adventure. There is nothing sure about finding adventures, you know. Sometimes I find them and more often I do not. But there is no danger of not finding a piece of pie in your pantry, Nurse Jane. I'm just going to help myself to a piece to take to the woods with me for lunch."

"Help yourself," invited the muskrat lady housekeeper. "Or, if you will wait a minute, I'll cut a pie for you."

But just then Mrs. Longears, the rabbit lady, called to the muskrat

"Come out of that, if you please!"

lady to do something for her, so Nurse Jane hurried away with her long tail, and Uncle Wiggily said:

"I think I can cut my own pie."

This he did after looking at several tins in the pantry, and at last picking out one on the very highest shelf, so high that the rabbit gentleman had to stand on a chair to reach it.

"That must be the best pie of all, because they put it on such a high shelf," thought the bunny rabbit. "They didn't want any of my little rabbits to find it. But I found it and I'll cut myself a piece and I'll have a jolly good time eating this pie on the woods."

Uncle Wiggily almost fell off the chair, getting down the high pie, but at last he managed to cut himself a piece, and it wasn't a small one either, but what matters that? Anyhow, with the piece of pie in his pocket, the rabbit gentleman hopped over the fields and through the woods, looking for an adventure.

Uncle Wiggily looked under a log, but no adventure was there. Uncle Wiggily looked inside a hollow tree, and right away he knew he had found an adventure. For he saw something thick and fuzzy and fluffy and it moved.

"Ah! Come out of that if you please," exclaimed the rabbit gentleman with a laugh. "I have found you, Adventure! Trying to hide from me, weren't you?"

And then out of the hollow tree popped the Bob Cat with his silly little tail.

"Were you looking for me?" mewed the Bob Cat.

"Well—er—no, not exactly," faltered Uncle Wiggily. "I was looking for an adventure and—"

"I'm your adventure!" snarled the Bob Cat and, before Uncle Wiggily knew what he was doing he had put his hand in his pocket and pulled out the piece of pie.

"What have you there?" mewed the Bob Cat.

"A piece of pie," said Uncle Wiggily softly. "I was going to eat it for my lunch, though now—"

"Now it will do very nicely for my lunch!" snarled the Bob Cat taking no pains to be polite. "Let me have it!" he snapped, and still more impolitely grabbing the piece of pie, the bad chap took a big bite from it. An instant later he began jumping up and down, turning around on his silly little tail as a top does on its peg while he howled

"Witchie, witchie wy! Oh, what a funny pie!" and with his mouth filled with white stuff the Bob Cat ran away.

"Uncle Wiggily hopped back to his bungalow as fast as he could hop. He met Nurse Jane on the steps.

"I was just coming after you," said the muskrat lady who had another piece of pie in her paw. You cut the wrong pie, Uncle Wiggily. That one on the high shelf was an old April Fool pie the children made long ago to tease you with. It was filled with white cotton. But your wife took it away and hid it."

"Ha! Ha!" laughed the bunny. "The cotton pie fooled the Bob Cat! Ha! Ha! I'm glad I didn't try to eat it!"

So that's how it happened. And if the roller skate will kindly lend its wheels to the baby carriage to go to the movies, I'll tell you about Uncle Wiggily's piece of cake.

JOLLY JINGLES

By Graham Hunter

SHORT STORY

It had been a snappy looking suit, as the tailors say, this palm beach suit that Bobby Ashton held to the light of a December day, but now in the cold sunshine its summery appearance and utter unsuitableness sent a cold shiver down his usually stiff spine. The sparkle died out of his vivid dark face.

'No use talking, I haven't got the nerve to wear this to the dance—the girls would all be laughing at Ruth for having such a comic escort—and Ruth always looks so dainty and sweet—gee, I surely am out of luck this winter, that's the truth. My other suit shines like the kitchen stove I'll have to go to bed with a sore throat or something!"

He spent all the afternoon sponging and pressing his dark serge suit, but in the end its resemblance to a polished stove was even greater than before.

In a rage at his own powerlessness in the matter, he went to the telephone to let Ruth Clark know that he could not escort her to the charity dance on Wednesday. Ruth was out and he went miserably to bed, knowing that if he lost the friendship of Ruth now, it would affect all of his future life. The dream of all his desires was that some day he might succeed in the business his father had left, and, with his mother taken care of, that he could marry Ruth.

Of course a nice girl like Ruth Clark would never bother with a poor youth who had sunk all his available money in a palm beach suit in the summer, and had worn it ever since until it had become a regular joke among the boys. At the last dance he had fancied that Ruth's face had changed a little bit when she saw him in his familiar pale suit, his chin up, handsome as Bobby Ashton always was. But beyond that peculiar flash that he had seen, Ruth had appeared as sweetly gracious as ever.

The dance was to be on Wednesday and, by Tuesday, Bobby Ashton had fretted himself into a feverish condition. It all sounds very silly to an adult reader, but on these small trifles hang a life's happiness, sometimes.

As Bobby went home Tuesday night, he lingered in front of a tailor shop, admiring the quiet dark suits hanging on the long pole. He did not see Ruth Clark on the other side of the street pause and watch him for a long time before she ran swiftly up the street toward home. All he knew was that he would have to telephone her that he had a cold. Then he'd go to bed, and get Mr. Wolland to attend the store for him the following day. It was a cowardly retreat but there was no need for him to make Ruth ridiculous.

At supper he told his mother about it. "I have wondered about it, too, Bobby—if it was only next month instead of this."

"If," smiled Bobby.

Perhaps it was his mother's worried face that suddenly changed Bob Ashton's mind. "I tell you, mother," he said, finally, "I will go and wear the suit and if they want to laugh, let 'em!"

"That is splendid—and spoken like an Ashton." She smiled tremulously.

"That's that!" declared Bobby, and getting out his fiddle played all the rollicking tunes he knew to keep up his mother's spirits.

"I feel like a fool," he told himself as he went to bed, "making such a fuss over what I'll wear!! If Ruth is ashamed of me—I'll get what's coming to me. Now, I wonder if those cases of saws will be coming along tomorrow?" And his mind drifted off on thoughts of business.

Wednesday was a rather queer day for the young hardware dealer. Almost all the boys he knew telephoned to know if he was going to wear his palm beach suit to the dance, and when they heard that he was they usually groaned. The groans sounded genuine too. One boy wanted to borrow his tennis flannels and Bobby gave his permission, wondering if they all had some kind of joke they were putting up on him. Never mind, he'd show 'em whether clothes made the man or not. He'd wear what he pleased.

That night his mother pinned a pink geranium in his buttonhole, and helped him into the warm overcoat that hid the immaculate palm beach suit.

"Have a wonderful time, Bobby." She sent him off with a very satisfied smile to stop for Ruth Clark, whose fur coat concealed some pretty evening frock, no doubt. They were late. When they entered the large hall, Bobby looked around with a dizzying look in his dark eyes.

Every man and youth in the hall wore light summer garments, suits like his own, tennis flannels and shirt waists, gray flannels, white linen, while all the girls wore summer sports clothes. Even the blushing girl beside him had on a pale pink linen frock and little white oxford ties.

"I don't quite — understand," stammered Bob Ashton.

"Didn't you know that the Committee decided to make the dance into a summer costume affair? And they're going to have a maypole later and a game of tennis downstairs," added Ruth, chattering to hide her embarrassment.

"And it was your suggestion, Ruth," said Bobby, as he lingered at the Clark gate. "Did you do it for me?"

"Would you do more for me, Ruth—would you wait a while for me?"

"Why didn't you ask me before?" she whispered.

PHONE SUBSCRIBERS DISCUSS PURCHASE

Decide To Continue as Before—Omemee Wins Hockey Game.

OMEMEE, Feb. 3—A meeting of the Omemee telephone subscribers was held on Wednesday afternoon. A good representation was present. The purpose of the meeting was to discuss the buying of the Omemee Bell Telephone System which is offered for sale. After much discussion, a vote was taken, and the decision was found to be in favor of continuing as before under the Municipal Telephone Company.

The Bethany hockey team accompanied by about thirty rooters journeyed to Omemee on Monday evening to play a return game with the locals. Omemee fans turned out in large numbers, and one of the most exciting games of the season followed. The visitors put up a good showing during the first period but the locals had too much speed and soon piled up a nice score. Body checking was heavy, and in the course of slashing one of the Bethany boys was penalized by being ruled out of the game, while the Omemee player was laid out for a time. Much jeering and yelling followed and for a time it was feared that a "free for all" would follow but after some delay the game was resumed. An ill feeling still prevailed, however, which was probably somewhat overcome at lunch time.

Mr. Walter Mitchell handled the bell in his usual capable manner.

The line up was as follows:

The progressive euchre, held in the U.F.O. hall on Friday evening, in aid of the junior hockey team, drew a large crowd. About 17 tables were in progress and all report a good time.

THIS CANADA OF OURS

THE HUDSON'S BAY COMPANY

Q.: ... did the Hudson's Bay Company get its name?

A.: The abbreviated name, "Hudson's Bay Company," would appear to have been used by the "Governor and Company of Adventurers of England trading into Hudson's Bay" within a few years of the granting of the charter, as a minute book, dated 1680, in the company's archives in London, England, bears the title "The Minute Book of the Hudson's Bay Company." Thorugh long usage and custom, the name "Hudson's Bay Company" has become a second title to the company.

FARM NEWS AND PROBLEMS

HEAVY BEEF CATTLE OFFERED WERE NOT WELL FINISHED TYPE EXPORTS TO BRITAIN RESTRICTED

Lambs and Hogs Two Bright Spots on Live Stock Market.

PRICE DECREASE.

59,000 Head of Cattle Were Exported To Great Britain.

The losses in heavy beef cattle to Canadian producers in the past season, in contrast with good profits in the preceding year, have been due to much larger supplies of this class of cattle, and to an increasing preference on the part of consumers for beef from younger cattle. While heavy cattle have been at times a drug on the market, particularly noticeable when not of the well-finished type, and again to restricted export demand, the demand for "baby beef" exceeds the supply. The latter circumstance has been conspicuous of late.

Smaller Exports to Britain.

The feeling in the cattle industry is generally better than several months ago, despite the fact that the markets for cattle and hogs have shown further weakness, mainly because of smaller exports to Great Britain and the United States. Cold-storage stocks of beef, veal, mutton and lamb increased during the months of October, November and December, but pork products in store were reduced by nearly 9,000,000 pounds. It is thought that fewer cattle will be fed this year, but an encouraging factor is the excellent condition in which cattle will enter the winter period. According to the Dominion Live Stock Commissioner there is no fundamental weakness in the hog situation, as with the end of heavy shipments in sight there should shortly be more stability in prices.

Lamb and Hog Outlook Good.

"Lambs and hogs are the two bright spots on the live stock horizon today," a recent statement attributed to G. B. Rothwell, Dominion Animal Husbandman. "Personally," he adds, "I would not continue to worry much over these, particularly lambs. Hogs may fluctuate a little—they always have—but the immediate prospects, in my opinion, point to relatively stronger markets for both." Hog production in 1926, especially in Ontario, was very low, due largely to high mortality in spring litters, caused by a prolonged winter and cold spring.

Cattle and sheep have shown no significant price-trend in the past month. It is probable that beef consumption in the Dominion has been greater in 1926 than in any previous year. There has been little exportation, and slaughterings under Government inspection made new records, excepting possibly during the war period and in the post-war era of 1918 and 1919, when exports were important. For the months ending with December the total receipts of cattle at the Union Stock Yards amounted to 354,000 cattle, 110,000 calves, 312,000 hogs and 197,000 sheep and lambs. These figures are approximate only, compiled in mid-December, before the final figures for the year ending Dec. 31 were obtainable.

Western Shipments to Packers.

In addition to yard sales, there were also 61,000 head of cattle, 23,000 hogs and 3,000 lambs fed en route to other points. The actual sales of cattle were 13,000 head greater than those for 1925, but the through billing figures were 28,000 short of those for the previous year. Another factor, when calculating increased beef killings, was the heavy shipments, principally from Western Canada, made direct to packers' sidings.

The increase of 13,000 sales at the Union Yards was credited wholly to the Province of Ontario as the arrivals from the Prairie Provinces fell short of the 1925 inward movement by about 8,000 head. The decrease in 28,000 head in through billing is made up of 19,000 fewer export cattle en route to Great Britain and 9,000 reduction in cattle of Western origin railed to Ontario points. Calf sales were slightly more than for 1925. Hog sales were 72,000 short of the 1925 total, and lambs about 10,000 greater.

Market's Turnover Somewhat Less.

The monetary sale value of the cattle and calves is estimated at $23,557,000 and is $857,000 greater than these two classes for 1925. Hogs at $8,350,000 stand at $1,383,000 less than for the preceding year. Sheep and lambs sales reached a total value of $1,850,000, a decline of $176,000 from the previous year.

Export shipments to Great Britain assumed a total of 59,000 head of cattle, against 78,000 for 1925, and the shortage indicated herein is in line with a general decrease in exports for the Dominion as a whole, namely, 83,000 head for 1926, compared with 110,900 for the year 1925.

More cattle were liquidated at the centre of live stock trade in Toronto, but at lower prices. A short run of hogs sold at higher prices than in 1925, but lower from August on; lambs also sold at lower prices than the average figure for 1925.

Two Principal Drawbacks.

During 1926, it must be remembered that two salient factors militating against success, were carried by the livestock industry. Poor feed conditions and restricted exports. These twin circumstances were mainly responsible for the price decrease in heavy steers, likewise contributory to a uniform price slump in other grades. Overseas shipments and store cattle purchases were about 20,000 ahead of 1925, with larger supplies absorbed by packers and butchers than followed this outlet in 1925.

In consequence of the coal deadlock in Great Britain, and curtailed purchasing power, prices on the British markets dropped sharply to the lowest levels since the embargo on Canadian cattle was removed. Moving still lower as the year advanced, the British markets were closely followed in trend by the home market as the shipment to seaboard of heavy steer types were lessened and prices cut.

The year's liquidation of heavy steers averaged 65c a cwt. lower than for the year 1925, and during the fall months prices were as much as $2 a cwt. lower than those for a corresponding period last year. At the close of the year the export movement was meagre, December probably the most notable in lacking export bids.

Prices Recede in November.

During the export period good heavy steers—1,200 to 1,000 pounds, average $7.42 a cwt., while the average price rate of the best butcher steer class was $6.96 a hundred. With increased supplies in May, with better finished cattle and under the best export inquiry of the year, the markets recovered. The lost ground was regained with heavy steers selling at from $8 to $8.85 a hundred, with a total of 9,300 head taken for Great Britain. Choice handyweights at this period made a market top of $8 cwt Export shipments fell away in June, however, and cool weather saw smaller runs of beef cattle so that prices reached the highest levels of the year. Early in July seasonal runs of both native and Western grass cattle in fairly heavy volume brought renewed depression to the market. Prices dropped in steady decline. This decline continued almost unbroken until November, when the low levels of the year asserted themselves.

Export steers at this juncture sold at $6.25 to $7 a cwt. with butcher steers selling between a range of from $4 to $6.50 a hundred. Towards the end of November cattle offerings of Western origin dropped away, allowing stronger markets for Ontario stock. December was brighter in tone with slight upward price movements recorded. Cattle receipts toward the close of the year dwindled down to negligible quantities and the buying movement was mainly indifferent to anything but really choice cattle.

BUSINESS BRISK HORSE MARKET

200 To 250 Horses Changing Hands Weekly on Toronto Stock Exchange.

PRICES GOOD.

Business is quite brisk and from 200 to 250 horses are changing hands weekly. Shipments in to the market are sufficient to meet all demands, and in addition to the good Ontario horses being shipped in, three or four carloads weekly are arriving from the northwest. Carload business is very good, carloads being shipped to Quebec and Nova Scotia. A splendid carload of heavy horses was also purchased for work in the Rouyan mining district. City trade is inclined to be a little quiet although the small dealers are buying a good many cheapish blocks for re-sale. Small lot trade is quiet. There have been few sales of a special character lately, the chief interest being the handling and selling of the heavy horses which are coming in very freely. Heavy draughts are selling well. They have been coming in and going out quickly. Lighter draughts are also in good demand and usually do not remain long in the stables. Farm chunks are selling better, and more are coming in. There is a tendency that the serviceably sound chunks are in better demand than the sound ones, and there is the usual preference for mares. Waggon horses, express and light delivery are not coming in very freely. The demand for this kind is not as good as usual but they sell quickly if the right type. Prices are as follows: Heavy draughts, 1450 lbs. and upwards, 5 to 8 years old and sound, average quality 165 to 175. Lighter draughts, 1250 to 1450 lbs., 5 to 8 years old and sound, average quality, 135 to 145. Farm chunks, young and sound, average quality, 125 or a little less. Light delivery, young and sound, 100 to 130. Serviceably sound blocks 50 to 100 depending upon the individual.

DAMP QUARTERS BAD FOR CALVES

Pneumonia Is Often Contracted When Animals Are in Poor Quarters.

THE TREATMENT.

Calves that are kept in damp quarters or turned out in rough weather may contract pneumonia as a result of exposure. Pneumonia is an inflammation of the lungs and interferes with breathing. When the lungs become filled, no air space is left and the calf dies. This condition can be prevented by good care and management.

Good surroundings and good nursing are essential in the treatment of the sick calf. All wet bedding should be removed from the calf pen and dry bedding put in. It may be necessary to blanket the calf. Keep all the drafts away. In some cases stimulants such as aromatic spirits of ammonia may be given and advice in regard to medicinal treatment can be secured from the veterinarian.

The direct cause of pneumonia is a germ. The indirect cause is exposure. When the animal's resistance is lowered by exposure the ever present germ gets into action setting up an inflammation of the lungs. The animal gets a fever; breathes with difficulty; nostrils are dry and dilated; and is likely to become constipated. The sick animal will stand with the front feet apart or when lying down will lie on the sternum: Cough may be present.

Fox Farming Brought P.E.I. Three Millions In 1926

The fox farmers of Prince Edward Island have every right to be satisfied with the conditions and outcome of the fox industry during the past year.

There was a steady demand and good prices, making 1926 an exceptionally good year, and prospects are good for the coming year also.

The industry is now what it should be. It is stable and should be a source of permanent revenue.

During the past year about 3,500 foxes were shipped alive, at an average value of about $300 each, making a total of $1,050,000.

There were about 20,000 skins sold, at an average price of $100, making the sum of $2,000,000.

This means that the fox industry brought to this province during the past year revenue equal to $3,050,000.

ANIMALS NEED IODINE WHEN SNOW IS DEEP

Access To This Chemical Is Rendered Impossible During a Hard Winter.

POTASSIUM IODIDE.

This Increases Amount of Iodine in Thyroid Glands of Mother and Offspring.

(By F. H. Reed, Experimental Station, Lacombe.)

After a long, cold winter with deep snow, such as seems in prospect, hairless pigs, goitered calves and lambs, and weak foals have frequently caused very heavy losses. These troubles are caused very largely through lack of sufficient iodine in the system of the pregnant mother. The deep snow prevents the pregannt animals taking exercise and getting access to the soil. Exercise is always beneficial, and the soil seems to be a general regulator for the system. It is probably for these two reasons that hairless fall litters are almost unknown, fall calves and foals are almost always strong, and there is almost no trouble with late lambs. Another drawback due to the deep snow is that many animals are either eating snow or drinking snow water, and while the water from many deep wells contains sufficient iodine for the requirements of live stock, snow water on the surface, or in shallow wells does not contain any iodine.

Feeding potassium iodide largely increases the supply of iodine in the thyroid glands of both the mother and offspring, and almost entirely prevents losses from hairlessness, goiter and joint-ill. The iodine seems to have a stimulating effect on the whole system, and particularly the generative organs. Pregnant animals produce stronger young, and uncertain breeders often become pregnant after potassium iodide has been fed for some months. In three years' feeding experiments with pigs it has been found that pigs receiving one grain of iodine daily made an average greater gain of 1.36 pounds and required 45 pounds less feed to produce 100 pounds of gain; one pound contains 7,000 grains. Feeding potassium iodide requires very little extra work and is not expensive. The saving of one litter of pigs, or one lamb, calf or foal will many times repay the cost of the material and the labor of feeding. Potassium iodide should be carefully and regularly fed during the whole period of pregnancy, but satisfactory results have often been secured where it was fed for only part of the period. In this cold winter of deep snow, farmers are urged to commence feeding at the earliest possible date.

For sows, dissolve one ounce of potassium iodide in one gallon of water, and mix in the feed one tablespoonful of this solution once a day for each brood sow.

For ewes, thoroughly dissolve four ounces of potassium iodide in about a cupful of lukewarm water. Spread 100 pounds of well-dried salt evenly on a clean floor and sprinkle the solution of potassium iodide evenly over it and mix well. When dry, place the salt where the sheep may have access to it at all times. Ewes will use about half a pound each per month of salt. For small flocks, mix in proportion.

For pregnant cows, feed the potassium iodide on the salt in the same way as for ewes, but it may be found that some cows take very little salt. In this case, give the cow a quarter teaspoonful of finely powdered potassium iodide once each week in the feed.

For pregnant mares give each mare on the first and fifteenth of each month, in the feed grain or in the water, a level teaspoonful of finely powdered potassium iodide.

QUEBEC POTATOES

The potato crop for the Province of Quebec in 1926 showed a marked increase over 1925. Not less than 14,676,000 cwts. constituted the yield in 1926, while in 1925 the yield was 10,982,000 cwts. The value of the crop in 11926 was no less than 26,548,000. Yield in apples was not so good in 1926 as in the previous year; neither was quality up to standard, due in a large measure to weather conditions.

BY-PRODUCTS OF BEETS

The by-products from the Raymond Beet Sugar refinery are being early sought by farmers and feeders throughout Alberta. The beet pulp, which is only produced in a wet state, has been contracted for by beet growers living in the vicinity of the factory and application was made for over 40 per cent more than was actually produced. Betalasses, which is the by-product molasses, resulting from the process, is now being marketed throughout Alberta and Saskatchewan.

THE SOUTH'S CHAMPIONS

The south is proud of these two cows—both world champions. At left is Blue Fox's Eminent Queen, a Jersey owned by Fred H. Young of Timminsville, S.C. It is tre new world champion for production of butterfat as a senior two year old Jersey in Class AAA.

At right is Queen's stablemate, Sensation's Mikado's Millie, the south's first and only other world campion dairy cow, as senior two-year-old Jersey in Class AA.

All credit for their honors goes to Herbert Jackson, their herdsman, who fed, milked and cared for them during their test. In 305 days, Queen delivered 642.16 pounds of butterfat and 11,348 pounds of milk, lowering not only the senior, but the junior two-year-old record.

COUNTY SHORTHORN BREEDERS TO HOLD ANNUAL STOCK SALE

Over Thirty Animals Will Be Sold on March Third.

MONTGOMERY HOTEL

Benefits All Durham Breeders Who Desire New Stock.

On Thursday, March 3, the tenth annual Shorthorn sale for the county of Peterboro will be held at the Montgomery Hotel stables, Peterboro, commencing sharp at one o'clock. These sales are put on by the County Shorthorn Breeders' Association and are attended by farmers and buyers from all parts of the Province. Many farmers have secured their first stock at one of these sales, and today they have some of the finest herds of cattle in the county.

Over thirty males and females of excellent quality and breeding are expected to be offered for sale. These cattle are selected from the best herds in the county, and intending purchasers would do well to keep in mind the date of this splendid sale of first-class cattle.

George and Ted Jackson, of Port Perry, will auction the cattle off, and all the animals can be inspected the morning of the sale. Catalogues will be distributed the day of the sale and all cattle offered will be listed therein.

Each contributor is required to pay a fee of $3.00 for every animal he enters for sale, and these entries had to be in by January 15.

Walter Bowles, R. R. No. 1, Ida, is President of the Breeders' Association, and F. C. McRae, of Norwood, is Secretary. These, with F. Savigny, B. Matchett and R. Pimmett, are a committee to look after the sale.

These sales have proved to be a valuable asset to both the buyer and the seller. On the part of the seller he receives the highest prices obtainable on the open market. He has his class of stock judged, and he has every opportunity of making a name for himself, which will be spread throughout the county and Province as being a breeder of first-class Durhams. The sales are a wonderful advertiser. On the part of the buyer he has a large class to pick from, and he is able to secure the animal that he needs to build up his herd. He is also able to secure fresh blood for his herd and in this way improve the quality of his stock.

In late years the prices obtained at these sales average about $100 per animal, which is considered high, as the stock vary in age and quality.

A Holstein calf weighing 141 pounds was dropped recently on the farm of John Rutherford, Scarboro Junction, Ont. This may not be a record, but it is exceptional even for a Holstein.

PREPARING A PEN FOR BREEDING FOWL

Vigour is Foundation on Which Mating Must Be Built.

The poultry flock on the average Canadian farm will be made up of one of the general purpose breeds; that is, a breed that will give good table fowl and also lay a fair number of eggs.

The egg production end of the business is the one from which the greatest profits may be expected and even when mating the general purpose flock egg production must be kept prominently in mind if the best returns are to be secured.

Vigor is the foundation on which all mating must be built. Continued heavy egg production over a prolonged period is one of the best indications of this desirable quality. This is especially true when there is, in conjunction with this, the ability to give fertility and hatchability to the eggs and viability to the chicks.

Those who have no records to which they may refer should select females that are active, that have clean-cut faces, and bright, prominent eyes and that handle well; that is, those having soft, pliable skins and that have soft abdomens showing that they are not loaded down with heavy deposits of internal fat.

The male to mate to these females should be their counterpart, of good size for his breed with long, broad back, the width carried right back to the tail, strong and virile with legs set wel apart and "full of pep" as evinced by activity, a clear-cut face, and a prominent, piercing eye.

It is generally money well spent for those who have no breeding records, to purchase male of known breeding from breeders who are keeping careful records. These males, while conforming to the appearance previously described, should be carefully selected from dams showing a heavy production of large eggs over long periods, and whose sire's dam also showed the same characteristics.

These breeders should early be separated from the balance of the flock and no attempt made to force them for egg production.

Rather should they be given an abundance of fresh air and exercise to keep them in good hard condition.

In the absence of green food, well-cured alfalfa or clover hay should be liberally supplied. Cod liver oil is also excellent to put the birds in the best physical condition and to ensure good vigorous chicks. This may be fed at the rate of about two per cent of the grain or mash by pouring it over the grain or mixing it in the mash.

Hatch your chicks early, the late summer chick is seldom a money maker.

BIG APPLE CROP

Shipments of apples from Canada to European ports will exceed by 50 per cent those of last year, according to estimates made by authorities.

Alberta Farm Schools Suffer From Overcrowding Government Will Likely Enlarge Present Plants

That something will have to be done before long in the way of increasing accommodation at the government's agricultural schools, is the conviction of Hon. George Hoadley, after a visit to Olds, where the annual alumni reunion was held last Tuesday. There is at present, he says, an enrollment of 199 students at that school, which completely breaks any past records and exhausts the capacity of the institution.

As a way out of the difficulty for the future, Mr. Hoadley inclines to an enlargement of the present plants rather than to the re-opening of one of the schools now closed.

The chain of Alberta farm schools, dating back to the days of the Liberal government, originally numbered six, but of these the schools at Gleichen and Youngstown have been closed down for some years past. Those at Olds, Vermilion, Claresholm and Raymond are now running, with Olds the leader in point of student registration.

One Farmer Has Overcome Wolf Menace To His Sheep

Wolves no longer trouble the sheep on the farm of Bert. Ferguson, of Goodlands, Manitoba. A few years ago these marauders used to come down from the Turtle Mountains, two miles away, and it was not an uncommon thing to lose from three to five sheep in a single visit. At first it looked as if this farmer would have to go out of sheep. Then he bought a pair of hounds, a cross between the Russian Wolf Hound and the Grey. Not only have they given 100 per cent protection to the Ferguson flock, but sheep belonging to neighbors have been guarded as well. The dogs have caught and killed wolves when the latter had a lead up to half a mile. Last year they accounted for 13 of these sheep-killers.

CANADA SECOND LARGEST 'PHONE USER IN WORLD

Telephones Number 12.22 For Every 100 of Population.

2,495 SYSTEMS.

Ontario Has 508,513 Phones In Operation in 1925.

Telephones in Canada at the end of 1925 numbered 12.22 per 100 of population, according to a report issued by the Bureau of Statistics. In this respect the Dominion was surpassed only by the United States, where the average was 14.2, and the only other countries to approach this density were Denmark with 9.0 and New Zealand with 8.7.

British Columbia has the greatest number of telephones of any of the provinces, with 17.72 per 100 population. Ontario is second with 16.39, followed by Saskatchewan with 12.02; Alberta, 10.75; Manitoba, 10.52; Quebec, 8.86; Nova Scotia, 7.32; New Brunswick, 7.18 and Prince Edward Island, 6.32. The following table shows the number in each province at the close of 1925:

P. E. Island	5,517
Nova Scotia	39,242
New Brunswick	28,945
Quebec	223,227
Ontario	508,513
Manitoba	69,000
Saskatchewan	100,096
Alberta	70,073
British Columbia	99,346
Yukon	136

There were 2,495 telephone systems in operation in 1925, including the three large provincial systems of the Prairie Provinces, and two smaller systems belonging to Ontario, also the system operated by the Dominion Parks Branch. They include 144 municipal systems, the larger ones being operated by the cities of Edmonton, Fort William and Port Arthur. The bulk of the 1,551 co-operative systems is in the prairie provinces. The remainder is composed of 502 stock companies, 106 partnerships and 186 private systems.

Operating results in the year under review show that on a total capital of $174,164,547, revenue amounted to $47,233,617, against which operating expenses totaled $35,566,947, leaving net operating revenue of $11,666,670. The tendency of the telephone companies in recent years to "plow" back earnings, is seen in the statement that the cost of property and equipment increased from $193,884,378 in 1924, to $210,535,795 in 1925, an amount greater than the total capitalization.

MAKES BIG SHOWING NEW GARNET WHEAT

Map of Grain Country Rolled Back Miles By This New Seed.

Garnet wheat is making good every claim advanced by the experts of the Federal Department of Agriculture.

Hon. W. R. Motherwell, Minister of Agriculture, announced that reports from scores of farmers who grew Garnet last year are unanimous on the one vital claim made on behalf of the wheat—that it ripens ten days earlier than Marquis. The yields also have been very satisfactory.

Along the northern edge of the agricultural belt in the three Prairie provinces, where the frost menace is so great as to make wheat-growing very uncertain, Garnet wheat has come through splendidly. Last year, while other varieties of grain were nipped and rendered unsalable except for chicken feed, Garnet was a good sample of marketable product.

Extraordinary yields are reported from many points. T. Bain of Henribourg, north of Prince Albert, a soldier settler, struggling along with 12 acres of land available for wheat, was given Garnet seed by the Department of Agriculture. He sowed it on the 12 acres and harvested 64 bushels to the acre. The market value of his crop was about $2,000.

Mr. Motherwell declared today that there could no longer be a doubt as to the benefit of Garnet. It has rolled back the northern boundary of agriculture in Canada from 100 to 150 miles, bringing all the meadow and lake country from Port Nelson and Port Churchill to the Rocky Mountains within the dominion of the plow.

The one defect of the grain, said Mr. Motherwell, was that it had a slight off-tint in the coloring. However, the millers always bleached the flour before selling, so that this was not a serious defect.

CANADIAN CATTLE CREATED MORE THAN AVERAGE INTEREST AMONGST BUYERS IN ENGLAND

Are Fairly Good Type and Possess Good Health Record.

FINE OPPORTUNITY.

Good Will of Buyers and Good Reputation Easier Lost Than Won.

"Live cattle from Canada that have come to the British markets during the past few years have created rather more than average interest among buyers," states W. A. Wilson, Agricultural Products Representative for Canada, in a letter from London.

"It is chiefly because, in addition to fairly good type, conformation and condition of flesh, they possess a remarkably good record of health," continues Mr. Wilson. "Post-mortems seldom reveal even a trace of disease, and in this respect our cattle are practically in a class by themselves. It means that no offal is condemned by local health authorities, and the butchers' profit is not, therefore, interfered with. The trade in these by-products is important and when butchers can figure on getting cattle that have sound livers, etc., that can be sold at a profit, naturally they want to buy them and the Canadian sale ring offers the opportunity.

"The farmers who buy feeders have also learned of the advantage of vigor and health in Canadian cattle. A healthy and good foundation for immediate gains in weight and mostly rapid gains at that, appeals to them, because it means rapid turnover and profit on their investments. It also reduces the risk of having one or more animals that do not show gains in weight.

Roots and Oil Cake Feed.

"In a group of a dozen or so bullocks purchased by one feeder, one animal that is a poor 'doer' or a 'piner' (local stockmen's terms) because of a diseased liver, or some other inherent ailment, failing to make gains in weight, but at the same time costing money to feed—feeding in certain areas is done in the yards during the summer months, and roots and oil-cake are fed liberally—may absorb the profits realized from the balance of the lot. If the percentage of this class of bullock is high, heavy losses may follow, consequently the buyer trys to select as carefully as possible in order to escape this risk, and not a few have learned how well Canadia cattle meet the situation.

"We do not occupy quite the same enviable position with regard to the type and conformation of our cattle in comparison with some others, but at the same time they compare well with many cattle. That, however, offers little, if any, justification for having only an average or medium standard for type and conformation to our credit. There is a good deal of variety evident in our shipments and a comparatively small percentage of 'undesirables' discount both the sale price of the lot and the reputation of Canadian bullocks as a whole. The importance of a national reputation for any commodity can scarcely be over-emphasized, and if we could bring the quality of all our export cattle up to the standard of the best 25 per cent now shipped, the average value would be noticeably higher, the demand would be appreciably greater, and our reputation better.

"Not all buyers are enthusiastic about Canadian cattle, because there are dealers, butchers and feeders who have interests, direct and indirect, elsewhere. They are out to safeguard those interests and the arrival of a few undesirable bullocks offers the opportunity for an effort to discredit the lot. This effort may be extended to include prospective buyers who have not had a chance to see whole cargoes discharged—and many of them have not this chance—with the result that their business may be diverted readily to other sources of supply.

"Our bullocks have not been offered for sale in all market areas yet, and the limited volume of shipments restricts expansion. It is, therefore, worth considering how the circulation of adverse reports can be, in the meantime, also restricted. In the writer's opinion the most effective method is to select carefully the cattle for stall feeding or pasturing in Canada, and subsequently for exporting, which, with a similar selection of store cattle, the basis of the criticism can be wholly removed.

Goodwill of Buyers.

"The goodwill of buyers and a good reputation is easier lost than won. Early in our export cattle trade a good impression has been made, although everything has not been perfect. Some butchers, for instance, refuse to buy Canadian cattle, if they know them as such, giving as their reason that the meat is too coarse in texture and sometimes tough.

"This prejudice—because it is nothing else—is difficult to break down and it will take time. The process will be hastened if, by selection for feeding and export, we can bring the average quality of our total shipments to equal the best 25 per cent now shipped. A policy of this kind as an objective and gradually and persistently followed, would convince the multitude of 'doubting Thomas's' of the virtue and value of Canadian beef just the same as many feeders and some butchers have been convinced of the intrinsic value of a sound 'liver' in a good steer."

BEST SHROPSHIRE FLOCK

Awards in the flock competitions held in Great Britain for 1926 have just been announced. That of the Shropshire Sheep Breeders' Association was won by the flock of Mr. Thos. A. Buttar, Corston, Coupar-Angus, who judged Shropshires at the Canadian Royal Winter Fair in 1925. Mr. Buttar's flock consisted of 612 sheep—27 stock and shearling rams, 230 mature ewes, 317 ram and ewe lambs, and 48 shearling ewes.

SWEET CLOVER FAIR SUBSTITUTE

Has Nutrients Similar To Alfalfa in Quality and Quantity.

EXCELLENT PASTURE.

Sweet clover hay is a satisfactory substitute for alfalfa in the ration of the dairy cow. If it is well cured and not too coarse, it supplies nutrients quite similar to alfalfa hay in quality and quantity. It is not so palatable a dairy feed as is alfalfa and because it is somewhat coarse and stemmy, the high-producing milk cow should not be required to clean up all that she is fed. In localities where both legumes can be grown successfully, the usual practice of dairymen is that of relying upon the alfalfa crop for hay and upon sweet clover for pasture.

With a few exceptions, sweet clover seems to give excellent results as a pasture crop. While the number of trials to determine its value are limited in number, several experiment stations report no ill effects on dairy cattle when pastured on sweet clover. Furthermore, these reports show that milk flow was maintained satisfactorily, and no complaints were received reporting the odor or flavor of the milk as being disagreeable. Occasionally the loss of a cow from bloat is reported in this state when sweet clover is pastured. But bloat seems to occur more frequently on alfalfa pasture. Unless the crop is pastured closely the growth will become rank, coarse, and unpalatable.

It is claimed that sweet clover makes equally as nutritious silage as alfalfa. The amount of moisture in the legumes as cut for hay is usually high and if silage is made of this green material it is advisable to let it become slightly more mature than when cut for hay.

WOOD LOT ON FARM IS VALUABLE ASSET

Otherwise Profitless Winter Days May Be Spent in Bush Cutting Wood.

The farmer who is the happy possessor of a woodlot is in a fortunate position during these days of high-priced fuel. He has that which can make his otherwise profitless winter days, a source of profitable employment. Some farmers today are tempted to sell off the entire growth of their woodlots and cash in on the whole thing in one season. This is all right if the land occupied by the woodlot is good for agricultural purposes, but it is all wrong if the land is not suitable for the growing of farm crops, or cannot be readily brought under the plow.

The exact value of the continued growth of young hardwood trees is hard to estimate, but an example cited by A. H. Richardson of the Ontario Forestry Department in a public address, gives some idea of what takes place. Mr. Richardson's example was a woodlot of one hundred acres on land which was too rocky to have any agricultural value. In 1884, all the pine had been removed by the first owner and the tract was sold. From 1884 to 1905, the second owner was engaged in removing large quantities of fuel wood. The third owner, who took the place in 1905 was interested only in hemlock of which he cut 200,000 feet board measure and 200 cords of bark during his single year of ownership. The fourth owner who bought the lot for $200 took off 200 cords of wood between 1907-8, and sold to the fifth owner for $100.

By that time, the land was practically stripped of everything of immediate value, but there were still considerable numbers of young trees left. Between 1908 and 1914, owner number 5 removed 500 cords of wood and in 1915 secured $225 for the tract from a sixth party. Since 1915, nothing has been removed.

In 1922, the owner refused $600 for the property, which he values today at $1,000.

As the land had practically no value in itself the prices mentioned were for the timber only. While this tract was stripped by the different owners to a far greater extent than would be done by one man owning the property continuously, it was still able to recover and increase in value ten times between 1908 and 1925. It is quite logical to assume that with some attempt at judicious management during the earlier years, far greater returns could have been secured.

WINTER RYE.

Approximately 100,000 Acres of This Cereal Cropped in Ontario Each Year.

The rye crop in Ontario is grown on approximately 100,000 acres. It is not an important crop when compared with oats and wheat on an acreage basis. The increase in acreage as a grain crop has been very slow, due to the difficulty generally experienced in harvesting a heavy crop. At the Ontario Agricultural College the variety known as Petkus has headed the list for productiveness. The average yield per acre per annum of the Petkus winter rye surpassed the next highest variety by four bushels in a seven years' test.—Dept. of Extension, O.A.C., Guelph

CANADIAN YARD NOT IMPERIAL STANDARD HERE

Act Says Yard Is Distance Between Marks on Bronze Bar.

MADE IN 1873.

Suposed To Be Same Length As Imperial Yard—Being Tested.

OTTAWA, Feb. 3 (Canadian Press).—The standard of length on which the commerce of this Dominion depends is got the imperial yard, as many people suppose, but is our own Canadian yard, R. H. Field, supervisor of the physical testing laboratory at Ottawa, told the convention of the Dominion land surveyors in an address on "our standards of length" to-day.

The Canadian yard, legally established by Act of Parliament, is the length between the graduations ruled on gold plugs set near the ends of a certain bronze bar. It was made in 1873 and was supposed to be the same length as the imperial yard, but since the Act defines the Canadian yard as the length between the graduations on this particular bar, it is a separate and distinct unit, Mr. Field said. Tests are now being made, he intimated, which will disclose the difference, if any, which exists between the Canadian and the imperial yard. In the light of modern refined measurements, there may be a difference, particularly as time may have wrought certain changes in the structure of our bronze bar.

GENERAL CHANG SERIOUSLY ILL

Cantonese Leader Suffering From Dysentery—Troops Move Forward.

NEARER SHANGHAI

SHANGHAI, Feb. 3 (Canadian Press).—Reliable reports state that General Chang Kai Shek, Commander in Chief of the Cantonese armies, is ill with dysentry at Kuling Sanitorium, near Kiukiang.

Defenders Withdraw

SHANGHAI, Feb. 3 (Canadian Press).—The pressure of the Cantonese forces, which shortly are expected to launch a drive on Shanghai, one of the richest prizes in China from a military standpoint, has forced Marshal Sun Chuan Fang, defender of the city, to withdraw the centre of his army to Yienchow, 75 miles inland on the Tsientang River, to strengthen his position.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

PERCY TELEPHONE SYSTEM MEETING

Subscribers Decide To Cut Off Service When Charges Not Paid.

NORHAM, Feb 3.—At the annual meeting of the Percy Municipal Telephone System held, in Warkworth, on Monday afternoon Joseph Greenly, Frank Meneilley, and Herbert Oliver were elected commissioners for 1927. William H. Nelson and Alfred O. Cliffe were appointed auditors. At an after meeting of the commissioners Mr. Meneilley was chosen secretary and Mr. Greenly was appointed chairman.

Although the attendance was not large there was a lengthy and interested debate over the financial standing of the system and especially over the matter of delayed payment of message accounts, there being several hundreds of dollars outstanding for a number of years. It was moved by William J. Baker and seconded by Alfred O. Cliffe and carried, that any subscribers not paying their message account within one month after receiving the account should have their exchange and long distance calls refused them. Renters who did not pay their message fees within a month should have their telephone service discontinued until payment was made.

Peter Fairman, who has been commissioner since 1921 was renominated but declined the office and moved that Herbert Oliver take his place. This was seconded by William A. Kelly.

On motion of Oscar F. Laver and John Diamond Alfred O. Cliffe and W. Herbert Nelson were appointed auditors.

On motion of William J. Baker and Alfred O. Cliffe, Peter Fairman the retiring commissioner was tended a vote of thanks for his work and an expression of sympathy on account of his heavy loss. Last week when his house was consumed by fire. There are 471 subscribers and 73 renters belonging to the system.

An English Cottage Design

(By Walter Stuart Pavey, Architect.)

"How enchanting," would be the exclamation on seeing a home such as this along some quiet English byway. So it would be, too, if built in a pretty Canadian suburb, and here one would have a plan complying with the most modern ideas of convenience and efficiency, such as would hardly be expected in its old world prototype.

This home would be highly practical and economical to build and to maintain. Notice the elimination of waste space in halls and attic where four good-sized clothes closets are cleverly located under the roof slope. The square plan, also, signifies economy of construction and heating maintenance.

The living-room, which is large and well lighted, contains a fireplace and ingle nook, anything more cosy than which would be difficult to imagine.

In accordance with the English idea of making the garden an integral part of the home, a garden doorway has been provided in the dining-room. A hedge screening the kitchen entrance greatly increases the desirability of this feature.

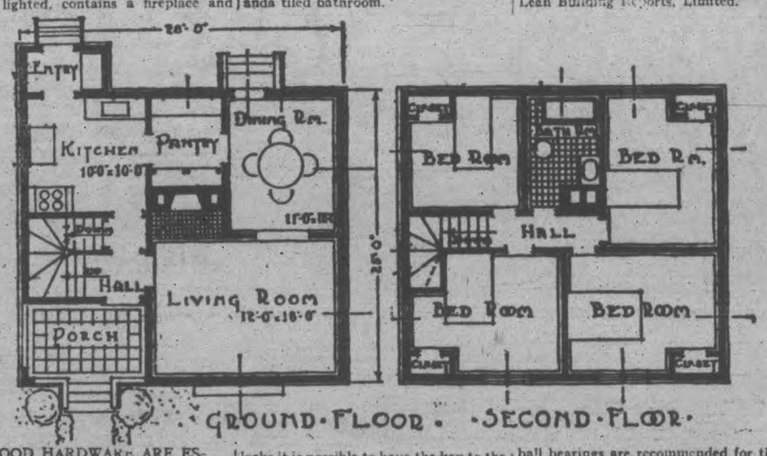
The kitchen, which is entered from the outside through a small entry containing a refrigerator, is a compact, efficiently laid-out room from which quick and easy access may be had to the basement stairs, main hall, rear entrance, and through a pantry replete with cupboards, to the dining-room.

The second floor plan, which is commendably simple and straightforward provides for four good-sized bedrooms and a tiled bathroom.

In the choice of a color scheme for the stucco walls and quaint shingled gambrel roof, it would be well to adhere to the original English manner of using low-toned shades, which, although lacking the stronger individuality of the Mediterranean styles, enhance the effect of coziness on which this type of house depends.

The approximate cost of this home with hot air heating is seven thousand dollars.

Readers desiring further information regarding the plans and specifications of this house should communicate with the architects direct. Address: Walter Stuart Pavey, 380 Richmond Street, London, Ont. Copyright, 1927, McLean Building Reports, Limited.



GOOD HARDWARE ARE ESSENTIAL

The mechanism of the home is involved in its hardware, and its efficiency is necessary to the smooth working of the house. Every time a door is opened or closed, or a window raised or lowered, the hardware comes into use. With many little things it shares the obloquy of being considered insignificant, but inasmuch as it usually lasts as long as the house in which it is installed, it should, of course, be selected to serve its varied purposes in the best possible way.

Factor in Harmony of House.

The relative cost of good hardware is usually about three per cent of the cost of the house and it is false economy to attempt stinting in this detail. One does not want sagging doors, sticking windows, rattling glass, insecure locks, or the other ills that are incident to cheap hardware. Good hardware is inseparable from a good house, and in the less expensive dwelling it is one of the features that may be used with good effect to add dignity and comfort.

For exterior doors, security is the first essential and locks must be selected with this in mind. Rear and basement doors should be as well guarded as the front entrance. In certain types of locks it is possible to have the key to the front door open all the other exterior doors, while the key to the rear or side entrance will only open the lock with which it is furnished. This enables the householder to enter at any door, and restricts the servants to their own quarters. As a protection against rust due to dampness, exterior locks should be of brass or bronze.

Few Keys Needed.

To-day it is not necessary for a house owner to carry a bulging bunch of keys in his pocket. Developments of the lock and key make it possible to provide oneself with a master key that fits the front door of the house, the side and rear doors, the cellar and garage doors and all the rest. Yet all these locks will be different, permitting no one to pass any of these doors without the individual key that locks them.

Some doorknobs have the keyhole just in their center, so that it may be readily located in the dark without groping.

As well as non-rusting locks for exterior doors, butts and hinges should also be of brass or bronze, as steel and iron not only rust but squeak and groan. On heavy doors the butts should be strong enough to prevent sagging. Butts with ball bearings are recommended for this purpose. Indurated fibre washers between the knuckles also successfully reduce noise and wear. In some types, retainers prevent the pins from working upward. On outward swinging doors it is desirable to use fast-joint butts, for if loose-pin butts are used it is a simple matter for an intruder to remove the pins and lift the door from its hinges.

Incidentals Considered.

Door checks are a useful addition to the hardware of the house. They eliminate banging and prevent double swinging doors, such as those between dining-room and pantry, from passing the centre. Such a door swinging freely without a check is frequently a source of accident and injury. Other places where door checks serve a good purpose are the screen doors to prevent banging; the butler's pantry door to expedite quiet service; mirror door closets to prevent slamming and possible breakage of glass; front and rear doors to eliminate draughts. Door checks may be had in two types, one attached to the top of the door and the other sunk in the floor. Both may be bought with adjustable feature which permits the door to be held in a desired position until released by hand or foot according to the location of the check.

8 doctors out of every 10 advised the Nujol type of treatment

DOCTORS from coast to coast were recently asked whether they advised the Nujol type of constipation treatment to their patients. 80.7% answered "Yes".

64% condemned the continued use of laxatives and cathartics. One doctor said, "An almost incalculable amount of injury is done by these intestinal irritants, most of which provide temporary relief only at the cost of permanent injury. Laxatives bring on the laxative habit."

Doctors Advise Nujol

Nine doctors out of every ten told us they were advising the Nujol type of treatment for their patients in place of laxatives—and for these reasons: 1. Nujol is not habit-forming; 2. A more natural method; 3. A lubricant is better than a laxative; 4. Does not gripe; 5. Is not irritating; and 6. Nujol gives lasting relief.

Unlike Laxatives

Laxatives and cathartics act by irritating the intestinal tract. They cause the bowels to frantically expel the contents of the intestines and thus rid the system of the drugs that pills and potions contain.

Nujol acts entirely differently. It contains no drugs, no medicine. Its action is mechanical. It merely softens the dried waste matter in the intestines and lubricates the passage so that the muscles of the bowels can expel the waste matter regularly, naturally and thoroughly.

Nature-given Remedy

Nujol appeals to the medical man because it is a simple, scientific and safe remedy for constipation, no matter how severe the case may be. It is gentle in its action and pleasant to take. Children love it!

Get a bottle of Nujol from your druggist today. Doctors advise it for constipation, whether chronic or temporary. Avoid substitutes.

C[illegible]E HINDERS LAY OF PETES IN LINDSAY TILT

Account of Heavy Programme Ahead Locals Took Game Easy.

LARGE ATTENDANCE.

Most of Regulars Left Line-up Before Game Was Over.

(By F. D. C.)

The Petes gave the Lindsay fans a chance to see last year's Senior champs in action last night, and moreover an opportunity to rejoice in a 4—3 victory over Eddie Wright's team, when they clashed with the Lindsay "Bears," in an exhibition game on their home ice.

With two hard games ahead of them in the next few days the Petes naturally took no chances—in fact the chief ambition of most of the regulars seemed to be to get out of the game as soon as possible.

Dwyer and Ranger played only the first period. Collins got into his street clothes at the end of the second. McLeod called it a night after the first five minutes of the last dash, and Bogardis was pulled out soon after, leaving Bert Hall, the sub. goalie in the nets; Rose and Kane on the defence, and a forward line composed of Williams, Maudsley, Dundas and Cripps, the three Intermediates being taken along to save the Seniors, who had been getting plenty of hockey and have a busy programme ahead.

However, the Lindsay fans are satisfied; they got a glimpse of the whole Peterborough squad and their Bears pulled out a win before the biggest crowd of the season, so that made it a big night all round.

The Petes never did take kindly to the cramped Lindsay hockey cushion, and after several seasons of big ice hockey the skating surface looked even smaller than ever. However, the crew showed the Lindsay critics some smart stick-handling and early in the game a few flashes of neat combination that should have been rewarded with more scores.

Lindsay's line-up is made up of a seasoned band of battlers with plenty of weight and checking ability, and led by the veterans, Carew and Coombs, they showed plenty of determination. If the Petes were not particular about which way the verdict went, the Bears were, and they gave all they had.

Both Oliver, who played the first two periods, and Hargrove did nicely in the nets, and they had a sturdy defence in front of them in Carew and Killen. On the line there was no particular choice, although Coombs is the hero because the winning goal left his stick a few seconds before the game was over.

Manager Eddie Wright used a squad of twelve men during the game; Joe Dwyer being out of the nets for the last two periods, the first time the veteran goalie has watched his team mates from the side lines. Hall made his first Senior appearance and gave a creditable performance between the posts, making some nice stops.

There was no count in the first period, although the Petes with their regulars on had the edge in everything but scoring, and should have been in the lead of they had cashed in on their opportunities. Bogardis was right inside once on a combination rush, but shot into Oliver's pads. Soon after, Collins took a pass and went in an top of Oliver only to have the shot deflected over the net. Ranger later on in the period stick-handled through everybody, but his drive was blocked. Lindsay's efforts in this period were mostly from outside, and Dwyer refused to be beaten.

With Hall in the nets, the Bears took the lead early in the second session, when Carew went down alone and scored with a smoking backhander that caught the top corner of the curtain. Lindsay made it 2 to 0 soon after when Hall blocked Carew's shot only to have the rebound carom into the net off Reeve's shins.

Frankie Collins decided it was time to get busy and tore off a fast rush that wound up with a sizzling shot into the corner of the net.

Williams got that one back when he shot from the right boards and went in fast to drive in his own rebound, and right on top of this Bert McLeod ambled up centre ice and beat Oliver with a low shot from outside the defence. That made it 3 to 2, and it was still that when the period ended.

McLeod remained in the game in the last session just long enough to tie up the score with a bullet shot from the Lindsay blue line that Hargrove failed glimpse. Then he retired and Bogardis was taken out. Eddie Williams and the Intermediate forward line "carried on" for the balance of the game, but the bulk of the work so far as the Petes were concerned was done by Kenny Kane who, working on the defence, tore off some fine rushes that came close to scoring. He took many a bump with a smile. Play was even all through the period, and a draw seemed certain, until just as the timers were reaching for the bell rope Coombs took a pass and drove a fast one past Hall to win the game.

BAN JOHNSON SAYS HEALTH IS IMPROVED

Expects To Leave For Extended Trip Over Southern States.

CHICAGO, Feb. 3.—Ban Johnson, American League president on leave to regain his health, returned from a brief visit to Excelsion Springs, Mo., to plan a more extended tour. He said he felt very much better and, if his wife's condition permits, he would leave in a few days for a long Southern trip.

Mr. Johnson declined to talk baseball and left his office as soon as he had gathered his mail.

The Intercollegiate Baseball League of Tokio is the largest of its kind in Japan. As many as 35,000 fans are seen at a single game.

AROUSES IRE OF C.S.A.

Charlie Gorman of St. John, N.B., who has incurred the ire of the Canadian Skating Association because of his action in competing at Detroit instead of in the national battle of blades at Toronto last week. It is authoratively announced that Gorman may be ignored when the Olympic committee are making selections for Canada's Olympic team next week.

READY TO TRY CATALINA AGAIN

Miss Barrett, New Rochelle Mermaid, Back in New York.

WATER TOO COLD.

NEW YORK, Feb. 3.—Clarebelle Barrett is still ambitious to swim the Santa Catalina Channel.

The New Rochelle swimming instructor who returned yesterday after her gallant, but unsuccessful attempt to conquer the cold California waters, expressed her intention to try it over again.

"It was the cold that made the swimming so difficult. About 5 o'clock in the afternoon I felt tired, but soon got my second wind. From then on I kept going until 3 o'clock in the morning, when the task of reaching shore became more and more hopeless. The cold was terrific. When I retired after fourteen hours of swimming it was 48 degrees.

"In my estimation, George Young is the greatest swimmer in the world today."

HOCKEY NOTES

MILLBROOK, Feb. 3—The second hockey game of the week, in connection with the local league, was played on the Cosmos rink on Tuesday evening, between the Presbyterians and Independents, the former winning out by a score of 4—1. The teams lined up:

Presbyterians		Independents
K. Larmer	goal	Max Newton
F. Gray	defence	A. Jeffrey
S. Gilmour		K. Donnelly
F. Russell	centre	C. Ingram
L. Ingram	wings	W. Skitch
H. Brown		E. Nattrass
E. Hutchison	subs	B. Freelove
H. Lancashire		W. Sayles

L. Ingram scored 2 goals, and Russell and Gilmour 1 each for the Presyterians; Jeffrey scored the only goal the Independents won.

A. McCorry was referee.

There was a good crowd of spectators, and the game was a good one throughout.

The next scheduled game is between the Anglicans and the Unionists; it should be played on Thursday night, but will probably take place on Friday evening, owing to the friendly game between the Tuxis boys from Garden Hill and the local Square which is called for 7.30 p.m. on Thursday.

MRS. YOUNG TO BREAK CONTRACT

Says She Was Tricked Into Signing Contract With O'Byrne.

DECLARED VOID.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 3 (Canadian Press)—William H. Sheldon, attorney for Mrs. Jane Young yesterday announced that Mrs. Young had declared in a letter to him that she was "tricked" into signing the 60-40 per cent contract drawn between her son, George Young, Canadian swimmer, and Henry O'Byrne, his trainer. Sheldon said the letter authorized him to repudiate the contract and use every means to break it.

The attorney said he would notify theatres having contracts for the appearance of the 17 year old Catalina Channel swimmer that if they pay any money to Young or O'Byrne they do so at their own risk.

Sheldon will not enter suit, he added, but would declare the contract void.

Mrs. Young is resting at the home of friends in Hollywood, according to her attorney, where she is much exhausted from her trip from Toronto and the excitement attending her arrival here.

Young is in San Francisco where he will begin a vaudeville act Friday.

O.H.A. BULLETIN.

The Oshawa at Bowmanville junior game scheduled for Friday night will be played to-night, with Norman Albert as referee.

Monday, Feb. 7—Havelock at Lindsay.

Canada is planning to send a strong delegation to compete in the women's events in the next Olympic games. Miss Rosa Grosse, of Toronto, is credited with being one of the best girl sprinters in the world. Another member of the Canadian team will be Miss Catherwood, of Saskatchewan, who is a marvel in the high jump.

BRISTLING BATTLES of BARE FIST DAYS

(MY LIFE STORY)

by Jack McAuliffe

"Blind" Buckley was then political boss of Frisco and related to Jimmy Colville, in my party. We went to him with the facts in the case, explaining the high-handed attitude of the club officials, who would not let Dempsey second me against Carroll.

Hiram Cook was announced as the referee and the fight was on. As I said I figured Carroll was yellow and the only way to beat a coward is go after him. I started the fight with this purpose in mind and was not long learning I had been badly mistaken.

Carroll was game enough to take everything I had and was coming to me so strongly I was used up in nine rounds.

All the time I was waiting for the pivot punch.

When the tenth round started I heard La Blanche, who was seconding Carroll, say—"Now" and I prepared for it. Sure enough, Carrol, started it. I stepped back as he whirled and clipped him in the jaw with everything I had in a right-hand punch.

Wham—he went down, banging his face on the floor and never even moved while Cook counted ten, mighty slowly, too. Everybody ran over congratulating me, cheers rang out from my Irish friends and the place was being emptied when a most surprising thing happened.

Cook ordered the ring cleared and said the fight must continue. Dempsey wanted to commit manslaughter. Carroll meanwhile had been dragged to his corner and revived.

My right hand was throbbing at every pulse beat from the terrific blow I had dealt Carroll. I was weary. I was sick at heart, too, at having to go out and win all over again.

I figured no matter how often I beat him the referee and the club officials would be right in there relentlessly to see me walloped at any cost.

We fought on and on to the 46th round.

Then came the boomerang. The referee gave Carroll an unfair break after I knocked him down that worked the other way round and really benefited me.

NOTE—In the next chapter McAuliffe tells of his exciting finish in the Carroll fight and how he met Austin Gibbons, the gun-fighters' idol, and beat him in the face of ringside gats.

GRADS PLAY WELL IN ONE-SIDED GAME

Beat North Toronto 11-3, Giving Marvellous Display of Hockey.

TORONTO, Feb. 3.—North Toronto's pick-up team gave Varsity Graduates a good work-out in the Senior O.H.A. fixture at the Varsity Arena last night, the former students winning easily by an 11 to 3 score. Although the game was one-sided it was filled with interesting incidents, the work of the boys in Blue being marvelous. The Grads displayed sensational speed, tricky stick-handling and a smooth team play that was worth while watching. The North Toronto staff last night deserve every credit for they tried all the time, although hopelessly outclassed. When the game started, James McFadyen, the North Toronto pilot, had only six players and he had to use Conacher and Vernell, of his junior team. The North end players gave a good account of themselves and were by no means disgraced in defeat.

Varsity was mighty, the front line lashing passes across the ice and pulling pretty plays that are seldom seen even in practice. Hugh Plaxton had the scoring punch, getting six of the Grads' goals, although his teammates provided passes for most of them. Lou Hudson and Dave Trottier were also brilliant on the Varsity attack, being master skaters and stick-handlers. Porter and Taylor, proved powerful on the defence, the former cruising from his position for two tallies.

Hockey results

Hockey games played last night resulted as follows:

Senior O. H. A.
Varsity Grads 11, North Toronto 3

Intermediate O. H. A.

Niagara Falls 5, Oakville 1.

MARMORA HIGH DEFEATS MADOC

Home Team Wins Fast Game in High School League.

SCORE 3-2.

MARMORA, Feb. 3.—The intercollegiate hockey game at Marmora last night between Marmora High School and that of Madoc was won by the home team by the score of 3-2. The game, played on good ice before a good-sized crowd, was of the even type, and the issue was in doubt until the last moment. The scoring was opened by the visitors, Rupert beating the diminutive goalie, Burns, with a back-handed shot. Marmora drew level with a nice goal from Hughes. The period closed with the score 1-1.

With the second period five minutes old, Hughes again found the net, registering on a pass from Brady. Shannon made a good rush, drawing the goalie out, but missing the open net. Play roughened a little after this, and three penalties were handed out. The period closed with no further score.

Marmora increased their lead two minutes after the start of the third frame, Brady scoring on a forward line combination. Long shooting and lone rushing by each team then ensued. Madoc, finally getting down to their best combination of the game, obtained a neat goal, Ashley netting on a pass from Whitlock. The visitors endeavored hard to equalize, playing five men up, but Burns proved sound. Ashley and Rupert were in good form for Madoc whilst the Marmora defence stood out conspicuously and their forwards played a hard checking game.

The line-up:

Madoc—Goal, C. Wallbridge; r. defence, C. Phillips; l. defence, A. Ashley; centre, D. Whytock; r. wing, E. Nickle; l. wing, A. Rupert; subs., T. Ross and C. Dafoe; goal umpire, L. Brady.

Marmora—Goal, F. Burns; r. defence, W. Shannon; l. defence, C. McCoy; centre, H. Brady; r. wing, W. F. Lynn; l. wing, E. Hughes; subs, M. Sanderson and F. Murray; goal umpire, A. Forestell.

Referee—Art G McWilliams, Marmora.

BETS ARE OFF.

Sporting Editor:

A bet B that Peterboro would win the game with T.C.C. on Monday night. How does the bet stand?

HUNTER ST.

Unless expressly agreed to by all parties before the game that in case of a tie score B would win, the bet is off in the case as always when the game results in a draw. A tie cancels all bets of this nature, except when there is a special agreement covering the point.—Sporting Editor.

ST. JOHN'S WIN LEAGUE GAME

Beat St. James' in Fast Church League Match.

SCORE 2-1.

In a Junior Church League game at the Cognawaga rink last night, St. John's beat St. James' 2—1. The game was fast, both teams working hard all through. The goal scorers in the first period were Hall and Hartley of St. John's and in the second Gross of St. James'. Johnny Ward was referee, acting to the satisfaction of both teams.

The line-ups:

St. James—Goal, Payne; defence, Williams and Jones; centre, Heal; wings, Gross and Moffatt; sub, Field.

St. Johns—Goal, Hutchinson; defence, Johnston and Woodgate; centre, Hartley; wings, Jarvis and Hall; subs, W. Dorrington and C. Dorrington.

Other scores were:

WAXERS BEATEN IN NASHUA GAME

Gummers Stick It Over Them in Replay Match at Brock Street.

SCORE 3-1.

The Nashua "Gummers" and "Waxers" pulled off their replay on Tuesday night at the Brock street rink. The Waxers had strengthened their team by bringing in Al. Davis, the Cognawaga's baseball manager. The referee had studied hard and stated he knew the rule book inside out. Two new goal judges were imported, one from Montreal and the other from Toronto. The Gummers kicked about Al. Davis playing, but as he had a vaccination certificate they finally gave it. Al. started to dress for the game and then found out he had only a baseball outfit in his bag, no skates or hockey equipment, so he had to go home and get them, missing the first period.

The game started with the teams right down to business and playing hockey. Shiner had been given a good choking off for his bad man stunt at the last game and put in a good game. He kept quiet and that was something unusual for him.

The Gummers scored toward the end of the first period, Shiner taking the puck through the whole Waxer team and passing to Martyn in front of goal for him to score easily. The second period saw Davis with his skating outfit on and he put in a good game. His corkserew runs down the ice made one think he was Scotch. Graham evened the score with a shot Crowe never saw. Then Anderson put the Gummers ahead with a long shot that Daddy Vannest misjudged. The play was fast and furious from now on, Shiner, Martyn, Anderson and Jobe trying to increase the score and Curly Lebarr missing an open goal.

George Gimblett was a stumbling block on the Waxers' defence, being perhaps the best man on the ice. Freeman also showed some wonderful skating ability. Why he was left out of the last game is a mystery. Anderson scored again just before the finish, leaving the Gummers victors by 3-1. Percy Ellison played a good game, weaving his way through the Gummers like a professional. Crowe was fair, but with a bit of luck should have been beaten a dozen times. Daddy Vannest was the goods in goal and his brother, Percy, worked hard on the defence with Jennings.

The referee was not bad, but he must have hurt his arm when he fell with three players on top of him in the first period, as he only rang the bell twice throughout the game, not counting goals and ends of periods. Phillips, the Montreal goal judge, showed uncanny skill in dodging behind the net and missing the puck. He often took cover when the puck crossed the centre line. Clarke, the Toronto man, being a lot bigger, was not quite so successful and had some very narrow escapes.

After the game a supper and social evening was given by the Nashua management at the Paragon, and a very enjoyable evening was passed.

MADOC INSTITUTE REGULAR MEETING

Spelling Match Unusual Feature of Programme—Vestry Meeting.

MADOC, Feb. 3.—The Women's Institute held its January meeting at the home of Mrs. George West on Friday last. After the routine business had been concluded, the programme was opened with a chorus sung by the Institute ladies. Piano solos were given by Miss Lemoine West and Miss Mairs, and a duet by Miss Mairs and Miss Marion Robertson. A little variation in the usual procedure was made by the introduction of a spelling match. Mrs. Huffman and Mrs. W. Connor were chosen as captains. The honors went to Mrs. Huffman's side, Mrs. Vandewater winning the prize, a dainty china powder container. Refreshments were then served and a pleasant social hour was spent.

The Institute intends putting on a Jackie Coogan picture in the Empire Theatre on St. Valentine's night, February 14.

The annual vestry meeting of St. John's Anglican church was held on Monday last, when the reports of the Ladies' Aid, Sunday School, Choir and Wardens were submitted, showing the affairs of the church to be in a very satisfactory condition.

The same wardens were again requested to take office, Mr. E. Tufts as people's warden, and Mr. C. Hart as rector's warden. Mr. E. T. Nayler was again made clerk of the vestry. An advisory board was also constituted as follows: E. Tufts, convener; C. Hart, E. T. Nayler, G. Wallbridge, M. McFadden, R. Belshow, F. Smith, Mrs. F. Aylesworth and Miss C. Caldwell.

It was decided to ask for a special Thankoffering at Easter, to be used for the general funds of the church.

Mr. McFadden was appointed lay delegate to the Synod.

At the annual meeting of the public Library members, Miss Eva Crawford, who has been substituting for Miss J. Aylesworth since the latter removed to Toronto, was formally given the position of Librarian. Mr. F. Gillespie was made secretary of the board in place of Mr. C. L. Jewell, who left some time ago for Lindsay.

PILES GO QUICK

Without Salves or Cutting.

Thousands who have piles don't know that quick and permanent relief can be accomplished with internal medicine. Cutting or any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will not remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is stagnation of blood circulation in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt found the remedy and called his prescription HEM-ROID. Dr. Leonhardt tried it in many, many cases with a marvellous record of success, such a wonderful record that HEM-ROID is now sold by druggists everywhere under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from McDermid & Jury to-day. It has given quick and lasting relief to thousands and should do the same for you.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. J. Foster, 51 Brock Street, wishes to thank the friends for their kindness shown in her recent sad bereavement in the loss of her husband; also those who sent flowers.

CHANGE OF ADDRESS

Fitzgerald and Co., who for nearly 50 years have been located at Brock and Water Street, have moved their entire Stock and Machinery to the Corner of McDonnell and Bethune Streets.

They have fitted up here a very modern shop for Refinishing Cars, both in Duco and brush finish. They also have a fine ground floor shop for all kinds of Top and Body Repairs. 6d, 31, 1779

CARD OF THANKS.

Mr. and Mrs. Hilliard Reid, of Douro, wish to express their heartfelt thanks to all who have helped them both at the time of the fire on Nov. 30th and since that time. A friend in need is a friend indeed and the ready and splendid assistance we have received from neighbors among whom we have lived but a few months is very greatly appreciated. No family could have received greater kindness, and we gladly take this means of letting our friends know how grateful we feel towards them.

WATCH THE KIDNEYS

Fatigue and that tired feeling is the result of poison in the blood. When the kidneys fail to remove this poison from the system it leads to backache, rheumatic pains and sometimes to that fatal ailment known as Bright's disease. When this condition exists, don't delay, go to your druggist and get a box of Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills and they will quickly correct the cause of your trouble.

Mr. Arthur Pinch of Smith Township states that Dr. Banta's Kidney and Rheumatic Pills give him more speedy relief than any other preparation that he had tried.

WEDDING BELLS.

DEAL—FOLLIS

The wedding was solemnized on January 31st, of Myrtle Follis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Follis, 217 Bethune Street, to Arthur Deal, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Deal, 629 Downie. The young couple will reside in this city.

OBITUARY.

A. R. KIDD.

The funeral of the late Archibald R. Kidd will take place on Saturday, Feb. 5th, at 2 p.m., from the residence of his son, A. O. Kidd, 228 Sherbrooke street, to the Little Lake cemetery, with the Rev. T. D. Richardson officiating.

MRS. S. HAMBLIN.

The funeral of the late Charlotte Payne, widow of Samuel Hamblin, took place yesterday from the residence of her son, H. W. Hamblin, 21 Brown Street, with services conducted by Rev. J. E. Todd, to the Warsaw Cemetery, for interment. Pall-bearers were grandsons of the deceased, Messrs. Moore, of Warsaw.

MRS. THOMAS DODDS.

The death occurred at St. Joseph's Hospital, Toronto, on Tuesday of Edith Mary Lane, beloved wife of the Rev. Thomas Dodds, in her 40th year.

The funeral service took place from Dixie Presbyterian Church, Toronto, this afternoon, also service at Comstock's Funeral Home, Peterborough, to-morrow at 2 p.m., with interment in Little Lake Cemetery.

JAMES EDGECUMBE.

Funeral service for James Edgecumbe, aged 77, pioneer resident of Peterborough, Ont., who passed away Thursday at the residence of his daughter, Mrs. James A. Dawson, 2365 Fifth avenue west, were held at 4.30 p.m. at Nunn & Thomson's chapel. Rev. G. H. Hamilton officiated. The remains will be forwarded Saturday morning to Peterborough for interment.

For more than twenty years before coming to Vancouver nine years ago, the deceased was a councillor and school trustee at Peterborough. He was a native of Plymouth, England.

He was a member of Crosby United church and of the I.O.O.F. Besides Mrs. Dawson, he is survived by another daughter, Miss Ethel Edgecumbe of this city and two sisters, Mrs. Thomas Mitchell, of Cobourg, Ont., and Mrs. Eliza Yale of Deerfield, Mich.—Vancouver Province, Jan. 28.

Mr. Edgecumbe had been in business for seven years. The funeral took place in the city yesterday under I.O.O.F. auspices.

AROUND THE CITY.

Bank clearings for the week amounted to 772793.

Complaint has been made recently that one or two individuals have persisted in in the practice of misuing street car tickets, in such a manner as to defraud the street railway. Superintendent McCann says he has the names and addresses of these individuals, and action will be taken.

Havelock Society Holds Successful Banquet To Mark Birthday.

HAVELOCK, Feb. 3.—The thirty-first milestone in the history of the Women's Missionary Society of the Havelock United Church (formerly Methodist) was passed last week, and in the passing it was honored in a most fitting manner by the members and their friends. A banquet was held on Friday evening, January 28, which proved to be one of the best yet held in the village. The school-room was profusely decorated with pink and white streamers for the occasion. The admission was one cent for each year of age. Bags for this purpose with appropriate verses were distributed by the society as invitations. An interesting feature was the birthday tables, representative of each month in the year. At these tables about two hundred partook of the good things provided. The large birthday cake, occupying the place of honor on a table in the centre of the room and adorned with thirty-one lighted candles, lent an added beauty to the scene.

Following the banquet a splendid programme was rendered, the president, Mrs. G. W. Chiles, presiding.

Vocal solo—Miss Velma Davidson.

Mixed quartette—Miss L. Morrison, Mrs. E. Fennell, Messrs. G. W. Chiles and Wallace Denike.

Vocal solo—Miss Forbes.

Play—Miss V. Davidson, Miss Josephine Sampson, Maynard Bullied, Austin Wilde.

Mrs. A. C. Denike, one of the oldest members of the W.M.S., gave the history of the society from the time it was organized.

FOUR BANDITS TO BE HANGED

Members of Stranglers' Corps Pay Penalty For 18 Murders.

NEAR MOSCOW.

MOSCOW, Feb. 3. Canadian Press—Four bandits, members of the gang known as the "Stranglers' Corps" with a record of eighteen murders in and around Moscow, were sentenced to death to-day. Five others, including four women accomplices, were given ten years imprisonment. In many of the cases the only motive was to secure the victim's clothing.

Struggle For Mastery Of Shanghai Begins

NORTHERN AND SOUTHERN ARMIES FACE EACH OTHER NEAR SHANGHAI IN BATTLE FOR CONTROL OF CITY

Wounded Men Already Coming Back To Hospitals at Hangchow.

CONFLICTING STORIES.

Marshal Sun, the Defending Leader, Entrenched at Yenchow.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 4 (Canadian Press). — Conflicting reports left Shanghai in doubt to-day as to the military situation south of here, where northern and southern troops have taken position for a battle which is expected to determine the possession of this city, control of the Yangtze Valley, and possibly the fate of the Republic.

The headquarters of Marshal Sun Chuan Fang, defender of the city, against the Cantonese advance, declared he was holding his own. Nationalist circles forecast his early collapse.

Missionaries from the battle front area in Chekiang Province reported to-day that five hundred of Marshal Sun's wounded soldiers reached Hangchow from his Yenchow front, crowding the Hangchow hospitals and necessitated moving the overflow of wounded to the Southern Presbyterian Mission Hospital at Kashing.

The appearance of wounded to the rear of the lines of the defending army is the first evidence that the battle in Chekiang Province had begun. The war theatre is but little more than one hundred miles south-west of here. Sun's forces were entrenched along the Ysientang River, using Yenchow as headquarters. The last known position of the Cantonese indicated they were centering at Chuchow, twenty-five miles south-west of Yenchow.

Hangchow, where the wounded were being received, is about midway between Marshal Sun's lines and Shanghai. It was learned here that the two armies had clashed and that the central section of Sun's forces had been thrust back in the vicinity of Yenchow.

Italy Sends Note.

ROME, Feb. 4 (Canadian Press). — Italy has sent a note to China substantially in agreement with the British note, maintaining the right of the powers to protect their interests throughout the Chinese Republic.

While insisting upon the protection of British subjects and property in China, the British Government has pursued a conciliatory policy offering, among other things, to recognize modern Chinese law courts as competent to try cases brought by British plaintiffs; to make British subjects liable to regular legal Chinese taxation; and

Laundry Man Finds $9,000 And Rings Tied In Linen

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., Feb. 4 (Associated Press).—Discarded clothing of a dead man, which was being converted into clean rags at a laundry here Wednesday revealed that $6,000 in large bills, $3,000 in bonds and two diamond rings, had been concealed therein prior to his death.

M. L. Rothschild, of Chicago, who died at a hotel here Tuesday, was the owner of the valuables. After his death, the hotel management had packed away his best clothes and had sent some soiled linen to the laundry to be made into clean rags.

The laundry checker noticed something bulky about a suit of underwear and an investigation revealed the treasure.

HOPE THAT CHEN STILL MAY SIGN BRITISH TREATY

Inside Story of Negotiations Over Anglo-Chinese Settlement Revealed.

MINISTER WILLING.

Protest From Pekin Government To London Was Influence.

LONDON, Feb. 4. — The inside story of the breakdown of the Hankow negotiations has been revealed to the British United Press.

On January 29, Eugene Chen, the Nationalist leader, gave his approval on an agreement with Mr. O'Malley, British Charge d'Affaires, along the lines of the proposition submitted by the British government. Chen said he would sign the agreement on the following day. There was no mention in the conversation of the defense force which the British were sending to Shanghai and Chen gave as one of his reasons for signing the agreement the fact that even the Labor party in England thought the government's policy was conciliatory so that obviously those terms were the best that could be obtained.

Under Duress.

On the following day Chen failed to keep his appointment, neither did he turn up the next day, which was Monday. On Tuesday he told Mr. O'Malley that he had the statement ready, and in this conversation, he raised for the first time, the point that if he should sign the agreement while British forces were hurrying toward Shanghai it might be said that he had signed under duress.

Whether Ramsay MacDonald's description of the British defense policy as "provocative" influenced Chen's action is unknown, but undoubtedly he had an eye on the anti-British protest from Pekin, because the Cantonese cannot afford to be one whit behind the Pekin government in their Nationalistic demands.

May Yet Sign.

The document is still in Chen's hands, and the British are hopeful that it may yet be signed. In the meantime the British government is considering the possibility of diverting to Hong Kong or Singapore the defense forces now en route to Singapore, but before any decision is reached on this point the British want some more effective assurance that Chen is not a man of straw and can control the extremist element in his own party. If he cannot his assurance that the British in Shanghai will be fully protected without additional defence forces is worthless.

Until the British government is fully assured on this point, and also with regard to Chen's good faith, preparations for the defence of Shanghai will continue. The government has the support of both the Labor and Liberal leaders in its, wise, prudent and generous policy towards the Cantonese, and it is not going to allow any untoward incidents to change that policy.

Keep Troops at Hong Kong.

HONG KONG, Feb. 3 (Canadian Press).—A battalion of the Suffolk Regiment will arrive here to-morrow but will not proceed to Shanghai. The troops will be quartered here and at Kowloon.

Wednesday Was Unique In Present Millennium

LANSING, Mich., Feb. 4. — (United Press).—One thousand years hence there will be another day like Wednesday, but not until then.

It was the second day of the second month of the second year of the second quarter of the 20th century.

The Rev. Frank Kingdon, of Lansing, who made the discovery, pointed out that in 2953 will occur the third day of the third month of the third year of the third quarter of the 30th century.

LIVELY DEBATE BEFORE BOARD

Regarding Alleged Utterances of Sir Henry Thornton in Montreal.

FREIGHT RATE CASE.

OTTAWA, Ont, Feb. 4 (Canadian Press)—The freight rates investigation before the Board of Railwayy Commissioners was enlivened yesterday afternoon by an interesting discussion upon alleged utterances by Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, at a recent meeting in Montreal on the question of freight rates. There were comments thereon before the Board a couple of days ago byy G. G. McGeer, counsel for the province of British Columbia in the rates investigation.

At that time Mr. McGeer had intimated that he would move for Sir Henry Thornton's appearance before the Board for examination and he now proceeded to make the motion. Mr. Commissioner Boyce interjected a query as to whether counsel thought this was the proper court before whom to summon Sir Henry Thornton. Mr. McGeer replied in the affirmative alleging that the dignity of the Board had been assailed. He had seen the report of the alleged statement in a Montreal paper and also in a Vancouver paper of over a week ago had failed to see any repudiation. So it may be assumed the president had made the statements cerdited to him—if he did not it was still more serious.

Chief Commissioner McKeown asked if the court had not enough to do without taking cognizance of everything that any railway president or other official might be reported to have said at a banquet or elsewhere.

Mr. McGeer declared that in his opinion Sir Henry Thornton had deliberately engaged in propaganda and no man in Canada today would carry greater weight on the question of transportation rates than the president of the C.N.R. and Mr. McGeer did not propose to allow him to discuss a matter now sub justice without vigorous protest. He therefore pressed his motion.

The Board denied Mr. McGeer's motion whereupon Alistair Fraser in behalf of Sir Henry Thornton moved that Mr. McGeer's observations at the previous sitting of the Board be deleted from the record. He declared that there was no objection whatever in recording what Sir Henry actually said and he would accept the published report in the press but claimed that Mr. McGeer put statements in the president's mouth which he did not utter and drew inferences which were entirely unwarranted.

Mr. Alistair Fraser read official report of Mr. McGeer's remarks to the effect that Sir Henry had said the railways should have power to make the rates, that the Railway Board should not have power to act as a rate making body, and that the Railway Act should be repealed. It was not possible, declared Mr. Fraser to read any of these statements into Sir Henry's remarks and it was most unfortunate that responsible counsel should be led in so misleading and inaccurate statements. So far from claiming that the railways should be exempt from control in the matter of rate making Sir Henry had said, according to the press report from which Mr. McGeer had quoted "It is not my business to argue what rates should be but it is my business to tell the people what effect certain changes would have on the fortunes of the road."

Judge McKeown asked Mr. Fras-

CREWS IN NO DANGER.

Wind and Sea Abate Where Ships Are Ashore.

WOODSHOLE, Mass., Feb. 4.—(Canadian Press).—Wind and sea abated considerably during the forenoon and the crews of the steamships Selwyn Eddy and Antony O'Boyle, aground on the shore of Maushon Island, were considered in no danger.

BIG DELEGATION ASK REDUCTION IN INCOME TAXES

Headed By J. J. Duffus, Board of Trade Deputation Waits on Premier.

OTHER REQUESTS.

Active Immigration Policy Urged—North Europeans Favored.

TORONTO, Feb. 4 (Canadian Press).—Deputations flocked to present their resolutions and requests to Premier Mackenzie King and members of the Federal Cabinet today. One of the largest and most important of the deputations received by the Federal Ministers was one from the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade, headed by President J. J. Duffus, of Peterborough. They presented resolutions passed at their last meeting, which included urging a reduction of the Federal income taxes to the level of United States taxes, revision of the corporation tax to avoid duplication, prosecution of the St. Lawrence waterway and power development project, and the encouragement of immigration from Great Britain and other northern European countries.

Reduced income and corporation taxes would tend to stimulate industrial and general development, the deputation contended.

They also urged an aggressive immigration policy based on varied employment instead of entirely upon land settlement.

OSHAWA ASKS FOR ASSISTANCE IN RATE BATTLE

Officials Discuss Sending Delegation To Ontario Government.

TO MAKE PROTEST.

Peterborough Asked To Join in Making Appeal Against Increase.

OSHAWA, Ont., Feb. 4.—(Canadian Press.) — Mayor Robert D. Preston and other city officials were in touch with Owen Herity, secretary of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce, relative to the protest to be lodged with the Government against the increase in Hydro power rates on the Central Ontario system. His assistance is being obtained to obtain further information on the cause of the increase. Although no definite action has yet been taken, an effort will be made to send a delegation to appear before the Government during this present session. The Councils of Port Hope, Cobourg, Lindsay and Peterborough will be asked to lend their assistance. Mayor Holgate, of Bowmanville, has already stated that his Council will support any move that might be made to lodge a protest against the increased rates.

VETERAN DEAD.

General Sir George W. A. Higginson, who won promotion for his service in the Crimean war, is dead at his home, Gyldernscroft, Marlow-on-Thames. He celebrated his 100th birthday last June by reviewing the Grenadier Guards, which he joined 82 years ago. He held decorations from the French and Italian governments.

French Navy Receive World's Smallest Aeroplane Will Be Used By Submarines For Scout Purposes

PARIS, Feb. 4.—The smallest seaplane in the world, one of which is destined to form part of the equipment of every submarine in the French Navy, has just been delivered at Suresnes. Named The Passkey, the perky little plane is the first of many dozens to be constructed.

The machine rose from the water in nine seconds and in a few minutes attained a height of 2,000 feet. In three minutes after descending Marcel Besson had separated the machine into many parts ready to be packed aboard the submarine.

At a convenient point the submarine can rise to the surface where the seaplane, in the time mention, can be assembled on the deck, and take the air. A brilliant future is predicted for this new type of air machine, for it is asserted that it can return to the submarine after reconnoitring and be as speedily hauled aboard.

DAIRY INDUSTRY PROGRESS TOLD

W. Newman, M.P.P., Addresses Kiwanis Club at Weekly Luncheon.

INVENTIONS HELP.

William Newman, M.P.P. for North Victoria, was the principal speaker at Kiwanis luncheon to-day at noon. Mr. Newman is thoroughly versed in the dairy industry, being a large cheesemaker, and he took for his subject "Dairying."

"Dairying is a great industry and has achieved great things in the past few years because science has given it power. In the year 1890 three great inventions were made in the dairy industry by scientists, Dr. DeLaval invented the cream separator, Dr. Babcock of Cornell discovered the Babcock test, and the great French scientist, Louis Pasteur, formed the pasteurization theory.

"Up until 1890," continued the speaker, "it was thought that cream was heavier than milk as people never took into consideration that it always rose to the top of the milk. Dr. DeLaval discovered that the fat was lighter than the milk and that when a centrifugal force was used the milk would come to the outside and the cream remain on the inside. This discovery was what led to the inventing of the cream separator.

"Up until that time a farmer measured the value of a cow to the dairy industry according to the depth of cream on the pan, but it was not possible to keep a record. Dr. Babcock discovered that sulphuric acid would dissolve all the solids in the milk and leave the butter fat free. This discovery enabled the farmer to find out how much butter fat his cows gave and from then on he was able to keep a record. From this has developed records in the dairy herds and the farmer has found an easy way of improving his herd as he knows the record of the animals he buys.

"But the greatest of all discoveries in the dairy line," said Mr. Newman, "was the pasteurization method by Louis Pasteur. This great French scientist was trying to discover what was ruining the French grape industry when he found that bacteria was at the bottom of it. There are good and evil

INQUEST ORDERED INTO FRANCE DEATH

Jury Will Sit On Monday To Hear Evidence in Case.

SARNIA, Ont., Feb. 4.—(Canadian Press.) — A coroner's jury will prove the fatal shooting of George P. France, a well known publicist, who died to-day from wounds sustained in a gun battle with a burglar. The jury impanelled to-day and adjourned until Monday for the taking of evidence. An inspector from the Provincial Police is en route to aid in the investigation. Finger prints on ale bottles which had been packed for removal by the burglar, were discovered by the police.

QUIET SESSION OF PARLIAMENT

Order Paper For Adjourned Sitting Promises Little Excitement.

OPENS ON TUESDAY.

OTTAWA, Feb. 4. Canadian Press — Tuesday next promises to be a quiet day in the House of Commons, when the members assemble after two months recess to continue the sixteenth parliament of Canada. Government business has the right of way and the order paper promises little in the way of excitement.

Notice probably will be given of a long list of private bills, and they will automatically take their place on the order paper for future discussion. The government may introduce some legislation too, but under the rule of adequate notice discussion will be postponed.

TRAIN TO TOUR BRITAIN URGED BY DELEGATION

J. J. Duffus Leads Deputation Which Interviews Premier.

COASTING LAWS.

Would Forbid American Vessels Working Between Canadian Ports.

Among the other requests of the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade, whose delegation was introduced by President Joseph J. Duffus, of Peterborough, were that a Canadian exhibition train be sent to Great Britain with fully qualified speakers and operated along the same lines as the Canadian exhibition train in France in 1923, that the coasting laws be not suspended in favor of American boats sailing in Canadian waters without the Government first giving due notice of its intention, and that the Canadian coasting law be amended to bring it into strict conformity with that of the United States, thus prohibiting the carriage of grain in an American ship from a Canadian port over the whole or any part of the route. It was pointed out that Canadian boats are not allowed to carry grain from an American port destined to an American port while American boats were permitted to carry grain from one Canadian port to another.

Further resolutions urged that immigration to Canada be encouraged and liberally subsidized in an aggressive immigration policy based on the principal of varied employment, and that the medical examination be relaxed, and that consideration be given to the development of tourist traffic to the Dominion.

Will Rogers Shelters Rockefeller With Big Black Umbrella While Capitalist Plays Round Of Golf Amid Laughter

ORMOND BEACH, Fla., Feb. 4 (United News).—John D. Rockefeller played a round of golf today while Will Rogers, the only intentionally humorous Mayor in the country, went around the course with him holding a big black umbrella over the Rockefeller head.

The two met after the Mayor of Beverley Hills had spotted Rockefeller in his lecture audience on Wednesday night, and remarked:

"If you haven't a car, John, I'll see that you get home all right."

The capitalist responded with an invitation to breakfast.

After the round of the links, during which Rocefeller was observed to do more giggling than putting, Rogers' adieu was:

"Well, John, I'm glad I didn't beat you at golf. Last time you were beaten gasoline went up two cents."

COUNCILS OF PETERBOROUGH AND NORTH MONAGHAN MEET TO SETTLE MANY QUESTIONS

Newest Bathtub Party Investigated In South

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 4 (A.P.) —Federal prohibition authorities moved to investigate a party staged here on January 4, by the Atlanta Co-operative Club, in which a "bath tub" scene figured as the grand finale.

Carl H. Langnecht, of Kansas City, international president of the Co-operatives, an honor guest, asserted the entertainment was not objectionable.

Winfield Jones, president of the Atlanta club, said that while liquid refreshments were present, there was no excessive use of intoxicants. He asserted that the "bath tub" phase of entertainment was a burlesque affair, in which a little Negro child, with clothes on, was exhibited in a tub.

KING AND QUEEN ASKED TO VISIT CANADA IN JULY

Strong Probability That They Will Attend Jubilee Celebration.

CONSIDER MATTER.

Premier Makes Announcement When Boards of Trade Propose Invitation.

TORONTO, Feb. 4. Canadian Press. — King George and Queen Mary are still considering an invitation from Premier Mackenzie King to visit Canada this year and attend the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation celebrations, the Premier told a delegation of the Ontario Association Boards of Trade which waited on him here to-day, with a request that such an invitation be extended to Their Majesties.

On behalf of the Dominion government the Premier said he had extended the invitation, and it was being given earnest consideration.

"May I state that when I was in London at the Imperial Conference last year I spoke to his Majesty about attending the celebration," said Mr. King, when Mr. Elliott gave the purport of his request, "and if he had been free to do so he would have accepted the invitation. But there are reasons which make it difficult for him to leave England this year. However, I think we may assume his Majesty is still considering the matter. We already have an assurance that the Prince of Wales will attend."

With the exception of the statement of Premier King that an invitation had been extended to King George and Queen Mary to visit Canada this year, the various deputations which met the Prime Minister and members of the Cabinet were given no specific replies in answer to their memorials, but Premier King assured them the Cabinet would give their requests earnest consideration on its return to the capital.

THE WEATHER

Some rapid changes in weather conditions have occurred within the last few hours. Yesterday afternoon light rain began to fall, with the thermometer at 36 degrees, quickly falling to near the freezing point. There was every appearance that we were in for a disastrous "sleet" or "ice storm," where everything exposed would be covered with a heavy coating of ice. The rain fortunately ceased as the freezing point was reached. Then the wind arose to a gale, and blew with a ferocity seldom seen with the temperature sinking rapidly. Thunder and lightning also played their part for a time. This was an important storm, as the barometer was down to about the lowest figure I have noticed in many years. This morning the temperature was at 3 degrees above zero, a drop of 33 degrees in one night. Weather clear bright and sparkling. It is sometimes well to consider "what might have been," or what we have escaped. What, for instance, would have happened if the rain had not ceased last evening when it did? There probably would not have been a telephone or telegraph pole standing erect in this section; our trees would have broken branches, which would be scattered to the four winds. This did not happen, but might easily have occurred. We have electric light, telephone and telegraphic service this morning, which was almost taken from us last night.—W. P.

Agree To Work Together on Boundary Roads as the Cheapest Method.

BILL ARRANGED.

City Will Quote Price For Fire Protection For Suburban Area.

Many points of dispute between the City and the Township of North Monaghan were thrashed out at the meeting of the two bodies in the committee room of the City Hall last night. The matters of road work on boundary roads, connections to the city sewers, and fire protection for suburban areas were taken up and referred to smaller committees for settlement of details.

The Councils agreed that it would probably be best, in repairing the roads, that the Township should do the work, as it could get teams and gravel at a lower rate, but that the City should rent the scarifier and roller at cost so that better work could be done. The cost of the work would then be split evenly.

Reeve Lillico opened the discussion on this point. He said that it had been the understanding that the two Councils should agree on what work was to be done and for the Township to do it because of the lower cost, but that last year the City had gone ahead and done work without giving any notice. He expressed the opinion that on the work done the street railway company should be responsible for part of the cost.

Ald. Denne said that the work had been done so quickly because the ratepayers on the city side had asked for oil and it could not be applied due to the condition of the road. The City had used its own roller to get the work done quickly. Ald. Cotton questioned if the Township could have done the work as well as it was done by the City's new machine, and said there had been no intention to break the co-operation which had existed.

Mayor Holloway suggested that there should be a better understanding and proposed that the Township supply teams and gravel and the City the machine. Reeve Lillico agreed that some agreement could be reached.

Township Clerk Bruce Johnston said that talk of using the scarifier was a little out of place as there was no metal, but it was said that the roads should be torn up any way.

Ald. Phelan suggested that a better way would be for the Township to do the work, renting the scarifier, and then bill the City for half the cost. This was supported by Ald. McIntyre.

Councillor Kent said that Lansdowne street should be repaired as it was a main road into the City. He said it needed grading and levelling, and that no work to speak of had been done for ten years. Ald. Hancock suggested splitting the roads, each municipality to take a section and finish it when it pleased. This suggestion was also favored by Councillor Hunter, who said it had been done before and that the other agreement had not worked out satisfactorily.

Councillor Kent and Ald. Denne proposed that the City use its scarifier and roller while the Township supplied gravel and teams, Ald. Denne stressing the necessity of doing something on Lansdowne street, saying it was a disgrace.

Mayor Holloway said that if each municipality agreed to do the same amount of work each year there would have to be some standard of work, so that both would build roads of equal strength. Reeve Lillico said he believed the cheapest method would be for the two to work together, using the City's machinery and the Township's teams, the rental of the machinery to be fixed at a reasonable rate. This plan was commended by Ald. Greene as perfectly fair, and Ald. Phelan suggested that the exact cost of operation, without allowance for depreciation, be charged. The City would gain, he felt, by the roads being kept in good condition. A committee will go over the roads and decide what work is to be done.

Work Already Done.

The bill rendered by the City for half of the cost of repairing the Monaghan Road was considered excessive by the Township Council, the members stating that they could have hired the teams and men at a lower rate than that paid by the City. The work cost $680 and the Township was billed for $340. The Mayor suggested that the City make an allowance of $40 for the extra cost, while Councillor Hunter suggested that the Township pay $275.

Mayor Holloway said that the aldermen were not bargaining for themselves but for the whole City, and Reeve Lillico countered by saying that the work was done in that way to please citizens on the City

RADICALS NOW ISSUE DOCUMENT PRAISING FASCISTI LABOR POLICY BELIEVE FORMER METHOD WRONG

Labor Leaders Are Recognizing Solidarity of Capitalists and Workers.

OFFER SERVICES.

Much in Fascist Labor Legislation That Merits Their Approval.

ROME, Feb. 4.—A group of former Socialist Labor leaders and agitators belonging to the dissolved Confederation of Labor has issued a document which is generally interpreted as marking their conversion to many, if not all, the postulates of the Fascist labor policy.

They explicitly recognize that production is the result of harmonious collaboration between capital and labor, that the State has a right to interfere in labor disputes, that there is a point beyond which the defence of class interests should not be pushed and that there is much in the recent Fascist labor legislation that merits their approval and support. They end by practically offering to place their services at the disposal of the Fascisti.

The document is made up of motions approved at a meeting in Milan of several former Socialist leaders. It is especially worthy of notice in that its seven signatories include such agitators as Ludovice Daragona and Rinaldo Rigola. Its publication by the press caused a profound sensation in Labor circles.

Former Method Believed Wrong.

After rapidly sketching the history of the Labor movement in Italy, the document comes to the conclusion that the way previously followed by the Italian Labor leaders would have led to war to death for the destruction of the de jure or bourgeois Government.

"Any other conception necessarily leads to the abandonment of class prejudices," it says. "This does not mean to deny Socialism but merely to interpret it more realistically as the ultimate aim or as the tendency of society. What the working classes have most to fear is that the Government should proclaim the principle of duty to intervene in the relations between the various social classes.

"We must state most clearly that production is not the result only of manual labor and that, therefore a certain solidarity exists between the different factors of production. This solidarity is socially useful, though it does not necessarily eliminate the struggle for the defence of class interests.

"But it follows logically that there must be a limit for the workers and industrialists which they must not exceed in the defence of their class interests.

"The Fascist regime is a reality and as such must be taken into consideration. This reality is the result, in part, of principles which we have defended and which the Fascisti have applied. The Syndicalist policy of the Fascisti, for instance,, is in some aspects just like ours.

"We were against the policy of the Liberal State of not interfering in the economic activities of the Nation. No we make every possible reservation on the method and aims of Fascist intervention, but as this intervention does take place, it is in our interests to follow its developments closely.

Fish Kills Fisherman Leaps Down His Throat

WAILUKU, Maui, T.H., Feb. 4 (Associated Press).—A four-inch live fish caused the death of Peter Paaina, a fisherman.

Paaina held the fish in his mouth while he removed a hook. As he was about to put his catch into a basket, the fish gave a convulsive flip and slipped down Paaina's throat, lodging in his windpipe and suffocating him.

Lyrics Of Life

(By Douglas Malloch.)

STOP BLAMING GOD

Stop laying all the blame on God
For all the ills of all mankind.
We stand about the open sod
Of someone who unwisely dined,
Yes, dined too often and too well,
But that's the part we never tell;
We seldom say, "He liked to eat,
And altogether too much meat."

We lay the blame on heaven's will
When someone sedentary dies;
And yet the thing that made him ill
Was only lack of exercise.
He didn't walk his daily mile,
We seldom say, "He died because
He violated Nature's laws."

We lay the blame on heaven when
At sixty miles a fellow speeds;
We say that heaven took him then—
That's not the way my Bible reads.
God did not take him as we say;
Our brother took himself away.
Yes, when they travel sixty odd,
Stop laying all the blame on God.

PHILLIPS REPORT IS NOT CERTAIN

State Department at Washington Refuses To Comment on Matter.

U. S. MINISTRY.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4.—(Canadian Press.)—Administration plans to name William Phillips, former under-secretary of state and now ambassador to Belgium, as the first United States' minister to Canada, leaked out yesterday, although state department refused to comment on the matter or to admit that Mr. Phillps' name had been referred to that Ottawa Government. No reply has yet been received by the department from Ottawa on names submitted for a new United States' ministry and thus any official disclosure in Washington is prevented.

The recall of Ambassador Phillips to take the new post in Ottawa with lesser diplomatic rank is to be regarded as evidence of the importance attached by the Washington government to the establishment of direct diplomatic relations with her northern neighbor. Without doubt it was the action of Canada in determining to name a minister to Washington which prompted the decision to name a United States' minister to Ottawa. Questions are constantly under negotiations between Washington and Ottawa which have to do with border regulations, waterway projects and many similar matters of great economic importance.

Phillips is a "career" man of the foreign service, a graduate of Harvard, and has had a wide diplomatic experience both in the Far East and in Europe.

Under appropriations sought by the state department, the legation in Ottawa will include on its staff two foreign service officers of the department in addition to the clerical personnel. No selection for these posts has been disclosed at the department.

Just when legation will be established and the new minister assume his duties depends largely upon authorization by congress of providing appropriations.

Leader Of Cult Hails Barber Before Magistrate Claims He Trimmed Moustaches Against His Will

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 4.—A first class vaudeville show was enacted in Magistrate W. E. Gundy's police court here yesterday, when the case of Professor M. Zeskend vs. John Socko came up on the docket.

Socko, according to the aged "professor," trimmed Zeskend's beard against his will, which should be held against Socko.

Zeskend came to police headquarters Wednesday and told a long story elaborating upon the fact that he needed his impressive mustachios to uphold his dignity at the head of a cult, which he was supposed to be in charge of. Socko was summoned to court yesterday, and when he came he brought with him two witnesses to the affair.

When asked to tell his story to the court, Zeskend refused to take the oath before testifying. Magistrate Gundy asked him if he had a conscience. He answered: "I don't understand what that is."

Then an interpreter talked to him for a moment in Jewish. At the end of this conversation he replied very emphatically "No."

Socko was then called to witness stand, and explained that the old man came to his room and asked for a hair cut and shave. He started to cut his moustache after an enquiry as to whether Zeskend wanted it trimmed, to which he is alleged to have said: "Yes." Then apparently without any reason whatsoever, Zeskend left the room swearing.

The two witnesses in the case upheld Socko's testimony, and so taking into consideration the fact that Zeskend's testimony was not sworn to, Magistrate Gundy dismissed the case.

REJECT RESOLUTION TO COMMENT REPORT

Lumbermen's Convention Takes Stand Regarding Duncan Report Concerning Forests.

MONTREAL, Feb. 4 (Canadian Press).—Canadian lumbermen meeting here in convention yesterday rejected a resolution which proposed officially to commend the report of the Duncan Commission on Maritime questions insofar as it concerns the products of the forest. The defeat of the motion was deplored by Delegate Angus McLean of Bathurst, N.B., who had sponsored it.

Following the announcement of the defeat of the motion, Delegate McLean expressed his satisfaction that the resolution had been presented. "I'm glad that the vote has been taken," he said, "the Maritimes are anxious to know if other parts of the Dominion sympathize with them in their demand that old promises of rights be signed and put into effect. Apparently the rest of Canada as represented by the lumbermen anyway are not in sympathy with them. I am glad that I have been given an opportunity to place that fact before them. If the rest of Canada is not with us, we want to know it. We want to know where we stand and how much we can depend upon from the other provinces."

Some delegates remarked that they had not seen the Duncan report and did not understand what it was all about. This brought a rebuke from the proposer of the motion. "Why haven't you seen it? It has been available for some weeks now."

One delegate rose and suggested that the defeat of the motion might have expressed lack of sympathy with the Maritime Provinces. It was pointed out that the meeting had very probably rejected the resolution because it did not desire the association to interest itself in political questons. He insisted that the matter was a political one, and had opposed the motion solely on these grounds. This was concurred in by other members.

The resolution read: "Resolved, that this convention commends the action of the Federal Government in appointing the Duncan Commission on Maritime Provinces rights, and hopes that the recommendations of the Commission be applied through legislation insofar as it applied to products of the forests."

In the Duncan report the portion referring to the forests and fish "as the basic natural products of the Maritime Proinces" suggests that the question of reciprocal arrangements with the United States on tariff for these products be examined.

In supporting the resolution, Mr. McLean pointed out that there was a considerable tariff on all forest products but newsprint, and the Maritime Provinces sought the ability to develop other products of the forest for trade with the United States.

WILL GO THE LIMIT.

MANCHESTER, Eng., Feb. 4. — Canadian Press. — Great Britain is prepared to go to "the utmost limit" to gratify the national feelings of the Chinese people but must protect British lives and properties from mob violence, declared Winston Churchill of the exchequer, in a speech here.

He said, however, that he did not believe there were any grounds for anxiety regarding the situation in China.

Women Crowd To See Face On Quarry Wall

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 4. — (United News.)—A charge of dynamite in a stone quarry near Villa Guadalupe, a suburb, tore away the rock in a way to leave the rough profile of a human face. A report that the likeness of the Virgin De Guadalupe had miraculously appeared on the face of the cliff and a great crowd, composed mostly of women, gathered.

They sang the national anthem and refused to leave when police sought to disperse them, saying they had witnessed a divine manifestation.

Another blast of dynamite wiped out the fancied profile and the crowd broke up.

BRITISH FAVOR HOLDING TROOPS AT HONG KONG

Believe Such a Decision Would Facilitate Resumption of Negotiations.

DISCUSS PROBLEM.

Hold Cabinet Council Today To Decide Plan of Action.

LONDON, Feb 4. Canadian Press —British opinion is growing in favor of the proposal to hold the Shanghai defence force at Hong Kong thus placing Great Britain in the same position as Japan in being able quickly to move troops to Shanghai in case of need. It is believed that such a decision would facilitate resumption of negotiations at Hankow, now practically deadlocked, and give the Cantonese foreign minister, Eugene Chen, time to win over support from some of the extremists who are opposing his policy of conciliation.

A cabinet cuncil will be held today to decide on a plan of action, but as the British expedition cannot reach Chinese waters for another month, it is probable that no immediae orders will be issued. It may be that the cabinet will proffer the simple assurance to Minister Chen that troops will not be landed at Shanghai so long as the situation there does not become menacing.

Premier Baldwin and Sir Austen Chamberlain, foreign secretary, yesterday received deputations from the Trade Union Congress and the Labor party, with whom they discussed the Chinese difficulty. In view of the close association between Eugene Chen and the British labor bodies it may be supposed that Sir Austen desires as far as is practically possible, to carry the opposition with him in his Chinese policy.

The latest Hankow advices report calm and the absence of the usual New Year celebrations.

HANKOW QUIET.

HANKOW, Feb. 4. Canadian Press —This city, scene of the recent riots against foreigners by thousands of coolies and the centre of anti-foreign agitation, outwardly was calm yesterday despite the abrupt suspension Tuesday of negotiations between the Nationalist (Cantonese government, and Great Britain, for an amicable settlement of the differences.

The suspension took place when Foreign Minister Eugene Chen declared that he would not sign the agreement dealing with the future status of the British concessions at Hankow and Kiukiang, now in the possesion of the Nationalists until the British consented to abandon concentration of armed forces at Shanghai. The British are understood to have proposed that the Chinese should retain administration of the British concessions, with certain safeguards to British rights.

Chen's declaration is regarded as a confession of his failure to win over the extremists of his government to the moderate views he is known to hold.

COUNCILS OF PETERBORO, ETC.

side of the road Ald. Phelan moved that the offer of $275 be accepted, and Ald. Cotton seconded the motion, which was carried. Councillor Hunter moved, seconded by Deputy Reeve Dobbin, that the Township pay $275, which motion was also carried.

The Hydro Electric Power Commission will be asked to remove the tracks from the Monaghan Road north of McDonnel street, as they are not in use, and also to raise the tracks on the same road south of Chamberlain street in order that the road can be graded.

Sewer Connections.

The matter of connections to City sewers running through the Township was introduced by Mayor Holloway, who suggested that a suburban area be formed to take care of such utilities. He read a letter from the City Solicitor stating that the Councils might agree on the use of the sewers by the Township, but that in such a case it would be up to the Township to collect from its ratepayers. The only action possible against those who tapped the sewers would be to sue them for damage by trespass or to block up their entries.

The Mayor said that it was not fair to the citizens either in or out of the City that these people should not pay. The Township had refused to make an agreement until the sewage disposal plant had been finished. Mr. Armstrong recalled, so His Worship suggested that now was the time for the Township to make such an arrangement. The same committee as was named to look after the roads will also figure out the cost of such connections and consider an agreement between the municipalities, the Councillors agreeing that those who used the sewer should pay for it.

Fire Protection

The question of fire protection for the suburban area was the last matter considered. Alderman Cotton said that there should be some definite plan laid down so that the residents just outside the city would know whether or not the firemen would respond to an alarm. Some residents had made agreements to pay for protection and had signed bonds, and anyone else would, at present, be refused. He did not want to take any drastic steps, but as chairman of the Fire, Water, and Light Committee he was there to look after the city. If part of the brigade went out and there was a large fire in the city, there would be censure. It seemed unfortunate to have to refuse protection to a man across the road from a hydrant, but unless there was a suburban area formed, the refusal would have to be made.

Mayor Holloway said that a man a mile out would never think of asking the city for help, so why should the man across the road paying possibly the same taxes look for it. Reeve Lillico said that a farmer would not expect help, but he wanted to know, would the city give protection if some agreement could be reached and bonds signed. The people in the suburbs, he said, were waiting for the city to quote a reasonable price for chemical apparatus. Councillor Kent agreed that $100 was too much.

Ald. MacDonald said that if all those in a given area did not sign and one of those not signed up had a fire, the city would still look to the township. Alderman Denne said there should be an area and the township council should be responsible for payment. Ald. Greene asked how the fire chief would know whether the house was in the area or not.

Reeve Lillico said that the township had no power, without special legislation, to levy a tax in a suburban area for fire protection. Alderman Cotton and MacDonald said that the responsibility lay with the township, and that if the city quoted a price it was up to the township to put the proposition up to its citizens and settle the financial end of the matter. Alderman Cotton offered to quote a price if given an area to work to.

Councillor Hunter said that the city got all the revenue from the residents of the area in question. They worked in the city and spent their money there. Alderman Cotton said the city was not in debt to them, and Alderman Greene suggested that the city would be better off if they moved inside. Deputy-Reeve Dobbin said that they were the best tourists that came to the city. Alderman Denne said that all the wealthy men of the city lived in the suburbs, and proposed that the purchase of a chemical engine by the township would be a good investment. It could be left in the city's hall, he said. Alderman Phelan added to this the suggestion that the township start a volunteer brigade.

Reeve Lillico said that if given a fair price, 90 per cent of the people in the area would sign bonds, and a list could be posted in the station showing which ones had signed, so a motion of Alderman MacDonald, that a price be quoted, was carried.

Those present were Mayor Holloway, in the chair; Reeve Lillico, Deputy Reeve Dobbin, Councillors Kent, Hunter, and Waterman; Aldermen Phelan, Cotton, Stocker, McIntyre, Hancock, MacDonald, Greene, and Denne; City Celrk Armstrong, and Township Clerk Johnston.

A SOLDIER'S SONG.

Agincourt Song Originated in Praise of King Henry V.

When King Henry the Fifth, after the Battle of Agincourt, made the order that the psalm "Non nobis"—Not unto us, O Lord—should be sung rather than any song in praise of himself, his soldiers obeyed him by singing that psalm at the official rejoicings. But soldiers then, as now, had their own songs, and one of them which was popular at the moment was an ancient melody about the King going to Normandy, which just suited the occasion. Each adapted the words to his own thoughts until those in authority and some with literary ability got hold of it, and in place of a rough, half-ribald song, made it a hymn of thanksgiving. The King was not removed from the song, but instead of the prowess of his arms, the victory was attributed to the fact that "there God for him wrought marvelously." Tradition alone, however, has not kept the song in existence, for a little later musicians of the day wrote harmonies to it, of a bare, crude type, with bits of syncopation in the different parts, and to the way in which some of the manuscripts were preserved we owe the fact that "The Agincourt Song" is known today as the best and most readily learnt, as well as one of the oldest of English folk songs.

CAMPBELLFORD SCHOOL BOARD APPOINT COMMITTEES FOR 1927

Dr. Watson, Elected Chairman at Meeting Held on Wednesday.

SEEK BUS LINE.

Additional Grant Received From County Council Will Lower Rate.

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 4.—Dr. Watson was elected chairman of the Board of Education at Wednesday night's meeting held in the boardroom of the Public Library, Dr. H. O. Richardson, vice-chairman, and Wesley Stephens re-appointed secretary-treasurer. Standing committees were appointed as follows:

Property Committee—J. C. Birmingham (chairman), W. M. Stephens, Wm. Cock, J. A. Jeffs, J. C. Anderson.

Finance Committee — Dr. Longmore (chairman), George O'Sullivan, P. C. Denyes, and D. J. Lynch.

Internal Committee—Dr. Richardson (chairman), J. A. Loucks, A. G. Thompson, and Charles Benor.

A letter was read from Walter Fowlds of Hastings, urging the Board to establish a 'bus line from the station to the school for the conveyance of pupils arriving daily on the morning train from the west.

The Board have had this matter under consideration for some time, but have been unable to make satisfactory arrangements to procure suitable transportation. It would require a vehicle with a capacity for at least 30 pupils, and at the present time there is not one available for duty every school day

Principal Greig asked the Board to give the matter every consideration. He explained the difficulty in arranging classes under the present system, and if the outside pupils could be assembled 15 minutes earlier it would benefit the school as a whole.

The Board will continue negotiations further, taking in all details as to where the responsibility would rest in case of an accident, and the secretary was instructed to write Mr. Fowlds to this effect. As far as the expense is concerned, the attendance of one county pupil would compensate for the cost of transportation at the rate the Board have under consideration.

Retiring Chairman George O'Sullivan reviewed the work of the delegation of trustees of the county who waited on the County Council at Cobourg last week.

The delegation brought to the attention of the County Council an amendment to the School Act providing for an additional grant to high schools. As a result, Campbellford will receive an additional sum of $1,449.00 for the year 1927. This, along with the surplus on hand, should reduce the school rate two mills.

Mr. O'Sullivan said the percentage of county pupils attending Campbellford school was higher than any school in the county, and consequently Campbellford received a larger grant in proportion to attendance than any other school in the county.

"Our High School to-day is costing the ratepayers less than the old High School," said Mr. O'Sullivan.

A hearty vote of thanks was extended to Mr. O'Sullivan for his efforts on behalf of the Board of Education.

The Board will go in a body on a tour of inspection to the Public and High Schools on Friday afternoon, February 11th.

OLD MASTERS

Once did she hold the georgeous East in fee
And was the safeguard of the West; the worth
Of Venice did not fall below her birth,
Venice, the eldest child of Liberty.

She was a maiden city, bright and free;
No guile seduced, no force could violate;
And when she took unto herself a mate,
She must espouse the everlasting sea.

And what if she had seen those glories fade,
Those titles vanish, and their strength decay—
Yet shall some tribute of regret be paid
When her long life hath reach'd its final day:
Men are we, and must grieve when even the shade
Of that which once was great has passed away.

SERVICE APPRECIATED.

Bowmanville citizens honoured their Reeve, M. J. Elliott, by tendering him a banquet to mark his election as Warden of the United Counties of Northumberland and Durham.

This recognition of success in municipal politics and the action of an Eastern County Council in bringing the long service of several township Reeves to the attention of Premier Ferguson for suitable action, furnish ground for hope in regard to municipal service.

The reward of those who offer to serve the public in carrying on the affairs of a township, a county or a city is so often constant criticism that it is refreshing to be able to announce that in some place at least there is a realization of the fact that the men who give up a large portion of their time to working for the public good in the field of municipal service deserve something better of their fellow-citizens.

If these examples were more generally followed it would be a much easier matter to secure plenty of good candidates.

FIGHTING OVER THE SPOILS.

The George Young case grows from bad to worse, and the romance of the wonderful victory of the young Toronto swimmer threatens to disappears completely in the controversy over contracts and profits that has continued since the commercial value of his exploit was first realized.

Young brought honour to himself; his home city and to Canada by his triumph at Catalina; had it been an amateur competition with no reward save the glory of winning he would have been home weeks ago, and received an ovation such as is seldom accorded.

But it was not an amateur race; first place brought a prompt $25,000 and prospects of financial returns much greater than this sum.

And the trouble began, with old friendships broken, the poor bewildered winner pulled this way and that by rival promoters, the mother even more confused by the variety of counsel driven to the verge of a nervous breakdown, legal complications introduced and an intolerable situation created.

The fame of Young's victory threatens to be wiped out in the bitterness of fighting over the spoils.

ADVERTISING PETERBORO.

The Examiner believes that the Aldermen who are urging a larger expenditure on advertising the advantages of Peterboro as an industrial centre and as a most desirable city in which to live are on the right track.

This is the age of advertising, and a municipality can no more get results without publicity than can a business firm.

Good times are apparently ahead of Canada, with all indications pointing to increased industrial activity and marked movement in business conditions.

If Peterboro wants to get her share of the new industries that will spring up in this country it will be necessary to tell the world what we have to offer and tell it in a way that will not be missed.

Industries are not beating a path to cities about which they have heard nothing—the municipality that makes a noise about the advantages it has for manufacturers is going to be first in line when sites are being considered.

In this city we have much to offer manufacturers; the fact that 74 industries, some of them the largest of their kind in Canada, are located here is proof of that statement—and an active advertising campaign that will bring Peterboro's advantages before the people we want to reach should give good results.

WELCOME BRIGHT LIGHTS.

The announcement that the lighting facilities in the business section of Peterboro are to be doubled will be received with approval, especially when it is realized that the cost of the improvement is to be small.

When the magnetite lights were first introduced here local citizens rejoiced in the fact that George street had been transformed into a "great white way."

With a lamp on each iron standard, at that time there was plenty of light, but the system had not long been installed when there was a panic as to the cost of the lights, and half of the lamps were removed.

And as the years passed the lighting seemed to become dimmer and dimmer, until at the present time the appearance of the business streets leaves much to be desired.

With the new type of incandescents, already in use on one side of George street, installed on each iron standard, adding forty new lights to the system on George and Charlotte streets, the result should be an illumination that will compare favourably with the lighting system in most Canadian centres, and the change will be welcomed by the citizens, especially as the improvement in the business section is to go on side by side with changes in residential streets that will give better lighting at a lower cost.

VOTING AND THINKING.

Senator Capper of Kansas proposes that an extra tax of one per cent. on the gross income shall be imposed as a penalty on all who fail to vote. It is pointed out that under Australia's compulsory voting law the poll has been increased from 52 per cent. to 93 per cent. This is all to the good, if thinking has been encouraged to any considerable extent. Possibly when the "slacker" is compelled to vote or pay a penalty he may attach more importance to the duty, and try to prepare himself not only to vote, but to prepare himself to vote intelligently. The act of marking the ballot is the result of judgment, passion, sentiment, or reasoning of some kind, and the preparation is fully as important as the final act.

Public opinion in regard to politics is a curious thing. Many people take little or no pains to inform themselves as to facts. Stories are accepted without examination. Some saying, if brief and easily understood, will be passed about in places where men and women meet and become an article of belief and a controlling influence in elections. The independent voter is not always more careful and thoughtful than the strong partisan. There is a kind of criticism of public men which is careless and does little good. It is declared in an indolent sort of way that they are all bad or indifferent, and are seeking their own ends. But no vigorous measure is taken to put an end to this alleged condition. Sometimes it is remarked that there are no leaders today like the great men of old. If this were true, it would mean heavier responsibility for the rank and file, but this does not seem to be recognized. A few years ago a favorite theme of independent critics was the evil of the party system, its servility toward one side and ferocity toward the other. In the Parliaments of 1921 and 1925-26 there was a large independent element, composed of Progressives and others who voted sometimes with Liberals and sometimes with Conservatives. This produced uncertainty, whereupon there was a swing of public opinion against independent groups and back to the two-party system. The House of Commons of the session of 1926 was assailed quite unfairly. It was struggling with a new condition, attempting to reconcile the new condition with the old rules and practices.—London Advertiser.

DOES IT EXIST?

Mr. Charles F. Kettering, President of the General Motors Research Corporation, is not worrying about the automobile saturation point.

Past records prove, Mr. Kettering told a group of motor men in Detroit, this week, that there will always be the need of new cars. And even discounting the sales of new machines, there would be enough replacements to continue the industry as one of the major lines of manufacturing. "There is no one at present qualified to predict the future of automobiles," he added. "The next 10 years are certain to be the greatest of automobile history so far as new development is concerned. Each new day may bring something new."

The so-called saturation point has been a subject of discussion in and out of the motor industry for many years. Indeed, it started almost with the birth of the automobile idea. When only a handful of cars were in use, people used to say: "How can there ever be a market for many of these things?" Only a few rich persons can afford to buy and operate them. They are too mechanical. One can never venture far from home. Roads are too rough for comfortable driving," and so on.

But what happened? First of all is the continual improvement in the machines themselves. Each season cars became better. One thing after another was added. The greatest bugaboo of all—that of mechanical starting—was finally solved, and now every car is equipped with some form of efficient starting apparatus. Troublesome gas and oil lights—and what trouble they provided!—gave way to electricity controlled by the turn of a button and generated by operation of the car itself. Springs were improved, motors refined, gas consumption cut down, oiling systems perfected, brakes made more efficient and tire-changing rendered easy. Eventually came shock absorbers, four-wheel brakes, balloon tires, air, gas, air and oil filtering systems, and a hundred and one other things calculated to add to the life of a car and the pleasure and convenience of motoring.

What happened from the sales end? Well, the history of the Ford Motor Company, as revealed in the now famous Detroit taxation suit, shows how the public responded to the march of progress. And the Ford, of course, was only one. Company after company came into the field. Sales became larger and larger each year. But still the saturation point was talked of. Each year headswere shaken and the remark made that the next year would be the one, or perhaps two years hence. But "next year" sales kept on growing and the end seemed as far away as ever. Now, in the year 1927, we have a responsible and highly-placed automotive official scouting the bogey of saturation and predicting big things for the next decade.

So far as the sale of motor cars in Canada and the United States is concerned, think of the number of persons who do not own them but who could do so. Think, also, of the thousands who may not be able to buy a car today but who will be lively prospects for the salesman a year or so hence. As for replacements, these are being made steadily. As new models come along and improvements continue to be made, more and more cars will be sold. Few persons will continue to drive an out-of-date machine if they are able to purchase another vastly superior and at no greater initial cost. There is also the man—and there are many like him—who buys a cheap car now but who will not be satisfied with it a year or so hence. He then becomes a prospect for the manufacturer of a higher-priced article. At the same time someone else comes along to take his place in the low-priced field.

Another point in the discussion is that heavy sales of motor cars—while seemingly extravagant from the standpoint of many individuals—contribute very materially to the general prosperity. They create widespread employment, not only in the actual manufacture of the machine, but in all the allied lines, and result in the circulation of millions of money that affects everyone, directly or indirectly. And this is especially true, of course, in communities like the Border Cities and Detroit, where the motor industry is so highly developed.

It is well to keep in mind, also, that the export market for motor cars made in Canada and the United States has really been only scratched. While tens of thousands of machines have been made and shipped abroad, there are millions of people still without them. And as conditions improve in Europe, in the Orient and elsewhere, foreign sales must inevitably grow larger and larger.

In short, there is everything to support Mr. Kettering's contention that the so-called saturation point is a long way off. Indeed, there are many reasons for believing that it does not exist at all.—Border Cities Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Peterboro is not a sinful city, but it must be admitted it was difficult to keep upright here yesterday.

The financial condition of Canada is said to be $85,000,000 better than a year ago. The small amount needed to complete the Trent Canal should be forthcoming out of that.

DR. FRANK CRANE'S DAILY EDITORIAL.

THE POINT OF VIEW

(By Dr. Frank Crane.)

Discussion has been going on recently in the press about George Bernard Shaw's remark that a woman ought to be a mother in order to be a good teacher.

This remark was made opposing the tendencies in many places to have only unmarried teachers.

Many educators have expressed themselves upon one side or the other of this question.

After all it is merely a point of view.

One side looks at the question as to whether a woman can do a good job of teaching or not.

The other side looks at the question as to whether the woman ought to have the place or not with the salary attached.

In many places of business a job is looked upon as a sort of special privilege and certain classes are favored in giving jobs out, such as world war veterans, old people, unmarried people and so on.

If a man can do the business, or a woman either, what difference does it make whether he or she is married or not or young or old?

What most people want in business is results. Who attains them or how they are attained is a matter of indifference so long as it is done honestly.

I remember once that a presiding elder in the Methodist church gave as his reason for sending a man to a certain place the following:

"If I send that man it will kill the place and if I don't send him it will kill him, so between the two I will send him and save the man."

This is a good example of care for the individual ranking above care for his work. Every man must be judged by the kind of work he does and not by whether he is deserving of the job or not.

The other side of civil service is to select men competent for the position, and not to give the positions out to certain groups of men.

In considering an applicant for the job, common sense tells us to consider his ability in some other direction.

MONTREAL GRAIN AND PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 4 (Canadian Press) — A steady demand from United Kingdom and continental buyers for grain in the Montreal market continues and a moderate business was done in Manitoba spring wheat and Canadian western barley.

Sales of No. 1 Northern wheat at 13 1-2c per bushel over the Winnipeg May option at bay ports, were made. At the close of the market holders were asking an advance of 1c per bushel. The trade in coarse grains was quiet and prices unchanged.

There was no change in the condition of the market for spring wheat grades of flour yesterday, prices being fully maintained.

The demand for all lines of millfeed continues good and the market was active with a firm undertone on account of the fact that supplies were none too large to meet the requirements. Sales of Manitoba Bran were made at $32.25, Shorts at $34.25 and Middlings at $40.25 per ton, including bags, ex-track, less 25c per ton for spot cash. There was improvement in the demand for standard grades of rolled oats and the market was quiet and steady at $5.65 per bag of 90 lbs., delivered to the trade.

The condition of the market for baled hay was unchanged. Prices were steady.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

A strange bird attacked a timberman up in Quebec. Maybe it was that first robin, enraged at being spotted so early.

If the radio keeps growing in popularity as it has, pretty soon we'll have to have a constitutional amendment against it, we fear.

STOMACH TROUBLE.

There are really very few diseases located in the stomach, itself. The function of the stomach is more often affected by the other organs, such as the gall bladder, liver, pancreas, etc. The stomach is little more than an enlargement of the esophagus, and serves simply as a digestive tract, in which the body retains food until it can be slowly passed on into the small intestines where it is more completely digested and assimilated.

The stomach will stand a lot of abuse, and only after many bad food combinations have been passed into the stomach will it be possible to create any disturbance in the organ itself. Gastritis can develop after years of using bad combinations of food, and this condition of gastritis is nothing more or less than an irritation of the membrane of the stomach. If any irritating condition continues it is very likely to result in a breaking down of the membrane in some one particular spot, especially the lesser curvature of the stomach where ulcers can develop; however, most ulcers appear outside of the stomach in the small intestines, but the symptoms are often mistaken for stomach trouble.

If the gall bladder becomes overstuffed with bile, this, of course, can cause severe digestive disturbances when there is nothing wrong with the stomach or intestines, themselves.

The greatest of all causes of abdominal pains is excessive gas pressure; this comes almost entirely from using wrong combinations of food, which causes gas to form in the small intestines or stomach and presses upon other sensitive organs.

Shortly after a meal, one who has over-eaten, and has used bad combinations of food, will often feel great distress and will fear that some serious disease, such as appendicitis or ulcer, has developed.

The words, "stomach ulcer," are used promiscuously by laymen, and by the majority of physicians, and many people consider they have had a stomach ulcer sometime during their life, and have recovered from it; when in reality it was nothing more or less than a stomach-ache which lasted for a few days due to indigestion produced by faulty food combinations. If one is really suffering from a stomach or intestinal ulcer there is no mistaking the symptoms as violent vomiting will ensue, and the vomited material will contain blood and pus. No water or any liquid can be held on the stomach for any length of time during an attack. Many of these ulcers when they once start, penetrate the walls of the stomach, and death can often take place very quickly.

If you will notice the first symptoms of gastric distress, and learn to reduce your food intake, regulating the quantity, quality, and combinations of food, you will soon be able to overcome any tendency to gastritis or stomach ulcer. You can rest assured that the fault lies in your bad habits, and the cure will come from the development of good eating habits.

A Thought For To-day

LET'S LAUGH MORE.

How a little laughter does cheer the spirit. Laughter will often lessen the tension of tightly strung nerves and clarify a mind befuddled by petty annoyances.

A little laughter will eliminate embarrassment and change an awkward situation into a pleasant incident.

But, to do all this, laughter must be honest, kindly and softly expressed.

Laughter can be an expression of sympathy as well as of mirth. To season one's food with a little laughter is an excellent remedy for indigestion.

Let's laugh more, for a good deal of our trouble, individual and collective, comes from taking ourselves, and others, too seriously—much too seriously.

Don't Tell the Wife

BY WILLIAM B. COURTNEY

SYNOPSIS

Ranny Forbes, star polo player, and his beautiful wife, Joan, are temperamental mismates. Joan wants a divorce. Ranny hesitates, loving her, although secretly knowing she loves Abner Gratman. While they are guests on a week-end cruise on the Stivner yacht a widow, Clare, vamps Ranny, causing Stivner's jealousy. Ranny avows Clare means nothing to him, mollifying Stivner. Ranny punishes Abner in a way that nearly costs his life and Joan's. Later, Joan is overjoyed when Ranny tells her he will get a divorce. He is friendly to Abner and sentimental to Joan in a way that subtly affects her infatuation for Abner.

CHAPTER XVI.—Continued.

Ranny was being transported from one mood into another with astonishing rapidity. Gone the tearful voice; in its stead an aggressive, threatening timbre, as he stood over Abner, eyes flashing fire. He thundered:

"Mind you, boy—if you're not good to her, you'll have me to answer to!"

"Yes, sir!" quaked Abner.

"First you are ridiculous—now you're dramatic. Ranny, do behave! He won't bullyrag me, I'll assure you," said Joan.

Ranny experienced another change of mood. To levity this time. "I reckon not." he said drolly. "You're bigger than he is, eh, what? If he wanted to kiss you on the brow, as I did, he'd have to stand on a chair—droll, what?"

Joan and Abner, however, seemed more uncomfortable than amused.

Again a change. Earnest, this time; admonitory:

"Remember, Joan, it'll be over in six months unless you gum things up. Under no circumstances must

"Aren't you going to call me 'dear' anymore?"

you ever come to my home in Minnesota!"

He bade them good evening, and went out.

"Joan, dear," chortled Abner, "isn't this a wonderful surprise?"

Joan was not paying any attention to Abner, and did not hear him. She was saying softly, half to herself:

"Now I wonder why he's so anxious to have me stay away from his house—in Minnesota? Is it because she's going to be there perhaps?"

CHAPTER XVII.

The very next day Ranny went away.

He told Joan that in the interview of the evening before with Stivner at the Club he had made complete arrangements, and there was, of course, no purpose in delaying his departure.

"You know, Joan, the sooner—"

"Aren't you going to call me 'dear' any more?"

"Why, yes, that is, if it is quite the proper thing to call another man's fiancee by any such honeyed expression!"

"I'm still your wife, you know," coldly.

'How,' he affected to puzzle. "can you be my wife and his fiancee? I say, now that's bigamy in spirit if not in letter, eh, old dear? Besides, there's a point of personal safety involved. I don't want to have an indignant bantam rooster like Abner thrash me for being too affectionate with my—err, with his fiancee!"

"You needn't have much fear on that score. To call Abner a bantam rooster is, to say the least, gross exaggeration."

"My dear, you're not defending the man of your heart as enthusiastically as a thrilled bride-to-be should! Surely you don't entertain doubts of his manly prowess—but enough of that now. We won't quarrel about whether or not Abner Gratman is a bantam rooster. One thing, at least, is a dead certain fact. He's a mighty lucky duck to have won the love of so splendid a woman as you."

"Thank you, Ranny," in surprise, and with a not unpleased smile. "If you had voiced as much appreciation of me during marriage as you are on getting out of it, things might not have reached this pass."

Ranny shrugged deprecatingly. — "There's no use mooning over spilt 'ove."

"Still, we needn't have been so abrupt about things. We might have held a bit of a farewell party, just you and I—"

Ranny was matter-of-fact. "Above all things, let's avoid mawkishness. Now that we've decided on our course, celerity should be the watchword. Curtail the agony, you know. This brings me back to what I was going to say when you began to argue—"

"Ranny Forbes, I never argue!"

"—that," calmly, "the soone I reach Minnesota and establish residence, the sooner you will be free to fly honorably to the strong refuge of Abner's arms, the safe haven of his manly bosom."

Ranny's face was perfectly straight, and Joan searched it in vain for signs that he was making game of her.

"You seem to be in a desperate hurry to get free!"

Ranny's face reflected his astonishment. "Why, I thought it was YOU who wanted the nasty thing over with as soon as possible?"

"I do, but—yes, of course I do!"

The uncertain quality in Joan's voice and manner dissipated suddenly. In its stead there came the decisive crispness of the Joan whom Ranny knew best. The defiant Joan Forbes!

That ended that.

And so Ranny went away.

No sooner had he gone than things began to happen. Little buzzes in the beginning—thunderclaps before long

It started when Joan suddenly remembered that Ranny had not mentioned any temporary hotel address to which he wanted his mail sent. In fact, now that she was reminded along that score, he had not even declared that he would ever write to her, after he got settled, to give his address.

Perhaps he had thought she could find it out from Stivner if she were anxious to know it.

Still, he might have been more thoughtful. That was Ranny, though; HER Ranny. Thoughtless and carefree as a boy.

She fished casually with her maid, knowing that the girl had been "keeping company" with Ranny's valet. An understairs romance that had been diverting to her and Ranny before—well, before they had ceased to be sensitive to the romantic things of life.

Ranny had taken his valet with him, of course—a Hungarian, who had been in his employ for a dozen years, and was as essential in Ranny's richly ordered scheme of life as a collar button.

"Mimi," probed Joan, "of course you're going to write to Yarno in Minnesota?"

"Meeneesota, Madam? That ees not th' name he give me. Eet ees, how you say eet, Edayhoe!"

"IDAHO!" Joan gasped. "Why, you must be mistaken. Mr. Forbes said they were going to—"

Joan checked herself. She could not discuss the authenticity of Ranny's information with her maid, of course. So she just stared at the girl—stared and stared and pondered!

Then, if that were not mystifying enough, an encounter with Mrs. Teffens that afternoon at a meeting of the Park Avenue Women's Committee on Penny Lunches for Poor Picknickers, of which both were leading lights, shot her higher into the air.

Mrs. Teffens took the very first opportunity to get Joan aside with malicious cordiality and friendliness, and gab: "My dear, congratulations. I've heard the news. Everyone has. Ranny has gone to Nevada to get a divorce."

"NEVADA?"

"Why, yes, of course," giggling. "Proud creature, don't look so much as though you're getting NEWS. Ranny has told it all around." Mrs. Teffens grew very confidential. "Of course, he did warn everyone not to tell his wife WHERE he was going, but we thought—"

"You thought correctly, my dear Mrs. Teffens. Just one of Ranny's little pleasantries. Droll lad, Ranny!"

"Nevertheless," sniffed Mrs. Teffens to another friend, as Joan walked away, "something tells me Ranny Forbes did NOT tell his wife where he was going! I believe he was in earnest for once in his life!"

"I wonder," raged Joan inwardly, "why he doesn't want me to know the truth as to where he has gone? What is he trying to put over on me, with all this idiotic 'don't tell the wife nonsense?"

The "worst," following immemorial precedent, was yet to come!

The telephone rang that evening while Joan was dressing to go with Abner to the Opera opening. Its peremptory jangling carried so strange a forewarning of trouble that Joan knew it was bad news even before she took the phone from her maid, who said, grimacing:

"Oh, he ees so excite he almost break my eardrum. Eet ees Monsieur Stivner, Madam!"

THEATRE

AT THE CAPITOL.

RICHARD BARTHELMESS IN "THE AMATEUR GENTLEMAN," AND DANNY SIMONS IN "HALF A PINT OF SCOTCH."

Danny Simons, Peterborough's own popular comedian, is one of the attractions at the Capitol Theatre for this week-end, in a brief appearance in Scotch costume. Complete in tartan kilts and Scotch cap, white spats and huge sporran, the initable Danny delighted his audience last evening with his songs and jokes and steps. With all the art of the veteran performer, he captured the liking of his hearers with his initial song and applause was hearty and prolonged at the conclusion of his short programme, and brought repeated laughs by his whimsical presentation of Scotch humor and is clever footwork.

The likable Richard Barthelmess, the youthful star whose grave, intense demeanor and dark, handsome face gives an individual touch to his pictures, is the hero of the tale of Old England, 'The Amateur Gentleman," filmed from Jeffrey Farnol's novel of the same name. As Barnabas Barty, son of the Sussex innkeeper, master of "The Coursing Inn" he inherits a fortune of fifty thousand pounds from an uncle and goes to London to play the part of a gentleman. He gives Sir Mortimer Carnaby a thrashing, before embarking on his expedition, and thus incurs that gentleman's displeasure, also stepping in to steal his sweetheart, the Lady Cleone Meredith (Dorothy Dunbar). In London, his adventures are many and various, but he is just as picturesque a figure in his fine garments as he was in the rude apparel of the ploughboy. Buying a spirited horse, he wins a great steeplechase, incidentally defeating Carnaby in the effort. Then Cleone's brother, the dissolute Barrymaine, falls foul of a money lender, Jasper Gaunt, and kills him. In trying to save her brother, Cleone promises to marry Carnaby, and once again Barnabas comes to the rescue.

Filmed with all the atmosphere of olden times in its delineation, with the streets and inns and manners of the London of the Prince Regent's time, with the Prince Regent himself in the forefront during the racing episode, with dress and customs of that day reproduced faithfully, it is an interesting and romantic picture, the charm centering at all times around the youth with the fine face.

The comedy, "Forty-Five Minutes From Hollywood," is a lively affair, with a party of rural folk becoming involved in a Holywood hold-up.—Jeanette.

ALICE JOYCE PLAYS IN FIELD'S FARCE

Popular Leading Woman is Making Comedy Debut in "So's Your Old Man."

After years of portraying neglected wives, sedate ladies and dignified mothers, beautiful Alice Joyce is now romping into light comedy as Princess Lescabours in W. C. Fields' latest Paramount picture, "So's Your Old Man," which comes to the Regent on Monday.

"A picture actress is usually identified with one type of part," she recently remarked. "If you begin playing vamps, you're quite likely to continue in hip-wiggling roles. Directors get the idea that the public won't accept you any other way.

"I started by doing neglected wives. That was with Vitagraph and my first role, if I remember rightly, was in "The Strength of the Weak.' Then and there, I earned a reputation as being a forlorn female who found herself cast for these drab characters in picture after picture.

"One morning I reported at the studio in my most elaborate gown. I guess I didn't look like a neglected wife because, at the end of the day's work a director approached and asked if I'd like to appear as a wealthy lady of fashion in 'The Sporting Duchess.'

"Then I developed into a modern mother. I wore wigs in 'Mannequin' and 'Beau Geste' and continued to repress my emotions. I was allowed to smile in 'The Ace of Cads.' Perhaps this gave Director Gregory La Cava an idea that I might do well in comedy. He suggested my playing opposite Mr. Fields in 'So's Your Old Man.'

"So after all these years, I have at last arrived in the unrestrained sphere of bouncing screen farce. Of course, as a Princess, I still have to retain shreds of dignity, but no one can play with genial Mr. Fields and keep dignified for any length of time."

CHIMNEY FIRES BOTHER BRIGADE

Men Kept Busy Last Night By Small Outbursts.

BOXES USED.

Last night, with such a high wind there were many chimney fires and the fire department had a very busy time. At 6:59 they had a call to 308 Townsend street, at 7.54 and 7.55 they were called to Benson Avenue but when they got out they found the fire outside th city so had to return. At 8:16 a chimney caught fire at 208 Lake street; at 8:45 box 38 was pulled calling the whole department out to 382 McDonnel street, and at 9:14 they went to 474 Stewart street.

In two of these cases a box was pulled, thus having all the fire department rush to a small chimney fire. Chief Gimblett asks the citizens in case of a chimney fire to call the department up over the telephone, thus eliminating this unnecessary equipment going to the fire.

It's a revelation! Such sweet-smelling cleanliness, such snow-dazzling whiteness, colored clothes so bright and unfaded! And all by soaking!

The new, easy way to wash is to soak clothes clean—in Rinso. No hard rubbing, no boiling necessary.

Even the most soiled parts—cuffs, edges—need but a gentle touch between the fingers to come snowy.

Rinso is rich, gentle soap—granulated, so that every atom of its cleansing power is released in the thick suds. Contains no acids, bleach or harmful chemicals. Easy on hands—harmless to clothes.

Use in Washing Machines, too

The makers of leading washing machines recommend Rinso because it is safe and efficient—gets clothes whiter, cleaner.

Y'S MEN HEAR MEMBERS TALK

Three of Club Members Give Speeches at Regular Meeting.

INTERESTING TOPICS.

An open meeting was held Thursday night by the Y's Men's Club at the Y.M.C.A., the speakers being three memebrs, Tom Dutton, Dick Hillman, and Percy Johnston. As usual on these nights, the range of topics chosen was wide and many interesting facts were brought out.

Percy Johnston chose Mussolini as his subject. He sketched the history of the Italian dictator and told of the activities of the Fascisti.

Dick Hillman discussed the Peace Bridge, to be opened this coming summer by the Prince of Wales and President Coolidge. This was first suggested in 1911 to mark the centenary 1814-1914 of peace between Canada and the United States but the war and other causes delayed the work.

Tom Dutton took his hearers on a tour of Sing Sing prison, describing the cells, the garden, the athletic field, and the death cell, all of which was greatly interesting.

It was announced that the Club would entertain the Senior members of the Association on February 15. A convention of Ontario Y's Men in London next week was also announced.

C. G. GRAHAM DELEGATE.

Will Represent Fish and Game Association at Convention.

C. G. Graham was appointed last night at a meeting of the Peterborough Game and Fish Association to represent the local body at the annual meeting to be held in Toronto next week. On account of the bad weather the attendance was small so it was decided to postpone the annual meeting until a week from Friday night in the Empress Hotel at eight o'clock. Several important amendments will come up at this meeting and a good attendance is desired.

REBELS SURRENDER.

LISBON, Feb. 4. Canadian Press.—Revolutionaries of the garrison at Oporto, who began a movement against the government of President Carmon yesterday, have surrendered to Government troops.

OBITUARY.

MRS. A. L. HANDFORD.

RENFREW, Feb. 4.—(Special.) Mrs. A. L. Handford, who died yesterday after a long illness, was a member of one of Renfrew's oldest families. Before her marriage she was Grace Edith Young, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Young. With the husband, there survive one daughter and two sons, Miss Lillian Handford, a member of the teaching staff of Renfrew Collegiate Institute; Edward, at Queen's University, and Herbert, attending the Collegiate Institute here. There are also five brothers and one sister, William M., of Vancouver, Dr. James M., of Walkerville, J. Walter and Capt. Alex. C., of Toronto, Dr. H. M. Young of Moose Jaw and Mrs. A. G. Grier, of Peterborough.

THE LATE JAMES EDGCOMBE

The death of James Edgcombe at his home in Vancouver, on Thursday, the 27th of January, removed a successful business man, who for many years was in the business and public life of Peterborough, but more recently of Vancouver, B.C.

The late Mr. Edgcombe was born in Plymouth, England, came to Cobourg at an early age, where he lived for some time, afterwards settling in Peterborough. He carried on the grocery business at the corner of Antrim and George Streets for a number of years, leaving here in 1911, during which year his wife predeceased him.

He has been in Vancouver, B.C., for seven years, and has been a succesful business man in that city.

The funeral took place from the home of Mrs. Sarah Long, 710 Water Street, on Wednesday, February 2nd, and was attended by Mayor Holloway and the Aldermen of the city in a body.

The service was conducted by Rev. J. E. Todd, of George Street United Church, with the Oddfellows of Peterborough in charge of the funeral.

During Mr. Edgcombe's residence in Peterborough he had been an Alderman during the years 1901, 1902, 1903, and 1904. He had also previously been elected to the School Board, was a very prominent Oddfellow, and a consistent member of George Street Church. At Vancouver, the funeral services were conducted by Rev. George Brown, a former Sunday School pupil of the late Mr. Edgcombe in George Street Church, who is principal of the Theological College in Vancouver, who assisted Rev. Mr. Hamilton, of Crosby United Church, where Mr. Edgcombe attended. He leaves to mourn his loss two daughters, Mrs. James Dawson of Vancouver, and Miss Ethel Edgcombe of Vancouver, who accompanied the remains here; also two sisters, Mrs. Mitchell of Cobourg, and Mrs. Yale of Deerfield, Mich. Mr. Harry Dawson of Vancouver, formerly of Peterborough, also accompanied the remains here.

The passing of Mr. Edgcombe has taken away an upright business man, who gave his services freely for the best interests of the community in which he lived. He will be missed by many old friends in this section, who will be very sorry to hear of his demise.

Wheat Prices Turn Up Follow Liverpool Rise

Chicago Feb. 4. Canadian Press.—Reflecting firmness at Liverpool wheat prices here tended up early today. Higher freight rate from Argentina were a bullish factor.

Starting at 1-8c to 1-2c advance, wheat held near the initial figures. Corn, oats and provisions were steady; corn opening unchanged to 1-4c up, but later receding a little.

Opening prices were:

Wheat, May 142 5-8; July 133 5-8; corn, May 80 3-4; July 84 1-8; oats May 47 1-8; July unquoted.

Toronto Market Weaker Walker Loses Heavily

TORONTO, Feb. 4. Canadian Press. — After a firm opening, stocks showed a weaker tendency on the Toronto stock exchange to-day, and leaders in the easier movement were the active brewery and distillery stocks. Hiram Walker was one of the weakest issues on the whole board, dropping 1 3-4 points to 37, and recovering only 1-8 by the noon close. Seagram, the leader, after touching 23 1-4, sold down to 22 1-4, a net loss of 1-2 point, and Gooderham and Worts lost a point at 46 1-2. Industrial Alcohol eased 1-4 at 24 1-4 and Smelters lost 1 at 249. The session had its firm spots, notably among which were Barcelona and Canada Cement; Barcelona advanced 2 5-8 at 44 5-8 and Cement sold up to 137 1-4, 3 1-4 higher.

Trading Light In Mines Most Stocks Are Weaker

TORONTO, Feb. 4 (Canadian Press).—Minor recessions spread throughout the whole list of stocks on the Standard Mining Exchange to-day in comparatively light trading. None of the losses were large. Quebec stocks were notable in the easier trend, Laval-Quebec losing 1¾ at 38¾, and Area softening 3 at 62. Consolidated West Dome Lake dropped 1 7-8 at 15 5-9, and Teck Hughes eased five at 6.25. Victory Silver was a firm spot, gaining a couple of points at 12, while McIntyre firmed 15 cents at 25.75.

Fluctuations In Rails Feature In Wall Street

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 (Canadian Press).—Sensational fluctuations on the low priced rails, with an extreme jump of 16 points in Wheeling and Lake Erie Common, overshadowed all other developments in today's stock market. Trading showed a substantial increase in volume, with nearly three score issues elevated to the highest levels in two years or more. Industrials showed less general strength.

Wheeling and Lake Erie Common opened two points lower at 71, suddenly jumped to 75, eased slightly, ran up to 84, drifted down a few points and then soared to 89, as against a low of 27 1-2 last month The Preferred jumped six points to 84. The scarcity of the floating supply and the high premium charged for the loan of the stock indicated that a substantial short interest is still "locked in" in that issue.

The so-called "Loree stocks" assumed greater prominence today, with a five-point jump in Wabash as the feature. Kansas City Southern was run up three points, and "Katy" Common, Missouri Pacific, and Gulf, Mobile, and Northern all sold two or three points higher.

Houston Oil soared seven points to the highest price in years and substantial gains also were recorded by Crucible Continental Baking 'A,' Dupont, and United States Cast Iron Pipe. Such recent leaders as United States Common, Genereal Motors, and Allied Chemical were quiet.

Heavy Wooden Cover Falls From City Building Roof

A large skylight cover, hurtling down from the roof of the City Buildings, disturbed the deliberations of the councils of the City and North Monaghan last night. The heavy wooden frame lit on the sidewalk outside the Police Station door with a loud crash, attracting the Mayor and others away from their meeting. No person was near the scene at the moment of the fall.

The high winds also caused many interruptions to the electric light service last night.

Roofs Blown Off

TORONTO, Feb. 4 (Canadian Press) — Roofs of three houses were blown off by high winds here. Gales blew off slate from roofs, broke store windows, and carried traffic semaphores for blocks.

We have made a specialty of the science of cake baking. The result may be purchased from us at any time at a price that is unequalled in reasonableness. Therefore the pleasure is doubled.

DAIRY INDUSTRY

forms of bacteria and all forms are good in their place. It is the fermentation which sours the milk and no matter how clean the conditions are this kind of bacteria will be at work in the milk.

"It was discovered that in milk kept clean and in a cool place the work of this bacteria was much slower. Then the pasteurization theory came into effect, that is the milk was heated to a high temperature and the plant life was destroyed, leaving milk practically free of all germ life. But as soon as the temperature became normal and the milk was still exposed to the air as many bacteria as ever were present, so to-day the milk is heated, bottled and capped, and then a man is sure of having nothing but the purest of milk.

"From the point of the manufacturers these discoveries made a real industry and Peterborough to-day has the great DeLaval plant as a result of these. The value these discoveries have been to mankind nobody can estimate," concluded the speaker.

The guests of the day were William Newman, G. H. Gillespie, John Troke of Toronto, A. Brown, H. Dawson of Vancouver, and J. Solden, H. Style, H. Rolland, J. Allan and G. Hume of Orillia, also Dr. W. D. Scott and D. Haddow of this city.

Harry Boyle was the booster of the day and as this is a time when new names are being thought of for different kinds of business and professions, he thought that groceriologist would sound better than grocer.

B. Moffatt sang a couple of solos and J. Wells Fraser moved a vote of thanks to the speaker.

H. CRANFIELD LOSES GARAGE

Oshawa Man, Brother of A. W. Cranfield, Sustains Heavy Loss.

BURNED TO GROUND.

Howard Cranfield, brother of A. W. Cranfield, of this city, sustained a heavy loss in the destruction of his garage at Oshawa on Wednesday.

"We heard something go 'bang!' and in a minute the whole place was a mass of flames."

This was the statement of Walter Lang, assistant of Howard Cranfield at the South-End Garage, 650 Simcoe Street South, which was burned to the ground at the noon hour. The business has been carried on under the firm name of Cranfield and Asling, with negotiations under way for an adjustment of control. Mr. Cranfield was chiefly interested and his loss will, it was stated this afternoon, be upwards of $5,000. There was comparatively small insurance carried on the building which was situated on the west side of Simcoe about one hundred yards north of the Canadian National Railway tracks.

Within an hour's time the former frame one-storey building was a charred shell, blackened and dismal, with the remains of two cars, one the property of Inspector Baird of the Humane Society, showing effects of their scorching.

Cluttering up what was the floor of the workroom of the garage were partly burned tires, ends of charred boards, piping, remains of mudguards, tools and other appurtenances of a repair shop, with three cans of oil still intact, seemingly by a miracle, and similarly a can of acetylene gas not disturbed. The roof was a blackened mass, like the rest of the building with the former office in the south-east corner, a sooty, gruesome looking chamber of horrors. Fortunately books and records of the firm had been taken away by one of the officials for auditing and these are safe.

Insurance adjustment officials took charge and a guard was placed on the place since there was some redeemable material, and the oil, still intact.

A curious crowd of large dimensions poked around and about in the ruins, many of them school children and these had to be shooed away. Hydro and Bell Telephone line men soon made their appearance to readjust wires displaced by the fire.

Mr. Cranfield was not present when The Reformer was there and no statement was available from him this afternoon.

An assistant assumed from remarks made by Mr. Cranfield that as soon as matters consequent upon the fire could be adjusted he would resume business in some other premises. The land and building had been leased.

No one could apparently settle on any one cause for the fire. Workmen in the building heard a report, they said, and immediately there was a burst of flame which seemed in "no time" to envelop the western part of the building. The men had time to push out through the east door a small sedan, but could not re-enter the place so keen was the blaze.

Firemen were on the job smartly and were successful in preventing any spread of the fire but they never had a chance to save the building.

TOWN PLANNING BETTER KNOWN

Rapid Development in Future Ensured By Educative Work.

PROGRESS MADE.

OTTAWA, Ont., Feb. 4.—(Canadian Press).—Town planning is making slow but certain progress in Canada, according to the report of the committee on town planning of the Dominion Land Surveyors' Association, presented during the convention here by D. H. Bartley, D.L.S.

The committee finds, in reviewing the progress of the year in this world-wide movement, that there are some encouraging signs that better planning of towns and cities is catching on in the Dominion. From east to west across the breadth of Canada it is found that in the larger cities there is an awakening consciousness as to the benefits to be derived. In Montreal the movement is voluntary, an organization having been formed for the development of a plan which can hardly fail to result in the creation of an official city plan sponsored and financed by the city.

In Vancouver action followed the passing of a Provincial Town Planning Act. The city promptly appointed a town-planning commission and consultant and staff to create a comprehensive plan for the city and environs at a cost of $40,000, spread over three years. Surrounding municipalities will probably agree on a regional plan.

Industrial companies who are establishing great enterprises in Canada are keenly alive to the advantages of correct planning of their town sites, Mr. Bartley reported. For instance, at Arvida, Que., the Aluminum Company of Canada is laying out the nucleus of a city for its employees on former raw lands comprising some six thousands acres. They are proceeding on carefully prepared plans designed for an ultimate population of 40,000. Construction of 270 houses was included in last year's programme, and plans include development of roads, sanitary and fire protection and landscape treatment.

In Western Canada the town-planning movement is gathering momentum. Certain of the municipalities around Winnipeg are taking steps toward the formation of town plans under Manitoba law, and the city of Edmonton has announced its intention of proceeding similarly. Kitchener, Victoria and Ottawa are other Canadian cities in which definite progress has been made.

The report concludes: "It is suggested that the dominent course for the rapid advancement of town planning in Canada is a matter of education and persuasion, and that the necessary enactments will inevitably follow. If in the development of our young Canadian cities and towns we can by wise planning avoid the creation of slum and tenement districts, we will be in a far more advanced position than could be secured by any frantic efforts in the future to develop lavish civic monuments in an attempt to conceal the squalor of the neglected districts."

DEMOCRATS MAY NOMINATE REED

Missouri Senator Is Mentioned as Presidential Possibility.

HAS OPPONENTS.

WASHINGTON, D.C., Feb. 3—(By John Snure, Canadian Press Correspondent). — Senator "Jim" Reed of Missouri is now looked on here as a full-fledged possibility for the democratic nomination for President. In fact, he is looked on in many quarters as a full-fledged candidate. The recent speech of Senator Reed in New York, in which the horde of federal "snoopers and spies" was denounced and his views on numerous issues set forth is looked on as the speech of a presidential aspirant. However, it did not need the New York speech for political observers here to be convinced Senator Reed was a presidential possibility or that his friends were active or that he was listening to the voices that have lured so many public men toward the White House goal.

Ever since Senator Reed, as head of the Senate special committee, unearthed huge campaign expenditures of Frank L. Smith of Illinois in the senatorial primaries.

Senator Reed is recognized as a great lawyer and an able man. However, he has made many enemies in his own party. It would not do to say he has no chance of nomination. So many democrats are anxious to get rid of both Governor "Al" Smith and McAdoo as presidential possibilities that they would turn in almost any direction if they thought it would end the Smith-McAdoo controversy.

Governor Donahey of Ohio is another man who will have to be reckoned with, as well as Senator Reed.

If Senator Reed should be named, it is probable it would have to be done by getting the 'Al' Smith support as a second choice matter and also getting support from south and west that Smith could not muster.

The religious fight stirred by the Smith-McAdoo contention would, Reed's friends think, be allayed by his nomination, although others think Reed made trouble for himself in his recent Senate speech in which he assailed Senator Heflin for raising the religious question in discussing the Mexican controversy. He would be recognized as a wet and this might make the campaign a fight between the republicans, with a dry platform, and the democrats, with a wet candidate, or one at least anti-prohibition. Stranger things have happened than that the 1928 fight will be one between President Coolidge and Senator Reed.

PREMIER GUEST OF SUPPORTERS IN ONTARIO AT NOTABLE BANQUET

Hon. Mr. King, in Address, Forecasts Reduction in Taxation.

IMPERIAL ISSUES.

Declares No Change Made In Constiution of Canada at Conference.

At a notable banquet last night in the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, Ontario Liberalism paid its meed of honor and appreciation to Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Premier of Canada, his colleagues at the Imperial Conference, Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, and also a tribute to the members of the Government, all but two of whom were present with their leader. W. R. P. Parker, chairman of the committee responsible for the banquet, presided, and gathered in the gaily decorated ballroom were leading Liberals of the city and province, both men and women. Two subsidiary banquets were held for those unable to be seated in the ballroom. It was not until 9.30 p.m. that the Liberal leader, after an introduction by the chairman, rose to speak, and it was close to 11.30 p.m. before he finished his address, which was broadcast and listened in to, according to a statement made during the evening, by 1,970 assemblages in Ontario organized for that purpose at various centres.

The main portion of Premier King's speech was devoted to a recital of the events of the Imperial Conference, but he intimated, while dealing with domestic affairs that still further reduction in taxation might be expected during the present session of Parliament.

"As respects the constitutional position of Great Britain, and the Dominions, the conference established nothing new," he stated, except that it had given new force and meaning to the established position. It did, however, "conclude the long struggle for responsible government," he added.

"I shall have to reserve for discussion in Parliament what I have to say on the subject of defence," he commented at another stage of his address, and this position was also taken by Hon. Ernest Lapointe, who declared that Parliament alone could deal with such a matter, and as witness to which he referred to the speed made at Hamilton by Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, a thrust which drew a round of applause and laughter from the gathering.

The Imperial Conference.

"Let us come now to the Imperial Conference, on which, I take it, I am expected this evening to make more than a passing reference. If we are really anxious to bind together the several parts of this vast Empire in an enduring unity, it will not be done by fostering cruel personal and party prejudices which serve to set one part of our people over against the other, or one part of the Empire over against another in discussions on Empire affairs. It will only be done by sedulously seeking to interpret each other to the other in order that, throughout the whole, the bond may be one of the greatest possible sympathy and understanding.

Question of Status.

Premier King turned next to that part of the conference which pertained to the status of Great Britain and the Dominions, and the relations between the various parts of the British Empire and foreign countries.

"Fault has been found with my colleague, Mr. Lapointe, and myself," he commented, "that we should have taken part in a constitutional conference without first taking Parliament into our confidence and receiving our instructions. My answer to this criticism is that until I reached London and was actually present at the table with the British Ministers and Ministers from the other Dominions, I had no idea that constitutional questions were to assume as important a place as they did in the Conference proceedings. My further answer is that Canada was only one of the several Dominions of the British Empire represented at the Conference, in addition to Great Britain, and that our position from the outset was that as respects the relations between Canada and Great Britain and between Canada and the other Dominions we had no questions to raise, though we were prepared, so far as we felt in a position so to do, to give expression to what we regarded as the Canadian position and point of view on any matter that might be brought up for consideration or discussion either by the representatives of the British Government or the representatives of the Governments of the other Dominions. I made this attitude perfectly plain in a speech I delivered at Quebec before sailing for the Conference, and which was given wide publicity at the time, and I have yet to discover where exception was taken to what I then said by anyone.

"The agenda of an Imperial Conference is not prepared by any one part of the British Empire. It is primarily the creation of the British Government which solicits in advance an expression of desire on the part of the governments of the several Dominions and then seeks to combine with desires of its own in an appropriately arranged agenda the requests received. It is inevitable from this course of procedure that questions may come up for consideration and discussion from one part of the Empire of the importance or significance of which other parts of the Empire may have little or no knowledge till the agenda is fully explained.

Take, for instance, the change in the King's title, a matter to some of very grave importance. To Mr. Lapointe and myself it was a surprise even to see or hear mention of the subject. Canada certainly has not been concerning herself about an appropriate designation of His Majesty. To the British Government and the Government of the Irish Free State, however, the subject of the King's title was a matter of first importance.

"I mention this particular item of the agenda because what is true concerning our attitude towards it is more or less equally true of our attitude towards most of the other items which fall into the so-called 'constitutional' class. We believed long before we left for England, that Canada was a self-governing community within the British Empire, enjoying complete autonomy and in no way subordinate to other parts of the Empire with respect to her own domestic or external affairs. That in these matters the Parliament of Canada was supreme. We had, therefore, no question to raise on this score. But other parts of the Empire, more recently organized as self-governing Dominions than ourselves may not have felt equally secure in the matter of their status, especially as there seemed to be to them, in matters in which they had an immediate interest, practices still prevailing which to appearances conflicted with a theory of government within the Empire based on complete autonomous rights of its several self-governing parts.

Concerning Autonomy

"It is well, I think, for us to remember that there was a time not so many years ago when the question of our autonomous rights gave us no little concern, when it was a subject of very lively debate; when the man who dared to speak of Canada as a nation, enjoying rights of nationhood was thought of as a separatist in his attitude towards the British Empire, but that day for us has long since passed.

"To appreciate the causes which occasioned concern in the minds of some of the delegates present at the conference with respect to some of the questions raised it is only necessary, I think, to keep in mind the trend of political discussions as we know it to have been in this country in years gone by. Take the right of the British Parliament annually to pass upon the legislation of our Federal Parliament. How many of the people of Canada outside the immediate students of the constitution are even aware that any such right exists?

"That brings me then to what actually was the case when the conference met A number of questions had been raised by other governments than our own which bore directly on the question of status of the self-governing Dominions. Raised, in my humble belief, not, as has been too generally represented from partisan discussion and press comments thereon, for the purpose of mischief making within the Empire or any separatist motives on the part of the Governments concerned, but for a purpose diametrically the opposite—to clear the air of a lot of misunderstanding and misrepresentation which was giving rise to a species of controversy and agitation that in some parts was sapping the very foundations of Empire itself.

Inter-Imperial Relations

"The committee of which Lord Balfour was the chairman had no sooner begun its investigation of the questions on the agenda affecting inter-Imperial relations, than its members found they involved consideration of fundamental principles affecting the relations of the various parts of the British Empire inter se, as well as the relations of each part to foreign countries. The committee, as might readily have been supposed, were of the opinion that nothing would be gained by attempting to lay down a constitution for the British Empire. It was recognized that its widely scattered parts have very different characteristics, very different histories, and are at very different stages of evolution. At the same time it was felt that there was one most important element in the Empire which, from a strictly constitutional point of view, has now, as regards all vital matters, reached its full development, namely the group of self-governing communities composed of Great Britain and the Dominions. The committee then proceeded to define their position and mutual relation. It was laid down that each was an autonomous community within the British Empire; that in any aspect of their domestic or external affairs they were in no way subordinate one to another, that all were united by a common allegiance to the Crown, and that all were freely associated as members of the British Commonwealth of Nations. In these particulars, all of which relate themselves to status, there is not only similarity but equality. In other words, the position and mutual relation of Great Britain and the Dominions was defined as one of equality of status.

"Now as to scope: It soon became apparent that, broadly speaking, the problems of inter-imperial relations that came before us, as distinct from the question of our relations with foreign powers in treaty-making and international conferences, fell into two main groups: the channels of communication between the several governments of the Empire, including the question of the position of the Governor-General, and certain restrictions on Dominion legislation.

"May I take the latter point first? It is well known that in certain formal respects the Parliament and Government of Great Britain retain legal control over Dominions or Dominion legislation. I am not speaking of the method in force of amending the constitution of Canada by act of the British Parliament: that is a peculiarity of the Canadian situation which does not exist in Australia or South Africa, or the Irish Free State, and, of course, was not considered or discussed in any way by the Conference.

OBITUARY

A. R. KIDD.

There passed away at the home of his son, A. O. Kidd, 228 Sherbrooke street, early yesterday morning, an old and highly respected citizen of Peterboro, in the person of Archibald R. Kidd.

Mr. Kidd was born near Warsaw, in the township of Dummer in 1836. Mr. Kidd's father came out from Scotland in the year 1812, and settled near Ottawa, later moving to Peterboro in 1832, where he took up a homestead in the township of Dummer. For the past 26 years Mr. Kidd has been a resident of this city, where he was a government official in the custom office, from which he was superannuated a few years ago. Previous to coming to this city Mr. Kidd lived in Dummer, where he was for 11 years Reeve, and also Warden of the county.

The late Mr. Kidd had reached the advanced age of 91 years, having passed the ninety-first mile-post last Friday. He possessed a splendid physique, and retained all his senses unimpaired almost to the last. He was a man with a very high sense of honor and of incorruptible integrity. He was a lifelong Methodist, and in recent years a member of St. James' Church. In politics he was a Liberal, and at one time was a candidate for Parliament. He was for thirteen years Reeve of Dummer Township.

He is survived by two sons, R. H. Kidd, in Fort Angles, Washington, and A. O. Kidd of Peterboro, and by three daughters: Mrs. Geo. Ingham, Roseneath, Mrs. A. Stewart, Dalhousie Street, and Miss Margaret Kidd, Peterboro. One brother, R. J. Kidd, Toronto, and one sister, Mrs. S. S. Richie, Drayton, Ohio. His wife predeceased him eleven years ago, also one daughter, Mrs. (Rev.) Fox.

The funeral service will take place on Saturday at 2 p.m., from the residence of his son, A. O. Kidd, to the Little Lake Cemetery. The funeral service will be in charge of Rev. J. D. Richardson, assisted by Rev. J. E. Todd.

HOW CHILDREN QUICKLY GAIN ROBUST HEALTH

Go ahead Mother and make the sickly little one strong and well—make the puny one sturdy and full of pep—make the skinnny one take on pounds of solid flesh—Get McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets.

Cod Liver liquids are nasty and repulsive and evil smelling and nearly always upsets children's stomachs—so now up-to-date pharmacists advise McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets, with their wealth of vitamines.

Children love them as they do candy, because they are sugar coated and easy to take. One boy gained 11½ pounds in seven weeks, and is now healthy and happy—thousands of other children have grown and robust.

Sixty tablets for 60 cents at McDermid & Jury, Bond's Drug Store and McDermid Drug Co. and druggists everywhere. Try them for 30 days and if you are not happily satisfied with the test get your money ack. But demand McCoy's—it pays to get the genuine.

CATTLE, GRAIN AND PRODUCE

There were no new developments in the local egg trade and prices ruled steady. Receipts 828 cases.

Owing to increased arrival of potatoes an easier feeling developed and prices were reduced 5c to 10c per bag, but this lower level made no improvement in the demand. Trade was rather slow with sales of Prince Edward Island Green Mountains at $1.75 to $1.80 per bag of 90 lbs. and Quebec white stock at $1.30 to $1.35 per bag of 90 lbs. in bulk, ex-track.

Receipts of butter, 94 packages. Market quiet and unchanged.

Receipts of cheese 139 boxes. With limited demand prices have declined with Western No. 1 white and coolred quoted at 18 1-2 to 19c per lb., while prices for current receipts were unchanged at 17 1-2c to 18c per lb.

CHICAGO GRAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 4 (Canadian Press) — After advancing to the highest point yet on the present movement, wheat sagged at the last yesterday on account of selling to realize profits. Speculative buying was active at times and there was also a good export demand of North American wheat, including domestic hard winter and Durum.

Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled at the same as yesterday's finish to 1-4c off; with corn 1-8c to 3-8c down; oats showing 1-8 to 3-8—1-2c decline and provisions varying from 7c setback to 5c gain.

Corn and oats swayed with wheat, becoming easy in the late dealings. The weather was unseasonably mild.

Profit taking made the provision market irregular at the finish. Earlier strength of cotton oil and of hog value tended to help provisions advance.

WOMEN'S PAGE

SOCIETY

Under the auspices of the W.C.T.U. a well-attended "Daisy Chain" Tea was held yesterday afternoon in the green room of the Young Women's Christian Association. The guests were received by the president, Mrs. A. J. Throop, Mrs. A. E. Micks and Mrs. George Rowe, assisted by Mrs. J. F. Aldin. The tea table, very prettily arranged with a lace cloth, blue satin bowl of daffodils and yellow candles in silver candlesticks, was presided over by Mrs. Thomas Barrie and Mrs. F. C. McBride. Mrs. James A. Spencer was convenor of the tea room, assisted by Mrs. H. G. Walker, Mrs. A. F. Hagerman, Mrs. J. W. Kelly, Mrs. George Helson, Mrs. E. Wand, and Mrs. Sarah Armstrong. The musical programme, in charge of Mrs. C. H. Cheverill and Mrs. J. H. Rowe, included vocal numbers by Mrs. E. Wand, Miss Bertha Hill, and Miss Addie Batten; pianoforte solos by Miss Alma Blanchard and Miss Alda Bartlett, and a duet by the Misses Bessie and Isabel Elcome. Accompanists were the Misses Alma Blanchard, Gwen Donley and Cora Smith.

Mr. W. Y. Scollard attended the banquet held at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, last evening, in honor of Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King and his Cabinet.

Through a typographic error, the name of Miss Bertha Hill was omitted from the account of the meeting of the Women's Music Club on Wednesday afternoon. Miss Hill sang Schubert's "Maiden's Lament," and Schumann's "In May," while Miss Emma Meiklejohn of Campbellford had only two songs, Schumann's "Widmung" and Carl Bohn's "Stil wie die Nacht."

Mr. Elmer Fry of the Field Artillery, American Army, Washington, is spending a few days in the city with his father, Mr. J. W. Fry, 15 Lake Street. Mr. Fry, who has just completed three years' service in the U. S. Army at Fort Myer, Virginia, has been given a post in the National Treasury Department of the United States Government at Washington, and will return to take up his new duties, within a few days. He reports spring-like weather conditions in Washington.

A miniature banquet which was the result of a wager between two ladies' rink and two of the men's rinks at the Curling Club, was held at Hooper's Tea Rooms last evening. Mrs. R. M. Waddell and Mrs. M. Comstock acted as hostesses at the affair.

Mr. W. Warren, agency manager of the Northern Life Assurance Company, returned to Toronto this morning.

The Ladies' Guild of All Saints' Church held a very successful Silver Tea, in honor of the Semi-Jubilee celebrations of the church, in the Parish Hall, yesterday afternoon. Ladies to the number of nearly one hundred and fifty were in attendance, and were received by the President, Mrs. N. H. Sutton, Mrs. J. D. Patterson, and Mrs. J. Davidson. Four serving tables, decorated with lace cloths, baskets of daffodils and narcissus and yellow candles in silver candlesticks, were in charge of Mesdames L. Dobbin, A. A. Haskill, F. Detcher, E. Davis.

Tea was poured by Mesdames F. E. Hawken, T. H. Hooper, A. A. Haskill, P. Fuller. Assistants were Mesdames Sabin, Meeks, Pakenham Thorne, Hughes, A. Webber, Burns, Fitzgerald, Clysdale, Cottrell, Dillon, Beatty, McLeod, and the Misses Young and Detcher. The home made cooking was in charge of Mrs. Price and Mrs. Elliott. Mrs. C. Goodley played during the afternoon.

BELMONT CLUB DANCE

The Belmont Club held a very successful dance last evening in the hall of the Canadian Legion, with an attendance of nearly three hundred people. The arrangements were carried out in a very efficient manner by the energetic committee in charge, composed of Messrs. H. G. Mason, C. H. Stuart, N. G. Lewis, N. C. Staples and F. H. Jobbitt. Patronesses present were Mesdames R. H. Turner, F. L. Roy, C. G. Graham, R. Denne, C. S. Browne and R. S. Hall. Splendid music for dancing was supplied by Rich's "Versatile Canadians" from Toronto. The decorations were done in the Club colors of purple and mauve, with silk basket shades in the two colors over the electroliers, and gold tinsel hangings behind the orchestra stand, which was banked with ferns and palms.

Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Browne, Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Cummer, Mr. and Mrs. Fraser Skinner, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Conway, Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Carruthers, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jobbitt, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Fanning, Mr. and Mrs. G. Hill, Mr. and Mrs. P. King, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Kernaghan, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. SAINT and SINNER

By ANNE AUSTIN

With her shabby old brown coat wrapped about her eyes wide with horror and bewilderment, her usually sleek brown hair disheveled and damp with melted snow, Faith was a startling apparition as she confronted the chauffeur.

"My sister—" Faith began hurriedly, then bit back the betraying declaration she had been about to make. The incredible news was certainly not for a chauffeur's ears. "I am not ready yet," she recovered her dignity. "Won't you wait in the car for me? I'll be ready in five minutes."

There was a flicker of question in the man's veiled black eyes, but he did not utter it. When he had turned to go back to his car, Faith ran to her own room and flung on the first dress that her shaking hands encountered in the closet—an old black satin.

The wedding dress—its rhinestones and tiny seed pearls winking at her like imprisoned tears—she hung in Cherry's closet, pausing for a moment to learn what Cherry had worn in her flight. The chic little golden-brown cloth suit which Cherry had bought with Albert Ettleson's money—later repaid by her father—was missing, as was Cherry's last winter's jungle green cloth coat meagerly trimmed with beaver.

On the dresser, flung down carelessly, was the little heap of jewels that Ralph Cluny had given Cherry—a diamond and platinum bracelet, two tiny butterfly pins, studded with diamonds, for catching up the cloudy folds of the wedding veil, a string of pearls for the bride's throat. She had taken nothing—nothing. Faith exulted, as she crammed the small fortune in jewels into her handbag, together with Cherry's pitiful farewell note.

She closed and locked the window, and with an incoherent prayer for guidance, walked through the snow to the waiting limousine.

"Drive me to the church," she directed the chauffeur.

"But—" the man began. "I was told to bring Miss Lane, too—Miss Cherry Lane."

"My sister has already left," Faith managed to speak casually.

"Isn't there a way I can reach the rector's study without the crowd seeing me?" she spoke through the tube to the chauffeur as he was turning into the street dominated by the beautiful and majestic church.

"I believe there's an alley," he answered, as if he understood everything. "The parish house extends to the alley, and you can walk through it to the vestryroom, where the rector will be waiting."

"Do you think Mr. Cluny will come in through the back way, too?" she asked the chauffeur.

"He had planned to do so," he replied. "Mr. Hathaway is to drive him over."

"Then he hasn't come yet," Faith shivered in the cold as she looked anxiously up and down the alley. "When he arrives, will you try to get word to him without Mr. Cluny's hearing you that I want to see him—at once? Tell him I'll be alone with the rector, and that it is important that I see him at once."

"Very well, miss," the chauffeur touched his cap, and Faith hurried into the parish house, a long, low building adjoining the church, and filled with a maze of small rooms designed for Sunday School and guild use.

Faith knew where the vestry room was, for the wedding party had assembled in it the night before for the rehearsal. As she opened the door noiselessly a subdued ripple of soprano laughter from the excited, joyous bridesmaids—Selma Pruitt and Frances Warren—drove her back, trembling and incapable of facing them.

HOROSCOPE

The Stars Incline, but do not Compel.

SATURDAY, FEBRUARY 5, 1927

(Copyright, 1927, by The McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Astrologers read this as rather an unfavorable day for important matters. Adverse aspects dominate.

Under this rule the judgment may be exceedingly faulty and there may be an inclination to look on the wrong side of things.

It is not a lucky day for aviators who may find that accidents are more easily brought about than other planetary governments.

It is wise not to risk one's influence or friendship with persons of importance to-day, for there is a forbidding sign.

While this rule prevails there is likely to be an access of egotism and vanity on the part of men and women who have attained any sort of success.

All the planetary forces appear to encourage human traits that are much to be avoided—selfishness and ingratitude being chief among them. It is well to do a little self-analysis at this time.

There is a promising sign for initiative which has as its aim financial gain. Shopkeepers should benefit to-day.

Dressmakers should prosper greatly as the coming months in which fashion will benefit them.

Hotel and apartment houses are subject to a direction of the stars making for profit, as many families will patronize them.

Much suffering from the cold is foretold for big cities and fuel difficulties again are prognosticated.

Astrologers stress the need of thrift for they prophesy that money will gain in importance among the people who are wage-earners in the United States.

Loss of life in street accidents is likely to increase rather than diminish, owing to certain malefic aspects, the seers foretell.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the forecast of new affairs, new friends and much happiness in the coming year.

Children born on this day may be of extraordinary intellectuality and deeply concerned regarding the welfare of humanity. Many reformers are born under this sign.

DRESS

By MARY MARSHALL

For cool evenings a cape of mauve georgette is worn over a simple sequin frock. The cape is embroidered with sequins and edged with marabou dyed to match the georgette.

Conventional low-neck evening attire is so dear to the heart of the well-bred English woman that it would take a great deal more than the present fuel shortage in England to persuade her to wear anything else after seven o'clock in the evening. It is interesting enough that in this country where summer heat usually prevails in our hotels, theaters, apartments and up-to-date country houses—women here are so much less strict about this matter of "dressing for dinner." Even without a fuel shortage Paris knows no such well-heated interiors as our own, yet fashionable women there are willing enough to don evening clothes in the evening. It is not so much with them a solemn sort of social rite as an opportunity to wear charming evening frocks.

Sometimes we wonder how these European women survive the long evenings in draughty—as we think—underheated rooms. We admire their pluck as much as we wonder at the foolishness. But after all, they are not so foolish nor need they be quite so plucky as we think. As a matter of winter custom many of these women wear warm flannels next their skin. True, these flannels have had to be decidedly curtailed to meet existing fashions but there is enough left to provide a wholesome bit of warmth where it does the most good.

There are all sorts of shawls and wraps that may be worn indoors over the light evening frock without actually taking from its light and airy appearance, and a number of Americans, in spite of warm houses, have adopted some one or another of these slight garments. Dressmakers here, like those abroad, are making coats or capes of chiffon or georgette to wear at dinner time over light frocks. Many women feel that a drapery of this sort adds much to the becomingness of the rather hard outlines of the heavily beaded or spangled frock, the bright glitter of which is perhaps a little more attractive now than it seemed to be earlier in the season. Sometimes these little wraps are made of the same color and material as the frock, though sometimes a decidedly good effect may be gained by using chiffon or georgette of a darker hue. Thus a heavily spangled frock of cyclamen shade is worn with a filmy coat of wine-colored georgette.

Shawls of many sorts are still worn to provide this bit of extra warmth sometimes needed in the evening and some of the dressmakers are making slightly shaped capes or coats from shawls, which have the graceful drapery of the shawl and are at the same time quite easy to keep in place.

Sheer Frocks and Women's Hygiene

New way safer—Discards like tissue

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

THAT filmy gowns and women's oldest hygienic problem now go safely together is a fact millions of women are learning.

Old-time sanitary "pads" with their worries and dangers are giving way to the utter protection of a new way called Kotex.

✓ Kotex discards as easily as tissue. Thus no laundry, no embarrassment of disposal.

5 times as absorbent as ordinary cotton "pads," it permits one to dance, motor, go about for hours without a moment's doubt. Also deodorizes; thus ending all fear of offense.

Obtain at any store without embarrassment simply by saying "KOTEX." Box of 12 costs only a few cents. Be sure you get the genuine. Only Kotex itself is "like" Kotex.

I.O.D.E. CHAPTER ANNUAL MEETING

Miss S. A. Tompkins Elected Regent of Otonabee Chapter.

SUCCESSFUL YEAR.

The twelfth annual meeting of the Otonabee Chapter I.O.D.E. was held on Wednesday afternoon in the green room of the Young Women's Christian Association, when reports of the year's work were given, and officers elected.

The report of the secretary, Mrs. W. Stacey, showed seven new names added to the roll during the past year, and an amount of $87.75 collected by thirty members, who raised this in the way of talent money. The sum of $305.15 was raised by the holding of teas and bridge parties and sales of work, and $63.80 was realized as commission on tickets for the film of the Prince of Wales trip.

The Chapter is assisting in the support of an Armenian boy at the Georgetown school and also assisted two pupils in the High School here. The sum of $25 was donated toward the work of the Well Babies' Clinic, $5 to the G. Parkin Memorial, $1 to I.O.D.E. in India, and a $10 Library sent to the school at Section Number One, in Cavendish Township. Several of the members send magazines to various schools in the North country.

The financial statement submitted by Mrs. Robinson showed a balance from the previous year of $20.10, and total receipts of $591.40, with expenditures of $437.50, leaving a balance on hand at present of $153.90.

Officers for 1927 are as follows: Regent, Miss S. A. Tomkins, first vice regent, Mrs. F. L. Robinson; second vice regent, Mrs. C. A. White; secretary, Mrs. W. Stacey; Education secretary, Miss M. Archer; Echoes secretary, Mrs. J. A. Aylmer; standard bearer, Mrs. W. H. Lytle; Councillors: Mesdames W. Comstock, H. L. Beal, R. W. Davidson, F. H. Dearborn, D. R. Fleming, R. Harstone, J. P. Pulkinghorn, J. A. Morgan, H. E. Stenson, and K. S. Wightman.

Mrs. E. B. Clegg was nominated as Provincial Councillor and Mrs. D. L. McLaren of Toronto as National Councillor.

The following members contributed in varying amounts towards the Talent Fund: Mesdames W. Comstock, D. R. Fleming, R. R. Hall, W. Lytle, Lawrence, H. R. Morrison, Murphy, H. Morgan, Perks, J. A. Robinson, Soden, H. Stenson, J. P. Pulkinghorn, C. A. White, J. A. Aylmer, Donnelly, Jordan, K. Wightman, Darey, H. Beal, Edmonds, Harvey, Chadwick, Hodgson, Stacey and F. L. Robinson, and the Misses M. Archer, E. Murphy, S. A. Tomkins and E. Denne.

At the annual meeting, five applications were received for membership, and accepted, and the sum of $10 was voted toward work among sailors on the Great Lakes.

Miss Large was appointed to represent the Chapter on Child Welfare matters.

THIS CANADA OF OURS

LEADING CANADIAN INDUSTRIES.

Q.—What is the production value of the leading Canadian industries?

A.—Estimated in terms of millions, the gross production value of five leading Canadian industries are as follows, for 1923: Pulp and paper, over 180; flour over 155; saw mills over 140; slaughter and packing nearly 140; butter and cheese 105; automobiles nearly 100 and electric lights and power over 90.

HASN'T FELT SO GOOD IN 20 YEARS

One package ALL-BRAN enables him to say good-bye to pills!

Read Mr. Awtry's testimonial as to what ALL-BRAN does in stamping out constipation.

"I'm a man 56 years of age, have had chronic constipation for 35 years. I have been taking all kinds of purgatives, scarcely ever—if ever—have a natural movement. Have spent a great deal of money, and no permanent relief. . . . When I had used one package of your ALL-BRAN, I found I could discard my pills and tablets. I haven't felt as good in 20 years."

JOS. W. AWTRY,
(Address on request)

You can get permanent, natural relief from constipation by eating Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. Two tablespoonfuls daily—in chronic cases, with every meal. Guaranteed. Doctors recommend it because it is 100% bran.

Eat ALL-BRAN with milk or cream—and add fruits or honey. Use in cooking. Mix with other cereals. Served and sold everywhere. Ready to eat. Made by Kellogg in London, Ontario. Recipes on package.

The Mysterious Camp Fire

Pneumonia Left Her With A Bad Cough

Mrs. W. R. Bennett, 2307-14th St. West, Calgary, Alta., writes:—"Over a year ago, before my twins were born, I had an attack of pneumonia which left me with a very bad cough.

Being under the doctor's care, he tried first one thing and then another, but I coughed day and night.

A friend brought me a bottle of

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup

for to try, and after coughing for two months and taking four six ounce bottles of cough medicine, I got rid of my cough with one and a half bottles of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup."

Price 35c. per bottle, large family size 60c.; put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

FIRE THREATENS TORONTO HOUSES

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—Two frame houses on Woodbine Beach were burned to the ground last night in a spectacular fire which for a time, threatened to destroy a row of houses along the waterfront. The flames sent up a reflection that could be seen for miles. Men, women and children numbering about 500 made their way to the foot of Woodbine Avenue and along the waterfront to witness the blaze.

A volunteer bucket brigade aided the firemen in keeping the flames from reaching other places. Fanned by the strong north wind, the flames soon enveloped both houses, making it impossible to remove any of the contents. Had the wind been blowing from any other direction, District Chief Poole stated, a great number of the houses would have fallen prey to the fire.

Hydrants Shut Off.

The water in the hydrants is shut off during the winter months. The nearest water main is on Woodbine Avenue, more than a mile from where the outbreak occurred. Firemen used their supply of chemicals, while people living in near-by places pumped pails and tubs of water from in front of their houses and hurled them on to the flames. A well near-by probably was responsible for the good work done. As quickly as the water could be drawn it was rushed to the spot and dashed on the fire.

The fire started in a two-story dwelling at No. 22, occupied by Mrs. Frank Holland and her three children. Mr. Holland, a disabled soldier, went overseas with the First Canadian Contingent, and is still in Christie Street Hospital. His little family lost everything. Mrs. Holland said the furniture was insured for $1,000.

Raise Five Children Then Adopt Ten More

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 4.—Mr. and Mrs. Harry J. Ewing, rancher of Pacheco, 15 miles east of San Franciso, love children. They raised a family of five, who all married and moved away. Then they adopted five, who also married. Now they have adopted five more, seven to sixteen years old. The latest five adopted are: John, Olga, Emil, David and Matilda Seidler.

CARRIAGE FIRM FINDS EXTENSION OF PLANT NEEDED

Fitzgerald and Company Move To Premises on McDonnel Street.

AFTER FIFTY YEARS.

Business Has Been Conducted on Brock Street For Long Time.

Changes in the industry brought about by the advent of the automobile and the motor bus and an ever - extending business, have brought the removal of the plant operated by Fitzgerald & Company.

For over fifty years the firm has carried on business on Brock Street, but from now on it will occupy the premises formerly operated by the Dick Carew Lumber Company, situated on McDonnel Street between Aylmer and Bethune Streets.

One feature of the new premises is that both in the main building and the paint shop, which is situated some twenty yards away from it, are equipped with extra large entrances and exits; big enough in fact to take care of any of the large buses in operation on the highways today. In the paint shop all work will be done on the ground floor, thus obviating the necessity for an elevator. The upstairs portion of the building is being reserved for lighter vehicles, such as buggies and sleighs, which are easily drawn up the ramp that has been erected.

The large or main building, measuring 50 feet by 120 feet, is fitted up so that the trimming and woodworking machinery may operate at its highest efficiency. In one end of this building, facing McDonnel St., is situated the office, which is finished in British Columbia cedar. At the other end a 35 by 50 feet brick extension has been erected in which will be housed the blacksmith's shop and horseshoeing.

The paint shop consists of a separate brick building measuring 35 feet by 50 feet. The building is ideal for the purpose as the floor consists of cement and there are no pillars or posts, giving a maximum amount of space for vehicles.

AGENTS MEET FOR CONVENTION

Prudential Staff of District Holding Conference in City.

ADDRESS GIVEN.

That the Prudential Insurance Company would attain even greater prominence in the insurance world, than it has yet done, was the prediction of John T. Allen, Superintendent of the local office at a district convention of the agents held in the local offices to-day. Over forty agents of the company were present at the meeting, at which plans were laid for the 1927 activities of the company, which Mr. Allen said would result in a banner year, and even overshadow the splendid achievements of 1926.

J. A. Troke, Superintendent of the Toronto office, who led all the Canadian districts for the year 1926 in a stirring address, showed in a forcible manner the necessity for co-operation between the superintendent and the agent in order that the public might get the best service from them. Mr. Troke detailed his many experiences since coming to the company ten years ago. Prior to that, he said, he was a plasterer, but by dint of hard work and the assistance of the various men under whom he laboured he was enabled to occupy the position which he now held.

J. I. Allen, who presided over the convention, expressed the thanks of the agents to Mr. Troke, whose speech, he said, was a revelation as to what could be accomplished by a man whose heart was in the work.

Albert W. Wray of the local office was the recipient of an "old guard" badge and certificate, being emblematic of fifteen years service with the company.

Those present were:

J. A. Troke, Supt., Toronto, T. E. White, Asst. Supt., J. L. Coffey, Agent, F. F. Cockburn, Agent Cobourg; J. N. Trenouth, Agent, Port Hope; H. C. Harris, Agent, Bowmanville; D. Morris, Asst. Supt., W. O. Bennett, Agent, R. A. Annis, Agent, A. Durie, Agent, J. Gillespie, Orillia; H. Eaton, Agent, Barrie; Supt., A. St. Cyr. Agent, B. A. Harvie, Agent, H. J. Rolland, Agent, Orillia; H. Agent, Agent, Barrie; G. E. West, Agent, Campbellford; A. S. Horslen, Agent, Lindsay, A. E. Sturgis Whitby, Ont., Age.

Peterboro Staff: J. I. Allen, Supt.; R. F. Sedgwick, Asst. Supt.; A. W. Wray, Agent A. Moffatt, Agent, T. Ross, Agent, R. Ross, Agent, W. McLaren, Agent, L. E. Ferguson, Agent.

T. J. Best, Asst. Supt.; W. H. Fair, Agent, D. Donoghue, Agent, J. A. Holden, Agent, W. E. Wright, Agent, E. Jeffery, Agent.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

THE CHRISTIAN STEWARDSHIP

Text: Matt. 25:14-28.

For the kingdom of heaven is as a man traveling into a far country, who called his own servants, and delivered unto them his goods.

And unto one he gave five talents, to another two, and to another one; to every man according to his several ability; and straightway took his journey.

Then he that had received the five talents went and traded with the same, and made them other five talents.

And likewise he that had received two, he also gained other two.

But he that had received one, went and digged in the earth, and hid his lord's money.

After a long time, the lord of those servants cometh, and reckoneth with them.

And so he that had received five talents, saying Lord, thou deliveredst unto me five talents; behold I have gained beside them five talents more.

His lord said unto him, Well done, thou good and faithful servant; thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee rulers over many things: enter thou into the joy of thy lord.

He also that had received two talents, came, and said, Lord, thou deliveredst unto me two talents: behold, I have gained two other talents beside them.

His lord said unto him, Well done, good and faithful servant: thou hast been faithful over a few things, I will make thee ruler over many things: enter thou into the joy of thy lord.

Then he which had received the one talent, came, and said, Lord, I knew thee that thou art an hard man, reaping where thou hast not sown, and gathering where thou has not strawed:

And I was afraid, and went, and hid thy talent in the earth: lo, there thou hast that is thine.

His lord answered and said unto him, Thou wicked and slothful servant, thou knewest that I reap where I soweth not, and gather where I have not strawed:

Thou oughtest therefore to have put my money to the exchangers, and then at my coming I should have received mine own with usury.

Take therefore the talent from him, and give it unto him which hath ten talents.

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for February 6. The Practice of Christian Stewardship. Matt. 25:14-28.

(By Wm. E. Gilroy, D.D., Editor of The Congregationalist.)

The practice of Christian stewardship implies different things to different Christians.

Some understand by Christian stewardship the matter of tithing and they give one-tenth of their inc me as religious objects as a duty and a privilege. They think of that one-tenth as definitely belonging to God. It is a debt which they feel the obligation to pay that they would attach to any debt.

There is nothing to be said against such a practice. It provides a care and discipline that are strengthening to character, and it is usually accompanied with a general conception and practice of thriftiness toward God and man.

Larger Obligation.

If there is anything to be said concerning the practice, it is only from the standpoint of a Christian conception which implies a larger and not a lesser obligation than that of tithing. Tithing in itself is primarily a Jewish rather than a Christian practice.

The Christian conception is that the whole life belongs to God, and that all that one possesses must be brought under the law of Christian consecration. The principle, however, as it is worked out in life, is apt to become somewhat vague, and there is danger that we may make this general consecration an excuse for the lack of actual giving. Those who criticize the methods of tithing might well examine themselves to see whether in their own lives they have established any larger or better principle.

Not only do men belong to God but it is only as they recognize this that they can come into their true place in God's world. For it should be recognized that if we belong to God, God also belongs to us, the treasures of his love and grace, the world of his gift, and all that his gifts imply—all this is the heritage of man.

Greater Chances.

Our lesson warns us particularly of the way in which stewardship applies to every life. It is so easy for us to shirk our duty because our capacities are so slight and our privileges and opportunities so meager. We are apt to envy the five and ten talent men, to dream of all the wonderful things that we would do if we had greater abilities or larger opportunities.

Much of the great work of the world has, in fact, been accomplished by men of genius, but it is surprising to discover how often the supposed genius of men who have accomplished great things has been little more than a consecration to the things which they have achieved.

Extending Ourselves.

The history of Christian enterprise is the story of how God has used people of one talent to perform five-talent tasks. This is the great lesson of stewardship.

There is no life however narrow its environment, however meager its capacities and possibilities that cannot be vastly enlarged through the consciousness and practice of stewardship through the consecration of the soul to God. The supreme danger of life is not the danger of using our talents amiss, it is the danger of not using our talents at all.

SOCIAL EVENING.

Held By Young People's Society of Morganston United Church.

NORHAM, Feb. 4.—At the Young People's Union of St. Paul's United Church, Warkworth, on Monday evening a program of special interest, to the large crowd present, was given by the members of the Young People's Society of Morganston United Church. A number of the Morganston people were conveyed to Warkworth by Lorne Darling, in his motor truck while several drove with horses and cutters.

The meeting was opened by Arthur C. Twiddy, president of the Warkworth Society, with hymn No. 345. Rev. Wesley W. Jones, B.D., then led in prayer. The Scripture lesson from St. John, chapter four was read by the president, also a letter of welcome from the Warkworth society.

John Darkins, president of the Morganston Society, then took charge of the meeting. "Hi Ho The Merrio?" was sung by the Morganston Trail Rangers, Clarence and Lloyd Massey, Grant Phillips and Van Darling, accompanied by Joseph Dixon. Bessie Carr gave a reading entitled, "Jack," by Jean Blewett.

Grant VanBlaricom gave an address consisting of a synopsis of the "Village of Kimlock."

Lorne Darling, William Phillips and Clarence Massey sang, "The Wayside Cross."

A reading, "I stand at the Garden Gate Once More" was rendered by Miss Mildred Curtis.

Hermin Reynolds gave an address based on 1 Cor. 3rd chapter, and verse eleven—"For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ." The speaker stated that each individual was his or her own architect, with an objective in life. Each person is building a structure and should be careful to see that ture and should be careful to see that the foundation of that structure was one that would not collapse under later strain. The Scripture says men are to obtain wisdom. Do our youth take this into consideration? asked Mr. Reynolds. Parents sometimes make mistakes by giving their children an educational fitness without the foundation of spiritual equipment. Without the spiritual foundation the educational structure will crash with world elements. Young men who wish to be successful will find good advice in the Book of Proverbs. "Be sure you are right and then go ahead," was a closing remark.

The Trail Rangers sang, "Calling To-day." The meeting closed with hymn No. 545.

The company was then invited into the basement of the church, where a delicate lunch was served by the Warkworth Young People.

Once a School Teacher—Later a Famous Physician

A young man who was brought up on a farm in Western Pennsylvania qualified for district school teacher. Further pursuing his studies and teaching, he managed to save enough money to put him thru medical college. He began the practice of medicine in the new oil section of Pennsylvania, and often rode horse-back through the woods to reach and relieve those who were seriously ill. He was a student of nature, knew and easily recognized most of the medicinal plants growing in the woods.

Finally, he moved to Bufalo, N.Y., where he launched his favorite remedies, and, in a short time, they were sold by every druggist in the land. Today, the name of this man, the late Dr. R. V. Pierce, is known throughout the world. His Golden Medical Discovery is the best known general tonic for building up strength, restoring impaired tissues and enriching the blood. More than fifty million bottles have been sold in the U. S. If your druggist does not sell it, in liquid or tablets, you can obtain a trial pkg. of the tablets by sending 10c to Dr. Pierce's Laboratory in Bridgeburg, Ont.

HOW TO GET RID OF COLDS AND CATARRH

A Simple, Safe, Inexpensive Method That Clears Out the Head, Nose and Throat.

There are many people suffering from chronic catarrh who would like to know how they can stop catching cold after cold. They realize that sooner or later this may lead to deafness and other serious troubles.

Dr. Blosser, for years a specialist in catarrh, was the discoverer of a pleasant, direct method that can be used by women and children as well as men. His remedy is made from medicinal herbs, flowers and berries which you smoke in a small pipe or cigarette, and inhale the vapor into the air passages of the head, nose, throat and lungs, carrying medicine where sprays, douches and salves cannot possibly reach. It contains no cubebs, tobacco or habit-forming drugs.

Dr. Blosser's Remedy is effective in all forms of colds, catarrh, catarrhal headaches and ear troubles that may lead to deafness. You will breathe better and feel better after using it.

If you suffer from catarrh, catarrhal deafness, asthma, hay fever, bronchial irritations, or, if subject to frequent colds, you should try Dr. Blosser's Remedy. Get one of the pocket size packages from any drug store and prove for yourself the pleasant, beneficial effects.

SOCIAL EVENING.

Held Under Auspices of St. Andrew's Y.P.A. at Warkworth.

WARKWORTH, Ont., Feb. 4.—A very pleasant evening was enjoyed on Monday in the basement of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, when the Y.P.A. held their second social evening. A large crowd was present and the following programme given.

Recitation: "When I Was Young." Doris Richards.

Reading: "Putting on the Brakes," Miss Pearl Boyce.

Recitation: "The City Man's Dream of the Country." Jean Baker.

Recitation: "Jack Frost." Betty Meiklejohn.

A two minute speech was given by several members on "What Our Society Needs Most."

After the programme two contests, "Flower and Cake Contest" were enjoyed by all, and soon much merriment resounded.

Dainty refreshments were served by the younger members of the Society and a social hour enjoyed.

Entertained League.

The members of Y.P.A. of St. Paul's United Church entertained the League members of Morganston. The programme was given by the visitors and was very interesting. After the programme dainty refreshments were served.

HUDSONS BAY CO. GRANT BEFORE SUPREME COURT

To S ettle Whether Company Owns Minerals in Settlement Blocks.

OLD CHARTER.

Right To All Mines Was Given in Original Document of Transfer.

OTTAWA, Ont, Feb. 4.—(By Canadian Press).—Before the Supreme Court of Canada within the next few weeks a faded old grant of Canada's Northland will come or interpretation. It dates ut to the gay days of the Restoration in England. It is the instrument under which Charles the Second granted to that dashing cavalier Prince Rupert and his company of gentlemen adventurers (which became the Hudson's Bay Company) such sweeping powers in and around Hudson's Bay. They had right to govern and administer. They had sole rights of trade. They had the Royalty of the Seas. They had....and here lies the point for the Supreme Court to decide.... "all mines royal, as well discovered as not discovered of gold, silver gems and precious stones, to be found or discovered within the territories, limits and places aforesaid." And the Company was granted the lands themselves to be held, as the old formula has it "as of our Manor of East Greenwich in our County of Kent in free and common soccage and not in capite or by Knight's service; yielding and paying yearly to us, our Heirs and Successors for the same, two Elks and two Black Beavers whensoever, and as often as we, our Heirs and Successors, shall happen to enter into said countries, territories and regions hereby granted."

Now one year after Canada became a Dominion, an Act was passed which provided for the takin over by Canada of Rupert's Land as the great Hudson Bay territory had come to be known. And in the following year, the Hudson Bay Company surrendered its rights of government "and other rights, privileges, liberties, franchises, powers and authorities" granted by its charter. It was provided that the company, in return, would:

Retain all its posts and stations in Rupert's Land, or any other part of British North America

The company was empowered, within twelve months after the surrender to select a lock of land adjoining each of their posts, in accordance with a schedule setting out the acreage.

Within fifty years after the surrender, to claim one-twentieth part of land set out for settlement. Now comes the point for the Supreme Court to decide, and it is two-fold: When the Hudson's Bay Company surrendered its right of government in Rupert's Land did it retain ownership of the minerals in the blocks of land which it retained about its posts? Further, when the Hudson Bay Company selected its one-twentieth of settlement land did it assume with that land, ownership of any precious metals therein?

These are the questions for the Supreme Court to decide. The Government of Canada asserts that the company, having surrendered its charter in Rupert's land, it surrendered any rights to precious metals, that ownership of the precious metals was not granted with the settlement land. The company on the other hand claims ownership of the precious metals. The Surrender, it asserts, conveys to the Crown the "land granted." But does not contain apt words to convey the "mines royal."

Three hundred photographs a second has been taken by M. Nogues a French inventor who is able to record the flight of a bullet from a gun.

ECZEMA ENDED

Madame A. Lariviere of Fall River, Mass., suffered with eczema for three years, and had treatment from several doctors, all of whom gave up the case. "Finally," she says, "I went to a specialist, which cost me another $20, but I was no better.

"A friend advised me to try Zam-Buk, which I did, and for which I have ever since been thankful. I very soon felt some relief, and perseverance with Zam-Buk completely rid me of the disease."

SEVERE CUT HEALED

Mr. C. Oakley of Saskatoon, who sustained a terrible cut on his leg, says: "Had I known of Zam-Buk when the accident occurred, I could have saved myself a $40 doctor's bill! A doctor sewed up the cut and attended me for five weeks, but the wound did not heal, and he advised me to go into a hospital.

"I objected, however, and used Zam-Buk instead, and in two weeks' time was back at work."

SAVED OPERATION

"Father developed a painful sore on his face," writes Miss N. Lewis of Silver Lake, Oregon. "Numerous remedies and treatment from several doctors failed to heal it, and the doctor advised an operation. Someone advised him to first try Zam-Buk. A few applications brought relief, and continued use of Zam-Buk entirely healed the sore, saving father from an operation."

Zam-Buk is best for eczema, ringworm, salt rheum, boils, pimples, ulcers, abscesses, blood-poisoning, piles, cuts, bruises, burns and scalds. All dealers 50c box.

Major League to Close One Week Later in 1927 Season

SCHEDULE DRAWN FOR MAJOR LEAGUE

Will Open on Tuesday, April 12 and Close Sunday, Oct. 2.

JOINT MEETING.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4 (Canadian Press)—The major league baseball season will open on Tuesday, April 12, and close on Sunday, Oct. 2, one week later than last year, as a result of agreement reched yesterday by the joint schedule committee of the American and National Leagues.

The schedules, drafted after a conference here lasting three and a half days, are subject to the approval of the two leagues at their midwinter meetings next week in New York, but this is expected to be merely a formality.

The later closing principle was approved by the club owners last December and also has the endorsement of Commissioner Landis. It was agreed upon because of the difficulties encountered last year in trying to complete the playing schedules earlier.

The National League's opening games were announced as follows by President John A. Heydler: Brooklyn at Boston, New York at Philadelphia, Pittsburgh at Cincinnati and St. Louis at Chicago.

It is understood the American League openers will be Philadelphia at New York, Boston at Washington, Detroit at Cleveland and Chicago at St. Louis.

MAROONS BLANK CHICAGO HAWKS

Secure First Win Over Westerners—St. Pats Play Scoreless Draw.

WITH AMERICANS.

MONTREAL, Feb. 4.—Montrea Maroons kept within shooting distance of a play-off berth in the Canadian section of the National Hockey League when they blanked the Chicago Black Hawks, 3 to 0 here last night. The first win of the season for the Maroons ovet the western team.

It was a fairly fast game and one which was cleanly played. The champions played the puck instead of the man, and the result was apparent in their improved form on attack.

The winners scored twice in the middle session and one in the final period, Phillips, Seibert and Oatman counting. All goals came on combination rushes. Three times, Montreal beat Lehman but the tallies were not allowed, off-sides being ruled against them.

Chicago missed the speedy George Hay on the forward line. Irvin and McVeigh were within inches of scoring on several occasions. Dye drilled in his usual quota of fast ones, but the league's leading scorer could not outguess the Maroon goalie.

St. Pats 0, Americans 0

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—The New York Americans and Toronto St. Pats had to be content with a point apiece in their National Hockey League game here last night, the teams battling through eighty minutes of play to a scoreless draw. The game on the whole was a listless encounter, with only periodical flashes of fast play to enliven proceedings. The rival goalies, however, had plenty of work and provided the feature of the game.

The three regulation periods saw the teams battle on practically even terms, twelve penalties during the sixty minutes providing most of the action. If anything, the locals held a slight edge, but their advantage was not marked enough to give them even one goal. The visiting Irish looked better during the extra session, dangerous rushes by Keeling and Day giving Forbes plenty of trouble.

Bill Carson, regular Toronto centre, wrenched his knee in the third session and did not play in the extra period. About six thousand attended the game.

MARLBOROS WIN FROM PADDLERS

Beat T. C. C. 6-2 and Draw Closer to Petes in Race.

UNDERWOOD STARS.

TORONTO, Feb. 4.—Marlboros drew to within one point of Peterboro in the grind for second place in Senior O.H.A. group No. 2 by defeating Toronto Canoe Club 6 to 2 at the Arena Gardens last night. The game was cleanly played from start to finish, not a penalty being given, and speed and clever stickhandling proved the feature of one of the smartest hockey displays of the season. The Marlboros carried their opponents along at a stiff pace in the first period, which was scoreless and then went out in the last two chukkers and won the contest in a decisive manner.

Combination, accurate shooting and consistent back-checking were the deciding factors in the Marlboros' victory. Primeau, Macpherson, Boyd, Heintzman and Frost uncovered some nifty passing in their thrusts on the Red Ringers' goal, the puck repeatedly being handled by three players before the shot was made. Johnny MacPherson had the range of the Canoe Club cage and drilled in two goals from the rail, and Jim Crompton also scored on a drive from just outside the blue line.

Dukes Outlast Opponents.

Marlboros outlasted their opponents, being all over the red and black clad team in the final half of the last period. The thirty-mmute overtime game the Canoe Club played with Peterboro earlier in the week apparently took its toll, and at the finish Reg. Mills was the only player on the losing team that had much fight left.

Marlboros took to the ice without Bert Hedges, good defence player, but Coach Frank Selke dropped a real star over the fence in Howard Underwood, last season with Markham juniors. Underwood played a spectacular and effective game, being a mighty power defensively and a very dangerous rusher. His drive through the centre for his team's third goal in the second period was a masterly effort.

Breaking up a dangerous rush launched by Art Smith, Underwood broke fast, and leaving Smithy far in the rear, stick-handled his way through to trick Baker out of position and flip the rubber into the open net. Underwood went from end to end on other sparkling dashes, only to be turned back by Baker, and on his showing is likely to become a fixture on the Dukes' defence.

MORE TEAMS GO INTO DISCARD CUP REPLAYS

Hull City and Everton Fail To Break Second Game Deadlock.

WEST HAM BLANKED.

Wanderers Maintain Lead of Three Goals in First.

TORONTO, Feb. 4 — Two more first division aspirants to cup honors went into the discard in Wednesday's third round replays and the iron of it all from a "higher-up's feelings is that one succumbed to a third division team and the other to a so-called second rater. One feature of the five replays staged on Wednesday is that four of the clubs that failed away at the week-end, came through on their own ground, while Hull City and Everton, who played to a one-all draw at Hull, failed to break their deadlock at Goodison Park, the score being two-all at the finish of the extra time. The defeat West Ham United at Brentford must have been particularly galling to the Londoners, who were certain the "Hammers," after beating 'Spurs would account for the southern section outfit, whose passage into the third round had not been particularly hazardous, Clapton (not the Orient), Gillingham and Oldham Athletic being their victims. The Brentford players, however, proved invincible on their own ground, and blanked West Ham to the tune of 2-0.

Everton Lucky.

Arsenal, at home this time to Port Vale, had a closer call than most folks anticipated, the odd goal deciding the issue, and by the same margin Wednesday, who missed their opportunity at Hillsborough ground on Saturday succumbed to South Shields. Leeds United, who vanquished Sunderland and then held Bolton Wanderers to a scoreless draw at Elland road, failed miserably in Wednesday's replay and went down to a 3-0 defeat. Wanderers were brilliant and found it easy to maintain their lead of three goals secured in the first period. Everton, two goals up at half time, found Hull City a much improved team in the second period and were lucky to escape defeat, Guyan shooting wide from close range when he only had Hardy to beat during the extra session. The replays resulted as follows:

Brentford 2, W. Ham. United 0.
Arsenal 1, Portvale 0.
Bolton Wander. 3, Leeds United 0.
South Shields 1, The Wednesday 0
xEverton 2, Hull 2.
xAfter extra time.

When Blackburn Rovers defeated Sunderland by the Wearside, Rovers completed a total of 100 goals scored by the team of to-day and its predecessors against the Rokerites.

The clubs have met continuously in the first division of the league since 1890, so that Rovers' annual bag at the expense of Sunderland averaged about three—not much, but how many clubs can boast of a similar achievement!

MAKES COMEBACK

Mike McTigue, former light-heavyweight champion, made a remarkable comeback last week in New York when he knocked Paul Berlenbach out in four rounds. Throwing caution to the winds, McTigue, heretofore a cautious fighter, although a superlative boxer, ripped into Berlenbach from the tap of the opening gong. Long, over-hand rights and tearing uppercuts smashed against Berlenbach's chin as the 35-year-old veteran craftily blocked every attempt of his opponent to score with his terrific left hook.

BRISTLING BATTLES of BARE FIST DAYS

(MY LIFE STORY)

by Jack McAuliffe

(Copyright, 1927, NEA Service, Inc.)

I told you how I had Jimmy Carroll, the man who taught La Blanche the pivot punch that beat my friend Jack Dempsey, on the floor. The referee gave him every possible advantage through the fight both on breaks and counts on knockdowns. Then came the boomerang and the work of the referee instead of helping Carroll really helped me.

Carroll rushed me at the beginning of the 47th round. It gave me a good shot at his jaw. I called on the old right and let her go. It caught him smack on the whiskers just as he was coming in. He flopped to the floor with a loud bang and I turned to my corner, feeling sure he wouldn't get up. Jack Dempsey, my second, shouted at me and I turned around again.

Carroll started to get up at the count of seven and Cook, the C.A.C. referee, stepped close to me on the right side. I knew that he was illegally trying to block my right hand and I laughed to myself when I thought of the great favor he was doing for me because my right was sore as a boil. When Carroll got to his feet wobbily, Cook crowded me in close to my right side. La Blanche and other of Carroll's seconds kept yelling at him to "Watch the right—watch the right!" With the referee jamming me back and Carroll gazing at my hampered right I had the opportunity of the fight—I let my left go hard as I could.

Wham—and Carroll dropped as if he were shot.

He was through. And do you know, I can still see that terribly disappointed look on Referee Cook's pan to this day.

After this fight at Frisco I came east and was matched against Austin Gibbons, a Paterson fighter who had been trailing me for a year. He was a wow of a fighter and I had been dodging him because he belonged to a gang of gun-fighters and I needed every advantage when I met him.

We met at a club, the Granite A. C., in Hoboken, to talk terms over. Gibbons came with his brother Jim, a big tough guy who was really tough. When Jim took off his coat he turned around purposely and showed the heels of two gats sticking out of his hip pockets.

"You'll shoot yourself in the heel if you don't look out," I taunted him. He snarled and walked over to me.

Note.—In the next chapter McAuliffe tells of his fight with the gun-fighters' idol and how they jobbed him and gave him heavy pillows and his opponent light gloves.

OFFERS THREE HEAVY BOUTS

Rickard Lays Matches For Contenders of Tunney's Heavyweight Title.

WITHIN MONTH.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4.—Four heavy weight elimination matches within a period of a month were the fistic offerings Tex Rickard laid before the sport fans of New York yesterday. Pairings now are complete for bouts between all of the recognized contenders for Gene Tunney's heavyweight title, to take place in Madison Square Garden, February 7 and March 3. The last match on the pretentious card was completed Wednesday when Jack Sharkey, of Boston, conqueror of Harry Wills, came to terms for a 15-round bout with Mike McTigue in the Garden, March 3.

The first of the string brings together Young Stribling, of Atlanta, Ga., and Eddie Huffman, of Los Angeles, for 10 rounds. On Feb. 18, Jack Delaney, of Bridgeport, Conn., champion of the light-heavyweights, tackles Jim Maloney, of Boston, the heavy-fisted destroyer of three foreign threats already during the present indoor campaign.

The European champion, Poulino Uzcudun, of Spain, will meet Knute Hansen, of Wisconsin, over the ten-round route on February 23.

Then Dempsey.

Among the winners of this series Rickard expects to find material for two big outdoor shows in the Yankee Stadium with the former champion, Jack Dempsey, a possible participant in one of the matches. From these last fights will be found the challenger to meet Tunney next September.

With the exception of Jack Delaney, who already has established himself as a heavyweight contender, the indoor series will bring into heavyweight prominence three men who have campaigned chiefly in the lighter class. Outstanding among these is Mike McTigue, who bowled over Paul Berlenbach with a surprising display of power in the Garden last week. Young Stribling, absent from major competition for some time, has grown into a full-fledged heavyweight. Eddie Huffman has ranged chiefly in the light-heavyweight ranks.

Sharkey's objections to a McTigue match were swept aside Wednesday when the proposed bout was changed from a 10 to 15-round affair. The Boston battler had previously considered McTigue, who scales but 170 pounds, "too small" an opponent.

HORNSBY MUST SELL HIS STOCK

If Not, He Will Lose His Berth With the New York Giants.

DISCUSS MATTER.

NEW YORK, Feb. 4. — Rogers Hornsby may prefer to remain a director of the St. Louis Cardinals and draw dividends for 1,167 shares of stock he owns in the club, but in doing so he will lose a good job as captain and second baseman of the New York Giants at $40,000 a year. This was the dictum of President Charles A. Stoneham, of the Giants, when informed that the former Card manager, traded to New York for Frankie Frisch and Jimmy Ring, had been re-elected a director of the St. Louis club.

"If Hornsby stays as a club official in St. Louis, he won't be allowed to play in a New York uniform, Mr. Stoneham said. That has been so ruled by President Heydler, of the National League, and, of course, the New York club will observe the ruling.

While reiterating that "there wasn't a chance of calling the deal off," Mr. Stoneham said that Hornsby would be in New York late this week to attend the annual baseball writers' dinner here. "We will have a talk with him then," he concluded.

BURNBRAE WINS.

Defeats Stockdale Team at Hoard's Rink By Score of 3-2.

BURNBRAE, Feb. 4.—The open-air rink at Hoards' is going strong again this winter and many an interesting game of hockey is being played there. On Tuesday evening the Stockdale boys played at the Hoards' rink and while they put up a strong fight the local team finished victors by a 3 to 2 score. The Hoards' team lined up as follows: Goal, Charles Hoard; defence, Stanley Little and Oscar Rannie; centre, Sam Hobbs; wings, Fred Jones and Frank Heagle; subs., Carman Gunning, Will Jeffs and Harold Gunning.

These friendly encounters with Stockdale are an annual event and on Thursday evening of next week the Hoards' boys will play Stockdale again at the Frankford rink.

The Burnbrae and Menie fans still continue to crowd the Campbellford Arena when the local team plays there. Although the Menie team is in the midst of a bad slump at present, there can be no complaint of non-support against the local hockey fans.

LIVELY DEBATE

er if he could produce any precedent for a motion to expunge remarks of counsel from the records. Counsel in reply questioned if a similar case had ever arisen before.

The Board suggested that if the newspaper report, accuracy of which Mr. Fraser accepted were spread on the record alongside of Mr. McGeer's comments. The object sought of preventing any misunderstanding of Sir Henry Thornton's remarks would be secured. This was acted upon and the matter was allowed to rest there.

BEST WINS ONE CUP AT OSHAWA

Captures McLaughlin Trophy But Loses Out in Sykes Final.

HAS GOOD RECORD.

OSHAWA, Feb. 4. — Special. — The Oshawa curling club's three day open bonspiel was concluded in the early hours of this morning with the Peterboro curlers winning the McLaughlin trophy in the main event, runners up in the second competition for the Albert Sykes' memorial trophy, and winners of the W. F. Eaton trophy in the consolation. In the first competition for the McLaughlin trophy, R. P. Best and his quartette won five straight games to carry off the silverware, while in the second competition he registered four straights to reach the finals, when he was defeated in the last game of the 'spiel by W. A. Coad's Oshawa rink. In the ten games played only once did the Best combination allow their opponents to hang up double figures in the score sheet and their total points for the bonspiel reached 129 while their opponents' total was 75.

The F. C. Weber Peterboro rink, after losing their first games in the McLaughlin and Albert Sykes' memorial competitions, dropped into the Consolation event for the W. F. Eaton Trophy, and by winning three straight games captured the trophy and first prizes. A complete record of the four Peterboro rinks at the Oshawa bonspiel is as follows:

LINDSAY HERE ON WEDNESDAY

Scugog Team Will Meet Havelock in Intermediate O.H.A. Game.

TWO STRONG TEAMS.

Havelock Intermediates, unable to play their home game with Lindsay in the O.H.A. series on their own rink, will be here with their supporters on Wednesday, when they play the second game of the round at Brock Street Rink. Lindsay has a strong team, and the calibre of hockey played is sure to be good. The Peterborough fans know both teams and, with large squads of supporters coming along from both places for the match, plenty of excitement is promised all those who attend.

On Wednesday last the Scugog team defeated the Senior Petes in an exhibition game, which showed that the rivals of Peterborough in "the good old days" are still a formidable outfit. Havelock's team has been noted through the eastern townships for years, and many of the players are familiar to local fans. Last year they came to Peterborough and defeated the Intermediates by a large score and showed high class hockey, giving Oshawa, Ontario semi-finalist, a hard battle in the next round.

DOUBLE TAXES TO HIT TENNIS STAR

French Government Will Collect $40,000 Income Tax From Lenglen.

PARIS, Feb. 4 (U.P.). — The French Government was preparing yesterday to collect $40,000 in income tax from Suzanne Lenglen, French tennis star, provided, of course, that she makes her reported profit of $100,000 from professional tennis matches in the United States.

Mlle. Lenglen, who has been touring the United States under C. C. Pyle, will have to meet the large bill under the French law, although she may have to pay still more to American tax collectors.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 4 (U.P.).—Suzanne Lenglen probably will have to pay American as well as French income taxes on her professional tennis earnings in this country last year, treasury officials said yesterday. Income of aliens in this country is subject subject to the same tax rates as income of citizens.

If Suzanne earned $100,000 last year, as reported, she may have to pay from $10,000 to $15,000 to Uncle Sam. That, in addition to the reported $40,000 French levy, would take from her more than one-half of the total revenue of her racquet.

PETES MUST WIN TO HOLD LEAD ON MARLBOROS

Defeat By N. Toronto To-night Would Be Disastrous.

GREAT ICE.

Cold Dip Ensures Perfect Conditions For Senior Game.

Marlboros, by defeating Toronto Canoe Club last night are only one point behind the Petes for second place, which makes it necessary for Eddie Wright's crew to grab off to-night's game to hold their position. A loss would put them behind Marlboros and tie would leave the two teams on an even footing, so that the Petes have to put away North Toronto to keep in front of the flying Marlboros.

The sudden change in the weather has provided fast ice conditions for to-night's clash and everything is set for a peppery battle.

Manager Jimmy McFayden of North Toronto, promises a line-up that will give the Petes plenty of opposition and the game should provide an interesting evening for a big crowd of fans.

Harry Batstone will handle the bell and get the teams away at 8.30 o'clock.

Monday night will see another great battle, when Toronto Canoe Club are the Petes' opposition, and next Friday the Marlboros play the last scheduled game on local ice. Second place will hinge on the result of the three games commencing with to-night's fixture, and the Petes will likely have to win all three to qualify for the play-off.

The group standing is as follows:

	W	L	T	Pts.
U. of T. Grads	8	0	0	16
Peterborough	4	3	1	9
Marlboros	4	4	0	8
T. C. C.	2	5	1	5
N. Toronto	1	7	0	2

ALTERATIONS TO CHURCH INTERIOR

Larger Platform Built at Bethany Tabernacle—Seats Re-arranged.

In preparation for a series of meetings to be held this month a number of changes have been made to the interior of Bethany Tabernacle. The platform has been extended right across the front of the church providing room for an orchestra and a chorus of young people. The seating has been rearranged and improved lights are being installed.

From February 15 to February 20 there will be a missionary convention, Mr. A. Clarke, pioneer missionary of the Amazon Valley, South America, and a number of other prominent speakers will take part.

On February 23, the Rev. and Mrs. E. B. Fitch of Ottawa will open a series of meetings, which will end on March 4. Mr. Fitch is pastor of a large tabernacle in Ottawa and has been doing good work in that city.

NOTICE.

The men of the Sacred Heart Church will receive Holy Communion in a body at the 8 o'clock Mass Sunday.

A PLEASING WINDOW.
Market-goers last Saturday morning were attracted by a very pleasing fish display presented by G. A. Pringle and Son's Charlotte Street window. This window was entirely devoted to fish alone, and caused many favorable comments by the passing crowds.
In conversation with The Examiner, Mr. Pringle stated it was his intention to devote this window on Saturday mornings to fish alone, handling a big variety in a sanitary manner, and making special prices to those who wish to benefit by the cash-and-carry plan.
This window will be on display Friday evenings and Saturday mornings only, and no doubt will attract a lot of attention. A

EATON TROPHY HERE BEFORE

F. C. Weber Third Skip To Bring Cup to Peterborough Club.

OFFERED 16 YEARS.

The W. F. Eaton trophy, which was won by F. C. Weber and his Peterborough rink at the Oshawa bonspiel yesterday, has been won by the Peterborough Curling Club twice before. The cup is a fine large silver one, standing about two feet high, and is supported on its base by four brooms. On the top of the cup is the image of a typical Scotch curler.

In 1912, the first year that the cup was competed for, it was won by a Peterborough rink which was skipped by R. M. Waddell, and in 1913 it came again to the Peterborough Curling Club.

The rink in 1912 was composed of J. W. Brightman lead, A. R. Moore second, G. H. Giroux vice-skip, and R. M. Waddell skip. In 1913 the ring was J. W. Brightman lead. James Skinner second, R. M. Waddell vice-skip, and G. H. Giroux skip.

Since 1913 the cup has been the property of Lindsay '14, Stouffville in '15, Toronto Aberdeen in '16, Toronto Queen City in '19, Oshawa in '20 and '22, Toronto Granites '23, Agincourt in '24, and Claremont in '25.

EMBARGO URGED UPON EXPORT QUEBEC WOOD

Asbestos Also Goes into the United States in the Raw State.

QUEBEC ASSEMBLY.

Point To Ontario as Example Set For Power Development.

QUEBEC, Feb. 5 (Canadian Press).—The Quebec Legislative Assembly Thursday ended the budget debate, and went into supply. The debate was wound up by Hon. Athanase David, Provincial Secretary, who followed Alfred Duranleau, Conservative, Laurier, Montreal. Mr. Duranleau criticized the Government because wood in the raw state was shipped from Quebec to the United States, insisting that while this was a Federal matter, Premier Taschereau should have urged upon his friends at Ottawa that there should be an embargo on such export. He objected, too, that asbestos in its raw state also went to the United States. Mr. Duranleau declared the Liberal governments had practically given away the water powers of the province, and that the people of the province will be burdened because of this.

Points to Ontario.

"Ontario has popularized electric energy," said Mr. Duranleau. "The administrators of Ontario have understood that the natural resources of the province should be placed at the disposal of the mass of the people, and those who go to Ontario can see little factories in all sections of the province supplied by electric power. Even the farmers are supplied in this way, and this at an insignificant cost, at a price of one-third what it costs in Quebec. That is one of the main reasons why production in Ontario is so much greater than in Quebec. Has the Government thought of what Ontario has done in this matter? Have they studied the situation on the spot? The Premier should take heed that the people of Ontario are men of progress, and especially so in regard to industry. They are far in advance of Quebec as regards the well-conceived interests of the people."

For Future Return.

Hon. Mr. David said that with respect to water powers, governments should not think of immediate results nor of what revenue flowed into the coffers of the province, adding:

"A water power is not sold to secure some money for a government, but to provide for a future return for the province. The development of Lake St. John will give the province an annual permanent revenue of $300,000, and this subject to revision. What does the original amount meant to the province if for fifty years and more it will receive $300,000 a year? In the development of electrical energy it is not the immediate return to the Government which should be considered, but the prospective return that we must seek for. Also, it is not only a matter of Government revenue."

Worker Falls 100 Feet Escapes With His Life

ALLANTOWN, Pa., Feb. 5 (United Press).—Thrown by a snapping cable from the top of a 100-foot concrete pouring tower, Edwin Brightwell, a steel worker, was saved from death yesterday when he landed feet foremost in a concrete hoisting bucket and fell with the bucket to the ground.

The bucket was suspended 20 feet below Brightwell, who was rigging a new running cable for it. As Brightwell fell, the bucket also started its descent, but with sufficient delay to allow the worker to fall into it.

The bucket was demolished at the bottom of the shaft. Brightwell, badly bruised and cut, was taken to the hospital.

CANADA'S TRADE SUCCESSFULLY PAST LEAN YEARS

Report on Foreign Trade of Dominion Shows Record Year.

IMPORTS UP.

Increased Buying Power of Canadians Cuts Favorable Trade Balance.

OTTAWA, Feb. 5. Canadian Press—The physical volume of both imports and exports of Canada, in 1926, as greater than for any other year in her history, according to an analysis of the foreign trade of the Dominion as reported by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The report says the record indicates that the Dominion successfully passed through the post was liquidation period. A gradual improvement in practically every phase of industrial and commercial activities of the country is reported.

Canada's export trade since 1921 has expanded more rapidly than her import trade, and as a result there has been a steadily increasing favorable trade balance. This reflects the greater purchasing power of British and foreign countries, due chiefly to greater stability and increased production in the Dominion. During the past 12 months, however, exports have made practically no gains, while imports, due to the Dominion's, increased buying power, have increased more than a hundred and eighteen millions, thus reducing by that amount the favorable trade balance, which amounted in 1925 to three hunderd and ninety-three million, and last year it was down to two hundred and seventy five million.

This change of situation has been gradually developing during the past few months.

HOW TO MAKE ONE-EGG CAKE

Recipe in Demand Since Exhibition in Examiner Window.

MANY REQUESTS.

Since The Examiner's announcement early this week of the new Quaker Cake Flour package being offered by The Quaker Oats Company and since the appearance in The Examiner windows of cakes baked from this product, numerous requests have reached this office as well as the office of The Quaker Oats Company for the recipe of the One-Egg Cake exhibited.

The Examiner is therefore very pleased to print this recipe as follows:

One-Egg Cake.

¼ cup Butter.
½ cup Sugar.
1 Egg.
½ cup Milk.
1 cup Quaker Cake Flour.
¼ teaspoon Salt.
½ teaspoon Vanilla.
2 teaspoons Baking Powder.

Method:

1. Cream butter thoroughly.
2. Add sugar gradually.
3. Add yolk of egg, well beaten.
4. Add milk alternately with flour.
5. Add salt, vanilla and white of egg, stiffly beaten; beat lightly.
6. Sift baking powder over mixture; beat it quickly; pour into well-greased baking pan.
7. Bake in moderate oven about 35 minutes, temperature 350 deg. to 375 deg. F.

This amount makes a cake about 8 inches square.

For a layer cake make twice the quantity.

ADVERSE CONDITIONS INCREASE UNDER HYDRO SAYS R. R. HALL

Peterborough Is Facing a Condition and Not a Theory.

"WATER LOGGED."

Remedy For High Prices Is In Hands of People of City.

This City is confronted with a condition and not a theory.

During this last ten years the Hydro Worshippers have been spinning fine-spun theories regarding the wonderful advantages this City would derive from the distribution of electric power under the supervision of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

This City is now confronted with conditions that have been brought about by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission's system of distribution and we now find that under its operation the wholesale cost of power to this City has increased from $17.00 per h.p. to $28.12 per h.p.

The sooner this City gives up these theories and faces real conditions the better it will be for its future growth and prosperity, because adverse conditions under the Hydro-Electric Power Commission are going to increase and its fine spun theories are going to diminish to the vanishing point. This result was clearly inevitable.

Excessive Overhead System—"Water Logged"

According to the Hydro Commission's report for the year ending the 31st October, 1925, the total peak load in the Central Ontario and Trent System amounted to 26,500 h.p. and the cost of operating and maintaining generating plants, transmission lines, stations, rural power systems, etc., etc., including rentals of water power and the proportion of administrative expenses chargeable to the operation of the power department amounted to the enormous sum of $504,355,91 in one single year. That is equivalent to approximately $19.00 per h.p. and in addition to that the interest charges upon the capital investment have to be paid along with provision for renewals of generating plants, lines, stations, rural power systems, etc., all of which amounts to an additional yearly charge of $600,000.00.

It is perfectly plain that any power distribution system, that is so encumbered and "water logged" can not produce cheap power even though it is sold as "power at cost."

The power users and light consumers of this City may yet turn with impatience from Hydro-Electric theories and face real conditions and seek for the proper remedy which is in our hands.

Develop Waters to the North

But what is the remedy? Fortunately for us Dams 4 and 5 are undeveloped and under one head are capable of developing within 5% of as much power as is now developed at the Quaker Oats Dam. Burleigh Falls is also undeveloped and is capable of developing as much power as can be produced at Dams 4 and 5. From these two sources can be obtained all the power that Peterborough now consumes and in addition to that there would, under normal conditions, be 1,500 h.p. to sell to the Hydro-Electric Power Commission at a considerable profit and until new industries would require it.

City Council's Part

Under the circumstances, therefore, the City Council would be well advised to at once engage a qualified and independent engineer to make a report upon the cost of developing power at Burleigh Falls and at Dams 4 and 5 on the basis of the Dominion Government constructing one single lock connecting Dams 4 and 5 and building a new lock at Burleigh Falls to take advantage of the increased head which would be obtained by utilizing the existing dam and doing

ON THE MARKET.

Butter and Eggs Scarce at 43 and 48 Cents.

Butter and eggs were fairly scarce on the farmers' market this morning. Butter sold for 43 to 45 cents a pound, and eggs from 48 to 50 cents a dozen. Chickens were 32 and 33 cents a pound, and hens 25 cents. Honey was 65 cents in 5-lb. pails.

On the open market, the frigid weather kept the supplies down to meat and wood. Beef was selling at 10 and 13 cents a pound, pork at 18 and 20 cents, and lamb at 23 and 28 cents, for front and hind quarters. Pigs heads were 65 cents, and beef hearts 35 and 40 cents apiece.

Walks 141 Miles 40½ Hrs. Hike Feature Of Carnival

MANCHESTER, N.H., Feb. 5 (United Press)—A 141 mile snow shoe hike was completed to-day when Wilfred Blais arrived here from his Lewiston, Maine, home. Blais' time was approximatelyy 40 1-2 hours. During the journey Blais had no sleep. He stopped every six hours, however, for rest and refreshments. He was in fair condition when he arrived here but hastily went to bed.

The hike was a feature of the two day carnival of the Canadian and American Snow Shoe Unions which opened here today. A brass band met Blais on the outskirts of the city and escorted him to a hotel.

SITUATION IN CHINA

MARINES STAY ON SHIPS.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5. — No more United States marines are to be landed at Shanghai until or unless it appears that American lives are in immediate danger. Assurances that while it was deemed necessary as a precaution to have an adequate force at hand, the marines would be kept aboard the naval ships, was made to Minister Sze when he asked at the State Department what the purpose was for the movement of additional war vessels and marines towards Shanghai.

JAPS SEND MARINES.

TOKIO, Feb. 5.—(United Press.)—The Admiralty to-day ordered 300 marines to embark on the cruiser Tenryu and four destroyers for Sasebo, naval port on the west coast of the Island of Kiiushu.

The vessels will be prepared to sail for Shanghai at brief notice.

McMURRAY MEETS CHANG.

PEKING, Feb. 5.— (United Press.)—John A. Van MacMurray, American Minister to Peking, conferred here to-day with Marshal Chang Tso-Lin, Northern war lord, presumably on the situation at Shanghai, where 4,000 Americans are now massed. Marshal Chang is one of the three Northern war lords who formed a triple alliance to repulse the Cantonese attack rolling upon Shanghai from the south.

WOULD NEUTRALIZE ZONE.

TOKIO, Feb. 5.—(United Press.)—Private advices from Peking today said that the American ambassador, John A. Van MacMurray, had put before Marshal Chang Tso-Lin a proposal sponsored by Frank B. Kellogg, American Secretary of State. This proposal, it was understood, would have Marshal Chang and General Chiang Kai-Shek neutralize the Shanghai zone.

FIVE CITIZENS FAIL TO STOP

Fine For Rushing a "Through Street" Is Imposed.

CHIEF TO ACT.

Five citizens were fined this morning in police court for neglecting to stop before entering a through street, and various other infractions of the Highways Traffic Act.

Chief of Police Samuel Newhall declared to The Examiner that the law would have to be obeyed. "If they won't obey it voluntarily I intend to put out plain clothes men at the various corners in order that the people who are obeying the law will be protected," he declared.

Many complaints had been received regarding the corner at Hunter and Water Streets especially around noon, and at 5 o'clock, with the result that there will be a man stationed there for the purpose of getting offenders.

State Department Asks Exemption For Shanghai International Settlement.

WASHINGTON, Feb 5 (Canadian Press) — Exemption of the Shanghai inter-national settlement from the theatre of hostilities in the Chinese civil war has been proposed to Cantonese and Peking authorities by United States. The state department refused today to disclose details of the project which it has formulated for the protection of United States and other foreign nationals in Shanghai.

Nine Youths Convicted On Charge Of Manslaughter For Killing Man In Hallowe'en Brawl At Chicago

CHICAGO, Feb. 5 (A.P.).—Nine youths from 17 to 19 years were convicted of manslaughter last night by a jury which tried them on a charge of killing Stanley Ciesla in a Hallowe'en brawl last year. The verdict carries a sentence of from one year to life imprisonment.

The State did not insist on the death penalty. It maintained the youths robbed and beat Ciesla, who was married and the father of two children. The defence asserted that Ciesla was killed when he fell in a street fight.

Several days were spent in arguing over confessions the police obtained from seven of the nine defendants, the boys declaring they were beaten and threatened with death before they confessed. The confessions finally were admitted. The jury deliberated more than three hours.

It was the largest number of defendants ever tried at one time for murder in Chicago. The youths showed little emotion at the verdict, one of them remarking that it was "better than I expected." A motion for a new trial will be argued later.

Gangster Sues Detective For Slanderous Articles

CHICAGO, Feb. 5. — Canadian Press. — Joe Saltis, a gang leader, seeks one hundred thousand dollars damages for alleged slander from John Stege, captain of detectives, setting forth that his "good name, credit and reputation" had been injured in articles published under Stege's name.

TWO LIVES LOST IN CHURCH FIRE

Caretaker and Husband Burned To Death at Toledo.

WOMAN HURT.

TOLEDO, Feb. 5 (Canadian Press) — Two persons were killed and a third seriously injured early to-day in an explosion and fire that destroyed the First Congregational Church and adjacent parish property.

The dead are Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Wilt. Mrs. Wilt was caretaker of the church. Mrs. Mary Fitzgerald, assistant caretaker, was taken to the hospital.

The cause of the explosion was not definitely determined. The blast, of terrific force, hurled the door and window frames of the church hundreds of feet and broke windows in homes blocks from the scene.

EX-MAYOR CHARGED WITH INTERFERING

Re-organization of London Fire Brigade Promised at Probe.

LONDON, Ont., Feb. 5. — The probe into the recent fire which destroyed the office building of the People's Loan and Savings Co., with the loss of the life of Helen Drake, brought out yesterday an announcement from Mayor Moore, that the brigade is to be reorganized and strengthened without delay. The hearing was also featured by a strenuous grilling of former Mayor G. A. Wenige for alleged interference with the efficiency of the department during the time he was Mayor.

Questioned in regard to statements made by the Chief that the interference of Mr. Wenige had undermined the discipline of the brigade, Mayor Moore stated that from the moment he assumed office he made it his policy to make the heads of departments responsible and to avoid interference of political or any other character. The personnel of the department is to be increased, he said, and when the reorganization is effected, care will be taken to see that competent men are selected to have charge of the various fire stations.

SERIOUS FIGHTING.

Numerous Casualties in Garrison Revolt in Portugal.

LISBON, Portugal, Feb. 5 (Canadian Press)—Serious fighting between government troops and revolutionaries is under way at Oporto, the principal city of Northern Portugal, where a revolt broke out in the garrison Thursday. There have been numerous casualties, despatches says.

Open Verdict In West Inquest March 25th Last.

BURNED IN HOME.

Enquiry at Warkworth on Wednesday, Feb. 16.

(Special Correspondence).

CAMPBELLFORD, Feb. 5. — After the lapse of nearly a year a second inquest has been ordered by the Provincial authorities into the deaths of Mrs. Stuart West and her son Floyd in the fire that destroyed their home at Warkworth on the night of March 9, 1926. This new investigation will be held at Warkworth on Wednesday, February 16, beginning at 11 a.m., with Dr. W. F. Loucks of town presiding as coroner.

Dr. Loucks informed The Examiner that he was acting upon instructions from Crown Attorney W. F. Kerr, K.C., of Cobourg, and that twenty-five witnesses had been summoned, some of whom were not called at the first enquiry on March 26 last. An open verdict was returned by the jury at that inquest. They found that the deaths of the mother and her little son of two years were "due to causes unknown on the evidence submitted."

The West home was on the outskirts of Warkworth, towards Norham. Stuart West is a veterinary Counsel For Mrs. Chaplin Resume Efforts To Collect Temporary Alimony.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 5. — Canadian Press. — Counsel for Leta Gray Chaplin, defeated in their attempt to have Charles Chaplin charged with failure to provide for his wife and two children, to-day took a new tack in their efforts to collect temporary alimony awarded the film comedian's wife pending the outcome of her suit for divorce.

Following the conference with the receivers of Chaplin's property in the divorce action, Mrs. Chaplin's lawyers yesterday announced that safety deposit boxes rented by the comedian in several Los Angeles and Holly wood banks, would be opened an an inventory of their contents made.

This will be done in accordance with a previous court order.

PRINCE OF WALES TO VISIT CANADA

King and Queen Unable To Attend Diamond Jubilee in July.

LONDON, Feb. 5. — Canadian Press. — The Prince of Wales will visit Canada for the Jubilee celebration, unless unforeseen circumstances prevent his departure, it was authoritatively stated to-day.

The Prince will spend some time on his ranch in Alberta, and also hopes to visit the United States again.

It was definitely stated this afternoon that there was no prospect of King George and Queen Mary accepting the invitation of the Dominion Government to visit Canada this year on the occasion of the Diamond Jubilee celebration of Confederation. The Canadian Press learns on good authority that it is considered quite impracticable for various reasons for Their Majesties to make the journey next summer. The Prince of Wales is expected to go to Canada for the Confederation celebrations.

Great Britain's Birth Rate In 1926 Lowest In World

LONDON, Feb 5 (United News)—Great Britain now has the world's lowest birth rate. Births in England and Wales during 1926 were only 17.8 per 1000 population. In France, with the next lowest rate, there were 20 births per 1000 and in Italy, perhaps in obedience to Mussolini's "more babies" edict, there were 21.3.

Fight With Big Wolf Reads Like Movie Thriller

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Feb. 5—From Brevort Township—sixty miles in from the American Soo—where, t'is said, the wolves are gnashing their gleaming teeth in insatiable hunger this year — there has fiftered a regular movie thriller of backwoods life.

Mrs. Robert Alexander was at work in kitchen of her bush country home, when a big timber wolf forced its way through the door. The woman screamed for help and defended herself as best she could. Alexander, her husband, who was near at hand, dashed in with rifle in hand, tore the brute off his wife, but missed a death shot as the animal scurried for cover. Mrs. Lottie Paige, from a neighboring home, saw the retreat of the animal, grabbed up her rifle, and stopped it in its tracks with a well-directed bullet.

Several persons vouch for the authenticity of the story, and incidentally report that Mrs. Alexander, save for a few scratches, was quite unhurt.

LADIES OVER 21 DEMAND VOTES

Manifesto Asks That Promise Be Given in King's Speech.

WHEN HOUSE OPENS.

LONDON, Feb. 5 (Canadian Press) — Demand that the King's speech opening parliament next Tuesday contain an unequivocal promise of votes for women over 21 is made in a manifesto issued by the "Equal Political Rights Campaign Committee." The manifesto is signed by representatives of thirty-five societies, mainly women's organizations. Among the prominent singatories are Lady Rhondda and Mrs. Margaret Wintringham, both former members of parliament.

WEDDING BELLS.

CONSTABLE—VINETTE

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized on Thursday, February 3rd, at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, when Miss Cecielia Vinette, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Vinette, became the bride of Mr. Horace Constable, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Constable. The young couple will reside at No. 10 Lisburn Street in the future.

McNEELY—CLARKE

A very quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized in All Saints' Church this morning at 10.30, when the Rev. J. D. Paterson united in marriage Annie Foreman, only daughter of Mrs. Martha L. Clarke, and Melville Garnet McNeely, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin F. McNeely, in the presence of the immediate relatives of the young couple.

The bride wore a very pretty gown of peach shade georgette with rhinestone and fringe trimming with hat to match, and silver shoes and stockings and carried a bouquet of roses and ferns. She wore the gift of the groom, a rope of pearls.

The young couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. William Clarke. After a dainty luncheon served at the Rose Cafe, Mr. and Mrs. McNeely left on the afternoon train for Toronto and points west, and on their return will reside in Peterborough.

G. Northey and C. McKague Are Declared Winners in Debate.

MANY SUBJECTS.

Song Choruses Provided By Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs.

Pupils of Toronto Normal School who are the guests of the Peterborough Normal School, divided the honors in the oratorical and debating contests which were held in the assembly hall of the local school last night.

The Peterborough team of debaters consisting of G. Northey and C. McKague were declared the winners over Harold Petch and F. Adsett of the Toronto school. The subject under debate was entitled "Resolved that the Township School Boards should take the place of the present Section School Boards in the Province of Ontario." The affirmative was taken by Toronto and the negative by Peterborough.

In the oratorical contest, Miss Masson of Toronto was declared the winner. Her subject was entitled "Music." Miss Ketcheson of Peterborough, who came second, chose as her subject "Canada in Verse and Story."

The judges in the oratorical contest were: V. R. Henry, A. S. Zavitz and the Rev. D. Wren. Those for the debate were Joseph Wearing, W. J. Pettit and J. Turnbull.

Duncan Walker, principal of the local school, presided during the evening. He extended a hearty welcome to the pupils of the sister Normal School and assured them that every endeavor would be made by the pupils here to reciprocate for the welcome they had received while visiting the Toronto pupils two weeks ago.

Dr. Edwards, who was in charge of the Toronto pupils, expressed his pleasure at renewing old acquaintances and voiced his appreciation of the fraternal feeling existing between the two schools. The school yells were delivered by both the Peterborough and Toronto pupils. Choruses were delivered by the boys' and the girls' glee clubs.

Miss G. England rendered a vocal solo. She was accompanied by Miss E. Latimer.

Harold Petch

Mr. Petch, speaking to the affirmative on the resolution, declared "In viewing our educational system we should remember that the Section School Boards have been in existence for eighty years."

There was a time when it showed to advantage, but that time is now past. Good roads, cars and trains have improved conditions, and today the people of Ontario spend double on luxuries to what they spend on education. The present system is one of the last relics of the past that remains, and the proposal is to change it to a more worthy standing. Statistics, he said, show that in Ontario there are 7 schools with one pupil, 13 schools with 2 pupils, and 3,130 with an average attendance of 20 pupils.

Each Section, instead of having three trustees will select one trustee from each section. "What is rural Ontario's reply to supporters of the proposed change?" the speaker asked. They say "the present system was good enough for our fathers and it is good enough for us." The proposed system, he said, would result in centralization for efficiency and economy.

Under the present system, teachers are hired by three trustees who may have children attending the school. To keep in with the trustees the teacher may favor the children, or it may be that the trustee's children are not bright and consequently are backward in their studies. The trustee will then "get up in the air" and the possibilities

DENIES REPORT OFFER MADE TO DIVERT TROOPS

Foreign Office States Suffolk Battalion Originally Meant For Hong Kong.

CABINET MEETS.

Suspension of Negotiations Has Presented Two Difficulties To Government.

LONDON, Feb. 5 (Canadian Press) — Although the Cantonese government has expressed objection to the landing of large British forces at Shanghai, there were no signs developing from yesterday's cabinet councils of any modification of the disposition of the Shanghai defence force of 12,000 men which is continuing its course to that city.

The foreign office in fact denied a report that an offer had been made to Eugene Chen, the Cantonese foreign minister, to deflect to Hong Kong the transports now on their way to the Far East. The report is believed to have developed from the landing of the Suffolk battalion in Hong Kong. The war office, however, stated that the battalion was originally ordered to Hong Kong and not to Shanghai.

The two long cabinet councils, which were held yesterday, were called primarily to draft the speech from the throne and to deal with other formalities connected with the reopening of parliament next week, but the Chinese situation monopolizd the sessions.

No announcements of note were made as to the result of the councils, but it is believed that the government has arrived at no definite decision.

Suspension of the negotiations between Foreign Minister Chen and Owen O'Malley, the British charge d'affaires, has presented two difficulties to the British government. The first being the question of military concentration at Shanghai and the second Foreign Minister Chen's objection to Britain's discussing modifications in the status of the British concessions and similar problems with other Chinese authorities, who, he contends, do not represent Nationalist China.

The view of the British government is that both North and South China are equally anxious to negotiate on the terms of the British offer, but that each is fearful of the prestige of a possible settlement going to the other.

There have been suggestions in London that the government should break relations with Soviet Russia as a protest against the alleged Bolshevist influence with Foreign Minister Chen. Throughout the recent negotiations, however, Foreign Secretary Sir Austen Chamberlain has been careful to keep Russia out of the discussions. He made no mention of Russia in his speech at Birmingham last Saturday when he outlined Great Britain's policy of conciliation toward China, and it is believed that the authorities will continue to ignore such suggestions.

A special cabinet committee, including Premier Stanley Baldwin, Sir Austen and the Earl of Balfour, Lord president of the council, has been formed to deal with various aspects of the Chinese problem.

OLD MASTERS

How happy is he born and taught
That serveth not another's will;
Whose armor is his honest thought
And simple truth his utmost skill!

Whose passions not his masters are,
Whose soul is still prepared for death,
Untied unto the world by care
Of public fame, or private breath;

Who envies none that chance doth rise
Nor vice; who never understood
How deepest wounds are given by praise;
Nor rules of state, but rules of good:

Who hath his life from rumors freed,
Whose conscience is his strong retreat;
Whose state can neither flatterers feed,
Nor ruin make oppressors great;

Who God doth late and early pray
More of His grace than gifts to lend;
And entertains the harmless day
With a religious book or friend;

—This man is freed of servile bands
Of hope to rise, or fear to fall;
Lord of himself, though not of lands;
And, having nothing, yet hath all.

Sale Of Dog May Buy Stone For Dead Master

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Feb. 5.—(A.P.)—Maida, a police dog, may pay for a tombstone at the grave of her master, "Old George" Barth, as well as his burial expenses, with money realized from her sale.

For puppies are expected soon in Maida's kennel, and from the sale of the mother and puppies enough may be left for a tombstone after burial expenses are paid.

"Old Barth" was killed by an automobile 10 days ago, and Maida, standing guard over his body, at first would not permit anyone to approach.

STATION BURNS NEAR OMEMEE

Junction Building, Combining Office and Residence, Completely Gutted.

CONTENTS SAVED.

OMEMEE, Feb. 4.—The station and residence at Omemee Junction, on the C.N.R., near this village, was badly gutted this morning by fire which broke out in the office. The fire is supposed to have been caused by overheated stove pipes, as soft coal had been used for fuel.

The Omemee Volunteer Fire Brigade responded and helped save most of the contents of the building. Every well in the vicinity was pumped dry, but the interior of the building was completely destroyed, only portions of the walls remaining standing.

Several members of the family of the agent, J. Dickson, were in bed with the measles, and had to leave their sick beds to seek shelter elsewhere. No person however, was injured or burned.

surgeon, and was 34 years old at the time of the tragedy that wiped out his family. His marriage was the flowering of a war-time romance. He met his wife while billeted at her father's home near Brussels in Belgium, and after the war they were married at Burnbrae in Seymour Township. In 1921 they established their home at Warkworth and in 1924 their son Floyd was born, his feet so deformed that iron supports were required as he grew out of babyhood.

Quarrels Develop.

At the inquest last March Dr. West said that in the summer of 1925 he had appeared in Police Court on his wife's complaint. Police Magistrate Floyd of Cobourg smoothed over that difficulty and advised the couple to try to live amicably together.

On the evening of the tragedy Lr. West said he and his wife were on the best of terms. On their return from a neighbor's they had chatted a while. His wife went upstairs to bed and he remained downstairs, as it was his custom to sleep on a couch in the dining-room. He was awakened by a crash, and saw flames through the hole where the stove-pipe entered Mrs. West's room. He rushed up the stairs about two-thirds of the way and yelled but was driven back by fire and smoke. After that he could not remember anything. He knew he had his socks on when he lay down, but he was not sure whether he had on his trousers.

George Wiggins testified that when he reached the burning house about 2 a.m. he found Dr. West lying on the kitchen veranda, partly dressed.

Dr. Free and Dr. Longmore of Campbellford testified that they had previously treated Dr. West for epilepsy.

The inquest failed to furnish any definite explanation of the cause of the fire.

Girls All Pester Him So Boy, 8, Quits School

HOPKINSVILLE, Ky., Feb. 5.—(A.P.)—Girls worry him, write notes to him and pick at him and he isn't going to school because of that, an 8-year-old Belmont youngster told the truant officer here yesterday.

The youthful misognist refused positively to return to school until his seat was changed.

"I don't like my teacher because she put my seat right with the girls. The girls write me notes and pull at me all the time and I just ain't going to school as long as I have got to sit with the girls," he said, in giving his reason for being absent from school two days.

Miss Mollie Martin, truant officer, said his conditions would be met.

FORD COULD BUY STATE OF IDAHO

Immense Possibilities To Magnate's Worth Shown at Tax Hearing.

MANY ITEMS.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5 (United Press).—If Henry Ford cashed in all his wealth and set out to spend it, he could have a wonderful time.

Ford, witnesses testified at the Couzens tax hearing here, is worth between $1,500,000,000 and $2,000,000,000. Using the smaller figure as a basis for calculation, the motor magnate could:

Buy the entire state of Idaho, land, buildings and all its assets.

Buy all the land in Colorado, Louisiana, Minnesota or Iowa, figuring on a basis of assessed valuations.

Pay the combined net debt of all states of the union (as of 1925) and have $250,000,000 left over.

Purchase 75,000,000,000 newspapers at two cents each.

Delving into the past for data, Ford, with his present fortune, could have:

Purchased the entire output of women's clothes in this country in 1923.

Bought the entire telephone system of the country in 1923, including wrong numbers.

Acquired the combined wheat and oat crops of 1925.

Bought 4,000,000 and then some of a popular small make of motor cars.

Paid off all the mortgages on all the farms in Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio and Missouri in 1920.

Spend two successive nights in New York night clubs, including purchase of real champagne right off the boat.

NEW ZEALAND FLIGHT PLANNED

Aviator Proposes To Travel Day and Night For Seven Days.

1,500 MILE HOPS.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—(By Canadian Press).—Captain F. T. Courtney, famous test pilot, is trying the most ambitious long-distance flight yet proposed—an aerial voyage from this country to New Zealand by flying boat in about seven days.

He intends to fly day and night over stages of aout 1,500 miles each stopping only long enough at the end of each stage to re-fuel. The machine to be used for the flight would be probably a large twin-engine British-flying boat, built to carry a heavy load, with a cruising speed of between 90 and 100 miles an hour. The route will be about 14,000 miles.

Captain Courtney won the Aerial Derby in 1920, and the King's Air Cup in 1923. He is best known in the flying world as a cool and resourceful test pilot.

OPERA ENCOURAGED.

Strauss To Be Given Estate By Austria For His Work.

In Vienna the news had just been published that Richard Strauss is returning to the opera there after a long absence. The report has been received with the greatest enthusiasm. The contract which he has undertaken is interesting. It covers a period of five years, and contains a clause to the effect that he is to hand over to the National Museum the manuscript of his famous "Rosenkavalier," and also that of a new opera, "Helen of Egypt," which he is writing just now. In return, Strauss will receive from the State a wonderful estate near Belvedere, upon which he is having a villa built. This contract, it is expected, will be sanctioned by the Austrian Parliament.

MANCHESTER, Eng., Feb. 4. — Canadian Press. — Great Britain is prepared to go to "the utmost limit" to gratify the national feelings of the Chinese people, but must protect British lives and properties from mob violence, declared Winston Churchill of the exchequer, in a speech here.

He said, however, that he did not believe there were any grounds for anxiety regarding the situation in China.

All Right To Whip Pupil If Teacher Is Big Enough

NAYLOR, Md., Feb. 5 (Associated Press). — A Missouri schoolmaster may, if he be big enough, administer corporal punishment to a recalcitrant student, even if such punishment take place before the very eyes of the student's best girl. With this legal opinion, John Hunt, justice of the peace, dismissed Thursday a common assault charge against H. T. Parker, principal of the High School here.

Marsh Bertram, 21-year-old junior, who was the complaining witness, testified he was slapped by Parker in front of a number of students, including his "best girl." He was so humiliated, he said, that he quit school.

MAY ABROGATE SOVIE TTREATY

Great Britain May Break the Anglo-Russian Trade Agreement.

UNDER DISCUSSION.

LONDON, Feb. 5.—Abrogation of the Anglo-Russian trade agreement is contemplated by the British Government, according to a sensational report in circulation here yesterday morning.

In an endeavor to verify this rumor, British United Press interviewed several government officials, none of whom, however, knew anything about it. Nevertheless, it is understood that participation by Soviet emissaries in the Cantonese anti-British campaign is under discussion in view of the reported intention of a certain revolting conservative element to prepare an amendment to the address from the throne, calling for a severance in the relations with the Union of Soviet Republics.

LARGE FIRM CHANGES AGENCIES

A TRIBUTE TO QUALITY.

The oldest and largest organization that has been selling Ford cars in Toronto, under the name of Toronto Motor Car Co., has given up the Ford agency and is now going to devote their whole organization to the sale of Pontiac and McLaughlin-Buick Cars.

This Comapny has been known as one of the most progressive in the automobile business. This has put them in the position to be able to take on practically any agency that they would wish. The fact that they chose Pontiac and McLaughlin-Buick is further evidence that they are true judges of public opinion, and realize that these two products of General Motors will continue to be the outstanding leaders in their respective fields as they have been in the past.

When the sobs in your throat,
Travel on
With a jubilant note.
The dawn
Chases shadows away—
Then burdens grow easy to take.

Learn to smile
Thro misfortune and pain.
God works thro the wind and the rain—
The light
Follows night,
Compensation the right,
When the morning is come again.

Learn to laugh
Thro the tears in your eye,
When grief
Draws the soul's bitter cry;
When no spark
Breaks the dark—
Nor a song may you hark,
As the spring of your hope runs dry.

Learn to grin

In misery's poke
And victory's palm you'll wear.

CABINET PARTY CONCLUDES VISIT TO QUEEN CITY

Party's Last Hours Crowded With Number of Important Engagements.

TENDERED BANQUET.

Announces Invitation Extended For Royal Family To Visit Canada.

TORONTO, February 5. Canadian Press. — Premier Mackenzie King, and members of his cabinet, concluded their two day visit to Toronto at midnight last night, when they left for Ottawa after crowding a number of important engagements into their last few hours here. Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice, and the French-Canadian members of the Cabinet and Senate, hurried to the train from the complimentary banquet tendered to them by the French-speaking people of the city.

Premier King's last engagement was a dinner at Hart House, University of Toronto, where he took a prominent part in a debate on the results of the Imperial Conference. Other members of the Cabinet finished up at a reception by the officers of the Toronto garrison at the Armouries, private dinners, and the military ball given by the officers of the Mississauga Horse.

All the Cabinet ministers spent a busy day, but the programme arranged for Premier King was the heaviest while the most important development was the announcement by the Prime Minister that the government of Canada had extended an invitation to Their Majesties King George and Queen Mary to attend the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation celebration at Ottawa next July. There were several reasons why the King would not be able to leave England this year, the premier added, but it could be assumed that His Majesty was still giving earnest consideration to the invitation.

Premier King made the announcement, when replying to a request contained in a number of resolutions presented to the Federal Cabinet by the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce, that the King and Queen be invited to the celebration.

In the morning the Premier and the Cabinet were engaged in receiving delegations from various civic and Dominion bodies, including the Dominion Board of Trade, the Ontario Associated Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce, Toronto City Council, Toronto Harbor Commission, Toronto Jewish organizations and representative educationists of the Dominion.

With Premier King were Hon. Charles Stewart, Hon. Peter Heenan, Hon. Robert Forke, Hon. F. J. Veniot, Hon. Fernan Rinfret, Hon. Charles Dunning and Hon. W. R. Motherwell.

No specific replies in answer to their memorials were given the delegations, but the prime minister assured them the cabinet would apply earnest consideration to all matters placed before them on their return to Ottawa.

The deputation of the National Executive of the Canadian Board of Trade, was headed by President S. B. Gundy, of Toronto, Vice-President A. O. Dawson, of Montreal; President E. V. Illsey of the Hamilton Chamber of Commerce; President G. Lafloley, of the Montreal Board of Trade; Mayor George Hogg, of Westmount; President General C. H. Mitchell of the Toronto Board of Trade; W. McL. Clarke, secretary general of the Dominion body, John A. Tory and C. L. Burton of Toronto.

The immediate purpose of the delegation was to lay before the cabinet the resolutions adopted at its inauguration meeting in Saint John, N.B. The Ontario Associated Boards of Trade asked among other things for the sending of a Canadian exhibition train to Britain, an aggressive immigration policy based on the principle of varied employment, and amendment to the coasting law which would prohibit the carrying of Canadian grain in American boats from one Canadian port to another. The Toronto deputations asked for a federal building to house customs and other government services, and completion of the government programme on the waterfront. The educationists asked for a grant of $10,000 to help defray the cost of the second biennial congress of the World Federation of Education Associations in Toronto, from August 7 to August 12. Relaxation of the immigration laws to permit the entrance to Canada of friends and relatives of Jewish citizens, who would guarantee that they would not be "parisites" on the country, was requested by the Jewish delegations.

In the afternoon, Premier King continued conferences with Liberal chiefs, and visited St. Joseph's Academy, Jenkin's Art Gallery and Annesley Hall, where a reception was given by the University Women's Club of Toronto.

Ninety-Third Birthday Is Celebrated By Twins

WOODVILLE, Ohio, Feb. 5 (United Press).—One of the oldest pairs of twins in the United States celebrated their 93rd birthday here yesterday. They are William and Henry Bruns.

They have never parted since they came to this country from Germany, at the age of eight years. As farmers, as millers, as storekeepers, they have been business partners all their lives.

Both were married. Both had large families.

Neither twin has ever smoked. Neither has ever drunk.

PAPER COMMENTS TRADE UNION BILL

Westminster Gazette States Will Make General Strike Statutorily Illegal.

LONDON, Feb. 5.— (Canadian Press.)—The Westminster Gazette says that the trade union bill which the government is planning to introduce in parliament will make a general strike statutorily illegal, will separate benefit funds from strike funds and will limit strictly the number of pickets.

In a letter to his constituents last December, Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the exchequer, said that the government was making a searching review of the legal position of trade unions of Great Britain with the intention of introducing legislation amending it.

"It is our duty to make sure that the laws of Great Britain do justice to all classes," he said. "Privileges are sometimes allowed to slumber and survive so long as they do not work serious public injury. When they are abused it becomes necessary to regulate matters accordingly."

Ever singe the general strike of last May, in sympathy with the miners' strike, demands have been made by those not in sympathy with the trade union for a curtailment of the privileges employed by the unions.

NEWS BRIEFS.

FACTIONS BATTLE.

WARSAW, Feb. 5.— (Canadian Press.) — A pitched battle took place near here yesterday between members of the Polish peasant monarchist party and the peasants communist party, necessitating repeating charges by mounted police before the rioters could be dispersed.

The fight began, the peasant monarchists claimed when their meeting was broken up by the Communists.

Several of the rioters were seriously injured and many were arrested.

REVOLUTION SPREADING.

LONDON, Feb. 5.— (Canadian Press.)—A dispatch to the Daily Mail from Vigo says that the military revolt in Portugal extends over the whole of North Portugal and that all the northern garrisons are involved except those at Braga and Vianna. The dispatch says that all communications throughout Portugal have been interrupted.

STORM SWEEPS LOS ANGELES.

LOS ANGELES, Calif., Feb. 5. —(Canadian Press.) — A heavy storm which began at 5 o'clock yesterday, by mid-forenoon had made many streets impassible, turned some into rivers of water which over-taxed sewers could not carry off, stalled many automobiles and delayed thousands of persons on their way to work.

W. I. INSTITUTE.

Varied Programme Given in Morish Church on Wednesday Evening.

WELCOME, Feb. 5.—A very pleasant evening was spent in Morish church on Friday last, under the auspices of Charlecote Women's Institute.

All the public schools in the surrounding neighborhood had been asked to provide a number of items for the programme. Five schools, viz: Welcome, Bunker Hill, Port Britain, Morrish and Zion, responded with several selections each.

The programme was varied and interesting. Refreshments were served at the close of the programme.

The proceeds are to be divided among the schools taking part, to be spent on necessary equipment.

Personals.

Miss Florence Clare spent the week end with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Scott, of Omemee.

Miss Edna Staples of Baltimore was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Crossley this week.

Mrs. J. Austin and Master John Armstrong are visiting her sister, Mrs. Bell, at Kendal.

Mrs. W. Johns of Exeter spent the week end visiting her brother, Mr. John Bosnell, and other friends.

Miss Jessie Staples was visiting her uncle, Mr. J. C. Staples and cousin, Mrs. Crossley, on Wednesday.

Mr. Wilfred Boyd and sons spent the week end in Welcome.

FINDS BOMB IN COAL PILE

High Explosive Found in Dominion Textile Plant at Verdun.

COATED WITH TAR.

MONTREAL, Que., Feb. 5.—(Canadian Press.)—Shovelling coal from a 1,000 ton heap-up consignment at the King's Park plant of the Dominion Textile Company, Verdun, a foreman unearthed a bomb of sufficient size to blow up the establishment.

Hundreds of employes in the textile plant were not aware of the discovery until the Verdun police were called in, carefully removed the bomb and as quickly as possible got rid of the high explosive by thowing it in the river, where it can be secured should the police make an arrest in connection with the case.

Of large size, with heavy cord wound around it and the whole embedded in tar, the formidable looking object was handled very gingerly.

are that the teacher will be forced to leave. With a Township School Board, the speaker maintained, this condition would become extinct. "Those who raise the money," he said, "should have control of the spending of it." "Get away from the present awkward system and restore the control of the schools to the people," he counselled. A great deal of the apathy against the proposed system was due to the rural reverence for the little red school house. While we revere the memory of the little red school house, we also revere the memory of the old log cabin, the environment that many of our great men were raised in—"But do we retain the old log cabin today?" he asked.

G. Northey

Mr. Northey, speaking for the negative, stated that good roads and cars had not changed conditions, as the roads were blocked for half the school year. He claimed that with the larger schools, the teacher would not be able to give the individual attention to the pupil that is possible today. "Farmers," he said, "have difficulty in making both ends meet." Our opponents in advancing this new system claim it will be less expensive. They say that vocational subjects will be taught by a staff of itinerant teachers, which means more expense as also does new buildings and equipment. The law says that children cannot be forced to walk over three miles to a school, so that vans would be necessary, which would entail more expense. They talk of efficiency through co-operation. They would have ten members on the board, whereas experience has proved that three is the best-sized committee for work. Will ten members on a board know more about a teacher than three? "I doubt it," he said.

The three main reasons against the proposed system were, he said, was "that the cost was too great; it meant not co-operation but dissension; and was injurious to children."

F. Adsett

Speaking for the resolution, Mr. Adsett declared that the educated men who were sponsoring the new idea were surely broad-minded enough to see what was best for the country. The idea was not a new one. In the United States, 21 States have adopted the system. Educated men tell us our present system is inefficient and uneconomical. There was a time in Ontario when all a man needed was writing simple arithmetic, and reading; but today he needs more than that. "The new system," he said, "would give instruction in agriculture." It would also inculcate ideals of comradeship among pupils due to larger schools and would decrease the cost and increase the efficiency.

C. McKague

Speaking for the negative Mr. McKague said it was ridiculous to speak of removing the equipment of the old schools to the new schools, as in most cases the equipment consisted only of a blackboard. Graded schools would mean that pupils would have to be drawn from a radius of 50 miles. The present system, he said, had stood the test of time. It has produced many wonderful men. The people of Ontario are proud of their rural schools, most of them being the centre for social activities. The new system, he said, tended to turn school children out in groups "just like they tourn our Ford cars," he said. With the present system, the teacher has the personal contact with the pupil; with the proposed system, it is lost. The fault with the present system, he maintained, was that the same curriculum was in vogue for both country and city. No change was needed in the system of management, all that was necessary being a change in the curriculum to suit the needs.

CAPT. BENN TO JOIN LABORITES

Liberal Member of English House of Commons Makes Decision.

WAS DISCOURAGED.

LONDON, Feb. 5. — (Canadian Press.)— Captain William Wedgood Benn, Liberal member of the House of Commons, yesterday announced his definite decision to quit the Liberal party to become a Specialist and to join the Laborites.

Captain Benn's abandonment of the Liberal party for the Labor party has been in prospect some time, reports being current that he was discouraged at the present state of the Liberal party. His action follows a similar transfer of allegiance by Commander Joseph M. Kenworthy.

Among some of the prominent figures of the British social world now in the Labor party are Oswald Mosley, Lady Cynthia Mosley, Arthur Ponsonby, Oliver Baldwin, the son of the British premier; Lord De La Warr, Lord Oliver, Noel Buxton, Charles Trevelyan and Lord Thompson.

ADVERSE CONDITIONS

away with Lovesick Lock.

Dominion Government's Part

The Dominion Government should be immediately urged to build these new locks at Burleigh Falls and at Dams 4 and 5 and grant a lease to this City of the water privileges at these dams.

Ontario Government's Part

The Provincial Government should be asked to pass the necessary legislation to enable this City to develop these water powers and to buy the Auburn plant at cost and thereby release this City from the tie that binds it to stagnation and Hydro "power at cost." We could still maintain our connection with the Central Ontario Power System as insurers against accident, but chiefly as customers to buy our surplus power pending the location here of new industries.

These three plants located at Dams 4 and 5, at Burleigh Falls and at Auburn would give this City control of 8,000 h.p. at minimum flow and during eight months of the years about 50 per cent. more.

Profit Would Pay Interest on City's Net Debt

If this course outlined were adopted then we would have something to attract new industries and in the meantime and until such new industries were established there is no question but that the Hydro-Electric Power Commission could purchase our surplus power to the advantage of the cities, towns and villages along the lake front.

This City should courageously face its adverse conditions and abandon its "water on the brain" theories. The remedy is in our own hands, and at the same time at existing prices an annual profit could be made by this City of enough money to pay the interest charges upon over one million dollars of this City's existing debt.

MUSINGS AT A MANSE WINDOW

ONE of the big problems which the Church seems called upon to solve is that of the supply of ministers to fill her vacant pulpits and take the place of those who shall soon have to pass on to their larger reward. It would appear that despite occasional reports to the contrary, not enough strong young men are entering the ministey to take care of needs which are always present and pressing. Several years ago one of the professors of West Virginia Wesleyan College, after stating several reasons for failure of gifted and aggressive young men to engage in the work of the ministry, said that the influence which has done the most to deplete the ministerial ranks is the materialistic conception of life which has to such a large degree permeated American society. Too often the worth of a man is judged by his salary. Success is measured in terms of dollars and cents. As long as such standards prevail the professions which are not enriching will not appeal to some of the best-endowed of American youths. The orgy of extravagance and luxury in which so many have indulged within the last few years has undermined the ideals of many a young man.

IS THAT ALL?

That's all very good, or, perhaps I should say, very bad, so far as it goes. But the question is, does it go far enough in the way of explaining any real or imaginary dearth of men for the ministry? There is truth in all that may be said along this line; but, after all, it is only a fraction of the truth, and all on one side of the question. God seems to be counted in only in some remote sense. The whole emphasis seems to be laid upon one factor, and that not the most important. It does not seem as if there were any such thing as a Divine call to the ministry. One would imagine that it is only a question of one profession as compared with other professions. The truth is that there are too many men in the ministry now who have no business to be there. There is good reason for believing that they have never felt the saving grace of God in their own hearts. They are like sign-posts, pointing the road which they themselves never take. Judged by every proper test they have never at any time heard the call of God: and it is a thousand pities, both for their own sake and the sake of those to whom they try to minister, that they cannot get into some more suitable calling!

THE CHURCH AT FAULT

One time there were few parents in Scotland who did not cherish, in their heart of hearts, the wish that one of their sons might be consecrated to the service of the Church. If that wish is still cherished it certainly is not so frequently expressed as it was expressed fifty years ago. The usual question put to a boy in those days was not, "What is your name?" but "What are you going to be?" Out of every family it was expected that at least one boy would reply that he wished to be a minister. J. M. Barrie, in The Little Minister, says, "He was set apart for the Church as doggedly as the shilling a week for the rent; and the rule held good though the family consisted of only one boy."

Why should the Church not play the part of these Scottish parents? Is she looking for likely material among the young people committed to her care? Let her lay more stress upon the glory of the ministry as the most wonderful vocation to which a human life can be dedicated. In season and out of season let her question to young men be, "What are you going to be in time and in eternity?" And it will be well to remind them that what they are in time will largely determine what they are going to be in eternity.

NO PLACE FOR THE UNFIT

There is no room in the ministry for any but the fit. And there is no profession where a man can be so uncomfortable if he is unfit than the ministry. No man should enter the ministry who can possibly stay out of it. He should feel the impulse upon him, "Woe is me if I preach not the Gospel." For even with that impulse upon him he will at times be tempted to wish that he had not entered it but had sought some other calling. The minister's life is not easy, and there are times when it becomes very disheartening. People are unsympathetic and critical—not all of them, thank God, but a great many of them—he is not understood, the congregation is unresponsive to both appeal and example, the church has factional quarrels, the members lack vision and will not give to meet the large demands of the cause they profess to support, they are negligent in attendance at services and in discharging various duties. Such conditions are enough to make the average man despair, even when fortified by rugged health and a delightful home life. Therefore, if a man is to do his best work, he must be fully persuaded that he has a distinct call from God to occupy the place he fills.

WHAT THE MINISTER MUST FACE

In an old magazine, published several years ago, I came upon the following: "One of the hopeful features of English church-life to-day is the growing revolt of young ministers in every denomination against a tradition which makes the average minister a 'church-nurse' rather than a prophet. He is expected to foster and supervise endless social and recreational agencies which do not represent a broadening of the Church's appeal, but are merely a device to keep pew-loungers and slackers amused. Did these institutions constitute a genuine social crusade and stand for the application of the Christian message to the whole of human life, these virile young ministers would be the first to welcome them. But they are organized in the interests of selfish church coteries whose one idea is to get, not to give; to be entertained, and not to serve. They dissipate a minister's time and strength. He is 'melted down for the tallow trade' and has no energy left for his central vocation. A young minister, writing in The Methodist Times, goes so far as to say that he would like to scrap every Church organization except preaching services, until the hundreds and thousands of religious camp-followers who want to share the victory without taking the risks of war are choked off."

It certainly is not saying too much to add that one thing that militates against the highest success of the minister consists of those multifarious and pestiferous functions loaded upon him by a lazy membership until he has hardly energy or time to be a true preacher of the Gospel and a real pastor of his people.

TYPE OF MEN NEEDED

The first thing a minister needs is to have experienced in his own life the grace about which he has to preach. He must know that the question of his sin has been adequately dealt with. If he has any doubt about this for himself how can he be expected to help others gain assurance regarding the matter of their personal salvation? If he has not had a deep soul experience to break up the narrow, self-centered conceptions of the natural mind, and prepare for a wide and glorious expansion of mind and spirit, how can he be expected to minister to men whose chief need this is? And if he has not had a personal verification of God's truth in his own soul how can he hope to help others in their quest for such a verification? He must have caught the vision of God if he is to be a speaker for God. This will involve a time of waiting, till the pressure and din of things that are seen and temporal subside. This will give time to let the mists pass from his vision, and Divine things become real. When such is the case then God will get the right place in His own service. God first in all things must be the inflexible rule in the life of every true minister. God's will, interests, honor must hold the field against all rivals. Self-seeking is ever ready to intrude its claims and mar the Divine service. Self must be effaced! And all its paltry littleness and ambitions must be smitten through and set aside. The slogan of a real minister should be, "He must increase, I must decrease." The true minister will be a man who has tarried in the presence of God till he has been delivered from the thralldom of human and materialistic influences. He has lost the fear of man, and no longer feels, as a slave, the force of public opinion, the customs of society, and the worldly principles which so often dominate church people. In very deed, he is a 'Man of God.'

—Allan Fairbairn.

Well Said

CAN our universities afford to train young people to serve the world by destroying the faith in the greatest Servant of all? It is their personal privilege to deny Christ's divinity if they can find spiritual satisfaction in a purely human Christ, but it is not their privilege to tamper with the faith of those to whom the name of Jesus means something higher than that of John Locke or J. S. Mill.

WHO SHALL BE JUDGE?

WE MUST not measure by an earthly standard in testing the failure or success of life. There are lives which the world crowns as successful, but which heaven rates as failures. Then there are others over which men drop a tear of pity, but which in God's sight are put down as noble successes. All earnest Christians do many things which they hope will prove blessings to others, which yet in the end seem to fail altogether of good result. But we do not know what good may yet come out of our true work that has appeared to fail. "Your labor is not in vain in the Lord." It may not show any result at once, but somewhere, some time, there will be blessing from everything that is done truly for Christ. The old water-wheel runs around and around outside the mill. It seems to be accomplishing nothing, but the shaft goes through the wall and turns machinery inside, making flour to feed the hunger of many or driving spindles and weaving beautiful fabrics. Our lives may seem, with all their activities, to be leaving no result, but they reach into the unseen; and who knows what blessings they become, what impressions they leave on other lives and in eternity?

—J. R. Miller.

If we noticed little pleasures as we notice little pains; if we quite forgot our losses and remembered all our gains: if we looked for people's virtues and their faults refused to see, what a comfortable, happy, cheerful place this world would be.—Youth's Companioin

What Think Ye Of Christ?

THE image of Jesus is the image of the highest and purest harmony both of His natural and His moral being. With all other men there is some discrepancy in the inner life. The two poles of intellectual life, knowledge and feeling, head and heart, the two powers of the moral life,—in whom are they fully agreed? But as to Jesus, we all have the lively impression: here reigns perfect harmony of the inner spiritual life. His soul is at absolute peace . . . He is all love, all heart, all feeling; and yet, on the other hand, all intellect, all clearness, all majesty . . . Sublime harmony!

UNIVERSAL HEART FAILURE; or, the Things foretold by Christ and the Prophets that are coming on the earth

THE GREATEST GIFT

"What is the greatest gift in this universe?" was put to me one day by a fellow-playmate in my youth. The question gave me great thought, and, dwelling upon animated existence from many angles, I considered that four-letter word, "Life," was a small symbol but the great thing we were trying to gain.

Life a Riddle.

The riddle of life is not less inscrutable and perplexing to the gifted savant than it is to the most unlettered disciple of ignorance and of simplicity.

Life, whether in the protoplasmic, embryonic and foetus stages, to-day, as ever, confounds the conclusions of the scientists and the postulates of the philosopher.

Animated existence, from the womb to the cold clay, baffles the searchings of the sociologist, as the human mind thwarts all the efforts of the psychologist and the soul-mystery outwits the wisdom of the divine.

Life is an abstruse and inexplicable maze of paradoxes and illogicalities, an unfathomable and hidden abyss of pitfalls and temptations, a Divine creation which visualizes lands of dreams of humanity, from which ideals evolve — ideals which, when their stage of final and complete materialization has been reached, are so often to contain multifarious particles of dead sea fruit.

World a Chessboard.

The universe is the chessboard of life, and its men, women and children are moved about relentlessly and sportively to gratify the caprices, it may be, of unrevealed deities, to whom it may, one day, be learned, unlimited and eternal powers have been granted to torture and to please the race, all for their own glory and joy.

Are we slaves of the master puppet? Or are the inferior deities also in bondage? Is this puppet enslaved by the "Great Fashioner of All" Or are these master demons and puppets in sanguinary conflict with each other? And do they, Nemesis-like, seek to punish the virtuous, the plastic and the helpless, for their own egoistic gratification and ambitious aggrandizement?

Who Are to B'ame for Transgressions?

And does the supreme cause gloat over the agonies and despair of the age? And do the all too few joyful moments of the pilgrimage of mortals through this vale of tears render him morose, peevish and disconsolate? Is this how God acts? Is life part of a subtle master plan?

Are men and women to blame for their transgressions? Or have they been ordained to sin? What was the purpose of the atonement of Christ? Did the Saviour suffer for the virtuous or only for the vicious?

As human beings have neither created their soul-chambers, nor evolved their dual personalities, why should any power or agency possess the prerogative to establish and endow tribunals from which gods and judges, invested as they are, with authority, promulgate punitive measures upon creatures of circumstances, who, it may be, are the automatons and playthings of inexorable and unpunished deities and orgies and evil spirits? And if these beings did not create themselves, who did? And if there is an author why did He create these?

What is Life?

Does science teach us anything?

Has any discovery yet been made, however remote, hazy, unsatisfying, to elucidate the dispiriting mental fog, which, for ages—not generations—has enveloped the enigma of origin of life, the purpose of mortality, and the destination of the soul?

Whence sprang the Protaplasm?

And whither goes the labelled matter that is hunched mournfully into the grave? What is life?

Is sexual passion merely the preter-imperfect anterior-posterior abstract protoplasm of posterity? What is life?

And the sceptic re-echoes the query in a quandary of doubt and turn where he will, he fails to find any evidence which would help him solve the riddle of life, the mystery of movement, the evolution of mankind and the designs of the living God as written in holy script.
